UNIVERSITY OF IDAHO, MOSCOW, TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 22, 1921.

NUMBER 20

STATE TOURNAMENT COMES MARCH 17-18

EIGHT TEAMS TO COMPETE FOR STATE CHAMPIONSHIP—NO DOPE NOW AVAILABLE.

The annual State High School Basketball tournament will be held March 17 and 18 in the University gymnasium, when eight teams, one representing each district in the state, will compete for the state championship.

The state has been divided into eight districts, and the teams in each one will hold a tournament early in March to decide which team will represent the district at the state tournament. The winning teams will play here March 17th and 18th for the state championship.

A silver cup will be given to the winning team, one to the runners-up, and one to the team displaying the best sportsmanship. A gold basketball will be given to each man who is selected as a member of the all-state team, which is chosen from the members of all eight teams.

Felix Plastino, who has been given charge of all arrangements by the Athletic Department, has arranged to lodge the teams in the fraternity houses, and plans are under way for their entertainment while in Moscow. It is the plan of Mr. Plastino to allow no coach to be put to any expense whatsoever for his team.

The Department on Physical Education has charge of the arrangements for the tournament itself, and also of the handling of the crowds. Tickets good for all tournament games will be on sale in about two weeks.

No team has yet shown such marked strength that it can positively feel safe in claiming the championship of its district. However, it is comparatively safe to make the statement that Driggs will represent the eighth district, and Bonners Ferry the first. Driggs will be remembered as the "dark horse" that defeated Boise, which had a very good outlook for the championship, in the first game of last year's tournament.

Much speculation has been going on about the campus regarding the possibilities of the various teams. From this but one thing seems to be the general opinion, and this is that Moscow, which has held the state championship for the past three years, has but small chance of gaining it this year.

COUGAR CUBS CLAW VANDAL YOUNGSTERS

UNIVERSITY YEARLINGS UNABLE TO KEEP PACE WITH FAST PULLMAN BASKETEERS.

The speedy Freshman basketball quintet from Pullman was too much for the Idaho Frosh, and defeated the youngsters in two close games Thursday and Friday night. At Idaho Friday evening, the score resulted in the Kitten's favor 19 to 14.

Both games were fast for Freshman teams. Individual starting was infrequent, and both quintets showed good team work. W. S. C. was exceedingly lucky on long shots, and their victory can be laid to their ability to convert from far down the floor.

No detailed report from the Pullman game is available. At Idaho, Woodrow and Keane loomed for Idaho, while Schroeder and McCarty for the Cubs were easily the stars.

The lineup at Idaho: Canine..... F.....McCarty Woodrow..... C.....Sayles Keane..... F.....Kramer Coolby..... G.....Schroeder Cornelison..... G.....Mulledy Substitutions—Idaho, Marineau for Woodrow; W. S. C., none.

Idaho scoring—Canine 6, Woodrow 4, Keane 2, Colby 2, W. S. C.—McCarty 6, Sayles 2, Schroeder 11.

Free throws—Idaho: Canine two in four, Woodrow four in 11, W. S. C.: Schroeder 7 out of 15.

IMPORTANT NOTICE.

You still have time to get that masquerade costume for the grand mask of the A. E. F. Club on March 19th. If you don't have a fee simple title to an outfit, get busy and improvise one. It will be a great old hop.

HIGGINBOTTOM WILL TALK AT ASSEMBLY

FAMOUS AGRICULTURAL WORKER OF INDIA TO SPEAK WEDNESDAY—WONDERFUL SPEAKER.

The University of Idaho is fortunate in having the privilege of hearing Mr. Sam Higginbottom, principal Allahabad Institute, Allahabad, India, next Wednesday. Mr. Higginbottom is director of agriculture to the Gwalior government and agricultural adviser to a number of the Maharajahs. He is a man of international reputation and has recently spoken to some of the largest audiences of America.

Mr. Higginbottom will speak at the regular assembly of the University at 11 o'clock. He will take luncheon with the Commercial club and speak at the high school at 1:20. The remainder of the afternoon will be given to personal interviews. Anyone desiring to meet him will be able to do so at the Y. M. C. A. which is arranging his schedule for this section of the country.

He is a personal friend of President Upham of the University. In an interview, Mr. Upham said: "Every student of the University should hear Higginbottom and meet him personally. He is a wonderful fellow."

"Technically speaking, Mr. Higginbottom is a missionary," said President Upham, "but actually he is far from the stereo-typed idea of missionary. He is a he man, and has done more for the agricultural interests of India than any man living. In short, he is an agricultural missionary, and his whole work has been devoted to the promotion of farming in India. Besides that, he is a gripping speaker, and when anywhere near his usual form, he has an audience in his sway in a moment, and an hour passes under his spell as if but 15 minutes. No student can afford to miss this assembly."

WEDNESDAY ASSEMBLY ADDRESSED BY GOULD

STUDENT PASTOR EMPHASIZES NEED OF SINCERITY, FAITH AND GRATITUDE

"The one trait of ungratefulness has forever been the greatest sin of mankind," declared the Rev. J. Orrin Gould, student pastor at the University, before the student assembly there Wednesday. "The statement may at first seem somewhat farfetched, but if we stop to consider it we will see it is true, and never was it more so than it is today. Nine out of every 10 men and women cheerfully accept blessings but feel no gratitude for the benefits thereof. To tide us out of the present chaos, we need greater sincerity, gratitude and faith. To accomplish this there is but one way, and that is by reading that book of all books, the Bible.

"In this day of 'best sellers' and strenuously advertised books of all kinds, is it not interesting and comforting to realize that more Bibles come off the presses than any other book?"

"There is no lack of reverence toward the Bible" declared Rev. Gould, "but some of us regard it so reverently that we lay it up on a shelf and admire it from a distance. We must get the Bible down and from it glean the teachings that have brought the world to its present stage of civilization and by its teachings proceed to a finer state of society."

CO-EDS BASKET SERIES WILL BE HELD SOON

Inter-Class Games to Be Staged Soon Mere Mailes May Be Allowed to Witness Contests.

The co-ed basketball teams will be chosen next Thursday night. Much rivalry for positions is shown on the Freshmen and Sophomore teams but the Juniors have one team that bid fair to astonish their supporters. The Seniors have withdrawn from the tournament.

Miss Watson stated she expected the first game of the series would be played about March 1st. She also stated a vote would be taken as to whether the games should be open or closed and due notice would be given.

COL. M. N. FALLS TO INSPECT BATTALION SOON

"This is the second regular inspection for this collegiate year," said Col. Chrisman, "and will be much more in detail than the one previous. The inspection will include courtesy and discipline, close order drill, military ceremonies, marching, care and handling of arms and equipment, personal hygiene and sanitation, interior guard duty and orders and messages.

On his previous visit here, Col. Falls gave a very creditable report on the Idaho battalion.

College Dignitaries Confer Honors For Final Semester of College—Class is Prosperous.

Harmon E. Hosler of Weiser Wednesday afternoon was elected president of the senior class at the University of Idaho for the coming collegiate semester. The senior presidency is considered one of the most coveted honors to which an undergraduate can aspire.

Other senior officers chosen include: Fred Graf of Coeur d'Alene, vice-president; Jean Kendall of Spokane, secretary; and Robert Johannesen of Rupert, treasurer.

The treasurer's report as read showed that for the first time in history, the Senior Class has no outstanding indebtedness against it, and in fact has a balance of several hundred dollars. This fund is said to have resulted from the 1921 Gem of the Mountains which is reputed to have been unusually successful in a financial way.

ARGONAUT REPRESENTED AT PRESS CONVENTION

Editor and Business Manager Leave Today For Salt Lake to Attend College Press Meeting.

H. E. Hosler and C. H. Swanstrom left this morning for Salt Lake City to attend the first convention of the Western Inter-Collegiate Press Association, which is to be held there February 24th to 25th inclusive.

Practically all colleges of the inter-mountain states will be represented by delegates who will include in their numbers, college paper editors, business managers, year book editors and literary publications.

The program for the convention consists of general sessions, sub-editorial and business meeting, lectures and talks by many prominent newspaper men of the West, and rather elaborate social entertainments. The University of Utah will act as host to the visitors who will be guests of honor at the Junior Prom.

Sude: "Were the gowns at the dinner party pretty?" Prune: "I don't know, I didn't look under the table."

IDAHO WINS SECOND GAME

Score is Only Dope Received From Games—Idaho Wins Saturday By Score of 29 to 13.

Friday night was a flax for every phase of Idaho's athletic activities, the Varsity losing to Oregon Agricultural College by a score of 24 to 23, the Frosh were swamped by the Cougar Cubs at Idaho, and the Silver and Gold mat artists were trounced by the W. S. C. head-breakers at Pullman.

No detailed report from the basketball games at O. A. C. are now available, and report of the games will be carried in a later issue.

After playing the full period to a tie score, Idaho lost to the Oregon Farmers by one point in an extra period game. On Saturday the Vandals came back to their old time form and handed the Oregon cage artists a lethal wallop to the tune of 29 to 13.

HOUSE BILL NO. 59 HITS SENATE SNAG

UPPER HOUSE POSTPONES BILL INDEFINITELY—SENATOR OF SOUTH LAUDS BRYAN.

Boise.—The vote of the senate to indefinitely postpone action on house bill No. 59, which would abolish the commissioner of education and fix the salaries of the heads of state educational institutions, was unanimous, not a dissenting vote being cast on the motion to postpone.

Harding Makes Strong Plea. Hardly had the echo of the report died in the room before Senator Harding of Oneida county, a minority member, was on his feet. He spoke against the bill, saying: "Ever since this session opened questions concerning education have disturbed this body. This morning the committee on education brought in a report that house bill No. 59 do not pass. That bill affects vitally every educational institution in Idaho. Inasmuch as the fair name of Utah has been dragged into this fight, both for and against the bill, I want to go on record as saying that the people of Utah or the leading educators of the state are for Dr. Bryan, first, last and all the time."

"My mind reverts back to the men who were responsible for the construction of this form of government, and when I see in the personal of that body men like D. L. Evans of Oneida county, Evans of Idaho county and Ramsey Walker of Shoshone county, who have devoted years and years to study and have given their time for the best interests of the rising generation of this state, it convinces me beyond any doubt that this measure is entirely wrong from the fact that these men are of a constructive type."

IDAHO HAS GOOD TRACK SCHEDULE FOR COMING SEASON

Idaho track men will have the opportunity to participate in one of the best track seasons of several years, according to Coach Kelley. Three dual meets will be staged, and Idaho will also participate in the Conference meet at Pullman, and every effort will be made to whip a relay team in shape in time to take part in the Relay Carnival at Seattle in the last of April.

Idaho's track schedule follows: May 7th—Idaho-W. S. C., dual meet at Pullman.

May 14th—Idaho at Missoula, competing the two-year contract with the Bruins. This is also a dual meet.

May 21st—Whitman-Idaho at Moscow, dual meet.

June 4th—Northwest Conference meet at Pullman.

A TIME FOR EFFORT America is now experiencing a sort of re-action which always follows in the wake of war. It is in effect, a period of reconstruction, when prices, credit, business and standards of living are gradually seeking their pre-war levels. It is happy for us that this shift to normal is gradual. It is being fostered by industries and leaders of commerce who are using every effort to stave off panics and industrial collapse. Otherwise we would now be experiencing an unparalleled crisis in our economic history.

And at best, we are now experiencing times far harder than those of any time during the war. Credit is next to impossible to obtain, except on the very best of securities. Labor prices are falling, and there is a substantial decline in the demand for labor, making jobs which a few short months ago were going begging, at a premium. The mad frenzy of spending is passed, and the always paramount problem of making a living, is again pressed home to the public. It is a time for sanity, for conscientious work, a time for economy and good sense.

Those of us, who either thru our own efforts, or those of parents, are fortunate enough to be enjoying the privileges of a university education thru these times of stringent financial conditions, have a duty to ourselves and nation in furthering economic and national good.

We too, as good citizens, should use every economy. We should dispense with unnecessary jazz and frivolity, and get down to serious application to the things which will most directly benefit us and our state.

There is no gainsaying that the least we can do to show that the splendid support of the university and ourselves as individuals, is worth while, is to make every conscientious effort to get the utmost in a practical sense, from our university courses. It is no time for foolishness. It is a time for the display of the very best that we have. Less than that is a betrayal of those who are now so loyally self sacrificing their own interests, time and money that we may enjoy the benefits which are here for us.

THRIFT.

Thrift is the result of education in the science of spending money wisely. It does not mean miserliness or penury. It is good old fashioned horse sense applied to our mode of living.

Thrift is what makes a man student press his own clothes, shine his shoes, wash his woolen underwear, spend most of his evenings at work instead of over the green cloth or straining his eyes at a movie.

Thrift is what makes the co-ed refuse to wear gorgette waists to school, enables her to dispense with silk hosiery for every day, teaches her to make herself more simple garments and care for them. Thrift is the thing back of the housewife who learns to cook an eighteen cent cut of beef so that it tastes as good as one costing thirty-five, and it can be done, you know.

Financial experts the country over have reminded us, as has our own university president, that these are critical times. Perhaps never in the history of America, except in times of actual panic, has it been so hard to get money, even for the safest of business enterprises. More firms and banks have failed in the past four months than in the eight years preceding.

No, we are not howling calamity, nor do we say that America is headed straight for the bow-wows and eternal ruin. But we do say it is a time for every citizen of America to use sanity in his spending. Mister Student, what are you doing to help America gain her feet? Are you spending no more than you need for your own comfort, or is there a non-essential leak in your finances? If so it is your duty to cut it out. The fact that across the sea, millions of people are surely starving to death, should at least give us pause before we needlessly spend our precious money. Do not live a limousine life on a wheelbarrow income.

SPIZZERINKTUM SAYS---

All Rights Reserved. We suspect that the above line is useless effort, but it makes a racket like a real bunch of jazz; and then you never can tell when some jay editor is going to tip short of copy, and we want to know right here that we are particular about the class of college paper we are seen in."

"We have a lurch that a lot of stunts are pulled off in this University so a bunch of people will have something to write after their names in the year book."

"If a dance floor could be built on the principle of a tread mill, we could name a couple who would generate a million horsepower every time we throw a Saturday night hop."

"Trying to be funny takes all the joy out of writing this column. If it wasn't for the fact that the ed said we had to be original this stuff would be a pipe. Could pound it out with one finger, betcha."

"We ain't saying we are funny!—your mistake. Make it a gin flizz."

"If it were not for humanity's inherent love of 'goat feathers' there would never be any honors to put after the Juniors' pictures in the Gem of the Mountains."

"You can always hear a lot of kicking about high prices, but we have noticed the higher the skirts the bigger the crowd."

"For the Hall of Fame we nominate the professor who says that students are on their honor during exams, and then sticks around in hopes of finding cheating."

"Some men ask for more in a five-minute prayer than a million men could provide in a month."

Prof. in psychology: "Name an event which should give rise to a great play of imagination." Stude, day dreaming: "A fire at 2 a. m. in Ridenbaugh Hall."

Paris Fashion Note: "Dresses will again be worn below the waist."

"The old fashioned girl who wore pantalettes, or whatever you call 'em, to her ankles, has been superceded by the co-ed who wears high topped goolashes with the buckles unfastened."

"The man who says he is not afraid of work will usually be found snoozing on the job."

Market report: "Sport skirts lighter—spring waists cut lower." Thank goodness, something is coming down.

"We read a bunch of poems the other day about pretty maidens dancing in the moonlight, and all that old bunk, so we give it a try. After two good snorts, we lost the meter and when we got on the track again the piano was perched on the mantelpiece, the sun was doing a nose dive, the Ad building was being used for a beauty parlor and my sidekick was trying to coax forty miles per out of a street sprinkler. No more poetic overflows for us."

"See you latter." ("Like fun you will Spizz. Not so long as we can find a two-year-old club or a blue pencil to put you out of business. A lot of you birds think you can hatch up a mess of raw stuff and dump it in the Argonaut and get by with it. Just because you slipped this over on us doesn't give you a license to ruin the paper.")—Ed.

"All Gone." Gos—"Reed sure is gone of Evelyn, isn't he?" Slip—"Yes, and Evelyn is sure having a good time while he is gone."

DR. GAIL TO WASHINGTON

Dr. Floyd W. Gail of the Botany Department has accepted an invitation from the University of Washington to be professor of taxonomy at the Puget Sound Biological Station this coming summer. This is largely a graduate school and is attended by professors and students from all parts of the United States and Canada. This will be the fourth consecutive summer Dr. Gail has spent in teaching and research at this institution.

In addition to his instructional work he has published three valuable papers on Marine Algae.

UNBUCKLED GOOLASHES CALL FORTH STUDENT'S IRE

Now that four buckle goolashes are not only proper but are in fact the only thing proper, we are confronted with a grave question. It may be all right to wear the said goolashes but why, under and by virtue of the name of Allah, the most high, should the fair sex wish to permit the before mentioned four buckles, put upon this type of footwear for the purpose of fastening tightly around the rotund ankles of the lovely one, to remain at large like the wings of an old fat speckled red hen, commonly called Rhode Island Red, on the afternoon of a particularly hot day in summer.

The first solution may well be that the wearer is, of course, I will not say really lazy, and yet she may have such a thoughtful mind like that possessed by many of our preeminent scientists and thus be prone to overlook a small matter like the buckles on a pair of mere overshoes. If this is the case, however, why don't she forget to lace up her shoes, or going yet another step why does she wear the bloody things at all.

There may be a perfectly reasonable solution of the whole thing, and this may well be expressed (not sent by freight) by saying in the words of the great philosopher "It can't be did." The only remedy for this situation would be that perhaps some of the Moscow reformers, working for the good of the school at large, might present the wearers of the winged goolashes with book straps and thus permit them to walk without attracting the attention of half of the students at the University and at the same time the before-mentioned co-eds could keep their feet dry.

SCHOOL OF FORESTRY HEARS FROM PROMINENT SERVICE MEN

F. W. Morrell, district forester, and H. R. Flint, in charge of fire protection, of district one of the U. S. forest service, whose headquarters are at Missoula, Mont., are visitors at the school of forestry Friday and Saturday. They addressed the Forestry Club at a special meeting Friday afternoon.

Mr. Morrell discussed in particular, the personal qualities of a forester and pointed out the large field open to young men in the forestry profession.

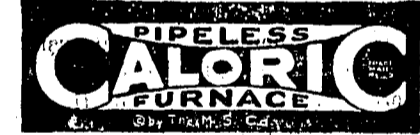

Mr. Flint emphasized the great importance of the forest fire patrol problem in Idaho, where the economic wealth of the state rests so greatly on the maintenance of a continuous timber supply.

FACULTY ANNOUNCES MORE RULES

Adopted by the faculty February 11, 1921:

Your committee on discipline and attendance recommends to the general faculty for adoption as a rule, that any student regularly found guilty of cheating in any final examination, after due publication of this rule, be suspended for one semester.

Recommended further that this rule be announced at the next general assembly of students and be posted in the bulletin board at the left of the Bursar's door.

In line of the penalty now prescribed for students who absent themselves from any class exercise without excuse immediately prior to, or following a vacation or upon the day known as "sneak day" or who join in any concerted action to remain away from any class exercise, your committee on discipline and attendance recommends that any such student so offending, in the future, be required to complete one credit hour in addition to the number of hours regularly required for graduation in his course and that a memorandum to that effect be indorsed upon the record of every student so offending kept in the office of the registrar.

Recommended further that this change in penalty be given the same publicity heretofore given the rule, touching the matters herein mentioned adopted the fifth day of March, 1920. Recommended further that the penalty here provided be not inflicted upon any bona fide member of the senior class on account of absence from classes on "Sneak Day."

SOCIAL & PERSONAL

A two weeks' social lull came to a delightful termination on Saturday evening when men in war-time attire danced with their co-ed partners at the annual formal military ball. The gymnasium was made most attractive with a profusion of red, white and blue flags and drapes. Take-offs on a typical army life were cleverly rendered by a few from the ranks of the Idaho cadet.

During the week there was extensive entertaining for Miss Catherine Burnside, grand registrar of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, who spent a few days with the local chapter. Miss Burnside was the honor guest at delightful teas and luncheons and her individual chorus was thoroughly enjoyed by all who met her.

Mrs. A. H. Upham entertained at a charming tea on Friday afternoon to honor Miss Catherine Burnside. Invitations were limited to the members of Kappa Kappa Gamma and the patronesses of the sorority.

Royal Starr spent a few days in Lewiston last week.

The Misses Bartlett, Swanson, Brown, Patch and Hyde were Sunday dinner guests of Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Rev. J. Orin Gould was a dinner guest of the Vocational Club Sunday. Mr. Gould outlined the work he is taking up at the University which met the approval of the members of the club.

Dewey Patton of the Elwetats, spent the week end in Endicott.

VALUE OF EXAMS.

After a thorough investigation, and reading all of the extant literature upon the above subject, I feel it my duty to enumerate the most important arguments pro and con, propounded by the most eminent professors in the school world.

A—ADVANTAGES:

1. To the Teacher—It gives her new facts and original ideas.
2. To Average Student—Her only chance to write a book or books of fiction.
3. To Gas or Electric Co.—More money to collect.
4. To the Grocer—Increased coffee sales.
5. To the Mattress—A long-needed rest.

The above arguments are advanced by Professors Ruffneck, Kiljoy, Cheatem, Soakem and Workem respectively.

B—DISADVANTAGES:

1. To Teachers—They have to read student's fiction.
2. To Studes—They usually discover that they have burdened their minds with too much useless information.
3. To Mother—She has to make the coffee.
4. To Father—He has to foot the bills.
5. To the Family in General—Loss of sleep.

For these we are indebted to Profs. Sleepmore, Workless, Luvfun, Gaybird, and Lovem, respectively.—Hunter College Bull.

FORMER CO-ED WHITES FROM SHELLEY

A letter has been received from Miss Alice Hankinson, ex-'22, who is now teaching in the high school at Shelley. She heard the concert of the glee club in Idaho Falls, and her letter is printed in part here:

"A large audience turned out last night to hear the Idaho glee club in Idaho Falls. The concert was held in the L. D. S. auditorium, under the auspices of the Idaho Falls high school. The enthusiastic audience demanded encore after encore of the club. Individual numbers were applauded and recalled many times. In the audience were many Idaho Falls high school students.

"The members of the club played havoc with the fair sex of the audience during the entire evening. Such expressions as 'Oh! isn't he too cute for anything!' 'Boy! howdy, look at those eyes!' were current throughout the audience. The club presented a fine appearance, and more than favorably impressed the audience.

"Mr. Dickenson's violin numbers more accorded the highest praise and tribute. The terrprishore artist, billed as Miss Josephine Moore, brought down the house with her classical dancing and high jumping. The audience with one voice breathed, 'Look at that! prize fighter frame!' She favored the crowd with an encore and finally obligingly removed her blonde wig.

"Many alumni were in the audience. Among those I saw were Genevieve Darr and Fay Morris of Roberts, Esther Thomas of Sugar City, Dessie Hall of Idaho Falls, Lawrence Hodgins, and Alvin Denman of Idaho Falls.

"Sincerely,
"Alice Hankinson."

PRES. UPHAM POINTS TO NEED OF ECONOMY

Times Are Now More Critical Than Is Realized By Majority of Students—Thrift Needed.

"It is high time for everyone to 'take stock' and regulate their spending according to their individual capital" declared President A. H. Upham of the University of Idaho Wednesday in a brief pre-assembly talk before the student body.

"This is no time for anything but thrift," he said. "Owing to the condition the country is in, no one can thoughtlessly now spend money. If any student should find it necessary to leave school because he had spent money he could have saved, the university will be held responsible. Fortunately, here we are not as tempted toward extravagant spending as we might be in other places, but everyone can pare his expenses down somewhat. We do not intend to suggest what the individual should spend or should not spend his money for, but each of us must plan our own salvation and keep within individual limits."

VOCATIONAL MEN GET PRACTICAL WORK IN WOODS

School of Forestry Assists to Train Men in Log Scaling at Big Mill in Coeur d'Alene Timber.

The Idaho State board for vocational education, in co-operation with the school of forestry at the University of Idaho, is achieving excellent results in its course in log scaling, now being held at the Edward Rutledge Lumber Company mill at Coeur d'Alene. The class was organized by Miles S. Lewis, state vocational director, and is being conducted by P. E. Knouf, log scaling expert of the U. S. forestry service.

"The training at Coeur d'Alene will thoroughly cover the subject of log scaling," said Dean F. G. Miller, head of the Idaho school of forestry, today, "and excellent practical results may be expected. The course is of three weeks' duration and takes up six hours' work per day. The study will include the various types of defects for which allowance must be made in woods practice. Practical timber men as well as vocational men are taking advantage of the course."

STUDENT OPINIONS ON HONOR SYSTEM AT IDAHO

Many Students Comment On System—Consensus is That It Should Be Given Thorough Trial.

As a result of an editorial run some time ago in the Argonaut, considerable comment has been passing to and fro among students and faculty apropos the advisability of giving the honor system a trial in all the colleges of the University.

There never has been a compilation of student opinion on this subject, and it was suggested that it would be well to have the opinions of a number of representative students express themselves, through the Argonaut, of their stand on the question. An effort was made to get signed statements from one or two representative students of every group on the campus.

As might be expected, such statements are hard to collect, and due to personal modesty at being seen in print, social activities, etc., the list is not as complete as it was hoped for. However, it is sufficient to show the prevailing student opinion.

Our cards are on the table. We would like to hear faculty opinion on the subject. The opinions as submitted follow:

One of the cardinal duties of the American University is the production of good citizens. Good American citizenship is fundamentally dependent, first of all upon the honesty, integrity, and loyalty of the American people, and second upon the knowledge they possess of their country's problems. Therefore it devolves upon the American University, if it is to accomplish its highest purpose, to teach these basic fundamentals of good citizenship.

How is honesty, integrity, and loyalty to be taught? Certainly not by the attitude of suspicion assumed by the faculty where the "honor system" is not used. The average young American college Freshman is just entering the formative or character-building period in his life, and while it may have been necessary to keep a close watch over him while in preparatory school, where irresponsibility overwhelmed reason, this becomes less and less necessary as reason begins to assert itself. It is a well known fact that development in any direction is only made possible by conscious effort in that direction, and that success is only attainable through the assumption of responsibility. How then will the average college student learn honesty, integrity, and loyalty, if the faculty assumes entire responsibility?

It is as necessary for students to train for honesty as it is for athletes to train for football or track. What sort of athletic teams would we have if the coaches disposed entirely of the incentive to train?

To attain the best results the faculty must make the student understand that it is up to him to be honest. If this is done and the "honor system" instituted, dishonesty will run its course and shortly be eliminated. Naturally there will be a reaction due to the change from one system to the other, which may cause skeptics to doubt the wisdom of the "honor system," but this reaction will only be of a short duration.

I am heartily in favor of the honor system. I believe that it makes an appeal to the average student's sense of honor and fairness. He has come here to get an education and is capable of deporting himself as a man. He does not need constant watching and such watching antagonizes him. If he does cheat under the honor system he is bound to lose his self-respect and the respect of those about him.

Taking the viewpoint of an undergraduate in the University and a student in the College of Law where this system has been in operation for many years, I am absolutely convinced that if the honor system can be a success in one college it can be equally successful in the others. Of course, at first it may not operate perfectly in every department, but in the course of time it would be accepted willingly by every student and would prove as successful in all the University as it has in the College of Law. I heartily favor the adoption of such a system by the student body and I hope that in the not far future the University of Idaho may be numbered among those leading educational institutions in which this system is successfully maintained.

M. A. Thometz, Jr.

The University of Idaho needs the honor system, adopted by students and faculty, and operated by their co-operation. We need this, first, to eliminate the evils of our present system which ranks the honest with the dishonest and allows many students to get by with cheating in examinations and other school work. Secondly, we need it to stimulate pride in honest work. The mistaken tradition which allows a student to cheat and still maintain his place in student society, should be abolished. If the right and wrong of the question need clearing, the honor system will do it. I hope it will soon be operating at the U. of I.

C. E. Roberts,

There is no reason, so far as I am aware, that would prevent the successful operation of the honor system at Idaho. It is a splendid institution and is successful in many other progressive schools.

Harold S. Ayers.

No social institution, since it is composed of human beings, is perfect. The honor system is working in many universities, and it can work here. However, it cannot be developed in a moment. It requires time to educate the student body up to its high standard, to feel the responsibility of upholding every other student, in maintaining strict honesty.

Much also depends upon the attitude of members of the faculty.

If we, as college men and women, have not acquired a sense of honor, when shall we?

LaVern I. Borell.

My Dear Editor: In regard to your request for a statement regarding the honor system it seems to me to be worthy of a trial at Idaho. Years ago the honor system was adopted here in the College of Law. It has been in effect ever since, and according to the statements of both faculty and students, is entirely successful. Although not officially adopted in the College of Agriculture most of the instructors there have placed their students upon their honor to act upon the square.

It seems to me to be belittling to both instructors and students to have the former pussy-footing around at examination time in an effort to catch dishonest students. One instructor cannot hope to be successful in a contest with a large class. Under the honor system the students themselves will reduce cribbing to a minimum. Should the honor system be adopted here, I do not believe that the students of Idaho will betray the confidence placed in them.

Everett E. Hunt

I am a strong believer in the honor system, provided it is a system. It should be handled by the students, and should not be left to individual departments of instructors to put those under their jurisdiction on an honor basis. The present system is well and good for all that play square, but relieves the most the responsibility of seeing that the rest

Paul T. Rowell.

The adoption of the honor system by the large universities and colleges of the country should be sufficient incentive for the acceptance of the plan by the University of Idaho. The plan has been found satisfactory in other places. There is no reason why it should fail here.

Mercedes Jones.

I do not think we should adopt the honor system at the University of Idaho until every student has carefully analyzed the system, and pledged his support.

Jean I. Kendall.

I would like very much to see the honor system installed at the University of Idaho. The honor system has proved to be successful in many other colleges and I think it can be satisfactorily worked out here.

G. Clarke.

I should like to see Idaho adopt the honor system. It is one of the institutions which shows the progress of a school. We are working for a better and bigger Idaho and I believe the adoption of this system would help raise the standard of the University.

L. Borden.
