Thoughtlessness

It is a regrettable fact that some university co-eds, who of all women are supposed to be exponents of equal rights, should so presume upon the courtesy that men show to women, as to cause these men to wonder if they are not being downtrodden by this same courtesy.

For two hours Monday morning a line of men and women waited for an opportunity to buy basketball tickets. Shortly before noon, when the tickets went on sale, some fifteen girls, with sweet, but apologetic smiles, broke into the head of the line. Men who had attempted the same thing had been thrown from the line, but these women took advantage of the courtesy that men offer them.

These girls by their action deprived an equal number of people who had been waiting for hours, the right to buy tickets. Their action was un-sportsmanlike, it was selfish and thoughtless, and it overstepped by far the deference that men extend to women.

Idaho men are courteous. The principle objection to the mishap of Monday morning is that all the co-eds were not accorded the same privilege these women extended to themselves. If all the university women are to take an even chance with the men in obtaining basketball tickets it is wrong for a small group to take undue advantage of their fellow students, both men and women.

Student Expression

University students expressed themselves frankly and candidly to members of the seventeenth assembly of the Idaho legislature Friday afternoon. A vigorous protest was made against any action or lack of action that would cripple the university. Such expressions of opinion, representative of practically every city, town, village or county in the state, are in order from here on out.

University students will remember the pledge of three political parties last fall that nothing would be done to cripple the educational institutions of the state.

The influence of the university student and graduate cannot be overestimated. The privilege of collegiate training is certain to make the university alumnus a future power in his or her community.

University students are in the best position to know what their needs of their own institution are.

Truly Representative

The University of Idaho is the one common meeting place for the state of Idaho. Here the southern Idaho freshman makes lasting friendships with the students from north Idaho. Here the southern Idaho boy swears yarns about irrigation with the boy who has "mucked" the mines of the Coeur d'Alenes.

The problems of the north are told to the undergraduate from southern Idaho and the student from the north learns about southern Idaho.

The University of Idaho with its representatives from every section of the state is the truly representative institution of Idaho.

Wrestling

Information has finally been gathered on wrestling as a major sport. Wrestling is a major sport at Washington State college, Oregon, Washington, O.A.C. and Idaho.

HIGH SCHOOL PLAYERS BATTLE FOR ENTRANCE.

Not Moscow wins the district championship as the Lewiston tournament. If Moscow fails to win the district championship Moscow and the four district championship winners will enter the tournament. If Moscow is a district championship team four teams only will compete.

The inter-district games in southern Idaho have not as yet been played off, and no information will be available as to what teams will be entered in the tournament here until the next week end.

The double-defeat plan will be followed in the state tournament, a team not being eliminated until it has met two defeats. No team will be allowed to carry or suit more than eight players.

Athletic Director Mathews has been nominated by the state board of control to manage the tournament, and will have charge of housing of team, schedules for play, and other details.

state legislature does not provide for a science hall, the university will be able to train just as many students as the university enrolled last fall and no more.

"The problem is to bring Idaho people back home," said one speaker. "The university must bring and is bringing the sons and daughters of Idaho to their state institution. Too many, however, are going outside the state. Thousands of Idaho high school graduates have received their collegiate training in the institutions of other states and how many have come back to help make the state of Idaho what it ought to be?"

It was pointed out that while the state has given but $200,000 for capital additions at the University of Idaho in the last ten years neighboring states have expended an average of $1,900,000 for new educational buildings in the same ten years.

Lose 500 Students.

The definite statement was made that unless the legislature provided for the absolute necessity of the university, the new science hall, that 200 Idaho high school graduates would be denied admittance to the university next fall and not less than 400 the following fall. The failure of the legislature to provide for the university would mean a break in the progress of the campaign to interest Idaho high school graduates in their state institution and a consequent set-back of the university of at least ten years.

Forty-six per cent of the college-going population of the state of Idaho attends colleges in Idaho while 54 per cent go outside the state to receive collegiate training. Last year the Idaho students at California, Oregon, Washington and Utah equalled the number of students at the university.

Motions Pass Unanimously.

The students agreed unanimously to express their opinions to the legislators by means of telegrams, urging upon them the necessity of the science building. A motion was made by Beany Breshears that a committee of five be appointed to assemble the telegrams and send telegrams from the A.S.U.I. to the governor, the house and the senate. The motion carried unanimously. Joel Priest moved that the sending of the telegrams be financed from the miscellaneous fund of the A.S.U.I. The motion was passed with a unanimous vote in favor.

Lynn Hersey of Lenore, president of the A.S.U.I.; Pearl Stalker of Boise, Don C. Fisher of Grangeville, Talbot Jennings of Nampa, and Joel L. Priest, Jr. of Boise, were named on the general committee to formulate the expression of opinion of the A.S.U.I. and to collect the telegrams of the county groups.

County Groups Meet.

The students were divided into their county groups where telegrams were formulated to every representative and senator of the seventeenth assembly.

In all more than 200 telegrams were filed at the Western Union office Friday night. One hundred thirty-seven were sent out in night letter by the A.S.U.I. and the rest of the telegrams were from individual students. The telegrams to Governor Moore, the house of representatives, and the senate were sent day letter Friday afternoon. The students left the auditorium for the meeting of their county groups thoroughly alive to the situation and ready to express their opinions in no uncertain terms.

Telegram to Governor.

The telegram sent to Governor Moore by the A.S.U.I. follows: "The entire student body of the University of Idaho in a meeting resulting from the senate action upon house bill No. 103 express their unanimous appreciation of your sanction of this measure. As undergraduates who have worked under the serious handicaps of the overcrowded conditions at the university we desire to urge upon you the seriousness of the situation unless relief is provided for by the present legislature. There will be a limitation of the university enrollment for the next two years in that the university without the science building cannot take care of any more students. At the rate of increase the past four years the university will be forced to refuse admittance to at least two hundred Idaho high school graduates next fall and not less than four hundred the following fall. There will be a break in the progress of the university and this set-back to our efforts in interesting Idaho students in their state institution instead of in colleges of other states will set the university back fully ten years in its development. All our individual efforts to promote a higher type of citizenship for the state of Idaho through the training of Idaho sons and daughters at their own state institution will come to naught unless the science building is provided for. The student body will appreciate your con-

Message to Senate.

The student telegram to Lieutenant-Governor Baldridge and members of the senate follows:

"The entire student body of the University of Idaho in a meeting duly assembled this morning as the result of your action on the measure which would have relieved the seriously overcrowded conditions at the university unanimously went on record in protest against any action or lack of action which will cripple the university. We who are thoroughly acquainted with the conditions as they actually exist desire to inform you and the members of the senate of the imperative necessity for a science building. There will be a limitation of the university enrollment for the next two years in that the university without the science building cannot take care of any more students than it has at the present time. At the rate of increase in enrollment the past four years the university will be forced to refuse admittance to at least two hundred Idaho high school graduates next fall and not less than four hundred the following fall. There will be a break in the progress of the university and this setback to our efforts to interest Idaho students in their state institution instead of in colleges of neighboring states will retard the development of the university at least ten years. We feel that you will realize the seriousness of this situation.

Telegram to House.

The telegram to Speaker Kiger and members of the house of representatives follows:

"By a unanimous vote of the entire student body of the University of Idaho in a mass meeting this morning, a committee was authorized to express appreciation to you and members of the house for your action in behalf of the best interests of the university. Your vote shows that representatives are conversant with the needs of the university and your action has been appreciated. Action of the senate in killing the measure originated and passed by the house has aroused high feeling. Your continued and untiring efforts we feel sure will assist in bringing about the relief so imperative to the welfare of the university and consequently the state of Idaho.

stitutions with the necessary buildings for growth, it is believed that the measure will be passed by both houses. The original measure had the official sanction of Governor Moore.

Effect of Telegrams.

What effect the student meeting and the resultant sending of telegrams to every member of the legislature Friday from the university had is a question. It is believed that the telegrams had some effect on the re-introduction of the bill and possibly the expression of protesting students against the crippling of the university carried a great deal of weight. Three day letters were sent out by the official A.S.U.I. organization, one to Governor Moore, to the speaker of the house, and the representatives, and the president of the senate and members of the senate. One hundred thirty-seven telegrams from university students from every county in the state followed to individual representatives and senators. In all there were more than 200 night letters sent to the legislators last night.

in Idaho's history that an Ag parade has been given.

Prize Stock Exhibited.

The Ag school's animals are true aristocrats. They have taken prizes all over the Northwest and some of them carry as many ribbons as a Mexican generalissimo.

The parade will not be composed entirely of milk cows. Yearlings and heifers will march along in their Sunday best and there will be draft horses and blue ribbon stallions and range horses groomed for exhibition. According to the present plans there will be an array of floats representing some of the activities of the college of agriculture and some of the products developed in the past year. There will be also displayed on the floats some of the produce of special departments of the college.

Farm Machinery Shown.

Several big tractors will chug along in the parade. The very latest and finest types of farm machinery from the plow to the reaper and harvester will be displayed.

Deep mystery surrounds the rumor of a special act to wind up the parade and to be put on by the members of the Ag school. It is rumored that "Fat" Stevens, amateur theatrical genius, and "Ah-Me" Kearns of the noted "Howdy do" are in cahoots in the arranging of the feature.

A short program was given before the house and the senate in the legislative chambers at Boise. Each member of the club was introduced with the name of his home town. reception was very cordial.

Word of Idaho's conference victory over the University of Washington was received after the concert in a small town. In the midst of the jubilation over the athletic victory and a successful concert, some 15 high school boys announced their intentions of coming to Idaho after high school graduation. The high school boys were almost as pleased over the prowess of the Vandals as the glee club men.

Success Financially.

The tour was a success financially under the capable management of Robert Cummins. The trip was well planned in advance, everything went off smoothly, and the club returned to Moscow without the usual deficit. In past years the annual state tour has not always paid for itself and the record made by this year's organization is considered remarkable in view of the conditions in the state. The home concert for the benefit of the student body and Moscow people will be given in the auditorium Friday evening, March 9. Students will be admitted upon presentation of A.S.U.I. tickets.

Following are press comments upon the club's concert:

Boise Statesman.

Opening the program with the tradition "Oh Let Us Sing of Idaho," the University of Idaho Glee club of 23 members including five Boise boys, under the direction of Edwin Orlo Bangs, director of the department of music at the university, gave its annual concert at the high school auditorium Wednesday.

The program was varied, including the familiar Idaho college songs, comic numbers and classical selections both by the club and violin and piano soloists who are accompanying the club on its tour this year.

Carl Claus, instructor in violin at the university, scored heavily with his violin solo, "Romance-Andaluza" by Sarasati. Mr. Claus gave as encores, "Serenade" by Daria and the "Hindu Chant" by Rimski Korsakov, and the "Mazurka de Concert" by Musia. Frank Mitten, student accompanist of the club played the widely known "Hungarian Rhapsody, No. 2," by Liszt, and offered as encores the "Sextet from Lucia," and the "Turkish March," the latter a Beethoven composition.

Werner Ripplinger, baritone soloist, sang a selected solo following the opening numbers by the club, and later gave the "Beautiful Ship from Toyland" with the glee club.

The male quartet, comprised of Darwin Simmons of Blackfoot, Harold Johnson of Nampa, Ray Allumbaugh of Boise, and Warren Vickrey of Boise sang several comic numbers, opening with "Honey I Wants Yer Now," by Coe.

more than fulfilled predictions as to a program of high quality in a concert given in the high school auditorium Friday night before a large audience. Following the concert the university singers were guests of the Zu Zims at a dancing party at the home of Arthur Peavey, 160 Seventh avenue north.

The program included 14 numbers, but continued applause after several of the selections required numerous encores.

"The Bell Song," as sung by Werner Ripplinger of Driggs, proved an outstanding number of the early part of the program, and as an encore Mr. Ripplinger presented "Young Tom O'Devin," a catchy piece that was well received.

"Meditation," from Thais, a violin solo by Carl Claus, necessitated two additional numbers, as did a piano solo, Lizt's second Rhapsody, by Frank Mitten, accompanist of the club. A violin solo was given by Mr. Claus just before the closing number by the entire club.

Nampa Leader-Herald.

With a program of diversified numbers, classical and of the lighter variety, and with solos, vocal and instrumental, the glee club of the University of Idaho last evening entertained an audience that filled the auditorium of the high school. The baritone solos of Werner Ripplinger, the violin solos of Carl Claus, and the piano solos of Frank Mitten, were exceptionally well given. Mr. Mitten especially as a pianist, showing himself to be a high type of artist. Mr. Ripplinger pleased to the extent of several demands for encores, and the other soloists in their turn were given generous applause and called back to give their second selections.

The program opened with the singing of "Oh Let Us Sing of Idaho," and "Estudiantina," by the glee club. The club, directed by Edwin Orlo Bangs, gave its numbers in a very pleasing manner, and voices blended into closest harmony, indicating long and particular training. Every number on the program by the glee club members called for an encore, and the young men responded generously just as often as they were called back.

One of the especially pleasing numbers was "Beautiful Ship From Toyland," with Mr. Ripplinger and the club. The male quartet, also, gave some songs of southern flavor. The Simmons, Johnson, Allumbaugh and quartet was comprised of Messrs. Vickrey.

ROBERT BOYLE'S

AIR PUMP

The "PRACTICAL" Alchemist and "THEORETICAL" Robert Boyle

THE alchemists wrote vaguely of "fluids" and "principles." Copper was potentially silver. Rid it of its red color and the "principle" of silver would assert itself, so that silver would remain. With a certain amount of philosopher's stone (itself a mysterious "principle") a base metal could be converted into a quantity of gold a million times as great.

This all sounded so "practical" that Kings listened credulously, but the only tangible result was that they were enriched with much bogus gold.

Scientific theorists like Robert Boyle (1627-1691) proved more "practical" by testing matter, discovering its composition and then drawing scientific conclusions that could thereafter be usefully and honestly applied. Alchemists conjectured and died; he experimented and lived.

Using the air pump Boyle undertook a "theoretical" but scientific experimental study of the atmosphere and discovered that it had a "spring" in it, or in other words that it could expand. He also established the connection between the boiling point of water and atmospheric pressure, a very "theoretical" discovery in his day but one which every steam engineer now applies.

He was the first to use the term "analysis" in the modern chemical sense, the first to define an element as a body which cannot be subdivided and from which compounds can be reconstituted.

Boyle's work has not ended. Today in the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company it is being continued. Much light has there been shed on the chemical reactions that occur in a vessel in which a nearly perfect vacuum has been produced. One practical result of this work is the vacuum tube which plays an essential part in radio work and roentgenology.
