Y. M. C. A. Cabinet Plans for Remainder of the Year

Looking forward to the work for the remainder of this year, the Association has every reason to be hopeful of a success which has been unprecedented in the history of the organization, and, as the success of next year's work will depend in a very large measure upon the preparation made during the remainder of this semester, the officers of the Association are most anxious to carry out a good spring program study the art of leading devotional Bible Study. Some time will be given to discussion of the methods and purposes of teaching, and much time will be given to the study of the especial fitness and the selection of courses. It is no easy matter to interest a class of ten or twelve college men in daily devotional Bible Study. No raw recruit from the Sunday School class can do it. Special preparation must be taken and the leader must, without fail, have a thorough grip upon his course. The Bible Study is the most important work undertaken. If the men are successful in this, the year's work is a success, but if this department fails, as a general

Review of the Year's Work at Idaho

The Young Women's Christian Association is the largest women's Christian organization in the world. The Association Movement is in truth a world movement. The World's Young Women's Christian Association comprises the associations of seventeen countries of which the United States is one. And the organization at the University of Idaho is one of the six hundred college associations in the United States. It may be small in numbers, but it is a part of the great

Japan, is kept in the foreign work by the Young Women's Christian Associations in the colleges of the Northwest, and Idaho has a share in the work.

As yet our local association has not taken up any form of extension work, and there is much to be done along the lines already pursued. But with our new room and our increasing membership the outlook for the coming year is one of great promise and we will work and pray that it may be the best one that the Idaho Y. W. C. A. has yet had.

Each committee chairman has selected his committee to back him up in the work for next year, and now they are in training for their special duties. This is hard work for the chairmen, for, until a man finds himself in his senior year, he realizes that he is greatly handicapped by lack of experience. Four years is too short a time for a man to become expert in so great a calling as Y. M. C. A. work.

Perhaps the most difficult chairmanship to fill is that of the Bible Study Committee. However the men are very fortunate to have Joe Adams in that place. He is a worker who knows how to work and best of all he never lets an obligation rest upon him which he does not mean to fulfill. This committee is organizing a leader's training class of about fifteen members to prepare men to lead Bible Study Classes next year. Under the direction of an experienced teacher and with the help of those who have been successful leaders in former years, they will rule, no great amount of strength is seen in the other departments.

Next in importance to the Bible Study stands Missionary Committee, and here again the Association is fortunate in its chairman. C. E. Watts has been identified with the Association since coming to college and in his preferred department he has shown much ability as an organizer and promoter of Mission Study and in his selection of courses and leaders. This committee selects courses prepared upon the special phases of Missionary work in all the main fields of the earth. Home and foreign fields are studied alike. One class will be organized to study Mohammedanism, another to study Buddhism or Confucianism—or Brahmanism—or perhaps special study will be given to certain portions of China, to India, Japan or Africa. Again the classes may be studying Home Missions in America; the slums, the tenements, or mountain districts.

It is to this department of the work that the credit is due for world organization for the advancement of the physical, social, intellectual, moral and spiritual welfare of young women.

The Idaho Y. W. C. A. has a membership of fifty-five students of the University and thirteen women of the faculty and city as honorary members. The membership campaign this year was a "Nip and Tuck" contest between two teams. As a result of the contest the Association had its first annual "Post Exam Frolic" on February 21st.

Under the supervision of the Bible Study committee a class of fifteen young women are doing voluntary Bible Study. In the regular Missionary meetings of the Association a study of the Moslem World is being carried on, and after vacation there will be started a five week's course in Missionary Biography.

A part of our local work which perhaps passes unnoticed by many of the students is our share in the support of a secretary in Japan. Miss Margaret Matthew, Association Secretary in Tokyo,

The Y. M. C. A. Hall

Few college Associations have such a splendid hall in which to meet as has the Idaho Y. M. C. A. In the plans of the new Administration building a large room on the third floor was reserved for this purpose. President MacLean has taken every precaution to see that the Association has a complete and unmolested authority over the use of the Hall and we enjoy very much the use of it. With the excellent seating, heating and lighting and with the use of the piano placed there by the Music department, we could not ask for anything better. Dr. MacLean has offered some good suggestions for the decoration of the walls which with his aid, will be carried out soon.

PASSING OF THE PREPS

At a students' assembly held about two weeks ago, which was called for the purpose of revising the A. S. U. I. constitution, action was balked by an endeavor on the part of the preps to secure a representative on the executive board of the student body. When the constitution was being prepared and arranged by the executive board, an invitation was issued to all interested students to submit their ideas for consideration. In answer to this came a proposition entirely revolutionizing the present system of apportioning the funds of the student body. We believe this whole plan originated with one of the prep teachers who has been here but a comparatively short time. Not only did the proposed plan demand a certain per cent for the preps, but it told what should be done with all of the students' funds. Needless to say this paper found its way to the waste basket. Then the board looked about for a way to satisfy the demands of the younger element of our university which they knew would not be easily found. The demand had been made for 25 per cent of the funds paid in by all of the students, the paper asserting that they paid in 42 per cent of it. Two members of the board met a committee of the preps in an endeavor to compromise and offered at that time to support an amendment which would give to them 30 per cent of the money they paid in, which according to their figures would make 25.5 per cent. It was thought that such a sliding scale would eliminate future wrangling over this subject. Then, however, it became known that the 23 per cent on which they had based their claims came from last year's records and that now the ratio is about 37 per cent. The college students offered to support a measure giving them 65 per cent of what they paid in and it seemed that they were satisfied. Agitators were busy, however, and before the next assembly, which took place last Wednesday, it was announced that the college students wanted to get rid of the preps and, since such was the case, they would draw out of the A. S. U. I. organization. It was unanimously voted to separate the college and preparatory student bodies and committees are now at work on constitutions for the two bodies, which will have to be ratified by the regents of the university before they become valid.

The die is cast. Whether both parties to the agreement will be benefited or not remains to be seen. We believe that they will. Next year, without counting on any increase in the body of college students, they will have to raise their registration fee about 60 cents. The preps, on the other hand, will have a little more money at their disposal but will be required to furnish their own athletic equipment etc. There will undoubtedly be times in the near future when the separation will be regretted, but we believe that in the long run all will be benefited by the change. There will be closer organizations in both departments and we think this will bring about better spirit. There will be separate assemblies and separate interests. Prep voting in college elections is a thing of the past. We believe this will raise the standard of our elections. It will make college students take a keener interest in college affairs. When a man is elected it cannot be said that he pulled prep votes. By this illusion we do not mean to reflect on the intelligence or honesty displayed in prep voting. On the contrary, the men elected by them have always proved worthy and capable. Again, the mere fact that they voted proved them to be more loyal to the university than those college students who did not. We can think of nothing more despicable than a college student who will not vote at college elections.

Altogether there are many advantages to be gained by both sides and we believe that this division will not diminish university spirit. We believe that the college games will be patronized by preps and the prep games by college students better than ever before. In fact we expect in the future to be proud of our preps as we have always been and we expect them to be proud of us.

The Breakers

What is it? A Northwest Y. W. C. A. conference at The Breakers near Long Beach, Washington.

When is it? June 24 to July 4. Who can go? Any girl in the University or Preparatory department under certain conditions—the principal one of which is funds.

Every year the Y. W. C. A. of the Northwest holds a conference on the coast to which are invited the young ladies interested in either the city or student organizations of Idaho, Oregon, Washington and Montana. Last year, and again this year, they are to meet at the large Breakers' Hotel near Long Beach for ten days almost immediately following commencement. The hotel is given over for that time exclusively to their use, the cafe, halls and parlors affording room for the Bible and Mission Study classes and addresses which are held morning and evening. The afternoons are spent in recreation—on the tennis court or ball grounds or in excursions to various places of interest within easy reach by train, automobile or team. Speakers of local and national reputation are there and each moment is filled with something interesting and elevating physically, intellectually or spiritually.

Girls, begin planning on it now. A chance to see the ocean—a chance to have ten days of good solid enjoyment! Don't miss it!

the Students' Missionary Movement. Every man should study Missions and the man who doesn't is not keeping step with the world's civilization. He knows nothing about the real history making forces of today.

A. P. Beckner, as chairman of the Membership Committee, is an experienced man with a great deal of natural ability. He is clever in planning his work and under his leadership we shall expect that committee to increase the Association membership next year to include almost the entire male portion of the student body. The Y. M. C. A. does that in other colleges; why not here?

The Social Committee has been a decided success this year. It has pulled off social events in the name of the Association not quickly to be forgotten. This committee is intended to supplement and standardize college society by creating a unity of feeling and good-fellowship among the students. With Ira Tweedy at the head of this work for another year we feel assured of success.

The Religious Work Committee studies the spiritual needs of the student body and tries to bring before the students able men, qualified to deliver the very best in religious thought. Paul Durrie at the head of this work is having his first experience as a committee chairman, but he has been in the Association some time and is certainly familiar with Y. M. C. A. work.

Harry Redeker will handle the students' employment bureau for the year. This department has not had the place in the attention of the men it should have had for two years but it will be revived and extended.

Ira Dole will keep the records of the Y. M. C. A. for a year. Frank Osborn will write letters and B. E. Davis will handle the money. Oliver Price will offer his best service as president.

COLLEGE MEN AND SERVICE

Doctor Sloan Addresses University Men

(A. P. Beckner)

Last Thursday evening at the Gymnasium Dr. T. Dwight Sloan addressed a group of University men on the question "Is Christian service commanding the attention and interest of college men?" He showed from three standpoints in a narrowing series that Christian service is actually enlisting in its ranks college men the nation over, great men as well as those not so great.

From the broadest view we have statistics showing that one out of every two College men in the United States is a Christian, and that one out of every ten is giving or preparing to give his whole life to some form of Christian service. About two hundred thousand men identify themselves with the Christian organizations, and our colleges have actually sent four thousand missionaries to foreign countries.

A few months ago at Rochester, New York, there were gathered four thousand students from seven hundred twenty-two colleges in forty-nine states, from Canada and from twenty nine foreign countries, to a great student convention to consider the one question: The Evangelization of the World in this Generation. Could any other student activity, athletic, or social, bring together such a mass of students?

Then the view may be narrowed to specific colleges, where we find the leaders, athletes, and the prominent men actively engaged in Christian work. In Yale the presidency of the Y. M. C. A. is the most eagerly contested office in the student body. There track-captains and All-American football champions have volunteered to devote their lives to this service in foreign lands. Harvard, Yale, Pennsylvania, Princeton, and all other great colleges are adding to their number of foreign missionaries each year and have established and are maintaining new Harvards and new Yales in those countries where civilization is just dawning.

Lastly we may view the question from the standpoint of great college men engaged in Christian service,—men who are worthy of great political offices,—who could be cabinet officers, governors of states, and prominent congressmen. John R. Mott, Robert E. Speer, James Bryce,

Roosevelt, David Livingston and other men of power, too numerous to mention are constantly serving Christianity in every way possible. For these men it is not a small fanatical thing to do. They put Christian work above public service with its attending honors.

Dr. Sloan says that we have outgrown the idea that a man can fold his arms and wait to be rocked into enjoyment and peace. Christianity is practical. It is essentially service. Thereby comes its comfort and its pleasure. And the greatest college men are realizing this more now than ever before. The idea of service has something to do with almost every student. Engineers are preparing to serve mankind with the practical technical knowledge which not every one has the opportunity to possess. Likewise teachers and professional students are looking forward to a life of service. And that is why modern, practical Christianity is gaining popularity.—because it is getting away from formal dogma and giving its attention to service for mankind. That view appeals to great-minded men.

If more college men realized that the Young Men's Christian Association has been perhaps the greatest and firmest propagator of these broad-minded principles that it is throughout all Christendom the greatest student organization and that during the forty-five years of its existence it has had in its different departments a greater growth than any other organization, either religious or social in Christendom, the Association would hold a more prominent place in the affairs of our western colleges, as it does in the truly great schools of the East where the leaders in other activities set its standards and mould its courses. Where prominent men who understand the tendencies and needs of the students identify themselves with the Association they may give it the characteristics which will cause it to catch the interest of every man; and thus the organization is made more efficient. Every man who has a vision of his life in the light of the service he aims to render humanity is in reality a member of this world-wide movement, and should, its leaders think, ally himself while in college with the local branch of it.

History of Christian Associations at Idaho

The Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations of the University of Idaho are numbered among the first student associations, having been organized February 26, 1895, less than three years after the University was opened. The first Y. M. C. A. president was J. A. Coffey, the first Y. W. C. A. president was Miss Clara Kansom. Both associations seem to have had enthusiastic and zealous members from the very first, for a Student's Handbook was published the first year. We quote from this: "These Associations, in springing into existence have become factors in the upbuilding of the Kingdom of Christ. To the honor of Him, who is the originator and maintainer of all, their humble work shall be consecrated. Basing their beliefs upon the Bible and adhering to its principles and teachings, the aim shall be to so present the same that it may be a source of life, peace, and joy."

The work and purposes of the Y. M. C. A. were the same in the beginning as now, but on a smaller scale. From that humble beginning in the early days of our University, the Association has made steady progress, corresponding to that of the University itself. It has reached out into wider fields of usefulness: it has enrolled more men under the banner of our Master; and it has promoted more and more that feeling of good fellowship which is an attribute of Christian service.

In point of numbers, the Association was strongest in 1906-7, when it had a membership of 65 with many more enrolled in the Bible Study classes. The first delegate to a Y. M. C. A. student conference was Henry Sweet, who attended the Pacific Grove Conference in May, 1899. Since that time many of Idaho's students have attended similar conferences and have received the wonderful inspiration diffused there. Through the efforts of the Association, no less than ten young men of our University have volunteered to devote their entire lives for the spreading of the Gospel message and healing of the nations.

Anyone looking back over the records of the University will probably be surprised to discover how many of the student leaders were active workers in the Y. M. C. A. It will suffice to mention a few of them such as Burton L. French, Curtis Brigham, and C. A. Montandon; men who have made their mark in the world and who never made a wiser step than when they joined hands with the other Christian young men of our University.

Dr. Sloan

(Joseph Adams)

Dr. Sloan addressed the Y. W. C. A. in the Association Hall Thursday at 4 P. M. at which time certain phases of conference work were discussed. The necessity of the work was so vividly presented that the Y. W. C. A. is determined to send a larger number of delegates than ever before to the conference which is to be held in June at the beach.

At 7 P. M. Dr. Sloan addressed the men of the college in the Armory. The theme of his evening address was "Christian work is claiming the attention of the best men in our colleges." Dr. Sloan brought to his aid living examples of colleges and college men who were engaged in active Christian work. When he showed that a large per cent of the athletes of Yale were giving their best efforts to the cause of Christianity and when he placed that College first in that work he paid Yale the highest tribute that can ever be bestowed upon any institution.

At the conclusion of the meeting the members of the Y. M. C. A. cabinet were accompanied by Dr. Sloan to the Dormitory where the young ladies of the Y. W. C. A. cabinet entertained. Dainty refreshments were served by the young ladies after which Dr. Sloan was called upon to make a few remarks to the members of both cabinets. During the evening he told a number of good old southern stories in his jolly manner. Those present were Miss Ella Woods, Miss Bertha Leighton, Miss Mattie Heer, Miss Margaret Schick, Miss Inez Clithero, Miss Claire Sharkey, Miss Bessie Perkins, Miss Nellie Meyers, Messrs Oliver Price, Ira Tweedy, A. P. Beckner, Frank Osborne, Ira Dole, Paul Durrie, C. E. Watts, Harry Redeker and Joseph Adams.

At 7:35 Friday morning Dr. Sloan held a cabinet meeting with the Y. W. C. A. in the Association Hall at which time plans for the year's work were discussed.

Dr. Sloan gave new life to the student work here and filled each person with whom he came in contact with a desire to go forth and do the work of the Master more faithfully and joyfully.

pleasant effect.

The punch corner was made doubly inviting by the little girls who served there. These little maids were dressed in yellow and white Yama Yama costumes.

The throwing of colored lights on the large "P" suspended from the middle of the ceiling was very beautiful.

Refreshments were served at small tables on the balcony amid a forest of pine trees.

The patronesses of the dance
were Mrs. Philip Scoben, Mrs.
Evan Sage, Miss Penneal French,
Miss Smith and Miss Regan.

The Preparatory students have twice shown their social ability and are to be congratulated on having given such a delightful party.

Miss Gertrude Byrnes will have charge of the Y. W. C. A. meeting this week. The subject under discussion will be the "Habit of Decision." All the young ladies of the University are cordially invited.

Chuck Taylor of foot ball fame
was the starting light for the opposing team. Taylor has not been out as a track man, expecting to take part only in the spring football work, but Hayward will undoubtedly have him in the track team ere long. He threw the javelin 131 feet in his first throw, took first in the high jump and made a place in the shot, discus and broad jump. Johns has formerly ran only the quarter and relay, but yesterday he won the hundred in easy fashion.
