SCHEDULE FOR PRESIDENT'S VISIT CARRIED OUT IN ALL DETAILS WITHOUT EXCEPTION

The President Delivers a Thirty-Minute Speech On The New Arbitration Treaty With Great Britain And Then Plants A Tree.

Y. M. C. A TO RUN A BOARDING CLUB.

At the regular 3:00 o'clock Sunday meeting, Mr. Eugene Storer sang a splendid sacred selection, and also led the meeting of forty-three enthusiastic fellows in some rousing hymns. Storer is destined to become a popular man at the University. After the song service there was a keen-out address on "The Great Purchase" by Rev. Warner, pastor of the M. E. church in this city. "We must buy, yet without money or price," he said, referring to those nobler features of morality and general culture. "Can a millionaire buy a college education with his money?" he continued, and answered, "Certainly not. And yet you fellows are buying it with daily drudge and nightly toil, while it is offered you by the state as a free gift. It costs you something; so does spiritual growth and nourishment, although it is a free gift of God. The cross must precede the crown."

The meeting adjourned and convened for business. Over thirty men were then voted into membership, after which Shaw was elected as treasurer, and Andersen as secretary. Then a committee reported in favor of a Y. M. C. A. Eat-House. The proposition was considerably discussed and finally, resulted in the nomination and unanimous election of Matthew Boyeson as a manager of such a club. The manager is to act on the cabinet as a regular member, and subject to the supervision of the president, as the head of the Bible Study department, or any other department is. Thus the Y. M. C. A. as an organization is directly behind the movement, while outsiders will be equally welcome in the boarding rooms. Such a club has been much needed here the past two or three years, and it is hoped it will render the eternal question of the Barbs as to the best place to eat, a definite and reliable answer. Where the boys

From the time that the train rolled in, 5:03 p. m. Saturday, until the President left, one hour later, all arrangements made for his welcome moved without a hitch. The procession which brought the president to the Ad building was led by the University Cadet Band, followed by a company of last year's cadets in blue. Immediately following them came the members of the local G. A. R. Post followed by a mounted escort. Then came the president's automobile, followed by numerous others. At the moment President Taft entered his car he was appropriately greeted with the old Yalé yell given with its natural vim and snap. After acknowledgment of this he seated himself in his car and the procession quickly moved to the university grounds—the band playing its quick, martial airs—accompanied by a monster crowd. Arriving there the cadets quickly surrounded the platform from which the president was to speak. This platform had been erected over exactly the same spot, in front of the Ad building, from which Teddy, on a pile of Palouse wheat, spoke last spring. The president, with those accompanying him on his trip, and many of our local representatives, among whom were President MacLean, Mayor Clarke and Hon. George Fields, immediately took possession of the rostrum. As the time was limited the president was introduced at once by Mr. Fields in a few terse, pointed words, whereupon his speech began.

President Taft announced as his subject the arbitration treaty that this country was about to enter with Great Britain. This measure, he explained, had been agreed upon between the two countries and the pact was about to be drawn up in its final form. The bill was drawn up and presented to the Senate. After a brief defense of the logic of this international peace movement by the United States, and a few words of explanation as to the contents, and especially the scope and powers of this bill, he presented the proposition that the backbone of this bill would be broken were the Senate to succeed in changing Clause 3, which left the power of deciding what cases were to be settled under the conditions of this treaty to an international tribunal, to make the decision as to when it should become operative to the countries between whom the pact was made. Such an arrangement would naturally permit both sides to make decisions agreeable to themselves—in other words the treaty would be practically nil. The president stated distinctly that this treaty must have power to bite back at its signers, should they be in the wrong, if it is to be of any value whatever. With the addition of a few more words, explanatory of the situations outlined in this bill, the president's speech was over; the time limit of his stay was drawn very close.

Juniors Hold Class Meeting.

At a class meeting held last week the juniors elected the following members of the class to the class offices: W. C. Perkins, president; Katherine Smith, secretary; Ray Armstrong, treasurer; Percy Stuart, sergeant-at-arms. It was decided to give a class play. The fixing of the date of the Junior Prom was also discussed, but no date could be absolutely fixed in the Dean's office.

Not far from the Ad building and about fifty yards from the Roosevelt tree, planted by Teddy last spring, was a similar one awaiting planting. President Taft immediately left for the place of planting, performed the necessary ceremony, and returned again to his automobile. He was then driven down the avenues which had been brilliantly lighted in his honor, to the station. His special immediately left for Spokane—and the president's visit was over.

A faculty reception will be held tonight in Ridenbaugh hall.

The string quartet resumed practice last Friday. Henceforth its practice hours will be from 3:00 to 4:00 on Fridays, at the violin studio.

Ray Tingley, '14 is again in school. He spent his vacation in the southern part of the state with a surveying party.

RIFLE CLUB IS AGAIN ORGANIZED

Many Old Crack Shots are Back. A Good Team Expected This Year.

At a meeting of the old members of the Rifle Club last Thursday afternoon the Rifle Club was re-organized for the coming year. Louis Jessup was elected president, O. C. Carlson, captain and E. E. Smith, secretary-treasurer. After more members have joined the club, it will levy its dues to meet the required $5.00 to join the national association. The indoor target range will be fixed up at once and target practice on the indoor range will begin immediately.

This club was not in working order last year, owing to the change in commandants and the accompanying disorder in the department. The team was also somewhat weaker than the year previous. But this year there are veteran shots in the battalion, men who have made good in the state militia companies against the best men there. Old men of the team of two years ago are again in school; the officers of the club being without exception men who shot on the team that made such good scores two years ago.

Two years ago, the club entered the Indoor Rifle Shooting League and out of the ten matches won seven, winning from Cornell, George Washington, Louisiana, Nevada, Delaware and the U. S. College for Veterinary Surgeons, and losing to Iowa State University, and Washington State College. W. S. C. won by a score of 1806 to 1803. Come out and join the club.

An assignment by Mr. Tull in the sophomore rhetoric class last week for an article planning a cartoon based upon a current event of national interest brought some surprisingly original results. Reciprocity, the proposed arbitration treaty and the Wiley controversy were among the subjects treated. Some of the students with artistic ability drew the actual cartoon. We expected to reproduce two of these in the Argonaut but failed to send them to the engraver in time.

He, an alumnus, even now returning from his school, was waiting expectantly at the end of the station platform of his home burg. He talked to a group of eager youngsters who were arrayed in nature's stockings and shoes, ill-fitting short trousers, and no longer first class straw hats. Their faces beaming eager attention, hung upon his every word. Their hands poised by their sides after an hilarious welcome were now twisting nervously;—and he was speaking.

"And at night the fellows, every one in school, everyone, gathering about a monster bonfire that was awful hot and shot high in the air and could be seen for miles and miles, would listen to their football fellows and others tell what they'd do to the other side next day. And they'd sing songs and cheer and yell and have a fine, bully time. But nothing like that coming later in the evening. For when the fire was out they'd form a big serpentine—yes I thought you'd know who that was done, only this was a great, big one. And all the fellows would have night shirts and little red Turkish fezes, and carry gaeen and red and yellow lights like big candles. And they'd sing and shout and dance about, all of them in a great, twisting line, moving from side to side down the street and like a great big snake. And at its head would be the band playing college songs—maybe. Boola—and everything was just a bully, bully good time.

"And they'd sure win next day maybe, and then they'd get together again. And some one would . . ."

And after he was through and was gone, a little urchin who had stood entranced the while would turn from the others, a slow fire burning introspectively deep down in his eyes—then, startlingly sharp: "Yuh betcha!" he said, and started off.

Entertain for Idaho Guests.

In compliment to Miss Elizabeth Dunn of Coeur d'Alene, Idaho, and Miss Catherine Smith and Miss Elizabeth Hays of Moscow, Idaho, a large number of social affairs were given the last week by their friends. Among those who entertained at dinners and luncheons were: Miss Veronica Foley, Miss Mary Pragher, Miss Mabelle Wilson and Miss Helen Noyes. All the young women are members of the Gamma Phi Beta sorority.—Sunday Spokesman.

The agricultural club holds its first meeting this evening in Merrill Hall.

Executive Council Meets.

At 1:00 p. m., last Friday the Executive Council met and passed some the bills knocking for credit at the beginning of this year's college activities. Money outstanding was arranged to be collected, and a committee appointed to investigate the claims of the Council against the officers of the Association for money still due it. The apportionment of this year's money from the student registration fees was announced to be as follows: To athletics, $523.05; to Argonaut, $190.20; to debate, $171.18; to the miscellaneous fund, $66.57.

REGENTS ARE SUED.

An action was instituted in the United States court in this city a few days ago by the Interstate Construction company of Saginaw, Michigan, wherein the plaintiff seeks to recover $15,554 from the regents of the University of Idaho. The litigation was instituted because of a disagreement over the work done on the Administration building.

Preps Have a Blow-Out.

Last Thursday evening the Preps congregated in the gym for a good time. They got it. The big event of the evening was the marriage of the King and Queen of the Preps. Carl Melugin is King this year, and Miss Marjorie Zumhof is Queen. The ceremony was performed by Professor Lehman, who was appropriately dressed for the occasion in long, flowing robes, a Bible in his hand. Professor Brink gave the bride away; Mr. Adams was best man.

Later, in the midst of a trombone solo, the lights went out and two men, entering with drawn revolvers, demanded the money the assemblage might have. Not being successful in their robbery, they did a most unusual thing—deciding to present those present with money. After this money was distributed around equally among all present, candies, etc., were bought. Ice cream and wifery were then served, and after a dance lasting for a little more than an hour the entertainment came to an end.

The use of fountain pens in the mining engineering building of the K. U. has been prohibited to all students. The order resulted from the flood of ink which the students, with bulky fountain pens, have been depositing on the floors for the past few years. The fine hard wood floors of all the large lecture rooms are speckled with ink blots.—Kansan.

SELECT your fall and winter knit underwear carefully. Make sure that it possesses comfort—warmth—wear. Be doubly certain that it will fit your body smoothly—perfectly—without bulk.

ATHENA UNDERWEAR

For Women, Misses and Children

is made in firmly knitted elastic fabrics that do away with wrinkles under the corset—a great cause of discomfort in the ordinary underwear.

Athena underwear fits the figure with the smoothness of a silk stocking. It insures comfort without bulk—daintiness with wearability.

Here are some of its special merits:

A patented seat that gives extra room where room is most needed. A special stay that prevents the garment from stretching over the shoulder. An elastic cuff that holds the sleeve in place and keeps it from slipping up on the arm. Trimming put on in an improved way, giving exquisite daintiness that is not lessened by washing.

In all shapes and fabrics at the price you usually pay. Try Athena for the children. A perfect fit for all ages—from two to sixteen years.

Why Lawyers Go To Heaven.

Or, Rather, Why They Don't Go Elsewhere.

The devil came to earth one day,
And into a courtroom took his way,
Just as a lawyer, with a very grave face,
Was proceeding to argue the points in a case.
Now a lawyer his majesty never had seen,
For to his dominion none ever had been;

"'Tis the fault of my agents," his majesty thought.
"That none of these lawyers have never been caught."

And for his own pleasure he had felt a desire
To come to the earth and the reason inquire.

Now, when the first lawyer had come to a close,
The counsel opposing him fearlessly rose,
And heaped such abuse on the head of the first,
That he made him a villain, of all men the worst.

Each claimed he was right and the other was wrong.
They sparred and contended and argued so long,

That, concluding he'd heard enough of the fuss,

"Old Nick" turned away, and soliloquised thus:
"They have puzzled the court with their villainous cavil,
And I am free to confess they have puzzled the devil.

My agents were right let lawyers alone.

If I had them, they'd euchre me out of my throne."—Anon.

MORE STOCK FOR U. OF I. FARM

W. L. Carlyle, dean of the college of agriculture, returned home the latter part of last week from Salem, Oregon, where he judged livestock at the Oregon State Fair. Dean Carlyle reported a very successful state fair at Salem.

While there he bought some more thoroughbred live stock for the university experiment station farm. He bought a Poland China boar which won the grand prize at the fair, buying the animal from Frank Wolgamuth of Danville. He also secured the first prize Poland China sow from J. C. Keller of Waterloo, Oregon. The Union Meat company of Portland, bought the first prize Galloway heifer, and donated the same to Dean Carlyle for the university farm.

These animals will be exhibited at the circuit fairs in the Northwest, and from Spokane will be shipped to Moscow.

He uses a magnificent Stradivarius violin, which is beyond price in value. He had the good fortune to play twice before the late King Christian of Denmark, at another time before the late King Oscar of Sweden, and again to Hakon, the present King of Norway. He also won the attention of Wilhelm, Emperor of Germany, in 1902, when he appeared as soloist at the opening of the Royal Berlin Academy of Music, with the result that twice since the Emperor has, through Joseph Joachim, had him invited to play at private concerts in the Royal Palace in Berlin.

Pan-Hellenic Meets.

Last Wednesday evening the Pan-Hellenic Council met in the Ad building. Deans Eldredge and French, and Professors Hulme, Tull and Collins were present. This is the first regular meeting of the year. The subject discussed was the limitation or better regulation of the times when the social events will be pulled off this year. It is alleged with much justice by the faculty representatives that the social events of last year were too numerous and were ill-timed. The council is considering the elimination of some of the events.

EXCHANGES

The following universities, Yale, Columbia, John Hopkins, Virginia, Illinois, and Minnesota have joined in an arrangement to enter into an exchange of professors with Japan. Under the terms of this agreement, Japan will be represented at each of the above mentioned institutions the coming year by Dr. Ignazo Nitobe, of Tokio, Japan. Each of the seven universities contributes $500 every other year to send some representative from the United States to Japanese universities, Japan sending a representative to the United States every other year. This representative will spend four weeks at each of the universities above mentioned. The representative of the American universities will be selected by the presidents of the institutions entering into the agreement and may or may not be a professor in any of the institutions named. The object of the exchange is to give both the American and Japanese people a better knowledge of the other and to help build up a public opinion that will resist all attempts to arouse unnecessary antagonism between Japan and the United States. Dr. Nitobe will arrive in this country in October. He is well posted on American affairs, having been a student at John Hopkins university, and having written a "History of the Intercourse Between Japan and the United States."

Chronicle, Sept. 29.—So concerned was Lillian Glover, colored, lest the account of her marriage to William Bowles should get back to Moscow, where she is employed in the Idaho university, that she almost refused to let Justice S. H. Hyde perform the marriage ceremony Thursday. Fears of pranks that inmates of the girl's dormitory, where she works, will play upon her were responsible for the situation, and to avoid them she gave her home address as Chicago Bowles, the husband, leaves today for Vancouver, and the bride expected to be able to get back alone and unsuspected to the school.

The University of Montana paper, the Weekly Kaimin, plans to establish a high school exchange or miniature Associated Press among the high schools of the state. A special department will be made for them and correspondents secured in high schools throughout the state. The idea is to increase their knowledge of each other and their interest in the university.

Hall-Strohbehn.

A beautiful home wedding occurred at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Hall, of Moscow, last Wednesday, October 4, at 11:30 a. m. The bride was Miss Josie E. Hall, well known and admired by many in this community as a young lady of many graces and lovely character. She is a graduate of the Moscow high school and a Moscow product, of which we have a right to be proud.

The groom was Mr. Edward B. Strohbehn of Twin Falls, Idaho. Mr. Strohbehn was for two years a student in the University of Idaho, and while here the acquaintance was formed which has ripened into this union. He is an active business man of his home city. The marriage service was solemnized by Rev. D. M. Hand, pastor of the Baptist church. The wedding party entered the beautifully decorated parlors to the strains of Mendelssohn's wedding march, played by Miss Zula Hooper of Pullman, Washington. After the ceremony a delightful luncheon was served.

The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Lillian Hall, and the groom by Mr. Frank Mason, of Spokane. A host of friends heartily join us in good wishes for the prosperity of the young couple.

B. E. DAVIS.

AT ASSEMBLY.

At assembly last Wednesday, Professor Aldrich, head of the Biology department gave an address to the largest assemblage of university students that have been drawn together this year. Professor Aldrich's address was very interesting. He set forth with much consciousness the striking contrast between the opportunities of the college man of today and the college man of a decade ago. He criticized the indifference with which most college men regard the increased advantages offered to them. They come to college after being crowded through high school, before they are fully aware of the opportunities that have laid, and lie, before them. A few years ago college students seemed to acquire a deeper sense of responsibility than they have today. They had a greater relish for their work and were quicker in taking advantage of the few opportunities that were offered at college. With their poorly equipped laboratories the students learned to do things for themselves, thus developing a remarkable personal responsibility which so many college men and women of today fail to acquire.

Mr. Aldrich stated that many men come to college with strange ideas as to what constitutes a college man. They draw their conclusions from the pictures of college men in, for instance, the "X" System clothing catalog, and come here to live in accordance with those ideas. They imagine that college is a place of absolute freedom from care and responsibility; that it is a refuge from labor—a sort of winter resort where one may spend his happiest years. But the man who comes to college with such a misconception of things as this, is apt to be sadly disappointed. "College is simply a geographical term," said Professor Aldrich. "It tells where a man is—not what he is. The fact that a man is in college should not lessen his sense of personal responsibility or his self respect."

Professor Aldrich suggested three virtues which all college students might well cultivate. First of all, industry. This virtue is no less important in college than it is without. The idleness that is found among college students can hardly be called indolence, yet it certainly indicates a lack of training in the lines of industry. One should not limit his efforts to the absolute requirements of his course. If he can do more than his regular work he should do it.

The second virtue mentioned was economy. Students must be able to take care of themselves financially before they can hope to develop in other lines. They must learn to live within their incomes. "If one is obliged to borrow money, he should borrow just as little as he can." It is easy to incur debts but it is hard to pay them off.

Personal responsibility was the third essential with which Professor Aldrich dealt. He said, "This personal responsibility is a natural gift to some, but in others it must be developed through constant cultivation." If one hasn't it he should try to develop it. He should meet his financial responsibilities, also his social responsibilities; and maintain a high standard of self respect. Personal responsibility is the basis of success."

Following the address of Professor Aldrich, a piano solo by Miss Hostetter was received, and enthusiastically encored. The assembly then broke up, and a meeting for the university men, to take up immediately, was called.

The purpose of this meeting was to rouse some of the dormant football spirit that is needed to make Idaho's football team a success. The old Idaho yell was given repeatedly, and then followed talks by "Pink" Griffith, Gus Larson and Fritz Lundstrom. They criticized the lack of interest that was being shown in football practice this year. Scrimmage work was greatly handicapped as there were not enough men out for two full teams—out of the thirty-four suits that had been issued, only seventeen were out on the field. "Pink" asked for volunteers (and got them—the result being three full teams on the field that afternoon. All Idaho students need is a little stirring up once in a while, and "Pink" is the man to do the stirring.)

Enoch Bernard '11, is in town and will probably remain until next Sunday.

Professor Tull is composing several new songs for the Idaho-W. S. C. football game.

VARSITY FORTY; NORMAL FIVE

Both Teams Show Very Good Form. Lewiston Has a Fast Team.

Lewiston Normal was able to score on the varsity in the first practice game of football this season. Lewiston brought up a better team this year than they did last season. She has a fast forward team and shows excellent coaching. Her forward pass, cross-kick and side place, throwing the varsity team off time after time for large gains. Lewiston would make no gain whatever by straight line running, being repeatedly shown back for losses.

Idaho showed up well in every department except at end. Backups have been set for the past few days and did not get into the game until the third quarter, and then he was in no shape to do himself justice. Enoch Perkins did some brilliant field running. Perkins should be one of the best ground gainers in the conference this season. Bill Hillman also did good work in the back field in backing the line. Knutson is keeping his eye open this year and following his interference. Knutson should be all northwest material before he gets out of school. The end problem should be solved when Leuschke turns out for practice, for he will undoubtedly go into the backfield and this will throw Burns on the end, and with Burns and Samma Idaho should not be troubled any longer. The line showed up exceptionally strong. Idaho made seven touchdowns. Hillman kicked five goals out of seven attempts and one other looked like it went over but the referee ruled otherwise.

Following is the lineup of the teams:

Normal	Position	Idaho
Burke	l. c.	Gildea
Craig	l. t.	Buffington
