CAMPUS DAY BRILLIANT EVENT

Fine Weather and Best Pageant Yet Add Finishing Touches To The Day.

The second Annual Campus Day at the University of Idaho was pulled off, Friday, with more than its usual "class" in the length and quality of the pageant and in the spirit of those attending. Long before the day was done it was evident to all just where Alma Mater Idaho stood in the eyes of her students, alumni and her host of friends.

For about an hour, beginning with 9:45 a. m., the elements of the long pageant began to arrive. Nearly all of the departments of the University were represented, many of them being startlingly realistic. The "muckers" turned out a "forty-niner"—red shirt, long whiskers, rusty corduroys, and high topped boots with the traditional accompaniment of a rusty Winchester and rugged burro loaded with pack and pans; the Civils, with their lines and instruments, constantly demanded Moscow's much debated paving; monkey wrenches, squares and a small model steam engine were displayed by Mechanicals dressed in the garb of their profession. The Chemists displayed bottles, retorts, colored lights, etc. on a portable stand which was ornamented with skull and crossbones flanked by structural formulas of carbolic acid; the German department introduced "Deutschen Studenten" with all their characteristically odd garb, dogs and canes. The Law department made its show led by a venerable long-necked and bespectacled judge in high top hat and black-flowing robes followed closely by well presented attorneys, policemen, prisoners and jury. Sturdy little volumes of philosophy, history, "2-hr" reserve books, poetry, etc., stumbled along beside their librarian who was accompanied with quill and ink and book sack. Many other exhibits of the College of Arts and Sciences were put on.

Perhaps the Agricultural Department had the "classier" portable exhibits. These were of all kinds and descriptions: a gasoline engine—a mere handful of an engine; the dairy exhibit consisting of a cream separator driven by a gasoline engine built in the frame of the separator, a churn and an ice cream freezer—all in active motion and attended by "dairy maids" who made it their busi-

OREGON WINS CONFERENCE MEET

Beats Nearest Rival 3 to 1 on Multnomah Field—Idaho Bad Showing.

Last Saturday Oregon easily won the championship of the first annual Pacific Northwest College conference track meet with a lead of 30 points over its nearest rival, Washington. Much of Idaho's bad showing is accounted for by the condition of the men, notably Scott, who was badly handicapped owing to an injured ankle. The score by points was as follows: U. of O., 57; U. of W., 23; Whitman, 21; O. A. C., 18; W. S. C., 11; Idaho, 5.

The summary of the meet was as follows:

"AS YOU LIKE IT" WELL DONE

Baked Brown and Finished Most Palatably For Critical Audience.

The climax of the English Club's dramatic work for the year was the presentation of Shakespeare's "As You Like It" on the University campus Friday evening. It was the first outdoor play that has been given at the University and the novel poetic setting of the Forest of Arden with real trees and grass delighted a large audience. The illusion was more nearly perfect than most people believed could be secured on the campus. The production was in charge of Dr. Moore, who coached the play and was responsible for its success.

Miss Helen Denecke of Boise played the leading role of Rosalind with spirit and dramatic effect. Her responsiveness to the varying moods of the lovely Shakespearian heroine was notable. The quick sympathy for Orlando when he was pitted against heavy odds; the dawn of love for him; the dignity and pride of noble character under the humiliating charges of her false uncle; the spirit of playful adventure in the forest; the vivacious teasing of the country folk; the inimitable wit-combats with Touchstone and Orlando; the quick transitions between boyish bravado and womanly tenderness; the final surrender to her love; all was portrayed by Miss Denecke with intelligence and sympathy.

Miss Whitwell, who in the last week took the part of Celia, for which Miss Rowley had been trained, surprised those who knew of the circumstances by her skill and sureness of memory. She read the blank verse most charmingly her voice being remarkably clear and musical. Her pleading for her cousin before her father was a fine bit of acting. Miss Whitwell is a "find" in University dramatics.

Miss Tuttle gave her known gift of clever interpretation to the role of Phebe, and her voice also was remarkable for its carrying power in the open air. As the fickle country maiden scorning the affections of the honest Silvanus and the sudden victim of the grace of Ganymede, she was effective.

Miss Allen, called to the role of Audrey at a late date, made much of her few lines, the original part being heavily cut for the

If there is a cross in the circle you have not paid your subscription to the Argonaut. Please settle at once.

This will probably be the last issue of the Argonaut for the year. The press of exams has reduced the staff to one—quite natural and right. The members of the staff have stood very creditably to their work for a college paper, throughout the year.

The task of preparing something of an Argonaut every Tuesday has been very pleasant in the majority of instances throughout the year. The work has been most interesting and entertaining at all times—little sidelights thrown on the faculty, the hopes and plans of student leaders, old Alma Mater Idahoic advantage, etc., and news—all were factors to make the work most attractive. The Argonaut extends its best wishes to all Idaho students and boosters throughout the year. It is hoped the present senior class will always remain the staunch supporter in behalf of our school it has ever been. We expect the three lower classes to return to a man—not alone, but with a record breaking freshman class. With the earnest wish that the summer bring its rich resources of health and wealth to all we close with one last hurrah for the University and a goodbye.

On Campus Day, Friday, a great number of pictures were taken—many poor, of course, but many good. The University can put the good pictures to a fine practical use in advertising, if it had them. Yet it is impossible to get all good ones by any personal solicitation. Therefore it is requested that all kodak enthusiasts will leave with the Bursar, prints on the back of which is a note as to the whereabouts of the film from which the print was made. This will both facilitate the work of the school and afford the satisfaction of an advantageous use for meritorious film in behalf of Alma Mater Idaho.

Hugh Maguire, '12, leaves this evening for Hailey, Idaho, where he has taken a position as assayer in the mines.

ness to popularize their float by dispensing ice cream during their ride. In addition to many other fine exhibits was the stock exhibit, closing the pageant. Among these were the nationally famous Percheron mare, Amorita, and other fine stock.

Led by a mounted trumpeter, and the University girls, bearing wreaths and marching in column of twos, the pageant entered a reserved space on the campus in which the two Maypoles had been erected. The pageant then disbanding, dances given by the University girls came next in order, including the Narcissus, the Russian Dance, Norwegian Mountain March, and concluding with the winding of the May-pole.

This having been completed the audience gathered into the reserved space and, after a few prefatory remarks by President MacLean and Dean French, listened to the loyalty and pledged devotion of the four classes of the University at the hands of the class orators. The speaking of the day was then concluded by the short, pointed address of an alumnus, Robert O. Jones, '10, as the orator of the day.

Sixteen gallons of the best ice cream, in company with loads of sandwiches, cookies, coffee, etc., awaited the visitors at Ridenbaugh Hall. Lunch, strolling over the grounds, and games kept the visitors only too busy until 1:45 p. m. when a band concert was given. At 2:45 this was succeeded by a vocal and orchestral concert from the balcony of Ridenbaugh Hall—some of the finest music ever presented by the University being given here. Too much cannot be said in this connection of the work of Mr. E. H. Storer, nor of the work of Professors E. Hellier-Collens and E. J. Carey.

The day was brought to a brilliant close by the presentation of Shakespeare's "As You Like It" on the campus at 7:30 p. m.—an account of which is found elsewhere in these columns.

We know they music made
In Heaven, ere man's creation;
But when God threw it down to us that strayed,
It dropt with lamentation,
And ever since doth its sweetness shade
With sighs for its first station.

performance. She did a great deal of acting while on the stage and secured many laughs from the audience. She and Touchstone made a funny pair.

Mr. Lehman as Orlando acted in his usual clever, finished style. His experience was evident. He thoroughly understood the possibilities of his part and "got them across" the footlights. Mr. Fjellsted played the sinister elder brother, Oliver, with intelligence and spirit. He secured with skill the necessary contrast between the characters of Orlando and Oliver.

Mr. Davis as Touchstone won the audience from his very entry. His sense of the comic, his ease in acting, the original whimsical turns which he developed himself made his role almost professional.

There is a possible Falstaff in Mr. Davis. His illustrations of the ease with which anyone could write rhymes and his entanglement of the honest Corin in the meshes of philosophical terms in an argument particularly pleased the audience.

Mr. Johnson doubled on Duke Senior and Duke Frederick. He read his lines with authority—as becomes a duke. Mr. Warren interpreted the role of the melancholy Jaques skillfully and effectively. His rendering of the seven ages of man was particularly good. Mr. A. L. Johnson as Le Beau was the courtly gentleman; Mr. Beckman as Corin was the simplehearted old shepherd with a realistically squeaky voice, an easy butt for Touchstone's wit; Mr. Woolridge, another recruit secured at the last minute to take the place of Mark Anderson, was the lovesick bumpkin. Silvius; Mr. Robinson was the husky Charles the Wrestler; Mr. Nisbet doubled on Adams and William in a very effective makeup and gave a strong illusion of age. All in all, under the great difficulties caused by the early departure of original members of the cast, under the handicaps attendant upon an experiment in outdoor staging, with the impossibility of securing regular rehearsals at this busy time of the year, and with the distracting low temperature of the evening, the campus production of "As You Like It" was pronounced a success.

Little Richard McCaffery, who was nearly drowned a few days ago is reported to be out of danger from a serious fever and will soon be about again.

A NEW COURSE FOR BACCALAUREATE DEGREE

A Course in Commerce and Business Administration is Under Contemplation.

The Regents will take under consideration at their June meeting the desirability of offering a four year course in Commerce and Business Administration, leading to a baccalaureate degree and designed to put the preparation for a business career on the same plane as that for Engineering, Law or any other profession.

This is a recognition of a view which the American College has come to hold in recent years, that a business career is a profession in a true sense whose successful pursuit demands that systematic knowledge of facts and principles, the trained mind and habits of thought which the University with its great resources now offers to those who enter the older professions. Harvard, Wisconsin Chicago and other eastern universities have introduced such courses with great success and the soundness of the view is thoroughly established. The course proposed for Idaho would follow largely the Wisconsin plan. Its general purposes may be stated to be:

1. To offer the general advantages of a college education.
2. To afford a thorough knowledge of the processes common to all branches of commerce and business administration together with a more specialized knowledge of some one of them.
3. To afford training methods.
4. To set forth the resources of the state from the standpoint of business opportunity.

The studies of such a course fall in three groups. Foundational Studies, which are recognized as essential in a liberal education and as a necessary foundation for the more specialized subjects which follow. These comprise courses in natural sciences, mathematics, English, foreign languages, history and economics. Most of these courses are already given to students of the University Professional Studies distributed throughout the course, whose aim would be to teach students to understand and actually perform various processes common to all branches of commerce. They would comprise business correspondence, business forms and accounts, auditing, salesmanship, advertising, credits and collecting and the managing of factories and other business concerns. Elective Studies. In addition to the studies described above which would usually be required of all students in the course each student at the beginning of his Junior year would be obliged to elect a group of related courses in some special field such as Banking, Transportation, Accountancy, Organization, Insurance, Corporation Finance, Foreign Commerce, Commercial Law or Agricultural Problems. Doubtless only a few of these could be offered a first but others would be added from time to time. These electives are designed to give the student an opportunity to study intensively a particular field and to learn how to collect and utilize data bearing on the problems of commerce and industry. In connection with this he would be required to write a thesis during his senior year.

This course is further intended to benefit many other students than those registered in it for a degree.

Certain of the courses would be adapted and in some cases required of students seeking other degrees and a general course would be open to every student of the University in which information in regard to business matters of use to every persons would be taught.

Idaho has great need of men who can carry its industrial development to the point that its natural resources we now stand forty-second among the states in the per capita value of manufactured products. It is believed that the University may greatly aid this development in affording this sort of training.

If you are interested in this course or any of its subjects, please communicate personally or by postal card, with any of the members of the following faculty committee which has been acting as its sponsor: L. E. Gurney, R. S. McCaffery and Permeal French.

An examination covering the years' work was presented to the Sophomore English class Tuesday.

A teachers course in Latin will be offered by Professor Axetll next year.

Jim Harris, Law '12, left Sunday for Coeur d'Alene where he is attending the Democratic state convention as a delegate from Washington county.

George Curtis, who has been visiting for the past two weeks at the Theta Mu Epsilon house left Monday for his home at Boise. Mr. Curtis has accepted a position in the Boise high school for next year.

The A. S. U. I. has had five hundred copies of the new A. S. U. I. constitution and by-laws printed. They will probably be distributed at the beginning of next semester.

A very pretty alumni banquet for the graduates and alumni of Moscow high school was served in the Guild Hall last Saturday evening. This organization, altho but three years old, is becoming very strong and numbers several college students on its roll—among which are its president, Geo. O'Donnell and its secretary-treasurer, Miss Henrietta Safford.

Miss Jewell Bothwell, ex-'12, arrived in Moscow Sunday from her home in Ogden, Utah. It is rumored that she will be an assistant in domestic science next year.

Professor Patterson, of the Department of Romance Languages, and Dean McCutcheon, of the Law School, will spend the summer in Europe.

Supplementary Bulletin The University of Idaho Summer School.

All railroads of the Inland Empire, including the Oregon Short Line, have arranged to grant reduced rates for the University Summer school. Tickets to Moscow may be purchased June 13 to 19. Return limit extends to July 30. Secure receipt from local agent on purchasing ticket to Moscow. This receipt when properly countersigned by the secretary of the summer school and joint agent will entitle you to a one-third rate on return ticket.

In addition to the large faculty (twenty-two) selected from the University and Lewiston Normal school, two leading educators of Idaho will give a series of lectures and Professor A. Olin of the Department of Education, Kansas State University has been engaged to give the Summer School ten lectures on "Modern School Problems."

A modern school garden, containing all the varieties of vegetables and cereals, which can be grown in Idaho is but one of the many features which the University farm will present to teachers. Any text books you may have on subjects you plan to take should be brought with you. Others which may be needed will be on sale at Moscow.

An unusually heavy correspondence from scores of enthusiastic teachers indicates that the Summer School will fill a long felt want.

Kindly pass the good news to your friends.

Very truly,

PH. SOULEN,

Secretary Summer School.

Addresses to be given at the University Summer School by Prof. A. Olin, Department of Education, University of Kansas: Education and Democracy; Moral Conservation; The Rural School; The School and the Time Schedule; Individualism in Education; Culture and Utility; The Making of the Teacher; The Educational Ladder; New Values of the School; Ideals and the Higher Education. School Children Learn Photography.

While recently visiting a certain high school in Idaho the writer was agreeably surprised in finding that the boys taking agriculture were also taught photography. The main purpose of teaching this subject was to enable the boys to photograph live stock on the farms in order to keep more accurate records in animal breeding and to photograph plants to supplement the descriptive records in plant breeding.

What a stimulus photographic records of this nature would be to many of our farmers engaged in plant and animal breeding! An annual collection of well made photographs of farm animals and plants would in after years make up a panoramic series of the most interesting kind. It would show the breeder in the most striking way the benefits of careful selection and would deeply impress him with the ever acting laws of heredity and environment.

Incidentally the boys in this school were learning more thru photography than the things mentioned. During leisure hours many were making views of their home surroundings. They were learning to view these surroundings from the standpoint of rural beauties, to compare, criticise and select those portions which would be interesting and entertaining when photographed; but which pass by unnoticed and unappreciated by the average farmer boys and girls.

Agricultural Editor.

BASEBALL DOPE

Kappa Sigma and Sophomores are the winners in their respective leagues as the result of games played within the past week. The Sophomores won their final game against the Juniors after that team had given them a hard battle for five innings.

In the Inter-frat league, the Theta Mu team finished the season running strong and only a batting rally in the final inning prevented Theta Mus from tying Kappa Sigma for first honors.

To date all the scheduled games have been played except the Senior-faculty game in the Class league, which has been reserved for class day and the three remaining Phi Delta Theta games. Regarding the class day event, some of the faculty have openly boasted that the professors will win this go. If they do, there will be three teams tied for the bottom position, but at present it looks like the Faculty for the cellar.

In one of the best games played this season the Sophomores won from the Juniors last Tuesday afternoon by a 6-2 score. The game was anybody's until in the sixth, with the score tied, the Sophomores put four runs across the plate. Kinnison and Perkins opposed each other on the slab. The former allowed but seven scattered hits, while the Sophomores bunched their six hits in two innings.

Theta Mu Epsilon Beats Barbs.

The Non-frat team, weakened by the loss of its best men, were easy for Theta Mu on Decoration day, the latter winning by a score of 17-9. Errors were responsible for most of the runs of the frat men.

Kappa Sigmas Win in Seventh.

With the score seven to three against them in the last inning, the Kappa Sigma sluggers turned apparent defeat into victory and cinched the cup in the game with Theta Mu last Saturday morning. Three hits, an error and a passed ball tell the story of the break which let in five runs. At that the game was a good one, much better than the average inter-class leagues. Kappa Sigma scored a run in each of the first three innings, while Theta Mus took three in the first and fifth and one in the sixth. This game gives Kappa Sigma the trophy, unless Phi Delta Theta can win all three of her remaining games, which hardly seems probable.

The following batting and fielding averages are given for the teams which have completed the schedule. This includes all the teams in the class league with the exception of the Seniors and Faculty, and the Theta Mu team in the Frat league. For those who played in only one game no average is given.

Gray of the Sophomores has the best average of anyone working in four games. He batted .466 and fielded .955. He is closely followed by S. Anderson of the Freshman team, who hit .465 and fielded .944.

Hughart has the best standing average, batting .615 and fielding 1.000, but he only worked in three games. Kjosness, with the Juniors, who also played in three games, has a very good average of .444 and .955. Robinson has a fielding average of 1.000 on twenty-five chances.

In the Frat league Seymour with averages of .429 and 1.000, will stand among the leaders. However, in four games he has had but one chance in the field.
