

GRIDIRON WORK GETS INTO SWING

Candidates for Varsity Going to Work in Dead Earnest Preparatory to Starting Heavy Schedule in Another Week's Time; Open Practice Twice a Week.

MAKENOSTATEMENTS

Players or Coach Make Little Comment—List of Players Given

Football practice is in full swing under the direction of Head Coach R. L. Mathews. The practice is closed on the University of Idaho gridiron and only one certain day of the week will visitors be allowed to watch the work of the 1922 varsity candidates. No man is sure of a position on Coach Mathews' team unless the man shows himself competent to make the team. Little can be said about the prospects except that all candidates are working hard with real seriousness of purpose, which after all is probably the most encouraging of all.

Some scrimmages has already been held and the candidates have been divided up into teams. All men are required to weigh in as they go out on the field for practice and again when they come into the dressing rooms.

Two Assistant Coaches

Coach Mathews has as assistant coaches Ray E. Neidig and Graduate Manager Knudson. Coach MacMillan is in charge of the freshmen with their six teams and he is assisted by Heintz Glindeman and Pete Barto, varsity letter men and star linemen of last year's eleven.

Coach Mathews has nothing to say in regard to the seasonal outlook and the varsity candidates themselves have nothing to say. The Idaho men this season are not talking, but working, and therein is a most encouraging outlook.

All Candidates Now

All candidates are named with some duplications as there are a number of men being tried out for several positions. As no man is sure of a place on the 1922 varsity until he actually makes the team no mention of individual candidates can be made at this time.

Backfield candidates: Vesser, Coeur d'Alene; Kinnison, Payette; Newman, Twin Falls; Fitzke, Moscow; H. Breshears, Caldwell; Hausen, Rupert; Bucklin, Idaho Falls; Stivers, Moscow; Captain Brown, Boise; Wyman, Boise; Wardrup, Burley; Provost, Lewiston; and McMillan, Coeur d'Alene.

Center candidates: Kline, Mosser; Goff, Walla Walla; and Tapper, Coeur d'Alene.

Guard candidates: Neal, Boise; Hubbel, Coeur d'Alene; Stevens, Blackfoot; Kershnik, Burley; Rettig, Orofino; Tardie, Coeur d'Alene; and Horning, Portland.

Nine Out for Tackle

Tackle candidates: Vohs, Emmett; Vesser, Coeur d'Alene; Captain Brown, Boise; Goff, Walla Walla; Marker, Coeur d'Alene; Kline, Moscow; Stone, Twin Falls; Siegfus, Salt Lake; Naterlin, Eugene, Oregon.

End candidates: Cobby, Victoria, B. C.; Reamer, Lewiston; Marker, Coeur d'Alene; Vohs, Emmett; Hillman, Rexburg; Captain Brown, Boise; S. Breshears, Caldwell; Patch, Payette; Evans, American Falls; Arnold, Lewiston; Holman, Boise; Keane, Moscow; Wittenberg, Moscow; and Leitch, Lewiston.

Seniors Gyped as Result Assembly Seating Plans

Seating regulations for assemblies and A. S. U. I. meetings have been altered this year, and will permit any one to sit where they wish excepting the seniors and faculty members who will have reserved for their special use the first eight rows in the center and left hand sections.

Henceforth each class has had designated its particular seating reser-

Idaho Co-ed's Wardrobe Arouses Much Comment

The Idaho Daily Statesman in a recent issue contained a bit of startling and elusive news in its society columns, which has set to work the fertile brain of the detecting news hound in surmising just who the mention applied to.

Speaking of appropriate dress for young girls, the original writer says: "We know one young lady who is going to our state university who will have four evening dresses, five afternoon frocks and two school dresses in her wardrobe. She will probably come home at Christmas vacation 'just tired out from her school work.'" Jasper, score another one.

PEP BAND TO BE OUT

Every One Expected to Learn Songs and Yells With Aid of Band

Idaho's success this season depends a great deal on the attitude of the student body. The team and coaches have shown a wonderful spirit and if they are properly backed up there is little reason for anything but an unusually successful season.

Consequently an all university rally has been slated by Yell King Wyland for Tuesday evening, at 8:30 on the bleachers of McLean field. "Idaho faces a hard season, and only one game is scheduled on the home field," said Elmer Wyland, "Students should

QUICK RETURNS ON ALL SEASONS FOOT BALL GAMES IN GYM

Three minute returns on all foreign games played by the Idaho Vandals this fall will be received on the campus for the benefit of the local students, according to word given out by the A. S. U. I. president this morning.

Students will gather in the gymnasium, and a matinee dance will be given, with football bulletins every three minutes, giving the game play by play. Permission to hold the dance, which will be free of charge to all students, was granted by Dean French and President Upham.

This action was taken because of the fact that only one home game will be played here. Reports will be received by both radio and Western Union telegraph. Idaho's first game is October 7, with Whitman at Walla Walla.

CHEMICAL EXPLOSION MAY COST EYESIGHT

Louis Cady, Assistant in Chemistry, Injured in Unusual Accident

About 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon while attempting to force the mercury out of a thermometer tube, Lewis Cady, '22, assistant professor in the chemistry laboratory, received a very painful injury when the glass exploded, cutting his left eye badly. There is little danger, according to Dr. C. L. Von Ende, head of the hemistry department, of the sight being permanently impaired.

Evidently, there was a flaw in the glass so that when the pressure became sufficient it splintered, cutting the eye ball between the inner corner and the pupil. Severe as the wound is, it probably will leave no scar.

At the time there was no one in the building except the janitor on the floor below, who, hearing the explosion, rushed up to find Mr. Cady telephoning a taxi in which he was immediately taken home. It will probably be a week before Mr. Cady is fully recovered.

Mr. Cady is a graduate of the class of the class of '22, a member of Sigma Tau honorary engineering fraternity, and a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity. He is a Moscow young man and a graduate of Moscow high school.

ASSOCIATED BARBS HOLD FIRST RALLY OF PRESENT SCHOOL YEAR

Non-Fraternity Men Discuss Plans for the Year's Work; Enthusiasm Runs High; Plan Organization of Orchestra and Hallowe'en Party.

After an intensive advertising and preparatory campaign, perhaps the most far reaching that has ever been initiated on the Idaho campus, the first informal meeting of the Associated Barbs for the present year was staged at the University Hut Monday evening at 7:30. The meeting was peppy and full of interest to all old and new members of the organization.

More than fifty men students responded to the call that had been spread over the university community during the week and practically all participated in making the gathering worth while and promising.

The program for the evening contained talks by old and new students, songs, yells, music and a number of other instructive and entertaining features that created a spirit that will presumably augur well for the non-fraternity group this year.

The convocate was opened by discourses, informal, on the history, scope and aims of the association as told by the older members of the organization and was largely and beneficially supplemented by informal talks from many of the students in attendance. A big ice cream and cake feed terminated the evening.

W. S. C. GAME TO BE BIG HOME COMING DAY FOR ALL GRADS

Efforts are being bent to make the Idaho-W. S. C. football game October 20 at Moscow the big home coming day for Idaho alumni. Invitations will be sent out to the entire alumni, urging them to arrange to be on hand for the occasion, and the various fraternities are making it a fraternity home coming occasion also.

It will be the biggest day of the year for both undergraduates and former students if the plans of President Lynn Hersey are worked out. It will be Idaho's celebration. The old students will be given a demonstration of real cheering, when Idaho attempts to garner the third leg of the Harvard Yell contest cup. Already Idaho has won the cup twice successively.

FRESHMEN URGED TO SHOULDER PROBLEMS

President In Annual Convocation Points Way to Higher Standing

President A. H. Upham at the annual convocation of first year students Wednesday afternoon at four o'clock in the auditorium, admonished the freshmen that "university students must take upon their own shoulders the responsibility for their own conduct."

"You haven't father or mother to get you up, remind you of appointments and take care of your bills," he warned, "and nearly fifty per cent of you are now thrown solely upon your own responsibility. Many will 'run wild' and follow practices which may prove seriously detrimental to their health."

Calls For Strength

"This is no time in life for the character or moral fibre to weaken. The university cannot take care of each individual. It is up to each to realize his own responsibility and find himself."

"We want you to learn all you can while here. We want you to learn about the university and its traditions so that when you leave you will be friends of education and love the university with the same love displayed by thousands of alumni of the larger universities."

Trick Rider Claims Idaho Her Alma Mater

Bonnie Gray, well known women's trick riding champion of the world, who last week won further laurels in her chosen profession, is a graduate of the University of Idaho, and a post-graduate of the University of Chicago, says a Yakima, Washington, paper.

Miss Gray, who has been appearing in the larger round-ups and wild-west carnivals throughout the west for a number of years, has established an enviable record as a trick rider, and has successfully defended her claims against all women competitors for the title of world's championship.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT GETS UNDERWAY

Initiate All College Contest For Davis Cup Racket—Weather Ideal

NEW PLAYER LOOMS

John Wagner, First Year Wielder, Attracts Attention by His Playing

If the tournament, which opened last Friday and is still in progress, can be taken as a criterion, tennis is rapidly becoming a popular branch of Idaho athletics. Sixty-four contestants, more than twice the number of any previous year, have entered; and already more than half of the six rounds have been played off.

According to "Curt" Herrington, one of the committee in charge, the principal reasons for the tournament is to get varsity material lined up and to look over the prospective freshmen. He says the winner will receive a very acceptable award in the form of a Davis Cup racket. The faculty tournament is also in progress and probably the winners of both tournaments will meet in a big final match.

Weather Causes Early Play
Some unfavorable comment has been made about beginning the tournament so soon after the opening of school. In reply to this "Curt" explains that, owing to the extreme fickleness of the weather, the committee thought it advisable to get things started as quickly as possible, and so far weather conditions have been ideal.

Of the first year men John "Hans" Wagner and Kenny Stanford are attracting attention. Wagner made a particularly good showing when he beat Ken Hunter in a fast match of straight sets. Among the men back from last year doing good consistent

Take Care of Students Better than Expectation

The housing situation on the campus has turned out much better than was expected according to word from the administration office and that of Secretary Turner at the University Hut.

There are plenty of rooms listed at the University Hut for men throughout town, and the situation at Lindley Hall is said to be straightening itself out very satisfactorily. The women, however, are still scattered out considerably, and are being housed in

3 RECEIVE INJURIES

One Run Over by Speeding Car When He Attempts to Obstruct It

With the placing of the annual edicts proclaiming the "imbecility of all freshmen in general," the annual freshman-sophomore "ducking ruckus" opened Friday night with disastrous results to the older classmen. Varying reports placed the number of sophomores placed bodily and not too gently in the watering trough at from 20 to 50 while the freshmen casualties, according to reports, totaled only from four to ten men given far from voluntary baths.

Several men were more or less seriously injured during the night's melee. Philip Tate, while trying to place a large iron obstruction in front of a speeding automobile carrying sophomore "scouts" got in the way of the machine and was run over. It was a wonder, according to eye witnesses, that he was not killed. He was quite badly shaken up, bruised and wrenched, but otherwise not seriously hurt.

Laid Out.

Bronson Wallace and "Scoop" Taylor, two other participants in the scrap, were knocked out by coming in contact rather forcibly with an iron pipe and a cement curb, respectively.

The sophomores made one big mistake. They met the goodly crew of husky yearlings in open conflict, and outnumbered three to one; the battle was short lived with the ultimate outcome—a thorough drenching in the historic water trough on Fourth and Washington streets. The sophomores were brave but fool hardy.

Freshmen Scour Town

After the tussle of the evening, which occurred shortly after 11 o'clock, the victorious freshmen scoured the town like hungry wolves for the disbanded and demoralized sophomores. All through the night the freshmen, concentrated in a single gang of probably 90 men, picked up dripping stragglers for second immersions or to hasten the homeward bound "edict posters." The freshmen also in keeping together prevented a successful counter attack by the small gang of mauling sophomores.

The annual sophomore-freshman battle, always an event on the Idaho campus, was incited as usual by the posting of the sophomore proclamations. These proclamations in no uncertain terms informed the yearlings of their place on the Idaho campus, the necessity for wearing of green caps on the campus and the constant observance by the freshmen of all Idaho limitations upon first year men.

First Year Men Prepared

As usual the news that the edicts would be put out leaked out and the freshmen were ready. Whispering groups of sophomores and freshmen betokened the start of the annual affray. Soon after the sophomores, in rough clothes, had left their respective homes, the freshmen followed suit.

Freshmen paraded up and down the streets shouting for action. Sophomores played safe and in small gangs posted their edicts and then decided

RECKLESSNESS vs. SENSE

The freshmen-sophomore fight Friday night came near ending disastrously for at least one member of the fighting forces who was run down by an automobile while attempting to hinder its progress on Main street.

More harm can be done to a tradition which, if carried out with spirit and at the same time with judgment, may recall very pleasant memories by one such accident than can be repaired in ten years. The recklessness of one automobile driver in particular who repeatedly charged at high speed into the mob of freshmen, should be given more than passing attention.

Risk of life and limb has no place in any college tradition, nor has it the sanction of the student body of the university. Administration authorities are likely to take the matter into their hands if such practices continue in future under class scrimmages.

Friday, September 22, was the sixtieth anniversary of President Lincoln's proclamation freeing the slaves of the south, and determining that the United States would be thrown into a state of civil war.

It was perhaps the second greatest proclamation ever issued by any president of the United States, and yet how many of us stopped to give the matter a passing thought. How many of us even recalled the day.

Forty years ago this day was looked upon as almost a holiday; newspapers carried large articles calling attention to the meaning of the day, and the position which the United States definitely took with the deliberateness of President Lincoln's step.

The world changes, and things of importance yesterday are hardly given a second thought today. Yet it would not hurt us to remember the day from which can be counted the real beginning of the great civil war of the United States.

BIG WEEK IS OVER;
500 NEW FRESHMEN

Dr. E. A. Bryan Speaks in Assembly — Frosh-Soph Fight Friday Night Big Reception Saturday

Eleven hundred and thirty students of which five hundred are freshmen, have registered in the university during the past week. Many have not yet registered, and when the short course students in forestry and agriculture have enrolled, the fifteen hundred mark is easily possible.

It has been a busy week. Monday and Tuesday, registration days, found the halls of the administration building and Morrill hall jammed full of students, and by Tuesday night, when registration was officially over, more than a thousand students had enrolled.

Assembly Wednesday
Wednesday, all classes began, but the two most important events of the day were the assembly at 10 o'clock and the freshman convocation at 4. Dr. E. A. Bryan, commissioner of education for the state, gave the principal address, in which he emphasized the value of a college education. Several musical numbers were also given, and the freshmen were given their first lesson in Idaho songs. A feature of the assembly and one which it is planned to make an annual event, was the academic procession.

At the freshman convocation, President Upham and Lynn Hersey, president of the A. S. U. I., gave short talks to the freshmen on their lives as college students.

Sudden Turn Friday
The week's program took an unexpected turn Friday night, when the freshman-sophomore fight was staged. The sophomores started posting their edicts early in the evening, and before many were up the entire body of freshmen were roving the streets, looking for sophomores. The fight continued throughout the night and much good water was wasted emerging the unfortunate members of both classes who were unlucky enough to show themselves alone. Next Saturday the Hulme fight, the tug of war, and other events that are used to finally decide the victorious class, will be staged on the campus.

Saturday evening the final event of the week's program, a reception and dance, was given in the gymnasium. A general get-together was held the early part of the evening, until nine o'clock, when the orchestra started "The Sneak."

ENGLISH FACULTY ADDS TO STRENGTH

Faculty appointments made on the University of Idaho English department for the present year have materially strengthened the teaching staff, according to Dr. George M. Miller, departmental head.

Joseph L. Rentfro, with an A. B. degree from McEndree college and an A. M. degree from Boston university, takes an assistant professorship. Mr. Rentfro spent three years in graduate work at Boston university and one year at Harvard. He was instructor in English at the University of Illinois, 1918-1919, and until 1922 head of the English department at Willamette university.

To Coach Debate.

Lewis A. Harding, a graduate of Indiana university, comes to the department as assistant professor. He was head of the English department at Wichita, Kansas, high school, 1909-1911, and has just completed five successful years at North Central high school, Spokane. His high school work included considerable public speaking and debate coaching work and he will direct this work in college, succeeding C. W. Chenoweth, who was appointed to an associate professorship in philosophy and placed at the head of the philosophy department.

Miss Grace E. Sargent, appointed instructor in English, holds both the A. B. and A. M. degrees from the University of South Dakota. She taught Freshman classes at her Alma Mater four years and later traveled a year in Europe. She later spent some time studying at the University of Wisconsin.

Miss Helen Whitman takes the position of instructor in English. Miss Whitman holds an A. B. degree from Wellesley and an A. B. from Columbia. She has completed two years of advance work at Columbia and has completed the greater part of the requirements for a Ph. D. degree.

Named Graduate Assistant.
Miss Dorothy C. Hall, with three years' teaching in Idaho high schools, was chosen graduate assistant in the department. Miss Hall has her A. B. degree from Brinnell and taught one year each in Spirit Lake, Coeur d'Alen and St. Maries high schools.

She completed one year's advanced work at Grinnell and will take work at Idaho leading to her master's degree.

The faculty members remaining from last year are J. H. Cushman, instructor in English and dramatics, and J. Stanton McLaughlin. Associate Professor Chenoweth will continue some of his work in public speaking and debate. Edward F. Mason continues the courses in news writing.

"The university is exceptionally fortunate to secure such an exceptionally trained staff," said Dr. Miller. "All of the added members have the highest type of training and as a result the department's instructional faculties are greatly strengthened."

CO-ED RUSHEES IN EXCITEMENT'S GRASP

Registration and Apparel Are Main Topics Discussed

Life for the entering co-eds for the first week is a combination of rushing and registering. Alien as the two may seem they really supplement each other beautifully. If it weren't for registration conversation would lag woefully at the opening teas. As a universal topic it supplants the weather and the state of one's health. For the first three days it is a sure-fire thing to ask, "Have you registered yet?"

This invariably draws forth a recital of woes, guaranteed to last until the question is next asked.

The registration line serves so effectively to exhaust the waiters as to preclude any wakeful hours pining for home.

Perhaps the things which serves most to make all rushees kin is the discussion of what to wear to this tea or that luncheon. The omission of hats or the height of heels are gravely discussed. But if the number of men who have urgent business on the campus as the tea hour nears, is any index, the results justify the effort.

SOPHOMORES NAME GOLDEN PRESIDENT

Select Class Officers At First Meeting of the Present Year

The sophomore class held its first meeting of the new school year on Thursday evening, September 21.

Paul Harlan, last year's class president, conducted the meeting to order and acted as chairman during the election of officers.

Arthur Golden was elected president of the class; Hester McKenzie, vice president; Vaughn Prater, secretary; and Lynn Kelley, treasurer. The president and secretary were both elected by unanimous vote.

After the election the girls of the class left and the remainder of the meeting was devoted to questions concerning the freshman-sophomore fight.

Open Practice Friday

Friday afternoon the football teams will work out before the student body according to an announcement from the office of the athletic director.

These open practices are given especially to afford the student body an opportunity to come out and see just what the teams are doing. Last week but a handful of students adorned the bleachers on the open practice night. Coach Mathews is wondering if that is the extent of Idaho's football enthusiasm.

Friday afternoon is the afternoon for you to get acquainted with your football team. They're going to gather at the "1" bench at four o'clock when the siren blows.

IDAHO GRAD TAKES IMPORTANT POSITION

George A. Scott of Chinook, Montana, and a graduate of the University of Idaho agricultural college, has been recently appointed State Agricultural Statistician for the state of Montana according to word received from the Extension Service of the Montana State Agricultural college.

Mr. Scott has since the war been in charge of the Smith-Hughes agricultural work in the Chinook high school, and was engaged before that in the livestock work for the Montana State college.

"Bury the Hatchet" Dance Saturday
The annual "Bury the Hatchet" dance for underclassmen of the university will be held at the gymnasium Saturday night, September 30. The occasion marks the termination of hostilities between the freshmen and sophomores. Although Saturday afternoon will see the big Hulme Day scraps, the dance will witness the end of the warfare.

ROBERT O. JONES AT CAMPUS FOR VISIT

"My desire to get back on the University of Idaho campus, to see how the football team is progressing, and to marvel at the growth of the University of Idaho are my reasons for coming to Moscow for a brief visit," said Robert O. Jones, secretary of state, Tuesday. Mr. Jones arrived here Monday afternoon for a short stop. He is a graduate of the University of Idaho and is deeply interested in its growth and welfare.

Mr. Jones has been one of the most prominent of the Idaho alumni and no other single man has been of greater service to the institution. He has, in his two terms as secretary of state, insisted upon recognition of the university. Mr. Jones has always been a football enthusiast and he has been individually responsible in a number of cases for the bringing of Idaho high school athletes to the University of Idaho. In his two terms as secretary of state Mr. Jones has made probably the best record in the history of that state office.

Pleased With Growth

"The alumni are delighted with the growth of the university," he said. "The enrollment increase shows that the university is now drawing students from every corner of the state and once students get started at the university they continue to come and bring other students with them. No student has ever made a mistake by coming to the university for higher education. The mistake some students make is in not coming."

"The alumni are pleased with the work of Coach Mathews and my personal opinion, which is also the opinion of every Idaho alumni, is that the university is to be congratulated in having Mathews as head coach and athletic director. With Coach David MacMillan for basketball and freshman football and with the material and very much worth while assistance of Assistant Coaches Neldig and Knudson, I look upon the Idaho athletic department as remarkably capable.

"It was my pleasure yesterday to watch the Idaho varsity candidates in action and I must say that I am well pleased."

Praise for Moscow

"On behalf of the alumni and all Idaho people interested in the university and the cause of higher education and as an alumnus of the university I want to thank the fine public spirited people of Moscow for their helpful interest in the university. Assistance to individual students, the opening of Moscow homes to students, the constructive assistance of Moscow men in building Lindley hall, assisting fraternity and sorority organizations, and the building of the new women's dormitory, have done much to endear the young people of Idaho to Moscow people and the city of Moscow."

Mr. Jones is a member of the Idaho chapter of the Beta Theta Pi fraternity.

U. OF PENNSYLVANIA MAN CROSSES CONTINENT

Dr. H. H. Foster, of the department of education at the University of Pennsylvania, arrived in Moscow Monday evening, accompanied by Mrs. Foster, having driven across country from the City of Brotherly Love. Professor Foster is on a year's leave of absence and is making a survey of western school of secondary education, to secure data to be used in a book, dealing with secondary education, which he is preparing. He will spend some two weeks in Moscow, after which he will visit the Washington State College and other coast institutions.

The trip from Philadelphia occupied about five weeks and was delightful in every respect, according to Dr. Foster. The roads were good for the most part, and the weather ideal. No extremely hot weather was encountered and only one slight rain storm. The drive was made over surfaced highways to the east line of Indiana and through Indiana and Illinois was largely over detours, as hundreds of miles of construction is under way in the two states. West of Illinois nothing but dirt roads were encountered, but these were in excellent condition, excepting some stretches in Missouri and again in Montana. Dr. Foster is an old-time friend of Dean J. F. Messenger, head of the department of education at the University of Idaho, both having been connected with the University of Vermont some years ago.

Politics, the eastern educator states, are beginning to warm up in Pennsylvania, with the general sentiment indicating that Gifford Pinchot will win the governorship of the Keystone state.

Which Type of Research

is of Greatest Value?

A stove burns too much coal. A man familiar with the principles of combustion and heat radiation makes experiments which indicate desirable changes in design. That is research.

You want to make a ruby in a factory, a real ruby, indistinguishable by any test from the natural stone. You begin by analyzing rubies chemically and physically. Then you make rubies just as nature did. Your rubies are the result of research—another type of research.

While melting up your chemicals and experimenting with high temperatures, you begin to wonder how hot the earth must have been millions of years ago, and what were the forces at play that made this planet what it is. Your investigation leads you far, from rubies and causes you to formulate theories to explain how the earth, how the whole solar system was created. That would be research of a still different type.

Research of all three types is conducted in the laboratories of the General Electric Company. But it is the third type—pioneering into the unknown—that means most in the long run, even though undertaken with no practical benefit in view.

For example, the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company are exploring matter with X-rays in order to discover not only how the atoms in different substances are arranged but how the atoms themselves are built up. The more you know about a substance, the more you can do with it. This work may enable scientists to answer more definitely the question: Why is iron magnetic? Then the electrical industry will take a greater step forward than can be made in a century of experimenting with existing electrical apparatus.

You can add wings and stories to an old house. But to build a new house, you must begin with the foundation.

BUBBLES

Dear Paw:

Sherman may have known what he was talking about but I'll bet as how he never saw a class fight. Leastwise the particular fight I have in mind. One of these here class fights are arranged or rather they ain't arranged, but just happen. They is some kind of a tradition, but I didn't get to see that part of the fight, so I can't tell you about what one of them is.

You see, the frosh, I'm one of them, and the sophs, they was frosh before they was sophs, all put on their old cloz, only there was some that forgot part of it, and then they get in bunches and play hide and go seek each one ain't set on finding the other ones. When there is 15 or 20 of one kind that finds 3 or 4 of the other kind why they take the 3 or 4 and stick them in a watering troff, in the spring in front of one of the big houses on the hill or sometimes they put them in a car and take them out in the country and make them walk back after they stick them in the little creek that is out there.

The sophs put some signs up all over the place but I ain't been able to figure out just what all they seem to be calling we frosh but it must be something pretty bad cause the fellars went and tore them all down.

I went down to Epworth League last night and as I was on my way home I see as how there was a lot of fellars getting put in a horse troff and I knew as how I ain't never learned to swim very much so I kept on going up to Mr. Lindley's place. When I got pretty near there there was some more boys there so I ust kept on going and went out to the cow barn and went to bed in a pile of hay that was there.

My room fellar told me what happened all except the tradition part and the fellar that sit next to me at supper says all about it.

Hope as how you all are well and ask maw if the little white hen is still layin. Aim as how I better go to bed now.

Your son,
M. T. DOME.

Bell (after riding two hours)—Don't you ever stop and look at your engine?

Hop—Never, you'd be surprised what good engines these Cadillacs have.

Frosh—Aren't you Owen Jones?
Senior—Gosh, yes, I'm owing everybody around here.

Did you ever see a board walk?

A blind man at a bathing beach is no more unfortunate than a one armed man calling on twin sisters.

Late to bed and early to rise
Makes black rings under her eyes.

Speaking of bumper crops, have you fellows noticed that Idaho seems to have done fairly well when it comes to wimmen?

And the supply, shape, size and variety seem to be unlimited—boys, I predict a lovely year.

To bad, now we can't have any "College of Good Cheer" this year. Maybe Ted can take his place. Three guesses—who is it?

It may be wise for me to suggest to the frosh boys that it would not be unwise for them to touch the little white button on the top of their sky piece and make a cute little curtsy whenever they meet a SENIOR on the campus outside of a building.

If married men have been halves, do bachelors have better quarters?

Well, that's that.

The Wilderness Answers

Columbus may have discovered a lot and made possible the discovery of a lot more but there is yet a lot which his masterful eye missed in its christening sweep over the American continent. This venerable gentleman overlooked a bet when he allowed the mountains of Idaho to remain undiscovered.

To bring Idaho into her rightful position in the world of romance and adventure the Argonaut this summer sent C. Skate, one of the best known rough and ready writers in the west into the mountain fastness and his story, "The Wilderness Answers," written in that light and breezy style which characterizes all his works will be published at weekly intervals during the year—Editorial note.

Opening Installment
(By C. Skate)

The historic waters, or, the waters of the historic Clearwater, rumbled lazily toward and on through Lewiston as the steam caravan grumbled and belched on its long climb through the doorstep into the most picturesque and interesting land in the west.

Somebody said that Lewiston was at one time the capital of Idaho but there was no visible points about the town which distinguished it from any other collection of houses along the line except that occasionally a person could get a genuine 10-cent shine. Lewiston is still noted in historic circles for its important part in the early day settlement of the Lewiston orchards, but today it is recognized only for vicious effort on the mercury during the summer time and for reasonably priced shines as noted in a preceding statement.

It was not the intention of the writer to pay more than passing attention to Lewiston but that city's almost continuous claims to fame have made such a step impractical.

Mt. Idaho, nestled on the edge of the untrammelled wilderness which I am going to discover later, was reached on the second day and for a small town it has about the most beautiful sunsets ever seen. As soon as the natives knew my mission they began loading me down with traditions and among them was the claim to the state capital at an earlier date. They even went to the trouble to show me the exact building in which the official records were handled but there was no evidence of official instruments other than a double bladed axe and a rolling pin with a very odd looking curve near one end. Of course I had to admit the authenticity of this tale and considering the secrecy through which the information was imparted I thought sure it must have been the first time it passed through the lips of my informant.

Later in the day, as I was meditating over the poor choice of those placing the capital, I met up with one of the hangers on of old times whom they called "Doc." This title was merely a bestowed and not an outgrowth of any medical, surgical, or chiropractical abilities, as I later learned.

Doc used to be a freighter in the early days and because he knew the country like an open book I spotted him as my man. He was rather old feeble but despite this I figured it would be safe to mount him on an old skate of a saddle pony and take back on the expedition with me.

He used to sit on the street curb all day long and spin yarns in his quaint, individual way.

"Skate, you have never been around this country much, have you?" he asked in a confidential manner as the third day of our acquaintanceship was nearing a close.

"No."
"I thought so—Now let me give you some advice."

He leaned over close to me and tapped my shoulder with the stem of his pipe.

"If you ain't got any business back in them hills don't leave this place. There are bad men back there and lots of them but it's just because so many of the sheriffs and constables around here were such poor shots. Now you ain't got any business going back there alone anyway, and if you don't care much about company, I kinda hanker to go along for there's some-one way back there who hasn't played square lately and unless he changes his ways he needn't expect to live very long.

Now Doc didn't look like a very bloodthirsty creature but I knew there was something extremely sincere about him. He knew the country and I didn't, so I decided to take him along.

"Well, let's see, the store is shut tight and I want to get a bunch of shells before we hit the trail"—thus he greeted my decision to take him along.

The village street light flickered on and dispersed the early rays of darkness as we parted. I watched Doc disappear in the distance, his head bowed forward as though meditating deeply, and then turned toward my own room.

ELLA OLESEN TOURING EUROPEAN COUNTRIES

Word from Miss Ella L. Olesen, recorder at the University of Idaho, who is enjoying a year's leave of absence, writes that she is having a wonderfully interesting and a very pleasant trip. She had a glorious time in England, where some eighty tourists divided into companies of twenty each and toured England and France. Dr. Kalso headed the party Miss Olesen was with and proved a wonderfully competent guide, being well acquainted and leading to places of interest.

She went from Paris to London in an air ship. She visited the Isle of Man, the birthplace of her mother, and when she wrote last was about to leave for a tour of Denmark.

The fire is thought to have been started by persons burning brush. There has been no rain in several weeks and the ground is covered with dry leaves and brush upon which the fire is feeding.

Sixty men and boys, including the entire enrollment of the school of forestry of the university, is engaged in fighting the fire under the direction of Professor C. E. Behr, associate professor of forestry.

A number of university professors have summer cottages in the region threatened by the fire, but report that if the work of checking the fire continues as at present, little damage will be done to their property.

FACULTY MEN PLAY TO COP TENNIS LAURELS

Courts See Fast Play in the Prof's Tournament—Four Left

With a strong determination for copying the campus laurels the faculty is holding their tournament. The faculty tennis courts which were constructed last Campus Day by its members have been the scene of many exciting matches the past week.

In the opening series of matches there were nineteen contestants, who were as follows: Fahrenwald, Mannus, Kirkham, Parkhurst, Snyder, Aitkenhead, Kweath, Ludberg, Taylor, Luke, Candee, Mason, Browne, Hulbert, Axtell, Angell, Barton, Eldridge and Piper. Due to the fact that tennis was neglected during the summer players are inclined to be a little rusty, but occasionally a flash of real skill is exhibited when one of the fans regains his form.

The semi-finals are to be played off Friday afternoon between Snyder, Fahrenwald, Candee and Axtell. All of the men have had considerable experience and it is expected to be a hard fight to see who will make the finish.

U. OF I. GETS HIGHEST PRICED PIANO MADE

The highest priced piano ever brought into Moscow was delivered at the university auditorium Friday. The piano is a Mason & Hamlin grand and cost $1850. It is in ebony finish and is a decidedly handsome piece of furniture, as well as giving out the most beautiful tones. It will be used in the artist course at the university this year. In the past it has been necessary to ship in an instrument from Spokane for each number of the artist course, and this has been expensive and to an extent unsatisfactory.

The Mason & Hamlin piano is the highest priced piano made and it was decided by the university authorities that the best would be cheapest in the end. The piano was bought through the Hodgins' Drug store, local representatives of the Mason & Hamlin people.

to try their strength with the freshmen. The freshmen made short work of the battle. The story is told of one sophomore who was slightly winded and temporarily put out of the fray. The freshmen crowded around him until one shouted:

"Get away. Give 'em air. Let him come to. We want to duck him."

Good Natured Tussle

The freshmen were unbeaten in the strength of their numbers and organization. Hostilities were good humored. The freshmen came to know each other and started the development of their class spirit while the sophomores, although best in the ducking contest, took their baths good naturedly.

All activity by both classes closed the following morning with a get-together by freshmen and sophomores. The regulated "Hulme fight," consisting of a tug of war, pickaback races, and other events, will be staged on the campus Saturday afternoon, September 30.

COUGAR GRID HOPES NONE TOO BRIGHT

Interview With W. S. C. Mentor Brings to Light Squad's Shortcomings

The Washington State College Cougars face a difficult task this fall in reorganizing their team to meet the stiff competition in the Pacific Coast conference according to an interview with Coach Doc Bohler, director of athletics, and Hack Applequist, assistant football coach of the Pullman institution, who returned from Loon Lake recently where they have been since the close of the summer session.

"With a heavy schedule and the necessity of developing an entire new backfield, the Cougars have a stiff proposition this fall," says Hack Applequist. "We have lost eight of our last year's team, and possibly nine. If rumors are true, Moe Sax, for two years sensational backfield man, is planning to enter some other institution. Mike Moran is gone, as are Frank Skadan, Pink McIver, Jenne, Winans, Earl Dunlap, George Bohannon, and Harold Hanley, all stars.

Bohler Gives Views
Coach Bohler gave no more optimistic impression than had his assistant. "At ends," he said, "we will have Loomis and Cook, who do not happen to be letter men; at tackle we have several good men to choose from, Captain Dunton, Art Hamilton and Lin Mecker, all veterans. For guards Leslie Durwacher, Bud McKay, Al Davis and Hugh Huffman form a good quarter to use regularly.

"The hole, tho, will have to be filled from last year's subs or yearling recruits, with Pete Kramer and Burks and Crow giving the most promise of developing into varsity material.

Quarter Material
"For quarter, we have Moe Sax, if he is back, also Griffiths and Jack Davis from the freshman team, and at half we have Zaepfel and Vernard Hickey, both letter men, and Triggvi and Hales from the frosh aggregation. For ends, we so far have but two freshmen prospects, Keller and Hughes."

The general concensus of opinion on the W. S. C. campus seems to be that though there are strong men out for varsity berths, it will be a difficult task to mold them into a victorious fighting machine with so much new material to work over.

PLAN GIANT YELL RALLY TUESDAY

put forth every bit of pep they possibly can to help with these games. With nearly every game away from home, it means we must exert our men and meet them at the trains on every trip."

Call Giant Yell Rally Tuesday
A giant yell rally has been planned for Tuesday evening at 8:30 p. m. on the bleachers of the athletic field. There will be no excuse for the absence of any students, in the opinion of the yell king. The students are urged to secure the official rooster caps with the upturned rim and to wear them Tuesday night.

The primary object of the rally will be to stimulate interest in this year's football team and teach the new students Idaho songs and yells. Memo-graphed copies of the songs and yells will be passed out to the crowd so that it will be deemed a disgrace to remain silent.

Yell Duke's Tryouts
Yell duke tryouts were held yesterday afternoon by Mr. Wyland, and aspirants will probably be given a trial Tuesday night before a real cheering crowd. Freshmen are expected to elect a yell leader of their own.

The university jazz band will make its first appearance of the season at this rally, state Lynn Hersey, leader, and president of the A. S. U. I. The tryouts for the band have been posted and the band will be fully organized for the rally. Many of the old men are back, and all vacancies will be filled by a purely competitive tryout. The band is having entirely new uniforms made for them, and several trips are slated for this season.

Knights Cooperate
Members of the Intercollegiate Knights will cooperate with the yell king and the jazz band in an effort to make the Tuesday night rally a huge success. The Intercollegiate Knights will this year assume responsibility for sponsoring rallies, parades, ushering and stunts.

Freshmen in particular are expected to be on hand Tuesday night, and the Knights will be out in case an immediate response to the siren's call is not forthcoming from wearers of the verdant green.

MINES SCHOOL STRIDES AHEAD

Big Advances Made in College Since Beginning In 1917—Many Apply for Graduate Degrees.

Enrollment in the University of Idaho school of mines this year is the most gratifying since its installation as an administrative unit of the university in 1917, according to Dean F. A. Thomson of the school. The location of the university in the heart of one of the most productive mining districts in the United States makes the mining work very attractive.

"Enrollment of new students has doubled the record established last year," said Dean Thomson, "but particularly pleasing is the enrollment of students with advanced standings from other institutions throughout the country. Next commencement the school will graduate its largest class in mining.

"Additional faculty members will not be required to handle the increased enrollment but the teaching staff will be able to deliver more efficient service."

Advanced Students
Advanced students have come this year from the New Mexico School of Mines, University of Wisconsin School of Mines, Idaho Technical Institute, and McMinville college in Oregon.

Two students came from China, and another from Guyaquil, Ecuador. One of the Chinese students already holds a master's degree from a large eastern institution and is taking advanced work in ore dressing.

CALL FOR GLEE CLUB MATERIAL GOES FORTH

Prof. Bangs Issues Call for Singers this Week—Will Make Southern Tour

The call for glee club material has been issued by Professor Bangs, head of the music department of the university, and director of the glee club. Tryouts will be held at five o'clock every evening this week at Litz hall, and Professor Bangs wishes that any male student who has talent, latent or otherwise, in the musical line, to avail himself of this opportunity of making the university glee club.

As in the past, the glee club will again this year make a mid-winter tour of the state for a period of about three weeks. Last year twenty singers were taken along, but Mr. Bangs stated today that this number would in all probability be considerably increased this year.

Robert Cummins of Kellogg is the manager of the glee club this year, and is making plans for making the trip this year into the southern part of the state cover the territory more thoroughly than in the past.

The University of Idaho and Washington State College music departments have jointly arranged for the services of Wilbert Maynard as musical instructor in the cello and all wind instruments. Mr. Maynard is a graduate of the Oklahoma State University school of music and has served as professor of theory and composition at various institutions before taking his present position.

Mr. Maynard served as professor of theory and composition at the Fort Hays, Kansas, Normal school and as instructor in harmony, cello and wind instruments at Oklahoma State University, and has taught for some time at the Kansas City Conservatory of Music and acted as director of the Red Rock, Iowa, conservatory.

Mr. Maynard has studied music at the Kansas State Normal, Kansas City, Oklahoma State and New England conservatories of music, and was a cello student of Michael Malosek.

BARBS HOLD FIRST MEETING OF YEAR

such steps are taken. Lee Gregory, who has had experience in handling high school orchestras, will probably head the music department.

The program of the occasion was opened by Regner W. Kullberg, president of the association, who briefly outlined the objectives of the society. He was followed by Robert L. Holbrook, vice president of the association, who dwelt at some length upon the past of the organization, the need for such a group and the aims that were expected to be made a permanent part of the present term's endeavors.

Thomas Speedy, senior in the college of agriculture, then gave a very intimate insight into the actual conditions confronting the freshmen of the university. He pointed out the possibilities of the association in the field of encouraging the members to strive for the institution in the various extra-curriculum activities and urged upon all the necessity of a strong fraternal organization to keep alive the best fraternal, social and institutional traditions and ideals.

Numerous other individuals voiced their impressions of the character and amount of work that the association could accomplish, and uttered the sincere belief and desire that such could and would be accomplished by an active group on the campus this fall and next spring.

Towards the close of the meeting the expression of the body was gained as to the program that was to be expected for the ensuing year. All vouchsafed the information that they were all behind the plans as set forth and were willing to cooperate in every possible way for the realization of the work outlined.

After the eat which consisted of delicious ice cream and cake the members present repaired once more to the fireplace room where several inspiring Idaho songs were sung by the group. A hearty handshake marked the termination of the evening.

The non-fraternity organization set Tuesday, October 3, as the date for the next meeting which will consist of stunts, music, song and yell fests and other features yet to be worked out.

AWARD CUPS TO WINNING GROUPS

Omega Phi Alpha Sorority and Phi Gamma Delta Fraternity Win Highest Scholastic Honors.

Following a very impressive address by Dr. Enoch A. Bryan, state commissioner of education, to the student assembly at the opening exercises of the 31st collegiate year of the university, cups for scholarship last year were awarded by Stanley A. Eastman, of Kellogg, a regent and chairman of the university executive committee, to the Omega Phi Alpha sorority and Phi Gamma Delta fraternity.

The cup for scholarship competition among fraternities was presented by Congressman Burton L. French, a University of Idaho graduate. Upon the presentation of the award last fall, the provision was made that the first group to have the highest scholastic standing for three years, would become possessor of it.

Elizabeth Lindley Cup
The scholarship cup awarded the sorority which won highest percentage in the list of competing women's group organizations was presented to the university by Elizabeth Kidder Lindley.

For the scholastic year of 1920-21, the Kappa Alpha Theta sorority won the cup with an average of 5.398, while the men's groups, Phi Gamma Delta fraternity, was first with an average of 4.718.

The comparative averages for this scholastic year of 1921-22 were Omega Phi Alpha sorority, 5.363, and Phi Gamma Delta fraternity 4.644.

MOSCOW CHURCHES WELCOME STUDENTS

Give Receptions Friday to Student Body, Which are Widely Attended

Friday evening, the various churches of Moscow held "open house" to the students of the university. The individual churches each reported that the social was a great success, and everyone seemed to have a good time, despite the fact that many and sundry freshmen and sophomores left before hand to get into the annual under class scrimmage which "happened" that night.

The main idea in each of the different receptions was to get acquainted, and a majority of the games indulged in were to that end. Each church reported big crowds in attendance. Talks were given by the pastors of the churches in most cases, and the affairs generally wound up with the conventional "eats."

SHUFFLIN' HOUNDS DELAY SCHEDULE

Weary Traveler Bemoans Loss of Pin Money to Tea Hounds

With diabolical cunning the South Idaho special was prevented from reaching the educational center of the universe because of several sicklers at the game of 52, perhaps better known as "some get some and some get none." Conniving with members of the train crew they hornsogged the carefree rahs-rah until their own pin money was assumed. At least several eyes looked sleepy and several pairs of trousers hung limp around the right hand pocket.

Great Rejoicing at Return
Puffing and wheezing, the train finally pulled in after four anxious hours of waiting. Piling out of doors and windows the old students and the first year lambs descended into the outstretched arms of the rejoicing populace. The thwack of feminine lips on other lips (feminine) resounded like music through the air, while the undertone of jabber was terrific. "Oh, Gertrude, you haven't changed a bit. I was just wild to see you again."

Luggage Looted
Some scores of trunks were not delivered until late Sunday night due to more crooked work. Some gentleman collected all the trunk checks and

BOOK FAMOUS SINGER FOR APPEARANCE HERE

Julia Claussen to Give Concert at University on October 25

Julia Claussen, mezzo soprano of the Metropolitan Opera company, will give a concert in the University of Idaho auditorium on October 25, under theauspices of the university public events committee, Professor E. O. Bangs, head of the department of music, announced Thursday. Madame Claussen is probably the most famous singer ever brought to the university.

Madame Claussen came to Moscow direct from New York and will probably return to New York after her appearance here. She is not on a concert tour and the university authorities have procured the exclusive engagement after much difficulty.

Madame Claussen is the proud possessor of the "Literis Artibus" medal, bestowed by the King of Sweden, and which only twice before had been conferred upon a singer. Patti and Nilsson were the other winners of the famous medal.

The concert has been arranged so that it may be one of the features of the institute in Moscow, October 23 to 28, for the public school teachers of Latah, Nez Perce, Lewis, Clearwater, Idaho and Asotin counties.

WILL GIVE SUMMER PLAY OCTOBER 6TH

Varsity Players Offer "Her Money Man" for University Audience

"Her Money Man," the summer play of the University Players, will be given for University of Idaho students who may not have seen the play this summer while being taken throughout the northwest. It will be rehearsed here October 6 in the university auditorium.

The play is a modern play in which the characters are continually falling in and out of love at an eastern seashore resort, and furnishes numerous opportunities for clever comedy.

The play is given by University of Idaho students, under the direction of Professor Cushman, professor of dramatics. The leading role is played by Miss Caroline Logan of Boise, who has had abundant training in dramatic work.

Miss Carolyn Logan, who is not in college this year, is coming from Boise especially for this performance to continue in the part of the charming widow, Helen Calthrop, which she portrayed this summer. Miss Esther McRoberts, the cook, maid, and bottle washer, who keeps the comedy at high pitch will be replaced in this performance by Mary McCalley, whose farcical talents need no introduction to the student body.

Other characterizations are carried by Professor Cushman, Rex Kimmell, Maxwell Shoales, and Bethel Collins. Special scenery adapted from a late European impressionistic design, has been made for the play, as well as costumes and stage settings.

"Her Money Man" will serve to introduce what promises to be a most active season in campus theatricals. The third week in October will see the first production of English 37, the course in play production. Several promising actors have enrolled in this course, some transferring from other colleges in the northwest.

then mislaid them until his pals could filch the winter supply of liquid hope from all the over tills. Such an occurrence as the putting out of the lights in the cattle car by a quartet of hip pocket nightingales must be prevented in the future.

The dining car company very kindly served meals at all hours. However, they were handicapped by several highbrows who refused to eat before a fashionable hour. In fact the passageway to the diner was crowded with tea hounds who obstructed the way until time for a country club breakfast. As the last dry toast was chocked down, however, the outfit pulled in and the grand race for an education started with a crash.

FROSH FOOTBALL OUTLOOK BRIGHT

Turnout of 70 Candidates Assures Idaho of Fighting Yearling Eleven—Add Two New Coaches.

Freshman football prospects are looking the brightest that they have for several years just now, and with the recent appointment of two new additional coaches to aid in training them, they should give a good account of themselves in the numerous games which are being scheduled for them by graduate manager Knudson.

A record turnout of candidates for positions on the frosh eleven has resulted from the increased interest taken this fall in football at the university. To date there have been sixty-six men turning out regularly for frosh practice, and Coach MacMillan, who has taken charge of the yearling work, has had six full teams in action.

Good Balance
Some of the best high school gridiron talent in the state has matriculated in the university this fall, and indication point to the class of '26 football team being the most evenly balanced and fastest that Idaho fans have seen here in many a moon. There are a great number of individual stars out for backfield and line berths, but the balance of the majority of the candidatises what is particularly pleasing to Coach MacMillan just at this time.

The necessity of Assistant Coaches R. E. Neldig and Albert Knudson aiding Head Coach Mathews with the varsity squad left Coach MacMillan alone in the field with his six yearling squads. Consequently, Heinie Glindeman, a three-year letter man who played his last year of varsity football last season, has been chosen as one assistant and Harold Barto, also a former varsity man, the other, to aid MacMillan in putting the youngsters through their paces.

Map Out Schedule
A good schedule is being mapped out by the athletic department for the yearling team, but no dates have yet been announced for publication by Graduate Manager Knudson. University students, however, are assured of seeing some real football in the near future when the youngsters tangle with the best football talent in the northwest.

STUDENT EMPLOYMENT IS STILL BIG PROBLEM

Work for Women Waiting for Applicants—Odd Jobs Only Opening for Men

The employment situation, as regards men on the university campus stands just about the way it did last week according to Ted Turner, who is in charge of the university employment bureau at the University Hut, when seen yesterday. For women, however, the situation is entirely reversed, and there are listed more available positions, particularly in some branches, than women to fill them.

About fifteen men have been directed to places where they may do odd jobs during each of the past ten days, said Mr. Turner. There are still a great many applications for work, and every effort is being made to fill these, at least temporarily.

The majority of the permanent positions were filled or taken by older students who reserved the positions last spring, so that it will be rather difficult for a while, thinks Mr. Turner, to do more than get odd jobs. Such jobs, though, may many times turn into permanent positions, or pave the way to obtaining permanent work, so that anyone taking such work should try to leave a good impression with his employer.

"Positions for girls, particularly for household work, are plentiful, and we have several such places to be filled, but no applications of women desiring such work to take them," said the employment secretary. "Any girl who wishes to do such work as taking care of children during certain hours of the day, should immediately get in touch with this office and leave their schedule cards."

UNIVERSITY HERDS TO STATE FAIR AT BOISE

To Enter Livestock Only for Demonstration Purposes, States Iddings

Through the courtesy of the Union Pacific railway the University of Idaho was able to ship a carload of purebred livestock to the state fair at Boise September 25-30 for exhibition and demonstration purposes, according to Dean E. J. Iddings of the college of agriculture.

The animals were carefully selected from the large university herds and were used for parades, judging and demonstration purposes. It is not the plan of the department to enter any of the animals in competition with other breeders.

Will Send Large Number
The university sent five head of horses and six head of dairy cattle. The horses included four Percherons and a shire mare. One of the Percherons, a two-year old, bred on the university farm, was grand champion at the Spokane Interstate fair and livestock show this fall and the shire mare, the only entry in an exceptionally strong shire showing, was also grand champion.

The dairy cattle include the three-year old university bull, "Mat," a frequent prize winner, and three first prize Jerseys from the herd sent to the Spokane show. The other entries were representative of the dairy herd. Professor C. W. Hickman, animal husbandman at the college of agriculture, will have charge of the horses at the fair and will also do some experimental work at the Caldwell station. The dairy cattle were handled by P. W. Atkeson, professor of dairy husbandry.

PUT ABSENCE RULES STRICTLY IN EFFECT

Excuses Must Be Filed Within Two Days, Is Faculty's Latest Ruling

Some misunderstandings arose during the past year regarding absences and excuses for absences, and the administration is particularly anxious that all students, old as well as new, make themselves full acquainted with the rulings of the faculty with regard to excuses.

A new ruling was inaugurated last winter to the effect "that any student incurring unexcused absences in a given course in excess of the number of credit hours in that course shall be dropped therefrom with a grade of F; provided that any student incurring a total number of unexcused absences in excess of two-thirds of the number of credits for which he is registered shall be suspended from the university for that semester."

All excuses for absence shall be presented to the instructors in writing, for their signatures, and immediately there after filed in the registrar's office.

At the meeting of the faculty last week, the following additional ruling was adopted:
"Excuses for absence for one day or less will not be effective unless filed in the registrar's office within two school days after the student's return; leaves of absence must be filed within one week after the student's return to the university if they are to be effective."

Ward Wyman, and "Squinty" Hunter, who is back on the courts after an absence of two years.

Reaches Third Round
Most of the play has reached the third rounds, the results of which are: W. Wyman beat L. Smith, 6-0, 6-1; J. Priest beat C. Creelman, 6-4, 6-3; C. Herrington beat R. Caldwell, 6-0, 6-0; G. Hewitt beat R. Burbidge, 6-2, 6-1; E. Gowenlock defaulted to Ken Hunter; J. Wagner beat "Ding" York, 6-2, 6-0; C. Preuss beat P. Beiler, 8-6, 6-3; D. Prescott beat P. Rensberg, 6-0, 6-0; and in the fourth round two matches have been played: C. Herrington beat G. Hewitt, 6-0, 6-0; J. Wagner beat Ken Hunter, 6-3, 6-4.

Drawings for the women's singles are scheduled to take place today. The drawings are to be posted by Tennis Manager Dan Prescott on the bulletin board Thursday. The loss of Miss Vida Richards to the girls will be keenly felt. However, the return of Miss Mary Thompson and Margaret Mims to the squad has livened the prospects for women's varsity material for the coming year. Several frosh are reported to be in the running for berths on the squad for the coming season.
