TREATY COMPROMISE RESULT COLLEGE VOTE

TREATY—A. 16 544 039 281 728121789 Both National and Local Tallies Show League With Ratification is Sentiment.

Ratification of the Peace Treaty by compromise is the sentiment expressed by the majority of the colleges which have sent final reports up to date on the inter collegiate referendum. In 32 colleges, including the great universities of Yale, Princeton, Harvard, Columbia, and the University of Pennsylvania, there was a total of 29,910 votes cast. Ratification by compromise received 11,182 of these, and ratification without reservations or amendments, 9002.

The University of Idaho voted on the treaty as follows: Compromise, 251; ratification with Lodge reservations, 198; unreserved ratification, 71; opposed to ratification, 25.

The faculty vote was; Compromise, 37; unreserved ratification, 12; ratification with Lodge reservations, 9; opposed to ratification, 3.

At Idaho the voting was carried on by secret ballot at the poll in the main corridor of the Administration Building from 9 a. m. to 6 p. m. on January 6th. Immediately after the voting had ceased, the results were compiled and wired in to the central committee at New York.

The result of the vote on two, of the four propositions that the students voted on are shown above. Of the other two ratification with the Lodge amendments received 6563 votes, and opposition to ratification in any form held 3163 followers.

The returns of the 32 leading colleges noted above indicates almost the identical sentiment of over 300 colleges and universities which have sent complete returns up to date. There are some of the schools in the extreme west which have not as yet sent in the results of their referendum. As soon as these are heard from, the central committee will tabulate the complete results and make accurate public reports of the results.

The New England schools showed mixed results in their balloting. In the majority of them the same four propositions were submitted that were used at Idaho:

1. Favoring ratification without reservations or amendments.
2. Opposing ratification in any form.
3. Favoring ratification with the Lodge reservations.
4. Favoring any compromise which would make immediate ratification possible.

Some of the schools submitted two additional propositions as follows:

5. Favoring a separate peace with Germany, leaving the question of a League of Nations to be settled afterward.
6. Favoring a compromise on reservations that would avoid danger of defeating ratification while still making clear that Congress has the sole power to declare war, that domestic questions and the Monroe doctrine are outside the jurisdiction of the League, that plural votes are disqualified in any dispute in which this country is disqualified from voting and that this country is to be sole judge of whether its obligations have been met in case it should withdraw from the League.

Compromise between the Lodge and democratic reservations was the proposal which received the largest number of votes from both the faculty and students at Yale University.

At Harvard both students and faculty polled the highest vote for No. 4, with No. 1 running a close second. At Smith and Mount Holyoke, both women's colleges, the heaviest vote was cast for the same two propositions.

At Brown College six propositions were voted on, with No. 6 leading and No. 5 second. At Amherst, No. 4 indicated the sentiment of the majority with No. 1 second.

The University of Washington voted by a large majority in favor of the ratification of the treaty in some form or other. Out of 3045 votes cast only 275 were opposed to the ratification of the Treaty and League in any form.

At Gonzaga, on the other hand, the majority opposed the ratification of the League and Treaty in any form. Compromise on the Lodge reservations was second.

Only 31 per cent of the students voted at the University of Montana. Those who did vote registered their sentiments as follows: Compromise, 99; ratification with Lodge reservations, 78; opposed to ratification in any form, 32; unconditional ratification, 40.

Considered as a whole, the colleges of the Pacific Coast were unanimously in favor of ratifying the Treaty with reservations calculated to retain control for the United States over its own activities under the covenant of the League. This includes the great schools of the University of California, Leland Stanford University, the University of Oregon, Oregon Agricultural College, and the University of Washington.

The University of Oregon, voting on six propositions, sent in returns as follows:

- Proposition 1—Students, 97; Faculty, 24.
- Proposition 2—Students, 21; Faculty, 1.
- Proposition 3—Students, 72; Faculty, 1.
- Proposition 4—Students, 34; Faculty, 16.
- Proposition 5—Students, 98; Faculty, 6.
- Proposition 6—Students, 81; Faculty, 16.

Out of 1650 students enrolled, 467 registered votes.

FARMERS' WEEK IS OFF WITH A RUSH

Noted Speakers on the Boards For the Week, Including L. H. Bailey, Author-Lecturer.

The annual Farmers' and Housekeepers' week of the University opened the first of the week with some of the old vim of the Ag. department. Many prominent agricultural experts of the west and middle west are on hand to address the farmers, and the present indications are that the present gathering will be the best that the University has ever had. Many visitors gathering will be the best that the University has ever had. Many visitors from all over the state are in attendance, and addresses are to be given by various members of the state extension department through the week. Among the visitors here for the convention are: L. W. Fluharty of Boise and head of the extension department; F. L. Williams, county agent leader; R. H. Musser, assistant county agent; Miss Amy Kelly, the state leader of home demonstration agents; Dr. E. A. Bryan, state commissioner of education; Liberty H. Bailey, a well-known author and horticulturist, and D. Tomson, an expert on Short-horn cattle.

Today is horticultural day, and will be featured by some interesting lectures and demonstrations on the subject. Liberty E. Bailey, who has written a good many books, known as the "Bailey Series" which are used as texts in the University, will deliver the main address of the day. Along with this feature, a short musical program will be given at the auditorium in the evening.

Wednesday A. Sapiro will deliver an address to the convention on the Farm Market Bureau and what it means to the farmer of today. On Friday, Mr. Tomson will give an address on "The Future of Beef Breeding in the Northwest," which will be one of the features of the week. Mr. Tomson was secured for the occasion just recently, and the University feels quite fortunate in getting a man of such ability to speak on this day. He is very prominent in the Short-horn world.

The program for the Housekeepers' part of the week is also filled with many able speakers, including Miss Katherine Jensen, of the Home Economics Department of the University, President Lindley, Liberty Bailey and Professor Rudolph Weaver, head of the department of architecture of W. S. C. and Dr. E. A. Bryan, state commissioner of education.

One of the features of Farmers' week is the work to be carried on among the various Boys' and Girls' clubs which is in charge of R. R. Groninger. These clubs hold contests for the raising of the best farm products, and is one phase of the work upon which much stress will be laid in the future, and one which is of great importance. The meetings will be held through the week, and many visitors are expected within the next few days if the weather continues to hold.

JUNIOR PROM A FLOWERLESS FORMAL

Financial Depression Will Fall to Evidence When the Juniors Kick Thru With a Regular Hop, It is Hoped

The Junior Prom is the big event on the University horizon, except for final exams, flunks and a few minor events of like nature. The date for the annual airing of the fish and soup has been definitely set for the 31st of January. It is traditional at Idaho that the Junior Prom be formal and this particular Prom will live up to tradition and then some.

However, due to the financial depression so much in evidence, it has been decided to dispense with flowers and cabs, according to sentiments expressed by the Junior Class, the young man who defies this ruling will not only call down on his head the untold wrath of his fellow students, but will also run the risk of soiling his vest. Be that as it may, they are banned and the walk from the sorority houses to the Gym will be quite the thing.

President and Mrs. Lindley, Dean and Mrs. Cockerill, Dean and Mrs. Thomson, Dean French, Professor Marshall, and Doctor and Mrs. Wodsedale will be present as patrons and patronesses.

The committee on decorations have promised that the Gym will be camouflaged beyond all recognition, and those whose duty it is to provide the guiding tempo are only saying that it will be the best orchestra that ever was. It is not certain that the punch will be spiked but the committee is doing its best.

For the information of the underclassmen, the Juniors wish to state that Freshman are not allowed to wear dress suits and that Sophomores are not expected to do so.

In order to facilitate better arrangements for the dance, tickets are being sold early.

The event starts promptly at 8:00 o'clock. Remember the date, Saturday, January 31st. The finals will be a thing of the past, if you have been successful in the bi-annual wrangle with the faculty you will want to celebrate; and even if the outcome has been disastrous, chase away the gloom to the latest fox trots and sooth your grouch in a dreamy waltz.

ARGONAUT ELECTION SLATED FRIDAY

Sutherland, Swonstrom, and Stalker Are Nominated for Associate Editor by Committee.

Three nominations were made for Associate Editor of the University Argonaut by the Advisory Committee, composed of Prof. James C. Gill, Garde Wood, and Mary McKenna, at a meeting convoked Monday morning.

Those nominated were William Sutherland, C. H. "Slim" Swonstrom, and Gipson Stalker. The election will be held by ballot on Friday, January 23. Under the Constitution of the A. S. U. L., as now amended, the man elected will act as associate editor for the coming semester, and will automatically become editor at the beginning of the next school year.

P. H. SOULEN VISITS OROFINO HIGH SCHOOL

Professor P. H. Soulen returned Sunday from Orofino where he addressed the high school and conducted two meetings of the Clearwater County School trustees. Professor Soulen reported that Superintendent Richmond was developing a fine school spirit at Orofino and was particularly anxious to have the high school student thoroughly acquainted with the University's opportunities and the requirements for college entrance.

Professor Soulen also spoke highly of the work of Eunice Keller, '18, who has charge of the Home Economics department and is making it one of the strongest departments in the school.

MUSIC CLUB NOW A PERMANENT THING

New Campus Organization Adopts a Constitution and Declines on Aims of the Club.

A constitution was adopted and plans made for the election of officers at the second meeting of the Music Club of the University of Idaho, held in the "Y" hut, Thursday evening.

The constitution was drawn up and submitted to the club by a committee composed of Gipson Stalker, chairman; Russell Scott, William Sutherland, Agnes Sweeney, and Nathalie Tecklenberg. It provides for the conventional officers of President, Vice President and Secretary-Treasurer, and certain standing committees to carry on activities in line with the purposes of the club. The committees are to be appointed by Titus Le Clair, temporary chairman. The officers are to be nominated by a nominating committee and referred to the vote of the club at its next meeting, which will be held after the return of the Men's Glee Club.

According to the constitution, those eligible for membership are the members of the two glee clubs, the members of the University Orchestra, students enrolled in the Department of Music, and any other members of the faculty and student body of the University who show interest in the aims and purposes of the club. There is also a clause which permits congenial citizens of Moscow to become members.

The club is organized with the purpose in view of promoting the interest in and appreciation of good music in the University, and of fostering any projects that will work to that end. The club also plans to initiate several movements, especially along the lines of giving operettas and presenting outside musical talent which will aid it in accomplishing its purposes. One of the goals set by the club is the acquiring of a pipe organ for the University Auditorium. The organization does not plan to raise the necessary funds itself, but rather to agitate the movement, establish a nucleus for the fund, and depend on the alumni and friends of the school for the rest.

Plans are already under way for the presentation of the first operetta, which will be produced in the late spring. "Robin Hood," by De Koven, is being considered.

LEWISTON ALUMNAE START IDAHO CLUB

Permanent Organization Planned To Keep Former Students in Touch With the University.

Former Idaho students, now residing in Lewiston, recently formed an Idaho club in that city, and plan to make it a permanent organization. David Eaves, who graduated a few years ago, was selected temporary chairman and will act until a constitution for the organization is adopted and permanent officers are elected. Miss Valborg Kjosness was made temporary secretary.

Several matters of interest to former Idaho men were brought up at the meeting, including sketches of the proposed memorial for Idaho men serving in the world war, and a discussion of plans for strengthening the athletic teams of Idaho, and for the support of the university program in general.

Those who are enrolled as charter members of the new club are: Miss Ruth Fauble, Miss Annette McCallie, Miss Valborg Kjosness, Miss Ira Dole, R. R. Groninger, L. Hoobler, David Eaves, A. E. Wade, and W. Kjosness. Many other Idaho alumnae residing in Lewiston will probably join the club and some good results are looking forward to in the near future. The action of this group of old Idaho people at Lewiston shows that they are behind their University, now and all the time, and it is this spirit on the part of the alumnae that the College appreciates.

NOTICE

Because of examinations there will be no issue of the Argonaut next week.

DR. VON ENDE RETURNS FROM MONTANA VISIT

Dr. C. L. von Ende, head of the Chemistry Department, recently returned from Bozeman, Mont., where he went for the dedication of the chemistry building and the inauguration of President Alfred Atkinson. On his return trip Dr. von Ende visited the school of mines of Butte, the plant at Anaconda and the University of Montana at Missoula.

Kjosness at Nezperce. Mr. W. B. Kjosness, county agent leader for northern Idaho and president of the University of Idaho Alumni Association, was a visitor at Nezperce last Tuesday and Wednesday. While there he had a meeting with some of the alumni who are working to perfect a stronger organization. Mr. Kjosness says that they have a very big program ahead of them. He plans to meet other groups of the alumni in the near future.

SATURDAY SET FOR ENGLISH CLUB PLAYS

Three Clever Comedies in the Making For Past Month Are Being Keenly Anticipated.

"The Four Flushers," a satirical farce in one act, by Cleves Kinkead; "Close the Book," a one-act play by Susan Glaspell and "Lonesome-like," by Harold Brighthouse are to be given by the English Club at the University Auditorium, Saturday, January 24.

"Lonesome-like" was first produced in Glasgow, Scotland, and is an English dialect story. There are only four characters in the play, parts being taken by Abe Goff, Brian Bundy, Nora Ashton and Phoebe Jane Hunt.

"The Four Flushers," a farce dealing with the "eternal triangle" situation was written by Cleves Kinkead, a member of Professor George Pierce Baker's 47 Workshop at Harvard. He is also author of "Common Clay." "The Four Flushers" was originally produced in 1914 by the Harvard Dramatic Club. The cast includes Edith Dingle, Vaughn Price, Rex Kimmel and Margaret Moseley.

"Close the Book," by Susan Glaspell was first produced in New York City by the Provincetown players and deals with a New England family which seriously objects to having new stock grafted onto its family tree. Caroline Logan, as the intruder, and Ted Hollar, Helen Johnston, Helen Ramsey, Avis Selby, Oscar Weaver, Ted Turner, and Margaret Kutnewsky complete the cast.

Tickets for the plays will be on reserve at Hodgins', Wednesday, January 21. General admission will be 35 cents. An additional charge of 15 cents will be made for the privilege of having a seat waiting for you when you reach the auditorium.

"OPEN FORUM" WILL DISCUSS SITUATIONS

To Hold Meetings to Argue Pro and Con of Topics of State and National Interest.

An Open Forum, a place of discussion for those topics of social, economic and political situations now revolving in the state and international circles, will be instituted here shortly after the opening of the new semester. All interesting problems, discussions led by men acquainted and versed with their facts, will not only be of direct benefit to those taking part, or even attending, but it will show state officials that we work with something that has to do with grey matter in the northern part of the state.

Students Interested. The University of Idaho had a higher percentage of her students vote on the League referendum than any institution in the Northwest, showing at least a passing interest in such topics. The first meeting will be held within a few weeks, where the Open Forum will be organized.

COUGARS OUTPLAY AND OUT CONDITION VARSITY

Idaho Weakens in Second Half After Holding Own in First—Guarding Strong—Lack Team Work

Idaho failed to stand the gaff of a well conditioned Cougar outfit, and went under the ropes in the second half of a rough and fast 32 to 17 game last night. Idaho guarding compared well with the stellar performances of last year, but the shooting end of the crew could not demonstrate the classy team work, W. S. C. guards continually breaking up the forwards and center combine. Hunter easily starred on offensive work, but was pushed too heavily to do much effective work, and Campbell necessarily playing rather a quiet game because of weakened condition. The work of McIvor in breaking up center floor plays was a decisive factor in the Idaho defeat.

Moe, playing a few minutes in the second half, brought some of the old life back to the squad, but was unable to stand the pressure of a weakened knee.

Lineup and Summary.

HEAR NOTED EDITOR IN SPECIAL ASSEMBLY

Dr. Devine, Editor of "Survey" and Formerly of Columbia University, Gives Lecture

Dr. Edwin T. Devine, formerly professor of Social Economics of Columbia University, and now editor of "Survey," was the speaker at a special assembly held Monday morning. Dr. Devine, who has had a wide experience, and who is a great student of economical questions, spoke on "Revolution, Reaction and Reconstruction." The poverty of Poland and Syria, the extravagance of the American public, the political, business and social reactions of the after war period, are the factors of the reconstruction period which must be met within a very short time to avoid a serious situation.

It is the reaction of the great movement which is the dangerous period, and so it is now; we must beware of the present reactionary spirit, for the world is in the greatest danger it has experienced in the last thousand years. "This reactionary spirit," said Dr. Devine, "is opposed to all that is good in men and their lives. This is a national crisis and more depends upon the character of America than we realize. May we measure up to our responsibility by a sound social reconstruction. May industry be planned for service rather than for profit. The need of the age is a personal responsibility and social responsibility."

Dr. Devine thought that some of the present unrest is due in part to some of the great gifts of philanthropists, in that the people wonder about the conditions in this country and throughout the world which make such accumulation of wealth possible. It is this economic division that is leading us to what approximates a revolution. A political revolution is spoken of with respect years afterward, but a revolution is a lack of respect for the government, and a lack of respect for authority, and we must not follow our intellects but our common sense when we think of recent revolutions. We must understand the prejudices of a people and their adjustability to existing conditions.

During the San Francisco earthquake, and at a more recent date during the Dayton, Ohio, flood, Dr. Devine was in charge of the Red Cross relief work. Recently he has been in Russia, Italy, and France with the Red Cross, and is a man of great intellect and varied experience.

REFERENDUM RESULTS SPEAK WELL FOR IDAHO

"Now that we have voted on the League and Treaty, which one of us is right?" quoted the Campus Cynic. That is hard to say, but this one thing is sure:

When one studies the reports of the various colleges on the referendum, it takes no large amount of calculation to realize that more students registered votes at Idaho, in proportion to the number enrolled, than at the majority of the schools in the northwest. Speaks rather well for Idaho, doesn't it?

Idaho students may be frivolous, and take more readily to dances and fusing than to history and science, but does the seriousness of thought and earnestness of interest in this solemn issue which the referendum showed the students to be taking seem compatible with a frivolous nature?

In view of the fact that the semester exams are about due, it might do us and our instructors both no harm if we should pat ourselves on the back once or twice and kid ourselves into half believing what people who ought to know say about Idaho students being serious of mind and intent.

FACULTY ATTEND POCATELLO CONVENTION

Report That the Annual Agricultural and Engineering Conference Better Than Ever

Among the faculty members to attend the joint conference of seed growers, livestock men, irrigation engineers and home makers at Pocatello were Dean Little and Mr. Raymond Harsch of the engineering school and Dean Iddings, Prof. W. G. Steward, Prof. R. K. Bonnett and Miss Claire Hobson of the Ag. school. They report a large attendance at the conference and say that a great deal of interest was shown in the various branches of the conference. There is a movement on foot at the present time to bring this affair to Moscow next year.

If this were done it would mean very much to the University, because it would bring many educators and lecturers not only of state but national repute here.

INTERFRATERNITY COUNCIL IS PLANNED

Dr. W. F. Shepardson, Prominent Fraternity Man Here, Boosts Plan—In Hands of Committee

Idaho will have a senior honor society and interfraternity council as the result of Dr. Francis W. Shepardson's visit to the University campus. Dr. Shepardson is president of Beta Theta Pi, vice president of Phi Beta Kappa, commissioner of registration and education of the state of Illinois, and one of the most widely known historians in the United States.

To promote a better spirit among the fraternities of Idaho a special meeting of all fraternity men was held in the "Y" hut Monday morning at 11 o'clock to hear Dr. Shepardson. Cooperation at Idaho.

How to get the splendid spirit and determination of the National Interfraternity conference on the Idaho campus was the theme of Dr. Shepardson's talk. The best possible solution to better fraternity feeling was the formation of a senior honor society which would work for the better interests of Idaho, according to the speaker's answer to his own question. Following out the suggestions made, Verner R. Clements of Boise, president of the student body, was made chairman of the meeting and a motion was introduced by A. J. Priest and passed unanimously that a committee of six be appointed to investigate the formation of an interfraternity council. The report of the committee will be made to a meeting of the fraternity men in the near future.

Fraternity Mens' Meeting.
 The meeting was called by President Lindley who desired Dr. Shepardson to address Idaho fraternity men. Dr. Shepardson has been actively associated with the National Inter-Fraternity council for 10 years. For five years he served as secretary of the council and one year as chairman.

Dr. Shepardson told of the first meeting which resulted in the calling of the National Inter-Fraternity council where a committee of three which included President Lindley was appointed to investigate "Fraternities in Their Relation to Religion." Idaho's president also read a paper on the "Relationship of the Student to His Fraternity." He was a representative of Sigma Chi at the council.

National Council.
 The speaker continued with a general history of the national council, telling how the antagonism and distrust of the representatives was metamorphosed into a great feeling of cooperation and mutual understanding and sympathy until the national council today is the power of the fraternity world.

Continuing Dr. Shepardson said in part:

"All fraternities were founded on the same broad fundamental purpose. Everybody knows what a man is, what a gentleman is, what courtesy, honor and faithfulness stand for. Let us pledge ourselves to lofty endeavors. In our college life we are going to be courteous and faithful. We are all alike. Manly men, representative men, inspired men are present at the National Inter-Fraternity councils. They all realize that every man there has a common purpose. All of them are in the same game. To make and mold the hand picked university and college students into a greater and grander American citizenship for universal human service, such is the object and ideal of this super-fraternity in which all rituals and star-reaching ideals are combined.

Great Deal in Common.
 "How to get the spirit and determination of that great conference into Moscow, Idaho, is your problem. All fraternities are exactly alike. They are founded on Free Masonry, Kappa Sigma, Phi Delta Theta, Sigma Nu, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and Beta Theta Pi have a common foundation, origin and basis. Why shouldn't there be a feeling of co-operation? There are bound to be clashes in rushing, but after all the biggest thing is your alma mater, above fraternity, and only by mutual understanding and confidence can Idaho be made bigger and better. Why can't we get together?"

Fraternities College Asset.
 "I believe in the college fraternity. I believe the ideals when exalted make for splendid human associations and the making of leaders. All depends on us. (The speaker cited personal incidents of how he had seen men made into polished, cultured, successful gentlemen from crude youths through fraternity influence.)

Don't Use Frat.
 "Let's get away from that vicious word 'frat.' Why mutilate one of the finest words in the English language by abbreviating it into a meaningless defamation."

Suggested Honor Society.
 "Organize a senior honor society and an inter-fraternity council and make a body of men that can be depended on by the campus. Plan to have as the objects and requisites for membership these ideals:

- First, the University of Idaho.
- Second, Manliness.
- Third, Leadership.
- Fourth, Power.
- Fifth, My Chapter.
- Sixth, Myself.

"Let no man be a member who has not from freshman year striven for the best interests of the University. Let there be no selfishness in the organization. If there is a Jew who is acceptable for membership he should be a member. If a fraternity finds that there is no man worthy of the organization in that chapter then that fraternity should pass on its entitled membership to the other fraternity which has an eligible man."

President Clements made a short effective talk, thanking Dr. Shepardson and praising the plan for a senior organization and inter-fraternity council. Led by Yell King Bartlett "Alma Mater" was sung.

It is probable that Idaho will shortly have an inter-fraternity council and a senior honor society open to all men, fraternity and non-fraternity, on the campus.

"When the farmers adopt the 40 hour week," mused the city man who was born and raised on a farm, "I guess one of our problems will be to find a substitute for oats."

DEBATE LEAGUE TRY OUTS SOON

International League Will Argue Open Versus Closed Shop Question—Oregon and B. C.

International Debating League, University of Oregon, British Columbia, and University of Idaho, tryouts will be held Thursday, January 29, on the question, "Resolved, That industrial interests are best served by maintaining the policy of the closed shop." Two teams, two men each will be selected for the triangular debate, Idaho sending a negative team to B. C.

Interest centers on this debate, both for the International character of the League, and the immediate importance of the question discussed. In the tryouts each speaker will be given six minutes to develop either side of the question.

IDAHO GRADS HOLD CAMBRIDGE REUNION

Several Old Idaho Students Now Attending Eastern Colleges Have Get-together.

At the home of Mr. and Mrs. Donald David in Cambridge, Mass., there recently occurred a very enjoyable gathering of old Idaho students. The group consisted of Bernadine Adair, '19; Jennie Peterson, '18, and Helen Carlyle, who are now students at the Boston Conservatory of Music, Grace Eagleson, ex-'19 of Simons College, Katherine Pitcairn, '15; Mrs. Lehman, formerly Gladys Collins of Idaho, and Kathryn Smith, '13.

Both Mr. and Mrs. David (Beth Soulen) are Idaho graduates. Mr. David is instructor in the Graduate School in Business Administration at Harvard.

Lucky.

"He's a lucky man."
 "That so?"
 "Yep. Once in an airplane accident."
 "I don't see anything lucky about that."
 "Mighty few men been in airplane accidents and lived to tell about them."

The Real Difficulty.

Mrs. Chatterlong—I'm down for a talk before the Housewives' club. I wish I could think up a good introduction.

Her Husband—That should be easy for you. You never appear to have any trouble starting a talk. It's ending it that seems to be impossible.

The Right Kind.

"I don't see why you keep that young fellow. He is out to get your job."

"I know it. That's why I'm keeping him. The kind of employees I'm looking for is the kind with ambition and energy enough to want my job and try to get it."

Terrifying Styles.

"The Gorgons were mythological sisters who had snakes for tresses instead of hair."

"Gee!" muttered the high-school girl. "It must have been tough to have to go out and gather a bunch of snakes whenever you needed a few extra puffs."

Pooling the Cost.

Kathryn—What a lovely engagement ring! Your fiance must be rich to afford so big a stone.

Kitty—Rather. You see, I was engaged to five men this season, and persuaded them to go in together on a syndicate ring. I hate a lot of little ones.

CAMPUS ROOMER

When you come to the end of semester exams, The end of your school days too, And you sit alone in the midst of your flunks History, English and Spanish too. Can you think what the end of semester's flunks Will mean to the folks at home When Carl Smith comes after your trunk And out in the cold world you'll roam?

Probably, a lot of students will receive doctors orders to go home after next week for a complete rest.

Likely Doctors von Ende, Miller,

Evans, and Peterson will have a large number of patients taking the rest cure.

One of the most pathetic spectacles in all the world is to be witnessed in the Argonaut office, every Monday night, while the staff is tearing around to find copy.

If all the students of the University who are thoroly acquainted with the Treaty of Peace and the League of Nations, were gathered together, they would fill a small clothes closet—almost.

One of the difficulties to be solved in connection with higher education, is finding a way to get an education, after one has obtained his degree.

Why do girls always come up the stairs on the left hand side and leave the Ad building by the left-hand door? Why do they sit down in twos and threes on the steps of the third floor stairs between classes? Why do they stop for those little informal conversations, while just half-way thru the library doors? Why do they always think of something terribly important which they must tell their friends when the speaker at assembly is in the midst of his most important part of his speech? Why do they wear those tissue thin waists when the thermometer says 10 degrees below? Why do they come to school on stormy, snowy days without a hat, and then on the first warm clear day, come arrayed in a winter hat and a fur coat? Why do so many carefully powder and rouge their faces and forget all about the seven-inch expanse of neck which shows above those, those, whaddyuh-kallems? Why do some of them powder and frill up and come to school with soiled finger nails and unshined shoes? Why is a girl, anyway? ? ? ?

JUNIOR PROM

The next stop of the social special of the U. of I. is the Junior Prom, ah, yes. Once again the boys will step out in the conventional highbrow apparel, and the ladies in the unconventional low neck.

The next Prom promises to show a curtailment of frills and an abundance of thrills. Some are even looking for the Dean of Women to dust off her 9-inch ivory rule. For the festive corsage is to be absent from the costume of the winsome co-ed at the next college formal, and with the absence of the foliage comes the absence of the danger of soiling his vest. And with his vest out of danger,—well, moonlights are rather thrilling anyway.

As has been noted above, the Prom brings to mind the formal evening togs. If Dad didn't remember that he is now a Junior (that is, the son of said Dad who is here at school, not Dad himself), and shell out one of the sinister costumes for Christmas, Ed will be seen betaking himself to Davids' or The Togs and giving the O. O. to what the Glee Club didn't take out of town.

Sometimes one is tempted to ask, why is evening dress, anyway? Whereupon the Youthful Sage may be heard to reply that it is and again should not was, for various reasons.

One does appear well in the orthodox nocturnal draperies. Fit is a minor point. If the coat tends to hoist ones shoulders up to ones ears, and spreads so far apart in front that the two forward suspender buttons are displayed to the social gaze, it may be explained that the cut is merely stylish and somewhat extreme. If, on the other hand, the tails tend to gather dust from the floor, and the frontal quarters of the coat give a double breasted effect, the wearer's alibi is that he always is conservative in his dress. Moreover, the stiff shirt gives ones carriage a many, almost military tone, the result being similar to what one might expect if one were to swallow a stove poker. If one wishes to affect a monocle, he may thus make his appearance almost courtly. Also, the white gloves graciously hide nails too long neglected to be made presentable by one evening's application of cutex.

Ah, yes indeed.—And one's etiquette is also improved famously by the nightly accouterments. The white kids, besides being an attribute to one's personal beauty, prevent one from scratching the head or picking the teeth with the nails. Moreover, when the stiff shirt adorns one's front, and one stoops to regain a lady's dropped program, one must of necessity bend gracefully from the hips. Else one's shirt bosom might be agitated, causing one of his studs to snap, and she would discover that they were only collar buttons after all.

DELEGATES TO S.V.C. REPORT IN ASSEMBLY

Idaho Delegation Brings Back Enthusiastic Story of the Great Results Realized in Iowa

Some of the delegates to the Student Volunteer Convention held at Des Moines the first of the year, including Professor Lewis gave interesting accounts of their experiences while in the middle west at an assembly held Wednesday morning. All of those fortunate ones who took the trip are enthusiastic over the results accomplished at the convention. That it was not entirely a religious gathering was especially emphasized by the speakers. They reported that the things upon which stress was particularly laid in the meetings was thence for commercial missionaries, and for men of scientific training to go into the foreign service.

Abe Goff, one of the student delegates to the Des Moines convention, was first to speak. He told of many of the interesting things which happened on board the special Pullman which left Spokane on a Sunday evening. College yells and songs furnished amusement during the trip; the Idaho delegation being with W. S. C. and University of Washington crowd, so that things happened is a foregone conclusion.

Al Kinney next told of some of the "Non essential" things of the trip, and seemed to have a lot to say about some very important things. He was especially impressed with some of the great men who attended the convention and gave lectures to the large gathering. Among these were John R. Mott, who presided over the meetings, and Dean Charles Brown of the University of California. Mr. Kinney said, "It was a study to contrast the difference of attitude with which the students went to the convention and the attitude with which they came back. Going to the convention, every one felt that he was going to what he knew not, and many a joke was cracked over the matter; coming home, on the other hand, every one seemed to realize that he or she had been to a most wonderful gathering of college students, and spare time on the train was spent in going over their notes, and reviewing the things which had been accomplished at Des Moines."

Professor Lewis was impressed in the same manner with the convention. He voiced the sentiments of the entire delegation when he said, "It sometimes takes a great blow or catastrophe to make a person see things in their true light. So it was with the Des Moines conference. We hardly realize the close relationship between the foreign countries and our selves in both a religious and economic sense." He said that every one who attended the convention came back with a new conception of our foreign relationships—came 'back with a desire to bring the facts before their respective colleges and to do what they could to make everybody they came in contact with realize what a task confronts us."

"Jimmie" Macpherson, the congenial secretary of the Y, said that he thought the big aim of the convention was two fold; first that those who attended might look back to the gathering and see what really transpired, and then look forward and to connect up with the future that which happened at the big convention. To give the university students all the benefits possible to be derived from sending a delegation to the conference, Mr. Macpherson said that with in the next few weeks they would hold study hours, and would take up the work which the conference started in earnest. Miss Byrnes, one of the Idaho delegates to the conference, acted as chairman of the assembly.

"O O O O O O ! ! ! ! ! BABY ! ! ! ! ! SOME SHOT ! ! !"
 Ever hear 'em? Remarks like that? You did, hey? Well, you bone-head, I'm actually ashamed of you. When one of our men makes a shot that calls for any such ejaculations you should be kicking up such a helluva cyclone yourself that your ears shouldn't record any external vibrations whatsoever.

In the good old days a real basketball fan grew a big yelling capacity, big speedy lungs and ears like a canary bird. Sure this is the ideal to which we must aspire before we will ever let those five boys know that we are fighting and winning right along with them.

Listen again. Did you ever start a story, get about half way to the point and then find out that no one was listening to you but are busy with some other little minor thing? Sure you have, and gosh! isn't it a feeling that says, "Humph, I guess, as far as this audience of mine is concerned, I might as well be painting green and yellow polka-dots on the north pole.

Now you Idaho people, heads up! Multiply this feeling by 9999.98 and you begin to get an idea of how a fighting winning, basketball team feels when their schoolmates either stay away from or do not let the world know they are Idaho rooters when they do go to a game.

Now folks, this week is going to see three games pulled in that li'l ol' gym and believe me, they are not going to be any drop the handkerchief sort of encounters either. It is some grind for a team to give their all every night for three games but these men will, whether we are there or not, but they will give it a lot more readily if we let them know that we are WITH 'EM!

Every time you pass a varsity man today, tomorrow or the next day, tell him that WE are sure going to give them one grand workin' over tonight. Say it every time, no matter if you pass him thirty times.

We're Off! ! !

Varsity 21, Frosh 12

Dopesters have been furnished lots of material in the past week-end trying to decide whether our yearling team was going somewhat near the limit last Thursday or whether the Varsity was lacking along this same line. Anyway you look at it tho, the score stood on a 21 to 12 basis and it was a real lively little affray which occurred last Thursday afternoon.

In the second entanglement of the vets and the prima donnas the score assumed a more favorable attitude for the old-timers than did the one of several days previous.

Remember "I" men that the new "I" pin was adopted as the official insignia of the letter men's club. It is to be worn at all times, when the sweater is not a part of your outfit, to show that you are a club member and in case you are an old grad, it is to serve as your life complimentary ticket to all athletic contests.

It is the desire of the club officers that each member should secure a pin as soon as possible in order that they can get an idea of the number to order for the alumnae letter men. These silver, block letters are for "I" men only and are for sale at Kelly's jewelry store.

Kappa Sigs Win From S. A. E. 12 to 10

The above named score was reached after four periods of rough playing and blood-shed last Saturday when one of the hardest fought games of the year was played between the Kappa Sigma and S. A. E. teams.

When the whistle first blew for time, there was a love score 8 to 8. A five-minute period was allowed in which to play off the tie, but whistle No. 2 found a 10 to 10 tie. In order to avoid an all-night siege, Referee "Blea" stated that the next team to make a field basket would be declared the winners. After about two more minutes of play "Babe" Brown found the horse-shoe and hooped the winning score for the Kappa Sigs.

Barbs Take 14 to 2 Victory From Sigma Nu

The Barbs' victory was a last week's game which, due to a mistake, was not accounted for in the last issue of the Spitts.

Weiby, of the central position for the Barb team, was the game's particular star. He proved himself a tip-off expert as well as a ring getter by making four of the seven field goals which were recorded as a total for both teams.

Culesac High Undefeated

If the quintette from the little berg of Culesac does not land a place in the limelight at the State Tournament, which will be held here, it will not be because old man dope did not give her a square deal. Culesac has hitherto been unheard of in the athletic world but owing to her team's victories over so many good opponents, the dope artists are beginning to prick up their ears and hunt for the map location of the home town of the slicker team.

Bangs Developing Comedians

Comedians for Glee Club Getting Final Punch to Give Humorous Kick

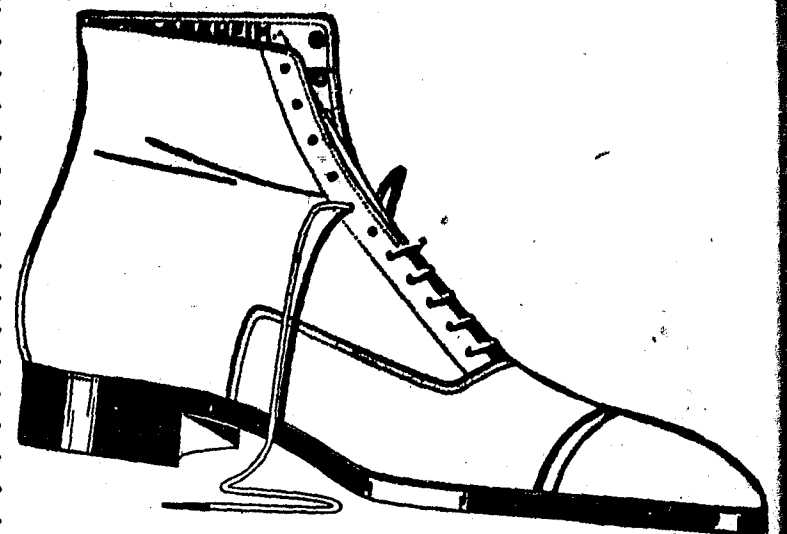

The training of comedians, both high and low, is now occupying the attentions in a large part of Prof. E. O. Bangs, director of the Men's Glee Club.

"Comedy is the greatest lack in the club's repertoire now," stated Prof. Bangs recently. "In the southern part of the state we are scheduled to perform in several churches. Obviously, therefore, it would be impossible to present any stunts which involved the wielding of the festive pie or the manipulation of the plastic paste brush. In such an auditorium, also the introduction of any sounds like unto the ripping of vital portions of the performers apparel would be out of place. The comedy of the Glee Club must, therefore, be of a more subtle nature."

Two members of the club have been selected as the star comedians. Stalker is being trained to do foolish things with a toy gun and a tin helmet. Roscoe Jones, on the other hand is—Well, the consensus of opinion among the members of the club is that Roscoe's antics will prove the surprise of the performance.

This week promises to be a busy one for the Gleers. In addition to carrying on their regular school work the singers must take all of their final exams and rehearse diligently to put the final polish on their program.

GO-EDS BOOST FOR SELF GOVERNMENT

Committee in Charge of the Movement Has Plans For Installing the Honor System.

Girls' Self-Government in the University of Idaho was discussed extensively at a meeting Wednesday afternoon of the committee composed of Gail Taggart (chairman), Eula Badger, Bernice Cornelison, Cora Salter, Verna Wilkinson and Helen Oakley.

An honor system in examinations was recommended. Verna Wilkinson, Gail Taggart and Eula Badger were appointed to draw up the constitution which will be presented before the committee at a future meeting and satisfactory will be accepted and placed before the girls of the university for approval and acceptance.

Nothing further will be done towards the furtherance of this new plan until after the beginning of the second semester.

Statistics from the department of public health of Chicago, show that eight hundred women fainted in the city last year, seven hundred and ninety eight managed to sink gracefully into the arms of waiting men, one slid into the kitchen sink, while washing the breakfast dishes, and one fell on the dust pan in the parlor.
