PRESIDENT TAFT WILL VISIT THE UNIVERSITY NEXT SATURDAY EVENING AT FIVE O'CLOCK

Committees Now at Work Arranging for the Entertainment of the First President of the United States to Enter the Palouse Country.

B. S. D. E. STUDENTS TO SPOKANE

Spokane, Sept. 29. — Ben. H. Rice secretary of the National Apple show, who was at Moscow, Idaho, yesterday, arranged with President J. A. MacLean of the University of Idaho for a number of young women of the university to come to Spokane to conduct demonstrations during apple show week.

Miss Laura Breese, instructor in home economics, will be chief of the staff of demonstrators.

The department will have nice quarters and the public will be invited, as usual, to sample the succulent products of the culinary skill of the fair demonstrators, in which the apple will be the principal ingredient.

There are 997 ways of cooking an apple, it is asserted, and a goodly proportion of these methods will be featured as fitting to a branch of the educational side of the apple show.

The authorities of the Idaho university will make a careful selection and are certain that in comeliness, as well as efficiency and skill, the young women demonstrators at this year's show will not fall below the high mark set in previous years. In fact, it is hoped in every way to beat the record.

Seniors Elect Officers.

At the first meeting of the year, for the senior class, held on September 29th, the following were elected to the class offices: E. W. Ellis, president; Hugh Maguire, vice-president; Mattie Heer, secretary; Harry Redeker, treasurer; O. A. Faris, guard. A short report from Alfred Wieber, business manager of last year's annual, followed. The regular one-dollar assessment per semester for class dues was levied and, after the appointment of a committee to codify and report on the customs and laws governing student life at Idaho, the meeting adjourned, till today when the report of the committee was to be heard and the results to be presented to the Associated Students for its adoption and support.

For the first time in the history of the Palouse country, the president of the United States will be entertained in Moscow for one hour on the evening of Saturday, October 7. According to the schedule furnished by Secretary Charles D. Hilles, the president's special train will reach the N. P. depot in this city at 5 o'clock sharp on that evening. A town committee on arrangement at the station will have provided for special officers and will have ropes arranged to keep the crowd back from the passage way between the train and the automobiles that will be waiting for the presidential party.

The committee on mounted escort will be headed by J. G. Gibson, who will have entire charge of the squad of eight horsemen, four of these will ride in front of the president's conveyance, two others will follow immediately behind and the remaining two will follow immediately behind and at the side of the conveyance in which the president's aids will ride. Lieutenant Cathro will have charge of the military escort.

The committee on autos will provide the presidential party with autos and will endeavor to have a large number of automobiles in line. The streets from the depot to the university will be brilliantly lighted as soon as the evening shadows begin to fall. It is expected, however, that it will be sufficiently light so that these lights will not be used until the return of the presidential party from the university. The committee having in charge the lighting and decorations consists of Fred Shields and Gus Larson and Prof. Corbett. The party will proceed along the usual route traveled from the station to the university buildings. A platform will be erected immediately in front of the Administration building, as when Ex-president Roosevelt was here last April. This will be used if the weather permits but in case of bad weather, the speaking will take place inside Lewis court, which will hold several thousand people. The executive committee, consisting of Geo. Fields, Mayor J. N. Clarke and President James A. MacLean of the university, will have charge of the platform arrangements. Seats will be provided for members of the press and for invited guests from outside the city as well as for the president's party. The auto containing the president will also carry the driver, Secretary Hilles, one military aid and Mayor Clarke, who will act as personal escort to the president from the station to the platform and during the return. At the platform the president will be introduced by Congressman Burton L. French, who will occupy the platform with the president.

At the conclusion of the address, which will be thirty minutes in length, the party will ride directly to the waiting train and will leave immediately for Spokane, where they are scheduled to arrive at 9 o'clock.

The music for the occasion will be furnished by the university band under the leadership of E. J. Carey. The committee on publicity, is sending out information to the various papers relative to the affair, and Wm. Lee, as chairman of the committee on invitations has invited the leading officials of the counties contiguous to Moscow to be present as well as state officials and other prominent persons. Reduced rates will be asked for on all roads and it is probable that some special trains will be run into the city. A committee on public school attendance consisting of county superintendent Miss Catherine Bryden, Superintendent Otis Randall, principal of the city schools and Prof. J. P. Barackman, will make an effort to bring in the young people from the schools of the various outside communities and special provisions will be made for them so that they will be able to hear and see the president.

Moscow entertained 15,000 people on the occasion of Ex-president Roosevelt's visit here in April and it is now expected that fully as many will be present on Saturday of next week.

RESEARCH BY PROF. J. M. ALDRICH

Professor J. M. Aldrich of the biology department of the university spent several weeks of the summer vacation in a tour of the salt and alkaline lakes of Utah, Nevada and California doing research work. Including some time spent with a farmers' institute party in southern Idaho, he was absent over two months and traveled more than 5,000 miles.

Describing his trip and work, Professor Aldrich had the following to say:

"After studying Great Salt Lake at several points, I visited the small Soda Lakes at Hazen, Nevada, then Pyramid and Winnemucca Lakes in Nevada, Mono Lake in California, and then returned to Nevada to examine Walker Lake. After that I took the narrow gauge railroad down to Owen's Lake, California, and a small borax lake a hundred miles north of San Francisco were the last lakes on my trip, although I did some collecting around San Francisco bay and on the ocean shore of Southern California.

"I got a large amount of material, which will require several months' time to work up fully. The principal insects of these lakes, however, are few in species; that is, the only insects which regularly breed in this salt and alkaline water are flies of the genus Ephydra. There are only three species of these, each having interesting peculiarities of its own. Ephydra gracilis is a very small species occurring in enormous numbers in Great Salt Lake, but not found in any other lake that I visited. Along the Southern Pacific out-off west of Ogden, it is a great nuisance in trains that cross the lake.

The insects are very abundant along the edge of the water at both sides of the track, and although they are very weak fliers the suction of the train lifts them up so that they get into the cars. Even with the windows closed many get

In the last issue of the Argonaut this statement appeared: The Dartmouth Glee Club is taking a five weeks trip through the New England states. Similar statements might be made by institutions right at home here in the West—from Stanford to Washington and from the Rockies to the Pacific. This year its up to you as to what she shall say for herself.

Football is a collegeman's legitimate activity. It works and develops brains and bodies,—this being the individual's side of it; from the standpoint of the school it advertises, attracts high school students to the place where they may worship, or be, football heroes; it makes the University the center attraction of their future aspirations. Students support and praise it because it is representative of the best in their school—because it is part of them and is one of the qualifications for a position for their school among other universities. Football demands the best students have, and the best only get there. So of baseball, of debate, of basketball, and of what a—glee club?

Is it not representative of the institution? Does not good music solicit admiration and applause—draw students? Is it not worthy of the best talent in student circles? Will not the attraction of a fine chorus in several of Idaho's most populous centers deepen and widen the halo about our school, and attract students to Idaho? Surely these things are true.

Idaho is possessed at present of an highly experienced conductor and chorister. Students will find the best training to be had under his direction. A credit per semester causes no one to lose time, or effort, fruitlessly—if a selfish standpoint be assumed. It is a very necessary college activity in the eyes of our neighbors, and is gladly accepted by larger institutions than ours, as a means of advertising, and of distinction. If you have any voice or desire to sing, don't be backward in reporting for fifteen minutes talk at the vocal instructor's studio. Boost the Glee Club.

Mrs. Jennie L. K. Haner of the domestic department at the university, left for Spokane Saturday with the art exhibits. She will remain in Spokane this entire week and from there will go to the Boise fair with the exhibits.

AT ASSEMBLY.

The first student assembly of the year was held in the Y. M. C. A. hall last Wednesday. The hall was filled to its utmost capacity and many students could not attend for want of standing room.

The address, delivered by President MacLean, was appreciated by all and was one that could well be taken to heart by freshmen. It was replete with reminiscences of the president's high school days and of his early college life. He said that in those days one was to no greater extent free from the trials of early college life than is the freshman of today. He told of experiencing the same periods of despondency that come upon many of us who do not get started off right in our freshman years.

To President MacLean the university was, primarily, a "place of learning." We should never lose sight of the main issues, the development of the mental side, as also the physical, as many do today. The side attractions should always be placed in the background.

The president expressed himself as strongly opposed to hazing. He said, "I am opposed to all physical interference imposed by one class upon another—the traditional antagonism which exists in some schools between the Sophomore and Freshman classes is very undesirable and should be discouraged." Opposed to this condition is the traditional respect for the seniors, in which President MacLean sees much good. This latter tradition very often leads to an ambition, on the part of the lower classmen, to complete their college courses.

President MacLean said that at the end of his first year in college he went home with a sense of satisfaction from the year's experiences and with a feeling that by that time his capacity for enjoying life had already been greatly increased.

Following the president's address was a vocal solo by Prof. Storer. His solo was so well received that a response to the hearty encore was necessary. In Mr. Storer the music department has certainly found a man of great ability. Prof. Storer detailed his plans for the organization both of a men's and a ladies' glee club.

Bible Classes in Fraternities.

Professor and Mrs. Eldridge entertained at dinner last Friday evening two representatives from each fraternity, and Professor Nicholson. While there they discussed the possibility of installing the Bible study in the fraternities. After the matter had been taken up at some length it was decided unanimously to give it a trial.

This movement is not a new one at Idaho, as a few years ago, Bible study classes existed in all the fraternities.

inside, where they are annoying by walking over people, and especially in the dining cars on the tables.

"The second species, Ephydrasians, is the one which the Indians use as food at Mono Lake; they used to collect it for food also at Soda Lakes, and it proves to be the same kind that the Mexicans used from time immemorial at a large alkaline lake west of the City of Mexico. At Mono Lake I was too early to find the Indians collecting the fly, but I found plenty of material to illustrate all stages of the insect. The maggot lives in the strongly alkaline water of the lake. On reaching its full size it attaches itself to something in the bottom of the lake and the outer skin becomes a hard, brown shell, within which the insect changes into the pupa stage, preliminary to becoming the adult fly. Normally the fly is ready to emerge in a week or so, which it does by pushing off the end of the shell and floating up to the surface. In the latter part of the summer when the insects are inconceivably abundant, there is a good deal of windy weather, and many of the insects in the pupa stage are detached from the bottom of the lake and float to the surface. They are washed ashore by the wind, forming windrows on the beach that are sometimes two feet in depth. This is the time when the Indians collect them for food. They spread these brown-shelled pupae out in the sun to dry, and after they are thoroughly dried they rub off the brittle shells and winnow them out. The resulting material looks like a small sort of rice, being the cleaned and dried pupae of the fly. It is called by the Indians "kootsabe," and is a very nourishing food which can be preserved indefinitely. It contains a good deal of fat, and is really a valuable food. White people say that the amount of labor involved in cleaning and winnowing it is out of proportion to the quantity food obtained, but it is regarded as a delicacy by the Indians.

"This fly occurs in all the salt and alkaline lakes of the region I visited, except some that are nearly fresh. It seems to thrive best, like gracilis, in waters containing a large amount of salt or soda or both.

"The third species, Ephydra subopaca, is found only in water that is nearly fresh, never occurring where the other two are found. At the same time it is not found in perfectly pure water.

"Another insect used as food by the Indians of the Mono Lake region is a large smooth caterpillar that feeds on the foliage of yellow pine. The Indians dry them and keep them, cooking them in a sort of stew. I heard of this several times around Mono Lake, but did not see any till my last morning there. The Indians are sensitive about being laughed at, and always deny that they eat caterpillars when first approached. Finally through the assistance of one of the white residents I got a squaw to show me a pot of soup which she had on hand from the day before. By fishing out a caterpillar and eating part of it, I demonstrated to her that I had a scientific interest in the subject, and she afterward showed me her supply of dried insects, and at my urgent solicitation sold it to me at a moderate price."

Professor Aldrich expresses much interest in the new water supply system of the city of Los Angeles, construction work on which was progressing in the neighborhood of Owen's Lake at the time of his visit. "It takes a wonderful civic spirit," he said, "to take up a river and carry it 260 miles to make a water supply. Los Angeles has nearly completed this $23,000,000 undertaking, and so far it appears will be done on time and within the appropriation—certainly a wonderful achievement. The canal is all cemented, and everything is built in a permanent manner. With nearly 5000 feet fall, they expect their revenue, from the sale of power to pay the entire cost within a comparatively short time."

A full report of Mr. Aldrich's work on the lakes will be printed in some scientific periodical within a few months.

Executive Board Met.

On Tuesday, September 26th, the executive board met and allowed several old bills of last year's expense list. The finance system under the present constitution was freely discussed and a great deal of its crudity and helplessness in the matter of limiting, or keeping track of the expense account was exposed. The need of an early adjustment by which the A. S. U. I. may know where it stands, and how its money is paid out, and how the payment of its great outstanding debt is being made, was emphasized. After this discussion the board adjourned to meet October 3.

The daily trips of teams loaded with lumber and other materials, and the presence of a hoisting engine and a concrete mixer, testify to the change about to come upon the north wing of our Administration building.

MUSIC NOTES.

Dr. Cogswell spent two weeks of his vacation among the mountains of northern Washington, and two months in California. While there he spent most of his time in the bay cities.

Mr. Storer is having much success in enrolling students in his classes. He possesses a fine tenor voice, is an experienced conductor and chorister, and has graduated from the Boston Conservatory. He was a special student of Orestes Bomboni. Mr. Storer has had an introduction to college work in his teaching at Salem College, North Carolina, and already has a reputation to sustain in college work.

Mr. Collins' vacation was spent on the Sound and in British Columbia.

Miss Hostetter took her vacation outing by going back to her home in Nebraska.

Students in voice culture will be allowed credits for their work in the same manner as the students in the departments of piano and violin. Full accredited members of the glee clubs and chorus will receive one credit each semester for their work. Enrollment in these organizations should be made without further delay.

Miss Beryl Johnson, B. M. '11, has secured a class in music in Coeur d'Alene; and, likewise, Miss Lorena Dartt, B. M. '14, taught a class in Palouse and nearby towns. Both young ladies are enthusiastic over their success.

Mr. Carey enjoyed his vacation in and near Moscow.

The violin quartet will resume practice this week.

The senior civil engineers will take a trip to Spokane next Friday, and will be accompanied by Dr. Little.

Standpipe is Decorated.

Until last year all classes in the university has respected the town standpipe in the matter of he daubing class numerals upon it. When a '14 appeared upon it, the wrothy class of '13 sought to remedy this insolence by effacing it and breathing into the college customs this law: No class shall presume to put paint on the city standpipe. Evidently, this year, this was forgotten, and last Saturday morning the whole college world was awakened to see impudent '15's staring at them from all places—and, as the Sophs early discovered, from the city standpipe. What will the Sophomores do now? is the question; it is their turn to move.

This action of the Freshmen is concurrent with the annual posting of the Sophomore "Ediot" which appeared a week ago last Sunday. In this a course of good behavior for the Freshmen "diotum est." The usual prohibitions of "plug hats, hosery of violent hues, mustaches of any description, etc.," appeared. It emphasized the awkwardness, lack of experience, folly, etc., of the Freshmen and demanded absolute deference to the will of their lords, the Sophomores. Altogether it was as creditable a piece of alliterative foolishness and admonition as has been seen at Idaho for some time. Occasional outbursts of class rivalry and superiority will now mark the careers of these two classes until the final adjustment is reached, after an old college custom, on the 17th of March.

Civil Service Exams Coming.

We are in receipt of an announcement from the U. S. Civil Service commission calling attention to the regular fall examinations on October 18-19, 1911, for positions in the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Examinations will be given in the following subjects: Agronomy, Dairying, Entomology, Farm Management, Forage Crops, Horticulture, Library Science, Physiology and Nutrition of Man, Plant Breeding, Plant Pathology, Pomology, Seed Testing, Soil Surveying, Soil Bacteriology and Animal Husbandry. Persons interested are invited to communicate with the Civil Service commission, Washington, D. C., and full information regarding the opportunities in the service, scope of examinations, salaries, etc., will be furnished.

IN THE GYMNASIUM

C. W. Van der Veer, director of the gymnasium, is very optimistic about the prospects in his department. He says, "The work will be even better and more successful than last year, and I was well pleased with the work last year."

Mr. Van der Veer has ordered an eighty foot horizontal and bridging ladder to be used by both the men's and women's classes in extension work. He has also two rowing machines on the way like those that are used in all the schools of the east where they do rowing. The boats have the sliding seats and liquid resistance, appliances of the best machines of their class.

Mr. Van der Veer plans to have the ladder placed on the right side of the gallery suspended from the trusses of the roof, and arranged in such manner that it will in no way interfere with basketball. The rowing machines will also be placed in the gallery.

Everything in the gymnasium has been put in first class shape. The men's baths have been fixed up. It is somewhat disappointing though, to learn that there was no new floor put in the gym, because of the fact that Governor Hawley cut down the appropriations, and again this year, as in the past, social events must be held in downtown halls.

An idea of the large amount of work done in Mr. Van der Veer's department last year can be gained from the following:

Total number of exercises last year, twenty-eight thousand; daily average, one hundred and sixty-seven; classes held, six hundred and seventy-two; number taking private instruction, fourteen hundred; greatest gain in strength made by Miss Lulu Vance of Boise, who gained 1020 pounds during the year; number of physical examinations, two hundred and one.

Three New Professors.

Three new additions to the agricultural department of the state university are announced by Dean W. L. Carlyle of the college of agriculture, Professor C. E. Temple has been elected as assistant professor of botany and plant pathology. He has been a professor of the university of Michigan.

E. T. Baker, deputy state veterinarian of Washington, has been chosen as professor of veterinary science. Mr. Baker will take charge of the work October 15.

Professor E. W. Hamilton of the Iowa agricultural college has been elected as the assistant professor of agricultural engineering. This is a newly established department.

Lower Classmen Elect Officers.

At the Freshman class meeting last Wednesday the officers elected for the coming semester were the following: S. L. Denning, president; Will E. Helfrich, vice-president; Lulu Curtis, secretary; E. M. Montgomery, treasurer.

The Sophomores have for president, Chas. E. Horning; for vice-president, V. W. Sammis; for secretary, Alice Cooper and for treasurer, Harriet Bolger.

Friday Is College Day At The Spokane Fair.

Next Friday will be College Day at the annual fair in Spokane. The University cadet band will go there, its expenses being paid both ways by the fair management under the direction of Secretary Cosgrove. The rates open to outsiders for this day will be $3.35 for a ticket good until the 9th. The special train will leave that day from Moscow at 7 o'clock in the morning, and leave for Moscow at 7 o'clock that evening.

Lawrence W. Jordan, a senior in the civil engineering department, arrived Friday evening to resume his studies at the college. He has been in eastern states this summer, and visited at his old home in Galesburg, Ill. He also attended the national convention of Beta Theta Pi early in the summer at Niagra Falls.

Battling Nelson's brother will enter Yale this fall to study medicine. While there it is said, he will act as sparring partner for one of the professors, in return for which his tuition, which will be met by the latter. The professor says he needs vigorous exercise and thinks young Nelson will furnish plenty.

ABOUT THE CAMPUS.

In reply to the Sophomore manifesto the Freshmen painted the town red last Friday night. They were well organized and seemed to have more paint than interference.

Corinne Robertson '14, re-entered school last week.

Chas. Fields '14, who a short time ago left town for Genesee, has returned and will take up his studies immediately.

Manager Jas. A. Watts of this year's Junior Annual, announces that he will be ready to take orders for this year's annual in a couple of weeks.

AMONG DEBATERS

At the meeting of the Debate Council, Chas. F. Horning was elected debate manager for the ensuing year. Professors Hulme and Wilson were chosen as faculty representatives in the council.

A debate try-out will be held in the latter part of October for the purpose of determining who will compose the teams to meet Pacific University. The exact date of the try-out will be announced as soon as the questions to be submitted by Pacific arrive. Look out for them.

Debate relations may be resumed this year with W. S. C. The last time these institutions met in debate was in the winter of 1908.

The Victor Price debaters are meeting regularly once more. Their next meeting will be held in the Y. M. C. A. hall next Friday evening. The subjects to be discussed are the recall of judges and President Taft's action in vetoing the statehood bill of Arizona and New Mexico. All interested in any way in debate should prepare themselves on these two topics and be present to take part in the discussions. All present are allowed to speak on any subject up for discussion under the rules for these meetings.

Storer Sings at Assembly.

The new instructor in vocal music at the university, Mr. Eugene Storer, made his first public appearance here at the first assembly of the year. The song he chose for the occasion was "Love Me if I Live" by Arthur Foote, one of the best of our contemporary American composers. It is a well written song, having a fine consistent melody, sustained by an accompaniment that is amply satisfying in the dramatic passages. Mr. Storer has a lyric tenor of good compass and pleasing quality and he uses it with no little skill and discretion. His voice is well placed. He sang with fine feeling and his interpretation was so intelligent that surely the most exacting of his listeners was satisfied. In response to a most enthusiastic encore he sang the "Kashmiri Song" from a cycle of Hindu songs, "The Garden of Roses," the lyrics of which are by the English poet, Lawrence Hope, and set to music by his country-woman, Amy Findeon. It is a much more dramatic composition than the first song; and it was given with all the alternating fire and tenderness that it demands. We shall always be glad to hear Mr. Storer sing, as we wish him great success, both as an instructor of those individuals among us who are so fortunate as to be able to take lessons from him, and as organizer and director of the glee club and the chorus. Perhaps at some future time he will sing for us that other notable song from the same cycle, "Less Than Dust."

Joint Reception Well Attended.

Last Friday evening the annual social event of the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. was pulled off. A very large attendance was in evidence. Several methods of mixing and diffusing the guests were used, and during these the most popular professor, the most popular young man and the most popular young woman present, were selected by popular ballot and given prizes. Refreshments were then served and after singing college songs and further developing the acquaintanceships made during the evening, the assemblage broke up.

The faculty representatives were: President and Mrs. MacLean, Dean and Mrs. Eldridge, Dean French, Professor and Mrs. Morley, Mrs. Axtell and Professors Nicholson, Tull, Stuart and Steinman.

The recipients of the prizes were Professor Tull, C. E. Watts and Miss Jewell Bothwell.

Professor C. C. Vincent, of the horticultural department of the state university, has accepted a position as head of the horticultural department in Clemson College, South Carolina. Prof. Vincent will leave with his family about the tenth of the month for Clemson College to assume charge of the department.
