IDAHO PASTOR VOLUNTEERS FOR KNOT TYING SERVICE

"Call on Me Any Time" Is Offer of Alumnus Divine to Fellow Graduates.

History is believed to have been made when Charles R. Stillinger, '13, and Nettie Bauer, '13, recently launched their matrimonial shallop under the auspices of Joseph M. Adams, '11, of Spokane, no previous instance of a marriage of Idaho graduates before an Idaho alumnus minister having been recorded.

"I suppose you would be seeking to collect for an ad," writes Pastor Adams, "were I to say that I am more than willing to do my part if any Idaho alumnus want a good knot tied."

"Runt" Albert, '16, has finally found his way to the side of his old crony, Al Kinnison, '16. They are both in the horticultural department at the University of Arizona.

THIS ARGONAUT

This special issue of the Argonaut was decided upon at a recent meeting of Moscow members of the alumni association, unanimous approval having been given a program for utilizing the official student publication which was outlined by L. F. Parsons, executive secretary to President Ernest H. Lindley.

It present plans are carried forward, the alumni will be granted a definite section in the Argonaut each week and an attempt will be made to fill the space so assigned with news of particular and peculiar interest to graduates and former students.

Complete cooperation involves an outlay of two dollars. In the language of magazine subscription agents, this is indeed an unusual opportunity.

A committee composed of President Kjosness, Mrs. Gertrude Hulme, '03, and Graduate Manager Thomas D. Matthews, '07, has named A. J. Priest, '18, pro-tempore alumni editor.

TO FORMER STUDENTS OF IDAHO:

It is an often repeated assertion one hears on the campus and over the state that the Idaho alumni are "dead". This is elaborated with remarks that no signs of life are in evidence among haunts of this extinct species, that their hearts are petrified with disinterestedness, that the spirit of "Idaho Fights" has passed from among them.

How does this strike you, Mr. or Mrs. or Miss Graduate or Former Student? The Executive Committee of the Alumni association doesn't like the seeming truth of these statements.

In fact, your committee has investigated the general spiritual health of former students, and as a result are of the following opinion:

1. The former students are not "dead".
2. On the contrary they are very much alive; their pulse is still strong and regular and the spirit of "Idaho Fights" arouses them to action whenever our tradition are challenged.
3. Former students merely need a field organization thruout which to express their loyalty, interest and activity for Idaho.
4. Former students need to be kept informed as to what the University program is in every department of the school, so that they may act intelligently for the best interests of "Old Idaho".
5. To make all the foregoing possible, the former students need to receive a University publication regularly which is alive with news of interest to them.

How does the opinion of the Executive Committee agree with yours, Former Students?

Look over the "Greater Idaho" program. Examine the Plan of Field Organization recommended by the Alumni association.

Are you going to support both of them? What do you think of a memorial on the campus in honor of Idaho soldiers of the world war?

What about a championship football team? What about Idaho graduates for Idaho jobs?

We expect to hear from you. Let's go!

W. KJOSNESS, '13,
President Alumni Association.

INFLUENZA BAN STILL IN EFFECT ON CAMPUS

No Social Events May Be Held Without Specific Authority

The influenza ban is still on and all students should remember that no public or social events may be held without specific permission or authority from Professor H. T. Lewis. Professor Lewis says he cannot guarantee any more basketball games, but the ban was lifted for the Willamette game Monday night.

An interesting feature of the epidemic this year is the large number of cases among faculty members. Last year the faculty escaped with but one or two cases. Professor Conwell has suffered a relapse and is still ill. Professor Axtell was quite sick but is out now.

Thirty Student Cases.
There have been from 30 to 35 students who have had the influenza, and new cases are being reported right along. Lyle Colburn and Carl Patch are ill at the S. A. E. house. The Hutton home was opened for a girls' hospital with Irene McKay and Miss Brown, nurse, in charge. Five patients are the most to be confined there at one time.

The "Y" hut was taken over for an emergency hospital for the boys. Two men are ill there now.

Volunteers Respond.
In his call for volunteer nurses and assistants Professor Lewis had very good responses from the Chi Delta Phi, Gamma Phi Beta, Delta Gamma, Kappa Sigma, Sigma Nu and Phi Delt houses.

During the epidemic all individual health claims have been suspended and the money spent for hospital supplies and overhead expenses. The health claims will be established again as soon as the ban is lifted.

PROF. PH. SOULEN PLACES TWO STUDENT TEACHERS

Gertrude Sabin has accepted a position as teacher of a Shoshone county school near Wallace. Gustave Carlson, a senior, has accepted a position in the school at Asotin.

In speaking of these students Professor Soulen of the education department today said, "These cases illustrate the value to students, who cannot remain at the university the full four years without an opportunity to earn expenses, of a well paying teaching position, which will enable them to begin earning immediately."

BOARD PLEASED

Satisfaction with progress made in the past year and with the present university outlook was expressed by members of the state board of education at a recent meeting held in Boise when President Ernest H. Lindley of the University of Idaho reported on the institution's 1919 achievements. Numerous university problems, among them the salary question, were discussed by the board which is now engaged in an attempt to adjust adequately the salary situation.

CAMPUS ROOMER

The Glee Club, like the prodigal son, we once more welcome to our busiasium amid wild enthusiasm. "Barn storming and one night stands are grate on the nerves," said Mr. Bangs, when interviewed, "but Roscoe never lost his nerve once. Stalker's rendition of "I Was a Vegetarian, But Now I'm a Nut," was the hit of the evening. However, he was quick on the dodge, and was only hit three times on the entire trip. Our most harrowing experience was at Pocatello where inspectors found several bottles in Mike Compton's suit case.

Our soaring hopes were dashed to bits, when the bottles were pronounced empty, but we sustained this disappointment as best we could."

Bill Sutherland was almost lost in Caldwell, where he was attempting to masquerade as an orange aid to a sister of one of his fraternity brothers.

Les Moe was so afraid of being attacked by the rabbits in south Idaho that he refused to room near sagebrush unarmed, but the club declares that he usually had about three on each arm.

Pre-Initiation, It's Symptoms and Proper Care.

Pre-initiation is a form of violence experienced by all Greeks and inflicted by them upon the frothy frosh, for his own good. It has all the danger of home life and none of the comforts. It is the time of oysters and hard tack. Its symbol is silence, it's coat of arms, the paddle. Silence lends consent, and the paddle does the rest. It combines all the terror of the Last Judgement with the awfulness of a peanut butter sandwich. It is the one time in the year when the upper-classes are bent on duck hunting and the freshmen are addicted to robit digging. The water runs cold in the pipes, and "I'm Forever Blowing Bubbles" is the favorite frosh song. "Dead men tell no tales" used to be the motto of the Sophomores during such trying times, but since the passage of a law forcing the fraternity to pay funeral expenses of all the deceased, and to maintain all the permanently injured on life pensions, pre-initiations have taken on a less dangerous form.

As a result of the above described malady, the S. A. E.'s have been giving their Frosh lessons in second story climbing. Paper hanging in paradise also fell to the lot of one of their freshmen. The Sigma Nus are giving their frosh courses in rapid calculation, which consists in counting all the shingles on their abode within six hours. The A. K. E.'s frosh sprouted forth in cowl collars and string ties. Celluloid collars were first adopted, but due to the premature explosion of Vaughn Price's at the Kappa house, when he became too hot under the collar, these were abandoned for the Arrow variety. The Kappa Sigs were high-browed by the operatic attempts of their pledges, but the frosh were soon "beaten" at their own game. The Betas always endeavor to develop sprinters during probation week. Ubiquitous Cupid hovered for an instant over the group of wandering minstrels that lately issued from the furtive dart in the presence of seventeen onlookers, whisked the badge of Sigma Nu from the vest of one of the harpers of mirthful ditties and pinned it to the fair bosom of the leading lady, just below her "Anchor."

That evening, with surging pulse and emaciated pocketbook, Gipson passed the cigars. Because of his callowness in matters relating to the culture of fraternity pins on flowered camisoles, Nathlie saved him further embarrassment by furnishing her own candy, which consisted of all day suckers daintily wrapped in oiled

PROMISE BIG WELCOME

One Group Offers Carte Blanche to Those Who Would Wield Paddle

Recognizing the value of fraternities and sororities as agencies through which graduates may be reached, officials of the university alumni association have enlisted the co-operation of Idaho's Greek letter groups in a drive for greater efficiency in the alumni organization.

Graduates who return to the campus have been assured that their welcome will be cordial and enthusiastic. One fraternity has even gone to the extent of offering its freshmen up on the altar of hospitality by the time-honored paddle route.

Here are exhortations addressed to the entire alumni group by the different fraternities and sororities:

KAPPA SIGMA
Co-operation, in all its ramifications of meaning, becomes a vastly significant word when the relations of alumni with their institution are discussed. Keep in touch with the university by correspondence and, whenever possible, by personal contact; serve zealously in your local alumni organization; bring high school students to the conviction that there can be for them but one university; respond wholeheartedly whenever you are given an opportunity to serve the institution. Co-operate, yes, that's the word—co-operate.

PHI DELTA THETA
A spirit of unity should prevail between those of us who are still on the campus and the men who have brought glory to the name of Idaho in years gone by. Let us all pull together for a bigger and better Idaho; next year should be the best in the history of the institution.

BETA THETA PI
Consider the high school graduate, that he may not find his way to some far-eastern institution. In emulation of the well known robin said to have been up and stirring at the crack of dawn, begin early with the youngster who has college aspirations and stay with him until he has purchased a ticket for "Moscow". Personal influences almost always are responsible for the final selection of an alma mater. If you consistently do your duty, every Idaho high school graduate will choose well and wisely.

SIGMA NU
What we want is co-operation. We want you to get in touch with your University, not for the reason that the University might "touch" you, but to let her know that you are behind her. Let her feel that you think she is pursuing a right course, and if you don't think so, let her know that also. Just give her a chance to know that her alumni have a hearty interest in her purpose and policy as well as her welfare. Boost, work and worry for a bigger, stronger, and better university. It is up to you. The Editorial staff of the University Argonaut is always glad to receive any dope from the Alumni, and it is always heartily appreciated.

ALPHA KAPPA EPSILON
Hall and salutation to the university's alumni! Mindful of your past and present achievements, we believe that the sustaining and maintaining of your interest is vitally important to this alma mater of ours. We undergraduates stand ready to do our part. Your correspondence will be answered faithfully; your requests will be religiously observed and your voyagings will be accurately chronicled in the Argonaut. Keep in touch. We are always glad to hear from you.

SIGMA ALPHA EPSILON
Greetings to the alumni of the U. of I! To a greater extent than in the past the university is to rely upon its alumni for staunch and loyal support of its athletic and scholastic activities. In the coming period of reconstruction the colleges and the universities are to take a leading part and the men and women who are to back this movement are alumni of these schools who keep in touch with and are boosters for their respective institutions.

GAMMA PHI BETA
Gamma Phi Beta sends you greetings and asks you to remember that you are always welcome on the Idaho campus and at the Gamma Phi house.

Your Alma Mater is proud of the things you have done; she is proud of the things you are going to do, and she earnestly hopes that while you are doing and living you will be working for a bigger and better Idaho.

DELTA GAMMA
To Idaho alumni who have made possible the inspiring past, the splendid present, and the limitless future, greetings from those who are endeavoring to fuse into our alma mater the commendable spirit which you, who have gone before, made manifest.

Realizing that the courageous and chivalrous spirit of old Idaho is but an outgrowth of your own faith and ideals, we feel deeply grateful that you, who aimed so highly, succeeded so well, and that you have left behind such a host of noble standards toward which other generations may ever strive.

These imperishable traditions of the past, which have been our heritage from you, we will endeavor to hand on to the future alumnae of Idaho, as unchanged and inspiring, as when we received them from you.

To you who have made realizable the past, present and future of Idaho—greetings.

KAPPA KAPPA GAMMA
Greetings! From all of us who are so fortunate as to be here to all of you who, at one time, have enjoyed the benefits offered by our University. You can never forget your Idaho and we hope you will not forget us, as your successors, are striving for our alma mater and yours.

CHI DELTA PHI
A tree is judged by its fruits, so the University of Idaho is judged by its alumni. ENGLISH CLUB PLAYS ARE WELL RECEIVED

"Close the Book," "Lonesome Like" and "The Four Flushers" Prove Success

"Close the Book," "Lonesome Like" and "The Four Flushers", three one-act plays, were presented to a well filled auditorium Friday, January 24, by the English Club of the university.

ARTISTS IN DEMAND.
All undergraduates who have ability with either pencil, pen or brush have been asked to report at once to Al Kinney, editor of the Gem of the Mountains. Title pages, photo lay outs and line drawings of every description must be prepared within the coming few weeks. All contributions of this character will be sincerely appreciated.

The plays were given under the direction of Professor Cushman of the English department and were a distinct credit both to his efforts and to those students carrying parts.

Family Trees Displayed

The first of the series, "Close the Book," by Susan Glaspell, was well received. It was a story dealing with genealogical difficulties of a young college professor which naturally ended in the expected way. The cast for "Close the Book" was Jhansie, Miss Carolyn Logan; Peyton Root, the young professor, Fred M. Holland; Mrs. Root, his mother, Helen Ramsey; Uncle George Peyton, Ted Turner; Bessie Root, Avis Selby; State Senator Byrd, Oscar Weaver; Mrs. State Senator Byrd, Margaret Kutenewsky.

"Lonesome Like" Popular

"Lonesome Like," by Harold Brighouse, was a distinctly novel play, cleverly presented. It was a story of old England and the trials and difficulties of a good-hearted but broken "gude wife" who finds a welcome home with an unusual but fine spirited shop worker. The cast was as follows: Sarah Omerod, Eva Hunt; Emma Briery, Nora Ashton; Sam Horrocks, Abe Goff; Rev. Frank Allene, Bryan B. Bundy.

Able Acting in Finale

The third play, "The Four Flushers", by Cleves Kinkead, was saved by the clever acting of its cast.

The plot, ultra-Bohemian and exotically "smart," involved the sundering of two marriage ties, blackmail, the passing of counterfeit money and the desertion of a month's-old child.

Only unusual histrionic ability displayed by those who carried the several leads "put across" this unfortunately selected play.

The cast included Henry Cunningham, Rex Kimmel; Muriel Cunningham, his wife, Edith Dingle; Vincent Dulaney, her affinity, Vaughn Payne; Fuller, their butler, Michael Thometz; An Unexpected Visitor, Margaret Moseley.

The producing staff under which the plays were produced, was composed of Prof. J. H. Cushman, director; Earnest Poe, business manager; Herbert Eberle, stage manager; Gladys Clarke and Verna Wilkinson, properties.

SPEEDY WHITMAN FIVE WILL TACKLE VANDALS

Borleske's Missionaries in Fine Fettle; Expect Season's Largest Crowd

Whitman's speedy Missionaries, conquerors of Oregon, Willamette and a number of lesser rivals, will appear in the university gymnasium Wednesday and Thursday evenings for affrays with Coach Hutchinson's Vandals, who now are traveling their best gait of the current season.

The Walla Walla aggregation is understood to boast the strongest five in Whitman's history, Coach Borleske having started his season with a wealth of both veteran material and ne wblood. "Sticks" Dement, whom Idaho undergraduates will remember as one of the ablest centers in the conference in 1917, and a pair of brilliant freshmen forwards are the particular luminants of the Missionary team.

Lineup May Be Changed

Coach Hutchinson has not yet definitely selected the lineup he will use against Whitman, but he is certain to start Elra Hunter at one forward, Drom Campbell at center and Captain Ernest Lindley at guard. Rich Fax and Chick Evans are merrily battling for one of the forward positions, while Cob Cozier, Bill Carder and Vernon Miller all are earnest candidates for the job of running-mate to "Prex."

The prospective violence of the embroglios scheduled is certain to bring out one of the biggest crowds of the season. Graduate Manager Matthews has announced that both contests will start at 7:30 and has urged those who wish seats to come early.

Garde Wood, yell leader extraordinary, plans to have the gymnasium roof lifted every third minute. He declares that dire things will happen to male undergraduates who attempt to find their way into the balcony.

COLUMBIA GRADUATE WILL DIRECT WORK IN TEXTILES

FOUR BOLD YOUTHS FROM W.S.C. ATTEMPT DESECRATION OF IDAHO CAMPUS; MAY NEVER TRY IT AGAIN

Old-timers who have known the illicit joys of invading Pullman in the early morning or who have joined whoopingly in the pursuit of heinous Washington State college students who attempted to work desecration on the Idaho campus may find themselves stirred by the following University Press Service account of an unsuccessful foray conducted by four young men from the neighboring institution.

Those who have not followed the guerilla warfare which always precedes the annual Idaho-W. S. C. football game may be interested in hearing that three Washington State bell clappers are said to be cherished in the archives of certain Idaho fraternities.

But here is the story:
UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, Moscow.—Feb. 7.—Four undergraduates from Washington State college, knights-errant in the cause of prankishness, made a foray upon the University of Idaho campus early yesterday morning. Today one member of the quartet either reclines or stands while taking nourishment and the other three are chastened, contrite and perhaps even repentant.

Shortly after 1 o'clock yesterday morning, Night Watchman Simpson discovered that a large red "W" had been painted in front of the university administration building. He came upon a similar decoration in front of the engineering building and telephoned to the Kappa Sigma fraternity house word that W. S. C. artists were at work on the campus.

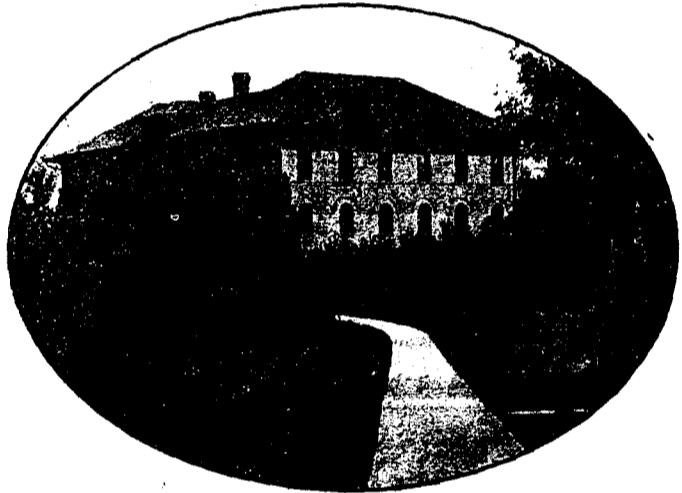

Recruits were obtained from neighboring fraternity houses and a party of 20 headed by Frank Brown, tackle on the Idaho football team and his brother, "Babe", campus heavyweight wrestling champion, began a search of the University property and the business section of Moscow.

Found in the Northern Pacific depot, the four Pullman craftsmen admitted their iniquities and were given the opportunity to choose between a plunge in the murky waters of Paradise creek and an attempt at effacing their decorative efforts.

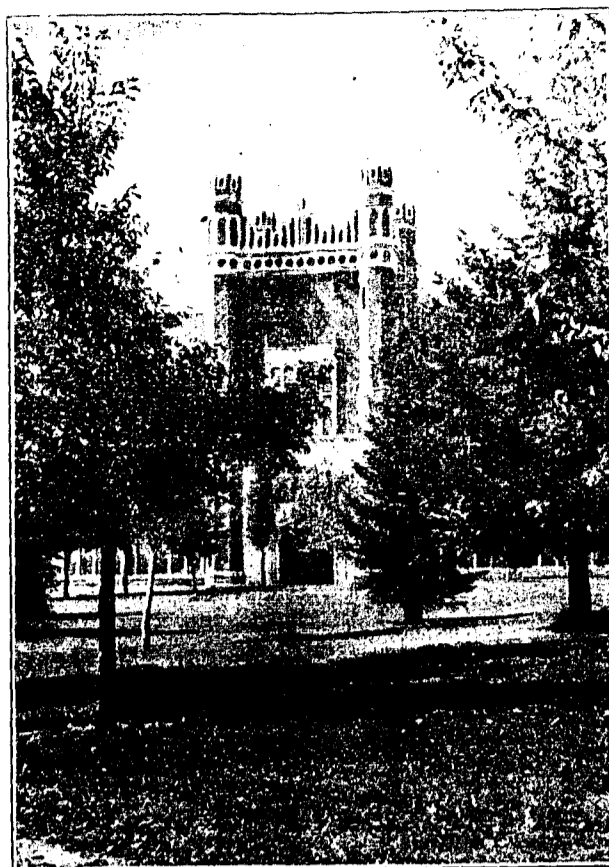

Having unanimously chosen the latter alternative they were supplied with brooms and cleansing compound from the Kappa Sigma house and put to work under the supervision of 10 willing freshmen overseers. One member of the mopping-up squad evinced a tendency to become rough after he had wielded a broom for some ten minutes. A paddle was obtained and he was earnestly warned where contumacious persons are supposed to be warned.

Their work completed, the four gave several Idaho yells, did their best to sing an Idaho song and were put aboard a freight train headed in the direction of Pullman.

Shaft Driven 207 Feet Through Hardest Basalt Rock—Thorough Tests Made

After more than five months of continual effort attended by unusual difficulties, an abundant water supply has been tapped at the university. Tests made with a Bury air compressor over a 42-hour period have produced a flow of 150 gallons to the minute, or approximately 200,000 gallons per day, a total more than three times as great as the present consumption of the university, and, according to H. J. Macintire, professor of mechanical engineering, who has supervised the work of sinking the well, even these figures may be trebled by the use of a large steam turbine pump.

A cave-in which caused a delay of six weeks and a stratum of hard basalt rock 207 feet in depth were the principal difficulties encountered in penetrating to an adequate supply. Rock first was struck after 98 feet of quicksand, clay, loam and soapstone had yielded to the drill and for many weeks the shaft went through the basalt at the rate of only a few inches per day. Fifteen feet of soft, water-bearing sandstone, the source of the well's supply, and 10 feet of blue clay were peep, making the total depth 330 feet.

Will Test Samples.

"Samples have been sent to Boise for chemical and bacteriological analysis," Professor Macintire said, "but we have no reason to believe that the reports will be adverse. The water will be used for every purpose about the university, making that institution entirely independent of Moscow city's mains, but the two systems will be "tied in" with one another in order to guard against possible emergencies.

"Pressure will be supplied by pumping the water a total of 315 feet to the university's 50,000-gallon tank."

C. E. FAVRE, VARSITY CAPTAIN IN 1913, RETURNS TO CAMPUS

Redoubtable Fighting Guard Spends Week Delivering Lectures on General Forestry Subjects

C. E. Favre, a forestry graduate of the 1914 class and now supervisor of the Humboldt National forest in Nevada with headquarters at Elko, Nev., delivered a series of lectures on general forestry subjects at the university the week of January 19 to 24. He stressed particularly national forest administration for the benefit of students who expect to enter the forestry service.

Supervisor Favre, who will be remembered as the fighting guard on three Idaho football teams which defeated Washington State and as captain of the Idaho eleven which won from Pullman 3 to 0 in 1913, made his first visit to the campus in five years. He served as graduate manager in 1914-'15, receiving his master's degree in June of the latter year.
