

CO-ED DEBATERS APPEAR ON THUR. IN TRIAD CLASH

Meet Washington Duo Here In First All-Women's Debate Held in Many Years Here—Meet Whitman at Walla Walla.

The first triangular all women's debate held in this part of the country in many years will take place Thursday evening when co-ed forensic artists from the Universities of Idaho and Washington, and Whitman college clash on the question "Resolved: That a federal department of education as provided in the Sterling-Towner bill, should be adopted.

The University of Idaho affirmative team will remain at Moscow, where they will meet a negative duo from the University of Washington. The local debate is being called for eight o'clock, and unusual interest is being manifested by local students.

Accompanied by Dean Permeal J. French, the Idaho negative will go to Walla Walla, where they will clash with the Whitman affirmative the same night.

FROSH FAIL TO DOWN COUGARS

Lose Hard Fought Game Monday Night 33 to 24—Take Moscow High Into Camp Friday Night.

Inability to hit the basket when points were needed, lost the basketball game for the Frosh, Monday evening, to the heavier outfit from W.S.C. The final count was 33 to 24. The game was fast throughout, with the heavier team from across the state line having the advantage in speed and basket-shooting.

The game started with W.S.C. soon taking the lead and holding it for the remainder of the first half by a comfortable margin. The Frosh were unable to penetrate the defensive plays of the W.S.C. milkings and had to resort to long shots which were often wild. After several attempts at the basket, the Idaho men soon resorted to shorter, faster passes and worked the ball down under the basket and as a result held the small end of the score, 16 to 9, at the end of the half.

Opening the second half with a dash of speed and vim that seemed to sweep the larger boys off their feet, it looked as though the local team might full through and win, but good shots at the basket would roll around the rim only to fall outside.

The second frame was more evenly contested than the first half and with a break of the luck, the Frosh would have come home with the bacon. The Yearlings had more chances at the basket, but the men from across the line seemed to have a surer eye and made their attempts count as markers.

ISSUE ARGONAUT TWICE A WEEK

Feeling that student approval of the plan to issue the University Argonaut twice a week would unquestionably be forthcoming at the A.S.U.I. meeting tomorrow, the executive board last week granted to the Argonaut staff the privilege of publication twice this week.

This action was felt necessary so that the business staff, in arranging with their second semester contracts, both for the printing of the paper and for securing advertisements from local business men, could draw up definite specifications.

It is the plan of the Argonaut staff to issue the paper on Tuesday and Friday mornings, the papers to make their appearance on the campus at about eleven o'clock. Distribution will remain the same as in the past. Each student is urged to heed the request to take only one paper each issue—the one he pays for.

BARTON CONDUCTS TYPING EXPERIMENT

New System of Typing Being Studied By Psych. Department

The department of psychology is now conducting an experiment in typewriting similar to one given a year ago to students in the Moscow high school. The permission for this experiment was granted by the department of economics. The work of the students is supervised by Professor J. W. Barton, head of the psychology department.

The experiment itself consists of two groups of students, sixteen in each section, all of whom are either enrolled in the psychology course or have had it in the past. One of these groups works along the lines of the commonly approved method of teaching typewriting, and the other is instructed in a way devised by Professor Barton.

Different From Regular Course. The results obtained in these ways should not, however, be compared with the results of the regularly offered course in the institution. This experiment merely teaches the students how to operate the typewriter, while, in the regular course of training they are taught stencil-making, mimeographing, the use of the comptometer, and various other devices used in the handling of business.

The theory upon which Professor Barton bases his experiment is that

"SHORTY" FALLS — IS WISER NOW

Epic Short Story to Appear in "Nugget;" Posters Now Out; Drive for Subscriptions Begins.

"Yuh can't trust a one of them. They have a good time with yuh, until ye're head over heels in love, and then toss yuh aside like an ol' hoss," soliloquized Bill as he attempted to damp to newborn ardors of his friend Shorty, who showed signs of becoming somewhat overzealous because of the turn of events at an all-night session with the terpsichorean muse.

But Shorty deemed himself a wordly wise man and was prone to resent the advice of his experienced friend, Bill. In fact, matters assumed such a serious aspect that it seemed Shorty had been completely in the right, until—but that episode can be told to much better advantage in "The Nugget," literary magazine that will appear in print for the first time this month.

The story referred to here has all the earmarks of a typical Idaho story. The style is vigorous and western, the topic is universal, the scene is peculiarly Idahoan and the plot travels

COMING RECITAL GAINS ATTENTION MUSIC PATRONS

Paul Althouse Appearance Here Next Thursday Being Looked Forward to by Musical Patrons.

More than usual interest is being aroused here over the concert to be given next Tuesday evening, February 13, by Paul Althouse, dramatic tenor of the Metropolitan opera company, who is making a western tour at this time.

Althouse is acclaimed as one of the greatest American tenors of the present day, and has everywhere been given a great ovation. Together with Arthur Middleton, baritone who appeared here last season, Althouse gave a concert recently in San Francisco, which was acclaimed by the musical critic of the San Francisco Bulletin, as a "sensational, because of its wealth of tonal beauty, and is flawlessness of artistry."

Has Robust Voice. "The voice of Althouse belongs to the robust class, yet is equal to the demands of finest delicacy. His delivery is fluent, delicious, and always with a ringing, compelling quality," said the reviewer of the San Francisco recital.

Middleton and Althouse have just recently returned from an extended tour of Australia, where they were enthusiastically received. Althouse has been for eight years one of the leading dramatic tenors of the Metropolitan Opera company, and although hardly thirty years of age, has already achieved that degree of fame which marks his as far above the average opera singer.

Reserved seats for the concert next Tuesday are now on sale at Hodgins' Drug store. One dollar is the price being asked for the concert, including reservation.

Valentino Marriage Is Cause U.S.C. Excitement

University of Southern California, Los Angeles, (P.I.P.A.)—Rodolph Valentino was legally married to Winifred Hudnut about the fourth of February, while the U.S.C. Trojan issued its razz edition at about the same time. The world and the razz number have one thing in common—they both love a lover and treat him fine, so that it was perfectly fitting that Mr. Valentino and his bride should receive the felicitation of the special issue.

Some agitation has been made locally to move Valentino's day back to the fourth of February—instead of the present fourteenth—and call it St. Valentino's Day. This would doubtless carry if only the women voted, but the men might turn it down. The measure will be put up to the California State Legislature by the Trojan, and in the event it carries, the Rodolph-struck campus will cut classes and burn incense (no the Hudnut brand!) to their patron saint.

WOMEN'S AMENDMENTS OFFERED TO STUDENTS

The amendments offered by several Idaho women to the recodified constitution as submitted recently by the A.S.U.I. committee, are printed as given to the Argonaut, below:

To amend Article VII, Section 1, to read: Athletic, Argonaut, debate, glee club, Pep Band manager, Gem of the Mountains manager, Girls' glee club manager and women's athletic manager.

To amend Article VIII, Section 2, by adding a new paragraph, No. 7, to read: The girls' club manager shall be required to furnish a bond of $250.00.

To amend Article VIII, Section 2, by adding a new paragraph, No. 8, to read: The women's athletic association

RECODIFICATION TO BE SETTLED WED.

Final decision on the recodified student body constitution as reported by the general committee recently, and later amended, will come up before a student body meeting called by President Lynn Hersey for tomorrow morning, at the regular assembly hour. At this time the entire recodification provision will again be brought up for final approval or rejection by the students.

Great inconvenience has resulted from the fact that some definite action was not taken before the opening of the new semester, and it is imperative that definite action be taken at this time, so that no further difficulties will arise in regard to several financial matters concerning the student association.

WOULD TRAIN PEACE OFFICERS AT U. OF I.

Sixteen Colleges to Enter Ninth Corp Area Meet

Institution of a school of criminology at the state university for training peace officers to become expert criminologists, more stringent statutes and penalties for carrying concealed weapons, the grouping of juveniles, of all ages, and other measures will be proposed in bills before the present Idaho legislature, according to Sheriff James D. Agnew, who returned Tuesday from the Portland convention of sheriffs and peace officers. Boise will be the convention city for the association of northwest sheriffs in July, 1924, and Vancouver, B. C., July, 1923, he added, says the Idaho Statesman.

Sees Need of Training. Regarding the proposed school for criminologists at the University of Idaho, the Ada county officer explained that it has been shown that an efficient peace officer needs four years' training and that such a man is far superior to the man placed in office at a change of administration and then succeeded two years later by another untrained man.

Concerning the concealed weapons measure, he said that support was growing for an added penalty for bootleggers and moonshiners caught with a weapon and cited instances of such cases.

"IF" CHOSEN FOR UNIVERSITY PLAY

Book Put on Reserve in Library—Will be Given In March.

"If," by Lord Dunsany, has been chosen as the all-university production for this year. This will be staged about the thirtieth of March, the week preceding the spring vacation, in the University auditorium.

Any student in the University will be eligible to try out for "If," and it is urged that all those with any dramatic ability at all should do so. Those trying out should read the play, copies of which will be put on reserve Wednesday in the library, and then leave their names with Professor Cushman to arrange for try-outs. It is advisable to arrange for these right away, for as far as possible the cast will be picked by Saturday, February 10.

University of Southern California, Los Angeles, (P.I.P.A.)—New training quarters next year for the athletes of the University of Southern California were decided upon by the local athletic committee last week. The building, which will cost $25,000, is to be built during the summer vacation and will take care of football, track and baseball players.

SECOND SEMESTER ACTUATES NEEDS

Expect Slight Increased Enrollment This Week; Will Increase Discomfiture Due to Lack of Buildings on Campus. Laboratory Facilities Especially Lacking As Second Term Starts.

MUCKERS' BALL IS BIG HOLIDAY DANCE

With a world of pep and go the Muckers last Saturday night staged their annual dance. The walls of the university gymnasium were hung with canvases so painted as to represent the buildings along the street of a pioneer mining town. Old clothes were the order and the crazy, patchy costumes of the dancers, added much to the merriment of the crowd which filled the floor.

FORMER GRADUATE IS UNIVERSITY VISITOR

Claude W. Gibson, One of Starters of Argonaut, Visits University.

Claude W. Gibson, well known Boise attorney, and a University of Idaho graduate in the class of 1901, was a University of Idaho visitor Sunday and Monday, transacting private business and renewing old acquaintances. Mr. Gibson has always been a staunch university booster. It was through his efforts that the annual Armistice day football games came to be an established tradition both here and in the south, and for three years he has been manager of the fall classic.

Mr. Gibson was the first southern Idaho student to attend the university, starting his work here in the preparatory school in 1895. Together with Guy Wolfe, Moscow attorney, and a third party, they started the University Argonaut as a monthly publication, with Burton L. French as its first manager. The second year Mr. Gibson took over the financial reins, and inaugurated the paper as a weekly. It is significant at this time, that beginning this week, the Argonaut will be published twice a week on the Idaho campus.

Charter Member of Local. Mr. Gibson was one of the charter members of Kappa Phi Alpha, local fraternity which later became a member of Phi Delta Theta national fraternity. Sunday evening he was initiated into the national organization by the local chapter, which Mr. Gibson considered a distinguishing honor.

SHORTHAND COURSE GIVEN THIS SEMESTER

The course in Gregg shorthand given by Miss Barbara Gamwell will be repeated the second semester, according to announcement by the department of economics. This is a three-credit course, open to all students in the school of education and to juniors and seniors in the other schools and colleges. This course was intended especially for teachers. Its catalogue number is 50A.

PLAN COMBINATION OF PUBLICATIONS

University of California, Berkeley, (P.I.P.A.)—Planning complete centralization of the numerous campus papers and magazines with respect to financial and advertising affairs, the former editor of the Daily Californian assumed responsibility of the new office of A.S.U.C. publications manager.

A confusion which has been felt in keeping books of each publication individually promises to disappear under the new system. Under the new plan of united action in buying and letting of printing contracts on a large scale under the direction of the manager more favorable purchases will be obtained and prices on materials lowered.

BIGGEST HANDICAP IN LAB. SCIENCE COURSES

Overcrowded Laboratories Must be Jammed Still Tighter.

With a complete readjustment of classes necessary at the opening of the second semester the overcrowded condition existing at the university becomes more apparent. Records from the registrar's office show that a slight increase, possibly 50, will mark the opening of the second half of the year's work. Although this increase is light compared to those at the fall registrations during the last few years, it is sufficient to confront the university as a serious problem in connection with the efficient handling of such a large student body. The regular collegiate enrollment for the first semester was announced at 1235.

The re-adjustment of classes will involve the utilization of every additional inch of space on the campus and in many cases offices are being converted into classrooms. The axe has fallen on the Argonaut and after being moved twice this year, has finally been shoved out into the cold without any office at all. Last year the university paper had an office in the basement of the Administration building but that has since been turned over to the military department for a rifle gallery. The paper had no sooner located in a room on the top story of the same building when notice was served that the space was needed for a new class starting the second semester. Until a new corner is found or made available the student paper will be without an office.

Lab Space Tight. More significant, however, is the condition existing with regard to laboratory space. In a report to the state board of education in October, 1914, the president of the university noted the need for additional laboratory and recitation space at the university. At that time there were 403 students registered in the laboratory sciences and in the eight years to October 15, 1922, the number of registrations had jumped to 1535.

While the registration in these sciences have jumped 280 per cent, the instruction space has been increased but 6 per cent. Conditions in most of the laboratories are so crowded that efficient work is almost out of the question. In many of the more popular courses it is impossible to handle all of the sections during daylight hours and as a result night classes are necessary. These night sections not only result in unnecessary light bills, but are inconvenient to both the students and faculty members.

The 6 per cent increase in space represents the south wing of the Administration building, constructed with a state appropriation made available in 1917.

INCREASED SPACE AND ENROLMENT

The Argonaut is glad to note that the people of the state of Idaho are pointing with pride to the remarkable growth of the university. We believe that in any state progress is reflected in the forward steps in the institutions of higher education.

The university has grown like a weed during the last few years and having reached the limits of the enclosure, is suffering from an acute attack of growing pains, which can be alleviated only by providing more room for expansion.

We realize the economic condition in the state and are familiar with the broader aspects of the problems confronting Governor Moore and his administration in their commendable attempts to lighten the burden of the taxpayers. There are, however, many cases where expansion can be halted in the name of economy with very retrogressive results. Such is the university's case.

A new science building or additional space of some sort is necessary if the institution is to continue its upward march of progress, so plainly visible during the last few years. The maximum seems to have been reached and at present classrooms and laboratories are crowded far beyond all possibility of efficient work. Even the slight increase recorded this second semester makes the shoe fit a little tighter.

The students and faculty have bravely faced the situation so far but the crisis has been reached and unless help arrives the university will not be able to admit any more students. This will mean that next year's increase, which should be comparable to those realized the last two years, will be turned away—some will enter institutions in nearby states while others may even abandon hopes for a college education. The university will be blamed for neglecting a sacred duty to Idaho's sons and daughters—should it be so?

Idaho is one of the few northwestern institutions which can show such a remarkable growth during the last few years. In 1917-18 the aggregate enrolment of the institution was but 592 but today it stands at 1568, with a possibility of at least 200 additional students being added through various channels during the remainder of the college year. The enrolment is divided as follows: resident courses, 1235; non-resident, 81; special courses, 69; and summer school 183. The second semester registrations will probably bring the resident enrolment up to about 1285, as an increase of at least 50 is being anticipated.

While the university of Idaho has been growing by leaps and bounds the other institutions seem to have been building. As a result Idaho is now overcrowded and the other schools have adequate space for continued increase. The comparative figures for educational buildings show that Idaho has not invested as the neighboring states have done.

These figures are quite significant and are being given considerable mention: by the press of the state. During the last 10 years the University of Washington has spent $1,545,500 for capital additions; Washington State college, $670,000; University of Montana, $175,000 (now expending $1,500,000); Montana Agricultural and Mechanics college, not known; but now expending $1,500,000; Oregon Agricultural college $1,410,000; University of Oregon $1,032,000; University of Utah, $667,000; Utah Agricultural college, $460,000; University of Wyoming, $633,000; and University of Idaho, $206,000, and not expending any at the present time.

The first semester is past. Everyone of us who didn't get the grades which we thought we should have gotten, or thought we deserved, will probably renew the pledge made last fall to "really make some grades this term." The question is, will we? Ten to one we won't.

BUBBLES

In another column of our worthy contempt, The Argonaut, you will find the brazen announcement that there has been organized, petrified, commenced and severally motorized none other than one new fraternity. The announcement in itself would not excite the hunger of an underfed co-ed (you know they are never hungry), but after Bub has thoroughly explained, elucidated and meditated on the merits of this marvellous group, you may be interested.

After several meetings of the executive committee and board of directors it was voted that the order would hereinafter be known as "The Gentlemen of I Nu A Theta." Membership in this fraternity is made by petition, request or inquest. One must present credentials to the effect that he has obtained D honors, is conversant with the Markiss of Gooseberry Rules governing davenport calesthenics, must have had at least one sneak date with church, and must prove to the examining board that the Arboretum is a place and not a condition.

The initiation is very solemn and quite lengthy, involving several malted milks and a whole mince pie. Ye ed. forbids from us naming the charter members but we grant that you are blessed with a huskie imagination.

Now that spring has opened up all the lounge lizards are being initiated into that old order, "Ye Knights of the Garter."

The next time she tells you your conversation is as clear as mud, remind her that mud covers the ground. Not so dirty—huh?

If the heat from a kiss kills the bugs, as we have been told, what are all the chapped lips?

As you all know, this Bubbles junk is quite the weeds—a lot of bunk. But it doesn't worry Bub—you bet, He isn't paid—at least—not yet.

The other day I felt Chivalrous so I brought A young lady up the Hill in my Ford And when she stepped out She asked "how much?" And I'm still wondering.

Dame Rumor has whispered that red turkish bedroom slippers are the latest surprise gift. The donor is maintaining a secret.

What would you do if an A.S.U. meeting would go into a committee the whole and some careless person would pull the 'whole' in after you?

As a suggestion, why couldn't an expert sardine packer be employed in the athletic department to handle the seating arrangement of the basketball games.

But such a proposition would drive a sardine packer to drink. Boy, bring on the anchovies!

Well, that's that.

along in a short story fashion that by using the minimum words, paints in the largest possible picture some of the homely episodes of cowboy life.

Another article of especial charm to those acquainted with campus life, and to many who are not, is a short, humorous essay which portrays the most noticeable characteristics of the singer "across the hall." It depicts in gentle, satirical tone the aspirations, longings and hopes of the suffering individual on the other side of the hall.

Cats, too, figure in the contents of the new magazine. These feline creatures are generally considered in connection with zoology—it may have been there that the writer of a rhymed dialogue on that subject received his inspiration. At any rate the adventures of tabby in the next eight lives after the first, as told in "The Nugget," will stir the reader to the unconcern that a cat generally devotes to any one of the innumerable number of lives to be endured.

Nearly Ready for Press.

"The Nugget" is practically ready for the press now and will be ready for distribution during the last week of February. The editorial staff has gathered sufficient material for a 40-page magazine and the managerial staff has launched the vanguard of an advertising campaign that is hoped to make the sale of the production successful.

The first canvass for subscriptions began today. A committee consisting of representative students at the various houses and from the different cups has been selected to aid in the task of signing up the students and others for subscriptions. "The Nugget" is to be sold on the campus at the rate of 50 cents for the five issues to be published this spring 25 cents a single copy. Additional pies by subscribers will cost 15 cents.

To Contain 40 Pages.

According to the details as worked out to date, "The Nugget" will be a page magazine with an attractive cover printed in two colors and on a good grade of book paper that will place it among the best literary magazines put out by any of the colleges and universities.

"The only obstacles that could be in the way of the magazine now would be the failure of the student body to endorse it fully," state those in charge of the publication.

QUIT SCRATCHIN' ME.

University of Nevada, Reno, (P.I.P.A.)—The Junior class has announced its intention of holding a three weeks' "Whiskerino" contest, to begin sometime during the coming week. If the plan is carried through, Gillettes will be formally abolished, and the campus men will go unshaved for twenty-one days. At the end of the period, a '49 dance will be staged, and prizes awarded the winners. It is thought likely that the contest will be thrown open to co-eds also.

The eternal triangle:
 Washington defeats Idaho; Idaho defeats O.A.C.; O.A.C. defeats Washington.

Although the trip was one of ups and downs, the men that represented Idaho fought in every minute in every game. Critics have nothing but praise for the work these men did.

Perhaps no one but the men themselves know what a gruelling grind it is to play every night and travel every day. That is what the Vandals did on the trip. And, as experts concede, basketball is the hardest game on endurance, wind and strength, the men should be praised for their showing.

Telford, Fox and Edwards showed up consistently in every game on the trip. Nelson and Thompson, when going, also showed up. Its such an evenly matched team that it is hard to pick out stars.

Squinty Hunter is developing a good scoring combination in the Frosh team. Stevens perhaps shows up to the best advantage, playing a stellar game in the fracas with the Potlatch A. C. He caged seven baskets and kept the opposing forwards from making but a few tallies.

Benny Keane has showed up like the calcium glare in practice. He is not eligible until next semester when he should give Mac excellent help by his speed in covering the floor and his ability to shoot markers.

A report is out that Frank Sommer, former Penn halfback and coach of the Mare Island Marines will accept the position of coach at W.S.C. He is back in Philadelphia resting, and will make his choice in a few weeks.

"Greasy" Neal, who coached the President at Washington and Jefferson the past two years, and who had to resign as coach because of the poor showing the Presidents made this year, has accepted the head coach position of football and baseball at the University of Virginia.

Andy Smith at California uses a system that brings success. That is the opinion of coaches and football followers. He built up a wonderful system at Berkeley. If a man is lax in his studies the senior committee helps Andy out by coaching the player. No man is allowed to lag behind in his studies at any time. If a man makes a bobble in a game he is not severely reprimanded, but is encouraged and is given an opportunity again. Coach Smith uses the same tactics as does McGraw, who raises a player's salary for fumbling a high fly which lost the world's championships to the Giants. Smith believes that psychology plays a big part in successfully developing a player. He does not yank a man who makes a bobble, for the next time he is sent in to start the game, he will have the fear of being yanked again for some slip, and as a result never plays his best.

Princeton seems to have the Intercollegiate basketball championship dangling from her belt again. With practically the same team that walked away with the honors last year, she has won every game this season by comfortable margins and has won from Penn, Columbia and Dartmouth, the strongest contenders. She has won eight straight this season.

ONE THIRD W.S.C. GIRLS MAKE MONEY AT SCHOOL

Washington State College, Pullman, (P.I.P.A.)—Out of the 725 women students enrolled here, approximately 30 per cent are earning at least part of their expenses while attending school. Of these, 28 per cent are doing stenographic work for the various departments of the college and the other 62 per cent are engaged in other work, such as library and working in private homes.

VARSITY PLAYERS GIVE GOOD SERIES OF PLAYS.

The play was first given was reproduced excellently in the colorful costumes, unusual setting and remarkable lighting effects. The idea set forth in this play is characteristic of Floyd Dell as is shown by a comparison of his various works. His philosophy states that it is not right for two people of such radically different temperaments as the stolid king and the fanciful princess to be thrown together in life. His kindly satire is shown from time to time in speeches of the gypsy who seems to utter the author's own ideas.

The two scenes from "My Lady's Dress," called for some very real dramatic ability, especially in the last few minutes when the tension was stretched almost to the breaking point. In spite of the humorous dialogue and witty repartee which went to make up the play, there was a very serious, almost tragic undercurrent running through it. It is the same old story of the girl in the working world who is expected to do most anything and everything by an unreasonable and heartless employer. This was a society play and the characters rose to the occasion by wearing the most beautiful gowns that Moscow could afford.

"The Rider of Dreams" was not so interesting as the first two, largely because of the long speeches which characterized the play. The interest was centered in the plot which consisted of several darkies, a banjo and a kindly old uncle who stepped in at the last minute and forced his nephew to work. There was very little of human interest or characterization in the play itself.

GENERAL ELECTRIC CO. GIVES GRADUATE WORK

M. M. Boring, assistant director of industrial relations of the General Electric company, visited the campus last Thursday in interest of the company regarding the graduate course offered to engineering students.

The General Electric company, with several other electric companies, are offering a graduate course to the graduating engineering students of universities in all parts of the United States. The General Electric company is after the best men in each university. At the present time the company has offered this course to four men in the graduating class of this year. Eric Anderson, one of the men who will take the graduate course, will leave as soon as the semester examinations are over to begin work with the General Electric company February 19.

Four Men From Idaho.

At the present time there are four men connected with the General Electric company who have graduated from the engineering course of the university. They are: O. W. Hupplo, who is assistant superintendent of the commutator department; W. T. Copeland, who is foreman of the electrical equipment testing department; T. G. LeClair, and C. K. Heer, '21, who are in the testing department taking the apprentice course.

Mr. Boring spoke very highly of the men who have graduated from the university and are now in the employ of the company. H. E. Weston, class of 1917, took the General Electric company's course and is now located with the Idaho Power company, Boise, Idaho.

This year the General Electric company will take into their employ some 400 men who graduate from universities this spring. The course offered by the company takes from one year to fifteen months to complete. Many electrical companies depend upon the General Electric company to furnish them with employees. While the students are in the employ of the company they receive from $105 to $135 per month, as well as getting practical experience for their future work.

Women's Athletic Association.
 To add a new Article, as follows: Article XXIII, Section 1. The Women's Athletic association shall be an official organization of the A.S.U.I., devoted to the best interests of the University of Idaho. It shall be known as the Department of Women's Athletics.

Section 2. The Women's Athletic Association shall be under the control of a manager, who shall be elected by the student body in the same manner that all other student managers are elected. She shall be governed by the same regulations as other student managers of departments and shall have the same privileges as accorded to them.

Section 3. The candidates for the managership of the Women's Athletic Association shall be nominated from the Association by the regular members of the Association.

By-Laws.

To amend the By-Laws by adding a new section, No. 9, to Article III of the said By-Laws, as follows: The A.S.U.I. shall collect from each undergraduate women student at the time of registration the sum of twenty-five cents ($0.25) for Women's League dues. The treasurer of the A.S.U.I. shall allocate these funds to the treasurer of the Women's League as soon as possible after registration closes.

In teaching, a student should be required to perform tasks as nearly as possible in the same way in which they are to be used when the learning is accomplished. Professor Barton believes that much of the drill now used in acquiring skill is a waste of time and energy, and that his method will prove to be more rapid and more simple.

The experiment will continue until the end of the second semester. Up to the present the results of both groups have been excellent.

the Moscow high school quintet played on the high school floor, by the score of 32 to 30. The game was rough and rather uninteresting. Personal fouls were many and during the last few minutes of play, Stevens and Talbot, Frosh men, were taken out, with the Freshmen leading by eight points. The high school seemed to gain speed after this and evened the count, when with but a few minutes to play the Frosh dropped in the Stillman G..... Weingarten extra basket, winning the game. Idaho scoring: Cotter; 4 Talbot, 2; Stevens, Stillman and Talbot started Stillman, 18. W.S.C.: Morgan, 6; Nolan; 15 Allen, 4; Horn, 6; Friel, 2. high school star of the evening.

DENIS PAPIN'S STEAM CYLINDER

They Weighed Air— and Charles II Laughed

SAMUEL PEPYS says in his diary that Charles II, for all his interest in the Royal Society, laughed uproariously at its members "for spending their time only in weighing of air and doing nothing else since they sat."

This helps to explain why Charles has come down to us as the "merry monarch." The Royal Society was engaged in important research. It was trying to substitute facts for the meaningless phrase "nature abhors a vacuum," which had long served to explain why water rushes into a syringe—the commonest form of pump—when the piston is pulled out.

Denis Papin had as much to do as anyone with these laughable activities of the Royal Society. Papin turned up in London one day with a cylinder in which a piston could slide. He boiled water in the cylinder. The steam generated pushed the piston out. When the flame was removed, the steam condensed. A vacuum was formed and the weight of the outer air forced the unrestrained piston in!

Out of these researches eventually came the steam engine. London talked of the scandalous life that King Charles led, and paid scant attention to such physicists as Papin, whose work did so much to change the whole character of industry.

The study of air and air pumps has been continued in spite of Charles's laughter. In the General Electric Company's Research Laboratories, for instance, pumps have been developed which will exhaust all but the last ten-billionth of an atmosphere in a vessel.

This achievement marks the beginning of a new kind of chemistry—a chemistry that concerns itself with the effect of forces on matter in the absence of air, a chemistry that has already enriched the world with invaluable improvements in illumination, radio communication, and roentgenology.

CHAMPION TEAM OUT OF QUESTION

Losing W.S.C. Game Puts Idaho Hopes for Another Championship Title in the Dim Future.

The Idaho Vandals, it would appear, are now hopelessly out of the race for the conference title, with every indication pointing towards the Oregon Lemon-Yellow quintet walking away with that honor unless stopped by some team which as yet has failed to show its true strength.

Had the Silver and Gold hoopsters been able to hand the Pullman Cougars the same sort of welcome at their first meeting that they gave them when they played them on the Idaho floor, things would have still held a rosy tinge. By dropping that first game, however, the best that can be hoped for will be a tie for second place.

Triangular Battle On.

Washington, Oregon, Oregon Agricultural college are the three which will battle it out for the title in the northern half of the Pacific Coast conference. In the south, the University of Southern California seems to have it all its own way, and managed to hand the California Bears a severe drubbing last week at Los Angeles. Stanford is putting up a hard scrap, and can not yet be counted out of the race.

The big fight, though, will take place in the north during the next two weeks, when the Oregon and O.A.C. teams take to the road. Either one or the other team will surely lose its advantage, and the best of the two will probably go to bat with the Washington Huskies for the northern flag, with indications pointing towards Oregon being the lucky one.

PROSPERITY HELD FOE TO FOOTBALL

Passing From Amateur to Professional Stage Feared By Critic.

"The greatest problem facing intercollegiate athletics, and especially American football, is whether it can withstand the adversities of prosperity," says Kay Lyman Wilbur, president of Stanford University. "We have seen sport after sport pass from the amateur to the professional stage, with the consequent gambling, sharp practice and general cupidity. Can we keep our college sports clean and wholesome? There is no debate between the educational institution and widespread sound athletics. The disputes begin where the abuses come in—they must have a balanced life, there must not be too much of any one thing, no matter how good it is in itself.

"The modern trend of American sports has been too much toward the public spectacle. If not carried too far, there is great advantage in interesting every one in good amateur athletics. It helps to stimulate our youth to wholesome physical living; but amateur sport must not become a series of Orpheum stunts. The greatest danger that football faces today is that it will develop so that only preparatory school stars can make teams. Any college sport that does not make it easily possible for the green freshman of proper physique, who is given proper training, to make the varsity team within two or three years is on the rocks.

"All college games must be kept so that men can learn the game while in college. Widespread participation in all forms of sports on the part of every student is now the order of the day. Competition of an intramural or local sort is good for everyone.

Sports Nationalized.

"The great improvement in transportation, the decreasing provincialism of our country is leading to a nationalization of our college athletics. It, like most good things of life, must be taken in moderation, because of the time consumed.

"In short, we must bring our athletic program right into our general educational scheme, and not require more than an average of two hours per day of the participants in our contests if we wish to see harmonious development side by side of physical and mental training."

W. S. C. GETS NEW HONORARY FRAT.

Washington State College, Pullman, (P.I.P.A.)—Word has just been received that Washington State has just been granted a charter by Tau Beta Pi, national honorary engineering fraternity. The petitioning group is composed of 26 students and three faculty members and was organized for the express purpose of petitioning Tau Beta Pi.

Tau Beta Pi is the largest of the honorary engineering fraternities and its members are selected on a scholarship basis only. It was founded at Lehigh University in 1885. Chapters are installed only in colleges and universities of recognized merit in the engineering world.

RIFLE TEAMS SHOWING CLASS IN RECENT WORK

Preparing to Enter Ninth Area Match This Coming Spring.

Competitive shooting is being held in the new indoor rifle range, equipped by the military department in the basement of the Administration building, to select rifle teams that will represent the University of Idaho in the unit corps area indoor rifle meet.

More men are turning out daily and a keen interest is being developed, which means keen competition for a place on the team, states Captain Lloyd, in charge of the rifle practice of the R.O.T.C.

Practically every unit of the ninth corps area, of which the University of Idaho is a member is preparing to enter the match this spring. The meet last year was won by the O.A.C. team, which scored 5573 out of a possible 6000.

Many Schools in Ninth Corps Area.

The ninth corps area of the R.O.T.C. is composed of the University of Idaho, University of California, University of Southern California, Washington State college, University of Washington, University of Oregon, U. of O. Medical school, University of O. Medical school, North Pacific Dental college, Stanford, University of Wyoming, University of Nevada, Pomona college, Utah agricultural college, Montana A. and M. college, California Institute of Technology, and University of Montana.

SOMMER MAY ACCEPT W.S.C. COACHING JOB

Former Marine Coach Offered Vacancy Left By Welch

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 29.—Frank Sommer, former Penn halfback and coach of the Mare Island marines, arrived in the city and will confer with officials of a small eastern college about a coaching job which has been offered to him. He has an offer from Washington State college of Pullman, Wash., to coach, taking Gus Welch's place. He is undecided about the western school and came east to look over the offer made to him here.

Since Gus Welch resigned from the coaching job at Pullman, several coaches have been had in view to take the reins and produce a winning combination. Frank Sommer has had a wonderful record with service teams, his strong Mare Island team giving several of the schools and clubs close shaves this past season. He lost most of his good players who were transferred to Quantico, Va., in order that they might play against the Third Army corps. As yet no word has been given out by the State college authorities as to who will coach there next year.

ILLINOIS STUDENTS FORM SUICIDE CLUB

A new organization at the University of Illinois is the "Suicide Club," with headquarters in the Chemistry building. The membership of the club is at present limited to four men, all of who are working on an experiment which is either extremely poisonous or sensitive to combustion. One is working on the sublimation of arsenic trichloride, another is delving into the mysteries of the catalytic combustion of hydrocarbon gases, a third is experimenting on the preparation and properties of silver iodide, while the fourth is investigating the electrolytic decomposition of brasses.

GRADS HOLDING MANY OFFICES

Eighteen Former Idaho Students Elected to Important Positions for Coming Two Years.

Eighteen graduates or former students of the University of Idaho were recently sworn in as officials in state and county offices, as a result of the last election.

One of Idaho's re-elected members of congress, Burton L. French, whose term will not begin until March, is also a graduate of the university.

Positions held by Idaho graduates include a justiceship in the state supreme court, the state superintendent of public instruction and the state mine inspectorship. Six prosecuting attorneys of counties in the state will be men who are Idaho graduates or former students, and four seats in the legislature will be occupied by men who have attended the institution—three of them graduates.

County Positions.

Two county surveyors, a probate judge, a county superintendent of schools and a county assessor also are graduates or former students.

Supreme Court Judge.

William E. Lee, newly elected to the state supreme court, was graduated from the University in 1903. He served as a clerk in the house and senate at Washington, D. C., and as secretary to Congressman French, and was graduated from the Nations University law school in 1909.

Stewart Campbell, re-elected state mine inspector, graduated from the school of mines of the University of Idaho in 1907 and has been engaged in mining engineering practice in Blaine county. Both he and Congressman French have served as members of the Idaho legislature.

Miss Elizabeth Russum, who becomes state superintendent of public instruction, has had a long experience as a teacher in the schools of Idaho, and other states. She completed her college work in the summer school at the university last summer.

Legislators.

Frederick H. Rehberg, re-elected state senator from Lewis county, received his degree from the law school of the university in 1912.

Lloyd A. Fenn, re-elected state representative from Idaho county, was graduated from the University in 1911.

Donald S. Whitehead, representative from Ada county, received the degree of bachelor of science from the university in 1907.

Alfred S. Anderson, representative from Latah county, was a preparatory student at the university in the early days, a member of the class of 1900.

Four county attorneys who are Idaho graduates are Robert W. Beckwith, LL.B., 1920, Elmore county; John A. Carver, LL.B., 1922, Franklin county; Fred C. Erb, LL.B., 1920, Washington county; and John L. Phillips, LL.B., 1915, Nez Perce county. C. J. Taylor, prosecuting attorney of Madison county, and J. G. Martin, prosecuting attorney of Butte county, also were university of Idaho students.

Probate Judge Adrian F. Nelson of Latah county was graduated from the university in 1897; County Surveyor Victor Pearson of Latah county in 1919; and County Surveyor Clinton F. Bessee of Benewah county in 1912.

Frank E. Gaffney, county assessor of Clearwater county, and Miss Evelyn S. Merwin, school superintendent of Clearwater county were former students at the university.

Fred E. Lukens, who was graduated from the university in 1908, will be appointed chief clerk in the office of the secretary of state. It has been announced.

HAZING GOES BY THE BOARDS AT U. S. C.

University of Southern California, Los Angeles, (P.I.P.A.)—No more physical hazing of freshmen is to be permitted at the University of Southern California, according to a recent faculty decision of the institution. The immediate cause of this action was when a freshman in the college of pharmacy fired a pistol at an engineering junior when the latter attempted to take him into custody along with the other freshmen of the university. "Traditions Day at U.S.C. all upperclassmen and sophomores unite in seizing every freshman appearing on the campus.

The yearlings were forced to don track suits in the training quarters and then roll in the mud of the athletic field while the upperclassmen sprinkled them with a fire hose. The freshman threatened to shoot the man that touched him, and when the junior tripped him up he made good. The wound is not serious.

The faculty committee summarily discharged the underclassman, but decided also that no physical violence would be permitted in the future "hazing" of Trojan freshmen.

ANCIENT FORD USED BY DILIGENT INITIATES

Freshmen Entertain By-standers and Lend Helping Hand to Profs.

The George Washington mode of conveyance that made its appearance on the campus Monday again brings to light the fact that there are mysterious doings among the fraternities of the campus. Some have even taken it as a sure sign of spring.

Whether it portends spring is yet to be seen, but all are assured that initiations are once more in our midst for weal or woe. It is indeed the freshman's inuing. In other words he's it just now.

The most vivid evidences are on every hand as one meets individuals, in groups, in pairs or in any other formation wandering about over the country in quest of the elusive charm that will bring them nearer to bona fide frat brothers.

Perhaps the best take off that has appeared is the S.A.E. cab and auto service that ceaselessly plys between the administration building and Moscow and other points. Aside from being a thing of curiosity, the cab has proved of inestimable value to many of our overworked professors.

The cab can be seen making its way laboriously up the hill until the parking ground in front of the Administration building is reached. Thereupon, a velvet (?) clad footman dismounts, dusts his blue denims up the three flights of stairs, acquaints the desired passenger of his mission, and soon reappears with said passenger at the entrance. After the obsequies are over, the Washington-Ford is gradually eased into high and the lightening express bus moves off at a slow walk. The recipients of the joke enter the ancient solitary domain of the coach and laughingly resign themselves to the thrills of a stage coach ride.

If the motive power of the line holds out for the week, the predictions have been made that an untold service will have been rendered to weary pedestrians. But there is some doubt as to the durability of the motors, as one of them is said to have lost his teeth seven years ago when he cast his first vote for Taft.

But the boys will have their fun and the antics so familiar at initiation time serve as a very refreshing antidote to the strenuous week examinations that has or has not been weathered by all.

Failures Should Blame Selves, Says Professor

University of Minnesota.—That the majority of people achieve less success than they might because of conditions within their own control, and not because society fails to give them a fair opportunity, is the view of Professor Ross L. Finney of the sociology department.

The individual who feels that he is not getting a fair deal or a "chance" ought to ask himself first, whether he may not be partly to blame. Perhaps he has not chosen the right occupation. Perhaps he has not seen the opportunities before him. Perhaps he has merely been trying to do average work, the same this year as last year. Perhaps he has been too careful not to do any more work than he was paid for and has erred on the other side by doing less work than he was paid for.

Nearly everybody is more or less lazy and hates to exert himself more than he must to get what he wants. Some achieve a great deal with little effort and much luck, so why work so hard? Add to that disposition the vicious teaching that the world is all wrong, that it is made up of oppressors, robbers and victims, and even a person of high intelligence is likely to become discouraged and brood over his fate.
