HUSKIES WITH SAFETY PLAY BEAT VANDALS

Before Crowd of 20,000 Vandals Hold Husky Machine

HEAVY LINE COUNTS

Outweighed 20 Pounds, Idaho Men Fight For Every Inch

Idaho..... 0
Washington..... 2
(By Oren A. Fitzgerald)

Through all the years of thrilling football rivalry between the University of Idaho and the University of Washington, there has not been a more thrilling contest than the one which 20,000 people witnessed in the mammoth Seattle stadium Saturday afternoon when these two eleven revivied an ancient gridiron rivalry—dormant for ten seasons.

Although Washington won, it was not a deep-chested, healthy victory, and in the light of Idaho's past football history it was an achievement for the fighting Vandals. It took eleven men, just eleven, for Idaho did not make a single substitution during that gruelling game, to give battle to the famed Huskie machine, picked from a squad greatly outnumbering the red-jerseyed boys who drill faithfully every evening on MacLean field with Matty Mathews. It was nothing more than a technical victory.

Idaho Line Holds

Seven times the heavy purple and gold warriors massed within striking distance of the Idaho goal and seven times the lighter Vandal team buckled down to the seriousness of the impending danger and turned them back—bewildered. When a team, outweighed almost 20 pounds to the man, takes the ball on downs seven times as the opposing team battles within arm's length of the goal line—that's football. Washington's famed plunging backfield could roll out yardage like a magic carpet in mid-field but when near the goal, when distance counted, they could not advance.

The only score came in the third period. Idaho had fought for possession of the ball within a few yards of the goal line. Captain Babe Brown dropped back to punt to safe territory, as he had done many times before. The pass was not the best and he juggled it a moment but it slipped from his grasp. Two Huskies had broken through the line but Brown was quicker and when the referee pulled the mass of struggling humanity apart, Brown was clutching the ball behind his own goal line, for a safety and two points for Washington.

Rumors on "Fall Follies" Program Are Leaking Out

Rumors of the acts which will be in the "Fall Follies," the annual Pep Band show, have begun to leak out. Dope on the actual nature of them will have to be withheld until the money has been collected at the door, but a little advance information as to the general scheme of the show will relieve your minds. So if any of the parties mentioned below are seen slipping away into a dark corner or otherwise acting in a suspicious manner, remember that they are probably rehearsing for the big production.

Sig Sampson and his bouncing brigade will remind of the days of "Fall in, Fall out." Don Fisher is eating a quart of nails every meal in order to be sufficiently hard boiled as the top kick.

Bob and His Banjos

Bob Cummings and his quartet of banjos will harpshop on some of the latest creations.

ATHLETIC BALL BIG EVENT THIS WEEK

The athletic ball, the first formal event of the year, which will be held in gymnasium Friday night is to be a real welcome for the homecomers and guests on the campus. The athletic board is in charge of the affair and are making every effort to have in the decorations a true representation of Idaho spirit. There will be seats on the balcony for those who do not care to dance. Although the dance is formal the board has ruled that there will be no flowers. The number of tickets to be sold to students on the campus has been limited so that there will be room for every old grad. A number of old football men are expected to be among the guests. An overflow dance is being arranged for undergraduates who cannot be accommodated in the gym.

CADET BAND SHOWS CLASS FOR SEASON

Forty-six Pieces, Well Distributed, Make up Organization

Judging from the start that has been made, the military band bids fair to out-rival anything in the past accomplishments along that line. According to Bert Nielson band leader in the U. S. Army and band master here, the organization of the cadet band has already been completed, and all permanent offices, with the exception of drum major, have been filled.

McKinley, solo cornetist, is cadet leader and Powell, solo clarinetist, is assistant. Sometime in the near future, buglers will be selected from the cornet section and will be placed under the personal instruction of McKinley. This is a distinct department, undoubtedly, become an essential feature in Cadet military band.

In place of the French horn, which is rather difficult to play, a horn of about the same pitch has been substituted. It is called the "Melo Horn" and its installation is proving to be a decided success. Another change from the usual order this fall is the fact that the extra credit, previously given for band work, has been withdrawn. However, this has not handicapped the personnel of the band in the least, for it still numbers 46 pieces divided in sections as follows: wood winds, eight; saxophones, six; cornets, eight; melo-horns, 5; trombones, 6; baritones, 2; basses, 5; and drums, 5.

The Woman's hiking class made the first trip of the season Thursday morning under the direction of Miss Vera use, hiking leader. Meeting at the gymnasium at six a. m. they made a two mile hike, returning in half an hour. Another hike was made Saturday morning, the class meeting at six-thirty. The purpose of these short hikes is to accustom the members of the class to the exercise before longer hikes are undertaken.

Gill have collared one of the local Belasco's and he is turning out a dancing act that is a stem-winder. Eric Leighty and his collaborator will exhibit their animated pianos. The Pep band will out-Mann Mann brothers.

Gus and Doy are the dark horses of the performance. These colored brethren are springing a surprise.

Phil Tolman and Friday Jacobs are rehearsing the Yiddish Gavotte.

Guerin Again

And best of all Art Guerin will produce a skit which promises to be great stuff.

The Pep band, assisted by Professor Claus and Miss Freda Soulen will play a complete score during the entire performance.

So save up your nickels and dimes, and be there early. She is a knock-out and the bad-headed row for the tired scholar will be well worth the

PLANS COMPLETED FOR HOME-COMING

Friday, October 20, Red Letter Day on Idaho's Calendar—Alumni and Former Students to Thrill with Cougar Football Classic

"Come fellows and join the chorus, Together every Idaho Man; With Gold and Silver waving o'er us, Victorious since our course began. Behind our team we'll stand united, Behind old Pullman's goal line, too. And well her sons may get excited. Today's her Waterloo!"

There will be a real fervor in the old song Thursday night and Friday for on Friday, October 20 comes the "Waterloo" for Washington State college football aspirations. The blazing bonfire of Thursday night is to symbolize the funeral pyre of the Cougar and a triumphant tower of flame in honor of the Idaho victory to come.

Homecomers of 1922—veterans of former Idaho elevens, former students every alumnus who can possibly attend—all will join with the undergraduates of the present college generation in the fighting Idaho song of the day for the Idaho-Washington State college football game.

Vandals All Fighters

Homecoming of 1922—the day is to be better and longer to be remembered than any other homecoming—for a greater number will return to their college home and Idaho must and shall win the football game of Friday afternoon. The chances are better for an Idaho victory than ever before. The Vandals will fight on and are backed by a fighting student body—the Idaho eleven cannot lose.

The feature of the day is of course the annual football classic. The University of Idaho and Washington State college are traditional athletic rivals. Southern Idaho has its annual Armistice day football game but on the university campus, the Washington State game is The Game. It is the annual classic.

Rally Thursday Night

But there are other attractions—First and foremost to the former student will be the return to the campus, the same old thrill, the same conscious pride of being from Idaho. Then comes the rally, the annual bonfire, and the serpentine around the glowing fire. The old graduates will give their talks, the members of the team will be called upon, and the fighting Idaho spirit will shine back from every face into the glowing fire of the class of 1926.

The Idaho women stage the annual co-ed parade Thursday night. They will serpentine through the dining room of Lindley hall and all fraternity houses before joining forces with the men in the annual serpentine through the main streets of Moscow. Then the break for the fire at the fairgrounds, the rally proper, and living for tomorrow and the call of time.

Vandals vs. Cougars

The day of the big game will come. Instructors will be excited even as freshmen. The senior will be envious of the freshman in his three more years of the thrill of the W. S. C. game and the freshman will envy the senior his thrill of past games. The game itself, the fighting with the team on the gridiron, the clash of trained athlete against trained athlete, the test of strength and skill, the matching of courage against courage, and all with the conviction that Idaho will win.

And then the victory over respected rivals. The athletic ball is in the gymnasium, the end of a great day and the prideful reflections of the progress of the Vandals of the 1922, representatives of the University of Idaho in the greatest of all collegiate games.

The Idaho football team, with one victory and one slim defeat so far this season, again faces the annual battle with the Washington State Cougars, rivals of long standing.

Records This Season

Against the heavier Washington of Washington team, in the first Coast conference game for both institutions the Idaho Vandals displayed a style of defensive playing at which the old football heads, predicting a Washington victory by at least 20 points, marvelled. Washington was only able to win on a fluke.

While Idaho was toppling dope in the Washington stadium the speedy Gonzaga bulldog eleven came near turning the tide of the Cougars. Only a timely kick in the closing seconds

MILITARY GROUP MAKES ITS BOW

Local Organization of Senior Officers Plan Petitioning of National Scabbard and Blade Fraternity.

"The Achilles," new honorary military fraternity organized recently on the University of Idaho campus, was given official recognition by the faculty meeting last Friday and now takes its place with other honoraries of the hill.

The new organization is composed of eight senior members of the Idaho cadet battalion, and was perfected and all details arranged during the summer encampment of Idaho students taking advanced military work at Camp Lewis.

Membership is limited to those holding the rank of senior cadet officer, and new members will be pledged the junior cadet ranks. The following are the charter members of the new organization: John Rasmussen, William Gartin, William Carpenter, Luke Fleming, Abe Goff, Van Peterson, Allan Brown, and Vaughn Price, with two honorary members, Col. E. R. Chrisman and Captain Claudius Lloyd.

Petition National

Plans are being made to petition the national military fraternity of Scabbard and Blade, which enters only colleges of high military standing. There are at present twenty-five chapters of the national organization, including Washington, Washington State college and Oregon Agricultural college. A local body at Stanford university is also planning petitioning.

The local company has every reason to look forward to an early charter in Blade and Scabbard, which was organized in 1904 at the University of Wisconsin, and which has since grown to be the most honored organization in the collegiate military world.

Worthy Purpose

The purpose of the new organization is to disseminate intelligent information concerning the military requirements of the nation, to unite in closer relationship the military department of the university and to preserve and develop the essential qualities of good and efficient officers. It further aims to prepare its members to take a more active part and to have a greater influence in the military affairs of the communities in which they made re-

MINE LIBRARY DON-ER VISITS CAMPUS

The increased enrollment at the Idaho school of mines and the growing prestige of the institution are among the gratifying evidences of the excellent educational evidences of the excellent educational facilities provided at the state university. states the Wallace Miner in a recent issue. Recognition of the success of the school has attracted undergraduate and graduate students from all parts of the world, many of whom have enrolled in order to take advantage of special courses which could not be obtained at other institutions.

The location of the university is in the center of one of the most productive mining sections in the west, and the complete equipment of the school of mines, together with its highly efficient staff of instructors makes it especially attractive to students preparing for the mining professions and also to graduates of other schools who desire to specialize in certain phases of mining and metallurgy.

PAJAMA PARADE WILL OCCUR THURSDAY EVE

Silver and Gold Appeal Promises to Predominate

The annual pajama and nightshirt parade will start promptly Thursday evening at 7 o'clock. The girls will leave Ridenbaugh Hall on their march through the dormitories and fraternity houses at 6:30 finishing at the Fiji house in time to start the parade from the campus steps.

Society artists have not yet set a stand color for pajamas but it seems certain that silver and gold will predominate. B. V. D.'s will not qualify, as one person seemed to think on the last traditional expedition. If you haven't pajamas, wear a nightie.

After the serpentine parade through the town a giant rally will be held around the frosh bonfire at the fairgrounds. Speeches by old grads and football stars will predominate.

Rally, Wednesday, 4:00 o'clock, MacLean Field

PEP BANDERS' DANCE PROVES BIG FEATURE

The Pep Band dance given in the gym Saturday night was imbued with the atmosphere of Idaho pep and loyalty. The dance was such a success financially as well as socially, that our pep band will be able to attend the Boise game and show the future students in southern Idaho what loyal students are behind the team at Idaho.

The patriotic boosters of Idaho athletics attended the dance with all the pep and jollity found in the students. The music was enough to put pep into the least enthusiastic person and as the music was rendered by the Pep band itself, little more could be said of the wonderful dances.

SEATTLE GAME INTERPRETED AS A VICTORY

Superb Playing of Vandals Startles All the Northwest

BOLSTER UP MORALE

University and Squad Display Unexampled Sportsmanship

(R. L. H.)

The sensational showing of the superb Vandal gridiron machine against the University of Washington eleven at Seattle Saturday afternoon has wrought a phenomenal psychological effect upon the students and adherents of the University of Idaho that has never been exhibited during the four years I have attended the institution and which promises to not only give the university prestige in the Pacific Coast conference football fields, but which is indicative of some of the most laudable spirit that has ever emanated from the institution.

Despite handicaps on the field at Seattle and despite all other obstacles that seemed to impede that path of the silver and gold squad, which was doomed by every indication to meet a defeat of at least two or three touchdowns, our men fought the heavy Husky machine to a 2 to 0 victory, not only the closest score that was ever seen at the University of Washington stadium but a score that stood out from coast to coast in comparison with the results of other games played that day.

Ten Years Elapse

The first time in ten years the two universities had locked horns. All evidences pointed to an easy victory for the Huskies according to the "dope" that was forthcoming. But the score showed that not only had the Vandal machine been underrated in the northwest, in fact all over the country, but that even the student body and townspeople of Moscow had something to learn when the wearers of the varsity uniform went into a major contest.

As the plays were followed during the course of the battle the revelation unfolded and every loyal supporter of the university warmed up to the spirit of Idaho that can never be, and never has been duplicated by any other student body. Each report showed the strength of the Vandals who were, because of weight, forced to play a defensive game against great odds in weight. And each report, showing as it did, these qualities of the gridsters brought the students assembled at various places to hear the results of the game to their feet in rousing acclamations of joy and confidence over the adamant

Cougars On Top After Twenty-five Years Going

Friday will witness the twenty-fifth annual gridiron contest between Silver and Gold and our rivals across the line. During the last week the Argonaut bloodhound has nosed many weary hours in the dark archives of the Ad building basement, poking here and there amongst long forgotten, dusty and yellowed volumes of the Argonaut, and from them he has accumulated some little dope on past contests. The first game of which there is record in the Argonaut was played in Moscow sometime during the fall of 1894, and resulted in a victory for Pullman, 10-0. The next fall witnessed another Pullman victory, this time 10-0. It must have been a hard game, for no return contest was staged until 1899, when the Washington Staters repeated their 10-0 victory of five years previous.

But this is all dope—nothing but ancient history, and we aren't looking backward, but forward. It isn't what Pullman did to us fifteen years ago, or what we did to them ten years ago, but what we do next Friday that counts. Dope is no good anyway, says the Argonaut dopester, and a dopester should know. But just for good measure, here is some more, to hold for some reason there was no game you.

BONE-CRACKING

Last Friday witnessed the first contests staged under the new Intramural Athletic league. That the games from the spectators point of view were well worth while is beyond question, but were the games worth the price which some of the men who participated in them had to pay?

Football, properly coached and with the players in condition, is a game worthy of our backing, but football, when played without coaching and without the men hardened to the game is too expensive for us to sanction. A list of the casualties in the four games of last week end is astounding,—three broken noses in one game!—besides many bruises and sprains. Another game resulted in one player receiving a double fracture of the leg just above the ankle while a second man received a badly wrenched & cracked hip. In a third game a cracked shoulder and a broken toe were the results of forty minutes of play by the opposing teams. A list of black eyes and twisted backs would include, perhaps, more than eighty of the ninety odd men who took part in the four games.

The crippling of men is not sport, and unless there is some way to prevent the injury of the players it would be far better to call of the remaining football games and let the athletic situation wait until the basketball season with its less strenuous sport comes to the fore.

The University of Idaho and Moscow can feel extremely fortunate to be given the opportunity of hearing one of the nation's greatest singers in the university auditorium next week when Madam Clausen will appear here in an exclusive concert for an Idaho audience.

Every effort should be bent to turn out in force for the occasion. The prices asked, on a comparative basis, to what would be charged in any city of importance, are extremely reasonable, and are made possible only with the provision that every seat is filled.

The finest part of college life is that it brings us into closer touch with people who do things, and gives us the opportunity of appreciating the finer things of life, and when an opportunity comes to hear perhaps the outstanding concert singer in the northwest this winter, it is in compliance to a duty to ourselves that we take advantage of that opportunity.

Idaho's biggest game will be played this Friday on the home field, and the Idaho students will see for the first time in eight years the Cougars go down to an unmerciful defeat. So runs the general impression. Furthermore, the Idaho student body will of necessity get a strange hold on the third leg of the Harvard Yell Contest cup, which has already been won twice by the Idaho students.

Altogether, it looks like we are going to have quite a celebration on Friday.

TEXAS HAS UNIQUE SORORITY RUSH RULES

University of Texas, Oct.—(P. I. P. A.)—Before any bids are sent out to prospective members by sororities at the University of Texas the dean of women explains the history of the various organizations on the campus and gives the rushees an idea of the obligations of sorority members. This is an innovation. No rushing is allowed during registration week.

TO CONTINUE PLANS FOR SCHOLARSHIPS

The Union Pacific scholarship plan, which provides for the education and training of students, between the ages of 16 and 21, in the University of Idaho, who have passed certain grades and who have been awarded the championships in agricultural club work this summer in the various counties of the state, has been continued in force, according to advices received by Joel L. Priest, general agent at Boise for the Union Pacific railway system, from J. A. Reeves, general freight agent at Salt Lake.

Under this plan, the winning club member in each county of the state traversed by the O. W. R. & N. or the Oregon Short Line receives a $75 scholarship at the university, together with free transportation so far as his journey to and from the university is over one of these lines.

PREUSS CHOSEN HEAD OF WASH. CLUB

Charles Preuss of Tacoma was elected president of the Washington club at the first meeting of the year held Tuesday night, October 10, in room 217. Virginia McCrae of Seattle was named vice president; Betty Mount of Spokane, secretary, and Don Sutherland of Colfax, treasurer.

The Washington club is an organization composed of students from the state of Washington. At present there are 93 students from Washington registered in school. The purpose of the club is to encourage other students to come here from Washington and to support the school projects.

Dues have been abolished in order that every student from Washington may feel free to come to the meetings. The next meeting will be held on Tuesday, Nov. 7, at the Delta Gamma house.

The new Student Union building at the University of California will soon be completed, according to the story recently carried in the Californian. A book store, barber shop, cafeteria and soda fountain will be housed in this structure.

See Victory

Although the score showed a victory for the Washingtonians, no man or woman acquainted with the situation at Idaho failed to see in it a signal victory for the 1922 squad. All forecasts were shattered and all predictions upset for the year by the demonstration of ability made on that memorable day. With everything possible opposed to them, the Vandals shattered the prospects and brought home to all the realization that Idaho has one of the best teams ever and a coach of the same calibre.

The spirit that prevades the very atmosphere of the campus has been placed at par and the outlook brightened as was thought impossible before the game. But the spirit of sportsmanship that is deeper and beyond the spirit looking for victory is the more meritorious and the more lasting.

The breaks of the year were apparently against the University of Idaho because of unavoidable setbacks experienced in conference rulings, but the students and players and coach; all accepted calmly the decisions of the rulings that even threatened the fate of the squad and went into the battle with the best of sportsmanship although not very confident of victory. There was expressed on every hand the desire to fight the game according to the rules of procedure, be the results as they might.

Despair Looms

terial loomed as mountain of despair and even threatened to cast the shadow of gloom over the Vandal camp. Nevertheless, those persons responsible for the conduct of athletics here never wavered in the process of turning out the best machine possible and never faltered from the decisions of the conference that seemed to participate defeat. The fight was made gallantly and lawfully and the results have opened up a vista of hope. Even those players who were the hardest hit because of the unforeseen episodes that foredoomed apparent defeat have maintained an attitude of equilibrium and broadmindedness that speaks well, not only of them but the spirit of "Idaho Fights," as well. In spite of their own and the student body's dampened spirits they accepted the fate thrust upon them and earned the respect of every one in the institution and the conference as well.

Rainbow Appears

On top of all the difficulties and trials that have beset the paths of the Vandals, now appears the rainbow of hope and every loyal friend of the university is looking forward to a great game next Friday and to a successful year in all athletics.

The clouds have been dissipated by the exceptional, unthought-of fighting at the Washington stadium and the warm rays of the sunshine of opportunity for victory has cast its radiance upon every student, ever, friend and every acquaintance of the university.

The future games have not yet been won but there is a wide-spread confidence in the ability of teams and coach and a deep felt satisfaction by all that the games will be fought fairly and squarely, come what may.

PRESCOTT TAKES TENNIS HONORS

Defeats Wyman in A. S. U. I. Tournament In Four Sets — Shows Form Against Opponent.

Sunday p. m. at 2:30 tennis fans saw "Pete" Wyman defeated by Dan Prescott in the first round of the A. S. U. I. tournament. Prescott was at his best and won the first two sets easily. In the third set Wyman speeded up and won the set by two games. The fourth set was a series of fast games with Prescott playing an amazing game and Wyman playing tennis that has never been equalled on Idaho courts, with the exception of the winner, Prescott.

Both Wyman and Prescott are veteran players, and they have certainly proven their ability as racquetiers in the recent tourney.

In the semi finals Wagner was runner up to Wyman and Goldstone to Prescott. Wagner displayed his unusually consistent playing but was not fast enough for his opponent. Goldstone and Prescott played the most evenly matched contest of the tournament. Each set was evenly scored with Prescott playing a slightly better game. Goldstone is a player of no small ability and is surely deserving of some credit.

HIKING TAKES PLACE IN LIFE OF CO-EDS

Seventy-two Mile Mileage is Necessary for Membership in Club

The first meeting of the girls' hiking class was held Wednesday evening and Miss Vera Luse, hiking director explained the work for the coming semester. All hikes are to be conducted on schedule, the parties to meet at a given place and start promptly.

Members of the class, who wish to earn points toward membership in the Women's Athletic association may do so by participating in a sufficient number of these hikes. In order to make hiking a major sport, a mileage record of 72 miles must be made during a semester. This record must be made in at least eight different hikes, and no points are given for hikes other than those on the regular schedule.

The first of these will be short, the class meeting early in the morning and returning in time for eight o'clock classes. Later a series of long trips will be arranged with interesting social features, such as out-of-door breakfasts, mountain climbing, and all-day picnics in the woods.

When the snow comes the hikes will sometimes be turned into coasting parties or skiing expeditions.

CROSS-COUNTRY MEN WORK-OUT FOR MEET

Jerry Gill Takes Hold of Forty Aspirants Out For Place

Forty men are turning out each night for the annual intra-mural cross country race under the coaching of Jerry Gill. The men are gradually working into condition and under the skillful direction of Coach Gill they will be ready to enter the race which will be run within two weeks.

The race will be run over a two mile course which as yet has not been selected. Each team will consist of three men and no team can enter the race unless there are three men entered.

Select Team

The system of selecting the winning team is as follows: the first entry to cross the tape will count one point for his team. The second will count two points for his team and so on. The team scoring the least number of points will be declared the winner. A silver cup is the prize, offered by the intra-mural association.

Contestants who show up well in the race will be selected for the varsity cross country squad which is now in training for the big race at W. S. C., to be held sometime in November. In all probability Idaho will compete in the conference meet at Oregon sometime this fall.

May Award Sweaters

The intra-mural association is debating about adding an amendment to the constitution which will entitle all men who make the varsity team to an "I" sweater.

All men who are expecting to turn out for track in the spring will report to Jerry Gill as soon as possible for fall practice.

STANFORD TAKES STRANGE STAND

Scheduling of Eastern Games Calls Forth Conference Wrath

At the meeting in Portland, October 7, the Pacific Coast conference adopted resolutions of reprimand and forwarded them to Stanford university. The offence of which Stanford was guilty was in scheduling a game in the new Stanford stadium just two days before the annual east versus west intersectional game which tentatively at least was to have been played at Palo Alto. Stanford had told the summer meeting of the conference that the stadium could be had for a conference intersectional game, and then secretly negotiated a game with Pittsburg as early as August.

If Stanford's plan of action remains fixed, she will withdraw from the conference this year upon receipt of the reprimand. This will not mean a change in this year's conference schedule.

The whole question brings up the unwieldiness of the present conference. Stretching as it does from Moscow to the north and east and Los Angeles to the south and west, Idaho would have to travel almost 2000 miles to play Southern California. The suggestion that the two conferences, one in the north, the other in the south, with Stanford, California and Southern California and possibly Nevada be formed. Such an arrangement would interfere to no great extent in the scheduling of games and would certainly group the competing institutes far better as to conditions and temperament.

PUNTS and PASSES

By Slim Pickens

Idaho's chances looked slim for a victory last week, or for holding Washington down to a small score, especially after her unimpressive victory at Whitman of 3-0, made by the help of the talented toe of Fitzke. But today she stands as a strong contender for the Pacific Coast conference championship and schools who thought Idaho was a weak member have recast their dope sheets.

The close score of W. S. C. and Gonzaga also boosted Idaho's stock about 75 per cent in the forthcoming Idaho-W. S. C. struggle. The victory for W. S. C. was anything but impressive and according to statistics of the game Gonzaga made more yardage than W. S. C. which seems to indicate that W. S. C. has not the powerful machine that she has had in years past.

Famous lines.

- Idaho line.
- Tape line.
- Canadian line.
- Line of least resistance.
- Bread line.

Puzzle: What would the score have been with Fitzke in the lineup?

Not a substitute was used by Coach Mathews in the Washington game. This shows the remarkable physical condition of the men for an early season game.

Mac's protege's, the frosh team, hit a mighty stride when they triumphed over the heavier Cheney Normal team, 44 to 0. Stevens at guard played a heady and strong game, not a man getting through on his side. He broke through the line several times and nailed the runner before he had started.

CALVIN PEASE WINNER OF S. L. SCHOLARSHIP

Calvin Pease, of Weiser, Washington county, receives the first Union Pacific scholarship for this year, according to advices from the office of Dean E. J. Iddings.

The Union Pacific system recently announced a plan whereby a $75 scholarship in the college of agriculture would be awarded in each Idaho county traversed by a Union Pacific line. This award also provides railroad transportation to and from Moscow.

Scholarships are awarded to those ranking highest in boys' and girls' club work for 1922. The other appointments are expected within the next week.

Oregon received a setback when the fast Multnomah Athletic club team trounced over here to the tune of 20 to 0. Oregon's showing in the earlier part of the season had been well received and it was the expectation of grid followers that she would present a strong array against the larger teams. She plays Whitman next Friday at Pendleton and the results of this game will give Idaho's supporters a chance to see how she and Idaho line up.

Iowa's victory over Yale boosted the work of the western teams. Up until a few years ago it was thought that no one west of the Alleghany mountains could play football. Middle west and western teams can hold their own against any eastern eleven as has been proven time and time again.

The work of Kleffner at quarter, Captain Brown at half and Vesser at full was of high calibre. Breshears was shifted to end, a new position for him, but he played a heady and consistent game, nevertheless.

Excitement was at a white hot pitch during the eventful struggle at Seattle. College students, business men and school boys were rubbing shoulders to read the returns posted on a local candy store's window. There was a little anxious group waiting when the report said that Brown fumbled back of the goal line. The next message was delayed a little and speculation was rife as to whether a touchdown or a touchback had been scored.

IDAHO WILL NOT GET THE HARVARD TROPHY

Say Cougars, But University Studnets Disavow Claims

Will determination and hard work on the part of the Pullmanites wrest the victory from Idaho in the Harvard contest on Friday? The Evergreen thinks it will and is predicting that the cup will not make its home in Moscow.

Idaho has won a shield presented by the Harvard club of Spokane for two consecutive years and needs but one more victory to annex the cup.

The rooting section winning the contest must show itself superior in four qualities: yelling, singing, sportsmanship, and in the presentation of stunts.

Sportsmanship, according to Yell King Wyland cannot be overemphasized. W. S. C. showed Idaho exceptional courtesy, both at the football game and at the basketball games last year. Painting of the W. S. C. campus, fights and stealing of caps at the game are manifestations of poor sportsmanship and will be frowned on.

Where Quality is Dominant

Quality merchandise here is a fact—not a theory, nor a promise. It is well to remember this.

When you are in need of merchandise of one kind or another, it is well to stop for a moment and consider how a merchant procures his goods.

Some Merchants buy their goods from descriptions or from samples which, generally speaking, are superior to the merchandise itself. Most merchants, at the best, are in the market of the country only a few days each year.

With them, it is largely a matter of taking what they get or be content upon going without. There is no time to return the goods for another and better quality; hence, the public becomes the sufferer!

Not so in a J. C. Penney Company Store. Our buyers are constantly in the market, selecting reliable merchandise for our 371 stores. Our inspectors are constantly alert, weeding out any merchandise that fails to reach our high standard and for Quality.

FROSH PREPARE FOR BIG ANNUAL BONFIRE

Hold Peppy Meeting Wednesday to Transact Business

Three hundred freshmen met in the auditorium Wednesday evening for the purpose of discussing delayed business and several important issues. The meeting opened with some snappy yells led by Frosh Yell Duke Nelson. President Hanson gave an effective talk on the lasting qualities of class enthusiasm and on the responsibilities of members who were appointed on various committees.

Business that was brought up before the meeting is as follows: the choosing of a class advisor; appointment of the committee for the bonfire, a vigilance committee, affixment of dues; "eats" committee for bonfire guard and the election of a sergeant of arms. Sidney Yageras was chosen for the position.

Another meeting will be held sometime this week to decide definite arrangements for the bonfire.

LARGE CROWD TO GREET CLAUSSEN

TICKET SALE OPENS ON CONCERT BY WORLD FAMED SINGER OCTOBER 25

The ticket sale for Moscow people and students of the University of Idaho for the appearance of Mme. Julia Claussen in the university auditorium Wednesday night, October 25, started Monday morning at Hodgins' where the tickets are on sale and, where seat reservations are to be made. From the rush for tickets Madame Claussen will sing to a packed house in the auditorium.

Half of the tickets and the seats are being saved for the teachers who are to be in Moscow next week for the large teachers' institute. The appearance of Madame Claussen is one of the features of the coming teachers' meeting.

Madame Claussen is prima donna, mezzo-soprano of the Metropolitan Grand Opera company, the Chicago Grand Opera company, The Convent Garden Royal Opera, the Royal Opera company of Stockholm, and the Theater Des Champs Elysees. She is being brought to Moscow for the express purpose of singing in Moscow and Moscow alone.

Madame Claussen comes direct to Moscow from New York and returns to New York direct from Moscow.

Large Local Undertaking
The appearance of the world famed singer in Moscow is by far the largest undertaking ever made by university authorities. Madame Claussen is the highest priced singer that has ever been brought here and she is coming for the sole purpose of appearing here.

Madame Claussen is at present acknowledged to be in the foremost rank of the world's greatest singers. A native of Sweden, her fame is international. Her operatic and concert successes in America have been for so many seasons so unequivocal as to put her in a distinct class by herself.

World-Famed Singer

Press comments from all parts of the country furnish convincing proof of the singer's universal popularity and the admiration which she arouses. In the spring of 1919 Madame Claussen returned to her native land after an absence of five years to fulfill operatic and concert engagements. Then enthusiasm and warmth of her welcome was almost without precedent. Her appearance at the Royal Opera in Stockholm as well as in recitals in all of the principal cities of Norway, Sweden and Denmark were sold out weeks in advance and many additional concerts had to be given.

The concert on October 25 is to be the first of the annual Artists' Course offered by the university this year. Tickets will be sold for each event and reserved seats are to be made at Hodgins'. Notification of the opening of the seat sale for each event will be made. No season tickets will be sold this year.

Y.W.C.A. WORKERS TELL OF BIG OPPORTUNITIES

College Women Hear Noted Speakers at Monday Meeting

Talks on the scope of Y. W. C. A. work were given by the members of the Church team and by Miss Elsie Heller, field secretary of the Y. W. C. A. at a meeting Monday in the auditorium.

The church team, organized under the Federated Student Committee of New York City consists of representatives of the Episcopal, Presbyterian and Baptist churches. The Y. W. C. A. work was discussed under three heads, the work abroad, at home and in connection with the church.

Mrs. Edgar Burton, district college counsellor of the Baptist Women's Missionary League, spoke on "The Girl and the Foreign Field." In her talk Mrs. Burton outlined the work which the college women might do abroad and the service she might give.

"The Girl and the Home Field," was the subject of Miss Florence G. Tyler's talk. Miss Tyler especially emphasized the work which is being done by college girls during the summer in caring for the children of the migratory workers.

Miss Agnes Hall of New York City, student secretary of the Episcopal board, took up the third branch of her work, "The Girl and the Church." Miss Hall said in part:

"The Girl and the Church
"It may not be so thrilling to make your own home town a better place to live in as to go to foreign lands. But it is in your own home and on your own campus, that some of the greatest opportunities for service lie."

The concluding address was given by Miss Elsie Heller, the newly appointed field secretary of the Y. W. C. A.

"The Y. W. C. A. is yours to make it what you will," said Miss Heller.

Advantages of the Y. W. C. A.
"It serves to give you a share in the world movement for education and forms a bond between you and students who are making themselves leaders. There are 90,000 students in 769 colleges who find that the Y. W. C. A. means much in their lives—it may mean as much in yours."

These representatives left Monday night to continue their work at other Western universities.

ALL SET TO HANG OUT THE COUGAR'S HIDE

of play gave the Cougars a 10-7 victory over a team which in past seasons they have been able to wallop without much effort. Although this game permits an estimate of comparative strength between Idaho and Washington State there is no doubt that the annual game here will be as hard fought as any in the many years of athletic rivalry of the Vandals and the Cougars.

Last Victory in 1913
An Idaho collegiate eleven has not been able to win from Pullman since 1913, when a dropkick from midfield, the only score of the battle, recorded the last Idaho victory.

Ample accommodations are being provided for all alumni who plan to return to Moscow for the game this year. Temporary bleachers have been erected on the football field to handle the large crowd which will come from all sections of the state to see the Vandals unseat their old rivals.

Entertainment Plans Made

Students are asked to do what they should not be asked to do. Show the old graduates and former students the time of their lives. Take a personal interest in any older man or woman seen on the campus this week. Volunteer your services in showing them around. At the Athletic ball there will be old timers that dance just as well as ever. Let's have Idaho co-eds look forward to a dance or two with the students of former days and let's have undergraduates see that the alumni get dances.

Washington State will be at the game in full force. The old days of gang fights are a thing of the past. Remember they are just as proud of their college as you are of yours. Students of Idaho and W. S. S. cannot afford to duplicate the foolishness of former days. And remember that Washington State students are essentially the guests of Idaho on the Idaho campus. Fair treatment is accorded the Idaho man or woman on the Washington State campus. Let there be no reflection on Idaho's fair name in the way of rowdiness. Washington State is the guest of Idaho Friday with no diminishing of the desire, the necessity and the realization of an Idaho victory.

Do You Remember When

The Class Cut Rule was Passed?

THE CLASS
It was also just about this time last year when the faculty laid down the firm and gentle rule about no class cuts. It is a far cry from the good old days when we slept through our eight o'clocks to the up and at ten days of the present.

Just a year ago we were elating over our noteworthy victory over the heavy and aggressive Camp Lewis team. And we were also looking forward to the W. S. C. game, with expectation and doubt. And this year we are looking forward to it with expectation and no doubt.

THE NEW TRACK WAS STARTED

It was along about this time last fall when the plans for the improvement of the athletic field and track were completed. The track is nearing completion now, and when done it promises to be one of the fastest in the northwest.

And this is the song that the porters sing,
While the jungles wave in the moon,
And the dusky trailmen join the ring,
And the river-sprites copy the croon.

And the mocker laughs in the wood
The tribesman avenges his ancient score,
And the cobra's checker-striped hood,
Strikes like a poison dart.
And the Parakeet's call like a woman's scream
Shatters the night apart,
Where the firelight muffles its gleam.

TRACKSTERS IMAGINE TRAINING RULES

Track men who heard "Gub" Mix's talk in assembly last Thursday, wondered why they couldn't train under the same rules that were in force in the early days of Idaho sport. Before starting on the mile run, the man Idaho had entered was taken off to one side and given a few drinks of brandy. This was considered perfectly alright and was given with the hopes of making the Idaho entrant come in first.

But the effect gained was not puny. The first in the second the spectators noticed that the runner was stepping high and in the third the runner came and laid down in the dressing tent, and said, "Boys I can't see the track." His inability to keep to the track lost the race for Idaho.

Striking the low and the high alike,
Onward the hand of death,
On through the fragrant hills of Sike,
Where they camped in the valley of Seth.

A dinner will be given at the Moscow hotel on Saturday, October 21, for all alumni of the school who will be here for the game with W. S. C. It is expected that there will be more than 100 old grads here. Graduates and old students expecting to attend this dinner are requested to communicate with Dr. Einhouse or Dean French.

W. S. C. COMING OVER IN THIRTEEN CARS

W. S. C. has procured a thirteen coach train for Oct. 20, which will arrive here an hour before the game and will leave for Pullman some time that night. The exact time is not known.

The arrival of the special will be a big event on the twentieth and Pullman will be represented by a larger delegation than ever before.

NEW ORGANIZATION BOWS TO CAMPUS

There has been established a new and highly unofficial organization on the campus. So far little of its ideals and purposes have been divulged for publication. They are, however, of a much higher and more profound nature than the average unpublished ideal. It can be truthfully said that its ideals are perfectly ideal and rapidly becoming idealized.

The first blow out was held Monday night at nine o'clock, at which the officer, Chief Valve and Air Pump were, unanimously blown. A set of tires was vulcanized to blow up a constitution for the organization. Little or no leakage occurred at this first blow out. Much activity is expected from the organization in the future.

Are you flat and do you flatter?
Watch on the campus for such manifestations as the above which indicate the pervasive influence of this new and exclusive organization, "The Mystic Order of the Persian Flat Tires."

HUSKIES BEAT VANDALS WITH ONE SAFETY PLAY

This is not new in football. Thousands of games have been won and lost under such conditions. It was just a stroke of the hand of fate and could not be averted, even by the fighting grid machine that ever stepped on the sod.

Play Thrills Crowd
But it loosened the Washington stands, where thousands of Bagshaw's admirers had feverishly watched the battering of his big team. A mighty cry came from the stadium, but the echo of that cry will long be an empty ring in Washington ears.

Washington was predicted to be at least 14 points better than Idaho and with the weight advantage of 20 pounds to the man there was no reason to doubt but the Huskies were the favorite team. Idaho was conceded a "fighting chance" and there is no doubt but that the answer is well imprinted in Seattle football annals.

At one time or another during the game, every Vandal was individually responsible for saving the day. There was no individual honors to bestow, the team moved forward as one and as one turned the Huskies from their goal line. Washington, baffled at straight football, resorted to an overhead assault, but this too was matched by the Vandals. Red-jerseyed fighters would shoot high in the air in a group of two or three running Huskies and bat down a high hurl which seemed sure of finding its mark and leaving the receiver with an open field. Some things the Idaho players did against the Huskie team were phenomenal, but that is what any team will do in response to that mighty impulse which bids them fight for a double cause—the silver and gold, and their coach.

After the game the Washington players were discussing the various aspects of the game, incidentally admiring the plucky spirit of the Idahoans, when a lineman turned the conversation to the line's work.

"We always opened big holes," said one of them, "but that Hibe Brown seemed to think they were for him."

The details of the game were satisfactorily covered in the play by play report received by a special wire direct from the Washington stadium.

Aerial Play Threatens
Special mention, however, must be made of the dazzling aerial display which the Vandals loosened late in the game and threatened to march down the field for a winning touchdown. Stivers, quarter, was on the hurling end with Breshears, Kleffner and Cogley alternating on receiving. It was a brilliant array of passing ability and the Huskies were steadily pushed back until it seemed a touchdown would be made. But the 15-yard line, reached in that rally, was the high-water mark of the Idaho advance.

At the pivot position, Kline at center, with Goff and Neal at guards spoiled the famed line smash which was supposed to be a record breaker. Occasionally the Huskies would try to break through tackle when on the verge of making a touchdown, but on one end they would hit Hausen, and swinging would be knocked back by that old standby, Vohs. Beany Breshears and Cogley did a world of good for Idaho as ends and were a constant source of annoyance to the Washington backs.

In the backfield everything went like clockwork. Stivers generalled his team like the books tell how. Captain Brown distinguished himself in the manner pointed out above. Vesser and Kleffner, with their whirling, dodging tactics, were always in evidence on offensive work. The backfield cooperated and every man did his share on interference.

These were the eleven big heroes but on the benches were more, fighting side by side with their comrades, ready at any minute to step into action.

So it's all a tribute to that plucky team of ours, who are fighting, don't forget, fighting, their way to fame, and a team that displays the fight they did will never be "licked."

HORSE SENSE

THE ORIGINAL INSIDE NON-ELASTIC NON-SKID NO-CRAMP BELT

A COMMON SENSE trousers supporter without the disagreeable features of suspenders and the cramping and slipping of the outside belt. This supporter is worn on inside of trousers, four inches lower than the ordinary belt, thereby freeing the stomach from pressure and acting instead as a body brace.

Trousers are held evenly all around waist by means of flexible spring steel stays and the customary wrinkles and sags are eliminated. The hang of trousers is greatly improved; all hitching is done away with and appreciable sense of comfort and security accompanies the wearing of this belt.

By adjusting buckle in front trousers can be raised or lowered as desired. Webbing is non-elastic which makes it cool to wear and insures its durability. Belt can be washed when soiled as metal parts are nickel plated and will not rust. The outside belt can be worn for finish if desired and without cinching. A try-on will prove the above statements and make you an enthusiastic booster for DR. HAWKINS PRACTICAL INVENTION.

FROSH SCORE TWO WINS SAT.

Pile Up 44-0 Score Against Cheney Normal and Over 60 on Lewiston High the Same Day

The University of Idaho freshmen team added another feather to its cap last Saturday when they defeated the Cheney normal school at Cheney, Washington. Although outweighed several pounds to the man, the babes used their usual ground gaining tactics and when the final whistle blew they found themselves on the long end of a 44-0 score.

Aside from a few sensational end runs by quarterback Davis, there were no thrills and the first year men kept up a steady drive for one touchdown after another. Time after time the freshman backs plunged through the professor's line for big gains and time after time they circled the ends for 10 and 15 yard gains.

Complete Passes

The frosh attempted three forward passes and completed two of them. The normal school men were weak in the passing department and failed to complete one. They were plucky but didn't have a chance against the faster freshman outfit, and at no time was the yearling's goal in serious danger.

At the rate this year's freshman team is travelling if they don't get too cocky, they will hang up a worth while record and should furnish the Varsity with some good material for next season.

While the frosh first string were beating Cheney normal last Saturday, the second string men proceeded to take a fall out of the Lewiston high school team on McLean field. Due to the inability of the reporter to figure fast enough, an exact count could not be had, but the score was between 63 and 65 to Lewiston's goose egg. The biggest crowd of the season was out to see the youngsters in action and to get the dope on the Idaho-University of Washington game.

The second string men showed all kinds of stuff and had lots of zip and snap. They passed, ran around the ends, or tor through the line at will. Every man in the lineup played exceptionally good ball and the team made a very good impression on the crowd. While the Lewiston lads scrapped to the last minute, they didn't have a chance with Heintz's proteges. We would like to see the boys in action again.

BROSNAN SPEAKS AT OROFINO CELEBRATION

Professor Brosnan of the history department was the principal speaker at the Lewis and Clark celebration held in Orofino, Idaho, October 2-3. "The Americanism of the Western Pioneer," was the topic of his talk in which he told of the pioneers' fight to win Idaho. One of the most interesting facts brought out was that from the very beginning of Idaho's history the Stars and Stripes has been the only flag to fly over the heads of these early settlers.

The Lewis and Clark memorial was celebrated by the people of Orofino to commemorate the one hundred and seventeenth anniversary of Lewis and Clark's camp opposite of the Clearwater where they builded their canoes. The celebration was observed at Canoe camp, situated about four miles from Orofino upon the banks of the Clearwater. It is one of the historic points along the route of Lewis and Clark.

Several historical speeches were made, including talks by Nez Perce Indians. A monument of rough masonry has been erected on the spot and documents were sealed within it not to be opened for fifty years. "The people of Orofino realize they have a historical setting," said Professor Brosnan, "and are wise enough to advertise it in a unique way."

RHODES SCHOLAR WINS HIGH ENGLISH HONOR

Reed college, Portland.—(P. I. P. A.)—Frank Flint, first Reed man to receive a Rhodes scholarship to Oxford, has been awarded the Chancellor's prize for English essay. To the best of our knowledge, the prize has never before been given to an American, and is one of the highest honors open to any student of any college at Oxford.

ALPHA SOCIETY RE-ELECTS ELDRIDGE PRES.

Continue Plans for Petitioning Phi Beta Kappa

Dean J. G. Eldridge was re-elected president and Dr. George Morey Miller vice president and Professor Eugene Taylor elected secretary at a meeting of the Alpha society held in room 213 of the Administration building Thursday evening at 4:30 p. m. for the purpose of electing officers and discussing plans for the ensuing year.

Plans were also laid for a program of events throughout the collegiate year. The president was authorized to appoint a committee to arrange a banquet and initiation exercises for the new associate members sometime during the spring semester. Other events arranged for tentatively were the annual honorary group assembly in the spring and other meetings of the order the awakening of and perpetuating of a spirit in the fundamental principles of the society.

The matter of continuing the petition for membership in the national Phi Beta Kappa fraternity was soundly discussed and a decision reached favoring the continuation of efforts to receive such a charter from the parent organization.

The Alpha society is made up of some twelve or thirteen members of the Phi Beta Kappa and such associate members as the local organization shall deem worthy of membership. The society is operating upon practically the same standards as accurate a real Phi Beta Kappa and are working toward the end of establishing such an honorary organization on the campus of Idaho at the earliest possible date.

Associate members are chosen from the junior and senior classes in the college of letters and science. A student to be eligible must have a standing of 5.5 during the junior year or of 5.3 during the senior year of college work. In addition he must possess other characteristics that have been determined as essential. The Alpha society was organized at such early date as last spring. Prior to that time the Phi Beta Kappa of the university maintained a form organization among themselves. The new organization was more flexible in that it allowed for the taking of associate members that would eventually be eligible for Phi Beta Kappa.

N. P. OFFERS AID TO H. S. STUDENTS

The Northern Pacific railroad company, through the office of E. F. Benson, manager of the department of immigration and industry, has announced a plan for assisting and encouraging agricultural education in parts of Idaho served by its system. The announcement was made from the office of Dean E. J. Iddings of the college of agriculture following receipt of a letter from Mr. Benson.

The company, according to Dean Iddings, will send to the college of agriculture each year a five-man team from each Smith-Hughes high school in the part of Idaho served by its lines. This team will receive special training in agricultural subjects, but its special object will be stock judging competition.

Free transportation will be granted from the high school to Moscow and return.

The winning high school will select its three best men to compete in the Northwest Smith-Hughes championship judging contest at the Western Royal Livestock show at Spokane and the Pacific International at Portland. The railroad will reimburse the contestants for railroad fare from their high school town to the shows and return.

The first contest will be held here, October 21. Genesee, Lapwai, Coeur d'Alene and Moscow high school teams will participate. William Kerr, state supervisor of vocational agriculture will preside.

START ECONOMIC HONORARY HERE

New Organization With A View Toward Nation Fraternity Looms on Campus During Week.

Official faculty sanction of the new honorary economics fraternity, Alpha Sigma Gamma, was made by the faculty committee on organizations last Friday. The fraternity was organized last spring by thirteen students in the department of economics and political science, and it has as a prerequisite for admission a standing of "B" or better in all subjects carried in that department. It has as its object a higher scholastic standing in the department, and a study of economic and political problems not available in the regular courses.

In the near future a petition will be submitted to a national economics fraternity for a chapter. Mr. Schoonover of the economics department has been elected as faculty adviser. The charter members of the organization are Harold Barto, Walter Casebolt, George Dean, Al Fox, George Gahan, William Gartin, Jack Hasfurther, Ade Nelson, J. Cecil Nordby, Eugene Ostrander, Lewis Pritchard, Phil Rensburg and Eugene Zachman.

CO-EDS ROMP AT EXCLUSIVE PROM

"Uncles, aunts, sisters, cousins, Families by the tens of dozens." All turned out for the big co-ed Prom held in the gym Friday night. The scene reminded one of a typical country fair as they mingled about in the large crowd. There was our friend, Olie, who brought his "gal" soon to be known as "Mrs. Olie," and even Aunt Miranda came to the party in her "1776" model of attire. Of course it wouldn't be a party if Sambo and Diana didn't come with their southern tan. The frosh in each group house on the campus gave stunts.

A climax was reached when the presence of two impostors was discovered and the indignant co-eds engaged in a typical mob scene.

The dance was given by the home economics department, and the proceeds are to be used to send a delegate to the home economics convention at Burley, Idaho, in the near future.

THIRTIETH MEMORIAL EXERCISES ARE HELD

The assembly commemorating the thirtieth anniversary of the University of Idaho was held Thursday, October 12, in the auditorium.

Among those present on the platform were Gainsford P. Mix, J. A. Ramstedt, Judge J. H. Forney, Mrs. R. Belle Estes Carsson, Mrs. Bessie

GEM STAFF WILL BEGIN SALE SOON

Glenn R. Wilkinson, Business Manager Announces Drive for Subscriptions to 1924 Annual.

According to Glenn R. Wilkinson, manager of this year's Gem of the Mountains staff, the campaign for the advance sale of the Gem will start in approximately three weeks. At such times they propose starting a larger and more extensive campaign than any that has been carried on in past years.

The personnel of the staff will soon be chosen. A great amount of thought and deliberation has been used in choosing the staff for the coming year. Indications point to one of the most efficient staffs ever assembled on the annual staff.

Roberts Helm, Clifford Wilson, Charles Frazee, Mrs. Sterling Price Davis, Mrs. Jerome J. Day, Mrs. Nellie Carpenter Hall and Guy Wolf, many who were among the first 27 to register in the University of Idaho, and the remaining representatives of the members of the first enrollment.

Several of the returned graduates gave interesting accounts of the construction of the university, the first registration period, and other happenings of the earlier days. Mr. Mix in his account of the first athletic events at Idaho, quite won the audience with his descriptions of the annual football game with W. S. C., then known as the Washington agricultural college.

According to recent data the registration began on October 3, 1892, and the college held its first session on October 12, 1892. In the future, it is probable that the annual anniversary will be held on October 3.

There's a reason

"Give it back? I guess not!" he said, putting the picture in his vest pocket over his heart.

"Well, I think you're just the meanest thing!"

A minute or two later, they quieted down and despite the fact that she continued to coax him for the photo every few seconds, he carried it away with him.

She went to bed perfectly happy for she had had it taken especially for him, by Mr. Paschal at the Egan Studio on East Third St.
