Address by Rhodes

State Secretary of Y. M. C. A. in Oregon and Idaho Talks in Gym. Wednesday Evening

Address Presented Striking Arguments for the Consideration by College Students of Claims of the Foreign Field

Mr. Ivan B. Rhodes, state secretary of the Y. M. C. A.'s of Oregon and Idaho, who came to Moscow from Walla Walla, along with the Idaho delegates from the Bible Study Institute of Whitman, delivered an address Wednesday evening at the Gymnasium on the subject: "Work in Foreign Fields." An audience of about thirty-five men and women of the University gave the speaker's remarks close attention. The address dealt with the claims of the missionary's calling on college men and women. Some of the speaker's statements were surprising in their character, to the minds of those who had never interested themselves in his topic.

Mr. Rhodes' address was, in part, as follows: "The only true basis on which a Christian man or woman can settle the plan of his or her life is that of service. These talents we prize so highly were not meant to be used for self alone but for changing the moral life of this world.

"I want, then, to speak of the claims of foreign missionary service on college students. It has, first, claims on our time. College people are tremendously busy, but as a matter of fact, they have all the time there is, and to a part of this time foreign missions have a claim. They have a claim on the college student's time because there is no greater movement in sociology, or in economics than this extension of the kingdom of Jesus Christ through the world. We ought to be moved to pray for definite things to happen in the Kingdom of God.

"Missionary enterprise has claims on our material resources. We have, in college, a small income and a large outgo, but we ought now to form the habit of giving. It is an important fact that the church in North America does not now average $1.00 a year per capita for the support of this the greatest enterprise on earth.

"This enterprise, moreover, has claims on our life purpose. What are we, as college men and women, going to live for, when we get into the world? Is it for love of pleasure, or scholarship, or wealth, or social standing, or something better than all these?

"The missionary enterprise has also the claim on college men and women to go. The churches are calling for men and women of college training to send out. The call is seen in these facts, that whereas one out of every five persons in America is a Christian, in the missionary's fields of work there is but one Christian in every quarter of a million people. In the next college generation 24,000 students will graduate, of whom 5000 will be Christians. A part of these must stay at home. But one half perhaps will be able to go to the foreign field, and to them comes the call, to place themselves in the centers of vice and suffering abroad, and to combat the forces which are evil. The home and the foreign field, are, really, all one. There is no boundary line. We should go where there is the greatest need. The man who believes in the Christian religion ought to seek to propagate it most effectively.

"The foreign missionary enterprise claims our attention on purely selfish grounds, as well. The individual's greatest welfare often depends upon his answering affirmatively a call to foreign service. I remember the case of a man at the University of California in my student days. He was president of the Associated Students and held almost every other honor possible for him to win. He was a Christian in his Freshman and Sophomore years, and to him the question of going to the foreign field presented itself. His answer was to turn the call down. The result was that he lost his grip on the right living, and he ended his career a drunkard.

"Calls are coming constantly to the Foreign Department of the International Committee of Y. M. C. A.'s to organize associations in cities in Japan, China, and India, especially in the great student centres. The students produce the rulers of these countries, and they are therefore the most important class to get hold on, in missionary work. Today the student class of China is turning to the education of the West. These and thousands of students at Calcutta, India, and other such great centres of education, are the missionary's opportunity. Our brightest men are responding to it. Robertson, who was professor of Mechanical Engineering at Purdue University, Gleason, Ned Carter from Harvard, and many other of the best men of all the Universities have gone.

"There is also the other great force in the missionary field called the Student Volunteer Movement. It has up to now been instrumental in sending some 3000 college students to service in the foreign field."

It was under the auspices of the Mission Study Department of the local Y. M. C. A. that Mr. Rhodes' address was given. F. E. Lukens, Chairman of the Missionary Committee of the Association, presided.

"Do you think my voice would fill that big hall?"

"No; it would probably empty it."—Ex.

"What is your name, little boy?" the teacher asked.

"Jule," he answered.

"You should say Julius; and now what is this other little boy's name?"

"Billious."—Ex.

Freshmen Debate

Lewiston S. N.

By a Decision of Two to One the State Normal Team Was Given the Decision. An Interesting and Profitable Discussion on the Municipal Transportation Subject

In the presence of a good-sized audience the second annual debate between the Lewiston Normal School and the Freshman class was held in the Methodist church, on Saturday evening, January 19. By a vote of two to one the visitors were declared the victors.

The question was "Resolved, That cities in the United States with over 75,000 inhabitants should seek the solution of the transportation problem in private ownership and operation." The Freshmen argued for the negative and the Normal School for the affirmative.

Mr. William Solibakke opened the debate. He outlined clearly the conditions of municipal transportation in the United States from the beginning of the first street car line until the present time. And he proved the adequacy of the service. He spoke clearly and deliberately.

Miss Maud Sullivan unfolded the plan of the negative. Her side, she said, would prove (1) the feasibility of municipal ownership and operation, (2) its success in Europe, (3) its success in Brooklyn, (4) its elimination of corruption, and (5) its improvement in service. She devoted her time to the feasibility of the negative's plan. In the last minute or two she attempted some work in refutation. She spoke quietly and earnestly. With more experience and confidence she ought to do good work in debate.

Mr. John Wheeler showed that Chicago—a city often referred to by the previous speaker—had rejected municipal ownership and operation, and that Mr. Dalrymple, the Glasgow expert, had pronounced against the municipalization of the Chicago street car system. He proved that regulation could achieve every object of the transportation system. He is a vigorous and emphatic speaker. His earnestness and sincerity were evident.

Mr. John Yoder produced many effective charts to illustrate the development of municipal ownership in Glasgow, Liverpool, London and Brooklyn. He did no work at all in refutation.

Mr. Clifford Edmundson replied to the charts. No account of the indebtedness of the cities and the annual interest payments, he said, had been made. The fares quoted were for only short rides. This results in slums. Then he proved with striking statistics that were not even questioned by the negative the impracticability of their plan. His delivery is animated and effective.

Miss Essie Davis proved herself a fluent speaker if not a logical one. To the affirmative plan of regulation she replied with a few rather slight-ing sentences, and she gave a number of thrusts, interspersed with slang, at minor points in the negative case. "Proof," she asserted, "had not been given by the negative for their statements." However, it developed that by "proof" she meant only the mentioning of the sources of information. Then she took up the last point in the negative case—the improvement of service. With more training and experience Miss Davis will make a very able debater. She has unusual confidence and self-possession.

Mr. William Solibakke used the five minutes for refutation to good advantage. In reply to the demand for "proof" he produced a list of the most eminent authorities upon the subject. In reply to the disparaging sentences referring to regulations he read the most authoritative and convincing testimony. In reply to the Glasgow chart he showed how it revealed the fact that the working people of the cities live in the slums. Finally he showed the impracticability of the municipalization of the street car systems. His work was incisive and telling. He was by far the best debater of the contest.

At the conclusion of the debate the situation was this: (1) The affirmative's contention that all the objects of a city transportation system can be obtained by regulation remained intact; and (2) the negative's first and indispensable contention that their plan is feasible was effectively assailed.

The judges were Mr. Frank Moore, attorney, of Moscow, Mr. Edward S. Fowler, attorney, of Lewiston, and Rev. Mr. Abels, of Moscow, Mr. Guy Holman was the chairman.

It was a spirited debate; and the subject proved a very interesting one. Several debaters came over from the Washington State College. That institution is to debate the same subject with Whitman College and the University of Montana.

EXAM. RULES

The Regulations for Examinations Will Go In Force.

The rules for governing examinations, as published below, are authoritative, having been issued from the Dean's office—and will be enforced in all examinations next week. They are framed with such ingenuity as to utterly deprive the would-be pony riders of his expected assistance.

1. Each student shall furnish the instructor with one or more of the examination books at or before the last recitation in the subject. Names are not to be written upon these.

2. No books or papers of any kind are to be taken into the examination room by the student, not even examination books.

3. If scratch paper is desired, the opposite or back pages of the examination books are to be used, and no such pages torn out.

Idaho vs. Endicott A. C.

Athletic Club Overwhelmed by the Score of 76-8

Idaho's Prospects Are Growing Brighter as the Season Progresses

Of course it was another of those hard luck stories; Balderston, one of our best men, was sick else the score would have been different.

As it was the boys did the best they they under the circumstances and managed to run the score up to 76. The management however wants it distinctly understood that hereafter all games will be played up to schedule time and scores may be expected to ascend several degrees higher on the thermometer of goal demarkation.

In the game Friday night the Club was distinctly outclassed all through the game. Idaho's work was surprising, sensational, and pleasing, especially to their supporters.

Notwithstanding the fact that it was one of the severest winter evenings of the year, a good crowd was present at our first home game of the season. The yells for Endicott enlivened the monotonous cheers of "Hurrah for Deak and Bob" and "chew 'em up Chick."

The first half started with Young and Robertson as forwards, Case and Small as guards and Deak, all alone, for centre. Endicott lined up, H. Andrews (Capt.) and G. Wilson, an old Prep student, for forwards, C. Wilson and Logsdon, guards, and Homer Andrews, centre. The game started with Idaho much quicker and faster than Endicott. In less than two minutes Idaho had three goals; and the final score for the first half was 50-1, Endicott making one on a foul.

In the second half Case was switched to forward in place of Young, and Johnson and Galloway came in as guards. Later Simpson replaced Robertson, H. Smith took centre, Perkins replaced Johnson and Edmundson replaced Galloway. Every one of the subs that were out was given a little working out and each one showed up in fine shape and manner.

Sensational features of the game were the basket throwing of "Deak" and Robertson, and "Chick's" endeavors to stab Andrews in the face with his left eye. The team work was superfine, and all the old plays and some new ones worked to perfection. Coach Griffith, when seen at an early hour Saturday morning, said—very little but plainly showed that he was very much pleased at the showing made by the Varsity lads the night before. It was nothing but a mere practice game, but enables the coach and students to get a line on our team, and the game from now on is no guessing matter. The fact that W. S. C.

HONESTY AT EXAM. TIME

"The more I go on, the more strongly I feel that public opinion is the great moral force at any institution just as it is in the country at large, and that laws are of little service unless they are backed up by a powerful student sentiment.

"It seems to me that we should first have everything possible done to awaken in our student bodies an appreciation of what the spirit of honor is. If our students could agree on certain broad principles which would represent their ideals of class-room honor, I think that the air would be cleared and better conditions would be brought about. The following propositions seem to me to indicate the most important ideals to be held in the forefront in this whole discussion:

1. An honor spirit is more to be desired than an honor system. Such a spirit can only be brought about through an awakened student public opinion.

2. Handing in the work of another, such as a theme or notebook, as one's own is dishonorable.

3. Cribbing, or the acceptance of assistance through any dishonorable means, whether in recitation, test, or examination, is a practice unworthy of a gentleman.

4. Giving aid at a recitation, test, or examination is contrary to the best college sentiment, as it sacrifices the highest interests of the college to a motive of false kindness.

Anson Phelps Stokes, Secretary of Yale University, in the January "Inter-Collegian," official organ of the Student Y. M. C. A.'s.

The interview with President McLean published on another page and giving a summary of the measures desired by the University from the present legislature should be given the careful attention of every student. It will be seen that the University's needs, as indicated in the bills drawn up, are this year greater than they have ever been before. They are not the needs of a young and weak institution, seeking appropriations to prop up its existence. Rather they represent the demand of a vigorous university for growing room. The students are here already in encouraging numbers, and each Freshman Class is much larger than the one that preceded it. The need is simply for increased facilities for this growing enrollment.

There must be a new Administration building, and it must come soon. The other needs are almost equally pressing. At this critical period in the University's development, the students must not forget their part in bringing to pass satisfactory results. The one who can write a strong letter to his home paper now, or who is able to wield some influence with a member of the legislature should by all means do it. Do it now! Prompt use of influence that any student possesses is now the imperative duty of that student.

A PROFITABLE Y. W. C. A. MEETING

Mrs. Abels Gave a Very Interesting Talk

"Decision of Character" was the subject of the Y. W. C. A. meeting on Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Abels was the very interesting speaker. She spoke against indecisiveness of character, and quoted the following as an illustration. A mother was about to send her little girl out for an airing. The momentous question at stake was, "Should the child wear her blue or white coat?" "The blue was a little warmer," "The white was a little soiled—she had intended to send it to the cleaners." "Well, perhaps the baby should wear it once more." "Yes, she guessed she had better wear the white instead of the blue." She went upstairs, and just as the nurse was starting out with the child, the mother called out the window, "Put the blue one on her, nurse."

This is just one instance out of a hundred how many girls there are who each Sunday say, "Shall I go to church this morning?" Or shall I go to Y. W. this afternoon?" Why not settle the questions once for all instead of dallying over them each time they arise. Mrs. Abels summed up her talk by saying that each one should have a standard of right and wrong and measure their actions accordingly, thereby avoiding the indecision process.

The Y. W. C. A. is planning to hold a "telegram" meeting during February. Many of the Alumni girls are being written to and requested to write a short note to be read at the meeting. All the Alumni girls in town will be invited to attend and one of them will lead it. It will be a meeting which every one can enjoy.

Miss Gage, State Y. W. C. A. Secretary for Washington, Oregon and Idaho, will be at the University for several days during February.

SENIOR GIRLS HAVE PARTY

All the Senior Girls and One Senior Boy Are Entertained by Miss Fogle

The girls of the Senior class held the first Senior party of the year at the home of Ruth Fogle, Friday evening. Each learned her fate through "Consequences," and all enjoyed the old games of "Tin-Tin" and "Cross Questions" very much.

The games were followed by an oyster feed which proved that some of the best cooks in school are in the class.

Only one boy was present but, being a privileged character, he was allowed to remain for a short time.

PLANS BEFORE LEGISLATURE

Pres. McLean on His Return from Boise, Tells of Bills Affecting University

President McLean returned to Moscow Monday after a considerable absence which he has spent in attending the regents' meeting, in a trip to Chicago, where he inspected some of the buildings of the University of Chicago, and in looking after important bills relating to the University, which are to be presented at the legislature now in session.
To an Argonaut reporter, President McLean gave the following account of the legislation proposed in behalf of the University:

After my trip east I returned to Boise January 15th and spent six days in consultation with the members of the Executive Committee of the Regents and the members of the legislature from Latah county. At the time I left Boise legislation had been prepared covering the following points and it is expected that bills will be submitted to the legislature within a few days: 1. Appropriation of the School of Science Interest fund to University maintenance. 2. Appropriation of the accruals during 1906-7 in the College of Agriculture Interest fund. 3. Ac-

If I do not have the ability and facilities to sell your property, I certainly could not afford to pay for this advertisement. This "ad" (like all my other "ads") is practically sure to place on my list a number of new properties, and I am just as sure to sell these properties and make enough money in commissions to pay for the cost of these "ads," and make a good profit besides. That is why I have so large a real estate business today.

Why not put your property among the number that will be sold as a result of these "ads?"
I will not only be able to sell it—some time—but will be able to sell it quickly. I am a specialist in quick sales. I have the most complete and up-to-date equipment.
I have branch offices throughout the country and a field force of men to find buyers.

I do not handle all lines usually carried by the ordinary real estate agents. I MUST SELL real estate—and lots of it—or go out of business. I can assure you I am not going out of business. On the contrary, I expect to find, at the close of the year, that I have sold twice as many properties as I did the past year, but it will first be necessary for me to "list" more properties. I want to list YOURS and SELL it. It doesn't matter whether you have a farm, a home without any land, or a business; it doesn't matter what it is worth, or where it is located. If you will fill out the blank

Idaho vs. Endicott A. C.

beat the same club 16-7 a few weeks ago shows our strength as compared with our friendly rival on the border. All of the men showed up fine but we need a real live game before we can make any predictions. Further we dare not say for fear we judge dishonestly.

Goals for Idaho: Wyman 16, Robertson 9, Case 8, Small 2, Simpson 2, Young 1.

Goals for Endicott: Wilson 1, Andrews 2.

Fouls for Endicott: Wilson 2.
Total score: Idaho 76, Endicott 8.

Umpire: J. G. Griffith.
Timekeeper: H. McChesney.

WHAT'S THE MATTER

Do the Girls of the U. Appreciate Gym Privileges?

Five brave girls, mostly freshmen, on Friday night took advantage of the tradition that the use of the Gymnasium belongs to the girls of the University on Mondays, Wednesdays, and Fridays, and sought to secure some exercise by virtue of the privilege. After listlessly tossing a basket ball around for perhaps 15 minutes the five lone representatives of feminine aspiration after physical development trotted off and yielded the floor to the Endicott basketball team, which wished to practice.

The incident aroused some reflections in the minds of certain upper classmen who have been in college ever since the Gym was first thrown open for use. It was announced from the start that the privileges of the Gym belonged to the women on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays. At first a few bold spirits ventured to exercise the privilege, but by and by even these lost their zeal, and it has been long since the Gym has presented a lively scene on girls' days.

The reasons for the apparent indifference of the fair sex to opportunities for exercise are not plain. Certainly if the women do not wish to use the Gym on the days assigned to them, it should be thrown open to the men of the University. Perhaps with the coming of a physical director, and the beginning of systematic work in physical culture, the girls will claim their rights, and use the facilities provided, with sufficient enthusiasm to justify the continuance of their gymnasium privileges.

NEW GYM. INSTRUCTOR ARRIVES

H. D. McChesney from Burlington, Iowa, Takes Charge of the Gymnasts and Track Men

H. D. McChesney, for the past six years gymnasium instructor at the Young Men's Christian Association of Burlington, Iowa, arrived here last week to act as instructor in the gymnasium and track coach. Several classes on the parallel bars, rings and horses have been organized of both boys and girls. The track men will begin in a few days on the indoor track and a good team is a certainty.

Mr. McChesney is a graduate of Davenport High School, Iowa, and a man of considerable training and experience along athletic lines. He is an expert gymnast, and also specializes in the pole vault and jump of the track events. He holds the individual championship in amateur gymnastics in the state of Iowa. The association team of which he was a member holds the premium cup for the State of Iowa in gymnasium and track work in the Amateur League of North America.

Mr. McChesney desires everyone to get out and make the now large classes even larger and says that if Idaho does not have a winning track team, he cannot tell anything from looks. Help him all you can in the good work.

Engineers Wax Dramatic

One of the most interesting of the English Club's achievements, if the project is carried out, is likely to be the presentation sometime in the coming semester of a Shaksperian play, not by the literature loving students in the Arts courses, but by the engineering section of the Freshman English class. A number of engineering students have succeeded admirably in the plays which have been thus far presented by the club, and this encourages the belief that a play in which all the actors are engineers will be a complete success. The play that will be chosen is "Julius Caesar." It is understood that some work is already being done in preparation for the performance, and that the men of mathematic and machinery are entering into the project with enthusiasm.

Offers Interesting Course

Dr. McKinley has announced that he will offer a new course in the classical department during the coming semester on Comparative Drama of the Greeks and Romans.

The course will count for two credits, meeting twice a week. Once a week the instructor will lecture on such topics as the origin of the Greek Drama, the Attic Theatre, and the lives of the dramatists, with a comparison of their works. He will assign the most important of the extant plays for reading. These will be discussed in the second weekly meeting of the course. The reading may be done either in the original or in translation.

This course is offered in the belief that there may be some who have not the time to master the ancient languages, but who would be glad to make such acquaintances with the old masters of the drama, as this course will give.

Correction in Dates

An announcement in last week's Argonaut regarding the date of the opening of the new semester gave an erroneous impression which will be corrected by the following quotation from the calendar as given in the catalogue, "First Semester examinations begin Jan. 28 (Monday); First Semester examinations end Feb. 1, Friday; Registration, Feb. 4, (Monday); Second Semester begins Feb. 5, (Tuesday.) The article in the last Argonaut gave the impression that work for the Second Semester would not begin till Wednesday.
