BASKETBALL TEAM RETURNS FROM TRIP

IDAHO WINS FROM O. A. C. IN FAST GAME

Season Closes With W. S. C. Game on Wednesday

The Idaho basket ball team returned from its long trip Sunday, after having played five games, four of which were lost to the other team, and one was taken from O. A. C. which is one of the strongest teams in the conference. The game with Washington was taken by that team with a easy score. The one with Oregon was hard and rough, that team being the roughest team in the conference. The O. A. C. game was taken by the Idaho team by a score of 20 to 19, and Whitman took both of the games that were played on that floor, the last of the two however, was a tie at the close of the regular time, and in the last five minutes of playoff, the Whitman team succeeded in chalking up eight points to Idaho's none, thus giving them the game by a score of 28 to 20. The team returned well worn out and did not get a chance to rest up before the game with Pullman, so that they were in poor condition for those games, while the other team was in the best of condition.

Idaho sluffed off the last two basket ball games of the season to her old rival the farmers across the line in two hard-fought games on Tuesday and Wednesday evening of this week. Despite the fact that Idaho had just returned from a hard trip and most of the players were in no condition for playing, and the fact that W. S. C. has one of the two fastest teams in the conference, Idaho put up a hard fight in the second and last game of the season and the visitors streak of luck on long goals was all that saved her from her first defeat for the season. The score at the close of the first half was 13 to 12, with the farmers leading, and at the close of the game they were six points to the good, the score closing at 29 to 23.

For Idaho Keane was the star of the game. He dropped in three field goals and played the floor in All-Northwest style. Gray showed his usual class, featuring the game as usual by converting seven out of eight free trials into scores. During the season Gray has chalked up 102 points out of free throws, having had but 136 trials. In the last game he slipped in two field goals to add to his credit. Martinson at center, had the jump on Glover all the time and showed himself to be easily a better man all the way around.

For the farmers Hildebrand and Bohler were the stars. Hildebrand made five field goals, most of which were made from long throws. Both of these men are fast, and it proved to be dangerous to let either of them get a shot at the ring, no matter what the angle or distance.

The lineup on the home floor:

Idaho (23)	W. S. C. (29)
Gray	Anderson
Hyde	Hildebrand

Martinson	C.	Glover
Keane	G.	Moss
Jardine	G.	Bohler

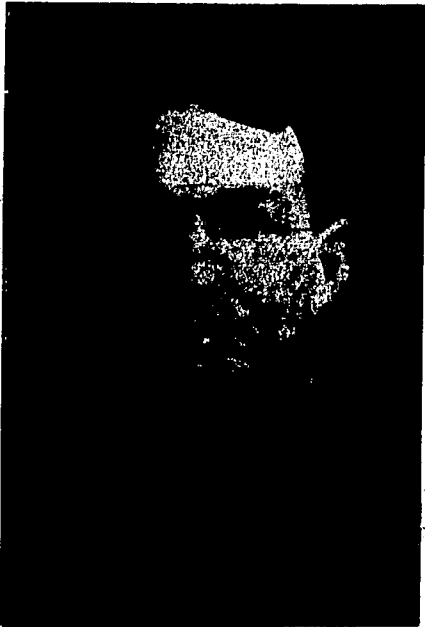

Substitutions—Kinnison for Keane. Idaho scoring: Field goals—Gray 2, Hyde 1, Keane 3, Jardine 2; free throws, Gray 7.

W. S. C. scoring: Field goals—Hildebrand 5, Glover 3, Moss 1, Bohler 3.

Referee; Hinderman of Spokane.

DR. WEATHERFORD COMING

Dr. W. D. Weatherford, who has been secured to address the men of the University of Idaho, comes highly recommended as a great leader of men. During his thirteen years' service as student secretary for the South, he has met thousands of students and understands them thoroly. He is perhaps the best man the Y. M. C. A. could secure to address the men on great moral and religious subjects.

As an educator he is organizer of the Southern Summer Schools for Christian workers, dean of the Student Secretaries' Training School and corresponding secretary of the United State Bureau of Education, having been appointed to the latter position by Mr. P. P. Claxton, commissioner of education.

Dr. Weatherford will speak to men in the Auditorium, March 9, 10, and 11 at 6:45. This is one of the great events of the academic year. All men are urged to keep these three evenings clear from other engagements.

PROPOSED AMMENDMENT TO THE A. S. U. I. CONSTITUTION

An act to add Subsection 5 to Section 1 of Article II of the By-Laws of the Constitution of the A. S. U. I., providing for the awarding of "I's" to successful athletes in cross country races.

Article 2. Section 1, Subsections 1, 2, 3, 4, 5. To any member of the association who shall have won first place in any dual intercollegiate cross-country race, second place in any triangular intercollegiate cross-country race, or third place in any conference cross-country race.

President Brannon and his daughters were dinner guests of Delta Gamma last week.

DUAL-DEBATES

NEXT FRIDAY

IDAHO MEETS GONZAGA UNIVERSITY NEXT FRIDAY IN DUAL DEBATES

Gonzaga With Splendid Record Anticipates Two Victories

The dual debate between Gonzaga University and the University of Idaho will take place on Friday night of March 5th. Our affirmative team will meet Gonzaga's negative team here in Moscow, at Varsity Auditorium. This will be the second university forensic contest to take place in Moscow this year. It is also the last opportunity in which the students and townspeople will have, this year, to witness such a contest in Moscow because all subsequent debates in which the U. of I. is to be a contestant will take place elsewhere. In view of the fact that this is the last debate to be held here, and the fact that it promises to be an extremely interesting contest, a large support from both the student body and the town will be expected.

In this debate just mentioned a deadly clash, and a desperate struggle for victory will be the result. The outcome is questionable. Both of the opposing sides figure on winning. Gonzaga is much encouraged over her notable victories, which were the outcome, so we are told, of some of the best fought battles on the intercollegiate forensic platform that the Northwest has witnessed for some time. Gonzaga is therefore looking forward not only to a Pacific Northwest championship but, as some one has stated, to a Pacific Coast championship. The turn of events as yet would seem to justify the statement. But Idaho, also, has ambitions along the same line. Victory then for either side will mean a well earned victory, and the outcome of a well fought contest.

If we keep these things in mind surely we will not come out to welcome the team of our neighbor university and to support our own team in such disgracefully small numbers as we did last year, on the same occasion. It is time to let people know that we are building up a NEW Idaho Spirit.

The only students who should not come should be those who come after the Auditorium is already full to the overflowing, barring of course those who are actually on their death-bed.

Alvin Beckman, Charles Owens, and Wm. Bockel will represent Idaho in the debate here in Moscow, and will speak in the above named order. Beckman having in addition to his fifteen-minute main speech, a summary of five minutes.

On the same night Idaho's negative team made up of Bertrow Dingle, A. J. Priest, and Melvin Ison, will debate Gonzaga's affirmative team in Spokane.

In both of the debates the speeches will be fifteen minutes. The affirmative in each case being allowed a summary of five minutes.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY APPROPRIATELY CELEBRATED

The students and faculty assembled Monday to commemorate the birth of Washington. An appropriate program was arranged under direction of Dean Geo. D. Ayers.

The program was opened by an overture by the orchestra, followed by the singing of "America" by the assembly. President Brannon stated briefly what we owe to the Father of our Country and that it was proper to gather together to show gratitude to the birth of the man to whom we owe the fact that we can have a University.

J. M. Pond gave a brief sketch of the Life of George Washington, showing that he was a man with habits, faults, and human traits, the same as other people, altho tradition tends to cover up the man and show us only the hero. It is healthful and hopeful, however, to believe in the tradition of great men. Pride in leaders is a good thing for the country.

Dorothy Taylor gave a brief sketch of the Life of Martha Washington, showing her patriotism, her love of home, and husband, her dislike of public life, her throness as a housekeeper. She survived her husband two and one-half years.

Dean Ayers spoke of the divine will which actuated the founding of this country and the one purpose namely, freedom to think and express that regarding the rights of others.

The assembly was closed by the singing of the "Star Spangle Banner."

MY SYMPHONY

To live the law of life, clean of body and mind, without drugs, stimulants or narcotics; to know there is no sin but ignorance, and do my best to remove that ignorance by listening to the wise and instructing the ignorance; to love my brother whom, I have seen, and believe in him as the best evidence of God, who is unseen.

To ask nothing for myself that all cannot have on the same fair and equal term; to be guided by conscience, and try each day to improve my conscience; to use what I earn as wisely as I can, and not fear the morrow; to value friends as the best this world offers; try to be the friend I would have, yet serve truth and righteousness before friends; to live above envy, hate and fear, and try in no way to conquer evil except by good; to pray, by words and deeds, to know that nothing can make me happy or unhappy, but myself, and so live cheerfully and bravely in the day, and, when night comes rest in faith of another tomorrow.—L. M. Powers.

LARGE ATTENDANCE AT MILITARY BALL

PULLMAN VISITORS SHARE EVENING AT THE ANNUAL MILITARY BALL

Decorations Tastefully Planned—Evening Thoroughly Enjoyed

There is a certain air about the Military Ball which no other dance of the year can lay claim to. The severe uniforms give it a picturesque glamor of romance, contrasted with the soft, colored evening gowns of the girls and the profuse red, white, and blue bunting. They make a delightful setting for a dance and everybody with an artistic sense enjoys it—except the Freshman. If he has the courage to come at all, he perspires wildly under a uniform that doesn't fit, fumbles with his funeral white gloves, wondering how soon propriety will allow him to remove them, and sulks thru half of his dances. But he is only a Freshman, with Butl's Manual still heavy upon him, and he adds to the general pleasure of the military none the less because he is grouchy.

Friday night the Military Ball was a thoro success. Loads of evergreen transformed the awkward angles of the Gym, into fresh, spicy-swelling nooks, and a great deal of Fourth o' July bunting made a low, dimly-lighted ceiling in place of the cavernous Gym, top with its ugly apparatus. Somebody with an ingenious mind has hit upon the idea of having the orchestra play on the balcony, where it can not be seen or fallen over in the progress of the dance. I think that the University as a whole might do well to lend a silver loving cup to this ingenious somebody for solving the orchestra difficulty. Friday night the lively strains floated down from the screen of bunting and were thoroly appreciated.

The grand march was led off by Major Carlson and might have been very military and imposing, but the large number of couples made it difficult to execute, and it soon turned into a good old two-step. Almost a third of the crowd was composed of Pullman and townspeople, who seemed to enjoy themselves quite as much as our own U. of I. people. Marie Soulen and Stella Balderson served punch and wafers from a bower of evergreen and, as usual, were kept busy most of the time between dances.

The patrons and patronesses were: Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Shattuck, Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Livingstone, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. Lee, Lieut. and Mrs. F. J. Astermann, Miss French, Miss Stephens, Mrs. Sylverson, and Dr. Brannon.

GAMMA PHI BETA ENTERTAINS DISTINGUISHED GUEST

Mrs. Sylverson of St. Paul, Minn., who is national visiting delegate of Gamma Phi Beta has recently been in Moscow paying her biennial visit to the chapter. Having so many chapters to visit she only allotted three days to each one, and her stay at the University seemed very short. Several nejoyable little parties had been planned for her but were cancelled on account of her work with the chapter which took up the greater part of her time. Thursday and Friday were given over to business conferences with Gamma Phi Beta, Pan-Hellenic, Dr. Brannon and Miss French. Friday night Mrs. Sylverson acted as patroness at the Military Ball.

Saturday at one o'clock a luncheon was given for her at the home of Gamma Phi Beta. The table was decorated in yellow tulle, yellow candles both large and small lighted the table. The centerpiece was of yellow daffodills in a large brass jardiniere. The place cards were simple white ones with little yellow and white flags of Idaho in the corners.

The guests were Mrs. Sylverson, and Mrs. Lewis, Mrs. Truitt, Mrs. Little, our patroness; Mrs. Henderson, Miss French, Dr. Brannon, Eleanor Brannon, Lyda Brannon, and Marie Bonham.

At four o'clock in the afternoon Mrs. Sylverson talked to a Pan-Hellic meeting composed of representatives from all three sororities. She gave many valuable suggestions from the National Pan-Hellenic which will have a lasting impression on every girl at the meeting. Tea and wafers were served by the Gamma Phi Betas.

Mrs. Sylverson left Sunday morning for a visit to Lamba chapter in Seattle. Each and every girl hated to see her leave and each one felt stronger and better for having met her.

NOTICE

The University of Idaho will meet the Gonzaga University next Friday evening in a dual-debate. The debate at Moscow will be held in the Auditorium.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The meeting of the Y. W. C. A. on Wednesday was very interesting. A vocal solo by Miss Williams and a reading by Miss French were the main features of the program. Miss French captivated the girls by her splendid interpretation of "The Source" by Van Dyke.

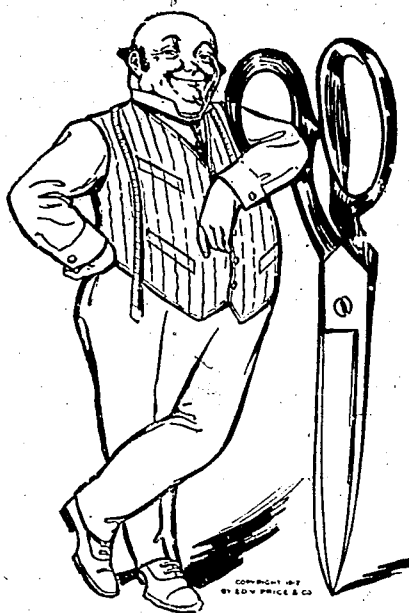

We call you attention once more to the fact that the cabinets of the organizations in the northwestern part of the state will meet in Moscow the 12th, 13th, and 14th of March. Arrangements are being made for entertaining the delegates.

Mrs. Arnold presented a beautiful rocking chair to the rest room. As it is in mission style it corresponds with the rest of the furniture in the room. The girls take this means of extending their thanks to Mrs. Arnold.

DEBATE

Last Friday the institution that Idaho is to meet in the first debates of the present semester, Gonzaga University, inflicted defeats simultaneously upon the University of Montana and the State College of Montana. The subject debated was the abandonment of the Monroe Doctrine. Gonzaga won on both sides of the question. The victory over the University of Montana is a notable one, for last year Montana defeated the University of Utah and three or four other colleges. This year she had high hopes of claiming the debate championship of the Pacific Northwest. But Gonzaga defeated her on her own platform to the tune of 3 to 0.

This looks ominous for Idaho. The eloquent Irishmen and Frenchmen, born orators, who always make up the Gonzaga teams are evidently rapidly becoming skilled in power of refutation and they are already among the most formidable debaters in the colleges of the Northwest. What will be the fate of the six boys to whom Idaho has entrusted her name in debate? Are they working as they should? The question of government ownership and operation of railways, which is to be the subject of the debates on March 19, is a very interesting one. A good crowd should be there to hear the debate.

In speaking of the teams Professor Hulme said: "We have neither stars or veterans with which to meet Gonzaga. In the past Idaho often won a victory by the work of one member of the team that represented her who was a man of unusual ability and much experience in debate. We have neither stars nor veterans now. But our two teams are well balanced. The six men who will meet Gonzaga have studied the question intelligently and faithfully. The affirmative team will frankly assume the burden of proof and endeavor to prove every essential point that the advocates of the proposition can logically be asked to prove. The team hopes to meet the Gonzaga attack upon the case with success. Our negative team, on the other hand, will endeavor to find the weak points in the case of the Gonzaga affirmative team and to demonstrate to the judges and the audience that the proposition has not been proved. There are still several weeks before the debates take place. In that time we hope greatly to improve the work of all our speakers."

The men who will meet Gonzaga on our own platform are Alvin Beckman, Charles Owens, and Will Bockel. Beckman will have the final rebuttal speech. The team that will debate Gonzaga in Spokane is composed of Bert Dingle, A. J. Priest, and Melvin Ison. Four of these six men have never yet taken part in an inter-collegiate debate.

UNIVERSITY CAFETERIA

Some time ago a call was launched for a cafeteria at the University. This was the result of the necessity, on the part of so many, of having to go down town or even across to the other side of Main for their lunches. It was very generally conceded that this plan would be a commendable one and as a result of the great interest manifested in such an enterprise Miss Elsie Nelson (U. of I. '12) was encouraged to take charge.

During the inclement weather the cafeteria was well patronized but since the spring has set in the people seem to think that the cafeteria can take care of itself and "we will march down to the 'city' for our lunches" Do YOU think this is the right attitude to take when the success of this enterprise depends on your support?

Lack of support may in part be due to the fact that a large number of the students have not been instructed as to where or in what manner the lunches have been served. For the benefit of those we will say that the cafeteria is located in the reception room of the Ridenbaugh Hall and that lunches are served there during all week days. You may secure whatever you may wish at reasonable prices. The food is prepared in the best of manner, wholesome and tasteful. Let us lend our efforts in making the enterprise such a splendid success that the cafeteria may be continued and so that the one in charge may be rewarded for the efforts she is putting into the work. We need such a cafeteria on the campus and the only way in which we can hope to have it continued is to give it our loyal support: first by lunching there ourselves and then by encouraging those to lunch there who must now oblige themselves by tramping across to the other side of the 'city' for their lunches. The delicious banquet served by the Gamma Phi Beta last week was prepared by Miss Elsie Nelson who is in charge of the University cafeteria.

Think it over. It needs YOUR support.

UNIVERSITY APPROPRIATIONS

It may seem bold to presume to comment on the work of the Thirteenth Session of the Legislature and it would certainly be little short of rashness to express an opinion on some of the surprises that have recently emanated from Boise. Adverse opinions cause trouble.

Candidly and fairly considered, the Governor's policy of retrenchment in financial affairs was to be expected and is only a logical outcome of Mr. Alexander's promise to reduce taxation. But may it not be questioned whether the radical cutting of much-needed appropriations will result in any great good for the taxpayer. Surely the taxes have been too high but this high rate is not by any manner of means due to excessive appropriations for our educational institutions. Indeed the previous legislatures have displayed marked activity in minimizing the allowances for the educational institutions thruout the state.

Cut out some of the graft and unnecessary expense in the administration of state and county administration and we get nearer a remedy for high taxes. All that the maintenance of the state University costs the taxpayer will not prove a serious burden, Mr. Alexander notwithstanding.

The Governor, in a speech delivered February 13 at Star, a little town in south Idaho, found occasion to touch upon the subject of taxation. During the course of his remarks he represented the cost of the University upkeep as an unnecessary item of extravagance and one of the causes of high taxation. Governor Alexander stated that the annual cost to the state of keeping one student in the University is five hundred dollars per year! And how under the canopy of heaven Mr. Alexander arrived at this startling conclusion is beyond the gift of speculative prophecy. Certainly a little knowledge is a dangerous thing.

The Legislature is asked to give $156,500 for the next biennial or $78,250 per year, which, on the basis of an enrollment of 600 students means that it is costing the state of Idaho a trifle over $130 per students. This amount would be increased to $157 if 100 summer school students were eliminated but even then the latter figure is the lowest to be found in any state university.

We surely hope our constituents in the Legislature are better informed and that the slashing of University appropriations to the extent of $26,700 is at least due to something more substantial than sheer imagination.

GONZAGA DEBATE

Once more the students of the University will have the opportunity of manifesting their interest in forensic work and of supporting those who defend the laurels of Idaho on the rostrum. The men who have been working for many weeks in preparation to win the two debates scheduled with Gonzaga University deserve your loyal support. You may think it is rather "tiresome" to be listening to a debate for over an hour. If so, why? We all agree that a little mental effort is required to follow an argument intelligently. But much less work is required on the part of those who have labored so strenuously to make the arguments, as it were, impregnable.

You may go to basketball games and criticize team work, passing, etc. You may be justified at times in making such criticisms. That we will not discuss at this time. But we want you to come to the debate and try to find any faulty team work, or lack of team work. The debate is scheduled to take place on Friday evening at 8 o'clock in the Auditorium. Last year when the Gonzaga men came here there was only a mere handful at the debate. This year the students should make a desperate effort to be there and show the visitors that we heartily appreciate forensics as well as athletics and that we are right back of that kind of work at our University. Make that your "date" for next Friday evening.

WATKINS MEDAL CONTEST

The Debate Council has recently decided to conduct some time in April the Annual Watkins' Oratorical Contest. The winner of this contest is awarded a gold medal. Those who expect to enter the contest should begin work at once. Watch for full particulars in the next issue. In the meantime, however, don't waste any time.

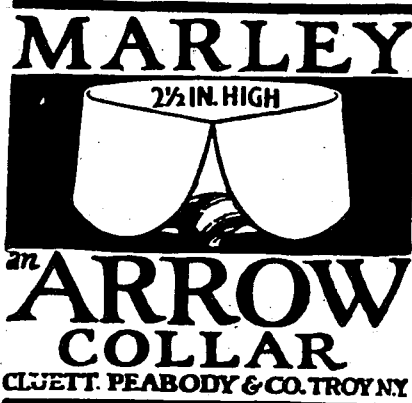

FOUND

A little note was recently found in the contribution box addressed to the editor with particular reference to a "squib" which appeared in the last issue of the Argonaut. It was in the form of a suggestion or criticism questioning the advisability of permitting such "squibs" to be published in the college paper. The note was signed "Interesting Reader" and we appreciate the fact that he was as the "squib" was very small so we are sure he had read the entire paper before he found it. As the suggestion offered was not clear enough we failed to get the full significance of it. We therefore advise and encourage those offering friendly criticisms to sign their names so that we may have a conference and thus lend our united efforts in making our paper what a college paper should by all means be—a representative paper. We invite you to take enough interest to offer some suggestions.

SPEEDING THRU COLLEGE IN A PULLMAN CAR

"We are not getting the kind of men we used to have in your day," said a well-known professor to one of his former students in the class of '83. "Then we used to turn out strong, sturdy men; now we do not know what we are turning out." A little later, another man of reputation in educational matters (who deplored the fun-loving spirit and lack of seriousness among college students, and who believed that the great menace to the usefulness of the modern college was the fraternity and the athletic furor) said: "What the average student today wants is as little discipline and mental labor as possible and as much ease and luxury as generous millionaires are willing to pay for. Everybody wants the luxuries of an education rather than the education itself; wants to travel thru college in a Pullman sleeper."

These views sound a rather pessimistic note, and may in a measure be accounted for by circumstances chiefly local. The first-mentioned critic has been connected with his college for more than thirty years. The college had passed thru financial struggles and is now richly endowed. In its earlier history, the student body was comparatively small, and strong, sturdy, self-sacrificing professors did not then know of the luxury of an adequate salary. They had gotten their education thru much toil and sacrifice, and they were not bent on finding a royal road to knowledge for their students. The scientific apparatus the student had to rely on were his mental resources and hard study. Fraternity life had then touched but a small portion of the student body, and athletics was all the more enjoyable a recreation because it was less scientific and less monopolized by specialists.

With the advent of princely endowments came the thousand and one inevitable educational luxuries which are now quite naturally regarded as necessities. (Lutheran and other denominational colleges, as a rule, are far from having reached this stage, however.) The young man now insists that he must get his education in an up-to-date college, and he wants the luxuries that go with it. When his father tells him that he earned his way thru college by the sweat of his brow, and wrestled with his studies without the help of scientific apparatus, which now takes the place of study and mental exertion, and when he tells that he did not have enough money to wear several suits of Sunday clothes in the week-day, as young men now do, nor time and money enough to attend theaters, fraternity dinners, and go into athletic training for weeks at a time, the answer comes back, "Well, father, times have changed. Do you live in the same house and in the same style your father did? Are you satisfied to be without the luxuries of a warm house from garret to cellar, without gas and electric light, without bathroom and other comforts? Life at college has changed in exactly the same way. We are living in the Twentieth Century."

What is a father going to say in reply? Education follows, along the same lines of progress, (which does not always mean progress) as modern living in general does. Just as there is labor-saving machinery in our industries, so there is labor-saving machinery in education. The youth of today wants an education at the least possible cost of effort and with as much fun and pleasure thrown in as possible. It is the spirit of the age to get an education without paying the price for it the fathers did. But the fact remains, that college education has ceased to be a discipline which makes for healthy, robust, sturdy young men. And this is more the fault of the age than it is of the college. No college can hope to attract a large student body by making discipline and sacrifice the watchwords of its policy. The very fact, that most of our Lutheran colleges have not yielded to the Time-Spirit, and do not have the endowments necessary to compete with wealthy institutions in providing luxuries for the student, has reacted against our church in two ways: It has made it impossible to equip our colleges with the necessary buildings, apparatus, and teaching force, and it has encouraged many of our brightest and most ambitious young men to seek an education elsewhere. The only compensation it has left us is an earnest, serious student body which knows what it goes to college for.

In noting what educators have to say about present-day tendencies, we have long reached the conviction that about half the young men who go thru college are not really educated. They are not educated because they wanted its frills and luxuries, and not its discipline. Education means vastly more than a Pullman car excursion thru a college curriculum. It means manhood—intellectual, moral, spiritual. It means a thirst for knowledge and an intelligent appreciation of its best uses. A young man without a serious purpose in life, without an ideal that is worth striving for, is not a fit subject for a college to waste its resources upon. There is a crying need for a college that has the courage to insist that its business is not to attract students at the expense of its ideals and discipline, but to create an atmosphere in which only serious young men will feel at home.—The Lutheran.

Pianist Locating in Boise Praises Teachers at Home

The music circles of Boise have received an acquisition in the person of Miss Fay Hostetter of Lincoln, Neb., who arrived Sunday to make her home in the city.

Miss Hostetter is well known in the northern part of the state, through her work in the University of Idaho, where she held the chair of professor of pianoforte and theory of music for four years.

Last year Miss Hostetter was given a year's leave of absence to spend abroad in taking special work. The breaking out of the European war, just as she was to sail, caused her to change her plans and instead of going to Europe she spent some months at New York, Chicago and Boston taking special work under Edwin Klahre, a pupil of Liszt, and Joseffy.

Friends in Boise who were conversant with her work urged her to come to the city and open a studio and being specially fond of the state, she was glad to act upon their suggestion.

Miss Hostetter is a graduate of the Boston Conservatory of Music and took post graduate work in 1910.

Speaking of her deferred European trip Miss Hostetter said, "American students go to Europe usually for the prestige which that fact alone gives them, and not because they cannot find fully as good teachers in this country, but I am glad to say that the real worth of the excellent teachers in America is now being recognized and a European trip is not considered necessary to a good musical education. Mr. Klahre is considered as good as the majority of teachers of Europe, for only the specially favored can gain access to the great masters, who limit their pupils to fewer and fewer each year.—Boise Statesman.

HODGINS

TO AMEND BY-LAWS OF A. S. U. I.

The contest shall be known as the Inter-Class Song Contest and Stunt Fest and shall be held on the evening of the day preceding the annual Campus Day.

Each of the regular four-year classes shall be allowed to enter a team, the membership of which shall be selected from the regular roll, of membership of the respective classes as shown by the records in the office of the dean of the University Faculty. The selection of the respective teams shall be made by the respective classes in such manner as such classes shall deem proper.

The evening's program shall be divided into two separate contests; a song contest, and a contest that shall consist of songs and dramatic productions or both.

The song contest shall consist of two songs by each class, the words of which must be original and relate to some phase of college life. Each class must be represented by at least 50 per cent of its members.

Three judges shall be appointed by the President of the University as judges of the Song Contest. Three judges shall base their decision upon the rendering of the songs, with special reference to interpretative power and choral effect. Their decision shall be announced simultaneously with the decision of the judges in the other contest herein.

To the class securing the first place in the song contest shall be awarded the prize of $50, contributed by.....

In the Stunt Contest the performance of each class shall be limited to 20 minutes and shall consist of songs and dramatic productions or either. The words of such songs or dramatic productions shall relate to some phase or phases of college life at the University, the words thereto to be composed by the class or members thereof, presenting the same. The order of presentation on the evening of the contest shall be: Freshman, Sophomores, Juniors, and Seniors.

Each class shall be permitted to select as a coach anyone whom it may desire; Provided, That no class shall be permitted to name as its coach anyone officially connected with any department of the University in which instructions are given in Dramatics or Music.

The winners of the Stunt Fest Contest shall be determined by three judges who shall be chosen as follows: Each class participating in the contest shall be permitted to nominate one person to act as judge; such nomination to be presented to the President of the University at least three days prior to said contest. From the names so presented the said President shall select three to act as judges; Provided, That the President shall be permitted to reject any or all such names so presented and to select in the place thereof such other persons to act as judges as he may desire; Provided Further, That should one or more classes fail to submit names in the manner above set forth the President shall on his own initiative name the judges. Any one over twenty-one years of age, and not a student in the University of Idaho, or not at the time acting as coach of any one of the competing classes, shall be eligible to act as judge.

The name of the winning class of the Stunt Fest each year shall be engraved on an appropriate trophy cup to be purchased by the A. S. U. I. and placed on permanent display in the trophy room of the University.

Each class shall bear the expense of its own performance; Provided, That any general expense incurred in the presentation of the contest shall be borne in equal shares by the classes participating.

JOHN McEVERS,
Chairman A. S. U. I. Committee.

BASKET BALL

To select the star of the Idaho team from scores is, as everyone realizes, a comparatively difficult thing to do. In the first place some players have had greater chances than have others to make the scores. The center who has been playing safety the entire season has played good and, we are safe in saying, excellent ball. But we realize that he had had very little chance if any to work near the goal so we can not conclude that he failed to make good if he has not a large number of field goals to his credit. Likewise, the guard who plays near the opponent's goal has not the chance, nor should we expect that he make as large a number of goals as does the guard that plays the floor or that is at liberty to play more in the territory of his own team's basket.

Then, too, in making a study of the comparative scores, made in a season, we must not overlook the fact that some men have played in more games than have some of the other men on the team.

We are not compiling scores in order to determine just which one of our men played the best ball this season, because we do not believe that scores are always an indication of a man's value to a team so far as team work and filling his place in the machine are concerned. Nor do we claim that the score is not sometimes an index as to the player's value to the team.

The season has closed and we are proud of the work our representatives have done for us. They have played a clean game and have won the victories and taken the defeats in a sportsman-like manner. This is a very commendable feature of inter-collegiate athletics.

Fouls made by Idaho are 136.
Fouls made against Idaho are 138.
Gray made 29 field baskets, 12 fouls, and made 101 out of 137 free throws.
Keane made 17 field goals and was fouled 34 times.

Jardine made 24 field goals and was fouled 46 times.

These men played practically all the time.

Kinnison played less than half of the games and made 7 field goals and 10 fouls.

Hyde played about half of the games and made 6 goals and was fouled 10 times.

Martinson playing center and safety guard was fouled 22 times.

Lommason played only a few games and was fouled 2 times.

Stillinger played only a little while in one game, missed one free throw.

STUDENT JUDGING CONTEST SCHEDULED FOR MARCH 5

The time is near at hand which marks the anniversary of the first Student Judging Contest held in the University. Last year the Agricultural College took a day off and students contested for honors in judging live stock, grain, and butter. Altho the first affair of its kind here, it was a big success in every respect and this year's event promises to be even better. The contest is supervised by and given under the auspices of the Agricultural Club, which is working to make Friday, March 5, a big day.

Those who are eligible to judge must be regularly enrolled agricultural students, long and short course; except those who have represented the school in inter-collegiate judging, or who won a medal in the contest last year. All of these, however, are permitted to judge in any department other than that in which they represented the school or won a medal previously. For instance, if a man judged live stock at Portland or Lewiston last fall, he will not be allowed to enter the live stock contest here, but may enter apple, poultry, grain or butter judging, unless perchance, he has represented the school or won in any of these. Because of this arrangement there will be more incentive for underclassmen to enter and more interest will be shown. The event will be brot to a fitting climax by a banquet on Saturday evening.

A general committee consisting of C. F. Johnson, R. J. Leth, I. A. Hawley, Ezra Fjelsted, A. J. Johnson, and H. E. Lattig have charge of all preparations. They in turn appoint sub-committees to aid in various phases of the work. There are many difficulties with which they must contend, first of all, getting material to judge. Most of the live stock has been pretty well worked over by a majority of the students; apples are not as good nor as plentiful as they were in the fall, and in general exhibits are more difficult to secure. The faculty is giving its hearty support, so this difficulty should be overcome. The second difficulty is getting a systematic, frictionless course of proceeding, Running five contests at once and having all things properly provided for is no small job. Arranging the banquet is the third rub, but Bert Lattig will see that everyone is properly fed.

Women of Leland Stanford University Will Hold Field Meet

The women of Leland University have established a precedent in co-educational institutions in organizing for the purposes of playing baseball and for fencing and rowing. There will be a general women's field meet held sometime in the spring. Much enthusiasm and interest is being taken in the University in regard to these sports and keen competition is expected.

Forensic Fraternity Installed in the Colorado Agricultural College

A chapter of the forensic debating fraternity is being installed in the Colorado Agricultural College.

The membership in the fraternity is limited to students, who have made first or second place in an intercollegiate debate or oratorical contest. There are several degrees conferred on the men who make the fraternity; the highest being on men who have been on three winning debating teams. Their emblem is a key in which are set various jewels denoting their degrees.

Kansas State Agricultural College

Advice from the headquarters of the National Board for Promotion of Rifle Practice in Washington, D. C., to the Kansas A. C. to the effect that they had defeated the University of Idaho in the first intercollegiate shooting contest by a score of 880 to 726.

University of Oregon

The Weatherford Y. M. C. A. meetings will be held March 19, 20, and 21. Fifty-one men representing every fraternity and organization of the college have pledged their support to make the meetings a success. Dr. Weatherford is a member of the International Committee of the Y. M. C. A. and spends most of his time speaking to college men upon their moral, religious and social needs.

Coach Hayward declares that the track prospects of 1915 are brighter than ever. He has forty men already at work and he says that he expects to win another Northwest Championship.

Oregon Agricultural College

According to the O. A. C. barometer, Coach E. J. Stewart has arranged a grand football schedule for next fall. The Oregon Aggies will probably journey to East Lansing, Michigan, where they will meet the Michigan Agricultural College team. The University of Southern California will be taken on at San Francisco about Thanksgiving. They will also play Syracuse University in Portland. Besides these larger colleges they will play Whitman, Idaho, W. S. C., and the U. of O. After this schedule has been carried out we should be able to draw a fair comparison of Eastern and Western football players.

University of Washington

Dr. Frederick E. Bolton, head of the department of education, declares that the system of entrance examinations is entirely out of date. He says that it makes high school students cramming and matriculation at the university a burden. He favors and believes that some kind of a psychological test, as advocated by some, to test the qualifications of students entering for the first time would be an excellent substitute. The real value of such a test would lie in the fact that it would place the student in the line of work for which he is the most suited, instead of allowing him to stumble along in any department when he does not know himself just what he wants.

California

"People should learn that knowledge is not education," is the firm belief of W. A. Merrill, professor of Latin in the University. This is shown by the story now being told to prove his theory.

A citizen of Idaho recently had published a list of twenty-five questions relating to public affairs in the United States and it may have caused many to confess that they could not answer most of them. Professor Merrill was among those who was unable to answer most of the twenty-five but he is not ashamed of his ignorance.

Instead he proposes five additional questions which he claims are of equal value among which are: "How much does President Wilson weigh?" "Who lives at No. 12 Salem street, Boston?" and "Who is the mayor of Tombstone, Arizona?"

Then he asks this question: "When will people learn that knowledge is not education, and that culture does not consist in retaining scraps of knowledge such as learning the English kings and their relation to their predecessors?"

NOTICE

The University of Idaho will meet the Gonzaga University next Friday evening in a dual-debate. The debate at Moscow will be held in the Auditorium.

SIDELIGHTS ON THE MILITARY BALL

"It was a splendid success."

"The music was of the best."

"I was well pleased with the result."

"The best of spirits were in manifestation."

"They all seemed to enjoy the occasion very much."
