BOARD COMPLETES BUSY SESSION

OPPORTUNITIES GIVEN STUDENTS TO GET INTO CLOSER TOUCH WITH MEMBERS OF BOARD.

Important Changes in the Faculty for Next Year.—Agricultural Extension Work Considered.

The state board of education completed its work here after a week of long sessions, conferences and late hours. An excellent opportunity was given each student to become more thoroughly acquainted with the board at the president's reception and at the very spirited and interesting assembly Wednesday morning. From their expressions of loyalty and good will no one but expected the best of treatment at their hands and the work accomplished by the board has even increased our confidence in that body.

The first day of the state board in regular session at the president's office was given over entirely to university business. Reports were submitted by President Brannon and by Mr. Rossi, chairman of the university subcommittee. These reports were the basis on which recommendations were made and budgets for the coming year allowed. Whatever anxiety may have been felt as to the permanency of the law school was set aside immediately. The law school was provided ample funds without any discussion.

After the framing of the budget of expenditures for the coming year, several matters relative to agricultural extension work were considered. Closer cooperation between the university and the various county agriculturists throughout the state was urged. Owing to the lack of time, further consideration was referred to a committee consisting of President Brannon and Dean Carlyle, and H. Harland of the board.

A matter of importance was the election of Professor Shattuck of the forestry department to be dean of the college of letters and sciences. Having had considerable experience in administrative work the appointment will do much to perfect the organization of that college. Lack of time prevented the board from considering many minor matters which were finally referred to the executive committee formed of President Brannon, Commissioner Sisson, Mr. Rossi and Mr. Evan Evans. Under a different arrangement it is expected that next year much less time will be consumed in details and more time given to the consideration of expenditures and departmental work.

In making out a working plan for the administration of the institutions of the state the board formulated a set of definite rules and programs for the direction of the institutional activities which will express themselves. It is thought, in a somewhat more definite centralization of authority and responsibility than has been known heretofore. The reason given by the board for the adoption of the plan that was chosen is to enable the university and other state institutions to develop all of their interests symmetrically rather than locally and individually.

Speaking of the new system, the details of which have not yet been given out, President Brannon says, "Manifestly the new plan adopted by the board will be in the interest of efficiency and sympathetic cooperation throughout every department and college of the university in its relation to the other departments, in its relation to other institutions of the state and in its relation to every educational activity directed by the state board of education."

Few changes in the faculty were made. The resignations of Mr. Lehman assistant professor in English, Miss Margaret Sweet, instructor in home economics, and Miss Ida Wolff, library cataloger, were accepted.

Leaves of absence for a year were granted to Prof. G. L. Larson, Dr. Henrietta Moore, Mrs. Isaacson, Prof. Steinman and Miss Ruth Brewer.

New officers for the board of education were elected as follows: D. L. Evans of Malad, president; H. J. Rossi of Wallace, vice president; H. Harland of Payette, secretary

DEAN CARLYLE IN WASHINGTON.

Will Consult Government Experts and Officials Regarding Establishment of Serum Plant.

Dean W. L. Carlyle of the agricultural college has been called to Washington by Senator James H. Brady. The purpose of the trip will be to assist the government officials in getting data about the conditions in the northwest as concerns the hog cholera epidemics that have been ravaging the country.

Mr. Carlyle will confer with the head of the department of animal husbandry relative to establishing at the university a serum plant that will supply the serum for these northwestern states. The government has already appropriated $50,000 for the purpose of fighting hog cholera. Idaho will get a little of this anyway. But if we are able to have our little plant taken over and enlarged by the government the serum, which will probably be distributed free, can be made here rather than be shipped from the middle west.

Dean Carlyle will probably be gone from school about two weeks.

Freshmen Refreshed.

Last Friday afternoon five freshmen, whose memories were getting dusty about this little matter of wearing green caps while on the campus, got very wet. They attempted to watch the tryout of the track men down on the new stadium. They had intended to witness the races from under civilian headgear. This attempt was, of course, a bad thing to do. One of the five seems to have been bored with the races for he left the field like a comet a few centuries behind time. Heck would do well to find him for the sprints. The other four were served dainty refreshments from the hose north of the Ad. building. It may be that the moss has collected on the domes of these fellows, but their heads certainly look greener than ever before.

LAST Y. M.-Y. W. VESPER.

President Brannon to Address Students at 3:30 Next Sunday Afternoon.

Another reminder that the school year is swiftly drawing to a close is the fact that the last of the monthly Sunday afternoon vesper services which have been held this spring by the Y. W. and Y. M. C. A. will be held next Sunday afternoon. Although the last meeting of its kind of the year, it will mark the first appearance of our new president in the work of the Christian associations at the university. It has been a real privilege to listen to the addresses that Dr. Brannon has made to the students, and we as students shall be glad to welcome him on a new but not less important phase of our student life. We shall also anticipate with pleasure the music with which Mrs. Hughes will favor us on that occasion. The meeting will be held in the auditorium at half-past three o'clock.

It is expected that series of vesper services for the university will be arranged by the two Christian associations next year, as the experiment as it has been tried this spring has proven quite successful.

STUDENTS OF HUMANITIES.

Prof. Axtell Entertains Students of Greek and Latin First at Show and Then at Childers.

Prof. H. S. Axtell entertained the freshman and sophomore Latin classes at a theater party Friday evening. The presentation of Homer's Odyssey was a source of particular interest to those studying the classics of ancient Greece. After the show refreshments were served at Childers. The party then adjourned to the home of Prof. Axtell, where several hours were spent in telling true stories of journeys abroad, and of the recent cadet encampment. Those present were: Misses Othel Martin, Grace Darling, Dorthea Wenz, Bertha Sylvester, Norma Martin, Mayme Stapleton, Rose Curtis, Wayman, Fluke, Saffron, Ford, Lois Jones; Messrs. Will Boekel, Harry Burke, Willie Buzzelle.

WATKINS MEDAL FOR ORATORY

SPEAKERS OF ALL CLASSES AND RACES ARE URGED TO PARTICIPATE.—SUBJECTS SUGGESTED.

Date is May 23, Saturday Evening. Beautiful and Expensive Medal Given the Winner.

The annual Watkins oratorical contest, in which a gold medal valued at fifty dollars is awarded to the student winning first place, will be held this year on Saturday evening, May 23, in the University auditorium. This date was set at a recent meeting of the debate council, and the details of the contest agreed upon.

Any student enrolled in the University of Idaho may enter this contest. It is hoped that the co-eds will be well represented. The orations are to be original, and may be upon any subject. And there is no time restriction. The length of the orations is left to the discretion of the participants, but they usually do not exceed fifteen minutes in delivery.

The orations are to be judged by two sets of judges. The first will pass upon the thought and composition; the second upon the presentation on the night of the contest. Clarence F. Johnson has been appointed by the debate council as manager of the contest, and three copies of each oration, typewritten if possible, must be in his hands a week before the contest, on Friday, May 15th. The orations are not to be signed, but the title and writer's name must accompany the compositions in a sealed envelope. In this way all chance of partiality or prejudice is wholly eliminated.

In view of the fact that this is the last contest this year in which students have an opportunity to express themselves before a public gathering, it is hoped that there will be a large number of participants.

It is not difficult in this age of widespread discussion to find a subject on which one has real convictions. The lives of great and inspiring men have long formed the subjects of many able addresses. And there are such real problems to be met and solved in politics, in religion, in the industrial world. As a suggestive list and to give some idea of what other colleges are doing in the same field, the following are printed. They are the subjects of actual college orations delivered by college men during the last several years all over the country, and all have taken prizes. In length they ranged from five to twelve and fifteen minutes:

The Spoken word; The Optimism of Christianity; The College and the Press; The Patriotism of Stephen A. Douglas; The Man of the Frontier; The Common People; An Issue of Justice: Equal Suffrage for Women; Relation of Modernisms to Progress; War and Public Opinion; International Arbitration; An Appeal for Dramatic Art; A Plea for American Drama; Builders of Empire. There are many more.

MONTANA TRACK MEET SATURDAY

TRIOUTS HAVE BEEN HELD IN ORDER THAT BEST MEN COULD BE CHOSEN.

Till Gerlough Leads in Mile—Lockhart Wins Broad Jump—Freshmen show Up Well in Sprints.

The first track meet for this season and the first to be held on the new athletic field will be Saturday, when Idaho meets Montana. The Idaho team is in the best of trim and is expected to start a winning pace on the new field that will be continued. In a preliminary tryout which was held by the coach, Edmundson, Friday afternoon, events were taken as follows: 100-yard dash, Morrison, Colquhoun, and Berry, time 16:1-5; half mile, Dingle and Massey, time 2:05; mile, Gerlough, Dehaven and Bonneville, time 4:52; broad jump, Lockhart, 21 feet 7 1/2 inches; shot put, "Back" Phillips, 35 feet.

A great deal of work is being done on the new field in order to have it in shape for Saturday's meet. Cinders are being put on the straight away, and if time permits and the cinders are available, the quarter will be prepared also.

Other tryout meets will be held Tuesday and Wednesday.

E. S. Gains Lectures on Hybridization.

The members of the Agricultural club were very instructively entertained last Wednesday evening by Prof. E. S. Gains of Washington State college, who gave an illustrated lecture on the hybridization of wheat, oats, and barley. This work has been pursued successfully at W. S. C. for a number of years and some high yielding grains and grains with other desirable qualities have been obtained.

PREPARED LUMBER IN EXHIBIT.

University Forestry Department Will Send Specimen of Work to Chicago.—Work in Staining.

Dr. Shattuck, head of the forestry department, has prepared an exhibit which is to go to the forest products exhibit held in the Coliseum in Chicago from May 1 to June 9. The exhibit consists of crude and refined distillation products of western yellow pine and red fir, white fir, and tamarack lumber.

Lumber that has been treated by the process devised by Dr. Shattuck in his laboratory becomes very light and easily worked, and takes on a stain, the shade of which can be varied from the natural wood color to a very dark brown. The natural grain of the wood is brought out beautifully by the process.

The material for the display has all been prepared in the forest by-products laboratories at the university. The U. S. bureau of chemistry cooperates in the work, and the Western Pine Manufacturers' association furnished the lumber for the display and paid for the finishing of the specimens. This is the only forest school in the country that has been asked to send an exhibit. After the exhibition is closed in Chicago it will be removed to New York City and will be on display there until Sept. 1.

MISS FRENCH'S CLASS

"Private Secretary" to be Presented to Public Speakers.

The lovers of good plays have a treat in store for them during the interscholastic meet in May when a modern comedy will be staged under the direction of Miss Percival French. "The Private Secretary," by Charles Hawtrey, will be presented in the university auditorium on Friday evening, May 8th. A strong cast has been chosen, rehearsals are well under way, and all things promise to make the play an unqualified success. The proceeds will go toward defraying the expenses of the high school track teams that are sent to the meet.

"The Private Secretary," a farcical comedy, in three acts, by Charles Hawtrey, is one of the best plays of recent years, dealing with humorous situations and characters. Since it appeared it has enjoyed an unusual success, and each time it is presented it proves more popular. It was originally produced at the Theatre Royal, Cambridge, Nov. 1887, and afterwards performed at Prince's Theatre in London, March, 1894.

This delightful little comedy is an amusing sketch of English contemporary life. One is strongly reminded of Shakespeare's "Comedy of Errors," or Goldsmith's "She Stoops to Conquer," for the mistakes and entanglements which confront the real and the disguised private secretary of Mr. Marshland are just as mirth-provoking. As in Pinero's plays, there is action and movement from start to finish, and at every turn there is some new and surprising development. The situations are ludicrous in the extreme, and the characters are distinct and individual.

The whole situation hinges upon the odd insistence of old Mr. Gattermole that his nephew Douglas sow his wild oats. The uncle has never seen the young fellow, and in doing his best to carry out the old fellow's wish, Douglas simply turns his own world and that of his friends upside down, falls in love, and poses as a private secretary to keep things lively and to avoid his creditors.

The cast has been carefully picked, and many of those who will take part are already popular with university people as amateur actors. A number have been in plays presented this winter by the English club, and several are from the class in reading and interpretation under Miss French. The fact that Miss French is coaching and directing the play assures its success in advance, and everyone may anticipate an artistic performance by a well drilled cast. No effort is being spared to make this last university play production of the year a success.

The university students are especially urged to be present, for not only are they assured of a very pleasant and profitable evening, but the proceeds will be used to help defray the expenses of the high school track meet here. This meet means much to the University of Idaho, for it gives an opportunity to show representatives of the Idaho high school just what we have. The expenses are naturally heavy, and every student is asked to do his part by attending the presentation of "The Private Secretary." Remember the date, May 8th.

The cast is as follows:
Mr. Marsland, M. F. H. Mr. McDowell,
Harry Mahlsland (his nephew).....
.....Carl Melugin
Mr. Cattermole..... Stephen Regan

Douglas Cattermole (his nephew).....
.....Charles Crump
Rev. Robt. Spalding..... Arthur Lyon
Mr. Sydney Gibson (Tailor of.....
Bond Street)..... Harry Einhouse
Edith Marsland..... Miss Bertha Olson
Eva Webster..... Lillian Carithers
Mrs. Stead (Douglas' landlady).....
.....Miss Gertrude Denecke
Miss Ashford..... Miss Marguerite Linn

Naval Toast.

Come, fill up the glasses with harmless clam broth,

Or anything else that wont bubble or froth,
Such as kumys or zoolak, plain water or tea,
And welcome J. Daniels with thirty time three
Then fill up the beakers with butter-milk thick
Or any old thing that is minus a "kick."
Put soup in the punch bowl and milk in the stein,
And welcome J. Daniels with ninety times nine!

JUDGE McCUTCHEON DELIVERS LECTURES

FORMER DEAN OF LAW SCHOOL IS DISCUSSING EARLY IDAHO WITH LAW STUDENTS.

Relates Many Interesting Incidents
Connected With History of Old Governors.

In the back ground of the picture of the early laws and government of the territory of Idaho, may be seen the romantic life of the pioneers, in their struggle towards civilization. The roughness of their life, their generosity and freedom are well displayed in the laws and resolutions they made for their government.

Judge McCutcheon, former dean of the law school is delivering a series of interesting lectures before the Idaho law school. The judge related many of the eccentricities of Idaho's second territorial governor, Mr. Kaleb Lyons of Lyonsdale. It seems that the one-time governor committed an unpardonable sin of donning a white shirt once in a great while, and that he possessed a "dress suit." In speech, Mr. Lyon was very rhetorical. In a letter to a friend just after the civil war, he wrote: "The temple of war is closed. No more shall the iron-mouthed and brazen throated cannon peal forth dread miseries over half a thousand battlefields, where sleep their last sleep, victors and vanquished. No more shall the ear of night be pierced with the echoes of fierce assault . . . etc."

Until 1886 there was no law in Idaho by which a criminal could be punished. The sale of "Arden Spirits" was prohibited. One of the courts was designated at Lat-tah and this name has been contracted into Latah.

In one session of the house of representatives was sent a resolution to the governor asking him if he had or would veto a certain bill, "as this house was in doubt on the matter."

In those early days every merchant had to pay a license to sell goods, wares, and merchandise. "Nigger" minstrels and theatricals were licensed, and paid a handsome fee.

Among the first work of many of these legislatures was that of granting divorces, changing persons' names, and granting county officers a few weeks or days leave of absence.

The lectures are saturated with humor and enlightening facts about our fathers. They are a vivid account of the days of "real sport."

COLUMBIA BEACH CONFERENCE.

To be Held in June.—Dean Eldridge
One of the Leaders.

The printed announcements of the Annual Northwest Student conference which is held each year at Columbia Beach, Oregon, under the direction of the student department of the Young Men's Christian association, have been received, and contain information that should be of great interest to every Idaho man. The student conference is an intercollegiate event of more than usual importance, and the question of whether the University of Idaho is adequately represented depends entirely on the enthusiasm and determination of her students. Those who have attended the conference feel that the ten days spent there were an integral part of their college course, and that those who do not attend at some time during their college course have an incompleteness, a lack in their experience that is none the less real because it is unrecognized. There should be at least twenty of the three hundred and fifty men in the university who will be able and willing to include June 12 to 21 as a part of their school year.

Idaho students will be glad to know that Dean Eldridge is again to be one of the leaders at the conference. It is pleasant to note how well our dean is appreciated by other people. This appreciation is shown by the fact that there was a perfect attendance in the two groups led by the dean in the 1912 conference.

Gale Seaman, of the international committee, in charge of student work on the Pacific coast, will be at the university some time next month in the interests of the conference. During his visit, the annual Sunday afternoon "Track meet" with W. S. C. will probably be held. The annual election of officers of the Y. M. C. A. will also take place while he is here.

Information concerning the conference may be obtained from George Isaman, Chester Smith or Archie Hawley.

SCENIC ROAD FOR U. AND PUBLIC.

Farm Lands and Campus Buildings to Be Made Easily Visible.

During the coming week the horses of the university will be used building a public highway through the experiment farm. The road will start south and west from the horse barn passing the experiment soil plats and by a series of curves and medium grades climb to the extreme elevation of the university farm on the south central portion of it. At this point the hill road that passes the athletic field will be joined to the new road. The scenic feature is found in the view that can be had of the university buildings, the campus, and the surrounding country from the new road as it climbs the grade to join the road from the south.

This is a feature which will undoubtedly be appreciated by many students and townspeople who heretofore have felt that they were encroaching on private ground.

BACTERIOLOGICAL DEPT. BUSY

People of State Taking Advantage of Nitrifying Bacteria Grown by the Department.

That the people of the state are interested in the work being done at the university is well illustrated in the department of bacteriology. Already this season nitrifying bacteria sufficient to inoculate 2500 acres of leguminous plants, have been sent out to various parts of the state. The cultures are used mostly for red clover and alfalfa, although there have been a number of calls for cultures to inoculate Canada field peas, vetch, beans, alsike clover, and white clover. It is of interest to note that over 100 bottles, sufficient to treat 500 acres of these crops have been sent to Prof. F. F. McConnell, agricultural adviser for Nez Perce county for distribution. In view of the fact that the season has just opened it is expected that there will be a much greater demand for these bacteria than there has been thus far.

MEMBERS OF STATE BOARD EN- JOY COOKING OF JUNIOR GIRLS.

Nine Course Dinner Served in Department Dining Room. Color Scheme of Crimson Effective.

The members of the boards of education and regents of the university, were entertained Wednesday evening, April the twenty-second, by the junior cookery class, in charge of Miss Elizabeth Hays and under the direction of Miss Hyde, at the home economics rooms. The class has been preparing a number of economical home dinners and it was as a fitting termination of this series that the formal nine course dinner was given.

American Beauty roses formed the keynote of the decorations, a glowing mass of them occupying the center of the table while dainty counterparts of originals, products of the facile brush of Miss Mary Brewer, trailed graceful lengths across the menu cards; and the crimson shaded candles enhanced the general color scheme.

Rhodes Scholar in Romance Languages

Dr. Patterson has just received a letter from our latest Rhodes Scholar, Mr. Ralph B. Foster, who took up his work at Oxford this past year. The letter, dated from Paris, where Mr. Foster is spending his vacation in study, runs in part:

"When I left Moscow my intention, as you remember, was to take Jurisprudence at Oxford, but for several reasons I abandoned that idea. I started rather on the Honour School in French. During the vacations—twenty-eight weeks in all during the year—I hope to learn some Italian and Spanish, having missed the great opportunity you offered at Idaho. My French is better than I had even hoped, but I am not making much progress in Paris; too much English here. What do you know about the universities of Grenoble, Geneva, and Lausanne

Sincerely yours,

R. B. FOSTER.

THE QUARTETTE.

Those who like to get something for nothing, those who like to see something given gratis, cannot help thankfully admiring the spirit of service that has prompted the leader and members of the string quartette to perform before the public without pay. Mrs. Hughes has succeeded in organizing an excellent quartette; succeeded in playing some of the most difficult pieces in the whole category of good music; and has succeeded in making a Moscow audience applaud.

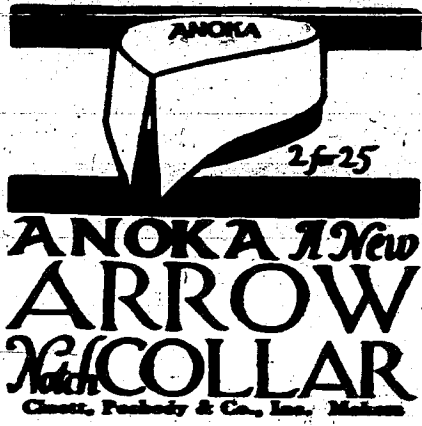

The series of chamber music recitals given by the quartette is now ended and the quartette deserves the sincere gratitude of the whole music loving public.

Such presentations as these cost the directors much time and worry, not to mention the money. Prof. Storer is working long and faithfully that his presentation of the "Mikado" will please his audience. He has spent much of his own money to make Idaho's standard high. For so far as theatrical functions and functionaries are concerned, Idaho, despite the splendid new auditorium, is almost penniless. And it is only through the willingness of whole-souled people to do something for nothing that we are able to see even amateur performances. When these performances are staged every one who knows about them should be there. Your presence helps.

We regret that Mrs. Hughes could not have taken the quartette to some of the cities and towns in Idaho to show them what we are able to teach about chamber music. We are sorry that Mr. Storer could not have taken a glee club on a tour through the state to advertise our department of vocal music. Idaho is yearly losing students because the colleges of Oregon and Washington are bringing their best musical talent into our towns and thus advertising the advantages they have to offer students of Idaho while Idaho looks on in "silent uncommunicative muteness of fishes."

OPPORTUNITY AND REGRET.

Next year we will have at least two new members in the English faculty. This fact seems to furnish an excellent opportunity to get a debate coach. "I would like to see debating handled by the English department, and credit in English given for debate work," said Prof. Robinson who now has the duty of training our teams. "All other colleges have their debate work managed by the English department," said Prof. Hulme who has been coaching Idaho's teams for several years. And it appears that debate is not in itself of enough importance to justify hiring a separate instructor to handle it; so let us hope that we may get a man prepared to coach debate in one of the new members of the English faculty.

In the resignation of Mr. Lehman many students, especially those who have been interested in amateur dramatics, experience a great loss. During his stay at the university, Mr. Lehman has been continually, almost continually, connected with play-presentations. Besides acting in some of the most important performances, he has coached, without pay of any nature whatsoever, the plays put on by classes and clubs. He has for the love he had for the work given more time and energy than perhaps any other man in the university, to work not covered by his salary. The gratitude and best wishes of the students go with him.

Dr. Moore will return after a year's absence. She too will be missed by those who are fond of the drama, especially Shakespearean drama. During her absence she will study in Europe.

CUTTING CLASSES.

There has been enough said on this subject of cutting classes already. But the cutting goes on just the same. In fact there seems to be an increase in the number of absentees from the recitation rooms as the summer advances. This is perhaps the most aggravating thing with which the instructor has to deal. Students who can do good work, who, in fact do do good work, frequently have very low grades because they fail to attend classes. If the instructor has a sign of any temper that is the quickest way to find it out. So if you are in bad with the faculty and think that they have not sufficient cause for complaint against your conduct, just cut a few classes and furnish the needed excuse for your being flunked.

But let us be fair. There are at least a few cases in the history of the present year in which the faculty man has provoked the cutting of which he, or at least his colleagues, have later complained. Some faculty people have a sort of habit of waiting till the last bell has rung before they begin to wander toward the class room. Thus the students with nothing but spring-time preparation, are given an excellent opportunity to "beat it" and blame their absence to the sloth of the instructor.

TREES ENOUGH!

Arbor day in the state of Idaho has come and gone again, and there is not an extra tree on the campus of the university. Some time ago we published a letter written to the seniors by one of the horticulture faculty in which the writer urged the seniors to plant a tree. We have heard no more about it but have not ceased to hope that his words did not pass the four-year people unnoticed. Why not mention this in the next student assembly? Why not go ahead and plant the trees? Or is it a fact that no one wants to see the trees planted? Our campus, as described by the poets in the catalogues and boosters' magazines, is indeed a beautiful place. As it is remembered by the students who have lived on it, it is less beautiful; there is no gainsaying it. So if we are to save the poets from the charge of falsehood we'll have to plant the trees, and plant them soon.

TOO MUCH WORK FOR THE BOARD.

A disagreeable feature of the visit of the board last week was the evident lack of time in which to transact business. Long hour sessions were the usual order while a consultation with a member of the board was not to be considered.

Admitted that there is a large volume of business requiring attention, the members have not the time to spare from their regular business, the legislature should appropriate sufficient funds that would allow every man to give his unlimited time to the work.

That some of the rush and hurry so noticeable this year will be eliminated next year is the belief of commissioner Sisson, who said: "The sessions of the state board will hereafter in all probability be much shorter than the present session has been. More of the work in the future can, we hope, be done by the committees in charge of the various institutions, having no detail matters whatever to be handled by the full board."

Some men think that they are "a moose" when they come to college and immediately announce that they are out for "big game." Before long they get "a Charley horse" and go out for "track".

As the school season draws to a close, only the merchants are content to say: "I am my brother's keeper."

STATE BOARD AT ASSEMBLY

MANY WITTY SPEECHES DELIVERED BY MEMBERS OF EDUCATIONAL BOARD AND PREXY.

Dean Carlyle Explains Good Will and Loyalty to Students and Faculty.

The regular assembly of last Wednesday morning lengthened itself into two hours in which the members of the state board of education spread a rare feast of knowledge and good humor before an appreciative audience. All members of the state board were introduced, and most of them briefly addressed the students. It is worthy of emphasis that this was the first student gathering over which President Brannon presided. His wit which enthused and his logic which instructed added to the pleasure of the addresses and made it delightful for the speakers; and the audience, which was large, was not unresponsive, but by deafening applause showed its appreciation of the work and good will of the board.

Music was furnished by the university band and others. The string quartet, under the able direction of Mrs. Hughes, played two highly appreciated pieces. Mr. E. K. Humphries sang a solo in honor of Mr. Rossi, who was unable to be present.

Mr. Bruce of Boise, chairman of the board, was the first speaker. He had little difficulty in getting the audience to understand that the board was striving in every possible way to aid the students and desired their good will and cooperation in that effort. From the amount of applause that followed one would judge that his request was granted.

Mr. Evans of Malad said he wanted the students to understand what the term work is not a burden but a pleasure, and that his own experience had born him out in the fact that work was a pleasure.

The spirited talk of Miss Shepherd, of Boise, state superintendent of public instruction, showed her to be a shepherd, as president Brannon aptly pointed out. Miss Shepherd reminded her hearers of their obligation to the tax payers of the state who support the university. "You are no more intelligent than many of your associates who have not had the privilege of coming here," said the speaker, "and it is to them that you should prepare yourself to give aid."

President Axline of the Albion state normal exhorted the students to harder work and nobler ideals. President Reid of the Academy of Idaho at Pocatello, gave some timely admonitions to the ever-patriotic students, advising them not to lose their heads and rush off to Mexico unless they were really needed. "For the training which you have received at the hands of the state," he said, "it is your duty to pay in skilled service rather than interrupt your course and rush off to the battlefield before you are really needed."

Dr. Edward O. Sisson, state commissioner of education, the man who is heart and soul for making the U. of I. great, occupied the platform a few minutes and made some very encouraging remarks on the future prospects of our university.

President Black of the Lewiston state normal expressed himself as being awe-struck by the almost magical growth of the university since a visit eleven years ago. He compared the university with a dynamo, President Brannon being the magnet which keeps the wires or students sparking with intelligence.

President Brannon asked Dean W. Carlyle to explain how one could so successfully manage an institution like the U. of I. and still be friendly to another administration as he had been to his. Dean Carlyle paid another tribute to the loyalty and go-fellowship of faculty and students. The sustained applause was evidence of the high esteem in which faculty and students hold their former president.

Every one was reluctant when the assembly hour came to an end, and it is not too much to say that the students left the auditorium with the firm conviction that the board of education is exerting every power to further the opportunities and advantages of education both at the university and in the state at large.

ROUGH JOKES

Practical Jokes of Someone Causes Officers Trouble and Embarrassment.

"War is Hell," said General Sherman, but Captains Adams, Stone and Youngs are inclined to think that war itself is less hellish than the ingenuity of some of their alma mater's practical jokers.

The tale runs as follows:

On a certain day when the trouble in Mexico seemed so serious as to require the professional services of at least two regiments of marines, and many brave high school lads and professional patriots all over the land were offering to go down and beard the tamale in its native lair, and to fight, bleed and die for the flag so that they might return as heroes to the land of the free and the home of the brave—in this soul-stirring hour our gallant officers took counsel together with the result that the three mentioned above—as well as Captain Gregory, whose name appears no more in this narrative—telegraphed to the governor of our state that they would go to the front to lead the gallant boys in blue on to victory. In the morning came a reply. Their services were not needed for the present, but the governor passed a peaceful night secure in the knowledge that he had only to call and our heroes would respond.

A day passed and the situation began to look serious. Mexicans were sniping off privates in the streets of Vera Cruz and the Spanish athletes in the unhappy land were reported to be arming with their favorite weapon, the long bow, preparatory to a demonstration against the Gringos. At nightfall a rumor spread that three hundred Americans had lost their lives in the City of Mexico. The hush of expectancy settled over the city. The stage is set.

A messenger boy appears out of the darkness to each of our heroes in turn, bearing a fateful yellow slip.

A moment of agonizing suspense while our patriots borrow sixty cents to pay the charges on the message, then with trembling fingers the envelope is ripped open.

PROF. AXTELL TALKS TENNIS

MORE INTEREST SHOWS THIS YEAR THAN EVER BEFORE.

Tournaments for Cups Given By Davids, Mrs. Hays and Others.

Tennis is waxing more and more popular among us. The old courts were full every sunny afternoon last week and on Saturday the two new courts were finished and immediately occupied. We rejoice in this interest, believing that with the added facilities for this world-wide sport the mass of students have come into their own. The merits of tennis as exercise and recreation should not be overlooked by anyone.

In the first place it needs but two to play it and you can always find someone for an opponent just a little worse—or, possibly, better—than you are. Furthermore, the "dubs" and the "cracks" get about equal exercise and enjoyment, for they work equally hard. Women get healthful recreation from it without injurious effects, but, on the other hand, the game the best players show is far from a woman's diversion. "Bob" Wrenn, former American champion and quarter-back on Harvard's football team said that a five-set championship tennis match was more exhausting than any football game he had been in. Again, and most important of all, once learned it can be played up to the border of old age. Our president's remark that daily exercise ought to be made compulsory for the faculty might well be extended to include every citizen. It is a poor and expensive form of sport to exercise vicariously on the baseball bleachers. But the games adapted to the middle-aged man are very few. Football, baseball and track work are too strenuous. Golf is not lively enough for many, for others it requires too much space and is too expensive. Tennis, without being handicapped by these drawbacks, has the element of a lively contest, which almost everyone craves. Yet if tennis or some other sport equally suitable is not learned in youth, it is very difficult to take it up in middle life with full enjoyment. And, surely, the student who does not exercise after his college days, forgets the only true reason for all athletics and nullifies his former training, however great an athlete he may have been.

One other phase of college tennis deserves a word. So many of the faculty are following the president's suggestion that the tennis court affords a grand opportunity for student and teacher to know each other well. It cements the fellowship existing between them and is a token of the democracy of our university.

So much for tennis as a general recreation. What of intercollegiate matches? Professor Larson and Manager David are preparing a schedule which is more promising than heretofore. On May 2, teams from the Lewiston normal and high school engage in a triangular tournament with us at Lewiston. In connection with the northwest conference track meet a tournament is held at Oregon. And the fifth annual tournament with W. S. C. is set for some day soon in Pullman.

Idaho has won three out of four thus far. Mr. W. E. Wallace, the jeweler, has offered a cup for the men's handicap tournament. The Hays cup, given by Mrs. Samuel Hays of Boise, is the prize for the women. The dates of these tournaments are uncertain yet. The David cup, given by Messrs. Horner and Earl David will be contested for by men during this week. This year it will not be a handicap contest but everyone is eligible and urged to enter. The practice of a match is valuable experience even if no prize is won. This program is a long one but if we are favored with good weather it can be carried out.

In Other Colleges.

Williamette Singers.

The glee club of Williamette University has just returned from a trip down the Columbia and along the coast. The trip was made interesting by seasickness.

California Athletics.

University of California recently won a three-and-a-half hour fast ball game from Stanford. The first great victory since 1912. But Stanford won in a dual track and field meet in which California was victorious in but one event—the 2-mile run.

Co-eds at W. S. C.

The girls who debated for W. S. C. won on both sides of the question of international arbitration. The Washington State college upheld the affirmative against U. of W. and the negative against Whitman at Walla Walla.

Louisiana Civic Club.

A branch of the Inter-collegiate Civic league has just been organized at Louisiana. This league has fifty-nine organizations in as many colleges and has on its advisory board such men as Pres. Lowell of Harvard, Pres. Hadley of Yale, Elihu Root and Seth Low.

South Dakota Freshmen.

According to a proposed freshman ruling at the State College of South Dakota at Brookings, no freshmen will be tolerated in the fussing ranks till November first.

Montana.

A revision of the alumni list has just been completed at Bozeman College. This directory of all graduates supplies information as to residence address, occupation, etc.

The famous Michigan glee club now touring the west are scoring a great success. The club has a membership of 65.

Montana May Consolidate.

"Consolidation of the college at Missoula, the state college at Bezeaman and the state school of mines at Butte may be put to an initiative vote of the people at the election this fall, as a result of a meeting of a number of representative men at the Placer hotel last night.—Weekly Exponent.

O. A. C.

Spring practice in football has begun at Oregon Agricultural college. Ex-captain May lead a number of men out last week for practice in the milder forms of the sport. Practice will continue till vacation begins.

Nevada.

A student body meeting of the University of Nevada was held last week on the bleachers in order to give the frosh a chance to decorate the gym for the glee.

Portland Track Meet.

Five former records were broken at the annual intercollegiate track meet held last week in Portland, under the auspices of Columbia University. Many prominent athletes from Oregon and Washington participated. O. A. C. won first honors in the open events. Holdman of the Multnomah club cleared the bar 12 feet 2 inches in the pole vault thus winning over Bellah a former world champion. New records were made in the 880 and the mile.

The campus committee at W. S. C. is making extensive preparations for the biggest campus day in the history of the school. Some unique features are being planned. The date is set for May 1.

At Ohio.

All gymnasium classes at the Ohio State university are now being held out of doors when the weather permits. These courses are required of all students for one year, and are frequently taken for several years or during the entire course.

All students are obliged to know how to swim, and a swimming instructor is on duty every day at the pool. Tennis will be started soon. This year, the fundamentals and rules of tennis are taught to freshmen with the use of blackboard diagrams in the class rooms.

Louisiana.

A new plan is being tried by the athletic association of the state university. Instead of direct taxation for athletic support, students are given the opportunity of purchasing association season tickets. Attendance to all college games, conference or otherwise, are allowed.

Dean Eldridge has been appointed to the faculty of the Northwest Y. M. C. A. Students' conference at Columbia Beach beginning June 12th.

RECOMMENDATIONS IN PRIVATE LETTERS

LARGER NUMBER OF STUDENTS
WANTED THIS YEAR THAN IN MANY YEARS PAST.

Confidential Letter of Faculty Members to Employers proves to be Great Advantage.

The plan of the faculty in appointing the committee on recommendations is beginning to bear fruit. The committee through its chairman has received a large number of requests for university students to submit applications for high school positions this year than any two or three years together previously.

Requests have come from practically all parts of the state and include notices of vacancies in rural high schools, village high schools, and not a few of the larger high schools; among the latter may be mentioned Pocatello, Caldwell, Gooding, Buhl, Boise, Rathdrum, and Bonners Ferry.

The vacancies include special teachers in home economics, music, commercial subjects, and agriculture; the latter demands being unusually heavy and the supply apparently insufficient. The university has a list of strong candidates for language, for English, history, and foreign language positions and no doubt several schools will avail themselves of these candidates.

The advantage of the new confidential letter from the faculty members directly to the school authorities through the committee on recommendations lies in the fact that the candidates' special qualifications for special positions are emphasized instead of the general letter of recommendation headed, "To whom it may concern."

The weakness of the general letter of recommendation is that it lacks specific information. This plan should encourage university students to specialize in those branches in which they take an especial interest, and in which they expect to teach. The day is rapidly passing when school boards will elect high school teachers who have had no special training in education and particularly in the specific branches which they are engaged to teach.

The following students have received appointments during the last week: Miss Dart, in Lapwai high school, piano and German; Miss Sinclair, in Orofino, assistant in high school; Miss Lessinger, in Gooding, foreign languages; Miss Wayman, in Emmett, English and history; Harry Soulen, in Dillon, Mont., agriculture.

It is gratifying to know that university students are making good in teaching as in other activities. Mr. Tweedy has been reengaged at the Payette high school as principal; Mr. Redeker and Miss Larson have been reelected at Rupert; and in fact wherever university graduates have been employed their qualifications are highly commended.

Mrs. Hulme is pledged to Delta Gamma. She will be initiated an honorary member. When in college Mrs. Hulme was a member of Beta Sigma.

Largely Due to W. S. C.'s Superior

The first game of the conference series of baseball for this season opened up with Idaho and Washington State college going in big league style on the W. S. C. diamond last Friday, when Idaho was defeated by a score of 3 to 1. It was a pitcher's battle between Hartman and Mitchell from the start to the finish with Hartman a shade in the lead. The support behind each team was perfect, both teams getting away without an error. Not a score was made until Idaho game which was played on the local baseball diamond was as fast a game of ball as one would expect to see anywhere. As the day before, it was again a pitchers' battle. This time between Kinnison and Moss and the Idaho giant held his own in good fashion until an unlucky inning in the last part of the game when the visitors slipped over a couple of scores. The pitching of Moss was the sensation of the game, only 28 men facing him in the full nine innings. If that was not a record it was about as close as one could get without establishing a new pace, since 27 men to face the pitcher in nine innings would be the least possible.

The fielding of both teams was nearly perfect. The diamond was in the best of condition, and any fan in the world would certainly have got his money's worth by seeing the game, besides the satisfaction of having stood by a good team. Under these ideal conditions a larger crowd was expected.

The lineup was:

W. S. C. BASEBALL TEAM WHICH HAS DEFEATED IDAHO TWICE.

scored in the seventh inning and was followed by W. S. C. scoring in the same inning. In the eighth inning Mitchell lost control for a few minutes and walked two men. He was replaced by Fry after two men were down and two on bases. Fry failed to pull out of the hole and the remaining scores were made by the farmers which gave them the game by the score of 3 to 1.
