A. S. U. I. In Meeting Adopt Resolution Expressing Regret At President's Act

Dr. Ernest H. Lindley, president of the University of Idaho since 1917, this afternoon announced his acceptance of the chancellorship of the University of Kansas. His resignation from the Idaho position, tendered this morning to the university board of regents, has been accepted.

Dr. Lindley has only recently returned from a trip to Denver, where he met and conferred with the Kansas board of administration, composed of E. L. Barrier, Wilbur N. Mason and H. J. Penney. It was at this Denver conference that he received a definite tender of the Kansas chancellorship.

After his return to Moscow, President Lindley held several extended conferences with the university advisory committee, composed of the institution's several deans, discussed the situation at length with the entire faculty body and received replies from informative telegrams he had sent to the members of the state board of education. His decision to accept the Kansas tender was made yesterday evening and announced this afternoon.

Considered one of the great institutions of the middle west, the University of Kansas has a student body of more than 4000, and annual income in excess of $1,000,000 and equipment in the way of library and buildings which compares favorably with that of any of the state universities. The duties of its chancellor are identical with those of the president of like institutions.

President Lindley, who received his Ph. D. degree from Clark university and his B. A. and M. A. degrees at Indiana university, came to Idaho from his alma mater, where he had served as professor of philosophy and psychology from 1902 to 1917. He has an international reputation as a psychologist and as a student of social conditions.

Speaking this afternoon before the special student assembly, President Lindley told the story of his final acceptance of the Kansas position, explaining in detail the conferences which finally led to his decision. He also referred briefly to the university situation at the time he came to Idaho in 1917.

"At the present moment," he declared, "there are no clouds in the university sky. I leave with a serene conviction that the university has the firm security of lodgment in the affections of the people of the state. I do not hesitate to express the belief that the coming college year will be a period of prosperity unparalleled in the history of this institution."

Ramsay M. Walker of Wallace, president of the state board of education, expressed his regret at President Lindley's departure and went on

"It is with profound regret that the board of regents faces the loss of President Lindley. Dr. Lindley kept me fully advised by wire of the steps in the progress of the negotiations and his election as Chancellor of the University of Kansas, and while I personally regret the decision more than I can express, nevertheless I recognize the fact that it is one of those exigencies that every state in-

BOARD OF REGENTS ATTEND

All Unite in Expressing Regret At Departure of President Lindley

A dance given in honor of the alumni and seniors of the University and attended by a large group of undergraduates and guests of honor, yesterday ended what is said to be the most successful alumni home coming day that the University has yet seen.

At ten o'clock the visiting alumni gathered in an alumni council meeting, where plans for the summer and coming year were discussed.

The afternoon opened with a business meeting, a detailed account of which occurs elsewhere, after which the old grads spent a period in renewing old acquaintances with the various parts of the campus.

At six p. m. the alumni were guests at a banquet served on the lawn of Ridenbaugh Hall. After the dinner there was no speech making, but a friendly time of visiting and exchange of college reminiscences was enjoyed by all.

Alumni Are Optimistic. The universal sentiment of the alumni, expressed at this time was that the alumni work was enjoying a rapid progress and improving rapidly. It was said that this group was the most representative that had been drawn to the university in a long period of time. All were unanimous in their disappointment at the departure of President Lindley.

After the dinner the body went at once to the President's reception in Ridenbaugh hall. At ten o'clock all adjourned to the alumni dance in the gymnasium.

The guests of honor at the Board of Regents banquet were: Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bryan, Boise; Mr. Lippincott, Idaho City; Miss Redfield, Boise; Mr. Rockwell, Hailey; Mr. Evan Evans, Grangeville; Ramsey Walker, Wallace; Mr. Price, Boise; President and Mrs. Lindley and Mr. and Mrs. Parsons, of Moscow.

Among those who were present at the activities of alumni day were Mrs. Rose Forney Harrison, Jerome J. Day, Mr. and Mrs. Nofstger, Moscow; Mr. and Mrs. D. Franklin Baker, Walla Walla; Mr. and Mrs. Averill, Spokane; Mrs. Bejohn, Moscow; Ruth Fogle, Moscow; Kathryn Bryden, Pullman; Mr. and Mrs. Homer David, Mr. and Mrs. Howard David, Moscow; Mr. Strovchr, Falk; Agnes Bailey, Kendrick; Annette McCallie, Kamiah; Mrs. Ira Dole, Lewiston; James Gwinn, Kellogg; William Snow, Gilmore; R. O. Jones, and Mr. Fluharty, Boise; Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Mix, Mr. and Mrs. Horton, Moscow; Mr. and Mrs. William Lee, Moscow; Mr. and Mrs. Orland, Moscow; Mrs. Mabel Price, Gertrude Stephenson, Esther Thomas and the members of the senior class.

Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bernard, Anacanda; Dr. and Mrs. Watts, Chicago; Mr. and Mrs. Frank La Frenz, Copur d'Alene; Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Beier; Mr. Harvey Smith, Linda Rae, T. D. Matthews, Mrs. Lester Alberts, Mrs. Hulme, Maria Moody, and Miss Belle Willis, of Moscow.

Credit Due Miss Thomas. "Much credit is due Miss Esther Thomas for the success of this alumni home coming day," was a statement made by Alumni President Kjosness yesterday evening.

President Lindley Makes Statement

The appointment as Chancellor of the University of Kansas came without solicitation, and the opportunities there offered are of such character as to justify acceptance. This decision, however, was reached only after counsel with the Commissioner of Education, members of the Board of Regents, members of the faculty, and other friends of the University. The unanimous judgment was that the appointment should be accepted.

The investigation conducted by the Kansas Board of Administration revealed the high estimation in which the work of the University of Idaho is now held by educational leaders of the country. This confirmed my own judgment that the University is at least secure with the only security which a state university may enjoy, namely, firm establishment in the affections of the people of the state. This success of the University is due not to one man but to many working in cooperation. Some years ago there were many clouds threatening the University, but today there seem to be none. Every friend of the institution may confidently count on a rapid advance provided all supporters of the University strive valiantly to make known the needs of the institution and to work consistently toward means for the satisfaction of those needs. The people should know that the University not only is the indispensable organ of the higher life of the state, but that also it is the greatest wealth producing agency within the state. It has added more within a few years to the actual wealth of Idaho than it has received from state and nation since its foundation. The generous support of the University by the state does not constitute a tax, but a great dividend paying investment. If the alumni and friends believe this and present it adequately to their neighbors, nothing can stop the splendid advance of the University.

Idaho has resources, human and material, which may well make her one of the greatest of American states. She cannot, however, become great without a great university. I have profound faith that the people of the state will provide for a great university.

Mrs. Lindley and myself leave Idaho with keenest personal regret. We shall not forget the loyal friendships and the unfailing kindness of great hearted men and women.

LAST ANNUAL LOT WILL BE HERE TODAY

All Are Urged To Get Books As Early As Possible At The Argonaut Office

The final consignment of "Gem of the Mountains" will arrive today and will be placed in the hands of students as rapidly as possible. Business Manager Langroise stated today that he especially anxious for all students to call for their annuals at once.

"From present appearances," said the Business Bill today, "the managers will be held here for approximately ten days after school to mail out annuals to students who have left early, and unless the remaining students show alacrity in calling for their annuals, we will be held here even longer. All bills and accounts must be settled up in full before we leave school and this can only be done by having the cooperation of the students. A few days delay now may mean two weeks delay in closing the business of the Gem of the Mountains."

were in attendance. President Lindley made only brief reference to his recent resignation, placing the principal emphasis of his address on the probabilities of the rapid growth and expansion of the university. He declared that the alumni can play a vastly important part in accelerating the institution's progress.

Among the matters discussed was a proposal to erect on the university campus a memorial tower or campanile honoring Idaho men who gave their lives in the recent war. George Horton, '06, chairman of the committee having the matter in charge, reported that the structure contemplated will cost in the neighborhood of $40,000.

Unanimous approval was given proposals for continuing the alumni section of the "University Argonaut" in the coming year and for proceeding aggressively with the organization of university clubs throughout the state. Plans also were made to present to Boise alumni a large panorama picture of the university campus to be placed in the state capitol building.

Resolutions were adopted expressing regret at President Lindley's decision to accept the chancellorship of the University of Kansas.

stitution must face, not once, but many times. Kansas is much larger, richer, and older than Idaho, and its University has been longer established. It could and did decide to pay a salary that Idaho could not meet at the present time. On the other hand, it opened up an opportunity that President Lindley could not properly refuse to accept.

"We, therefore, bow to the inevitable feeling that Idaho has been highly complemented, and that a sister state will receive what we have lost. In the past three years, President Lindley has greatly deepened the affection of the people of Idaho for their University. He has instilled a splendid spirit into the student body and faculty, and has endeared himself to the citizens of Moscow. The loss of Mrs. Lindley will be deeply felt by the University and the city.

"As to the future, we may look with equanimity to that. The large increase in attendance the past year will, we believe, be duplicated next year. The future of the University is assured. The devotion of the faculty, students, and alumni will be matched by the determination of the people of the state to make a great and ever greater University."

PRESIDENT DELIVERS IMPRESSIVE ADDRESS

Violin Solo By Prof. Dickinson and Anthem By University Chorus Complete Baccalaureate Service

"Culture and the World's Work" was the subject of the baccalaureate address, delivered to the graduating class and their friends by Dr. Lindley in the University auditorium.

In his customary dignified and masterly style, Dr. Lindley enlarged upon the theme that hard, honest work is fast coming to take its place beside the fine arts in the eyes of the world.

"The Omnipotence," a sonorous Schubert anthem, with orchestra, was effectively sung by the University chorus.

Bach's beautiful and familiar "Air on the G. String" for violin, was delightfully interpreted by Prof. John Dickinson.

The auditorium stage, beautifully decorated with ferns and roses by Miss Palmer, formed a fitting setting for what a member of the faculty pronounced as one of the most impressive baccalaureate services that he had seen.

PRESIDENT LINDLEY

It is with sincere regret that the Associated students of the University have learned of the resignation of President Lindley.

Doctor Lindley came here in the summer of 1917 as the successor to President E. A. Brannon, undoubtedly the most popular University executive in the history of the institution, up to that time. He came as the successor of a man who had striven unceasingly, untiringly, to make the University the queen of the West. The results of this work can scarcely be portrayed by such an article as this. The results speak for themselves. "Idaho" developed from a small institution into a truly great University, known and respected the country over. Doctor Brannon found his way into the heart of every student who came into contact with him.

It was as successor to such a man as this that President Lindley came to us. His position was undoubtedly trying. He came from the East, into a wholly different region, with different ideals and aspects. From a country old and staid in its ways, he came to a new country, bustling with life, virile and ever changing. A country which had as yet to form its ideals, to gain its growth and solidity.

Whatever prejudices and apprehensions which may have been held against Doctor Lindley soon disappeared on his arrival. He found his way to the hearts of the student body, of the faculty, the people of Moscow, and of the state in general. His quiet reserve, coupled with intense sympathy for mankind, his appreciation of student attitudes and ideals, his wonderful ability to organize and direct the policies of this great institution and lastly, his unstinted efforts in fostering the development and usefulness of the University, have placed him as a ranking figure in the "Hero Halls" of all who have known him.

President Lindley will be missed. When he has gone, the University and the state of Idaho will have lost a true friend, and unceasing worker; they will have lost a great executive and a man great in the love of his acquaintances. Too much cannot be said of his accomplishments, in fact they are beyond epitomizing. He has carried out the ideals and plans of his predecessor, he has moved the goal of Idaho's accomplishments far ahead, and under him the school has developed with swiftness and steadiness which speaks far better for him than the feeble praise which we may utter here.

The students of the University, thru the columns of the Argonaut, say goodbye to President Lindley with a regret which is sincere, and wish God speed with a spirit akin to devotion.

R. F. HUTCHINSON

Coach R. G. Hutchinson arrived on the campus early last fall, from George Washington University where he had had a very successful career as a coach, particularly in football. When he came to the Idaho campus his duties were those of an assistant football coach. He turned every effort to the Idaho squad and showed them many new principles of football which he had witnessed and practiced in his own college football career and during his many years as a coach. Coach Hutchinson took a real interest in the school from the start and determined to make the best of everything. This he has surely done.

As the football situation developed throughout the season many obstacles and handicaps presented themselves. Just a week before the biggest game of the season our friend Hutchinson was given the responsibility of the Idaho team. His chances to defeat W. S. C. in the short time before the game were few. But in spite of the apparent strength of the foe he faced the issue and put a team of scrappers onto the field. Following the W. S. C. game he worked constantly with the team and when the Gonzaga game was played in Spokane, Idaho displayed a football team such as has not been seen here for many years.

Then came the basketball season. Regular practices were held before the holidays. These practices were preliminary to actual scrimmages in their purpose. From the first practice this season the men were in excellent condition. There are no hard luck stories to tell. The coach did his part and in consideration of the fact that it was his first year with the squad, put out a fine basketball team.

This spring Coach Hutchinson has exerted every effort to make for Idaho a real base ball team. Also during the baseball season he aided the track coach in training his jumpers and hurdlers. But to return to base ball, we have one of Idaho's most successful seasons to recall. Does anyone now in school remember when Idaho defeated W. S. C. prior to this past season? No, not many of us. It hasn't been done of late. How frequently does a coach develop a man in one season who has never before played base ball? These are some of the things that our friend Hutchinson has done for Idaho.

Next year he will be with us to make every thing for a bigger and better Idaho. He is a worker. He has a broad interest in all of the phases of University life. He has proven himself a true friend of student life and we may justly expect great things of him in the course of the coming seasons.

T. D. MATTHEWS.

When we think of the try-out for the Olympic Games, to whom is the credit due that Idaho should have three men to enter? Coach T. D. Matthews, '07, has been with the Idaho track team for the past two seasons. He has done all in his power to fit Idaho's men for competition of the high standard in which they will compete at Pasadena.

"Tom" won't be with us from now on, as far as coaching is concerned. But we can bank on him as a real support for the University. In the days when he was carrying collegiate work he wore the "I" proudly. He went to college when Idaho first knew the title of "Idaho Fights." Through-out the past two seasons he has instilled in many of our athletes that "Old Idaho Spirit" so that they realize an obligation to their Alma Mater more keenly than they ever did before.

When it comes to a man that is always on the job for Idaho, we owe "Tom" a place among the first. He is an active alumnus and as he severs his direct connections with the University we need not fear that his good work will cease. As he enters into business life in the Inland Empire, Idaho may well record the success of another of her eminent boosters.

PROFESSOR BROWNELL

Professor Baker Brownell, for the past year assistant professor of English, has announced his intention of leaving the University to take a position with the Chicago Daily News as editorial writer.

In Professor Brownell, the University is losing one of the most capable, and one of the most admired instructors that the school has had the good fortune to employ during the past year. The Argonaut especially will feel his loss, as it has been due to his unflagging interest, his cheerful encouragement, and his broad sympathy with the student attitude that the paper has made what progress it has made during the past terms. To know Mr. Brownell has been to admire him.

The position that he is taking is one of high rank among the journalistic lines. The Chicago News being probably the greatest afternoon daily in the country, a position on its editorial staff requires an occupant who has the keenest of outlooks on the current happenings and problems of the day, and superlative ability as a writer.

The entire student body joins the Argonaut in wishing Mr. Brownell all success in his new work.

THE LOYAL STUDENT

One more day of school and the college year is a thing of the past. The months of work, the times of pleasure will soon be but memories. But our work, our duty to the school has not ceased with the completion of examinations. We have not finished our work when we have received the coveted sheepskin. And when the last farewell to college friends has been uttered, and we gaze from the car windows at the fast receding panorama of the beautiful University, we still have not finished our work here. The University is a bigger, better institution than the buildings which house it here. It is bigger than its traditions, its histories, its legends and its cherished memories.

The University of Idaho. Those words have a far more comprehensive scope than the name of a place or a thing. THE UNIVERSITY, think of it, THE UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO. That is what it means, the one great institution of this state. An institution whose scope of usefulness and duty is bounded only by the confines of the state itself. It is a part of Idaho, it should serve, and be a part of the entire state. Our service to her is not limited in time by the four years or so, which are spent here; they are numbered only by the years of our life.

There is no questioning the loyalty of the Idaho student. We who have been here love her, revere her. But there are countless hundreds of embryo Idaho students who have not as yet heard the wonderful story of her greatness, her usefulness; who have not listened to the tales of her accomplishments, nor reveled in her traditions. To these, departing student, you owe a positive obligation, a duty that you must not, cannot shirk, if you are to be a loyal son or daughter of Idaho. Tell the youths of Idaho of their one great institution. Explain the opportunities she offers; her usefulness to the oncoming citizenry of Idaho; take the time to tell every high school friend of yours of her legends, her traditions and her accomplishments. You have a thorough knowledge of the various departments of the University, you are acquainted with their work and their possibilities. There are hundreds of Idaho's best who would consider this information invaluable. And in results, the dissemination of this information would be priceless to the University. Spread it; preach it if necessary. See that every Idaho possibility is supplied with a catalog, and then take the time to personally explain and expound on the necessarily limited statements contained there.

You, departing student, are the University of Idaho. Live it, and make it your duty to pass on what you have gained here.

A wrestling match, staged by Patch of Payette, and Friedman, of Lewiston, occupied the attention of the visitors for the next few minutes. Following this, a bout with ten ounce gloves between Forest of Lewiston, and Johnson, of Gooding, entertained the dollar jugglers.

Irving, Perrine, and McCallie, Idaho's three Olympic prospects, were introduced to the assemblage by A. J. Priest. Much enthusiasm was aroused, one of the most violently effected of the guests leading in nine lusty hurrahs for the three boys.

A Resolution

Lindley, an honorary member of this club, has tendered his resignation as President of the University of Idaho in order to accept the Chancellorship of the University of Kansas; and WHEREAS, Dr. Lindley has manifested great ability and remarkable zeal in bringing to the attention of the people of Idaho the fact that this university belongs to all the people of the state; and in extending the work of the university to every section of the state, thus bringing the university and its work into actual contact with the state's every interest and industry;

Bankers Donate

Following the festivities on the lawn, a dinner was served on the lawn at Riddenbaugh hall. Although a shower was threatening, it is reported that all enjoyed themselves.

While the financiers were engaged in mastiffing the repast, one of their number took it upon himself to pass the hat, and $121 was raised to help in sending the athletes to the tryouts. Following the dinner, several parties of the bankers went on a tour of the various fraternity and sorority houses of the campus.

FLUHARTY SPEAKS FOR EXTENSION STAFF

Reflects Keen Sense of Loss Felt By That Body And High Esteem Of Lindley

The Extension Division staff of the University of Idaho feels very keenly the loss of Dr. E. H. Lindley's leadership. His splendid analysis of the problems confronting the extension workers and the constructive policy which were adopted for their solution were always a source of inspiration. Dr. Lindley goes to his new field with the best wishes of the extension staff for a successful administration.

SOCIAL & PERSONAL

With the advent of commencement, society on the campus, in its usual forms, takes a slump. The popular picnic has dwindled to the private affairs for from two to six, which are of too tender and private a nature to be made public through the screaming columns of the social press. "TWELFTH NIGHT" IS SUCCESSFULLY PLAYED

In spite of the stormy night one of the largest and most enthusiastic audiences of the year greeted the production of the Senior play last night at the University Auditorium. The cast and the coach express great regret that the performance could not be given out of doors, as planned from the beginning, but the enthusiasm of the audience showed that the cast had sufficient adaptability to give an excellent performance even when the whole plan was changed within less than twelve hours. A part of the effect of the outdoor performance was given by the woodland setting of the stage and the running of the play straight thru without interruption except for the Elizabethan change of placards by little Morey Miller, who acted as page to the Duke. In this way the long waits of the ordinary Shakespearean performance, with the drop of the curtain and the change of scenery, was completely eliminated, and last night's play proved again, as the last two Commencement plays did, that Shakespeare's own method of performance pleases a modern audience.

Ordinarily it would be ungracious to single out individual players for praise in a well balanced cast, but the unusual work of a number of the Seniors call for the mention of the charm of Mary McKenna as the disguised Viola, the frank yet dignified impersonation of Olivia by Marion Byrns, the impudent attractiveness of Verie Oliver's Maria, the excellent rendition of the love-sick Duke by Ambrose Johnson, the complete foolishness of Leonard Yost's Sir Andrew Aguecheek, the magnificent bombastic humor of Ernest Poe's Sir Toby Belch, the equally magnificent egotism of Ernest Lindley's Malvolio, the perfect "fool" of Roscoe Jones' Clown, and the sincerity of Kenneth Newland's Sebastian. The lesser parts were taken most capably by Ray Agee, Felix Plastino, Howard Staples, Pitman Atwood, Lew Morris, and Margaret Byrns. The whole community owes a debt of gratitude to the Class of 1920 for its excellent continuance of the custom started two years ago.

Following the play Dr. G. M. Miller, head of the English department, who had direction of the play, entertained the senior class at a luncheon at the Bon Ton. The senior class presented Dr. and Mrs. Miller with a handsome silver coffee urn, as a token of their appreciation of the great interest he has taken in the class and his untiring efforts to make the senior play a success.

"You bet we will back Irving. Call on us for anything that you need," was the encouraging substance of a telegram received from the Rupert, Idaho, commercial club, read in an assembly held to boost the raising of funds to send three Idaho men to the Olympic tryouts last Friday.

Enthusiastic talks were made by Track Coach Tom Matthews, A. J. Priest, who has charge of the raising of the funds, and President Langroise of the A. S. U. I.

The shouting being over, cards were passed to the students in the audience, and approximately $100 was subscribed to the fund.

A. J. Priest, in commenting on the returns of the drive for funds said today: "The money is coming along as well as was expected. There is cause for nothing but encouragement. For obvious reasons, student donations are somewhat slow in coming in."

A Resolution

In view of the resignation of Dr. Ernest H. Lindley as President of the University of Idaho, we, the members of the Faculty, take this means of expressing our recognition of the unflinching courtesy, deep sympathy, and high idealism which have characterized his personal and official relations with us as members of his faculty.

We recognize too, that during the regrettably short time he has been President of the University he has endeared the institution to the people of the State as never before and has planted it more firmly in their hearts. We feel that this University will forever be the richer and that its ideals will forever be the higher because of his having been its president.

We appreciate the distinction which is conferred upon this University and upon its faculty by reason of his being called to an older institution and it is only because we realize that this means a great advancement to him that we accept without protest this severance of his relation with us.

The three years of President Lindley's administration mark, we believe, one of the most important eras in the life and growth of the University of Idaho—a fact indeed, largely responsible for the State of Kansas calling him to her service.

Our best wishes go with him and with his wife who has contributed in such large measure to the success of his administration, and we on our part pledge to him and to our commonwealth our earnest endeavor to maintain the University of Idaho upon such a plane that he will be forever proud to have been its one-time President.

For the Faculty of the University of Idaho.

IDAHO GRABS LAST BALL GAME OF YEAR

Trim Cougars on Local Grounds In Close Game By Score of 4-1

ED FORAN PITCHES WELL

Allows Pullmanites Only Five Hits In Nine Innings—Is Good Game

Ed Foran, Idaho's star right hander, pitched the best ball that has been seen in Moscow for the last five years and let the wind out of Washington State's sail last Saturday, by allowing only five scattered hits and a single counter. Idaho letter men landed on Cook, the W. S. C. heaver for eight beautiful swats and four trips around the diamond.

Foran had the Washington men under his thumb throughout the entire game and seemingly registered strikeouts at will. Ten wielders of the willow faced Eddie and walked back to the bench wondering what the little white thing was at which they had swung so hard and wild. There was only one time in the entire game when the cow chasers were able to bunch their blows. In the eighth frame, Cook of W. S. C., doubled to deep right field and scored from second on a single to left field by Rocky.

Idaho set the pace for the first round, poling out four beautiful blows which netted two counters. Fast work on the part of Washington nailed two men at the plate. The third frame was marked by a single, a sacrifice out and a passed ball which allowed Grover Evans to score, the Pullman catcher dropping the ball in an extremely close play.

Chick Evans banged the pill into the race track in the eighth and took three. Moe whaled a long sacrifice fly into right field, Evans scoring from third after the catch.

The sensations of the game were furnished by Benson of W. S. C. who made two wonderful catches in the middle gardens, and a wonderful exhibit by Fox who pulled down a long drive of Hanley's in the central sector, and the three ply swats of Evans and Moe. Idaho stole all the sacks on the field from W. S. C. and not a single man was nailed with the goods.

The game was unusually peppy and was played in remarkably short time.

The score: R. H. E.
Idaho 4 8 2
W. S. C. 1 5 2
Batteries—Foran and Fox; Cook and Graham. Umpire, Moss.

Idaho Drops Introductory Game. Washington's Cougars took the initial battle at W. S. C. on Friday by the long end of a 9-8 score. Both Breshears of Idaho and Lewis of Pullman allowed nine swats. Five homers were the features of the wrangle, Paul Evans and James Fox of Idaho each connecting for round trip tickets and Hanley, King and Morgan of Washington also drove the horsehide far enough to entitle them to complete circuits.

Idaho held the lead from the start until the ninth, when an overthrow at first let in two runs and victory for the Cougars.

Score: R. H. E.
W. S. C. 9 9 4
Idaho 8 9 2
Batteries—W. S. C., Lewis and Watson; Idaho, Breshears and R. Fox. Umpire, Moss of W. S. C.

RESOLUTION ADOPTED BY A. S. U. I.

Among several resolutions passed by Moscow organizations was the following expression adopted unanimously at a meeting of the university student body:

Whereas, Dr. Ernest H. Lindley, in his three years of service as president of the University of Idaho, has lifted our alma mater from a condition of near chaos to a high place among the educational institutions of the United States, and

Whereas, university alumni and undergraduates have known in President Lindley an inspiring leader and a kindly, considerate friend whose pervasive influence has rendered the university community singularly free from those dissensions which often afflict college campuses, and

Whereas, although from the standpoint of self-interest we members of the university student body cannot but regret poignantly President Lindley's call to larger fields of opportunity, we nevertheless appreciate so keenly the inestimable value of his service at Idaho that we now think only of the advancement he is about to make,

Therefore be it resolved, that we, the Associated Students of the University of Idaho, do hereby tender to President Lindley our hearty congratulations and our cordial good wishes for success in the tasks he will assume as Chancellor of the University of Kansas, and

Be it further resolved, that we cannot refrain from felicitating the University of Kansas on its selection of the man who has so shaped the destinies of our own institution that we never shall gravitate from the high plane to which we have been carried, and,

Be it further resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be placed in the hands of President Lindley and that copies be sent to Governor Davis of Idaho and to Governor Allen of Kansas and that a copy be spread upon the minutes of this organization.

MANILLA REED,
Treasurer of A. S. U. I.

PRESIDENT LINDLEY LEAVES U. OF I. FOR KANSAS

to echo the president's belief in the university.

"The University of Idaho will carry on," he said. "We have no idea who your next president will be, but somewhere in the educational world there is a man now perhaps unknown who will become the Lindley, the Suzzallo or the Bryan of the future."

David Starr Jordan, chancellor-emeritus of Stanford university; President-elect L. D. Coffman of the University of Minnesota; President Henry Suzzallo of the University of Washington; President William L. Bryan of Indiana university; William Allen White, famous Kansas journalist; President W. A. Jessup of the University of Iowa and others prominent both in education and in other fields, were among those who urged President Lindley to accept the Kansas Chancellorship.

Among the several congratulatory telegrams received by President Lindley this morning was a message from Dr. Frank Strong, retiring chancellor of Kansas university expressing his pleasure at Dr. Lindley's appointment, and promising him a loyal and cordial reception when he arrives on the Lawrence campus.

Dr. E. A. Bryan, state commissioner of education, who was among the first with whom the president consulted when the tender was made to him, also advised that this offer of a larger field of opportunity be accepted. Dr. Bryan is now in Moscow for the meeting of the state board.
