BEFORE THE WAR

The Upper-Class Men.

Is not the time ripe for a re-call of the pre-war system of handling student activities? When the majority of the upper-classmen were in the service it was a most proper thing for the under-classmen to be called upon to care for the interests of the student body in general. But now the time is at hand for a change to the old system.

Does this mean that the under-classman is to have no voice in student affairs? No. Never in the history of the University of Idaho has such been the case. But having a voice does not signify that authority of execution is given. To go back to the pre-war system means simply that the under-classmen is not to take the initiative that he has been taking during the last two years. And yet in not taking the initiative he must not go too far from the line of action and be a drone.

The question of determining the breadth of the work that is for the under-classman to do it not a simple one to state. In fact it is impossible to put in so many words just what is to be expected of the younger student. Those of us who have spent two or three years on the campus can recall the measure of our work in student life prior to the war. We were not told what we were to do as under-classmen but rather what we were not to do. We do appreciate what was told us by our upper-classmen and to renew the old practice now means that in another year Idaho will have a more apt and efficient set of workers.

We just had to pat ourselves on the back when we saw this editorial in the Spokesman-Review:

Tagged in the Cause of Good Speech. The students of the University of Idaho have an interesting way of calling attention to campus carelessness in the use of the American language. When an Idaho student becomes lavish with the double negative or the split infinitive, or if he inadvertently lets slip a "yeah" or a "gonna," some keen-eared department of English vigilante steps up and pins a tag on him. If he drops a "g" he is tagged and compelled to stop and pick up the slighted consonant. It is reported that most of U. of I. students are now wearing tags.

This ingenious device for purifying American speech is built on a sound principle. Most people are sloppy in their handling of the spoken vernacular because they do not stop to think. The barbarisms that are hardly ever missing from the average man's conversation are the offspring of carelessness and haste. If tagging the offending speaker will make him realize the sin he is committing, why, then, it is the right thing to tag him.

As to slang there may be some doubt. When slang is used pertinently and with discretion it has merits that it would be useless to deny. But when it takes the form of filling one's talk with vain repetition of hackneyed catch phrases as a substitute for the effort of thinking of legitimate words, down with it!

It may be incidentally said that at the University of Idaho the student has a better chance of learning to speak and write the language correctly than at the average college. English at Idaho is the paramount subject. No student can escape it entirely, and only the exceptionally resourceful can neglect it. This is a good reputation for a university to have.

The University needs a new gymnasium. Even at present the building is greatly inadequate to meet the needs of the scheduled classes to say nothing of meeting the individual needs of the students who wish to use it as time permits.

In a very little time, provision will have to be made to accommodate some of the regular classes in another building. It is not too early now to begin the campaign for a new building for we can readily discern the day when the present gymnasium will be swamped with its load of classes.

Do not be afraid to do a little publicity work for a new building. Every student can bring some influence to bear where it will do some good. Do not put it off by saying, "Oh, well, I won't be here much longer, why should I worry." Remember that you, mister student, are a part of this University and that it should be a part of your creed to aid every worthy object that will contribute to her future greatness. It is history that few men who have instigated the great reforms or have given us the great upbuilding inventions of the past, have received the material benefits from their work and doubtless very few of them expected any great material reward for their efforts. But supposing material gain to themselves had been their object, how many of the great inventions, works of art and immortal literature do you suppose we would be enjoying at the present time? Progress would not have advanced one hundredth of what it has and you, every one of us, would be living under conditions similar to the Feudal days.

Get busy and do a little agitating in a sane and beneficial manner. It doesn't matter if you are leaving this year or next year, the thing that you will personally gain will perhaps mean more to you in later days than to the student who personally enjoys the new gym that we are going to have.

CAMPUS ROOMER

The A. E. F's lost several feet in a treat 'em rough contest in the gym last Tuesday. The program resembled a menu before the defeat of John Barleycorn, but the punch wouldn't have irritated a mud hen.

Despite the infernal machine and the box of garlic that the editor received thru the mail this week, he only became more firm in his purpose to educate the public.

Did you know:
 That Bill Denecke does not believe in the League of Nations or the Fourteen Points?

That Prex Lindley always wears arrow collars so that he can see the point?

That the number of dogs on this campus would furnish sausage enough for the Annual picnic of Retired Brewers of Minneapolis, or sufficient weinies to feed all the Germans in New York for ten days?

That Prof. Reed used bad English but refused to wear the proper citation for such?

That the common bond of sympathy that binds all the University girls together is their mutual admiration for the handsome S. A. E. president?

That Tommie Thompson owns his own dress suit?

That Turk Gerlough does tatting in his spare moments?

That Gene Hart also owns his own soup and fish outfit?

That Red Clements does not approve of marrying on less than $75 a month?

That Charles Darling is writing a book entitled "Quests" and that some of the sub heads are Conquest, Inquest and Bloomquist?

Phil Buck was the cause of a near-stampede when, at the debate trout, thrusting one hand in his tobacco pocket, he cried, "I have now reached the Climax."

Tag is the favorite indoor sport at the U. of I. If the Frosh wouldn't do it for ignorance, the Juniors will for a dollar.

Buy a 1921 Gem of the Mountains! In this volume will appear Jazz Barber's sensational article entitled, "My Five Years in College," also Bunt Breshars' advice on "How to Become a Chicken Fancier," and last but not least, Lew Morris' famous story, "Ten Buckets of Blood," or "A Chinaman's Revenge."

"Why does Lewis arrange all of his classes on the third floor?"

"Because he believes in higher education."

No Mother to Guide Them!

Why is it that the English department insists on wearing Oxfords long after the birds have flew and the snow has snaw?

Upon the issuance of rules of Miss Conduct by the Dean of Women, the Bean of Men reciprocated with the following:

1. Any young man of this institution desiring a date with any young woman of the same must present to the Bean of Men a letter of recommendation from his pastor; his itemized laundry bills, paid up to date; his pool score and birth certificate.

2. Young men who "stag it" to dances are not expected to "stag-ger" home.

3. When saying good bye to a young lady, the young man shall see that the porch light is out. This may save a great deal of catty gossip, and it shows consideration and thoughtfulness on his part.

4. Young men shall be quiet at all times, especially in dress. The Bean does not approve of the tie that blinds.

5. Each fraternity shall have a house poppa who shall see that the boys wear rubbers during the winter, that they do not eat onions before dances and that they forbear from matching pennies on Sunday.

6. Young men shall wipe their feet on an individual mat before entering any sorority house. It is not necessary to remove the shoes to do this.

We always had our suspicions but now we know what they're up to, and poor old Roberts and his Rules of Order had better step lively. Listen to this extract from the High-brow Club minutes: "The President, Miss Mary McKenna, took the chair." Now what in Sam Hill did she do that for? The seating capacity of the Gamma Phi house may be limited, but swiping chairs from the "Y" is bad business.

Another gem from the log book: "The minutes passed uncorrected." That's a way that minutes have. It Dancing was the chief form of entertainment for those who remained in town over the week end. A number of students attended the games in Spokane and Pullman.

 Last Friday evening at eight o'clock the non-sorority girls staged the best entertainment for the non-fraternity men that has been held on the campus. The big "Y" hut was crowded to the limit with people who were there for a real get together good time and they had it. Games, singing and a lively little take-off on the University oddities, readings and instrumental music made the time scoot until ten o'clock, when the girls sounded the mess call and there was a grand rush for the commissary, where the mess kits were loaded with sandwiches, cake and coffee. It is the plan of the two organizations to have several such entertainments and parties during the year.

Chi Delta Phi gave its annual pledge dance Saturday evening at the K. C. Hall. Ferns and lavender and yellow chrysanthemums were used as decorations. The guests invited were: Mr. and Mrs. Otto Stilling, Mrs. Loomis, Mrs. Gray, the Messrs McDevitt, Lindley, Eagleson, Creelman, Cossitt, McCallie, Neal, Fleming, Carpenter, C.  The Kappa Sigs gave an informal dancing party Saturday. Their guests were the Misses Wilkinson, Allebaugh, Benoit, Atkins, Sims, Grace Taggart, Putman, Sanger, Blackinger, McGee, Mosley, Selby, Hoffman, King, Helen Roberts, Collins, Langroise, Tracy and Campbell.

The following people were guests of the Ridenbaugh Hall girls at an informal dancing party Saturday evening: Dessie Hall, Mary Penwell, Messrs. Iota Alpha entertained at dinner for several members of the Pullman chapter of Alpha Zeta, a national agricultural fraternity, Friday evening at Plumm's. The Pullman guests were Prof. Wesely, Lyle, Odleson, and Hamilton. Felix Plastino acted as toastmaster.

Iota Alpha is petitioning for a charter from Alpha Zeta. The petition will be presented at the annual convocation of that fraternity, which will be held in Chicago during the National Live Stock Show.

Four suits of Saturday night woolens, three new massages, and a pair of shoestrings were ruined as a result of a fire which broke out in the Sigma Nu basement Sunday morning.

When the Sigma Nu cook arose to warm the matin coffee and cereal, her nostrils were assailed by odors other than the usual stale aroma of "Camels." Following her nose, she discovered that the basement was filled with smoke, which appeared to be issuing from the furnace room. Hastening up stairs, she aroused one of the inmates, who in turn broke the news to several of his brothers.

The fire was found to have originated in the coal bin. So the boys turned out and moved forty tons of coal. The flames put out by generous application of profanity and other extinguishers.

No damage was done other than that the boys were forced to clean

Sporty Sputterings

By HAMOND EGGS.

At a meeting of the Athletic Board at the Gym last Monday evening, the "I" sweaters and "I" blankets were voted to those earning them in this year's football season. A white ring around the left arm is given for each year that man has won his letter in that particular branch. Those who sport three rings also rate an "I" blanket. One star for each letter earned is placed on the blanket and, in case the man has been a captain, one is also placed on the letter for each year he acted in that capacity.

- The following men earned the big "I" this year:
- Capt. Breshears, three rings and blanket.
- Jazz Barber, three rings and blanket.
- Tommy Thompson, three rings and blanket.
- Pat Perrine, three rings and blanket.
- Turk Gerlough, three rings and blanket.
- Gus Irving, two rings and blanket.
- Grove Evans, two rings.
- Plasty Plastico, two rings.
- Duddy Gowen, two rings.
- Frank Brown, one ring.
- Heinz Glindeman, one ring.
- Butch Nagel, one ring.
- Joe Whitcomb, one ring.

Chick Evans lacked only one quarter of playing for earning his letter. He missed by exactly the same margin two years ago. Hartwell, a former "I" man, in football, lacked five minutes.

Gridiron Results of November 15.

"Idaho 13, Gonzaga 7," read the score board in Spokane after a hundred gallon tank of football dope had been upset by the boys who "came back." Home Coming Day was a rather sad affair at Pullman, Saturday, due to the fact that her invincible team lost to Washington by a score of 13 to 7. W. S. C. may no longer dream so vividly of that New Year's victory over Syracuse "U".

Oregon U crept into the lime light as a runner for championship honors by hanging the crepe on O. A. C. by the close score of 9 and 0.

Our old fiend, Steers, seems to have pulled the bright star stuff for Oregon. A dead heat of 6 and 6 was staged by Montana State and the University of Missoula at Bozeman.

Multnomah doubled the score on Williamette on a mud sea at Salem. The final score being 24 to 12.

A trick play by Yale which was broken up by a Princeton sub gave the Tiger team their first victory over Yale since 1911. The final score being 13 to 6.

Ohio was a victor over Wisconsin, 3 to 0, when a drop kick by Harley, all American halfback, was planted between the posts from the 20-yard line. Uncle Sam's gobs went beyond the century mark, by making eighteen touchdowns and kicking 13 goals, against Colby College of Maine. The score was 121 to 0.

Lost, Strayed or Stolen

"Who, or what, got our nice new, overgrown cat?" shouted the inmates of the Farmers Institute last Friday night when it became known that their conger mascot had failed to resist "The Call of the Wild."

Honest, it was too darned bad that those noble hunters had to go and lose their fierce mountain lion. They didn't beef very much about his going away until after the U. of W. had presented them with that pretty defeat. They hated to have him absent all right, but they looked at it as a trade. You see, they intended to have Washington's goat put into the stall that Tabby left.

Of course you can't always sometimes tell but history tells us that Ringling's circus once had an act where two cougars and a little pensive goat appeared in the same cage and all was absolute harmony between them.

Triple Tie For Championship.

The University of Oregon, the University of Washington and Washington State College are now tied for the Northwest championship honors. This fact has been the source of the fireside athletes getting an unusual amount of exercise this week. Up to date 47 suggestions have been submitted concerning how the championship shall be decided. The range these cover may be found by writing the chairman of the Blues Committee, headquarters at W. S. C., numbers one and forty-seven of this list are as follows:

Number One—"Let each school send a representative group of fireside football players to a central conference. (Only followers of Camels eligible). When there assembled stage a crap shooting tournament. The best three out of five man will have his choice of picking the champs of 1919.

(Signed) JOHN M'GOWAN.

Number Forty-seven—"The winning team of the Northwest Conference can be determined by referring to the 'Practical Theme Tablet.' The particular references are found under Amp. 13, Cpl. 49, El. 101, C. U. 303, and 1. O. U. 29 C. O. D., A. E. F., P. D. Q.

WAR VETS CELEBRATE ON ARMISTICE DAY

Governor Davis and Judge F. S. Dietrich at Assembly—Overseas Men Attended in a Body.

The first anniversary of the signing of the Armistice which ended the world war was celebrated in royal fashion by the University last Tuesday. Classes were held for the first two hours in the morning, classes which might just as well be omitted as far as the knowledge gained in those two periods was concerned. At ten-thirty, though, the assembly was called and things began to happen. The speaker of the day was Judge F. S. Dietrich of the United States District court, and the college was further honored by having Governor Davis on the platform, who spoke for a short time.

The military band was in evidence for the first time this year and started things going with a little music, after which Captain "Ted" Erb, president of the Overseas Men's organization gave a picture of the way the signing of the Armistice was taken by the boys in the trenches. Erb was with the 91st Division in the front row on that day, and his talk was complete with the necessary trimmings to carry one back to battle scarred France.

A male quartette, erroneously announced as an overseas quartet, next held the stage for a few minutes, singing a portion of the time they were before the gathering. The worthy members of said quartet were: "Poosey" Davis, "Squirrley" Hastings, Titus Le Claire, and Ed. Faran. Professor Dickenson played a couple of numbers of the violin, which were roundly applauded by the audience.

Following the violin solos, Dean French gave a very touching talk on the part played in winning the war by the women of the country, and especially that part taken by the college women of the nation. It came as a surprise to the University when it was announced that by good fortune, our governor was able to be present for the celebration. As his time was limited, he spoke for only health. This fact makes it necessary for the teams to play their games at exactly the time allotted them.

All games will be set for exactly 4:15 and time will be called at 4:25 sharp. If all the men of a team are not present that quintette must forfeit the game to her opponents.

There will be no trading of games. The schedule will be held as it now appears.

After Washington cops the championship in football and Idaho takes the honors in basket ball, please tell us where W. S. C. gets any of the bacon.

"Hec" Edmondson, who is trainer for the University of Washington team, was seen shaking hands with his host of University and Moscow friends last Friday evening. He was riding hard on the Washington team who were visitors here before Saturday's game at Pullman.

"Hec" will assist in basket ball this year and handle track in the spring. In the interests of Idaho, we hope he will have little to do with Washington's basket ball team, because we remember when he turned a bunch of green Frosh into a championship team for Idaho three years ago.

"Ain't it a grand and glorious feeling?" was the spirit of the Idaho team Saturday night in Spokane when the coach declared open season on any indigestible they desired and were financially able to purchase.

For the more reckless individuals a class P.E. 102 is listed. This group will handle heavy apparatus and take up trick and tumbling work.

A special class in wrestling will soon be organized with "Babe" Brown as instructor.

a short time. In beginning his address, Governor Davis said, "In behalf of the State of Idaho I thank each man who volunteered to serve his country in the late world war. We owe them a debt of gratitude that we can never repay. They were Americans."

"We have been following the crowd, and now we find that we have been led astray, the men whom we have been listening to and have been allowing to remain in our midst and preach their radicalisms, have become dangerous. Out of one hundred and four of these agitators apprehended a short while ago, only nine were Americans, and the rest for the most part were men who never had any intentions of becoming Americanized. We must demand that all aliens coming to this country become Americanized before they are allowed to enter our boundaries. If they refuse, ship them back."

Professor Bangs next offered the Girls' Glee Club to the criticism of the student body.

Judge F. S. Dietrich was then introduced as the speaker of the morning. "The theme of the day," said Judge Dietrich, "the thought of the hour, will be our country, for the things which made for its success in the great war. When and only when, we realized that our cherished rights had been grossly violated, did we decide to accept the challenge, and it is to our credit that we accepted it as a nation with a whole hearted support of our country. We fought the war according to the rights of war and our own American ideals, and so as we commenced masters of ourselves, so we ended masters of ourselves.

"And now we have another war to face here at home. We have just this day passed through the greatest crisis our country has had in the past five years; our very existence was threatened, had the coal miners not returned to work, it is impossible to tell what might have been the suffering of the nation. We should not question the rights of the controvcrsey; it is enough that the chief executive said that it was against the law, that it was open rebellion. It is only natural that the Government should make mistakes, that our courts should make mistakes, and the citizens of the country should take pains to select the best men for the offices, for the courts, and then if every one would do this, there would be no agitators trying to stir up the country to the painting failings of our government."

Colonel Chrisman acted as chairman for the assembly, and introduced each speaker. There was a large number of townspeople at the auditorium to hear the program.
