GRIDISTS READY TO BATTLE FOR OLD IDAHO

U. OF I. HAS RAPID DEVELOPMENT IN YEAR

NEARLY FIFTY PER CENTUM INCREASE IN NUMBER

Many Students Enroll From All Parts of the State And Country Abroad.

The "bigger than ever year" was assured last week when the largest enrollment in history, with the liveliest, 100 per cent, energy bursting boosters of all time on its lists, started to slide down the ways of the school year of 1919-20. The end of the first week showed an enrollment of about 610 students, against 419 for the last quarter of 1918, 366 for 1917, and 457 for 1916.

The faculty is handling the difficult situation of a fifty per cent increase very well, and work in practically all classes is well under way. Increased appropriations in all departments gives a larger faculty, more equipment, a greater capacity, and a higher standard for all students who may enter the institution.

The new south wing will be ready for occupancy before the opening of the second semester in February, when a general shifting of departments will take place. Changes have been made and others are rapidly nearing completion on the first floor. The President's office will occupy the north corner next to a suite of offices for the Secretary to the President, Dean of the Faculty, and the Bursar's. The English department will remain in the present new location.

Reports come from the Registrar's office: All departments have increased, with the College of Letters and Science making relatively the most gain. This has been the case for several years. The registrations for the various departments are as follows: Letters and Science, 375, Agriculture 79, Engineering 98, Mines, 16, Forestry, 20, and Law, 20. The English department has approximately 520 now registered and more are coming.

The Agricultural College is making many improvements. Extensive work has been done in the central heating plant, and a well is now being drilled. It is hoped that this will furnish the campus with water.

ECONOMICERS RESORT TO FIRE

Use Dirty Pool to Win Over Foresters and Engineers.

Obviously for the purpose of attracting engineer and forestry students to the merits of the economic courses, Professor Lewis burned three reels of roaring, rollicking, raving reels of economic films Monday afternoon in the economic office. With smoke pouring prodigiously from the windows and doors, permeating the entire Ad. building with odiferous odors, women screaming, Frosh and children being trampled underfoot, fire engines clanging and the myriad crowds, smote the scenery with excitement.

Prof. Lewis Explains.

From Professor Lewis himself comes the very improbable story that the films, placed on a radiator, were the victims of spontaneous combustion. Nevertheless, we know how it really was, because it served its purpose—that here was a department where something happened.

NEW MAN IN ZOOLOGY

One of the new instructors engaged for the University for this year is Dr. Richard A. Muttowski, B. A., who will be a most valuable assistant in the Department of Zoology. Dr. Muttowski graduated from St. Lawrence College in 1905. In 1913 he was given the degree of B. A. at the University of Wisconsin, and in 1916 that school conferred upon him the title of Ph. D. In 1916-17 Dr. Muttowski was made instructor of Zoology and Entomology in the University of Missouri, and in the next year occupied the same chair in the Kansas State Agricultural College. The service of his country then took him from his teaching for the next year, during which time he was made an instructor in the Government school for the A. E. F. at Beaune, France.

PREMATURE SCRAPPING STARTS "DIRTY POOL"

FROSH GET WILD HUNCH—EXTRACTED BY SOPH GANGSTERS

Sunday night the Sophs. went forth to post up posters. Dawn showed the posters posted, but the manner of that posting is less known.

A committee of Sophomores began the task at eleven o'clock. Somehow the Frosh. had gotten wind of the affair and went out in force to prevent any action by the Sophs. A tangle was apparently inevitable when the second-year men retreated to the edge of town where they waited for things to quiet down. The retreat was successful except for two casualties sustained by the Sophomores.

Frosh Advance.

The Frosh army then proceeded to the other houses to recruit and also, perhaps, to begin definite offensive action. Their plans were not announced at the time and further investigation has not shown exactly what they were. They phoned to the A. K. E. house and asked that all the Frosh. come out. The phone call was intercepted by a Sophomore, who aroused his classmates. Masquerading as Freshmen, they escaped thru the crowd assembled in the front yard and safely made the town. After this episode the town was gone over a little by the Frosh. Then they disbanded and went home.

Owl Hours Used.

The Sophomores met at the Administration Building at about half past three in the morning. It was a small but resolute group. After a short council of war the party filed down to the Zeta Chi Alpha house. Two men were taken from the sleeping porch and escorted to Paradise Creek where they hit the drink. The A. K. E. house was visited. The Freshmen here proved to be very active. One man made an exit through the back window of the sleeping porch, ran twice around the roof of the house, reentered the house, escaped thru the guard on the stairs and was finally captured almost a block away from the house. These two men were ducked in the tub. This process took up some time so that it was late, or early, before the party started back toward the campus.

K. S. Revives Ritual.

The next house visited was the Kappa Sigma house. The Frosh. of this house had been prominent in the skirmishes of the first part of the night. Two men were found on the third floor, taken to a convenient shower, and given their first baptism of cold water in college. From the Kappa Sigma house the gang moved on up to the Sigma Nu house. The regular two men were dragged out of the sleeping porch and plunged into the tub. The Phi Delta Theta house was next on the program for the evening. The same process was repeated here and went thru without a single hitch. The concluding number of the evening, or morning, was the visit to the Beta Theta Pi house. A pleasing variety was obtained here by taking the men out on the lawn and turning a hose on them. Then the gang broke up.

The Sophomores were forced to admit that 1923 was up and coming when they looked out and saw the mob in their front yard. The class of '22 did valiant service also last night. The contest was hot from midnight till dawn. Only one thing is regretted by both classes—Paradise was dry!

Ambrose Johnson has returned to college after a years service in the army. He is a senior in the Agricultural department.

FOOTBALL MEN THRIVE ON STRENUOUS TRAINING MENU

With the first week of training over Coach W. C. Bleamaster and R. F. Hutchinson, assistant coach, are falling to overly enthuse over Idaho football prospects. "Blea's" big problem and the problem of varsity candidates is to get the team into condition for the first game of the season, October 18, with the University of Oregon at Moscow.

There are good possibilities for a game with Gonzago University at Spokane, Wash., October 11.

Training Hard. For the solution of the conditioner problem the two coaches have brought forth training features such as wind sprints, falling on the ball, work on the dummy, and passing the ball around.

The training schedule is serving not only as an excellent conditioner but the silver and gold football men will know thoroughly the rudiments of football.

Great Backfield.

Idaho offensive drives are likely to be respected and feared in the northwest with such men as "Turk" Gerlough, "Tommy" Thompson, "Gus" Irving, and "Bunt" Breshears. Other backs to be counted on are Boyd Brigham, "Chic" Evans, and Joe Whitcomb, Fred Graff, Cornelison and Dan McDougall.

In "Turk" Gerlough "Blea" has the wisest old football head seen in Idaho football circles for the past several years. Gerlough was picked by Walter Camp as one of the best 100 football players in the United States. "Turk" is recognized as one of the greatest backfield men in the northwest this year. He will be one of the hardest men to stop for when "Turk" starts on a "rare" down the field he runs with his knees high, making tackling far from sure and deucedly unpleasant.

All Northwest Backs.

"Tommy" Thompson, a close to even time man in the 100 yards in in football attire, built right next to the ground, lightning around the ends, and powerful through the line, has twice been selected on the mythical all northwest eleven by the leading football experts.

Neil Irving, an all northwest selection, is the tower of offensive and defensive strength. "Gus" does the 100 in fast time and Idaho followers "calculate" it will take some line to prevent him from making big gains. Irving is the steady, consistent ground gainer, dependable at all times.

Solves Quarterback Problem.

One of the biggest glooms of the beginning season was the absence of a dependable quarterback. With the return of "Bunt" Breshears, one of the biggest problems was solved. Breshears played end and half on the 1916 and 1917 teams where he became recognized as one of the most dependable players and possibly the cleverest passer in the entire conference.

Upon the capable shoulders of Hutchinson will fall the task to a great extent of producing a finished Idaho field general. With "Bunt" for material "Hutch" is likely to come clear with the goods. Breshears is a heavy, foxy player, and dependable passer.

In the other backs "Blea" has experienced men, fast and good line plungers.

"Idaho Fights" Line

In the line Idaho will have big Felix Plestino, former "I" man, probably at center. Plestino will return to college October 1.

Albert Graff, a tower for strength, and letter man, is scheduled for a position at guard. Abe Goff, a sophomore, is showing good possibilities and many have it that the big Colfax, Wash., man is slated for a berth as a regular.

Hibbner, another sophomore, is looking good in practice as a likely linesman.

Perrine Back.

Good old Pat Perrine is back with his same old line smashing tactics. Pat is practically sure of his old place

FIRST ASSEMBLY GREETES FROSH AND OLD TIMERS

The first general assembly of the college year was held Wednesday, September 17, in the Auditorium. After a short address of welcome President Lindley introduced Sergeant James MacPherson, Y. M. C. A. Secretary; O. P. Cockerill, the new dean of the Law School; Colonel E. R. Chrisman, commandant, and Verne E. Clements, president of the A. S. U. I., who spoke briefly.

NEW SECRETARY TAKES CHARGE OF Y. M. C. A.

JAMES McPHERSON COMPLETES PLANS FOR BIGGER AND BETTER COLLEGE ASSOCIATION

The University Y. M. C. A. this year has a new secretary, a live, up to date fellow, a man who is going to do big things for the organization in the coming year, and that man's name is McPherson, who wants to be known to the fellows as "Jim" McPherson. Mr. McPherson comes here direct from the Presidio where he was recently discharged from Uncle Sam's service, having served in the capacity of hospital sergeant for several months in that place. The new secretary graduated from Denison University located at Gradenville, Ohio, in 1917.

Prominent in College.

Just to show what sort of a live wire "Jim" was during his four years in college, it might be well to note the following things which he was directly interested in during his finishing year. The presidency of the Senior class fell to his lot, as did also the high office in the following organizations: The University Y. M. C. A. organization, the Zoology Club, and the honorary Alpha Delta Tau fraternity. Mr. McPherson furthermore was a member of several other fraternal organizations, and was an assistant in the Zoological department of the college. After graduation he immediately took up Y. M. C. A. work during the summer, in the fall accepting a position with the University of Oregon as Y. secretary. During the winter months he left this position with the expectations of obtaining a commission in the aviation service of the United States. The examinations were successfully passed, but his commission was held up because of his not having quite completed his naturalization. He then served in the Sanitary Corps, winning several promotions, and finally was sent to several camps in this country to organize the work in social hygiene and was discharged from the service in San Francisco, August 15, 1919, with the rank of hospital sergeant.

Mr. McPherson seems mighty well pleased with the university and the fellows of it with whom he has come in contact in his short time here. He expects to do some mighty fine work here this winter, and outlines his plans and hopes in the following way:

Has Big Hopes.

"I am mighty well pleased with the spirit of the student body, which bespeaks great things for the whole university. If that same genuine spirit is displayed in the various college activities as was displayed at the Saturday night mix in the gym, so well planned out by the President of the A. S. U. I.; and if all petty partisan politics are completely obliterated because of the greater spirit of Idaho; then there is nothing that will be able to stand up against our football, and our basketball teams, and every other activity which is a part of the university life. It is unfortunate the Y. M. C. A. has lagged in this great developing spirit, and it is its purpose in recognizing the rather feeble attempts made in the past, to now place itself in its true light before the student body; to put itself in that enviable position which it occupies in our largest and finest universities in the country of today.

"In order to do this, it is necessary that its personnel shall be made up of the finest caliber and most thought of men in the whole university. Its ideals are so high that nothing short of this can place it in its true position among the other organizations on the campus. It is a matter of great satisfaction that Idaho has such men in its student body who can and will catch the vision of the Y's true re-

SMOKELESS SMOKER BRINGS U. MEN TOGETHER

Prexy Red Clements Calls His Huskies Together in Hand-Shaking Feast.

Saturday night witnessed the first all-college smoker of the season. All the men of the U. were there with sandwich board dog tags to show they were proud of their father's name. Smith looked at Johnson till he caught Johnson looking at him. Then they shook hands and were formally introduced. "Very simple," said "Red" Clements, "and think of the talk it saved the members of the faculty."

Dr. Lindley Leads Off

In brief address, President Lindley pointed out the duties of the University student body.

"We are all members of the union," he said, "and it is our duty to help run the business of the campus and the University."

The president pointed out that, if we all played the game and did not refuse to chase the ball simply because some one else knocked it, all would go for the betterment of the institution and a greater Idaho.

Prof. Lewis Reads

"A Toast to Father Time," and "A Word to the Newly Come," were the titles of two snappy readings given by Professor H. T. Lewis, head of the department of economics. Under the compulsion of the Kangaroo Court, which had threatened him with a thirty cent fine if he refused to report for action, Professor Lewis spoke for ten minutes. First was a lesson on our college friendships and their value to us. Second was a confidential talk to the Frosh on Sophomore wags and on the value of staying in at night.

Coaches in the Lime Light

After Coach Bleamaster had partially quenched his thirst with eleven glasses of cider he gave a short talk on the value of the side line support to athletics. He said that it was the duty of the student body to work with the coaches in making the men train.

"If we back our men and coaches we can have a winning team," he said. "We have the best material that we have had in the last four years."

Coach Bleamaster's talk was followed by a few words from Coach Hutchinson, who praised our football team and their grit and fight. He finished by saying that he was sure this year's team would not quit without first giving a mighty good account of themselves, if the school stood behind them.

Wyman vs. Blodgett, First Bout

The first tangle of the evening was a three minute round bout between the Boise Dance Hall Pug, Ward Wyman, and Concrete Blodgett. The latter was the undisputed champion of the Snake River League. The first round was fought in the open with one-step time, and wind mill action. No serious damages to either side could be noticed. The second go was still inclined to be one-step time for the Pug but his opponent fenced for time by introducing a left hook with a shimmy movement of its own. This new movement was never fully executed because of repeated bunny hunches. The gong sounded while the contestants were so engaged, and it was time for the third round before Referee McGill could get them untangled. The last heat was a series of loving poses, many hugs, and little action. The Boise Kid seemed to have a little the best of it, but we will agree with McGill that it was a desk heat.

Kearn vs. Kinney

The second battle of the evening was one-third of a scheduled three round bout between a junior representative of the Phi Delta Theta House and a husky Sigma Nu Frosh named Kearn. This was a light breezy spasm with lots of good foot work, and a fair exchange of pokes at the face of each.

This speedy conflict was called off in it's prime owing to the fact that the Freshman Whirlwind had the misfortune of spraining his thumb.

Brown Brothers Meet

A ten minute exhibition match was staged on the mat by the Brown brothers of Boise. Both men are ex-

GREETING

TO THE STUDENTS OF THE UNIVERSITY:

We are glad to welcome you to the University and trust that each of you may have a most profitable and enjoyable year.

The academic year opens with high promise. The enrollment is far beyond previous records. The faculty has received notable additions. There is evident among students and faculty a fine spirit of unity and cooperation. The A. S. U. I. starts with a vigor and enthusiasm which should enlist the cordial and active support of every student. Under excellent leadership, the Y. M. C. A. and the Y. W. C. A. promise to take an important place in the life of the University. With an enlarged and efficient coaching staff, the athletic teams should give an excellent account of themselves.

We can make this the best year in the history of the University—if each of us "does his bit" in classroom and in support of the University enterprises.

Signed,

E. H. Lindley

THE UNIVERSITY ARGONAUT

The Argonaut is the voice of the student body of the University. This year its staff will be made up of a representative group of the student body and its policy therefore will be to give everyone and everything a "square deal." Anyone wishing to put anything in this paper has only to write and sign their article and submit it to some member of the staff.

The objects of this paper are twofold: First to print the news and events of the "U" in a way that will keep the students well informed as to these things. Second: To promote the welfare of the University. This second duty of our paper is a very difficult one in some respects but we mean to attempt it by constant advertisement of our alma mater throughout the state and by criticizing, constructively, the policies and weaknesses of our institution at home. In doing this we will need the active help of the entire University, and if you will "come thru" with your part, we will do our best to do ours and help make Idaho the greatest institution in the West.

College tradition has come to demand the hazing of the Freshmen as a necessary part of college life and the normal youth, contemplating entering college, no doubt looks forward to being hazed with much the same spirit that he looked forward to putting on long trousers.

Some of the upper classes have taken the stand that the Sophomores and Freshmen should be given a period of several weeks in which, unhampered, they might give vent to their mutual aversion. If we do not misunderstand the aforementioned sages they would have us turn the school over to weeks of anarchy. Even in the rather insignificant operations of Sunday night one man was hurt. We fail to see the logic of endangering the physical well-being of the students for the sake of nothing more than tradition.

Several years ago, after a series of unfortunate accidents resulting from hazing, a man whom we have all come to know as one interested in the welfare of the students, offered a substitute for long periods of hazing. This plan has been tried many times during the past few years and found efficient. We fail to hear any reason why the majority of the "rough stuff" should not be eliminated. Two nights should be sufficient time for the Sophomores to show the Freshmen their proper place. Why not adopt the Idaho tradition of the Hulme fight and call it quits?

UNIVERSITY GETS UP GOOD FAIR EXHIBIT

College of Agriculture Arranges Attractive Displays for Latah County Fair

The University of Idaho was well represented in the Latah County Fair held in Moscow during the last week, September 16 to 20. Every department of the University had a display of some kind. The exhibit was planned and arranged by Niel S. Wright, who graduated from the college of agriculture with the class of 1916. The whole exhibit came under the general supervision of E. J. Iddings, Dean of the college of agriculture. Material aid was furnished by the various departments of the school represented in the display. About one hundred feet of wall space was used for the exhibit. This was the largest single display on the grounds. Numerous photographs illustrated the work undertaken by the various departments, while diagrams and maps illustrated the different steps in some of the work.

One of the most attractive and instructive displays was that furnished by the school of forestry. Over thirty varieties of miniature shade trees suitable for cultivation in Idaho were shown, the advantages and disadvantages of each being explained by cards. The idea embodied in this display was to instruct the people of the State in the choice of trees most fitted to the climate and surroundings. Upon ap-

Let's make the Argonaut a real live paper this year. We can do it. Idaho has never had a bigger enrollment than it has now. There is no conceivable reason why the official news organ of the University of Idaho can not be bigger, better, and more peppy than ever before.

Every student should feel that the Argonaut is his or her own paper. Students edit the sheet. Students manage it. Most important of all, they pay the bills. Everyone knows that it is purely a student enterprise. Get right in.

Whenever some little incident occurs which might be amusing or interesting to others, write it up. Put it in the little box or give it to someone connected with the paper. If you lack confidence in your own ability to write it up in a satisfactory manner, give it to one of the reporters or someone equally capable of putting it over. If you hear a good one pulled on some person around the campus, write it up. We want it. We want life, pep, and jazz.

The reporters and assistants on the paper no doubt can put out a good sheet, but if you get behind them by contributing a story every now and then it will do wonders toward making the Argonaut this year a bigger, peppier, and jazzier paper than ever before.

THE STAFF.

plication to the forestry department of the University, these trees will be given free of charge to all residents of the state desiring them.

Another display which attracted wide attention was that of plant pathology, or the study and prevention of plant diseases. Samples of grains and vegetables inflicted with the different diseases of plants were shown. Pamphlets were given out explaining preventive measures for the maladies, and ways of cleansing the seeds before planting. Noxious weeds common in the State were a part of this exhibit.

The horticultural department prepared a tempting display of seasonal fruits, including a display of some fifteen or more varieties of apples. Many of these were some remarkable cross-breed apples grown by the department. Grapes, plums, pears and apricots comprised the remainder of the horticultural show.

The classes in animal husbandry were well represented by an assortment of photographs of the numerous prize winning cattle of the school herd. A large "U. of I." plat about four feet high was made from over a hundred prize ribbons captured by the University stock at some of the largest fairs and livestock shows held in the west during the past few years.

The soils department had several unique displays on hand, one showing the results of experiments carried on during the past six years in crop rotation. Arranged in large glass pots were the results of the experiments carried on along this line.

The second section of the soils display consisted of a large map of the State, ribbons leading out from the various sections of the map to pots of soil taken from the corresponding areas.

A moving demonstration of the ignition system of an automobile or gasoline tractor was the farm engineering department's contribution to the fair, which demonstration attracted a deal of attention from those interested in this line of farming. The school of chemistry had a similar display, a working distillation apparatus, besides many views of the chemical laboratories. The other departments of the school not connected with the college of agriculture all had some displays, consisting mostly of pictures and charts. The home economics division had a small but attractive display, as did also the dairy husbandry classes.

University Stock Exhibit. Some of the thoroughbred stock owned by the University also were shipped to Boise during the week, so that the school will make a good showing in the big fair of the year for Idaho.

MANY NEW FACES IN FACULTY MAKE UP

Thirty New Members Take Positions In Idaho.

There are many additions to the faculty this year, more than in any year since the establishment of the University. Among these are two heads of departments, Miss Katherine Jensen, who will have charge of the Home Economics department, and Dean O. P. Cocherill of the law school. The large increase in the faculty is due partly to several resignations, but mostly to the totally unprecedented increase in the enrollment.

Following is a list of the new faculty members, and the departments they are in:

- S. F. Browne, Assistant Prof. Economics.
- Baker Brownell, Assistant Prof. English.
- C. W. Chenoweth, Assistant Prof. English.
- Wm Chislett, Instructor in English.
- Col. E. R. Crisman, Prof. of Military Science and Tactics and Commandant of Cadets.
- O. P. Cocherill, Dean of the College of Law and Prof. of Law.
- J. H. Cushman, Assistant Prof. English.
- J. W. Dickenson, Instructor in Violin and Orchestra.
- A. W. Fahrnenwald, Instructor in Metallurgy.

E. F. Hutchinson, Assistant Prof. of Physical Education.

Miss Julia D. Ingersoll, Instructor in Romance Languages.

Miss Katherine Jensen, Prof. of Home Economics.

Wilur R. Kidwell, Assistant Prof. of Veterinary Science.

S. J. Kroh, Assistant Prof. of Chemistry.

H. J. Macintire, Prof. of Mechanical Engineering.

T. D. Matthews, Track Coach and Business Manager of Athletics.

G. V. Medici, Instructor in Romance Languages.

E. E. Moore, Storekeeper Assistant in Chemistry.

W. A. Murray, Instructor in Electrical Engineering.

Miss Grace M. Palmer, Instructor in Art.

L. F. Parsons, Executive Secretary.

Miss Mary Paulson, Clerk and Stenog. Agricultural Exper. Station.

Miss Agnes Peterson, General Assistant in Library.

A. J. Priest, Assistant Editor University Press Service.

S. P. Smyth, Assistant Prof. of Poultry Husbandry.

W. D. Steward, Associate Prof. of Agricultural Engineering and Irrigation.

N. F. Thompson, Assistant Prof. of Botany (ad interim).

Miss Irene A. Watson, Assistant Prof. of Physical Education.

A. P. Webb, Assistant Prof. of Civil Engineering.

IDAHO LIVESTOCK WINS AT SPOKANE

Places High in Holstein, Fat Cattle and Jersey Exhibits

University of Idaho purebred livestock won another victory at the Spokane Interstate Fair, when twenty Idaho entries captured prizes—eleven firsts and nine seconds. Dean E. J. Iddings states that the exhibit was one of the largest and best ever representing the University. All the cattle were in excellent condition.

The Grand Champion of Fat Cattle was Roan Lad, a Shorthorn, steer bred and raised on the University farms. Roan Lad took three first prizes: Grand Champion Fat Steer; First Prize Senior two-year-old; and was one of the prize steer herd.

Matador Violet Idaho, a young Holstein bull, also University-bred and raised, took three first prizes, being listed as: Grand Champion Holstein Bull; Junior Champion Holstein Bull, and First Prize Holstein bull-calf.

Both these showings are unusual. In the sheep, prizes were won for pure and cross-bred lambs, also pen and fat wethers.

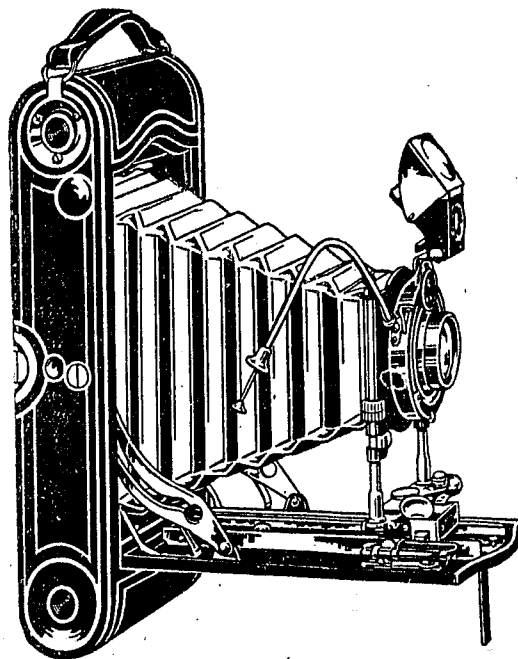

The Grand Champion Bull of Hereford Cattle, University Don, now owned by A. B. Cook of Montana, was bred, raised, and owned by the University Farms until a few months ago.

perienced wrestlers and well scioned in the game. Babe Brown, who is of this year's freshman class, holds the amateur championship of Idaho.

After the Brown brothers had untangled themselves, there was a general rush for the bar, where seven men were kept busy filling glasses with cider. Hothand proved the most interesting pastime for a few minutes till Chief Justice A. J. Priest, of the Kangaroo Court, pounded on the table with an Indian club and demanded order. Assisted by Associate Justice Earl Hunt and "Schlitz" Bartlett, it was finally obtained, and the first prisoner apprehended—Dean O. P. Cocherill of the Law School. "Bunt" Breshears, as prosecuting attorney, indicted the victim with posing as an attorney at law, and unlawfully feloniously, maliciously and willfully practicing law. Under this indictment it was hard to find a counsel for the defense, but Dr. Miller was forcefully employed. The only witness in the case was one John Pete Grindstone, forstrader, and as his evidence was convincing, the sentence was delivered without jury, or defence. Since the only object of the trial was to collect fines, the heavy sum of 44 cents was decreed as the limit allowed by the law.

After some more arrests and fines the lights were turned off, the big "U" illuminated, and the first smokeless smoker for all the university men came to an end with rousing Idaho yells, and the feeling on the part of everyone that he had had a typical Idaho good time.

relationship to the student body and throw their energies into its services. The general policy of the student Y. M. C. A. as outlined by the international commission will not have to be sacrificed one whit to attain this end, if the secretary has any ability in analyzing the make-up of the student personnel of this school. It is not expected, of course that every last student in the university will give his endorsement without reserve to all of the Y. M. C. A.'s policies—it would be an abnormal student body if this were the case; but it is hoped that the men shall feel that through coming in contact with the Y. that whatever task they may give themselves to upon leaving their 'Alma Mater', they shall feel that the spirit of wide world service and selflessness must dominate in no small degree in their relationships with their fellow men. The day of thinking in terms of states is past; the days of speaking in terms of countries is past; we must have our thinking tempered by a world outlook and become in a real sense what Goethe expressed himself as being 'A citizen of the world.'

The secretary at the very outset of his work here gives himself unreservedly to the task of building up a Y. M. C. A. organization that will be without a par in the great northwest; an organization for which the students shall speak with genuine affection when they leave the halls of Idaho, and look back upon the most pleasant associations of life, those belonging to the university student life. Secretary McPherson will be in the Y. hut every day from eight to five o'clock, and wishes that everyone would go right in and make themselves right at home. The Hut is yours!

of knowing themselves thoroughly. This advantage is very important. It alone may give the victory to the Sophomores.

Defies Dope.
It seems then that the two forces are really about evenly matched. Campus prophets hesitate to give the preference to either party. Numbers and strength may outweigh knowledge and experience. So the outcome is problematical. For this reason the contest next Saturday afternoon should be intensely interesting.

DEAN COCKERILL PREDICTS GOOD LAW SCHOOL FUTURE
Dean O. P. Cockerill, the new head of the College of Law, is enthusiastic over the condition of affairs in the law school. He says the case system used is identical with that used in the larger universities of the east, such as Harvard and Yale.

In commenting on the law library Dean Cockerill stated that it was large enough for all the present needs of the department but that it was to be enlarged from time to time until it should rank with the best libraries in the country.

"Students of law at the U. of I. are having a better opportunity than they would have at the larger schools," said Dean Cockerill, "because in the smaller colleges the classes are smaller and therefore more individual attention is given to each student. The great benefit thus derived is obviously of much value to the members of a class."

"The enrollment is unusually large in this department and the prospects are that the law department will continue to be one of the most popular branches of the University."

Henry (Heinie) Christ, member of last June's graduating class, was at the Beta house last week. He has a scholarship for Ames this year and has left to take up his work there.
