IDAHO DEFEATS AN OLD RIVAL

LAST GAME OF SEASON ENDS IN IDAHO'S FAVOR ON THANKSGIVING DAY

Line Plunges, End Runs and Punts Made Gold and Silver Best Ground Gainers

The old sleep-punch, the everlasting dream-kick that has been dormant in the hands of Coach Griffith's fighting football aggregation all season came out with a vengeance when the bunch went up against the Whitman eleven in a battle put on in Walla Walla Thanksgiving Day. The count was only 7 to 0 in favor of "Pink's" men but bugs who watched the game say that the Silver and Gold scrappers should have slipped over at least three more touchdowns.

The Missionaries complacently swallowed the dream-tablet in the first quarter. An exchange of punts with Captain Phillips getting all the best of it, some line-shattering plunges and scintillating end-circling sprints put the oval on Whitman's 20-yard line and then the Idaho captain shot a pass to Purdy for the touchdown. Bobby Burns kicked goal.

The ministerial horde was completely outclassed during the final three quarters of the struggle and only viciously bad breaks kept Idaho from rolling up a monumental score. Time after time the Silver and Gold backs would tear off 20 and 25 yard runs only to be called back because some vigilant official caught an Idaho man holding. A 25-yard run plus a 15-yard penalty makes a little set-back of 40 yards. This stunt is said to have been pulled off about six times during the contest. Get out your fountain pens and you'll find that Idaho was jolted for about 240 yards. The printer would run out of dashes if we tried to express our sentiments.

SECOND TEAM MEETS DEFEAT

LONG END OF SCORE GOES TO W. S. C. AFTER HARD FOUGHT BATTLE

Durham's Passes Were Accurate and Consistent Ground Gainers

Durham and Hanley of Pullman's gridiron scrubs trimmed Idaho's second team by a score of 27 to 0 November 22 on the fair grounds field. Durham hurled W. S. C.'s passes. Hanley handled them at the receiving end and the score was piled up.

Durham's passes were wonderfully accurate and they caught the Idaho bunch wholly unprepared, the Silver and Gold backs being unable to smear any of them.

The first Pullman touchdown was made soon after the initial kick-off. An Idaho fumble gave the oval to the visitors and three passes and an end run pulled off by Durham sent it over the line. Durham kicked goal.

Amos buttered a Pullman punt a few minutes later and Hanley, W. S. C.'s speedy end, scooped it and hiked for a touchdown. The try for goal was missed.

A long forward pass and Loomis' line buck gave the visitors their third touchdown and Durham booted another goal. The final Pullman score was the result of one of the Durham to Hanley passes. Durham kicked his third goal and the half ended with the count chalked up at 27 to 0.

The Idaho eleven played football in the last two quarters and it marched the ball the length of the field only to lose it on a fumble. Gerlough, Hamilton, and Betty were ripping thru the Pullman line for consistent gains and only fierce luck prevented a score. The battle ended with the ball in

JUDGING TEAM WINS HONORS

SILVER TROPHY AND $25.00 ARE PRIZES CARRIED AWAY BY JUDGING TEAM

G. J. Downing's Able Work in Pre- paring Men for Contest Made Victory Possible

The team of three Horticultural students from the University of Idaho, composed of A. J. Kinnison of Parette, A. L. Johnson of Idaho Falls, and C. H. Hudson of Gooding, won first prize in the apple judging contest at the National Apple show at Spokane. The prize consisted of $25.00 in gold and a silver loving cup. The latter must be won three years in succession before it becomes the permanent property of the Horticultural Department.

The rivalry for first honors is very keen inasmuch as victory for Idaho means victory over W. S. C. The contest this year was the third of its kind and our neighbor school claimed the first two victories. Thus the cup was almost hers when Idaho, like an adverse wind, swept it from her grasp and brought it home rejoicing.

Under the able coaching of G. J. Downing this victory was made possible. Mr. Downing represented Idaho in her first contest two years ago and no doubt the lessons learned there were of valuable aid in coaching the new team.

Our team won by a very small margin for they competed against a very well equipped team from W. S. C. "Idaho men have never competed with a fairer, more gentlemanly, more scholarly team than they met at Spokane," are the words of one of Idaho's representatives.

GRIDIRON GRIST

Round One—Whitman crossed with a punt and Idaho countered. Idaho began a savage attack on Whitman's wind and with short-arm jabs, varied with occasional swings to the side of the head, one of which gave Whitman a cauliflower ear. They fought in Whitman's corner. Idaho finally saw an opening and shot a forward-pass knock-out to the point of the jaw. Whitman hit the mat hard and never stirred as the referee counted ten and raised Idaho's mitt. A tremendous ovation from the assembled multitudes. (Of course, we admit that Whitman came back and stayed three more rounds, but the K. O. was slipped over in the first session.)

But we all know that "Pink's" bat-tlers had it on them. They played against the Missionaries just the same way they played against Montana and against Oregon and the result was never in doubt.

They say that Hank DeWald was playing the game of his life. The brilliant Hoover was unable to get away for any of his usual sensational stuff because Hank made all his tackling hard and sure.

Bobby Burns was ripping off long runs every time he carried the pig-skin. Bob is getting ready for that All-Northwest niche he is going to carve in 1915.

Purdy ran the team in fine shape and made some healthy gains packing the oval himself. The Idaho general is able to prune the reys of some of these star quarters if he gets going right in 1915.

Gigantic Groniger, the lengthy, leg-grabbing, foot-lambasting tackle of the Idaho eleven pulled his place on that mythical, mystical, honorary position known as the All-Northwest team. George Varnell, one of the best known sporting authorities and grid-iron officials in the Northwest handed Groni a job at guard on the team chosen by him. Varnell said that Groniger was altogether too strong a man to be neglected in an All-Northwest selection and, believe us, we heartily concur with the Spokane writer.

Several of "Pink's" warriors pulled positions on the All-Northwest second teams picked by the various critics. Hays, the Idaho center, Brown, the Silver and Gold fullback, and "Baldy" Johnstone, an Idaho guard, all booked second team jobs. Brown, Hays, and Johnstone will all be back next year and they are all going to grab enough gridiron laurels to burden a five-ton truck.

We notice that Coach Bender of W. S. C. is negotiating for a game with Whittier college in California and Whittier is a reform school. Pullman and Whittier! They go together, s'help me, Bob!

ALPHA KAPPA EPSILON DANCE

An informal dance was given Friday evening, November 29, by the Alpha Kappa Epsilon fraternity at the K of P. hall. Thirty couples were present to enjoy the dance. The music was good and the evening passed very pleasantly. Those present were the Misses French, Bailey, Spaulding, Keane, Clamby, Loomis, Carey, Nodle, Leyson, Bowden, Wildenthaler, Wilson, Boland, Frantz, Ashton, McMahon, Wall, Martin, Anderson, Morgan, Morley, McMonigle, Addy, Versteeg, Cornwall, McArthur, Brannon, and Messrs. Brannon, Lehman, Patterson, Gale Cummings, McMillan, Hudson, Leth Fjelsted, Kroh, Cammack, Nuffer, Stillinger, Rae, Waters, Crater, Hallam, Mickelwait, Bowers, Robinson, Thomas, Cramer and Martin. The Misses Thomas and Jones presided over the punch bowl.

Will Represent Idaho at Biennial Con- ference of Northwest Colleges at Spokane This Week

C. E. Favre, the university graduate manager, has been elected as Idaho's student delegate to the big biennial conference of Northwestern colleges to be held at Spokane, December 4 and 5. Arthur Jardine was Favre's rival candidate for the position but the graduate manager was elected by a two to one vote.

Several important questions will be up for discussion at this year's meeting. Probably more important than any of the others will be the question of admitting Gonzaga, Montana, and Wilamette into the Northwest Conference. The effect of W. S. C.'s lack of rating among the universities of the country on conference eligibility rules will be considered and some action will probably be taken in regard to the playing of summer baseball by conference athletes. The regular business of the meeting will also include the arranging of basketball, baseball and football schedules for the ensuing year.

HODGINS

President Brannon, and Professors Robb and Shattuck, left Tuesday for Twin Falls to attend the State Pure Seed Convention and Seed Show. Pres. Brannon will speak on the subject of "Physiological Processes Connected with Seed Germination." Prof. Robb and Dr. Shattuck will also address the convention on questions of crop production. In this way the University tries to make its importance felt in different parts of the state. The Agricultural school, especially, endeavors to co-operate with the farmers thruout the state in the attempt to improve and enlarge the crop productions of the state.

The meeting this week at Twin Falls will be one of vital importance to every farmer in Idaho and some of the greatest seed experts will discuss questions of special value. Among the speakers are Dr. Orton, a national representative of the Agricultural Department, and Dr. Wisdo, who is president of the State Agricultural School of Utah.

CONCERT GIVEN ASSEMBLY HOUR

CHANGE IN PROGRAMMES AT ASSEMBLY ADDS TO INTEREST AND ATTENDANCE

Students of Music Prove Good Entertainers by Giving Well Chosen Programme

The Assembly hour last week was devoted to a concert given by the students. It seemed to be a very pleasing innovation, and the announcement by the chairman of the Assembly Committee that there are to be several more such "Musical Mornings" in the course of the college year is a welcome one. While we have no students who come here to specialize in music, while the musical studies of those students who are receiving instruction in music at the University form a very small part of their college work, yet it is gratifying to note that there is considerable musical talent among our students and the Assembly Committee is to be commended for its intention to give the University ample opportunity to hear the student musicians.

The concert was opened with a selection by the band. The college band is larger and better this year than ever before. Under the able leadership of Mr. Edward J. Carey it plays with something of confidence, precision, and finish of a professional band. The attack is sharp and the shading is well considered and accomplished smoothly. The make-up of the band is unusually satisfactory for a college, no larger than ours situated in a state that possesses no large towns where boys may find experience in playing in good bands. The single saxophone player, unfortunately, was not able to play with the band at this performance. The saxophone is the most characteristic instrument of the military bands of continental Europe. It adds a very pleasing quality to the general tone of the band. It is hoped that we may be able to produce several other players of that instrument. At present, too, the band is without a baritone; and we have no euphonium. With the addition of several of these instruments the variety and the richness of the tone of the band would be greatly increased. These instruments are not difficult to learn; they are far easier to master than the instruments that lend the characteristic quality to a reed band. It is to be hoped that the University will soon be able to purchase a number of such instruments, and that some of our musical freshmen may be put to learn them. Certainly we should do all that we can to encourage its leader. For an encore the band played Yadrer's lovely Spanish melody, "La Paloma."

The second number was a vocal solo, "Come Unto Him," from the oratorio "The Messiah." It was sung by Miss Maud Williams and accompanied by the string quartet. Miss Williams has a pleasing soprano voice, and she sang the selection in the proper spirit of reverence. The accompaniment of strings was most effective. Miss Williams bowed her acknowledgement of the applause that rewarded her singing but declined to give another song. Perhaps she declined to sing again because no other religious number with an accompaniment of strings was ready and a secular number with piano accompaniment would have been incongruous.

It is an excellent reason, and yet it established a precedent of no encores for the remainder of the program.

Miss Jennie Peterson played one of Chopin's beautiful waltzes with lightness of touch and delicacy of feeling. The Polish composer was the most pianistic of all composers for the piano, and his compositions are always gratifying to hear and to play. His waltzes display his characteristic alternation of moods, now gay and now sad.

For his solo on the violincello Mr. Russell Cunningham chose an old-time favorite, Gounod's charming cradle song, "Sing, Smile, Slumber." It is a beautiful little song, with its lulling rhythm and delicate runs, and Mr. Cunningham played with an appreciation of its gentle grace. A little more confidence, a little broader tone, the rich 'celle tone that is so like the true and rare contralto voice, and he will be one of our most effective players.

For her two vocal solos, Miss Evelyn Cox, a new singer who comes to us with a well-placed, well-trained voice, chose Cadman's fine song "From the Land of the Sky-Blue Water" and Guy d'Hardelot's effective "I Hid My Love." The first song is one of the most notable of recent American songs. It is based upon the elements of Indian music which its composer has incorporated in much of his work. Miss Cox has a high, light soprano; she sings well and with more experience and confidence she will be able to interpret even more effectively such attractive songs as those she selected for her first appearance.

Miss Lottie Works played an "Impromptu," by Reinhold, a very melodious composition for the piano, in which she displayed a good singing tone; and for an encore she gave Chaminade's subtle little composition "The Flatterer."

The concert was brought to a close with a third selection by the band, a rousing march, played with vim and decision, that sent the audience away in the best of spirits.

Y. M. C. A. PLANS

Many students have been asking the question: Why doesn't the Y. M. C. A. follow the time-honored custom of having meetings Sunday afternoon on the campus? To this question we reply that the meetings have not been supported by a sufficiently large number of students to justify their continuance. There may be some very good reasons why some students should not be present at these meetings. Many students who go to church and Sunday school desire Sunday afternoon for visiting friends, or enjoying other means of recreation which are not possible at other times. Idaho has no unique experience in this respect. Other schools are discontinuing this feature of association activity. But now we face the question of what we have to offer as a substitute.

In a recent cabinet meeting the following plan for association meetings outlined by the general secretary, was adopted. The plan is to secure in the various churches one Sunday in each month at the hour of the various Christian Endeavor and Epworth League societies of Moscow for the Y. M. C. A. This organization to have charge of these meetings. These meetings are to be conducted simultaneously in the various churches and for all young people of the church and college. Subjects concerning the college man's problems, ideals, and destiny will be presented by college men prepared by a well outlined training course. This plan will have the effect of emphasizing the value of church attendance and loyalty. It will also develop leaders for deputation work. We learn to do by doing. Hence we invite the hearty co-operation of all Christian men in college. In the next issue of the Argonaut the subject, leaders, program and date will be announced.

Y. M. C. A. DEPUTATION WORK

Perhaps one of the best ways our Y. M. C. A. can serve the small towns near here is by means of a well organized and efficiently executed plan of deputation work.

The Y. M. C. A. at Washington State College has such a plan which they will put into operation December 4, when a band of Y. M. C. A. men under the leadership of General Secretary McCurdy go to Albion, Wash, for the week-end. Their schedule is as follows: Friday afternoon, address to high school boys; Friday night, social for all town people; Saturday morning, hikes to the country, led by members of band; Saturday afternoon, visiting among people of town; Saturday night, several short snappy talks on purity and moral integrity; Sunday morning, visiting among Sunday schools and churches; Sunday afternoon, address to men; Sunday night, union church meeting addressed by Secretary Knapp of the Inland Empire Sunday School association. This is the closing service and will be evangelistic. Mr. McCurdy will co-operate with our association in deputation work near Moscow in the near future.

One of the needs that has been most keenly felt by every man receiving instruction in the old building is a suitable place in which to leave his overcoat, hat, etc., during classes.

DEBATE

In October 1913 the students, faculty and trustees of the University will have the privilege of hearing a fiery discussion of one of the leading questions of the day.

The Oregon Agricultural College will come here prepared to set out our own method. It is to me the thing you that our present system is desirable while Mr. Hoff and Mr. Beersman of Idaho will show the necessity of a reform.

presented at the advantages and disadvantages alike are discussed. This gives to a debate just twice the value for the listener can weigh in his own mind the pros and cons as presented and he far more capable of making his decision.

Hearing a debate is of particular advantage to the student who expects to represent his school in such a contest in the future. He may profit by the mistakes made and not he will get some idea of the most desirable methods of outlining debates.

Let us all be there on December 17th. Special music is being provided for the occasion.

THE FOOTBALL SEASON

With one conference game to our credit the present football season came to a close Thanksgiving when Idaho met Whitman at Walk, Walk. This year can not be considered a successful one in football.

We are sure thankful we have no score that approaches the half hundred marks for that effort is little consolation the real test lies in the possibilities for a winning team in 1914.

THE SECOND TEAM

The work of the second team this fall has been to build a base of victory for our own method. It is to me the success of the first team. The second team may have appeared on the scene in the first team but for such a practice.

ORATORICAL LEAGUE TO BE FORMED

PLANS ARE ON FOOT TO CREATE
INTER-COLLEGIATE ORA-
TORICAL LEAGUE

Montana Is Heading the Scheme Which Promises to be Great Success

There is a plan on foot for the organization of an inter-collegiate oratorical league. Montana is heading the scheme and has submitted it to Idaho for ratification. The plan as proposed by Montana is that the U. of Montana, the U. of I. and other colleges unite and form a league which will hold an annual contest; each college being represented by one man; one contest being held at each college; and the league is to last as many years as there are colleges and universities in the league. Each member of the league is to pay the expenses of its own representative.

The above proposition has been discussed by the Debate Council, and some amendments have been proposed by the council. If the proposed changes are made there is little doubt that the U. of I. will become a member of an inter-collegiate oratorical league.

We do not feel that such a movement can be urged too strongly. The need and advisability of such contests as the league would provide for is known to all. Such contests furnish opportunity for the mastering of the powers of persuasion and oratorical influence. Contests of this character will furnish the highest incentive to the development of logical and artistical public speaking, and give the University some powerful exponents in the achievement of her purposes both as members of the student body and as members of her alumni. Taken in connection with the Watkins Oratorical prize contest will be a wholesome stimulation to many students who are ambitious to achieve honors for themselves and their Alma Mater.

Not only do oratorical contests produce school spirit and better oratory but they are productive of stronger types of men and women by developing initiative, personality, self-reliance, power and aggression. Surely such stuff is in great demand both in college and out of college. In all walks of life we see the man with oratorical ability taking the lead. We find these men swaying legislatures, creating public sentiment, winning the cases in the law courts, making the biggest advances in science and literature, occupying the best positions in the universities, in the pulpit, and lifting the clouds of darkness and pushing back farther the boundaries of popular civilization.

Being an orator is not being a "Wind jobber." No greater extreme could be conjured up than the distance that divides the true orator from the quibbler. The purpose of oratory is to prevent quibbling. The practiced orator beautifies and enobles speech. He clothes his words in fine raiment, he makes intricate thoughts clear, emphasizes truth, and makes the unreal real. The true orator, as no one else can, stimulates action, arouses feeling and forces the duller minds to glow with incandescent thought. No man lives truer, nobler, or has so much influence for good as the orator whose voice rings with sincerity.

MEET US AT THE DEBATE DECEMBER 11

Students! If you are glad that you are living, show it by attending the debate at the auditorium Friday night, December 11. For weeks and even months, four men have been skillfully preparing and equipping themselves with wise argument and smart sayings to hurl at opponents on a question which is very near to every citizen, and a question which we are likely to be called upon to solve in full, or in part, in the near future.

This debate will be a mental parley in which much work and interest have been centered, and will prove highly instructive and entertaining to any who are fortunate enough to get a seat in the auditorium on Friday night. No admission fee will be charged, but every member will be expected or required to have "bean" enough to understand a logical, systematic argument, and enthusiasm enough to look wise when any humor is displayed. To be a likely candidate one should have the moral courage to boost for this debate and not shake in his boots if he is accused of any intention of being a spectator at this contest.

I wonder why we are so much more interested in athletic contests than in debate or mental contests? Can it be that we are so stupid that we can not appreciate a sound argument? Can't we face the danger of learning something? Anybody can hog their lungs out at somebody running across the athletic field with a football under his arm but it takes at least enough gray matter to be visible, by a microscope, to comprehend and see the good plays in a mental contest.

Interest in debate has increased this year, and it is believed that we are interested enough in walloping O. A. C. and W. S. C. to give our support in attending this debate. We beat them last year, and beat them bad, and we can do the same thing this year, only a little worse. It would not show very good policy to let them outscore us in debate after letting them beat us so badly in football. Then keep this in mind—Nobody is going to "squak" on you if you come, so your friends need know nothing about it if you should have the gall to sneak off and go to the debate.

BOOK EXHIBIT

On Friday and Saturday, December fourth and fifth, a lone exhibit of new and interesting books will be held in the University Library.

The books have been sent by publishers and dealers so that we may have an opportunity to see the most attractive of their offerings. Many of the books are of unusual intrinsic interest, others are beautiful editions of old favorites, while still others are handsomely made mechanically. Incidentally they offer Christmas suggestions. The books will be returned next week so this is your opportunity to see them.

You are cordially invited to come and to extend the invitation to your friends.

The exhibit will be held from 1 to 5 and from 7 to 9 and Friday and Saturday. On Friday evening at 8 o'clock there will be a short program.

As we are asking the townspeople to be our guests, it is requested that students using the library for regular work will, on these days, use the tables in the center of the room, leaving those near the windows free for the exhibit.

On Saturday night a dinner was given at Ridenbaugh Hall by President Brannon and the university authorities interested, at which the following prominent mining men were the guests of honor—all from Wallace, Idaho: Mr. James F. McCarthy, manager of the Hecla Mining company, and for many years a regent of the University of Idaho; Mr. Harry L. Day, manager of the Federal Mining & Smelting company, and Mr. George H. Wyman, whose flotation process for the recovery and separation of lead and zinc in low grade ores has resulted in large saving of values in the Coeur d'Alenes. Other prominent mine owners and managers who had indicated their intention to attend such a meeting were unexpectedly unable to be present. The dinner was followed by a conference which had for its object to consider the possibility of service of the departments of mining, metallurgy, and geology to the mining industry of the state by means of scientific study of research problems in metallurgy and by plans for the beginning of a geological and mineral survey of the state under the leadership of the university. Covers were laid for thirty, including out-of-town guests, members of the administration staff, professors and engineering students.

President Brannon spoke on the present conference as beginning of many which he hoped would follow, with representatives of the various activities throughout the state, whereby the university should learn the needs of the people engaged in various occupations and the opportunities presented for the university to be of service to them, and by which mutual acquaintance and co-operation between those carrying on the important industry of the state and the university would be secured.

Mr. Day gave the history of the Wyman flotation for the recovery and separation of lead from zinc. It had its origin in a senior thesis in the mining department of the university which attracted the attention of Mr. McCarthy. The authors of the thesis, Messrs. Wyman and Trost, were invited to develop their thesis into a commercial process at the Hercules mine where zinc was becoming troublesome. This line of research was abandoned after a time for the reason that the ore with zinc in combination with the lead finally ran out. Later ore of this nature was re-encountered and Mr. Wyman again went to work on the separation process, finally working out the method known as the Wyman Process. The Federal company at one of its mines this summer spent $100,000 in experimenting on the concentration by flotation process in combination with roasting and magnetic separation, saving from $5000 to $10,000 per month as the result of the experiment.

Mr. Day said that the mining industry is the basic pioneer industry of the state paying the way for the lumbermen, the farmer, etc. The sweeping statement may be made that proiciency in the art of extraction of metal is a measure of the nation's civilization. He said further that there never was a time in the history of the mining industry of the United States more critical than the present. The miners have lost the consideration of the public and of the legislature. Mining is a very peculiar business in that it is about the only indispensable business built on hope. The many losses that are encountered are borne because of the hope for the great reward that may come with success. The tendency at present is to diminish these rewards. Shoshone county furnishes one-third of the lead produced in the United States, and about 10 to 12 per cent of the silver. Only a small percentage of mines are paying properties. There are only 21 dividend-paying mines in Idaho.

Mr. Wyman spoke of his work on flotation processes. He said that the solution of the problem of the separation of lead and zinc from the worthless flangue depends on the principle that gas will attach itself to lead and zinc sulphides and thus float them. At the Hercules mine a device has been developed in which the agitation is done by air and all the working parts are very simple and durable. He spoke of his interest in the work of Dean Shattuck in extracting acid liquor and oils from stumps and the use of such products in flotation processes. He said at one of his new plants, during the month of October, 1150 tons of ore were treated, recovering 322 tons of zinc concentrates, 22 tons of lead concentrates, and a small weight of silver, netting altogether a profit of $5500 for the month's work of the plant.

Prof. Livingstone described the work of the mining course, which was illustrated by a chart. He spoke of his vacation work for the past three summers in mapping the geological and mineral features of certain little known districts of Idaho. He then gave an account of various research problems that have been attacked in the mining department. He spoke of the desirability of the employment of research fellows, and endorsed the suggestion of President Brannon that a small cumulative appropriation be sought from the legislature to begin a geological and mineral survey of the state.

Following Prof. Livingstone's paper there was an interesting discussion of research results and possibilities in connection with mining. The evening was closed by a few appreciative words from William Hunter, representative-elect.

Like all dinners for which Dean French is responsible, this was notable for its delicious menu, its attractive decorations, and the deft service of the university women.

Mr. E. K. Humphries added very much to the pleasure of the evening by generously giving a number of songs. Dean Little was toastmaster.

ORPHEUS CLUB

The Orpheus Club, as might easily be guessed by the name, is a musical club. It is a new organization, its instigation being due to Miss Tuller, head of the piano department. This is certainly a credit to the department and a benefit to those taking piano work. The students are showing their appreciation by entering into the work of the club with great interest. All persons taking piano at the University are members.

The purpose of the club is to create a musical atmosphere by arousing interest in the musicians and music of the past and present. Among the many good results it is guaranteed to completely cure stage fright by frequently having the members take part in informal club recitals.

The first regular meeting which met Friday at Liszt Hall gives promise of a bright career. The club was given its present name and an interesting meeting was planned for next time by way of having roll call answered by a current event in music. For longer reports, each member is requested to be able to report on one certain composer. Arrangements were also made for a Holiday Tea, on Dec. 11, at Liszt Hall from 3 to 5:30. Aside from the business Mr. Parmalee played a couple of violin selections, accompanied by Miss Tuller, which were delightful.

The officers of the Orpheus Club are: Jennie Peterson, president; Norma Martin, vice president, Lesley Williams, secretary and Eleanor Brannon, treasurer.

FROM OTHER COLLEGES

University of Maine

Over one-fourth of the students at the university are depending solely on their own efforts to pay their way thru college. This data has been collected at Maine the last two years by sending a list of questions to each of the students. In the college of chemical, mechanical, and electrical engineering 32 per cent of the students earn their own money.

It has been determined that over 50 per cent of the men students earn all the money that they conveniently can. However, a great many of the students earn money only during their vacations.

University of Wisconsin

Addressing the recent governors' conference at Madison, President C. R. Van Hise of the University of Wisconsin denied that the institution is engaged in politics. He said in part: "In Wisconsin the relation of the State University to the state has been a subject of frequent discussion. It is one concerning which misconception has arisen due to lack of clear thinking. It has been repeatedly stated that the University of Wisconsin is in politics. During the campaign just closed this charge has been ignored by the University; but now that the elections are over and participation in the discussion can in no way be regarded as participation in politics, I shall consider the principles involved in this case since a similar situation is bound to arise in those states of the country where there are state universities."

University of Washington

A force of men are at work on the university campus repairing the damage done by the wind storm a few days ago. The wind attained a maximum velocity of sixty-four miles an hour. Many trees were uprooted and several house-boats on the lake were torn from their moorings. The roof of the grandstand was ripped off by the force of the wind.

The faculty of the university recently snowed under the recommendation of the student affairs committee which favored the holding of a freshmen-sophomore tie-up.

Acting on the belief that the tie-up as planned by the Oval club and Senior council would be in the nature of a concession to the classes for recent campus escapades conducted for the past two weeks in violation of the university rules, the faculty refused to consider the plan at all.

University of Oregon

Prof. Allen of the university faculty has started a journalistic museum. Various articles of newspaper interest which he has been collecting the past few years are exhibited in a case.

University of Montana

The students of the university are jubilant over the fact that the football team of the institution has just completed the most successful season in football ever enjoyed by the state institution. On Thanksgiving the team gave Gonzaga their worst beating of the season by a score of nineteen to nothing.

There is such a possibility that we will have to meet Montana in a conference game next year since they, together with Gonzaga and Willamette are making application to the conference for admission.

Pamphlets bearing upon the European war and containing all official documents relative to the war have been distributed to members of the student body.

University of Texas

A cafeteria has recently been established in the university and from results obtained is proving very successful. An average of eight hundred are served meals every day.

University of Mississippi

The medical course at the state institute is now open to all students of the university free.

Princeton

All freshmen of the university are required to know all the university songs by the Thanksgiving holidays.

Freshman Play Postponed

The Freshman play to be given Dec. 5th has been postponed until after the holidays. Bob Stubs, who was taking an important part, was injured in an automobile accident and the date of the play has been postponed until he will be able to assume his role.

Miss Lorraine Selby, who has been coaching the "Spreading the News" is getting this play into fine shape. Miss Selby has had much experience in this work, and has been devoting much of her time in getting this play into shape. Mr. Collins and Miss Breshear are coaching "The Land of Heart's Desire" and "The Rising of the Moon."

In giving these plays the Freshmen have started something that should be followed by them in coming classes. They ought to deserve much credit for being the first Freshman class in the University who ever attempted such a task.

Remember

that on Friday December 11, from 3 to 5:30 p. m. a reception and tea will be given at Liszt Hall. Come!

FAREWELL TO THREE

And now it develops that our erstwhile guest, Mister Ryan, the much admired master of the maxixe, has turkey-trotted out of town in a very uncerimonious manner, taking with him all of his hard-earned money and a generous share of money that was hard-earned by other parties. If this be true we hope the toe artist will again come to Moscow only under different auspices. All the excitement being over, the gym. classes can once more pursue the even tenor of their way.

PROF. GAIL GIVES LECTURE

Prof. Gail's lecture to the Forestry Club Monday evening was well attended, not only by members of the club, but also by other students and town people. Prof. Gail has spent several summers studying the plant and forest conditions in the Rocky mountains and the plains region to the east of them, and was able to give many interesting facts from his own experience and observation.

Taking Pikes Peak as a type he explained how it was possible, in a mountainous region, to find the same zones of vegetation within a space of a few miles that one would pass thru in going from the temperate to the arctic regions. He described the types of vegetation occurring in each of the zones and illustrated their characteristics with slides made from his own photographs.
