

Nominees Eliminated By Primary Election

First A. S. U. I. Ballots to be Marked by Students Thursday in Room 217 of Administration Building—Polls to be Open From 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.

PREXY TIMBER CUT DOWN

Vote to be Cast on Fifteen Candidates for Five Important Jobs

The A.S.U.I. primary election will be held Thursday in room 217 of the Administration building. Students will vote on the candidates for five offices since there are only five offices for which there are three candidates in the field. For each office one candidate will be eliminated by the results of the primary.

Where there are only two candidates for an office the final election on Thursday, May 3, will determine the student officers for the college year, 1923-1924.

Polls Open at 10

The polls at the primary election will be open from 10 o'clock in the morning until 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The present executive board made of Student Body President Lynn Hersey, "Jerry" Gill, vice-president; Marie Hummel, treasurer, and Verle Bartlett, secretary, will be in entire charge of the election. The polls will be open during the noon hour or at all times from 10 o'clock to 3 o'clock.

Warren G. "Doc" Noggle, nominated by the executive board for business manager of the Gem of the Mountains, has withdrawn from the race, leaving Merle Drake and Leo Fleming as candidates. Noggle's resignation as a candidate has left but five offices to be voted on at the primary.

The two candidates receiving the highest votes as the result of the primary will have their names placed on the ballot at the final election. The primary is designed to limit the field of candidates to two and amounts to an elimination contest with the candidate receiving the lowest vote eliminated.

Prexy Race Interests

Interest is keen in the primary, the interest centering around the presidential race between Talbot Jennings, Abe Goff, and Charles Preuss. One of these men will be eliminated. It is believed that the largest vote ever cast at a university primary will be cast Thursday.

Petitions signed by 25 undergraduates may place the names of other candidates on the primary ticket. These petitions, if any are filed, must be presented to President Hersey not later than Wednesday morning at 10

Program of Much Interest to be Staged Friday Night in University Gymnasium.

The annual "I" club smoker, which will be held in the gymnasium Friday night, April 27, will be a smokeless athletic affair this year, according to latest reports. The program of boxing and wrestling will be the best ever offered on the university campus, if all matches come through as planned, the committee having gone to considerable trouble to prepare an especially attractive card. A varied program of entertainment will also serve to make the occasion a success.

Fred Beal, of Spokane, light-heavy weight champion of the northwest, will go on the mat with "Babe" Brown, undefeated intercollegiate

IDAHO DEBATERS TAKE CONTEST FROM MONTANA

University of Idaho debaters, upholding the negative of the question "Resolved, that the United States should adopt a cabinet parliamentary form of government," defeated the University of Montana affirmative at Missoula, Friday night.

The decision of the judges was two to one in favor of the Idaho duo, made up of Phil Buck and Robert Reed.

The University of Utah won the triangular debate with Idaho and Montana. Utah's affirmative won from the Montana negative at Salt Lake and Utah's negative defeated the Idaho affirmative here Thursday night.

ANNUAL JUNIOR PROM PROVES BIG SUCCESS

MORE THAN 300 PEOPLE ENJOY GREAT DANCE.

Butterfly and Garden Decorations Make Formal Best of Entire College Year.

The most elaborate and most successful dance of the college year was given Friday night in the University of Idaho gymnasium. The more than 300 people attending the Junior Prom called it the best prom ever given and the best dance of the college year. Programs were in the shape of flying butterflies and butterfly and garden decorations were completely and attractively carried out.

The dance is the annual formal of the junior class. Patrons and patronesses were Governor and Mrs. C. C. Moore, President and Mrs. A. H. Upham, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. H. Graveley, Mr. and Mrs. Irvin E. Rockwell, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley A. Easton, Mr. and Mrs. Huntington Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Lippincott, Miss Elizabeth Russum, Dr. and Mrs. Enoch A. Bryan, Dean Permeal French, and Mr. and Mrs. Jerome J. Day. The members of the state board of education and the governor were unable to attend the dance.

The Receiving Line

In the receiving line were Charles Preuss of Tacoma, general chairman of the dance, Lynn Rogers of Boise, president of the junior class, and Miss Gladys Kahn of Caldwell, President and Mrs. A. H. Upham, Ted Turner of Caldwell, and Dean Permeal French, Mr. Marshall, and Mrs. Jerome J. Day.

The dance opened with the grand march at the conclusion of which the programs were given out by a witch over a glowing cauldron. The music platform was completely covered with sunflowers. Streamers suspended from the ceiling and streamers running the entire length of the hall made the decorations most attractive. The walls were covered with evergreens and decorated with sunflowers and butterflies. In one fairies' booth presided over by two dainty fairies, Miss Beatrice Friedman and Miss Bernice Friedman. In another corner an ever playing fountain in an attractive bower of evergreens and flowers was a decorative feature.

Committee Chairmen

Miss Lois Stevens was chairman of the music committee. Miss Myra Armbruster was chairman of the refreshments committee; Ted Turner, patrons and patronesses; Charles Preuss, program committee; Rodgers Wheaton, chairman of the decorations committee, and Charles Preuss, general chairman.

Officers of the junior class for the second semester are: Lynn Rogers of Boise, president; Jewell Coon of

PRESIDENTIAL NOMINEES' STATEMENTS

TALBOT JENNINGS' STATEMENT.
"The essential question to ask a nominee for president of the student body is just this: What is his conception of the duties of his office? You may judge his other qualifications by looking up his record, but by his answer to this one question you may know the man himself.

The duties of student body presidents are clear-cut. They are: First, to preserve and enforce recognized Idaho traditions; second, to assume a responsibility which comes to every leader in a university as young, comparatively, as Idaho, namely, that of encouraging creditable new traditions; third, impartially to keep in motion all A.S.U.I. activities, not by ill-advised interference, but by making sure that the elected and appointed heads of each department are on the job; fourth, to keep the student body in touch with alumni who, in every village and town in the state, are striving to build up university sentiment and pride. To summarize, it is the duty of the president to uphold old traditions, to foster creditable new ones, to keep the A.S.U.I. machinery adjusted and in motion and to maintain contact with Idaho alumni.

The operation of student body activities has grown into a serious business; its budgets are large; the teams it maintains are out after big game; each year new activities seek A.S.U.I. recognition and support.

A vote cast for any other reason than one based on deliberate thinking is a vote cast against the university. Every student body election is a test not so much of the nominees as of the voters themselves. All the candidates are capable men and women; perhaps it doesn't matter which of them you vote for; what does matter is that in voting you keep faith with your best judgment."

TALBOT JENNINGS.

ABE GOFF'S STATEMENT.
"When a little over a year ago, at Portland, Idaho's athletic representatives applied for admission to the Pacific Coast conference they inaugurated a forward step far beyond their immediate aims. It was Idaho's first big bid for recognition and though apparently only for the furtherance of athletic relations, it opened a new and greater field to every phase of student endeavor. A few months later when, in its initial season in the conference, Idaho's basketball team carried away first honors, interest with a snap began to focus itself on this new addition to coast conference circles. It began to be seen that it was not in athletics alone that Idaho should have a place among the leaders of the west.

"Far outclassed in point of numbers but a unique exemplification of 'quality not quantity,' Idaho, by originality in thought and action has made its influence everywhere felt. Its unified school spirit, as shown for example, in the Harvard club contests, has been at once the envy and despair of others. I cannot agree with some campus opinion which would have us exactly duplicate the methods of our larger rivals. Idaho is not a large university and will not be for some years to come. Our greatest strength lies in our compact organization and our personal contact and acquaintance with each other. If we are to excel in any kind of competition with rivals the size of the Universities of California or Washington, our organization must, of necessity, in proportion be much more efficient. Idaho approximates the happy medium in size with a good variety of courses on one hand and a personal good fellowship between students on the other. At this juncture of our growth it is the 'one big family' ideal which most efficiently can serve our needs. The year just coming to a close has been one of noteworthy achievements and however elections may go, we must unite, forgetting all petty desires, to make next year the greatest in the history of the university."

ABE GOFF.

CHARLES PREUSS' STATEMENT

"The student body is entitled to pre-election statements from its candidates to the respective offices to which they have been nominated and it is with pleasure that I make such statements at this time. I look upon the presidency of the student body less as an honor than as an opportunity to work more consistently and to better advantage for a greater Idaho.

"I am glad to state that I am entirely in sympathy with the present administration and if elected will do all within my power to continue the splendid work which has been inaugurated by President Hersey and the executive staff now in office.

"Perhaps the most important issues confronting the student body at this time are the perfection and installation of the honor system and the honor code; the erection of a new gymnasium and a new science hall; and the placing of women's athletics on such a basis as to be recognized as the equal of any similar organization within other leading institutions. The honor system and the honor code properly installed will be of untold advantage to the future development and standing of our university. A new gymnasium is essential if our athletic prestige is to be maintained and a science hall is absolutely necessary to the growth and development of our institution. The associated students, as a clear thinking body can do a great deal towards the hastening of the erection of these buildings. The women of our university have in the past fully justified the creation of the department of women's athletics and this department must receive every consideration which will lead to its recognition as an equal by all other similar organizations.

"I am very grateful for this opportunity to express my opinions concerning these matters directly to the student body."

CHARLES A. PREUSS.

University Of Idaho Pageant Honors Memory Of Greatest Land Geographer

When University of Idaho students present their great pageant of Idaho history, June 9, they will do honor in one scene to a man who, though he has been called "the greatest land geographer that the British race has ever produced," nevertheless died at the age of 87, a poor man, unrecognized by the public.

This was David Thompson discoverer of the source of the Columbia river.

The pageant will show Thompson trading with the Indians at Kullyspell house on Lake Pend d'Oreille on the eve of Easter day, 1810, and later reading from the Bible:

"And the desert shall rejoice and blossom as the rose, and the parched ground shall become a pool, and the thirsty land springs of water and a highway shall be there."

The Indians, watching Thompson take observations with the sextant, ask:

"What is the star Man doing with the shiny thing?"

He is looking for the Great Spirit, so that he may speak with him."

Known as Star Man

Thompson was one of the most useful of the early settlers in building up the friendship of the Indians and (Continued on page three.)

IDAHO ORATORS TRYOUT FOR PLACES THIS WEEK

Tryouts for the Tri-State oratorical contest between the Universities of Idaho, Washington, and Oregon in the university auditorium, May 24, will be held this week, probably on Thursday night, according to announcement by Phil Buck, manager of varsity debate. Idaho may enter two or three candidates and these candidates will be selected by judges, Thursday night.

Definite announcement of the time and place of the tryouts will be made at assembly, Wednesday morning or on the bulletin board. All manuscripts must be in the hands of the judges ten days before the contest, May 24.

IDAHO DROPS GAMES TO WASHINGTON MEN

HUSKIES WIN FIRST CONTESTS AT SEATTLE.

Vandals Lose 9 to 4 and 12 to 2—Snow Clouts Two Home Runs, Kieffner One.

The University of Idaho diamond men, crippled by the lack of an experienced man behind the bat, went down to defeat before the University of Washington Huskies with a score of 9 to 4 in the first game of the series, and 12 to 2 in the second.

The Vandal nine showed to much better advantage in the first game, the Silver and Gold stickers rapping out three home runs against Washington's veteran twirlers. Snow, garnered two of these, while Kieffner made the rounds once. Snow, who regularly holds down the mound, caught during the entire first game. Fitzke pitched, holding down the Huskies in creditable fashion, considering the fact that the University of Washington batting string is probably the strongest in the conference.

Off Day For Hits

Snow and Cline alternated on the receiving end of the battery in the second game, while Golden and Marineau held down the mound. In this game Idaho made nine errors, which accounted for most of Washington's runs. The Vandal batters had an off day also, scoring but two hits during the contest, Cobby chalking up both of these.

Coupled with other handicaps Idaho must consider the fact that the Silver and Gold was facing the strongest batting team in the league, and one possessing the reputation of playing practically errorless ball. Weakened by the loss of Kinnison the entire Idaho nine seemed to react adversely, failing to play its usual snappy brand of ball, and allowing many costly errors.

Play Oregon Today

The Vandals are scheduled to play the University of Oregon nine Monday and today. No reports have as yet been received as to the outcome of Monday's game. According to all pre-season dope the Oregon nine should be far inferior to that of the University of Washington, and it may be expected that Idaho will make a far more favorable showing.

With a little luck on the remainder of the trip the Silver and Gold may still come out with a very creditable record for the six games. Provided Kinnison gets back into the game the damage done at Seattle is by no means irreparable, especially since Washington must still play the Vandals two games on the Idaho diamond. And until the end of the season they cannot be counted out of the race.

WINNER OF D. S. C. AWARD

Captures Two Machine Gunners Audenarde, Belgium; Gets Corps Citation

The Belgian Croix de Guerre with palm will be presented to John W. "Dutch" Cramer, Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock, on the campus, by Col. E. R. Chrisman, commandant of the Idaho cadet corps. A review of the Idaho cadet regiment will follow the presentation of the medal.

The Belgian war cross was awarded June 1, 1922, by the Belgian government for extraordinary bravery displayed by Cramer, then a corporal in the 361st infantry, at Audenarde, Belgium, November 1, 1918. The corps citation follows:

Captures Machine Gunners

"Corporal Cramer was a member of a patrol sent out to reconnoiter the town of Audenarde. This patrol discovered several enemy machine gun sniper posts, located in buildings, which were enfilading the streets of the town. With another soldier Corporal Cramer dodged from building to building and entering one of the houses containing a machine gun, captured two machine gunners."

The Croix de Guerre with palm is the third medal awarded to the Idaho student for his gallant action at Audenarde. On February 7, 1919, the Croix de Guerre was conferred on him by the French government, and on November 22, 1918, he was decorated with the Distinguished Service Cross by General Pershing personally.

College of Law Senior

Cramer is a senior in the college of law, president of the Bench and Bar association, a member of Phi Gamma Delta fraternity and Phi Alpha Delta legal fraternity. He is also a member of the Square and Compass, honorary masonic organization, and is vice-president of the senior class. For two years he was historian of the Idaho American Legion.

Mr. Cramer was among the first men trained at Camp Lewis when the camp was formed. After spending ten months at Lewis as a drill sergeant he was injured in bayonet practice and was in the hospital for five weeks. He went overseas with the 361st infantry, landing in France, July 20, 1918. Cramer was wounded in action September 26, 1918, in the Argonne offensive, and received his honorable discharge in May, 1919, at Fort D. A. Russell, Cheyenne, Wyo.

THE A. S. U. I. ELECTION

The continued success of all student activities is dependent upon the officers named at the coming student body elections. You students are electing your leaders, the men and women who will represent you. You students are electing the men and women who will be in active charge and control of your activities. These men and women, the prospective leaders of student activities, must be competent.

All of the candidates nominated are capable but yours must be the ability to pick the best. There are degrees of capability. You may have a personal friend who is seeking office but if you feel that his opponent is more competent to handle the work which the successful candidate will be called upon to do, it is then your duty to vote for the man you believe to be most capable.

Yours must be the thinking vote—the discriminatory vote—the cold-blooded vote. Balance the qualifications of each candidate and, if when you have cast your ballot, you really believe that you have voted for the best candidate, then you have done your duty as a University of Idaho student.

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

Argonaut advertising pays. Moscow merchants get a real return in dollars and cents as the result of advertising in the official college paper, but it is up to the students to see that Argonaut advertising pays beyond the fondest dream of the advertiser. Patronize the Moscow people who patronize you. Make them realize more and more that you read and appreciate their advertisements. It is up to you students to increase the advertising in your newspaper.

When you buy do you buy from those people who help materially in the support of one of the most important college activities? Do you mention The Argonaut when shopping? The Argonaut knows that you Idaho students do your business with local firms and that Argonaut advertising has a great deal to do with the stores and business houses you deal with. Mention of The Argonaut when you make your purchases will help along materially the advertising space in the college paper.

Moscow business men have done much for the university. It is up to you students to show your appreciation. The present business manager has been most capable. He is making The Argonaut a financial success and it is to be remembered that The Argonaut has been published twice a week this semester. Increased advertising is, however dependent upon the interest you take in those business men who are helping you.

Some newspaper editor once said that "the best news in a paper is the advertising" and we are inclined to believe that he is right.

DEBATE

Debate is a university activity. And Idaho ranks high among western institutions in forensic circles.

But debate is not followed and encouraged by university students. It is disheartening to the extreme for debaters, representing Idaho against other universities, to face practically an empty auditorium. Why cannot debates be attended, as well as other intercollegiate activities?

Debates are interesting. They are educational. Topics of vital importance, live national and international problems, are discussed. What is the matter with Idaho students, when they will not attend these contests?

If a greater interest is not shown, Idaho will lose her position as a university which puts out strong debating teams. Not only must interest and attendance be greater, but more students must turn out for the activity. There are many people on the campus who have much ability, but very few ever try out.

Debate cannot be what it should be without the support of the student body.

University Frails Desire Possession Earned Sweaters

One would think that the fair co-eds would be perfectly satisfied to have the husky men of the campus easy prey for their wiles with an "I" sweater as the incentive. But no, they, the frails, must have sweaters of their own, earned by their own efforts and all that sort of thing. Not a bad idea at that but why all that pointing.

One hundred points for walking sixty-five miles. Let us assume that it is 125 feet around the normal course followed by a couple as they battle their way around our grey-haired old gym. And that the average couple makes three circles every portion of a dance and that there are three parts to every dance. That makes 1125 feet that they travel every dance. If there are 16 dances on the program they cover a distance of 18000 feet or 3.4 miles in an evening. If they go to 20 dances in a year they have slid, walked, pushed and been pushed over 68 miles. There are 100 points all salted away and the less deadly of the race, the male, who did most of the work gets nothing but the points of his shoes worn off.

Baseball is to come at four to six o'clock. Now, this is just at the time when all walking dates are scheduled. And if all the fair ones are out learning to throw out—drops the peg first, what are the men going to do?

Space forbids accurate dealing with the subject of basketball and hockey and if the co-eds don't like to play tennis with the men, the men don't want to play tennis with the women. Surely the dear things should have sweaters but will some one point out the point in all this elaborate point system?—V.B.W.

champion of the northwest, in the headline event of the evening.

"Babe" Great Wrestler.

"Babe" Brown in addition to having a clean slate in conference competition, is widely known as one of the most successful amateur wrestlers of the country in his weight. Two years ago Brown went to New York, to wrestle in competition for the team to represent the United States at the Olympic games, losing out in the finals. In past years so great has been the difficulty of finding suitable opponents for the Idaho protegee, in local amateur circles, that few in the Idaho student body have seen him work except in exhibition bouts.

Fred Beal, who wrestles under the tutelage of Cisco Bullivant, athletic director of the Spokane Elks, has won for himself an enviable reputation in the northwest. His admirers in Spokane insist that he is a man of exceptional ability, an able mat general experienced in every trick of the trade, and guarantee that he will give Brown a hard match. The outcome of this event will be watched with interest by all local devotees of the sport.

COUNTY AGENT WORK INCREASES IN FAVOR

PRaise GIVEN GRADUATES OF UNIVERSITY.

W. B. Kjosness, State Leader, Tells of Activity of Agriculturists for Agricultural Betterment.

"County agent work is becoming more and more popular with all classes of people all of the time," said W. B. Kjosness of Boise, county agent leader of the University of Idaho extension service Saturday on his visit to the university on business. "Farmers and people of the state are realizing more and more the tremendous service of the county agents to all classes of agriculture in the state. Neil Irving, county agent of Kootenai county, is one of the most effective county agents in the state. He is doing exceptionally fine work and it is particularly pleasing to see a University of Idaho graduate make good from the start and continue at all times to increase the scope of the effectiveness of his work. He has arranged attractive silo excursions for four days next week.

Important Foundational Work
"R. B. Alexander, county agent of Boundary county, has just completed a five-block Holstein bull association involving 150 animals and 60 farmers. This is foundational work of very great importance.

"The people of northern Idaho are particularly taken with the fine soil work of Professor 'Scotty' McDole, soil technologist. His work is spoken of very highly and everybody recognizes the basic importance of the soil experimentation.

"The work in Idaho and Nez Perce counties is attracting attention. These county agents are working on orchard improvements with faculty members from the campus. W. V. Skuse, county agent in New Perce county, is doing excellent work for the best interests of the orchards in his county. County Agent Grayson in Idaho county has started some very important dairy improvements and his development of the swine industry is bringing back his county as an important swine producing section.

Praise for Fletcher
"Everybody in Latah county knows what County Agent Fletcher is doing. He is putting the work across in great shape and is a credit to the university.

"H. A. Stone's club work as district boys' and girls' club leader is excellent. The work is going bigger every day. In my work over the state I find that the University of Idaho has friends and boosters, and many of them, in every section of Idaho."

TENNIS PLAYERS WAGE BATTLES FOR CHAMPIONSHIP

Dan Prescott and Ken Hunter, two of Idaho's foremost tennis stars, Monday went into the fourth round of the university tennis tournament. Prescott defeated Phil Buck, 6-3, 6-0, and Hunter won from Abbott, 6-3, 6-4. It is expected that the tourney staged to pick a varsity tennis squad will come to a close this week if weather conditions are favorable. All contests in the second round were played off, Abbott defeating Dunn, 6-2, 6-3; Lettice losing to Goldstone, 6-2, 9-7; and Otto Johnson losing to Dick Johnson, 6-1, 6-1.

UNIVERSITY PAGEANT HONORS GREATEST LAND GEOGRAPHER

Establishing peace in a country too young for law. He came to America in 1784, at the age of 14, as an apprentice to the Hudson Bay company. From Philip Turner, a surveyor, he learned the use of the sextant and chronometer and became versed in astronomy. Because of his scientific observations he was known to the Indians as Koo-Koo-Sint, the star man.

In 1797 he entered the employ of the Northwest Fur company, by which he was assigned to locate scientifically its various trading posts. In this work he not only became the discoverer of the source of the Columbia river but contributed much to the geographic knowledge of this district. It was in the fall of 1809 that David Thompson first looked upon the placid waters of Lake Pend d'Oreille and there established the Kullyspell house, which was maintained for two years and is reported to have done a great deal of business.

NOMINEES ELIMINATED BY PRIMARY ELECTION

o'clock, according to the constitutional provisions. It is believed that no petitions will be presented. With no more nominations made the primary election will be on the following offices:

For A.S.U.I.—Talbot Jennings, Abe Goff, Charles Preuss.
For Manager of Debate.—Errol Hillman, Frank Wyman, Robert Reed.

For Manager of Men's Glee Club.—Van Peterson, Warren Vickrey, Ray Allumbaugh.

For Manager of The Argonaut.—Winton Arnold, Fred "Scoop" Taylor, U. S. Hale.

For Manager of Women's Athletics.—Carol Bristol, Maude Carland, Mary Vassar.

Following are statements made by the various candidates:

For A.S.U.I. Vice President.
"The office of vice president is what the incumbent makes it. With our rapidly increasing enrollment and number of activities, has come the departmental form of government. It is the most adequate for student bodies because student departmental heads donate their services thereby eliminating the only objection to its use and the only reason why states do not employ it generally.

"Constitutionally the duties of the vice president are to perform all duties of the president in his absence, and be a member of the executive board. I believe it should be the further duty of the vice president to assist the president in administration for our present departmental form of government necessitates extensive organization which means much work."

LAWRENCE A. (Judge) WALLACE.
The vice presidency of the A.S.U.I. is an important office in as much as that officer is a member of the executive board and should if it became necessary be able to fulfill the office of president. Under the new constitution which advocates the budget system for the financing of all branches of student activity, the work of the executive board is more important than ever before. I feel that my experience as manager of this year's Gem of the Mountains will be an advantage to me if elected to this office."

GLENN R. WILKINSON.

For A.S.U.I. Treasurer.
"The treasurer of the A.S.U.I. has a real job to fulfill the coming year. To fill the office of treasurer one has to have natural ability for detail work. Every duty is specifically prescribed by the constitution, and actually amounts to the keeping of books for every department of student activities in the University of Idaho. The treasurer should be held responsible for monthly reports from the manager of every department of the A.S.U.I. for the publication of the same in The Argonaut. The fact is that the treasurer must be on the job every minute."

WALTER CASEBOLT.
"With the rapidly increasing enrollment in our university the handling of the funds of the A.S.U.I. is becoming an important responsibility. I believe the principal requirement for this office, in order to insure the safe handling of the student funds, is a treasurer well-qualified in the technical requirements of accountancy and modern business methods. My commercial training through high school, in business college, and in the University of Idaho, together with my actual experience in this line of work, should have qualified me for the position; and if elected, I will endeavor to faithfully and efficiently perform the obligations of the office."

GEORGE GAHAN.

For A.S.U.I. Secretary
The secretaryship of the A.S.U.I. is an important office, in that all proceedings and documents of this body must be kept with detailed accuracy. The secretary is also a member of the executive board, and must exercise judgment in voting on all measures that come before the board. The one who is elected to this position should be capable of carrying out these duties.

PAULINE PENCE.

For Year Book Editor.
"Have you ever counted the pictures of the Ad building appearing in the annuals of the past. It sure has been a worthy subject to pass the buck to. Ad buildings have been dished out to you in headings, title pages, snapshots, etc. Not that we hate the old mental incubator but why make it work overtime when we know it so well. We have more than an Ad building on our campus. How about the delicate overtones of unimportant things that make up three-fourths of our college life which we let skid away into nowhere.

"A year may slip by forever, but a good 'Gem of the Mountains' will bring it back.

"Between the covers of an annual lies the record of a year that has just packed its trunk and left. It may be a book of stereotyped facts, but so is the Encyclopedia Britannica. It must be more than this. It must be a living thing like the student body which it represents. It must remember the little things, which like boys in Sunday school endeavor to sneak out unnoticed.

"I like to think of your next 'Gem of the Mountains' as a book that is not wrapped up in a tuxedo of formality, but as a friend that will talk over yesterdays with you when you leave Idaho behind and can no longer see old Sol at evening plunking into the west and spilling his life blood all over the campus."

PETER PAUL DRUS.

"The Gem of the Mountains must be a year-book worthy of our Alma Mater, the University of Idaho. Its purpose is to portray life on the campus from the viewpoint of every student and to give proper consideration to every organization, activity and interest, to the exclusion or over-emphasis of none.

"The Gem of the Mountains will serve you throughout life as a constant reminder of your happy college days. It is a record of your activities, your social, your athletic records or what not.

"Think on these things when voting for the next Editor of the Gem of the Mountains."

FLOYD E. MARCHESI

For Argonaut Manager.
"The business manager of The Argonaut, no matter who he may be, can do nothing without the support of the students. The students have not fulfilled their duty when the election is over. I have been business manager of The Argonaut for the past semester and was acting in that capacity when The Argonaut was put on a twice a week basis. With a twice a week publication the paper has been forced to depend more and more on advertising for its support. The students should cooperate with the business manager and support the Argonaut advertisers or the paper will be a financial failure. I sincerely hope that whoever is elected business manager for the coming year will have the entire support of the students."

WINFON ARNOLD.

"In the past few years the managing of The Argonaut has been very efficient, making the paper financial success through its advertising and subscriptions. The business manager of our paper should keep a personal set of books containing the expenditures and assets of the paper so as to submit them to the student body each month in order that they may know the financial status of it. The person should have experience in the various methods of salesmanship, should be acquainted with different types of businesses in the commercial world.

"The manager of The Argonaut is a business representative of the university and student body and should so conduct himself when doing business with the public that he would stimulate a good feeling toward the university and toward student activities. He should cooperate with the editor, other officers, and members of the staff, in order to work in conjunction with them, which will tend to make the paper better in every way. As I have served for the past semester as one of the assistant managers on The Argonaut, I feel confident that with this experience and my past experience in financial managing and salesmanship, that I am capable of handling the position."

"SCOOP" TAYLOR.

"I have had five year's experience in the publishing game as representative of American and foreign periodicals. This understanding of the work would enable me to maintain in the future the high standard of excellence that The University Argonaut has held in the past. Should the work as business manager be mine I would endeavor to further the prestige of our paper."

UNDRIL S. HALE.

For Debate Manager.

"Debate is one of the oldest forms of intercollegiate competition, and in many of our greatest schools, plays an important part in student affairs, at the present time. Idaho has always been very successful in this activity. If elected manager, I would strive to make debate at this institution even a greater success, and obtain from the student body the support warranted by that success."

ERROL HILLMAN.

"Debate in Idaho is hardly taking the place that it should in the life of the school. The crowds are small and a surprisingly few turn out for it. It seems to me that there should be some way of securing more support. If I'm elected I'll really try to stir up a little more interest in it. Perhaps some form of inter-class discussion might be tried. Girls' de-

FRANK WYMAN.

For Glee Club Managers
"In order to best further the Glee club as a factor in advertising the University of Idaho, the manager must attempt to route the club in new communities, taking into account the smaller as well as the larger towns of the state. The manager must have a reasonable acquaintance throughout the state, understand and be willing to cooperate with the director, have reasonable business ability, and make every attempt to further the interests of the university by making the Glee club a success in a financial way.

"The qualifications of the various candidates should be carefully considered before voting for this important office."

VAN R. PETERSON.

"If elected manager of the men's Glee club I hope to be able to give the citizens of the state as good a program as they have received in the past and to give the university even greater advertisement than ever before. The Glee club is a potent factor in the advertising of the university, and in arranging the itinerary I would try to select such towns as would be of the greatest advantage of all concerned. I would strive for a closer cooperation between the members of the club as well as between the Glee club and the student body."

RAY ALLUMBAUGH.

For Pep Band Manager.

"The Pep band has been a great factor in the advertisement of the university and a great factor in the development of spirit at Idaho athletic contests. The Pep band is a comparatively new organization and there is room next year for the expansion and betterment of Idaho's famous band. Careful business management during the coming college year will make the band self-supporting and will provide for proper expansion of the band's activity.

"Having been active in the Pep band for the past three years, or since its organization, and having had experience in the management of orchestras, I feel that I can properly handle the business affairs of the Pep band to the best interests of the university."

DOY MCKINLEY.

"The business manager of the Pep band should have acquaintance with the problems of the band and also some knowledge of business methods. My two years as one of the band's members and my business training and experience qualify me, in some measure, for the work. My acquaintance with the towns throughout southern Idaho, through which the band makes its main trip, could be made of service also. Should I be elected, I would give my best efforts for the band's success."

ULIA D. POWELL.

For Year Book Manager.

"The business manager of the annual is an office of great responsibility. On his ability and effort depends the financial success of next year's book. If I am elected I will do everything in my power to accomplish that end."

MERLE DRAKE.

"Leo Fleming is undoubtedly a good prospect for the business manager-ship of the Gem of the Mountains. He has held responsible positions with such concerns as the Hecla Mining company and has been accountant for the Lindley hall cafe since he entered the University. He is a sophomore in the business curriculum.

"Mr. Fleming's aggressive school spirit and his ability to analyze and solve a problem at once fits him especially well for this job. He is a mixer, knows who's who and why and is willing and able to discharge the duties of the office in a way that will do credit to the university."

BUREAU INVESTIGATES PLATINUM DISCOVERY

REPORTED MINERAL FINDS BEING CHECKED UP.

Idaho Mining Men Receive Cooperation of Federal Departments in Research Near Coeur d'Alene.

Acting upon the authorization of the bureau board, the Idaho bureau of mines and geology has started a careful and systematic investigation of the reported platinum discoveries near Coeur d'Alene City in north Idaho, according to Francis A. Thomson, secretary and director of the bureau. In this investigation the bureau is receiving the fullest cooperation from the United States geological survey, the United States bureau of mines, the American Institute of Mining Engineers, the Coeur d'Alene commercial club, and the owners of the properties concerned.

Recently a party consisting of Mr. Thomson, Dr. F. B. Laney, representing the United States geological survey; and Raymond Guyer, Rush J. White, and L. K. Armstrong of Columbia section, American Institute of Mining Engineers, spent three days at the properties from which platinum has been reported, examining the deposits and collecting under standard conditions with great care large and representative samples from those parts of the prospects in question, from which various persons have reported finding platinum in commercial quantities.

Carefully divided portions of each of the samples taken will be submitted to the most reputable assayers in the country as well as to the analysts of the state bureau, the United States bureau of mines and the geological survey," said Mr. Thomson upon his return to Moscow. "When the results of these assays have been received, and not before, the bureau will be in a position to draw definite conclusions."

FOREST PROTECTION WEEK IS ANNOUNCED

PLANS COMPLETED FOR OBSERVING APRIL 22-23.

According to Dean Miller, the Aim is to Bring Home Person Responsibility to Citizens.

The state of Idaho will join the nation in observing the third annual "Forest Protection Week," April 22-23, with a program designed to impress upon the public the fundamental importance of the forest resources to the economic welfare of the state. The protection week program has been arranged by a general committee, of which Dean F. G. Miller of the University of Idaho school of forestry is chairman. Other members of the general committee are W. D. Humiston, assistant general manager of the Potlatch Lumber company; H. Shellworth, land agent, Boise-Payette Lumber Co.; Ben E. Bush, state land agent, and C. K. McHarg, Jr., forest supervisor, United States forest service.

Since 1920 "Forest Protection Week" has been proclaimed in most of the western states by the various governors, who have felt that the week was unusually significant, in that the western forests were the nation's greatest source of supply. This year Governor C. C. Moore has issued a proclamation requesting the cooperation of the citizens of Idaho in the program.

the schools in the state for use in arranging suitable programs with which the students can observe the week. The co-operation of the schools which the committee believes is one of the most important factors in the protection work, is assured through a communication to all superintendents and teachers of the state from the office of Miss Elizabeth Russum, state superintendent of public instruction. Miss Russum points out that forestry is one of the most vital of Idaho's industries and that any proper and effective observance of the protection week demands the hearty co-operation of the public schools.

"The dependence of citizens in every walk of life upon the forests or the products of the forests in one form or another can hardly be over-estimated," said one of the communications from the committee. "Next to agriculture, the forest industries rank first in community dependence and in this western country even agriculture is in a large measure dependent upon the forests because the effectiveness of the waters used in irrigation is related to the presence of forests upon the headwaters of the streams. The national importance of the conservation of our forests is becoming a matter of general knowledge, but the average citizen fails to see his personal responsibility in the matter. It is this personal responsibility of every citizen which Forest Protection Week aims to emphasize, for by being careful with fires in the woods and doing all in our power to prevent forest fires and extinguish or report any which we may discover, we can all help materially to promote the prosperity of our country and state.

Largely Preventable

"About three-fourths of all the forest fires in this state are man-caused and therefore preventable. Unextinguished camp fires, cigarettes, and matches, and careless brush-burning are among the more important causes. The United States forest service, the state and the timber owners are spending from one to eight cents per acre per year for the protection of forest land and much greater amounts are represented in the costs of fire lighting and value of the resources destroyed, but no amount of money expended for protective organizations will really be effective unless every citizen co-operates wholeheartedly in seeing that no fires originate through his carelessness."

The sub-committees working with the general committee are as follows:

School committee: Dr. Henry Schmitz, assistant professor of forest products at the University of Idaho, chairman; Miss Elizabeth Russum, state superintendent of public instruction, and C. W. Watson, instructor in forestry at the university.

Speakers' Bureau—C. E. Behre, assistant professor of lumbering in the school of forestry, chairman; I. H. Nash, state land commissioner, and Ben E. Bush, state land agent.

Press committee—C. K. McHarg, chairman; Franklin Girard, United States forest service; F. S. Baker and Theodore Shoemaker of the office of public relations, United States forest service, Ogden and Missoula offices respectively.

Advertising committee: A. D. Decker, land agent, Potlatch Lumber company, chairman; Harry Shellworth, Ben E. Bush, C. L. Billings, land agent, Edward Rutledge Lumber company; Donald Yates, land department, Potlatch Lumber company.

It is vitally important that all chairmen be present.

SUMMER SCHOOL TERM TO START ON JUNE 12

SESSION DESIGNED FOR NEEDS OF TEACHERS

Dean J. F. Messenger is to be Director—Attractive Courses Are to be Offered.

Summer school at the University of Idaho will open June 12 and close August 10, according to bulletins which are being distributed. The university summer school is designed to meet the needs of teachers who are working for higher certificates or for a college degree and the courses planned for the coming session are unusually attractive and varied. Dean J. F. Messenger of the school of education is again director of the school.

The university dormitories will be available for summer school students and the announcement has been made that those who wish to attend commencement exercises which begin with an historical pageant June 9 may secure their rooms in advance. The baccalaureate sermon will be preached June 10, with commencement exercises the next day. The change in the commencement dates this year makes it possible for the first time for summer school students to reach the campus in time to attend all of the commencement events.

Many Courses Offered

Courses are being offered in agriculture, botany, chemistry, economics, political science and sociology, education, English, history, home economics, music philosophy, physical education, physics, psychology, zoology, general science, and mathematics. A course in play production is being offered for the first time in the summer school. The success of the Varsity Players over the state has created a desire on the part of high school teachers for better dramatics in high schools and this will be the first time that the regular university course has been given during the summer session.

In addition to the classroom work, recreational features are planned. Public lectures and entertainments will be given at frequent intervals. The list of lecturers is not complete yet but each of the previous sessions has presented speakers of national importance.

Took Law Here in 1918 While Teaching At Washington State.

How the University of Idaho helped to put a rung in the ladder of success for an international lawyer with offices in 12 cities all over the world is told in a biographical sketch of William Glenn Marvin, which is going the rounds of the newspapers.

Marvin who is today the head of a firm of private international lawyers reputed to be the biggest in the world, registered in law at the University of Idaho in the fall of 1915, while he was a faculty member at Washington State college, nine miles distant, making the trip back and forth, afternoons, to his studies.

Going to San Francisco Taking a master's degree at Washington State and finishing up his law work at the University of California, he opened his own law office in San Francisco immediately on graduation, and within a year was general counsel for one bank, special counsel for another, and represented several corporations.

"He has the priceless possession of a brain that can absorb, classify and use any collection of facts at peak speed," says a description of him.

Entering the war as a private in the aviation service, he acted as aviation instructor in many camps and at the war's end was chief of the technical staff at Wilbur Wright field, Dayton, Ohio.

"The war ended. Interested in the legal aspects of banking," says Clement Wood, "Marvin applied at the National City bank in New York for a job—any job, to start with. He was there two years. When he resigned he was head of the legal department and the division head over the insurance, the investigation and the foreign merchandise departments. Under his inspiration the legal and insurance departments became the model for all American banks. When he had risen thus far, despite the glowing opportunities open to him, he had caught a wider division; he had seen the need of something big which the commerce of America needed and suffered for lack of. Up to that time if any American manufacturer did business in foreign cities he had to trust to the uncertainties of foreign legal information and foreign banking facilities. This often meant the surrender of valuable American trade secrets. It was to remedy this that Mr. Marvin, still two years from thirty, resigned his big future with the banking industry of the country.

"First he became a member of Rosenberg, Ball and Marvin, who were known as the firm which did the largest corporation reorganization work in the United States. For one year he stayed here, and then he saw his way clear to start his own partnership. It was only a little more than a year ago that Marvin and Pleasants began its task of giving to American business men universal legal service, domestic as well as international. There was need for this work, especially the foreign part of it.

"And to-day? This young firm has seven foreign offices, at London, Brussels, Milan, Berlin, Mexico City, Havana, and Buenos Aires; it has four additional affiliated offices, in Stockholm, Moscow, Rio de Janeiro, and San Juan, Porto Rico; besides 3,100 foreign correspondents. The New York office now has nineteen lawyers and legal assistants, besides a staff of clerks, librarians, and stenographers. This young firm is today general counsel for the American Manufacturers Export association, the American Manufacturers Foreign Credit Insurance exchange, the American Chamber of Commerce in London, the American Chamber of Commerce in Berlin, and counsel for the division of commercial laws of the United States department of commerce. Besides this they represent many of the larger American corporations engaged in foreign trade."
