FAIRBANKS PRAISED FOR IDAHO DOUGHBOY

Press Comments Carried By Literary Digest.

Truly symbolic of American ideals and struggles, the "Idaho Doughboy," designed by Avar Fairbanks, professor of sculpture in the University, is classed by the Literary Digest in its latest issue as representative of the memorial spirit in this country.

According to the Idaho Statesman, which the Digest quotes, ten counties in Idaho have made arrangements to have life-sized models of this statue set in their principal city.

Mr. Fairbanks has designed a number of different settings for the memorial. Several of his most charming designs place the statue beside a foundation. In one it is a part of a marble seat, a resting place for the weary who wish a bit of ideal inspiration on their way. In one design it is an entrance to a park, a memorial gateway. The topography of different counties has suggested different settings, so while every county will have the same memorial, each setting will be different.

Commenting on Mr. Fairbanks and his work, the Statesman says:

"The are commission appointed by Governor Davis to select a design obtained the service of Avar Fairbanks for the work, for two reasons. First, on account of his unusual talent; and second, because Idaho claims him as a native son. At the age of thirteen he obtained a scholarship in the Art Students' League of New York and the following year won another scholarship. At fourteen he exhibited in the National Academy of Design in New York, being the youngest sculptor who had ever exhibited in that institution. Three years later he was accepted without examination to study in the Ecole Nationale des Beaux Arts, Paris, and from that time on he has won many honors.

"The committee believing that a utilitarian memorial does not address itself so directly to the emotions as does the purely votive memorial, asked Fairbanks to design a statue which should carry a personal message of the deeds nobly done and express the embodiment of the desire to commemorate the ideals which inspired the heroic deed.

"This he had done in his statue of 'The Doughboy' a figure which stands as a type for all who took part in the great struggle. This Yankee from Idaho stands with jaw set, gun ready for action. With head turned to study new situation, he comes forth from an old one on the battle-front in which he is victorious, as is shown by the defensive headgear of the foe he carries."

INFORMATION CONCERNING RESEARCH FUNDS ON FILE

The Research Information Service of the National Research Council has recently compiled information about funds for scientific research. From this compilation it appears that there are hundreds of special funds, trusts, or foundations for the encouragement or support of research, in the mathematical, physical and biological sciences, and their applications in engineering, medicine, agriculture and other useful arts. The income from these funds, which amounts annually to at least fifty million dollars, is used principally for prizes, medals, research scholarships and fellowships grants and sustaining appropriations or endowments.

So numerous have been the requests to the Research Council for information about sources of research funds, availability of support for specific projects and mode of administration of particular trusts or foundations, that the Research Information Service has created a special file which it is proposed to keep up to date in order to answer the questions of those interested in such funds. Furthermore, in order to give wider publicity to the immediately available information about research funds, the Council has issued a bulletin under the title "Funds Available in 1920 in the United States of America for the Encouragement of Scientific Research."

Inquiries concerning the bulletin or for information about research funds should be addressed, National Research Council, Information Service, 1701 Massachusetts Avenue, Washington, D. C.

PHI Upsilon Omicron FEEDS ALPHA ZETA AT LUNCHEON

The members and pledges of the local chapter of Alpha Zeta participated in a luncheon served by the girls of the Phi Upsilon Omicron in the Home Economics rooms Thursday noon.

No special program was given, the object being merely to bring the men together. It is planned to make luncheons of this sort a regular part of Alpha Zeta activity. Of the faculty members Prof. Magnusson of the Soils Chemistry department and Prof. Miller, Dean of the School of Forestry were present.

VARSI WALLEPS COUGARS 5 TO 1

MOE BAFFLES FARMERS AND KEEPS BLOWS SCATTERED; SEASON'S BEST GAME

"Weeping, wailing and gnashing of teeth", and so there was, when Monday afternoon our friends from over the hill saw their beloved, their pompous cougar, stripped of his hide, his tail stepped on and left blind, helpless and yawling in rage, before one of the largest crowds of Idaho rooters that has ever turned out for a baseball game. Final score 5-1.

Speaking in plain terms they never had a chance and only once did the Cougar claws look dangerous when in the eighth Moe walked one and the second man tapped a fast ball thru Edwards. The next man up clouted one to left field and thru a fumble on Jim Fox's part, a run came in. Then things began to tighten and Moe started the old "Expectorate Sphere" to working. Shooting over a couple with the bases full, he sent two men to the bench and the third clouted a fast infield fly into Kinnison's hands, ending W. S. C.'s only chance for a few runs.

This was the best game Idaho has played and it gave the rooters the desired confidence which has been lacking. From the first the game appeared on ice and whenever a W. S. C. batter got up it was only a question of whether he would fan or knock a soft one into Idaho's mitts.

W. S. C. was represented by a large crowd of enthusiastic rooters who endeavored to razz Idaho into the air. Credit must be given them for their efforts but that is all for they went back to their old cow college downtrodden but much the wiser for their experience.

EXPERIMENT STATION TESTS FOREIGN SEEDS

Red Clover From Five Foreign Lands Will Be Grown On University Farm This Summer.

The experiment station is conducting a series of investigations in cooperation with the Office of Foreign Investigations, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture. Samples of red clover have been secured from Chile, Italy, Bohemia, France and Russia; and the states of North Dakota and Ohio. The object is to determine the conduct of these varieties under our conditions.

Some work is also being done with other miscellaneous legumes and species of clover and alfalfa. The leguminous plants are an absolute necessity if the farmers wish to keep their soil up to the maximum production and the Experiment Station is desirous to find the most valuable plants for this purpose.

Getting on a college paper is like getting married. You always contract a lot of unpleasant relations.

Allied Nations Pay Homage to World Heroes May 30—Poppies to be Worn

On May 30, uniting in a splendid spirit of brotherhood, the allied nations will pay reverence to the heroes of the world's war. America's Decoration Day has been chosen by the Interallied Veterans as the day to pay homage to the dead. The cemeteries in France will be thronged by a reverend multitude of men, women and children, these little French children who remember our boys.

There will be a national demonstration on that day in honor of the men to whom we all owe so much. Mrs. Alfred Budge, Idaho Chairman, for the day's observance, requests that on May 30 everyone wear the Poppy which the American Legion adopted at its last national convention as its memorial flower, "the poppy of Flanders fields—the little red poppy of France—that grows wild everywhere in France." "Through the cooperation of the American Legion, replicas of the real poppies will be offered for sale to be worn on Memorial and Poppy Day," says Mrs. Budge. "The real poppies are too fragile to be transported, but the American and French Children's League has arranged the best substitute for the real flower, which is the poppy made by the women of France who knew our boys, by the children who loved them, by the people who now live in the very places where America's best fought and won and where so many sleep. The profits from the sale of the poppies will go to the relief of children in devastated France. Memorial Day poppies will be offered at 10 cents each, or more as one feels generously inclined."

"We cannot go to Flanders fields, but we can all wear an outward sign in memory of our men so that the citizens of our state will take full part in the national demonstration of reverence and admiration for the men who served in 1917-1918, bringing glory to the flag and honor to the country."

UNIVERSITY CLUB PLANS JAMBOREE

Boise Alumni Club Plans Big Doings For Ex-Students on 15th.

The University Club of Boise is planning for a gala time in the capital city on June 15. Mr. Claude Gibson, president of the club has called a meeting for that date and all Idaho students are asked to attend.

Mr. Gibson has planned for a number of stunts for the entertainment, which will be similar to those presented by the classes at the annual stunt fest at the University. He has asked that students who reside in Boise, or vicinity prepare such a stunt for this program.

The following letter was received by the Argonaut this week, relative to this matter:

May 19, 1921
Mr. C. H. Swanstrom,
Editor, University Argonaut,
Moscow, Idaho.

Dear Mr. Swanstrom,
Mr. Claude Gibson the president of the University of Idaho Club of Boise, has called a meeting of the club Wednesday, at 8 o'clock, June 15th, at the Chamber of Commerce rooms, Boise, Idaho. At this meeting, several stunts, partaking somewhat of the nature of the stunts put on annually at the University, will be given and, as chairman of the committee on arrangements for the program I am requesting that you please run a notice in the Argonaut addressed to the University students who will be in Boise June 15th, and requesting that they prepare and put on a stunt as part of our program.

We shall greatly appreciate your efforts in giving this matter publicity.
Respectfully yours,
B. L. Williams.

HUFF ENTERS BUSINESS ARENA

One of the latest and most attractive businesses to make its debut in Moscow is the Huff Cafe occupying the old First Trust and Savings Bank building on the corner of Main and Second streets. The equipment, service, a variety of fares, class this restaurant among the best to be found in a city the size of Moscow.

Mr. Lawrence E. Huff, proprietor, is one of the foremost students in the Law College at the University. In addition he has established an enviable reputation as chef. Prior to launching this enterprise he and Mrs. Huff have been employed in the culinary department of the Phi Delta Theta fraternity.

It is Mr. Huff's intention to appeal to every palate at any hour of the day or night. The student patronage will be especially catered to. Dinner parties can be easily satisfactorily arranged. "After the show" fans will receive excellent service and satisfying refreshments. "The kind that mother makes" delicacies will tempt all who hanker for such.

In undertaking this enterprise Mr. Huff is re-exemplifying the fact that "Idaho" students can and do make good. He has tackled a large task but his business ability has been demonstrated. He deserves the good wishes and patronage of the Campus.

TENNIS TEAM WILL MEET MISSIONARIES

CO-EDS LOST TO WHITMAN TEAM LAST WEEK, WON IN SINGLES

The University tennis team, composed of Fred Veatch, Harold Hansen and "Kirt" Herrington, will leave Thursday morning for Walla Walla where Friday and Saturday they enter a triangle tourney with Whitman and Washington State.

The Idaho men won their places by coming out on top in the campus tournament in which only the finals are yet to be played. Herrington and Veatch won their way to the last match, Hansen coming third.

The Idaho team will be under a disadvantage as none of the men have played in a college tournament while both Whitman and W. S. C. are using last years stars who are known to be much above the average. However, the recent playing shows that all three men are close to their best form and should give their opponents a hard race.

Herrington plays a smashing game from the tape while Hansen and Veatch rely on a wicked out stroke. In the co-ed dual meet with Whitman, the Missionaries nosed out Idaho by taking two of the three matches in the singles and also garnering the doubles. Mrs. Richards had little trouble in winning, taking two straight sets, 6-3, 6-3. Gladys Hastie lost out 2-6, 1-6, and Miss White was defeated 3-6, 2-6.

Considerable interest in tennis has been shown by university women and it is probable that more inter-collegiate matches will be arranged for them next year.

THE AG.

(From the Frosh Stunt)
Tho perhaps you all can guess it I'm the guy they call the "Ag". Tho with sorrow I confess it, Still, the story mustn't lag; I can't hide my awful calling Nor the fact that I'm appalling So I'll speak instead of stalling Lest you think I'm on a jag.

On the campus I'm walking, Well you know my vacant air, And if you should see me talking You can tell me anywhere, For my words, tho scientific, Seldom seem to be specific, And my grammar's so terrific That it musses up my hair.

When I'm with you at the dinner It's a clever little fad To explain how cream is thinner 'Cause the wilkweed crop is bad; Words of wisdom then I utter Of the fat that's in the butter And of calories I mutter Till I nearly drive you mad.

Oh I'm bad, but in a minute I will prove within my verse, That I'm hardly even in it With another frightful curse, So my friends, with your permission, I will cite my short edition, And I think you'll make decision Tho I'm bad, he's even worse. —T. Sherman.

W. S. C. WOMAN HONORED

State College of Washington, Pullman, May 20.—Miss John Samuels received notice Monday of her nomination for a one-year scholarship in one of the leading Lycees or girls' schools in France. Miss Saunders is one of 20 American girls to be sent to France next fall by the American council of education.

In bestowing the scholarship upon Miss Saunders, a distinct mark of recognition is given to the department of foreign languages of the state college. The foreign language department is equipped with a complete phonetic laboratory to assist the students in learning correct pronunciation.—Pacific News Service.

IDAHO WHIPS WHITMAN IN TWO FAST GAMES

Missionaries' Pitchers Present Idaho Batters Round Trip In Last Innings.

Idaho romped home with the bacon in two of the best games of baseball season played against Whitman College at Walla Walla May 20 and 21. Both games were close until the last inning when the Missionaries weakened and Idaho took the advantage.

Suffering from her defeats of the previous weeks the Silver and Gold tore into the Stalwart Missionaries with blood in her eye and grabbed two straight games on their home diamond.

The first game was perhaps the closest game of the two when up to the last inning it was anybody's game. Whitman went into the air in the 11th and Idaho got out the old horseshoe and with a few well directed clouts ran a marathon around the bases for a total of five rounds.

Dean, Whitman's second baseman, muffed a couple of hot ones and allowed the old balloon to get a start. Then Garver, who was hurling, found out his support was weakening, and decided to issue a free trip to Idaho, in which he handed everyone who got up to bat a round trip ticket around the sacks.

The second game played on the 21st was almost as close as the first, when up to the eighth inning Whitman was in the lead. But again as in the previous game the Missionaries weakened and the Silver and Gold waiting for just such an opportunity bunched their hits and drove over seven runs in the last two innings. Nearly all of Whitman's errors were gathered together in these two innings and it had something to do with the score taking such a decided turn.

Both Foran and Marineau pitched a splendid game, and the team showed a marked improvement over their previous games.

COUGAR CUBS TAKE VICTORY OFF FROSH

YEARLINGS FROM RIVAL SCHOOLS STAGE CLOSE CONTEST YESTERDAY

The Cougar Cubs invaded the home soil yesterday afternoon and annexed the long end of a 5 to 3 score in a well played game with the University Yearlings. The Idaho Youngsters stepped into the lead in the second inning and held it until the eighth, when two hits off of Snow and two costly errors let four Farmers across the rubber.

Snow, who hurled the horsehide for Idaho, kept the Cubs clawing the air most of the time and what few hits were garnered from his delivery were well scattered until the eighth when they annexed two in succession. The Yearlings connected with the offerings of the W. S. C. pitcher with more frequency and had runners on the sacks in all but two innings.

W. S. C. scored in the first. Idaho came back in the second and annexed two counters on blows and errors. The Cubs chalked up four more in the eighth on two hits, and errors by Idaho. The Yearlings counted again in the ninth on a blow and overthrow by the Cubs. Score 5-3.

FROSH GRAB STUNT JUNIORS WIN SONG

YEARLINGS PRODUCE CLEVER ACT—SOPHS MOCK CAMPUS DAY ACTIVITIES.

The annual Song and Stunt Fest on Friday evening was one of the best presented in several years. At seven thirty the auditorium was packed to capacity and hundreds of spectators had to be content with improvised seats in the aisles and with standing room in the entrance ways.

The program was opened by the Freshman songs, which were given by a group of artists of the class, who were grouped around a campfire. The songs were very spirited and were very pleasing with their lilting air and catchy time.

The Sophomore song was an excellent number with an extremely attractive melody. The Juniors prefaced their class song with an introductory number sung by five men. This number was a charming little ditty devoted to an exposition of the various charms of Moscow.

The Junior song proper was given by a large group of the class, and was very effective. It was woven around the theme of "Fight, Fight, Fight for the Silver and Gold". The singers were artistically grouped and costumed. The audience responded with heavy applause. This song won first place, gaining the decision over the Senior contribution by one point.

The Senior song "The U for U", took second place, was generally regarded by the crowd as the best of the evening. The theme is built around the slogan of the S. E. I. U. Club slogan, namely, "The U of I is the U for U". The words were cleverly written and the music was very pleasing.

Robert Jones Secretary of State, said apropos this number "The senior song will live longer and be more treasured than any song which has been submitted in these contests for many years."

Freshman Stunt.

The Freshman stunt which was accorded first place by the judges, was undoubtedly one of the cleverest stunts presented in many years. The stunt was based on the story of Pandora's Box. It was introduced by a boy and a girl who came on the stage with an immense book, entitled "Pandora's Box". After reading from the book, the couple laid down for a little nap and a woodland nymph, in the person of Miss Kendrick appeared on the stage and executed a charming little dance after which she awakened the sleepers and told them about the box. Curiosity did its work, and the box was opened with a crash of flame and smoke, and out of its depth came G. M. Miller's Impractical Character Tablet.

The box contained many characters of the campus, including an Ag, and his prototype the short Ag, the Pre-Med, the dreadful Zero of final exams and at length appeared the beautiful Idaho Spirit, as played by Jessie Griegson. She gave a delightful reading set to music, depicting the true Idaho Spirit. A feature of this number was two doves, draped in the colors of the University which were released at the conclusion of the stunt.

The stage was most beautifully decorated with giant butterflies, huge flowers and a profusion of colored balloons. The entire stage effect and costuming showed that an immense amount of careful and painstaking work had been expended by the first year people. All the dialect of the stunt was worked out in clever verse and between the entrances of each of the characters in the play, singing of a rather classical nature emitted from the recesses of Pandora's Box. The stunt easily deserved the first place that was given by the judges, and the audience was vociferous in applause.

Soph Stunt.

The Sophomore stunt was a burlesque on the Campus Day program, given last week. The stunt was introduced by a professional of "would be Seniors", the May Queen, attendants, page and Maid of Honor. Vaughn Price was the beautiful May queen and her (?) graceful entry was greeted with a storm of applause. She was accorded a huge basketful of green grass as a proper tribute and was crowned with a paper crown by the maid of honor.

Babe Brown and other graceful feminine dancers presented the low

CONGRATULATIONS
The Argonaut wishes to compliment the Co-Eds on the last issue of the Argonaut. The paper, well written from start to finish, carried the news of the week in a manner worthy of the institution which it represents. A realization of the difficulties under which the paper was published would lead to even a greater appreciation of the Co-Ed Argonaut than the already hearty welcome with which it was greeted.

ASHAMED OF OLD GLORY?
We wish to call attention to the fact that the University of Idaho is a government institution, largely supported by Federal funds. And also to the fact that on our campus, there stands a perfectly good flag pole. So far this Spring, Old Glory has not been flown from that standard. Old Glory is about the last remaining phase of our national life, which no smirch or defamation lies. It would be altogether fitting and proper that we see more of it, displayed as it should be, over our fair campus. There a nobility and dignity, and something almost akin to the sacred in our national emblem. We too little realize this. When one has participated in the ceremonies of lowering our flag in a great army camp, where thousands of men stand like statues, in absolute line, while the flag descends majestically to the salute of a deep throated cannon, and the crush of martial bands, he only then begins to realize the significance of our flag. A few such ceremonies by the entire student body would not be amiss in an institution of the character of our University.

OPEN FORUM
ADVICE TO THE LOVELORN
(The title has nothing to do with the story, but what do we care.)
During a class lecture not long ago a professor, long connected with the University of Idaho, digressed from the subject under discussion and with a countenance befitting the sadness of the occasion, spent some little time commenting on what a sad, cruel world this happens to be.
"I have seen," he said, "young men graduates from this institution who were filled with the fire of ambition. They gripped their diploma in their hands and faced the world with determination and hope. They were on their toes and tingled with the desire to accomplish something worth while."

"He had seen them go forth to conquer and return humiliated with defeat, their hopes blasted, and their high ideals a mass of wreckage. They then had secured some two-for-one job in a second class bank in some town or had started to disperse, potatoes and tomato catsup over the counter of some country grocery store."
"What apply it is," the professor said. "The death of the ideal is far worse than the death of the body."
The professor was right. High ideals are scarce articles in these days of material aggrandizement. When high ideals go aflivvering, the angels weep and the stars cover their faces in shame.
So we need men with something more than high ideals. We need men with the courage, strength of conviction, and the patience to stick by their ideals and see them go under the wire at the finish. A fine automobile is a splendid possession, but if it is kept in a glass case and never used it isn't worth a plugged nickel to the man who wants to go from place to place. Society and politics and business and government, alike, are pretty well established. They have been evolved through long periods of time and their changes have been gradual and conservative. Sudden changes have invariably resulted in disaster. So the Big Four look with suspicion upon reform. They shun radical reorganization. They are careful to stifle any attempt to upset the order and formality of their established routine. Experience has taught them, that divergence from their well beaten paths of procedure is dangerous and that Order is the first law of the universe.

The college graduate, fresh from the protecting portals of his Alma Mater, sets forth to revolutionize this conservative and long established scheme of things. He is right in assuming that all is not as it should be, and he is right in his attempt to make it better, but he is up against a tough proposition and he is slated for a few surprises. For the deck is stacked and the players are old hands at the game.
He must make himself conform to the conditions as they exist—he must be willing to at first accept the world as he finds it. He must be prepared for hard knocks, for he will get lots of them, and now and then he will draw cards that have been dealt from the bottom of the pack.
Overdrafts of disappointment will tax his reserve fund of courage to the utmost. He will find that this is a cruel world and that the "survival of the fittest" is its unerring law and motto.

His Alma Mater has weened him and turned him loose to shift for himself. He finds himself in a world where it is performance and not promise that is worth a hundred cents on the dollar; where it is not "who you are," but "what can you do" that brings home the bacon. He must divest himself of the opinion that he is superior to the common run of mortals and learn that ability must be demonstrated and not vociferated. If he is not streaked with yellow; if he has the courage and persistence, he will pull through. If he can stand the knocks he will profit by them. If he is willing to start at the bottom and keep his lofty purpose in view, he will reach the top where there is lots of room if he fights for it. He must have two qualifications—patience and industry, for nothing worth while has been attained without hard work and persistence.
If he has these qualifications; if he is willing to see the whole show through; if his head cannot be turned by small successes, he will come to the top in spite of opposition and minor discouragements.
The law of gravitation works alike with men and sand. The course grains will go to the bottom and the fine will be pushed to the top.
Don't quit.
Don't ignore minor details. It is surprising how small a hand may turn the iron helm of Fate.
Politics are corrupt because of the apathy and indifference of men of clean principle who refuse to soil their hands in anything so openly known to be vile. The victories and the spoils are automatically left to the muckers. It may be a tough battle, but in a country where education is so general evil cannot forever triumph, and right is bound to come into its own.

Stick to it and you will win. Stick to your high ideals and they will stick to you. For just as surely as the drop of water will wear the mighty rock away, so will faithfulness to a high principle destroy the forces of evil that are combined to defeat it.
Stick to it and there will be no second rate job for you; no selling cheese and crackers to the hungry jays or counting the long green for the boys whose wishbones are not where their backbones ought to be.

TELLS HOW IDAHO'S SEAL WAS DESIGNATED
W. J. McConnell, former governor of Idaho, is frequently called upon for information in regard to the early history of the state and no one is more capable of giving it nor more willing to answer the questions asked. Recently Governor McConnell was called by telephone and asked about the adoption of the great seal of the state of Idaho. He asked the inquirer to give him time to get the facts as it occurred a long time ago, and when

Governor McConnell answered the question by submitting in writing the facts concerning its adoption he kindly consented to make an extra copy for this paper. # SOCIAL & PERSONAL

With less than three weeks remaining before the end of the school year, university students are consuming liberally the proverbial midnight oil in preparation for final examinations. As seniors are excused from classes a week earlier, they now are going through especially strenuous period of work.

Social events with the exception of one or two picnics, have about come to a close. The last all-college dance of the year was held Saturday night by the Washington club, which is composed of students from the state of Washington. Several athletic contests will be held before the close of school but as these come in the afternoon they will not conflict with night studying.

A. J. Priest and Charles Darling of Beta Theta Pi were dinner guests of Phi Delta Theta Sunday.

Vivian Molloy of Lewiston was a week-end guest of Kappa Kappa Gamma.

Messrs. Nieder, Shepherd, Jessup and Holmes of Whitman, and Anderson of Washington State College, were dinner guests of Phi Delta Theta Saturday.

Messrs. Cable and Mosset of W. S. C. were week-end visitors at the Beta house.

Fay Morris, who has been teaching at Roberts, Idaho, returned home Thursday.

Henry Schudt was a Colfax visitor the latter part of the week.

Beta Theta Pi announces the pledging of Leon Woodrow of Spokane.

Genevieve Armstrong and Margaret Lewis of W. S. C. visited Kappa Kappa Gamma on Tuesday.

A. A. Brazean was a dinner guest of the Elwetes Sunday.

Hartwick Hanson of Potlatch was the guest of Phi Delta Theta Sunday afternoon and evening.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon held their annual picnic Sunday, May 22.

Kappa Kappa Gamma announces the engagement of Norma Dow '20 to Vernon Patton of Sigma Nu.

Beta Theta Pi held its annual picnic at Felton's Mill, Sunday. The day was spent with various games and east.

Messrs. Nelson and Wilson of Washington State College were guest of Phi Delta Theta Tuesday night.

Kappa Kappa Gamma entertained Shop, of course.

at dinner Wednesday evening for Prof. and Mrs. Barton, and Prof. Brown.

Wednesday dinner guests of Gamma Phi Beta were Dean and Mrs. C. N. Little and daughter, Catherine, Mrs. Baum and Katherine Baum of Lincoln, Nebraska.

Alvin Campbell, ex '19, visited at the Sig Alpha house last week.

Mr. C. S. McMartin of Twin Falls was a Sunday dinner guest of Gamma Phi Beta.

Joe Whitcomb of Phi Delta Theta, prominent football man of last season, is visiting the campus.

People We Can Cheerfully Eliminate

The man who hits you for the money you owe him when you are out with her.

The bird who offers to play a game of pool but forgets to tell you he's broke until you've won a game.

The goof that sets his alarm clock for 5 p. m. and wakes everybody at that hour.

The military department offers a course in map making. The co-ed is already a master at that art.

The Literary Digest in a recent issue, quoted the opinions of many educators concerning the modern young person, the female of the species in particular. The general opinion seems to be that we haven't gone to the how-wows after all. The various deans and college presidents say that the short skirt, peculiar arrangement of the hair, and other things common to the modern co-ed are but indications of the times. This all goes to show that the officials of our colleges are men with vision. We leave you to draw your own conclusions.

Charter Honor Fraternity

State College of Washington, Pullman.—Alpha Gamma Rho granted a charter to the A. C. R. club last Friday. The national order of Alpha Gamma Rho is an agricultural social fraternity. Membership in the order is limited to agricultural students, and a college to secure a local charter must rank high as an agriculture school.

The A. G. R. club made its initial appearance in Washington's birthday of this year. It had such able support in President Holland, Dean Johnson, and Professors Roy O. Westley and J. H. Longwell, and made such a fine showing at the national conference, that a charter was granted.

Well, old pal, we will soon be going home for our vacation but we'll meet here again in the fall. By the way, I must get my shoes all repaired up before I go. Where do you get your work done? Where? At Clinton's.

Editor University Argonaut,
Moscow, Idaho.

Dear Sir:
We trust the minutes of last year's conference of Student Body Presidents and Editors was sent to you last fall proved really helpful in answering social and campus questions.

June 7-17 at Estes Park, Colorado, is the time for our next meeting and we should have at least fifty schools represented from this Rocky Mountain region. We shall plan to have two periods each day given over to forum discussions of matters pertaining to school activities, government, athletics, publications, social life, traditions, as well as specific problems of individual schools.

Experience is a fine teacher. But why not use the other fellow's experience for all it's worth rather than rely wholly on the more expensive way of getting your own in each instance. We all want to know what the schools around us are doing, and this is the rare occasion of the year to get the real dope from our neighbors.

In addition to these "shop" facts and experiences will come the rare opportunity of the Estes Park Y. M. C. A. Student Conference which will be in session on these days. Its pep, its fellowship, its spiritual influence will go far toward creating a real Christian leadership in potential men. Bring your suggestions, your troubles, if any, and let's have the B-Estes conference ever. If you can justify your presence and efforts in college, a trip to Estes is equally justifiable. We guarantee it to be worth any semester's schooling you have ever had. We shall meet you in Estes! It can be done!

Sincerely,
Lyman E. King, Chairman.
P. S. If it is absolutely impossible

YOU HAVE WRITTEN POEMS!

Do you care to have them revised or constructively criticized by successful authors? If you do, then send us your manuscript (stories, articles or poems). We will criticize, and place them should they prove to be acceptable for publication. There is no actual charge for our services. If, however, you have not previously enrolled with the advisory department of this association, we request that you enclose the initial fee of two dollars, which we must ask of each new contributor. There is no additional expense, no future obligation.

It must be realized that we can only be of aid to those of serious intent. If you do mean to strive for literary success, we can help you in many ways. Our services are yours until we have actually succeeded in marketing at least one of your manuscripts. Send something today! Please enclose return postage with your communications.

Dear Sir:

We would be glad to consider stories from your editorial staff or readers for our new magazine, "Action Stories". We want short stories of three thousand to five thousand words, free from tedious description, and dealing with outdoor adventure or of detective type.

Stories will be paid for on acceptance. We don't expect "fine writing." It is the story we are after.

Will you kindly pass this invitation on to members of your staff or your readers who would be interested?

Sincerely,

"A. J." ENTERTAINED STUDENTS WEDNESDAY

Popular Student Outlined History of National Game, and Won His Hearers By Original Wit.

"Baseball has become an essential integral part of our national life. It is America's greatest institution. It furnishes amusement, exercise and vigorous entertainment to hundreds of thousands each year. Where there are Americans, baseball will be found. It followed our troops to Cuba and later to France and was taken up by the peoples of those countries; the Japanese adopted our national pastime about the same time they discovered California."

So spoke A. J. Priest in assembly last Wednesday, when for the first time in many moons, an undergraduate occupied the stage to address the student body at their regular weekly assembly.

Mr. Priest showed a thorough knowledge of the history of the national game, and blended through his entire speech, a happy trend of humor which captivated the audience from the start. His recital of that classic poem, "Casey at the Bat," modified to correspond with local conditions, brought roars of laughter from the students.

A. J. took opportunity for revenge upon the faculty by publicly quizzing them on their knowledge of baseball, and baseball history.

"The best assembly of the year" was the classification placed on the Wednesday meeting by many students.

NORTH IDAHO FOREST FIRE HAZARD WORST IN THE U. S.

That the fire hazard in the forests of north Idaho is worse than in any other portion of the United was the statement made by C. C. Delevan, fire assistant on the Coeur d'Alene national forest, in the first of the series of lectures on Forest Fire Protection which he is giving to the students of the School of Forestry of the University of Idaho at Moscow, Idaho, this week.

Mr. Delevan recently made a detailed investigation of the climatic factors affecting the fire hazard of this region in conjunction with Mr. J. A. Larsen, U. S. forest examiner in charge of the Priest River experiment station at Priest River, Idaho. This study showed that altho north Idaho's annual rainfall is much more abundant than that of many other sections of the country, its distribution is very uneven and there is practically none during the hot summer months of July and August. At the season when the rainfall is least the wind movement is greatest and westerly in direction. These westerly winds, having lost their moisture in traversing the Cascades and having been warmed up without reabsorbing moisture in crossing the deserts of central Washington strike the north Idaho forests with a powerful drying effect and observations actually show that the relative humidity in summer at Spokane is less than that of the Sahara desert. Thus we have the minimum of rainfall and humidity occurring when the wind movement, air temperature, sunshine and evaporation are greatest, a combination of factors which put the forests in a most inflammable condition.

Southern California has equally severe summer climatic conditions but there the fire problem is not so serious because the spring rainfall is much less, the forests more open in character and the amount of inflammable material on the ground much less. In North Idaho the abundant spring and fall rains give rise to a very dense type of forest which creates an abundance of inflammable material and enables the fires which occur to burn fiercely and spread rapidly.

In dealing with this most serious problem Mr. Delevan pointed out the necessity for care and active cooperation on the part of the public to prevent fires from starting, to extinguish all fires discovered, no matter how small, and to enforce the state and federal forest fire laws.

The Missionaries can thank their lucky stars it rained last Saturday. If it hadn't, they would have been snowed under.

WOOD WILL CLOTHE AND FEED MAN SOON

Forestry Professor Says Wood Is Good For Clothes, Rugs and Even for Food.

The wearing of wooden clothes, the dressing of wounds with wooden dressings, and, in a pinch, the eating of wooden foods, are pointed out by Dr. Henry Schmitz of the University of Idaho School of Forestry as facts emphasizing the increasing importance of wood in all departments of modern daily life.

"Wood and its products are fast coming into their own," said Dr. Schmitz. "If we were denied for a time all wood products we would realize immediately that they were almost indispensable in our daily living."

"We are no longer surprised to see a surgeon using wood pulp in place of absorbent cotton and we know that the former is in no way inferior and is often superior to cotton in absorbing capacity.

"Milady's artificial fibre silk hose may be a product of wood cellulose. Dresses, shirts, and many other articles of clothing have their origin in some stately tree of the forest. We read daily in newspapers of paper underwear and outer garments. Paper rugs adorn our floors and often we tramp on them with paper heels. Wood is an important constituent of linoleum. Paper string is not unusual.

"We have all read of wooden foods which became quite common in Germany during the war.

"Wood is among the products most essential to present day civilization and each day we see it being used successfully for some new purpose."

THE PRE-MED.

(From the Frosh Stunt.)
A doctor am I in the making,
At present I'm called a pre-med;
A tot of the course that I'm taking
Makes sick people wish they were dead.

I'll say I'm a regular wizard
A giving you dope for your ills;
For stomach or ingrowing toenails
I've always some Sloans Liver Pills.

A night time I chase thru the allies
Pursuing a single meow,
Bu pussy seems wise to my sallies
And kicks up a terrible row.
At last by the tail do I grab her,
And grinning with fiendish delight
Right into the bag do I jab her
And steal away into the night.

Next day into wafers I slice her,
With various scissors and knives;
To broaden my dome I entice her
To donate all nine of her lives,
So spirits of pussies I slaughter
Will haunt you in hoards and in flocks,
Cause you didn't do what you'd oughtter,
And leave me shut up in the box.

PROSPERITY

Is with us once more. We all knew hard times could not last long in this country, so rich in resources, and now we all feel better.

The scare that spread all over the world vanished in this country before it did much harm, and now we continue as of yore, and are once more on the road to prosperity.

OUR business is really the barometer, as WE are the FIRST to feel hard times. You cannot do without food or clothing, but you can do without jewelry when you MUST.

THEREFORE, we can tell you better than the weather man can prophesy the weather that good times are here, because we are kept extremely busy, and are having a large call for diamonds.

It was a conglomerate dance of diabolical absurdities, well calculated to set the entire audience to crying with laughter, and it fulfilled expectations.

Junior Fashion Show.

The Juniors based their stunt on the Fashion Show presented by the Home Ec department some months ago. Mike Thometz, as Miss Bigelow, introduced the act with a prologue on fashions. The stunt was divided into two sections. The first was a ludicrous exposition of what styles should not be. Laws of good dressing as laid down by Miss Bigelow, were absolutely controverted by the Juniors. All models were carried to a ludicrous extreme.

Lines of Silhouette and outline were portrayed by means of the shadow screen, and vividly brot forth the classic piece of wisdom, namely, should undress in the dark". The second act was devoted to the proper "that people who live in glass houses dress for the country club, which was represented by a cross roads grocery store and postoffice.

The stunt as a whole was very effective and mirth provoking, altho some of the numbers bordered on the risique.
