Assembly Address

Prof. Padelford of the University of Washington Speaks

An Instructive and Entertaining Address on "Life at Oxford"

The assembly address on Wednesday was given by Prof. Padelford of the faculty of the University of Washington. Prof. Padelford was for two years at the head of the English Department of the University of Idaho. The address, which was upon "Life at Oxford," was exceedingly interesting.

Oxford consists of about twenty colleges related to one another about as our states are related to the national government. The architecture is the Tudor Gothic style. This is the style which will be followed in the construction of Idaho's new administration building. The colleges abound with iron doors and windows so that it is almost impossible to gain entrance without the permission of the authorities.

When once within the colleges one experiences a serenity which is a great relief from the rush of the outside world. The students are attended by scouts. These often inherit their positions. Students are not supposed to have the same article of food upon the table more than once. So, naturally enough, the scouts are enabled to keep their families upon the food which is prepared for and not consumed by the students at a single meal.

The Oxford students are very conservative. When a new student arrives the upper-classmen leave their cards at his door. They never knock. They simply call in persona. The ideal of the student is the development of the intellectual, physical and social phases of their beings.

The student is awakened by the scout at 7 o'clock. He is supposed to have taken his bath and be at chapel in thirty minutes. One is expected to attend chapel at least four or five times a week. Breakfast is prepared by the scout and is served in the student's room before the fire place.

The scholars are very carefully dressed. Large grey caps are worn. These are usually well drawn down. The coat is large and of a brown color. The trousers are baggy and of a gray shade and rolled well up above the shoe tops. When the student desires to be officially known he wears his cap and gown. The gown is very much abbreviated, coming only to the wearer's shoulders. The upper-classman, for fear that he might be taken for a beginner, usually riddles his gown so as to make it appear as if it had been worn for some time.

Each student has a suit of rooms. The second meal may or may not be served in the student's room. Friends can be invited to this meal.

The third meal occurs at 4:30 and to this six or seven should be invited. This is absolutely necessary. Upon arriving at Oxford, the new student is invited out to meals for the first two or three weeks. This gives him a circle of friends whom he later invites to his dinner.

One must take four or five meals a week in the dining hall, which is feudal in appearance. The faculty eats at a raised table at the end of the hall while the students occupy long benches in the center. Discipline is strictly observed. If a student, especially a new one, makes a fresh remark the seniors immediately decide as to whether the break is grave enough to justify punishment. If it is, the guilty student is sentenced to pay one shilling into the library fund or to drink a glass of beer at one gulp. If the student tries the latter and fails he is compelled to buy the beer for the entire college.

The students seldom attend the lectures. There is no necessity to do so, for the lectures are usually published in book form which obviates the necessity of taking them down in the lecture room. The lectures are very dry and uninteresting. In Germany the professors are paid according to the number of students attending the lectures. Hence it is to the lecturer's advantage to make them interesting. In Oxford the professors are elected for life and receive a specified allowance.

Girls are now admitted to Oxford. However they cannot obtain a degree. Two degrees are given at Oxford, the honorary and the pass degree. About fifty-five per cent of all the students take the honorary degree. This means about four years of good hard work. The pass degree is taken by those who come to Oxford to have a good time. About one half as much work is done in this course as in the honorary course.

All students enter athletics. The faculty takes part also. Rowing is the main sport. About 450 men trained for the rowing crews.

The speaker said that the $1500 a year scholarship was the minimum cost for expenses at Oxford. To many American students this sum of money would look like a bonanza. However, the social duties are much greater in England than in America so far as college life is a factor. Our education is democratic. It is intended that the rank and file shall be educated. In England education has always been considered as being fit for the upper classes only. He said that there was no danger of the American scholars at Oxford becoming Anglicized. They are intensely patriotic. They learn that in some respects the English government is superior to the American and vice versa. This will have a tendency to better our own form of government.

Two hundred subscriptions of $5.00 each are being solicited from the alumni of Cornell University for further improvement of the athletic field.

Idaho Wins Game

Sensational Game with the University of Oregon

The Silver and Gold Wins the First Inter-Collegiate Base Ball Game of the Season. Score 3-1

Before a large admiring crowd of University students and fans of the city, last Friday, the Varsity base ball team defeated the team from the University of Oregon in a close and hotly contested game.

This was the first Inter-collegiate game of the season with our boys and a good crowd was present to see the fun.

Dippel and Beck were the opposing pitchers, and the two remained in good shape until the end of the game. Dippel pitched a shut-out game, but was not well supported at times. The in-field work was ragged on both sides.

The first inning went off smoothly. Nobody saw first. The second inning opened up a little faster by Dippel walking a man. A sacrifice hit put him on second. Here Robertson made a costly error which, with a fast in-field drive scored one for Oregon.

For two innings it was a pitchers' duel with Dippel in the lead. When the Idaho fellows came to the bat in the second half of the fifth inning things looked disconnected for the home team. Deak went to the plate, made a few blind staggers and landed a safe hit over in right field and strolled down to first. Fluharty sacrificed and landed Deak on second. "Chick" Johnson came to the bat. The crowd groaned. It was evident that a good hit was needed and "Chick" never was a heavy "three-bagger." He didn't strike at the first one, but it was "strike one." He shut his eyes and felt for the next and missed. He moved up a little closer and Deak moved over to third. "Chick" met the ball squarely and soaked it hard. Well he made two bases and Deak walked in for tally "one." Hunter got a good lift and "Chick" went to third, and another safe hit brought him in. Oregon warmed up and the inning was over.

In the sixth inning Case got the only three-bagger of the game and Deak again came to the rescue and brought him in. Deak stole a couple of bases with pretty slides but didn't make home plate.

From then until the end of the game there was the cleanest exhibition of pitching lately seen in these parts. At times the bases were full for both teams, but the hits were scattered.

Case played the very best ball of the season. Johnson, Crom, and Wyman did very good fielding, as well as batting. Hunter's batting percentage was raised, but he was slightly erratic on first.

This is one of the first inter-collegiate games that we have won for years. We meet W. S. C. soon. Get behind and push the fellows along.

The official score book says of Idaho:

Dodges His Doom

J. A. Drost, '10, was suspended indefinitely last week by an order of the military department, because of various high crimes and misdemeanors. Cadet Drost seems to have involved himself in the military red tape chiefly by reason of his disinclination to drill. On hearing of his suspension he presented himself before one of the military officials in the lower corridor of the Gymnasium and ejaculated this startling sentence, "They tell me I am expended indefinitely. Can you tell me for how long indefinitely is?" A technical flaw was discovered soon after in the order of suspension, and Cadet Drost is still pursuing his studies.

Work Will Begin Soon

The regents have nearly finished the preliminary work necessary before the calling for bids for the construction of the new administration building. Pres. McLean went to Boise Monday where he will spend two or three days in final conference with the architects before the calls for bids is issued. Construction work on the building will begin, therefore, in a short time, and will be prosecuted vigorously through the summer.

Will Conduct Summer School

Prof. Miles F. Reed, principal of the preparatory school and head of the department of education, who is now doing graduate work at Columbia University, New York, has been invited to take charge of the summer normal school for teachers at Boise, during the coming vacation. Superintendent J. E. Williamson of the Boise schools is to be Prof. Reed's assistant.

Triangular Meet

Next Saturday, the University of Idaho, Whitman College, and W. S. C. Will Contest in a Joint Meet for Track and Field Honors

The Only Meet that We Shall Be Able to Attend This Year. It Will Be a Very Close Meet. You Must Boost for Idaho.

Next Saturday afternoon at Roger's field, Pullman the University of Idaho goes up against the hardest game of the year. She will need all of her old time spirit if she can hope to win the Triangular Meet. Whitman College is extra strong this year and can be expected to win points in the sprints, quarter, jumps, and weights. W. S. C. seems able enough to win all the rest of the points but the Silver and Gold is going to be in the game every minute. The "Terrible Swede," will have to establish a new college record to win the shot-put. Is he good for it? We think he is.

"Balky" Myers and Jack Wheeler are training for the sprints day and night. "Hercules", Edmundson, Captain Matthews, Frazier, Armstrong and at least ten others will be at the meet and something may drop any minute. It is a cinch that from the firing of the pistol at the hundred yard dash, until the relay is over Idaho will be there to stay and die hard.

It will be a meet of surprises, no one can tell what may happen, and to say it will be the most interesting and closest meet of the year is to put it mildly without shaking it. The quarter with perhaps Edmundson in it, will be the best quarter race on the Coast this year. The relay alone will repay you a dozen times the price of admission and a new Northwest record will be made.

Fawcett and Small may be out of the meet; the former on account of a strained knee; the latter because of the illness of his mother, but we are not discouraged.

Now come out and support the team. Get in the game.

The boys will have to do better than ever before to win. They will need encouragement to do this. They are not doing it for personal gain, but for Idaho. Go to Pullman Saturday, fill up the Pullman bleachers, cover that whole hillside with Silver and Gold, and you will have the time of your life. The boys need you. If you have any patriotism at all, you will be there. If you have any of the old Idaho spirit that meant sacrifice for Idaho, you'll be there. Come out and show the "farmers" that we are not so slow. Get the habit.

The University of Michigan has severed all relationship with the "big nine."

A Negro student won the Rhodes' scholarship at the University of Pennsylvania.

SPECIAL NOTICE

The editor-elect of the Argonaut for the next school year would like to have any who desire to try for positions on next year's staff report to him at once. As the present staff is, with two exceptions, composed of Seniors, there are a number of places open to new applicants. It is hoped that most of the new staff may be selected before commencement. Staff members will be chosen after some weeks of work on a competitive basis, and there is a chance for any one who will do regular work.

SLEEP, GENTLY SLEEP.

The literary societies have got the habit. The attending physician has completed his diagnosis. "Insomnia seems to be the prime factor in the disease. Not a sleepless state so far as the societies are elements; not in respect to the inauguration of genuine literary spirit or the resurrection of the good old time, wide awake, up to date life; but the everlasting exertions to get something else to do so that the bi-semesterly puny collections of a few rare specimens of students who desire to take part in debate may be made memorable by their conspicuous and unavoidable absence.

What is the remedy for all this lethargy on the part of the literary societies? Probably no immediate or concrete prescription can be prescribed. There must be a general change in the moral standard which should guide and control such meetings and their results. Society standing should be recognized. Earnest and continued work should be rewarded. It might bring better results if the meetings of the societies were under the control of a department of the University and credits given for regular systematic work. Or by leaving the societies in the hands of the students and a ruling made that in order to be eligible for a college debate team one must have attended one of the literary societies for a specified number of times during the previous semester. The present state of lethargy cannot continue. Something must be done. Idaho's debate and oratorical interests are too vital in importance to be neglected.

TRI-ANGULAR TRACK MEET

On next Saturday the first triangular track meet between Whitman, W.S.C., and Idaho will be held at Pullman. This is going to be a close and exciting meet. The other two colleges are determined to win. Idaho, likewise, is going to put forth every effort in that direction. Every loyal supporter of Idaho expects to go to see the contest. The team needs all the support that can be mustered for the final array. It is not infrequently that a rousing, cheering crowd of supporters can decide close events by encouraging their own team on and at the same time bringing dismay to their opponents. It is safe to say that nine times out of ten the team that is given the preponderance of support on the side lines will come out victors. Idaho has some good new men who will be in this meet. Some of her old track members have been unable to train consistently for various reasons. However, they will all be at Pullman next Saturday and are determined to do their very best. It will be up to Idaho's supporters to do the rest.

GATHERING PRESS NEWS.

We are pleased to note that at last a method has been devised through which the newspapers of the state are able to get University news. The department of English Language has devised a plan whereby the Freshman and Sophomore classes of that department collect news items concerning the students from the different sections of the state and also write short essays on the various phases of college life and hand them in to their instructor as part of their regular class work. This news is then sent away for publication in the state papers. Such a method not only serves as a means to advertise the University but gives the students much needed practice in literary activities. Let the good work of this innovation go on.

ANOTHER PREP. DEBATE

Grangeville High School and the Preps to Clash on the Rostrum

The second and last preparatory school debate of the year takes place next Saturday, May 4, when the prep. team meets Grangeville High School at Grangeville. The question is, "Resolved, That the restriction of the suffrage in the Southern States is justifiable." The preparatory school has the affirmative. The team is composed of Oakey Hall, Otto Nael and George Stephens. Hall was the leader of the team which recently defeated Blair Business College at Spokane.

The preparatory students expect a good debate. Grangeville's team is being coached by Mr. Reese Hattabaugh, an alumnus of the University, and will be well prepared for the contest.

Exciting Debate at Websterian Meeting on Abolition of the Prep. Department

The question for discussion at the meeting of the Websterian Literary Society last Saturday evening was "Resolved, "That the time has come when the preparatory school of the University of Idaho should be abolished." The affirmative team, consisting of T. E. Smith, Guy Holman, and T. E. Lukens, argued that the preparatory school is no longer needed to supplement the high school system of the State, or to bolster up the University's registration. They maintained that there are comparatively few students in the prep. school who could not get a secondary education either in their home high schools or nearer to their homes than Moscow, and that the thousands of dollars and the room taken up by the preps is not worth that small number of students, and could be better devoted to college instruction. The negative speakers, M. F. Morrow, Ray Mason, and William Schultz, declared that the University of Idaho will grow into greatness only as the size of its student body increases, and that the prep. school is still needed to add to the number of students. Two judges voted for the affirmative, and the third divided his vote equally between the affirmative and negative.

GEARHART CONFERENCE

Date Chosen for Annual Convention of College Y. M. C. A.'s on Pacific's Shore

Letters received by the president of the local Y. M. C. A. from Ivan B. Rhodes, Secretary for Idaho and Oregon, contain the information that the Gearhart conference of Y. M. C. A.'s will be held this year between June 15 and 27. The University will probably be represented at the coming convention by a delegation of eight or ten men. The officers of the Association plan to begin hustling for a delegation in a few days.

The Gearhart conference is an annual convention held at Gearhart Park, Ore., on the ocean beach, at which all the colleges of the Northwest have representatives. Prominent preachers, Association men, and business men, from the coast cities serve as leaders of the conference. This year, among those who will deliver addresses will be C. D. Harvey, of the International Committee of Y. M. C. A.'s, and college secretary for the west; Rev. J. M. Dean, who addressed the Idaho students twice last fall; Pres. Penrose, of Whitman college; Fred B. Smith, of the International Committee.

The mornings of the Conference are taken up with Bible Study, addresses on various phases of Y. M. C. A. work, and other subjects, by the leaders. The afternoons are given over to recreation. Baseball, and track meets on the track, tramps through the thick pine forest which extends nearly to the beach, and other forms of recreation make Gearhart the best outing that anybody could desire, in the time which is spent there.

Idaho was represented last year by a delegation of seven men. It is hoped by the Association leaders that more than that number will be found this year who are willing to sacrifice in money and time what is necessary to take them to Gearhart.

Will Be a Sizzler

"Cap" Clave, Chief Mogul of the '08 Junior Annual's josh department, goes about now-a-days with a look of dove-like innocence that is likely not to last after the publication of the annual. More than one student who now greet "Cap" with entire good will are pretty certain to be on his trail with the little tommyhawk when they read the josh department in this year's "Gem of the Mountains." Good natured roasts that touch the spot with un-failing exactness have been passed out impartially to most of the well-known members of the student body and the funny men of the josh department have been careful not to slight the faculty. Some of the cleverest verse which Idaho students have written appears for the first time in the '08 Annual. The book will be on sale within three weeks. The jokes alone will be worth half the price of the volume. Only about two hundred annuals will be placed on sale. It is therefore pretty certain that the student who counts on getting his copy when the rush has stopped and the price dropped will get left.

Many of the stories and essays will probably be used in some form to advertise the University among prospective students, during the summer.

"If I do not have the ability and facilities to sell your property, I certainly could not afford to pay for this advertisement. This 'ad' (like all my other 'ads') is practically sure to place on my list a number of new properties, and I am just as sure to sell these properties and make enough money in commissions to pay for the cost of these 'ads,' and make a good profit besides. That is why I have so large a real estate business today.

Why not put your property among the number that will be sold as a result of these 'ads'?"

I will not only be able to sell it—some time—but will be able to sell it quickly. I am a specialist in quick sales. I have the most complete and up-to-date equipment. I have branch offices throughout the country and a field force of men to find buyers.

I do not handle all lines usually carried by the ordinary real estate agents. I MUST SELL real estate—and lots of it—or go out of business. I can assure you I am not going out of business. On the contrary, I expect to find, at the close of the year, that I have sold twice as many properties as I did the past year, but it will first be necessary for me to "list" more properties. I want to list YOURS and SELL it. It doesn't matter whether you have a farm, a home without any land, or a business; it is the same of inquiry below and mail to me today. I will tell you how and why I can quickly convert the property into cash, and will give you my complete plan and terms for handling it. The information I will give you will be of great value to you, even if you should decide not to sell. You had better write today before you forget it.

The movement to recompense the student management who attends to the exacting duties of managing the finances of a student publication is quite general and bids fair to become universal in the Northwest.
