VANDALS EMBARK FOR EAST TO FIGHT FOR NATIONAL TROPHY

IDAHO QUINTET, RECOGNIZED AS PREMIER BASKETBALL AGGREGATION LEAVES FOR INDIANAPOLIS; HAS EVEN BREAK FOR SUCCESS

IDAHO STUDENT BODY STAGES HUGE RALLY

Give The Squad a Send Off Which Will Long Be Remembered By Departing Men

The University of Idaho Vandals, champions of two conferences and undefeated title holders of the Pacific coast, left Saturday afternoon for Indianapolis where they will enter the national tournament held under the auspices of the Indianapolis chamber of commerce for the premier honors of the nation.

The squad of nine Idaho cage artists, Coach MacMillan and Graduate Manager Graf, were given a sendoff by the student body and townspeople which will long be remembered by loyal Idahoans. Everybody was there, from President Upham to the smallest freshman that Idaho can boast of, and there was a new spirit of rightful defiance injected into the old Idaho songs and fight inspiring yells.

Never before in the University's career, has an Idaho team left on a more important or a more noteworthy trip, and with the team Saturday, went the hopes of every loyal Gem Stater, and the hopes of the Pacific coast, that the Vandals would place themselves and the state in the front ranks of intercollegiate basketball. As a whole, the members of the Pacific coast conference feel that to Idaho should go the opportunity to uphold the conferences honor at the national tournament, and the invitation of the Indianapolis chamber of commerce to enter the tournament is but fitting recognition of the stellar ability of the Idaho hoopsters.

The team which Idaho is sending to represent her in a series of games

COACH M'MILLAN HAS HOPES FOR THE TEAM

WELL PLEASED WITH SEASON; WOULD LIKE TO HAVE MET O. A. C.

Coach David MacMillan, just prior to leaving with his men for the east Saturday afternoon, made a statement to an Argonaut representative, in which he expressed himself as "mightily well pleased with the support the University has given the team, and this little demonstration will now put the fight into the boys next week. They'll remember it."

"We have reached the pinnacle we set for ourselves at the beginning of the season," said Coach MacMillan, "and now we are going to go after the big meat back east. I am more than pleased with the way in which the fellows have responded to all the demands made on them this year.

"An old biblical phrase, that 'Many are called, but few are chosen,' just about expresses what I would like to say about the team, and I think the Idaho players may well feel proud of the fact that they are the few to be chosen to represent this big western section in the national tournament.

"I regret very much the fact that it was impossible for O. A. C. to place Idaho on their schedule this year. They have, from all reports, a good team, and I would liked very much to have played them before going east."

In answer to a direct question of just what he thought the chances of the boys at Indianapolis were, he said, "I don't think that we have disappointed anybody so far, and I don't think we will when we get back there."

IDAHO DEBATERS WIN IN HOME CONTEST FRIDAY

GET UNANIMOUS VICTORY OVER MONTANA TEAM AT DEBATE HERE.

HAVE CHANCE FOR VICTORY

Meet University of Chicago at Boise March 31; Will Uphold Negative.

Idaho teams proved themselves real forensic artists Friday evening, when the affirmative team, which debated Montana here, won a unanimous decision, and the negative team, which debated the University of Utah at Salt Lake, lost a 2 to 1 decision, although it was conceded that Idaho put forth the best arguments. The auditorium held the largest crowd that has ever attended a debate in Moscow, and the audience displayed an unusual amount of interest. The question that was debated by both Idaho teams was, "Resolved, that congress should adopt legislation providing for the compulsory arbitration of labor disputes of public service corporations."

Carl Feldman and Philip Buck, both experienced and forceful debaters, upheld the affirmative side of the question against Montana here. Both teams presented clear and

AG STUDENTS PREPARE FOR ANNUAL DAY

INTRODUCE NEW EVENTS INTO THIS YEAR'S PROGRAM FOR AG FETE

WILL BANQUET IN EVENING

Agriculture Students Excused From All Classes to Attend The Exercises and Contests

Final preparations are under way for the annual fete of Ag Day at the University next Friday, according to announcements just made. All details relative to the exercises of the day have been completed and the Ag students are anxiously awaiting the dawning of a good day to make the occasion a complete success.

Among the events of the day will be judging contests, showing and fitting contests and the various other appurtenances of the annual Ag Day program. The Ag students have arranged to contribute sufficient material to the issue of the Argonaut following Ag Day to tell the whole world the events of the day.

Showing and Fitting Exhibition
Exhibition of the fitting of animals for show purposes will constitute a departure from the regular events heretofore scheduled. In these contests the participants will lead the ani-

INTERSCHOLASTIC HOOPSTERS READY FOR ANNUAL TOURNEY

FOUR LEADING TEAMS OF THE STATE WILL BATTLE FOR THE COVETED HONORS—TWO TEAMS FROM NORTH AND TWO FROM SOUTH

The stage is all set for the fifth annual interscholastic basketball tournament to be held at the University gym March 10 and 11. Culesac and Coeur d'Alene will come to represent the northern districts, and Weston and Oakley the southern. All teams are scheduled to be here by Wednesday noon. Sale of tickets up to the present date has been slow, but it is expected that a packed house will greet the opening game.

Lovers of good basketball will be given a rare treat when the two teams representing the championship of the north and south clash for the first time. After struggling through a strenuous season Oakley and Weston from district four will fight to retain the basketball championship of the southern part of the state. From the northern part of the state hails the fast Coeur d'Alene five, winners in district one, while Culesac claims the championship of district three, making up the two northern teams to bring back the coveted cup.

Rivalry Keen
Keen rivalry has been manifested this year over the fact that hoopsters have picked the northern district to garner the championship cup. Last year it will be remembered the dark horse from Driggs fought its way into the first place and annexed the cup for the south. With practically the same team the Driggs outfit was defeated by a faster aggregation this year. Culesac has gone through the season with an unbroken record, while the Coeur d'Alene five has received only a slight setback. In the preceding tournament Coeur d'Alene was one of the outstanding teams and was only defeated by a narrow margin.

Nampa, Driggs, Weston and Oakley, representing the four districts in south Idaho, played the intersectional series at Pocatello last Friday and Saturday, at which time Driggs and Nampa were eliminated after putting up hard battles.

Driggs and Nampa were opponents in the opening tilt. Driggs in second half of the fray opened up with all

O. A. C. IN LAST MINUTE STALL LAYS CLAIM TO PACIFIC TITLE

AGGIES CLAIM IDAHO NOT IN CONFERENCE UNTIL AFTER COAST SCHEDULE AND THAT SHE HAS NOT MET BUT ONE LEADING TEAM

GIVE BENEFIT DANCE AT GYM NEXT SATURDAY

The interscholastic basketball tournament will be followed by an all-college, all-town dance at the gymnasium Saturday evening according to plans just made by the management of the meet. Season tickets to the basketball series will admit to the affair. Those not holding season tickets will be charged a nominal sum of fifty cents each.

The dance is being put on for the purpose of helping finance the interscholastic meet and is under the auspices of the Knights of the Ball and Chain. The slow sale of season tickets to the tournament makes imperative that something be done to finance the meet.

FOX PLACED ON ALL-COAST MYTHICAL FIVE

IDAHO FORWARD WINS BERTH ON BOHLER'S ALL-STARS—O. A. C. GETS TWO

Coach "Doc" Bohler of W. S. C. published his all-Coast mythical basketball five last week, and included among his selection of the five outstanding men in the conference Al Fox of the Idaho Vandals, looked upon as the scoring sensation of the west.

Several other leading basketball critics on the coast have also picked Fox for a berth on the all-star team, which is a fitting tribute to the ability of the fast Idaho forward. Rich Fox and Oz Thompson were mentioned by the W. S. C. athletic director as exceptional players, and were placed by him on the second conference all-star aggregation.

O. A. C. Grabs Two
To O. A. C. went the honors of being the only institution to be given two men on the first lineup, Bohler naming Hjelte and A. Gill as center and guard respectively. Hjelte, although not of the spectacular type, played one of the most consistent games seen on the coast in recent years. He was able to take the tip off from practically any of his rivals, and was exceptionally speedy on the floor. Gill played a wonderful game as guard, and kept his man down to minimum of scoring throughout the season.

Tafte, California, was given the other berth of forward on the mythical quintet, which place he won through hard consistent fighting in every game in which he played. He was responsible for a large number of the Bear's tallying, and was one of the most accurate passers in the conference.

Bryan Places
Bryan, of Washington, was named as the second guard by Bohler. Bryan was one of the most terrific guards on the coast, and was good at registering from the floor, as well as guarding his man to perfection. As floor leader of the Huskies, he proved his ability to handle his team well, and a great part of Washington's wonderful showing during the first part of the season was due to the playing of Bryan.

MacMillan Differs
In commenting on Coach Bohler's conference, Coach MacMillan seemed well satisfied. "Although I have not seen the O. A. C. team in action, yet I believe that their center was by far the best in the conference. I would place Oz Thompson of Idaho next, for Thompson has been a consistent

OREGONIAN UPHOLDS POSITION OF IDAHO

Portland Paper Scouts "Aggies" Claim To Championship of Coast and Questions Sportsmanship

In a vain effort to gain notoriety and possibly the Pacific Coast conference basketball title, O. A. C., through her coach, Richard Rutherford, laid claim to the championship of the Pacific and Northwest Wednesday in a communication to several Portland papers.

The reasons given in the communications were to the effect that when the conference schedule was made out this winter, Idaho was not a member of the conference, and that therefore she could not lay any legitimate claim to the title. It was also contended that Idaho had not played any of the leading coast fives with one exception, and then on her own floor.

Tom Kelly, Idaho athletic director, speaking of the incident, said that every effort had been made to obtain games with O. A. C. and that two were actually tentatively scheduled, but that the Oregon college was unable to play return games with the Vandals, which necessitated giving up the idea of meeting them this season.

Idaho's position was strongly upheld in an article written by L. H. Gregory, sporting editor of The Portland Oregonian, and which appeared alongside of the article in which O. A. C. laid claim to the title. The unwarranted claim of the "aggies" was termed by the Oregonian as "a taint on sportsmanship," and the writer went on to air his views as follows:

"Idaho is likely to win the conference championship by a slim percentage margin over the Aggies, so Dick Rutherford, the Aggie coach, comes out and claims the championship for his team anyhow. He bases his claim on the ground that even if Idaho wins its final two games, or the one of them she requires to maintain her lead, and finishes the season with a higher percentage than O. A. C., why the Aggies are entitled to the championship despite all that because they have played more games.

IDAHO "GEMS" ON SALE TWO DAYS THIS WEEK

FINAL ADVANCE SALE BEGINS ORDERS WILL BE GIVEN TO THE PRINTERS

Final-advance sales of this year's Gem of the Mountains, Idaho annual published by the junior class of the University, will be held this Wednesday and Thursday, according to an announcement from William Carpenter, business manager of the publication.

It is absolutely imperative, stated Mr. Carpenter, that everyone who wishes to obtain a copy of this year's annual put in their advanced orders at this time. Definite word must be given the printers as to the number of copies to be published, and only those ordered will be printed.

The financial situation this year has been exceedingly discouraging for members of the Gem staff. Business depression has cut quite a hole in the advertising section, and to put out a book which will live up to the aspirations of the editors will require that a large number of copies be sold this week.

This year's book will be considerably larger than last year's publication, and will contain several feature sections which it is hoped will place the Idaho annual above the average among western colleges.

THE TEAM

They have gone. And with them our hopes and prayers for victory in the field of national basketball. We sent them off with the spirit of Idaho and the adjurations of our unflinching support ringing in their ears. Yes, they are gone, but not forgotten. We have supported them well throughout their successful conquest of two conferences and we still are behind them in the new field of endeavor.

What a proud moment it was in the history of the University when the scores of University and townspeople gathered at the Northern Pacific depot Saturday to bid farewell to the conquering basketweavers of the University of Idaho. None there were who did not feel a deep sense of gratitude for the work accomplished by these men and their worthy coach, as they bade us goodbye. And few there were who were not stirred to the depths of their nature at the retrospect of what the team has already done and at contemplation of what the team is to do. Many an eye welled almost to overflowing as the men clamored aboard the train midst cheers and departing words.

Despite the supposed handicaps advanced at the beginning of the basketball season the Vandal quintet steadily fought its way to fame in the two conferences during the present season. Upsetting dope on right and left they advanced continually to first place in the team races in both the Northwest and Pacific coast conferences, and it is these accomplishments that created such a lasting and deep-seated respect and admiration in the hearts of all Idaho supporters for the men we have just set out to contest for honors in a national field.

To be picked for a national meet the first year of participation in the Coast conference is indeed a distinction that can not be overestimated. Although several teams desired not to meet us in the conference our men have proven beyond doubt that these teams erred in judgment as to our possibilities. The team continually upset all dope through the season in winning victory after victory in its climb to the top. The quintet met and defeated the best teams of both conferences in which Idaho was included. The successes of the team began with a brilliant pre-season tour and clinched the Pacific championship by first humbling the Seattle Huskies and later winning the third game from the W. S. C. aggregation.

But we are indebted to the team most for the widespread influence the victories have had in gaining a lasting recognition for the Alma Mater Idaho. The victories of the season have directed attention to Idaho to an extent that has not obtained heretofore and has awakened the people, not only of our own state, but of others as well, to the fact that Idaho is one of the foremost educational institutions of the northwest. Yes, the team has, with its consistent winning, constituted an advertising campaign that has proven and will continue to prove invaluable to the institution it represents. And it is this feature that commands most of our gratitude.

Now we have dispatched the team to a national meet to compete for honors for Idaho. In doing this it will advertise the institution to the whole United States. And we expect the men to give a very creditable account of themselves in this meet. In fact we are sure they will. But regardless of whether or not they win the championship of the whole United States they will have accomplished the great work of bringing Idaho to the front among the institutions of higher learning of the states. We rest confident in the belief that they will not only accomplish this task but that they will add new laurels to those they have already garnered.

A COMMENDABLE SPIRIT

Considerable discomfort and delay was averted by the cooperation expressed last week by W. S. C. in cancelling the basketball game scheduled at W. S. C. Saturday evening. The spirit expressed by the college across the way certainly deserves the thanks of Idaho. Although there was no particular danger attached to the game for the Idaho team a great deal of time was saved and a much needed rest granted to the Vandal quintet.

Had the W. S. C. team insisted that the game be played, the Vandals would not only have lost the rest gained by the cancellation but would have also been delayed one day in reaching the scene of the national meet. The extra day at Indianapolis allows the men the opportunity of not only resting up from their trip but to get acquainted with the floor. But there is another side of the question that augurs even better for the spirit manifest. The willingness of the W. S. C. team to aid our team in making the best possible showing in the east demonstrates that the college across the line has a breadth of vision and is vitally interested in seeing the Northwest well represented. In other words they saw in this instance an opportunity to cast aside any personal animosity for the larger interests of the conference.

Yes the Pullmanites have set an example that all members of the conference could profit by following. We extend our thanks to them for their broadmindedness. May other institutions benefit by the example:

GONE BUT NOT FORGOTTEN

We doubt that there is an individual on the campus but who will note the absence of our esteemed ex-Yell King Ted Turner. Nor is there any who do not express regret at Ted's inopportune departure from Idaho, and wish him a speedy return to the institution.

During his stay at the University Ted has won a place in the hearts of the student body by his unstinted efforts in the different forms of college activities. In every movement for the betterment of conditions at the University, Ted has been among the foremost proponents.

His farewell message at the recent Idaho-W. S. C. basketball game came as an unpleasant surprise to the entire student body. His services at Idaho have been highly beneficial and appreciated and we can do no more than say good bye, but not farewell.

AN OPEN LETTER

Watching the flurry of the last week occasioned by the Military Ball the question was raised as to whether the university people are carrying the thing a little too far in their ruthless war on the stag. In the first place—but let us begin at the source.

An American university is supposed to be, basically, a democratic institution. It is supposed to be a miniature of the nation—a great republic. The main purpose for its founding lies in the safeguarding of democratic usages. I don't think anyone will contest me thus far. Now this is important. The women of the university are supposed to have an equal voice with the men. In fact, I strongly suspect that there would be trouble in large quantities if one were to intimate otherwise. Yet that is just what I am going to suggest in a minute.

Have you attended an "all-college" dance, and watched the subsequent procedure. If you have, you have doubtless marked the careful separation of the dancers into groups, painfully selected and presenting an inviolable front to the casual intruder. No doubt this is absolutely unintentional, but it obtains. It is caused primarily by the well-founded custom of "program fixing." And under this general rule how can it be otherwise. Now here is where our equal suffrage comes in.

Probably you noticed that practically all of the programs for dances of late are pre-arranged. A system of "trading dances" is in vogue under which the male partner hustles around and fills his and his partner's programs with the aid of his particular friends. The co-ed has not even the pleasure of knowing who is to be her partner for the various rounds. Which would not of seemed strange in times past, but which does hold a distinctly unique flavor today.

Torsen Millinery

The dances of the university constitute practically the only basis on which the whole university may meet on equal grounds and intermingle. Under the present regime, even that has been done away with. The outsider is as carefully barred from a wide acquaintanceship as a total stranger would be at a private dance. Of course, it has had that desired effect of cutting short the career of that bugaboo, the stag. But has it not injured the university dances?

Of course, everyone may attach himself to one of the groups, and, I suppose, live happy ever after. He can select a partner that will not feel out of place, and enter into the universal sport of "trading dances" with the rest. Or again, he can stay away, which he usually does. Many students have been disgusted by the system and the shows downtown have profited thereby.

The system may be alright, campus opinion must decide that. But can you imagine the sensations of a visitor. He has doubtlessly heard of the far-vaunted democracy of Idaho. Idaho, where everybody speaks to everyone else. Where lines of demarcation are not. The school where every serious student is taken for himself and not for the price of his father's car. The visitor, after a few days spent on the Idaho campus, will readily subscribe to all these doctrines. And then let him look into an "all-college" dance. You know what he sees.

If they are to be "all-college," let's have them all college. If they are not, then let's call them by some other name, so that no mistaken impressions may be gleaned therefrom. There is no use professing a democratic spirit, if such does not exist. There is no use calling a dance "all-college" where every stranger is looked askance.

WASHINGTON STATE FRESHMEN WIN OVER IDAHO YEARLINGS

Washington State college freshmen won from the University of Idaho freshmen Monday night in the university gymnasium by a score of 27 to 20. The game was rough and fast with the Idaho yearlings leading up to the last five minutes of first half when the Washington State first year men tied the score, jumped into a lead and maintained it throughout the rest of the game.

Reamer, Idaho center, and Kleffner, Idaho forward, were the best men for the university while Burpee and Schultz showed up best for the Washington State team. The game was fast and rough with many fouls called and Kleffner of Idaho was removed from the game on personal fouls.

What Is Water Japan?

JAPAN—not the country but a metal-coating varnish—and your morning bottle of milk. Totally unlike, yet associated!

Ordinary japan consists of a tough, rubbery, tar-like "base" and a highly inflammable "solvent." The solvent dilutes the base so that the metal may be coated with it easily. The presence of the solvent involves considerable fire risk, especially in the baking oven.

Milk is a watery fluid containing suspended particles of butter fat, so small that one needs the ultra-microscope to detect them. An insoluble substance held permanently in suspension in a liquid in this manner is in "colloidal suspension."

The principle of colloidal suspension as demonstrated in milk was applied by the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company to develop Water Japan. In this compound the particles of japan base are colloiddally suspended in water. The fire risk vanishes.

So the analysis of milk has pointed the way to a safe japan. Again Nature serves industry.

Connected with the common things around us are many principles which may be applied to the uses of industry with revolutionary results. As Hamlet said, "There are more things in Heaven and earth, Horatio, than are dreamt of in your philosophy."

IDAHO OFFERS MANY ECONOMICS COURSES

MORE THAN EVERY OTHER STUDENT IS ENROLLED IN SOME CLASS

Considerable attention has been drawn recently to the sudden growth in popularity of the courses offered here by the department of economics. A few years ago, those enrolling in such courses were, considering the wide scope of work offered, comparatively few. Since then, the value of the work has been given recognition, by the fact that out of the thousand odd students in Idaho, somewhat more than every other one you meet is taking some kind of a course in economics.

This statement is not mere surmise, based on casual inquiry, but an actual fact. There are, at present, 687 students enrolled in the courses mentioned. In the year '18-'19, there were only 186 in the courses. In 19-20, the number had increased to 346. Last year, the figure was 532, and in the second semester this year, it mounted to the total given 687. This sudden rise to popularity is worthy of notice, and justifies a look at what the department offers, and the reasons that its work is thus considered valuable.

Offer Variety of Courses

The courses listed under the head of economics are large in number, and various in nature. They include the study of economics itself, in its several phases, sociology and political science. Certain law courses are included, such as business, constitutional, and international law.

Under the head of business, comes work in accounting, subjects concerning stenography, office and business organization, and other courses of like nature, which pertain to subjects of the business world.

Give Practical Business Courses

One who is entering extensively into the work of this department is offered in general, a curriculum in general business, accountancy, public or social service, or secretarial work. The faculty in charge of business has on a hand a large amount of data, bearing on opportunities open in different fields of work. Effort is also made to help students who have been trained to get in touch with desirable openings.

The course in general business is intended for those who are looking forward to a business career but have not decided as to what particular field they will enter. The accounting course fits a student for many openings, and embraces fundamental courses in economics, business organization and like subjects.

The public and social service curriculum fits one for positions requiring special training, and which have a strong appeal. The secretarial course provides a thorough training for secretarial work.

Not Entirely Specialization

Two things are emphasized concerning the course. First, it is not entirely specialization. One taking this course takes up general studies, such as languages, sciences and history, and thus does not neglect the cultural side of his education.

In the second place the work is particularly adapted to conditions in this part of the country. Work in the economics department would be particularly valuable to one who was to live in the west.

The work in the department is under Professors Dale, Browne and Ball. Charles Gerlough, '21, is also connected with this department. Next year the number will be increased. There will be added to the present group an expert in the lines of business administration, who will give courses in marketing, salesmanship, business administration and like subjects.

Have Efficient Faculty Men

The present faculty is extremely efficient, and well qualified to give the work. Professor Dale, who gives in general the courses in economics and matters pertaining to government holds the degree of A. M. from Harvard University, and has had extensive experience. He spent some time abroad, doing work in the line of economic history. For two years he was financial advisor to the Governor of Wyoming, and devised and put into operation the budget system that that state now uses.

Professor Browne, who has been at Idaho for three years, has had considerable experience as a professor, statistician and auditor. He has taken work at two universities, Chicago and Columbia, and hold the degree of M. A. Miss Ball is a graduate of Colorado College. She has done practical work in the secretarial field, and has had experience as a teacher. She is excellently qualified for the work she is giving.

Gerlough, a B. A. from the University of Idaho, is acting as an assistant,

400 NEW TEACHERS NEEDED EVERY YEAR

EDUCATION DEPARTMENT GATHERS STATISTICS ON DEMAND FOR H. S. TEACHERS

The department of education has just compiled figures showing the demand within the state for teaching material each year according to a statement issued by Dr. J. F. Messenger, dean of the school of education.

400 new high school teachers are needed annually to fill the demands of the state. Estimated on a four year's basis this would require 1600 students qualified yearly for the teaching profession.

These figures are based on the assumption that none of the students preparing for the work dropped out. But the problem is augmented by the fact that many students are forced to leave school annually. In a recent interview, Dean Messenger went on to say:

"It is not hardly desirable that every high school teacher in Idaho should be a graduate of an Idaho institution but if this state is to do her share in the nation's work of preparing teachers, she should prepare as many as she uses.

Many Go to Other States

"Many of our graduates go to other states to teach and students from other institutions in neighboring states come here. This is quite desirable but Idaho should train as many to send away as she receives.

"It is too much to expect that we will be able to do this in the near future, but it is worth while to note the demand and the opportunities.

"Teaching is coming to be a safe, attractive and reasonably remunerative vocation and presumably after high school graduates learn of the possibilities, more of them will prepare for high school teaching positions."

ESTEEMED YELL KING POSTPONES WORK

HAS LED THE IDAHO CHEERING TO FOREFRONT WHILE YELL KING HERE

Ted Turner, for two years yell king at Idaho, has been compelled to leave school for the present semester and has returned to his home in Caldwell.

Turner was well known and popular among the students of the university. As yell king, he led the cheering during various contests between Idaho and other schools, and got results good enough that in a recent issue of the W. S. C. newspaper, it was stated that Cougar supporters had something to learn from Idaho concerning cheering.

In two Harvard contests, since Turner appeared in his position, Idaho won over her rival. The work of her yell king in tirelessly working to draw out crowds for rallies and stunt practices did much to earn these victories.

Idaho students will undoubtedly miss him, for he was a sure and loyal supporter for any line of work. His latest task was to organize the Knights of the Ball and Chain, an organization to make visiting teams feel welcome and at home on the Idaho campus.

It will doubtless be considered good news by all to know that Turner plans on returning next fall, to resume work in Idaho.

and doing research work on a statistical study of the economic development of Idaho.

Students who are in doubt as to what to take for the extra elective, might often do well to hunt up that catalogue, turn to the head of economics, and after looking it over, enroll for some of the work offered.

PROSPECTING REVIVAL PRESAGED THIS YEAR

UNIVERSITY WORKERS ANSWER MANY QUESTIONS RELATIVE TO MINING

People in and out of Idaho are writing to the state bureau of mines and the University school of mines for information regarding favorable mining areas in Idaho in such numbers that a revival in prospecting this summer seems probable, according to Francis A. Thomson, dean of the university school of mines.

"The number of inquiries already received is greater than any previous record," said Dean Thomson.

"A revival in prospecting is much to be desired at this time and those requesting information are being helped in every possible way by the university and the bureau of mines.

"The prospector is one of the most desirable elements in the mining industry, for without him little progress would be made."

U. S. FORESTER CONCLUDES HIS SERIES OF LECTURES

H. R. Flint, head of the fire protection service in district one, completed his series of lectures before forestry students of the University last Saturday. The lectures were full of information and interest especially to the young foresters who have yet to enter the service.

Among the many things of which Mr. Flint spoke, he made very clear the methods of fighting the different forms of fire. The men who heard him will have occasion to make use of this instruction next summer.

NEWS FROM OTHER CAMPUSES

CALLS OUT BASEBALL PLAYERS

WASHINGTON STATE COLLEGE. Coach Frank Barber issued a call for all varsity baseball candidates for the initial turnout on Saturday, March 4th. He expects to give them calisthenics and running practice for the first few weeks before the outdoor work starts.

UTAH INAUGURATES A RADIO NEWS SERVICE

UNIVERSITY OF UTAH.—The Utah Chronicle, a student newspaper of the University of Utah, is making arrangements to establish a radio news service with the intermountain and coast schools. Communication is already being had with the University of Colorado and the two other Utah schools, the Agricultural College and the Brigham Young University. The operator secured for the transmission of the news is Ira J. Karr, president of the Utah Amateur Radio association. His equipment includes a radio phone as well as a wireless code service.

WILLAMETTE CO-EDS VICTORS

WILLAMETTE UNIVERSITY.—The Willamette co-ed debaters, upholding the affirmative, were returned victors over the British Columbia team, negative, Friday evening. The decision was two to one. The question debated was "Resolved, that the western nations and Japan are justified in refusing to relinquish their territorial rights which they hold in China by treaty."

WILL BUILD DORMITORY

WASHINGTON STATE COLLEGE.—The board of regents has authorized the construction of a new men's dormitory. Bids will be called for at once and erection begun as soon as the weather will permit. It is planned to have the building ready for occupancy in the fall.

The U. S. government maintains 135 schools in Alaska with an expenditure of about a half million dollars and an enrollment of 6,889.

Dear Public,

Most of us has at 1 time or the other slept in a bed but as they might be sum that has missed this rare treat I have decided 2 sit down in my study and with the aid of my Corona tell yu all what a bed is and isn't.

They is many kinds of beds, but the most used kind is them what yu sleep on. They is soft sumtimes and sumtimes they isn't. They is arranged so yu put on yur pajamas and crawl in at the top between the upper and the lower part of it. At the top of the bed is a sack full of feathers and other soft things that yu put yur head on. The idea is 2 turn over six or nine times and then get unconscious. Most people du but their is sum that don't. Sum folks is in bed and unconscious eight ours a day which means that they is in that state one third on there life. Their is sum members of the human race that don't even go 2 bed when they is in that condishun.

A bed is funny invenshun. They is sum people that 1 no that put off going 2 bed as long as they can and yet when they is get their they hate like the duce 2 get up again. Sorta like kissing a girl for the 1st time. Yu don't like 2 start it but when yu du then yu keep on.

Their is lots of kinds of beds like flower beds, wagon beds, feather beds, folding beds, single beds, three quarter beds, disappearing beds, park benches, lamp posts and the gutter. I never slept in the latter but i no several that have and they tell me that it makes a good place. I haven't time 2 tell yu all about all the kinds of beds that i have menshuned abuv but i am going 2 tell yu about a kind of thing that they call a bed but they is mistaken.

This kind of bed is the beds in a Pullman car. They is made so that 1 is over the other but neither 1 of them can put anything over on the other 1 for quantity or quality. The only difference is yu have 2 to climb up 2 the upper 1 on a ladder and is that yu get up their yu stay just because yu are afraid to climb back down. They is both about as bid as a telephone booth that is laid down on its side and 1 person feels like he was at the first all collage dance, they is so crowded. As 2 myself i can get unconscious just as well in a dentist's chair and enjoy it as much.

When i get 2 be pres. of the university or the A. S. U. I. i am going 2 have all the Pullman beds near the campus and when sum 1 doz something that i don't like i will make him spend a hole nite in 1. Just now all that i can du is 2 warn all my dere readers not 2 be caught in 1 if they can get out of it. With that in mind i will take my leave with me and hope that i have made this old wurd a better place 2 live in.

Roughly yurs,

NOAH COUNT.

EIGHT STUDENTS RECEIVE HIGHEST HONORS

SIX MEN AND TWO WOMEN QUALIFY FOR STRAIGHT A SEMESTER GRADES

Eight Idaho students were able to coerce "A's" from all of their instructors for the past semester and consequently have been accorded "highest honors." For the information of the majority of the others present, A is the first letter of the alphabet and when placed upon a grade card ought to be worth at least fifty dollars from home. But the lack of third year students on the list need not lead anyone who has been deeply touched, probably to the event of at least $1,000, to question the veracity of any junior who has put up a hard luck story that would wring tears from a sphinx and would send John D. to the poorhouse.

Three seniors, secure in their austere knowledge, braved the tests and stand forth for all of us common mortals to gaze upon. They are Raymond Green, of Carrollton, Mo.; George M. Munsell, Moscow, and Gustav Wiebe, Aberdeen.

Three sophomores: Marlon Featherstone, Pullman; Albert Larson, Montpellier, and Pearl Stalker, Boise, are among those present and disclaim any abnormality—other than in natural intelligence.

One post-graduate student, R. R. Richmond, recent school superintendent of Orofino, has laid claim to the coveted honors, and one freshman, Anna Petchanev, of Caldwell, has grasped the technique of artfulness to the satisfactory extent of qualifying in the fast company of the school's elect. Needless to say, when interviewed most of the former said that the honor was quite unexpected, and laid the blame for their success upon their mother's or someone else's unresisting shoulders.

APPOINTMENTS FOR COUNCIL ALL MADE

DATE FOR FIRST MEETING OF NEW ORGANIZATION NOT YET ARRANGED FOR

Faculty members who are to represent the teaching body of the university in the deliberations of the student-faculty council are J. F. Messenger, dean of education, J. A. Kosteletk, professor of organic chemistry, Henry Schmitz, of the forestry department, Katherine Jensen, head of the home economics department and C. W. Hickman, of the agriculture department.

This action, with the action of the class and organizations in electing their members to the council, makes that body complete as provided in its constitution.

The time of the first meeting has not yet been set, but it is understood that it will be soon in order to get the council to working as soon as is possible.

The function of the council is to discuss questions that arise on the campus and to further good feeling between students and the faculty. Through the meetings of this body the opinions of both students and faculty will be voiced and a proper understanding regarding campus problems should be reached.

This scheme for reaching a mutual understanding on cases that arise in a university has been tried out in many schools and has been found to be the most successful method of obtaining satisfactory results for all parties involved.

NEW BLEACHERS FOR ATHLETIC FIELD HERE

SEMI-DEMOUNTABLE SEATS BEING ADDED FOR THE ONLOOKERS' COMFORT

O.A.C. PLANS FOR BIG R.O.T.C. TOURNAMENT

PATRIOTIC DEMONSTRATIONS, ATHLETIC CONTESTS AND SHAM BATTLES

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE.—A human flag, formed by a hundred girls, patriotic demonstrations, wall scaling contests, and contests between infantry, cavalry, engineer and motor transport units will mark the annual military tournament of the R. O. T. C., planned for the early part of April, which has been tentatively outlined by the military department.

Buglers will open the program by riding into the center of the darkened armory. As the last notes of the bugler die away the various units will march into the big building and take seats on the side bleachers. Tumbling clowns with burlesques on the various events will appear to entertain the crowd.

The wall scaling contests will be keener than ever before, each unit having perfected new ideas on the game. Girls will play an important part in the skirmish race, and one of their tasks will be to pick up various parts of their rifles from the ground at regular intervals, assemble the pieces, load and fire five shots.

Last year a sham battle with star shells, bombs, and lightning effects was offered. This year spectacular fireworks have been bought and demonstrations of night firing will follow the armory tournament. Expensive and elaborate fireworks of various colors have already arrived from the San Francisco headquarters, and officials of the military department assure the best exhibition of the kind in the history of the institution.

About Alumni

ALUMNI VICE PRESIDENT OF NORTH IDAHO MINE

Axel P. Ramstedt, '97, many years a resident of Moscow, now residing in Wallace, who for the past several years has been auditor of many of the Day mining interests in Coeur d'Alene, has been elected a director and vice-president of the Tamarack and Custer mine, taking the place of the late Eugene R. Day.

Mr. Ramstedt has been prominent in politics both in Latah county and in the state, having served as county auditor on the public utilities commission.

W. R. Schofield, '16, now county surveyor of Blaine county, Chisnook, Montana, is with George Scott, '14. He says they got quite a kick out of the Argonaut. They are following with much interest the work of our basketball team. Mrs. Schofield just had a visit from Sam Cook, the one time famous Oregon and Montana football man. He is connected with the bureau of public roads at Missoula.

James H. Winegardner, '21, was a week end visitor this week. Mr. Winegardner is principal in the Genesee schools.

Elra "Squinty" Hunter, '21, accompanied the basketball team to the Indianapolis tournament.

John Booth, '17, now residing at Nez Perce, went through town on his way home from Spokane recently.

Miss Dottie Murray, '14, who is now teaching in Potlatch, spent the week end visiting friends in Moscow.

Miss Mary McKenna, '20, who is now teaching in Potlatch, and Miss Virginia Darmott, '21, came down for initiation at the Gamma Phi Beta, this week end.

ed around him he will already be partially demounted.

The addition of stands on the athletic field will double the seating capacity of the stadium and enable the Idaho fan to witness all contests with a degree of comfort.

"SQUIRES" OF BALL AND CHAIN INITIATED

ELECT CORNELISON PRESIDENT TO FILL PLACE VACATED BY TED TURNER

Last Thursday evening at the Sigma Nu house, was held the first initiation of the Knights of the Ball and Chain. At this time the freshmen, or "squires" as they are called were taken into the organization. The new members are McMillan, Armstrong, Karlburg, Kleffner, Roos, Stephens, Sarvis, Golden and Kelly.

Due to the vacancy left by Ted Turner a new president was elected at the meeting. The vote resulted in the choosing of Harold Cornelison as leader.

The Knights were entertained by a banquet Wednesday evening by Lawrence Huff. Speeches were given on Idaho's spirit and traditions and plans were made for future activities of the organization.

Tradition No. 1

Every school is proud of its traditions, and it should be when they are respected they are what makes a school worth while. Idaho has many fine traditions on its campus but they are not always lived up to in the proper manner.

Perhaps our strongest tradition is the Idaho spirit. This spirit is supposed to be always awake, not only at games and pep rallies but on the campus every day. Everyone on the campus should speak to those they meet. As for acquaintances, membership to the University should be enough.

In many schools, where the enrollment has grown rapidly, this custom has been neglected until it has passed away, and now "Hello Days" and "Mixers" have to be resorted to create a spirit among the students.

Idaho is at a point in her development where this custom is in danger of ceasing to exist. If you have ever heard an old "grad" tell of the days when everyone was known by his first name, you will surely help to prevent "hello days" from becoming a necessity on our campus.

O.A.C. LAYS CLAIM TO PACIFIC TITLE

Justice of his claim, nevertheless, the impression conveyed by the manner of its making will not help the Aggies acquire a reputation for sportsmanship. Both teams have played the full schedules adopted at the coast conference meeting here last December, and if Idaho ends the season with a higher percentage than the Aggies, even with fewer games played, why the really sportsmanlike thing to do is to concede her the championship, congratulate her and let it go at that.

Favors Standard Schedules

"Until all the conference colleges get together and standardize their schedules, not alone in basketball but in football, in baseball and in all other sports as well, ear-burning similar to this one will occur whenever a college with a small schedule wins on percentage from one with a big schedule. This happens to be the first time the question has come up in basketball but it has been perilously near it in football several times.

Rutherford says he will carry his basketball plait right up to the conference itself and demand a ruling, and he asserts confidently that the conference is sure to bear him out. Perhaps that is so, yet, even then, the thing will leave a bad taste.

Hard on Aggies

"It is hard on the Aggies for the season to end this way, for that big team Rutherford has got together at Corvallis has been going fast. It has lost only two games all season, those being its first two conference games of the season, both against Washington at Corvallis. Since then, however, the Aggies have wiped out the memory of those lickings by beating Washington severely on Washington's own home floor.

"What ought to happen would be for Idaho and O. A. C. to be matched and fight it out. Idaho tried to schedule a couple of games with Oregon Agricultural College at the conference meeting, but Rutherford declined because at the time Idaho had not been voted into the conference. When she was voted in, most of the good conference basketball dates had been filled, which is why Idaho's schedule has been relatively smaller than these of the other colleges.

"But to get the two teams together appears impossible inasmuch as Idaho has been invited and has accepted the invitation to represent the northwest in the national intercollegiate basketball tournament at Indianapolis, which opens next week.

IDAHO CLAMPS HOLD ON TWO CONFERENCES

silver and gold. The second half was not as spectacular as the first, the Idaho men contenting themselves to keeping down the Cougar scoring rather than attempting any great offensive play. The two Idaho guards, Steiner and Gartin played exceptional ball, and prevented the Cougars from getting more than five field baskets during the entire game.

Never In Danger

Never was Idaho in any danger of being passed by their ancient rivals. Al Fox, stellar forward of the Pacific conference, was high point man, caging three ringers from the field and converting 13 out of a possible 19 foul throws. Friel, fast forward for the Pullman five, was their outstanding star, and managed to break away from the Vandal guards for three goals during the melee.

Thompson, playing at center for the Gem State five, played one of the steadiest games of his career. He was able at all times to get the tip-off from his opponent, and accounted for three field goals as well as covering the floor in exceptional style.

Summary and Lineup

Idaho (31) W. S. C. (21)

VANDALS EMBARK FOR NATIONAL TOURNEY

with championship titles from all over the nation is a team which has been built up out of mediocre material by one of the most remarkable basketball mentors of the west. Coach MacMillan has built up a machine, a machine which can function with its individual men playing in several positions, without noticeably weakening the combination. Probably to the style of play used by the Gem Staters is due, more than anything else, the remarkable record made this year against the leading teams of the two big western conferences. In both offensive and defensive play, a five man combination is used, throughout, which has succeeded in baffling the most powerful fives on the coast this year.

Built around this system rather than any individual player, the Vandal five has developed into a remarkable team, whose passing was acclaimed by authoritative critics to be the fastest on the coast, and whose unfailing accuracy at finding the basket has been the wonder of all who have seen it in action.

It is the general opinion of critics that Idaho will stand a good chance against her eastern opponents, for the western style of play does not differ radically from the eastern, and in all branches of athletics the west usually ranks well with their "over the Rockies" neighbors. Idaho is furthermore fortunate in that she has for a coach an eastern man who is thoroughly acquainted with the teams that the Vandals will run up against and their style of playing.

The nine men on the squad who hope to make Idaho loom up above all other contestants in the east are Captain Rich Fox, Al Fox, Oz Thompson, Harry Edwards, Harold Telford, Percy Steiner, Adrian Nelson, William Gartin and Henry Cantine.

By leaving Moscow Saturday afternoon, the team will arrive in the Indiana city Tuesday afternoon. The first games of the tournament will be played Thursday, thus giving the men 48 hours in which to get over any ill effects of their long strenuous journey. The route has been mapped out over the Northern Pacific system, and the return trip will be over the Union Pacific, which probably stops at Boise and Pocatello, at which places games will be arranged for the benefit of south Idaho fans who are clamoring for an opportunity to see the Vandals in action.

The Argonaut will receive full reports of the games, which will be published next week through an arrangement made with Manager Graf. In the meantime, all "Idaho" is confident that the men will put up the fight of their careers.

"I" DANCE POSTPONED

Owing to the conflict with the interscholastic basketball tourney and to the absence of the basketball team, the "I" Club dance scheduled for Saturday evening, March 11, has been postponed until April 15.

In speaking of the postponement, Heintz Glindemann stated that the members of the club agreed that with the high school tournament scheduled for the evening there would be too much of a conflict. Besides, it was considered only fair to the basketball men to delay the dance until they could participate.

It is understood that the evening of April 15 has not been definitely granted by the committee on social activities, but no difficulty is anticipated on that score.

chosen. To the champions of the tournament, a large, highly engraved loving cup will be given, while a second and third cup will go to the runners-up, and the team which makes the best appearance and shows the best sportsmanship. Prizes in the form of a gold basketball will also be presented to the individual members who make up the all-star team chosen after the tournament has been played.

This year's tournament seems fair to be better than the one of last year. While there are only four teams coming instead of eight, they give promise of having tackled the best in the states. Under the new system of double defeat the spirit of the fight will be greatly increased, one to the fact that a team to be eliminated must suffer two defeats. This gives any team a chance to stage a comeback and try for the championship.

According to the announcement of the athletic department the cost of bringing the four teams to the tournament has run into a large sum. Under the interscholastic rules eight men and a coach are allowed to make the trip. Over eight hundred season tickets must be sold to care for the expenditure for railroad fares, cost of awards and recommendation costs.

Up to the present time ticket sale have been going very slow. To increase the rate of sale a member in each organization on the campus has volunteered to dispose of a given number of tickets. For single games and the final championship games tickets may also be secured. The price of the season ticket is $2.00 for the final game, $1.00 and the single game 75 cents. "Buck" Hunter, one of the best referees in the northwest, has been secured to referee all games.

S. C. he stood out above any other player in either team. He was placed the two previous years on the all-coast five, and I cannot see why he was left off this year.

Fox Deserving

"If any man deserved a place on that team, it was Al Fox, said Mac. "I consider Fox one of the best men at all-around forward position that I have ever seen. He is a valuable man on the defense, has a wonderful basket eye, and is supreme as a dribbler."

PROFESSOR TALKS ON ECONOMICS OF IDAHO

SUMMARIZES INDUSTRIAL CONDITION OF THE STATE; SHOWS POSSIBILITIES

To the student at the University of Idaho the study of the economic conditions of the state should prove immensely interesting and beneficial, contends Professor Harrison C. Dale, of the economics department, in a talk at the Open Forum Wednesday evening. He spoke on the economic resources of Idaho.

"Idaho is as yet a largely undeveloped state with many possibilities in agriculture, mining and manufacture which will no doubt be of paramount interest to you who for the most part expect to qualify for citizenship in the state later on," said the professor in summing up generally the causes for a study of state economics by the university students.

Professor Dale developed his subject from three sides. First he gave figures on the character of the population of the state, comparing the figures to those to be had in other regions. Second, he compared the immensity of the various industries of the state such as agriculture, mining, and manufacturing, giving all the while vivid statistical impression of conditions obtaining for the past two or three decades. In the third phase of his talk he ventured a few forecasts as to the future progress of the state along various lines.

"Although we are not prone to think of Idaho as a manufacturing state, according to the 1920 figures," declared Mr. Dale, "the manufacturers produced something like eighty millions of dollars worth of goods, or more than the goods produced in the field of agriculture for that year." Plants classed by the census takers as factories included bakeries, laundries, railroad shops and milling concerns.

Of these at the present date the railroad shops are at the top of list with the milling concerns a close second. Dairy products also rank fairly high and considerable sugar refining is done within the state.

"People generally think of the state as being essentially an agricultural population," said Mr. Dale at the beginning of his talk, "but that is a general fallacy. As a matter of fact, only approximately 20,000 persons are engaged in some kind of agricultural pursuits. The total population is 431,000. The agriculturists are about five per cent of the entire number."

Taking up the mining industry the professor gave figures to show that mining held no insignificant place in the list of the foremost industries of the state. He told that mining was conducted mostly in a concentrated area of the north part of the state and that the 1919 output amounted to something like thirty million dollars.

Despite the fact that each end of the state were more or less laboring under the impression that only that particular part of the state was advancing Mr. Dale produced figures showing that both ends had practically maintained its own ration during the decade preceding the 1920 census.

Manufacturing, the Coming Industry As his talk drew to a close, Professor Dale presaged that the coming industry for the state of Idaho would be neither agriculture nor mining. He showed that already manufacturing was taking the honors for the size of products and elucidated the reasons why Idaho will eventually become a manufacturing state.

"We have all the resources. We grow the wool that is sold to the weavers in Boston, the wool market of the United States, and which is later sold to the Jewish clothiers of Chicago to be made up and resold to us at high prices. We have the power, that factor that makes the New England states manufacturing centers. And the capital is available—at least so if there were any oil situation developed.

"There is just one reason why we have not already become a manufacturing center. We have heretofore lacked the factory population necessary, but that feature is being gradually overcome and there is nothing to hinder Idaho from becoming a great factory state in the future."

The next meeting of the forum will be devoted to the consideration of what can be done for a Phi Beta Kappa at the University of Idaho.

LEAGUE MEETING POSTPONED

The meeting of the Women's League slated for this, Wednesday evening, has been indefinitely postponed according to announcement made Monday evening. No date has been set for the meeting because of the numerous events already scheduled for the next few weeks.

Postponement was made chiefly because of the illness of Dean Permeal French who wished to present some matters of importance before the co-ed legislative body.

INDEPENDENTS EXCEED GROUPS IN ENTRIES

TRACK RECORDS SHOW NON-ALLIED MEN OUT FOR TRACK IN LARGER NUMBERS

Following is a list of the men who have responded to Coach Harsch's call for track material from the various groups, and it clearly shows that some of Idaho's best material is hibernating behind closed doors as far as track is concerned. Non-Fraternity men are far in the lead, in the number of men to turn out regularly for practice, which speaks highly of their loyalty.

	Varsity	Freshmen
S. A. E. ....	6	0
Phi Gamma Delta ..	2	3
Phi Deltis .....	4	2
Kappa Sigs .....	2	0
Sigma Nus .....	3	3
Elwetias .....	2	3
Phi Alpha Psi .....	2	4
Betas .....	0	1
Non Fraternity .....	13	14

Lack of enough material for the Varsity and Freshmen track squad has brought about the comparative lists of the number of men each organization has contributed to Idaho's track squad for the coming season.

Interest Decidedly Lax The above list has only been compiled after lack of interest in the major sport had so manifested itself that a great deal of comment has been heard upon the campus.

So far this year there has been just a certain number of men out every night who have had the stick-to-itiveness to stand the gruelling workouts and freezing weather. But there are not enough to make a good squad. More have got to show up for practice or Idaho's prospects for a victory year will be a poor one.

Non Fraternity Men Lead From the comparative list above the fraternity men seem to be the ones who have failed in contributing their quota. In bringing into comparison the apparent number of track aspirants of the Fraternity and Non-Fraternity groups the purpose has been to show the manifest lack of interest which each individual group takes toward one of Idaho's greatest and most successful sports.

Idaho's athletes come from the different groups which make up the campus. These groups have the necessary persuasive ability to cause the track squad to double in number. They need only to use this once to find what a change they can make in the spirit which now predominates the campus, and to what effect it will have in causing Idaho to place at the top of the list in the coming meets and not at the bottom.

UNIVERSITY PEOPLE SPEAK FOR PLAY

ALL VOUCH THAT THE PLAY IS A WORTHWHILE, ENTERTAINING PRODUCTION

Two university people have seen the play, "Adam and Eva," staged by stock companies in cities. Dean Permeal French saw the drama at Washington and says that it is a very delightful play. "Adam and Eva" is an enjoyable play with some especially funny incidents," said Miss French, "and I think the university people will really like it."

"I saw 'Adam and Eva' put on by the Morosco stock company in Los Angeles and it is a good play with amusing lines," said Phillip Buck Saturday. "The situations and characterizations were especially good and a substitute father in a family as in 'Adam and Eva' makes a good plot for any story. I think the people here will enjoy it."

"The students taking part in 'Adam and Eva' are working six hours a week or it," said J. H. Cushman, director of the play Friday. "They have completed half of it and will have it in good shape to put on March 10."

forceful arguments, but Idaho proved better than the Montana team. The decision was unanimous in favor of Idaho.

At Salt Lake Walsler Greathouse and Errol Hillman upheld the negative side of the question. Greathouse who is the present debate manager, had had considerable experience as a debater, while Hillman, although new at the game, also proved himself an able debater.

In speaking of the Utah debate, Coach Chenoweth, who accompanied the debaters to Salt Lake, said, "The Utah-Idaho debate was undoubtedly the best that I have ever heard in the west. Utah was very effective on delivery, but Idaho had an edge on the arguments. A fair crowd witnessed the debate, and all were very attentive. We have no complaint whatsoever to make regarding the decision, or our treatment while there."

Third Debate Postponed The third debate of the triangular league, which was to have been held in Missoula between Montana and Utah last Friday, was called off because of the flu, but it will be held next Friday evening. Upon this debate rests Idaho's chances of championship.

So far Idaho is the only one of the three teams that has held both scheduled debates, it will be noticed that in both cases the affirmative team has won. If this proves the case at Missoula next Friday, and Montana wins, Idaho will hold the championship, while if Utah wins she will have second place.

Idaho's score so far is four judges decisions out of a possible six, while Montana has none out of a possible three, and Utah, two out of three. If Montana wins the debate, Idaho will be high with four out of six, Montana next with three out of six, and Utah third with two out of six, while if Utah wins, the score will be Utah five out of six, and Idaho will take second place.

Debaters Ready for Chicago Plans are completed for the coming debate between Idaho and the University of Chicago which will be held in Boise, March 31. Greathouse and Buck will uphold the negative side of the question, which is the same as that of the triangular debates.

Coach Chenoweth plans to accompany the team to Boise. Idaho is the only team that Chicago will debate on her western trip. The team will come direct to Boise, and will return from there. Much interest has been aroused among Idaho alumni in the southern part of the state by the coming debate.

passing and ability to get the ball through the hoop won the tournament for the yearlings.

Those who distinguished themselves especially throughout the tournament were: Junior-Senior: Mary Thompson, forward; Thelma Hare, guard and center; Sophomores: Vida Richards, forward and captain; Edith Cooper, forward; Violet Noble, guard and forward; Freshmen: Eugenie Cruzen, center and captain; Pauline Pence, forward; Gladys Bahler, guard. However there is not much choice as most of the girls play the same grade of basketball.

The freshmen stand first in the league with 5 games won and 1 lost. The sophomores are second, with 4 won, and 2 lost, and the junior-senior are last with 6 lost and none won.

In the Thursday evening game Pauline Pence was high point winner. With 8 field baskets to her credit, she is easily ahead of all other forwards in her ability to handle the ball. The freshmen were benefitted greatly by the possession of such a player.

The condition of the floor decidedly slowed the action of the game. The game was a series of mix-ups, long distance slides and hunts for the ball under the bleachers.

The rooters kept the intervals between the playing from being tedious by their queer and abnormal cheers. The size of the crowd, being both select and compact, made these yells doubly effective.

ROAD EXPERT SPEAKS TO STUDENT ENGINEERS

TELLS OF SOME OF THE VITAL PROBLEMS EFFECTING ROAD BUILDING

Idaho's State Highways are presenting many perplexing problems to the engineers according to Col. D. P. Olson, Director of State Bureau of Highways, in an address to the Student Engineers of the University of Idaho, last Friday.

"The heavy traffic of today is giving the so-called highways, built during the period of rapid expansion of earlier days, much more hard usage than they are able to withstand. Combined with the extensive heavy transportation, is the high speed of travel attained on the roads that is causing material damage and trouble.

"So it is with such conditions as these that the State Highway Commissioners are striving for more adequate means of overland travel and transportation.

"The engineers' principal problem at present is to determine the actual traffic conditions to which a given highway will be subject when it is constructed or improved.

"Under present circumstances, there are not sufficient resources for hard surface roads to any great extent, so it becomes necessary to solve the problem in some simple manner. Surface roads have been experimented with in different sections of the state and in practically all cases have shown advantages over the hard surfaced roads.

AG STUDENTS PREPARE FOR ANNUAL OCCASION

males out and demonstrate the processes used in preparing prize animals used in the fitting event will be later put in the judging contest for the different events of that nature.

The first task undertaken in the showing and fitting contests will be the teaching of the animals to stand for exhibition purposes. Then the animals will be prepared for show. "Stocking up" sheep "curling up" cattle and other tricks of the trade, more or less meaningless to the average layman, will be demonstrated.

The teaching and feeding of horses will be another feature of the fitting and showing events. The horses will be properly fed for show purposes and properly handled for the teaching of tricks.

Five Judging Contests In all there will be five judging contests for the members of the Agricultural college. The contest will embrace the fields of agronomy and grains, horticulture, dairy products and cattle, and are open to students registered in the courses mentioned.

The day will begin with the showing and fitting contests. All agriculture students will be excused from classes to participate in the events of the occasion. Failure on the part of those student to appear at the contests will be met with punishment of some nature.

When the animals have been properly exhibited in the showing and fitting contests they will be transferred to the stock judging events and used as material for contestants in those events.

At the same time judging contests in the other division of agriculture, such as horticulture, dairy products and other will under way elsewhere.

Banquet to Close Day's Program The program for the occasion will be officially ended with a banquet at some hall downtown. At this time winners of the different events will be announced and the prizes awarded.
