SILVER AND GOLD HUSKIES OFF FOR UTAH CLASSIC AT CAPITOL

DOPE SINCE W. S. C.-CALIFORNIA GAME LOWERS HOPES FOR BIG VICTORY. MORMANS SAID TO HAVE SOME REAL LUMINANTS IN BACKFIELD. MONEY FAVORS IDAHO.

VARSITY IS CRIPPLED

SEVERAL FIRST LINERS INJURED IN WHITMAN CLASH SATURDAY. 20 MEN MAKE TRIP

GREAT ATTENDANCE EXPECTED

Committees Report Central Idaho Will Flock For First Annual Armistice Day Game.

Coach Kelley and his aggregation of 20 huskies skilled in the great American college game of football, will leave today for Boise where they will play the most important game of the season when they meet the much touted University of Utah eleven on Armistice Day for the first of the annual Victory Day classics.

From a standpoint of benefit to the University, this is said to be the most important game of the season. Being played as it is, in central Idaho, where there is an extreme dearth of collegiate football, the game is expected to draw the greatest crowd of football fans ever assembled on an Idaho field. There are thousands of loyal university friends within a few miles of the Capital city who have never seen the Silver and Gold Monitors in action, and reports from committees state that Boise will be packed to the limits with people who are there to get their first look at the Idaho squad in action.

Student hopes for an overwhelming victory as a result of the Armistice Day contest, took a sudden decline when the news was received of the California-W. S. C. game in which the Over the Liners received a 49-0 walloping at the hands of the Golden State eleven. Two weeks ago, Utah met this same aggregation and was whipped to the tune of a 63-0 score. This landslide in favor of the Californians was taken as an indication that the Mormon aggregation was not of conference calibre. But when the Washington Farmers, who have been held up as contenders for Pacific championship, were given the whaling of their lives, it appears that the result of the California-Utah game is a poor gauge by which to measure the strength of the Utah eleven.

Disregarding the fluke which gave Idaho her touchdown against W. S. C. it appears that the dope would indicate that Idaho and Utah are to be very evenly matched.

Coach Kelley is not suffering from over confidence, as indicated by a remark he made shortly before the paper went to press. He stated: "Utah and Idaho have met twice in recent years, and on each occasion Utah has been victorious. We have absolutely no reason for feeling confident. If Idaho wins, my men must play the game of their lives."

Coach Fitzpatrick has some luminous material in his squad. Swan, Utah's star tackle is making an enviable reputation in football circles. Romig is said to be a half of decidedly more than ordinary ability, and the Mormon center has an awe inspiring drive to his playing.

As a result of the Idaho-Whitman game last Saturday, Coach Kelley has been faced with the problem of getting several crippled men into shape for the coming game. Two Varsity men are badly banged up, and several sub players are in poor condition for a hard game.

The Varsity has been put through the last hard workout before the game and added the finishing touches Monday evening. The wrecking crew left at 8:45 this morning and should arrive in Boise early Wednesday morning.

The following men will make the trip: Captain Felix Plastino of Pocatello, Grover Evans of American Falls, Justin Gowen of Caldwell, J. A. Brown and Frank Brown of Boise, Vernon Patch of Payette, Carl Nagel of Genesee, Jim Neal of Boise, Pat Perrine of Nez Perce, Herbert Glindeman of Coeur d'Alene, Neil Irving of Rupert, Howard, Arnold, and Sherman, Breashears of Caldwell, Joe Whitcomb of Lewiston, George Pearson of Boise, Rick Fox of Nez Perce, Fred Schmid of Payette, Earl Parks of Caldwell, Abe Goff of Colfax and Wesley Barton of Moscow.

UNIVERSITY SENDS CAR OF LIVESTOCK TO LEWISTON

The College of Agriculture has sent an entire car of its choicest stock to the Northwestern Livestock Show in Lewiston, which is being held there this week.

This same stock was exhibited at the Western Royal show in Spokane last week and took many prizes. Idaho cattle have an enviable reputation for grabbing many honors at all of the principal shows of the Northwest.

TOMMIE MATHEWS '07 WEDS MARION TIPTON

Former Track Coach and Graduate Manager and Charming Co-Ed Steal March on Friends.

Students of the University were treated to a distinct surprise Saturday evening when word was received of the marriage of Tommie Mathews and Marion Tipton, at Colfax on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Mathews, known as Tommie to a host of friends, is a former Idaho student, having graduated here in '07. He was also track coach at the university from 1917 until the Spring of 1919, as which time he was elected to the position of Graduate Manager which he held until the close of the last school term.

Tommie is also a Latah county farmer of some note, and for several years has devoted a major portion of his time to the management of a large ranch near Moscow.

Miss Tipton is a graduate of Boise high school and a junior in the University.

The wedding, which was witnessed by only three of the closest friends of the couple, came as a complete surprise to students and friends of the bride and groom. It is said that no one was aware of the impending wedding, and but few knew of the engagement.

William Langroise added moral support to the groom at the ceremony and Doris Tipton, sister of bride, and Julia Adelman acted as bride's maids.

Mr. and Mrs. Mathew will spend the winter in California and other southern states.

The Argonaut joins with the many friends of the couple in extending best wishes for a long and happy life.

WHAT AMENDMENT WILL DO

1. The proposed amendment strikes out the words "Advisory Board" wherever found.

2. Substitutes the words "Executive Board" wherever the words "Advisory Board" are found.

3. Provides that all electoral offices under the A. S. U. I. Constitution not otherwise provided for, shall be held by the results of an election held on the first Friday of each May—thus giving the newly elected officers a chance to meet with their predecessors in office and acquire a knowledge of the workings of the various departments.

4. Gives the Executive Board, elected by the students, and consisting of the elective officers of the A. S. U. I. together with the Business Manager of the Argonaut and Glee Club Manager and Graduate Manager of Athletics, the right to control and handle all student funds; to audit books of the various departments; to prescribe methods for accounting all funds; to conduct elections; to enforce compliance of constitutional duties upon all officers; to conduct elections and to settle disputes arising out of student activities.

In short, the proposed amendments, by taking away the two faculty member votes, gives complete control of all student activities into the hands of a board of eight students, chosen by majority vote of the associated students of the University, and makes the duties of faculty members purely advisory, as should be.

STOCK JUDGERS TAKE SECOND SPOKANE SHOW

Are Bested Only by Crack O. A. C. Team by Seven Point Margin Out of a Possible 5000.

The University stock judging team returned from the second Western Royal Stock Show at Spokane Saturday with second honors tucked away in their pockets, being bested only by the O. A. C. judges by a narrow seven points out of a possible 5000. The team from W. S. C. came third in line with a final tally nearly 200 behind that of the Idaho aggies.

First individual honors of the judging contest went to Brigham of O. A. C. who was far in advance of any of his rivals. Ruben Johnson was the second high man and was first among the Idaho team, while Richard Fox captured third placement for Idaho. The men comprising the team were Ruben Johnson, Leon B. Taylor, William Pechance, Jimmy Fox, Lorin Kitch and Charles Warren.

Members of the team report that the show was much better than that of last year, and a complete success in every way. An added feature of this year's show was the introduction of a light horse show in which were entered some fine riding stock.

The stock judging team left for Lewiston Sunday to compete in the northwestern stock show now being held there, accompanied by a team composed entirely of vocational men who will be entered against other vocational teams of the northwest. The dairy stock judging team will leave for Lewiston Tuesday for additional Idaho honors.

OPEN FORUM TAKES UP MATTERS OF VITAL IMPORTANCE TO GRADUATING STUDENTS

At the Thursday evening session of the Open Forum, President Thomas of the Southeastern Idaho Students' Association spoke to the members on the proposed law to refund all student carfare to the University in excess of $5. In the discussion that followed every member expressed hearty support of the proposed law and the Forum by unanimous vote went on record favoring this legislation.

At the close of the session a four-reel movie showing the activities of the Holly Wood Farm near Seattle was run off.

The Open Forum is undertaking a survey of the opportunities in the business world for college trained men and women. The general plan is in charge of a committee, with smaller sub-committees handling individual occupations. Each sub-committee will collect data relating to its assigned occupation, the necessary preparation, opportunities for advancement, and other information that will be of value to the student interested in the particular field. The results of these investigations will be presented to the Open Forum from time to time during the year in the form of short reports. Men and women eminent in various fields of business activity will be asked to address the Open Forum on their specialties.

UNIVERSITY TO RECEIVE VALUABLE FOSSILS FROM ALASKA

Dr. N. M. Cook and wife, former residents of Princeton, Idaho, who are now engaged in educational and medical work at Kotzebue, Alaska, a station one hundred miles north of the Arctic circle, have written a letter to the Security State Bank at Palouse in which they stated that they are son to return to the United States and will bring many interesting fossils of pre-historic animals which they intend to donate to the University.

The country surrounding Kotzebue is said to be rich in fossils of the gigantic former inhabitants of the earth, who seem to have been trapped there when the country underwent some drastic climatic change.

On of the relics which will be given to the University is a mammoth tusk, six feet long and six inches in diameter. The Doctor is also sending a femur three and a half feet long.

FROSH GIVE MOSCOW HIGH GOOD WALLOPING

FROSH'S LAST GAME CLOSE—MOSCOW MAKES MOST YARDAGE BUT LACKS PUNCH.

FRESHMAN 14, MOSCOW 7

Stivers, Bucklin, Farmin, Kinneson Loom As Stars of Fray. Frosh Hold When High Men Threaten.

Football fans were treated to a game on Saturday between the freshman and Moscow high school teams. The freshmen coming out with the larger end of the low score in their favor. When the final whistle blew, both teams were fighting aggressively, with the score standing 14-7.

The first half of the game was a spirited battle with both teams evenly matched. The first score for the Frosh came in the first half on a cleverly executed forward pass from Bucklin to Cobley, who ran ten yards for a total gain of thirty five yards.

Moscow had two chances to score in the first half, after the ball had been worked to the ten yard line by end runs, but lost it on downs. Kinneson and Wicks, both main cogs in the freshman machine were both knocked out of the game in the early part of the first quarter, Kinneson receiving a badly lacerated eye.

With only six minutes left in the second quarter, the ball on the nine yard line, the freshman attempted a lateral pass which was broken up. Stivers, M. H. S. quarterback gathered in the ball and raced the ten yards for Moscow's lone touchdown.

The second half opened with Kinneson back in the game kicking off to Garrison who was downed almost in his tracks. With nine yards to go in their last two downs, Stivers tore around left end for a gain of ten yards. On the next three plays only two yards were gained and Stivers resorted to punting. Kinneson recovered the punt and carried the ball next for a gain of twelve yards through right tackle. Again Kinneson responded through the same hole for eleven yards this time. Only three yards were netted on the next three plays and the ball was given to Kinneson who bored through the line. Instead of stopping there, he ran the remaining fifty yards to a touchdown through a field of six tacklers which he shook off. Bucklin kicked goal, the score standing fourteen to seven in the Frosh's favor.

After the kickoff had been received Stivers made a very beautiful end run of fourteen yards. In the third quarter Stivers passed to Garrison for a total of twenty four yards. Matter, the big freshman center, was put out of the game with a badly sprained ankle in the third quarter.

Kinneson had a very good day, (but not from appearance of him) as every time he carried the ball he made consistent gains, some for ten, twelve, fifteen, thirty six yards, and his long run for a touchdown, which was a feature of the afternoon performance. Stivers was the shining star for the high school team, as he made very good end runs and executed some forward passes which resulted for long gains. Bucklin did well at quarter, while Farmin, besides carrying the ball several times for gains, uncorked some very good passes.

STUDENTS TO CONTROL

SYSTEM OF ABSOLUTE FACULTY CONTROL FOUNDED BY LEWIS TO BE ABOLISHED

FIRES BOARD OF SUPERVISORS

Student Officers Will Be In Charge Of Student Affairs. Executive Board Handles All Money.

Next Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock, a student body meeting will be called to discuss and vote upon what is said to be one of the most sweeping amendments ever offered to the A. S. U. I. constitution. The changes proposed are said to be recodification of the old constitution existing before H. T. Lewis engineered the present document into existence, which gives absolute and final control of all student finances and activities into the hands of the faculty.

According to the present constitution, all control of A. S. U. I. activities and student finances are given absolutely to the Board of Supervisors, which board is composed of two faculty members and the student officer at the head of the department.

To illustrate just what composes a Board of Supervisors, the following is offered as an example. The Board of Supervisors of the department of the Glee Club is composed of two Faculty members (Cockrill and Angel) and the Glee Club Manager (Cornelson).

The same would be true of any other department, except that there would be a different student officer at the head of each department. The faculty members remain the same on all the Boards of Supervisors.

Two members of each board, being members of the faculty, gives absolute control into the hands of the faculty, and the students, with but one vote to represent them, are said to be absolutely powerless to control any action taken by the faculty members which does not meet with student approval.

It is also reported that the old constitution does not give any power of recall to the student body, nor does it have the right to nominate the faculty members of the board who are appointed by the administration without consultation or approval from the students.

Prior to 1918, the A. S. U. I. constitution gave the power of handling all student money and auditing the books of the various departments, the control of student activities and similar powers to the Executive Board, elected by the Students of the University each year. In 1918, while the school and student body were badly disorganized by the war, the present constitution was hoisted upon the student body by what are said to have been the activities of H. T. Lewis, a former professor in the University.

One of the things which is alleged to be causing particular bitterness among many students is the fact that Athletics, with its high apportionment of student money, and receipts from athletic contests, receives nearly eighty-five per cent of the total student body funds, and that this entire amount is expended by two faculty members and the student manager of Athletics, ordinarily not a student, thus leaving several thousand dollars of student money to be expended each year without even a single student on the board with even advisory power, much less one with the right to vote.

Under the existing document, the students have no power to conduct elections, nor to settle tie votes, nor to arbitrate any disputes which may arise from student activities.

It is reported that there is a strong current of opposition on the campus which is seeking to defeat the amendment, but it is believed that a vast

IN APPEAL

Next Wednesday morning at 11:00 o'clock the most important constitutional amendment which has ever appeared before the associated students of the University will be brought before the student assembly for final consideration.

Briefly stated, the amendment presents but two questions for consideration, namely, "shall the students control their own affairs, and expend their own money as they see fit" or "shall they continue to leave the final and absolute control of all student affairs in the hands of the faculty?" These two questions present the essence of the proposed amendments and their consequences.

The present situation, in our estimation, is one of the greatest farces ever perpetrated upon self governing and thinking people.

The Associated Students of the University of Idaho is a voluntary association of all the students of the University. For the privilege of belonging to this body, each and every student pays into the common treasury, the sum of $17 each school year.

The purpose of this organization is to better the methods of accomplishing student aims and activities. The money received is presumably to be used for purposes which the students think will best serve them. In short, the A. S. U. I. fees are student money which should be used under student direction.

But this is the present situation. Our present constitution quoting verbatim, says "The Board of Supervisors" (which is composed of two faculty members and the student manager of the particular activity concerned) "shall have absolute and final control of all disbursements of student money."

Our present situation does not even give the students the satisfaction of nominating the two faculty members, who hold the majority voting power, but instead they are appointed by the administration, without consulting the students in any manner.

The Board of Supervisors (the faculty board) takes our $17 per year and spends it as it sees fit. It also audits the books, and keeps, or fails to keep, such record of expenditures as it sees fit. They have also been given the power to conduct the elections of student officers, and to settle tie votes, and to adjudge disputes which may arise between various student activities. In fact, there is no such thing as a student body in the University, and neither have the students the authority to control a single activity which should be, and in every other college in America is, under student control alone.

To illustrate further: Athletics now receive 79 per cent of all student fees. This allotment is augmented by the receipts from all contests, which raises the total of the money received by the Athletic department to 85 or 90 per cent of all student money. The head of the athletic department is the Athletic Manager, who, according to the constitution, shall be a graduate of the University, and until the present year, this office has always been filled by a non-student graduate. The Athletic Manager and two faculty members compose the board of supervisors who have absolute control over athletics and the disbursements of all money coming to this department from student fee allotment and receipts from games. In other words, a graduate, no longer connected with the student body, and two faculty members have final say in the spending of 85 or 90 per cent of all student money. Is it right?

In the entire constitution of the Associated Students, there is not a single clause to be found which gives the students the right to recall any member of the board of supervisors, nor the right to rescind any action which they may have taken to regulate student affairs. In fact, they have the power to run our affairs, and we cannot, under any circumstances, recall a single act of that body, no matter how repugnant it may be to us.

Frankly, we cannot see how any student can conscientiously give his support to the agitation which is being promulgated against the proposed amendment. "There is something wrong with the motives of a citizen of a country who lends his aid in either depriving the people of their inherent rights, or assists in delaying their actions for self government."—Forrestor (in Italia).

However, there is a spirit of antagonism among a few of the students of this university relative to the proposed amendment. They have advanced the argument that the students of the University, so far as matters of business and finance are concerned (and incidentally, they right to be free citizens of the student body) are but little, if any more capable than high school students.

This is a libel on the character of the students. We are men and women, so regarded by the world, and infinitely capable of governing ourselves. Many of us have handled more money in business life than some of the professors will receive for a life time of teaching, and have handled it in a manner which was satisfactory to real business men. We are not kids. We are grown men and women and to hold otherwise is an insult.

It has also been stated by these few that the new system will be cumbersome and slow to effect its purposes. This is an unjust attack. Routine work can be allotted to departmental heads, and with stated meetings of the board coming at every two weeks, as provided in the amendment, all business can be speedily cared for.

Students of Idaho, let's quit being non entities and be backboneed, self governing people. Vote yes for the amendment and get rid of this unjust system, hoisted upon us by faculty design when the student body was disorganized by the war. We pay our hard earned money for the right to belong to an organization. Let's take back the right to have just a wee bit to say how this money shall be used. Student affairs are our affairs, not faculty affairs. Let's run them.

Vote yes!

FORMER IDAHO CO-ED AND FEATURE EDITOR OF ARGONAUT INVADERS AIR. NO CHAPTERS NEEDED

By Inez Calloway.

"Will you?"

From force of amicable habit I said, "Sure," then caution prompted me to add, "Will I what?"

"Ride in the airplane?" Just like that, with no more fuss than if he were asking me to walk around the block.

"Will a duck swim?" I countered, and reached for my hat. But the office force detained me for a half hour while it cheerfully reviewed all the statistics concerning the multitudes killed, maimed and injured in airplanes during the past 10 years and at last optimistically hoped it would be unnecessary to take up a collection for flowers.

I hoped so, too.

Upon our arrival at the fair grounds we found a good sized crowd around the machine, and I detected a man tangled up with the innards of the motor whom I suspected of being the student nursemaid to and chauffeur of the airplane.

My escort drew me aside and asked him if he'd take a lady for a ride. "Yes," he said, "if she won't yell."

I acquiesced to this condition.

Being a person of a certain degree of veracity, I admit that I had expected to be scared at least partially stiff, for I had once read that there were two times in every one's life when he was scared to death; his first marriage and his first airplane ride. The former being doubtful, I hopefully awaited the promise "kick" from the latter. But none came. My knees remained firm and my determination to fly likewise.

My only fear came from the thought that my family, who was escorted in the grand stand might detect my scared let raiment and carry me off to safety before the plane started, so it was with a sigh of relief that I slipped into the heavy leather jacket and donned the fleece lined cap provided for passengers.

"Scared?" asked the footman as he handed me into the plane.

"Nope," I replied, "What's the use?" We couldn't possibly have a blowout; there's no danger of losing a wheel, as far as I can see there's no steering wheel to go wrong; we couldn't possibly have a collision; so all that's left is engine trouble, and if that happens the machine is making so much noise I couldn't hear the chauffeur anyway. Let's go."

And we did, bumpity bump across the field until we started up and up. Did I feel like a swallow, winging its way through the ethereal blue, like thisle down wafted by gentle breeze? No, guess again.

Did all my transgressions in the past flash before me? No, we were only up 12 minutes.

Then what did I think of? Just two things: I grinned with fiendish glee when I visualized a stricken and prostrate relative who would exclaim, "My X——! you didn't do a thing like that!" when I told her of my unchaperoned ride in the plane; and, secondly, the utter satisfaction of knowing that for once in my life I was the focus of all eyes. For every one below was gazing, not at me, directly, to be sure, but at the plane.

Then all of a sudden I was staring into space; in fact for a brief instant I was standing on my head. Not a dignified or approved position for a young lady, but even Mrs. Grundy will have to admit that position is immaterial when one is a thousand feet in the air.

After flying around a while and gazing at the valley beneath (same sensation guaranteed to anyone who climbs to the top of a good sized telephone pole or the capitol dome), the driver-brought me back to earth, not exactly with a jolt, but with more of a bounce.

The crowd gathered around once more, and I sighed to think that I had once occupied a position of such eminence that I had been able to look down upon them, but I smiled gracefully, a la queen of Roumania in the Pathe weekly, as I touched terra firma again.

"Nice ride," I said nonchalantly. "Been planning to buy a high powered car and typewriter with my next week's salary, but guess I'll wait a couple of weeks and get a plane. Well, cheerio; pip, pip, old dear."

However, my most vivid impression of airplaning is that the popularity of this comparatively rare sport would grow immensely if only the salesman would exhibit its safe qualities to the anxious mothers of dear daughters. I was strapped in a little cubby hole three feet in front of the aviator, and the aviator was strapped in a little cubby hole three feet behind me, and making arithmetically a grand total of six feet, so long as planes are made as they are now manufactured it is totally unnecessary and the sweet thing will never have any excuse for getting out and walking.

It is the only vehicle ever invented in which a chaparron is not only unnecessary but is an absolute non-essential.

FRESHMAN APOLOGIZES

Attendance at Athletic Ball Shows Him That Frosh Hold Up Scholarly Dignity.

U. of I.

Dear Ed,

I'm writing you now to make an apology to the school in general. I have been shown the error of my ways. When I came here I soon gathered the impression that the whole school put all the disagreeable duties on the members of my class. I have now changed my mind, and wish, through your most illustrious newspaper, to proclaim the fact to the world.

I attended the athletic ball last Friday night. There I saw large numbers of the upper classes playing around in full evening dress, and have since come to the conclusion that being a freshman has its compensations. I'd rather wear a green cap than a dress suit. A cap only costs six bits. A dress suit costs more than that for just one evening. Furthermore, you can put the cap in your pocket and get it out of sight.

Now Ed, all joking aside, I do sympathize with you poor guys. And seeing that my sympathy is sincere, I'll give you a hint. Now I've never worn a dress suit, and know little about one's technicalities, but one inspirer struck me. Most coats have a little loop under the collar, so you can hang 'em on a hook. Why not sew one on a dress suit (unless it has one already) and then hang it onto the collar button at the back of the neck? This would entirely eliminate all danger of the coat sagging and exposing any of the family secrets. I saw one tall fellow lean over to whisper to his partner during one of the dances, and was impressed with the fact that he wasn't wearing any shirt. "He'd a false front on before, and rather less than half of that behind," if I may quote Kipling.

But I digress. I only wanted to say that my ideas have been set right. I want to extend my thanks to those who let the frosh attend formal in ordinary clothing. It's a good thing, for someone must uphold the dignity of the school. But seriously, why can't the upper classmen attend the football games in evening dress? The opposing team couldn't help but have its attention diverted by the display of style. Then all of them could pass in review, (I mean the dress suits) before the stand, and take the cake in the Harvard contest. Or better yet, why not have a dress suit parade instead of one in pajamas for the rally? What would create a better "spirit de corps" than having frosh in pajamas and seniors in evening dress. Moreover, the coat tails of a dress suit are ideal to hold on to in a chain gang.

But I must close, dear Ed. But "say, listen," as says our Kappa friend, how many coat tails, laid lengthwise and in double file, would it take to reach from here to Pullman, and wouldn't it put the "Coo" into the Cougars?

Affectionately yours,

Hell! who could study? Suppose that with all these new styles, that powdered knees will come into fashion the same way powdered backs did a few years ago.

I've taken my fun like I found it; And I've had a darn fine time. I've had all kinds of sweethearts, And two of that lot were prime. Now one was a cute, cunning co-ed, Who liked to sit in the shade; The other was a young town maiden, Young, innocent and grave.

Now I don't run much to the women, But taking 'em all along, You can't be sure 'til you've tried 'em, And then, like as not, you're wrong. Some, you know you can—kiss 'em; Some, you know that you won't. But until you have tried one, She may say "Yes" or "Don't."

Oh, I've taken my fun like I found it, And now I am all alone, Just sitting so still and thinking

ON OTHER HILLS
The University of South Dakota has been in operation a very successful co-operative book-selling department. The state has given this department the necessary amount of room in one of the buildings on the campus, and furnishes a manager to look after the buying and to have charge of the clerks.

Miss O. M. Frances, a very capable young woman has charge of this department of the University. She gets a very good salary and six weeks vacation at full pay. She employs six men students as clerks. They work in shifts, at such times as they do not have class work. Miss Frances has assisted in the organization of such a department at several other Universities which have put a similar plan into use.

The articles handled are numerous and include books of all kinds, paper, pencils, and other college supplies, freshman caps and candy. The freshmen of South Dakota can buy any caps of the very best material at 40 cents each. The articles sold at marked at a price to cover the cost and the freight charges.

Before the war, Miss Frances purchased a large supply of standard size notebook paper. During the war the price rose and the paper sold to the students at the new price. At the end of the year a certain per cent of each student's purchase was returned to him. In this way the profit was given back to the student.

In some cases where universities have used student management, this system has not proven successful. Many schools are considering this sort of a plan, in order to effect a great saving to the students. The University of Minnesota has undertaken this system for the coming year.

The representatives of the National Y. W. C. A. while assembled in convention last spring at Cleveland, Ohio, formulated a new statement of the basis of membership, which our local association voted to adopt for this year. The following embodies the terms of the new basis:

The Young Women's Christian Association of ..... affirming the Christian faith in God, the Father; and in Jesus Christ, His only Son, our Lord and Savior; and in the Holy Spirit, the Revealer of Truth and Source of Power for life and service; according to the teaching of the Holy Scripture and the witness of the Church, declares its purpose to be:

1. To lead students to faith in God through Jesus Christ;
2. To lead them into membership and service in the Christian Church;
3. To promote their growth in Christian faith and character, especially through the study of the Bible;
4. To influence them to devote themselves, in united effort with all Christians, to making the will of Christ effective in human society, and extending the Kingdom of God throughout the world.

I am in sympathy with the purpose of the Association as stated above; and
It is my purpose to live as a true follower of the Lord Jesus Christ.

Signed .....
Any woman of the institution may be a member of the Association provided she makes the above declaration. It is the purpose of the Y. W. C. A. of the U. of Idaho to give each woman on the campus an opportunity to affiliate herself with the Local and thereby with the National Y. W. C. A.

FROSH TAG 'MISUSERS' OF THE KING'S ENGLISH

Yearlings Tack Tags On 750 Students And Faculty Members Who Do Not Follow the Dictates of Good English as "She Is Spoken."

Possibly the most misused word of all was "ain't" which was used by green Frosh, dignified seniors and members of the faculty. Someone with "peeled" ears heard the remark "snap out of it" in the Lindley Hall corridor, while Burbridge talking with some friends said, "I can't get any kick out of this."

Professor Trimble's weakness seemed to be in his wanting to clean up on everything that came to his mind, namely: "We'll clean up the revolution" and "this cleans up the period." Proctor Jenkins when talking to some of his wards at Lindley Hall was tagged for saying "Yah." Professor Taylor when explaining a problem to his mathematics class used his own peculiar term "So fashion" and "Jist where is that highest value."

Grammatical errors seemed to stand out more prevalently, as the total was nearly four hundred, slang coming next with 230, and wrong pronunciation ranking last with 130. Carelessness seemed to be the reason for the most of the tagging, especially in pronunciation.

The "good English" crusade, which is instigated each year by the freshman class, ended Friday, after hostilities lasting forty eight hours. Many peculiar phrases, by-words and sentences were brought out, both by members of the faculty and students as the result of tagging and tabulating by watchful Frosh. George Madlinger has the honor of tagging most persons, his total equaling thirty four. Burton Ellis ran a close second with thirty two.

Approximately 750 notations, consisting of grammatical errors, pronunciation and slang, were turned in to the committee and of these the freshman have the "honor" of making over four hundred mistakes, the sophs making ninety five, members of the faculty eighty five, eighty four were chalked up against the seniors, while the juniors were lowest with sixty one. By checking over the list and denoting the persons who refused to wear the tag bearing "I used bad English," figures show that nearly one hundred were poor "sports."

Gipson seemed to have an off day as he was caught three times, for "I gotta," "I wanta," "they a'int." The contest would probably not be a success if Horton McCallie did not get his name on the roster so he contributed, "A'int it hell." Petite Mary Hunt was talking of something of which the tagger could find no subject, but he did arrive in time to hear it mentioned as "the whole smear."

When Amand Kern was requested to wear the tag for some offense he told the humble solicitor to "lay off me." Dean Messenger was telling how he "as entertained to dinner." Professor Barton used "dammit, jist," while Dr. Von Ende told some chem. students to "use the gray matter God gave you." Professor Collins seems to have a habit of saying "lookie here." Wm. Langroise while in heated discussion said "can't never" and

"have gotta".

Instead of having Frosh near at hand with tags to point out cardinal mistakes in English, why cannot all students try a bit harder and use the English language correctly. Slang is very easily controlled and it takes only a forethought to use the King's English.

DEAN HULME'S LECTURING IS POPULAR IN MANY IDAHO AND WASHINGTON TOWNS

Since his return to the University from Europe, where he spent twelve months in travel and study, Dean Hulme has been in great demand as a speaker. He gave two public addresses at the teachers' institute recently held in Moscow, two public talks at the institute held in Wallace, and four talks to the general assembly of the teachers' institute at Twin Falls. Two weeks ago he gave a lecture to the annual meeting of the State Federation of Women's Clubs held at Coeur d'Alene. On Friday of this week he will speak to the Women's Liberal Alliance in the Elizabethan Room of the Davenport Hotel in Spokane. This lecture is to be given for one of the charitable purposes of the city, and an admission fee of one dollar will be charged. On November 9 he will address the Women's Club and the Chamber of Commerce of Clarkston, Washington, in the high school auditorium of that town. On the following Thursday he will be the speaker at the Armistice Day celebration at Genesee; and later on he will give a lecture, as one of the numbers in the series of lyceum attractions at Grangeville. At the present time the Dean is giving a series of twenty lectures on Saturday evenings in the high school auditorium at Kellogg to a group of men and women who have subscribed four hundred dollars to meet the expenses. Later on a series of lectures will be given to the combined women's and men's clubs at Coeur d'Alene. And soon after the opening of the new year a series of ten weekly lectures will be given on Friday evenings in the Lewis and Clark high school of Spokane. Two years ago Dean Hulme gave a course of ten lectures in the Lewis and Clark school that met with an enthusiastic reception and it is at the request of some of the men and women who were auditors at the previous lectures that this second course is to be given. Beginning on November 14 the Dean will speak Sunday mornings in the Clemmer Theatre to the Unitarian Society of Spokane. Beginning four years ago, and continuing for two years, he spoke to this group of liberal thinkers more than thirty times. "It is an audience of which I am particularly fond," said the Dean, in speaking of the engagement. "Very often it numbers one thousand people, and sometimes there are fifteen hundred people present. The theatre in which the services are held is one of the most attractive on the Pacific coast. The group is not a homogeneous one. There are men and women, young and old, who represent many phases of political, economic, social, and spiritual thought; but they are all thinkers, and that is the main thing. They are an eager-minded group, and it is impossible to speak to them successfully in anything like an ex-cathedra manner. But in addition to their desire for thought, and for the results of scientific research in the several vital phases of human life that I have enumerated, they are very responsive to emotional suggestion. And that is as it should be, for the intellect by itself can deal successfully only with the problems of things; the power of sympathy, which lies so largely in the realm of the emotion, is indispensable in dealing with the problems of humanity."

FROSH GIVE MOSCOW HIGH A GOOD WALLOPING

As no account was kept of the first half no statistics can be issued, but in the second half the Frosh seemed to have the better of the argument as they are credited with nine first downs, while the high school chaps made only five. Total yardage for the Frosh totaled 168 yards, of which Kinneson was responsible for 97, while Moscow carried the ball a total of 122 yards in the second half. Stivers carried the ball 78 yards in the second half.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT FREES FACULTY'S CONTROL OF MONEY

majority of the students are highly in favor of conducting their own affairs and of spending their own money as they see fit. It is said that there is but little likelihood of the students wishing to remain under faculty control, and it is thought that the amendment will carry by a big majority.

The amendment will be offered for student approval read as follows:

Article V., Section 1, Paragraph 1. To read: "All officers enumerated heretofore in Article III of this constitution except the Manager of the Glee Club, the Graduate Manager of Athletics, and members of the Argonaut Staff, shall be elected on the first Friday in May of each collegiate year, and shall hold office for one year."

Article VI., Section 3. To read: "The Executive Board shall audit the accounts and reports of all officers of the A. S. U. I. and of its departments; approve all disbursements of the A. S. U. I. funds and prepare a method for the disbursement of all said funds; to have final and complete control over all student finances, now or hereafter authorized by the A. S. U. I.; to approve of the budget for each activity for the entire year; require all officers to comply with the provisions of this constitution, take charge of all elections; and to act as a judicial body for the settlement of all disputes or questions which may be brought before it."

(Added) Section 4. To read: "The Executive Board shall meet on the first and third Tuesdays of each month at five P. M. in their office."

(Added) Section 5. To read: "The Treasurer shall pay no money on any order until the said order has been approved by the Executive Board. Requisitions for the payment of money must be signed by the president of the A. S. U. I. after having been approved by the Executive Board, on which requisition the Treasurer shall issue a check for the amount on the department on which the requisition is drawn.

"Article XI. Section 2. In every place in the constitution in which the words 'Board of Supervisors' appears, the same shall be replaced by the words 'Executive Board.'"

"Article VII shall be omitted from the constitution and all articles following that place shall be numbered accordingly by making them one less than they now are."
