RADIO GAME REPORTS AGAIN BROADCASTED

UNIVERSITY STATION RESUMES OPERATIONS; SENDS PLAYS

Test Show That Plant Is Capable Of Reaching Remotest Parts Of United States

The University of Idaho radio broadcasting station has again been put into operation after a period of inactivity since last year, play-by-play reports of the recent Pacific Coast conference basketball games with the University of Montana having been sent out, with the assurance given that all games played on the local floor will be sent out by the local station during the season, a special booth having been erected in the gymnasium from which the caller may obtain an unobstructed view of the playing court.

That regular concerts will shortly be given by university musical talent for broadcasting purposes seems probable, a special program committee having been appointed for the purpose of arranging and approving the plan proposed by the faculty of the electrical engineering department.

REACHES ALL UNITED STATES

The Idaho station operates on a 360-meter wave length, and consists of a 50 watt set of the most advanced type. Reports received during the past fortnight as the result of tests conducted, have shown that it is capable of reaching to every corner of the United States, cards having been received from New York, Chicago, Southern California, and numerous mid-western localities seeking information as to broadcasting dates and programs.

The station is being operated by Kenneth House and Jack Woodworth of Moscow, two seniors in the electrical engineering, together with Jack Lieuallen of Moscow, proprietor of a local electrical furnishing establishment, under the direction of Prof. J. H. Johnson, head of the electrical engineering department.

Reserve Seats To Be Sold

Tickets for the O. A. C. game will be placed on sale at Jerry's on Thursday, prices will be the same as for the Montana game. Students will purchase their reserve seats in the hall of the Administration building and the faculty reserve will be on sale at the Bursar's office.

The game will be called at eight o'clock. Students must present A. S. U. I. tickets when purchasing reserve seats and also at the game.

Judith Lowry, who takes leading parts in Stuart Walker's Portmanteau productions.

Leading Lady to Address Members of English Club

Lady of the Portmanteau company will speak to the English club in Foreney Hall at four o'clock on Thursday afternoon. Every member in good standing is entitled to bring a guest. The meeting will be featured with an informal reception to all members of the Portmanteau company.

Mrs. Lowry has been with Stuart Walker practically every since the formation of his unusual theatrical company. She is a woman of charm and poise who has been in every big production of Walker's from "Seventeen" on. She will be seen in the leading lady's part of "Six Who Pass When the Lentils Boil".

This will be the first big social occasion of the year for the English club and the members expect a delightful time with their unusual guests.

Blue Bucket On Sale!
Copies of the Blue Bucket are on sale this afternoon in the corridor of the Administration building. Subscribers are asked to call for their copies. New subscriptions may yet be obtained for $1.00. Single copies are 30 cents. Students may have the staff send home a copy for them, without additional charge for postage.

VANDALS TO BATTLE OREGON AGGIE FIVE

IDAHO QUINTET IS IN TIP-TOP CONDITION FOR GAME

Fast Contest Is Promised When Varsity Meets O. A. C. Saturday Night

(By Louis A. Boas)

With their first two conference games successfully hurdled, the Idaho basketball squad prepares this week for an invasion Saturday by the Oregon Agricultural college quintet, reputed to be one of the strongest aggregations of basket-shooting stars on the Pacific Coast and which last year gave the Vandals a close run for the championship title, winding up the season in a tie with the University of Washington for third place.

The beginning of the season last Wednesday night against an all-star team from Tacoma, Washington, saw the Idaho men in not the best of playing trim—their attack was ragged and weak, while their defensive system, developed by Coach David MacMillan, and known throughout the west as the "Idaho five-men defense," failed to function as wholesomely as could be wished. In the Montana series just passed, however, a marked improvement was noticeable, especially during the second game, when local fans saw a return of the speedy footwork and brilliant strategy which for two years placed the Vandals foremost among western basketball circles.

ONE LETTERMAN BACK

Handicapped at the opening of practice by having but one letterman back in uniform, Coach MacMillan seems to have nevertheless triumphed in whipping together a combination which works well together, possessing a pleasing balance as to weight and height, and displaying real basketball possibilities.

Leading the squad which will face the Aggies here next Saturday will be Harold Telford, captain and all-Coast guard of last year, who as a leader and general is proving a decided success. He has had poor luck

BLUE BUCKET APPEARS GOOD FICTION OFFERED

Campus Magazine Presents Group Of Stories Written By Idaho Literary Talent

The first edition of this year's series of the Blue Bucket came off the press Monday and distribution to subscribers began today. The publication is somewhat late on account of reluctance on the part of campus writers to appear in print and other difficulties encountered by the staff, but it is hoped by the staff that the next issue can be gotten out more nearly on time.

The subscription list is rather light but it is expected the books will sell readily. They are for sale, and delivery to subscribers in the main hall of the Administration building.

Competent critics who have read the copy for the magazine pronounce it exceptionally good and far better than any previously published. The editors have tried to combine stories, humor, cuts, and cartoons in a way to please all readers.

"The Funeral," a story by Ruth Hawkins, is skillfully done and will be appreciated by those who like high class work of this kind. "The Landing of the Pilgrims" scores one for Thoreau as an humorist of ability. "The Vandals" by Talbot Jennings, "Forgotten" by Ruth Aspray, and "The North and South Highway" by Blaine Stubblefield, are well worth reading. A fantastic representation of the Vandal spirit, by Don Allen, adds much toward making the Blue Bucket well worth reading.

IDAHO VANDALS START FOR CHAMPIONSHIP WITH TWO VICTORIES FROM MONTANA BRUINS

MacMillan's Warriors Start Season by Winning First Two Conference Games—Team Showing Exceptionally Good Form in Basket shooting and in Floor Work

VISITORS OUTCLASSED IN FRIDAY'S GAME 19 TO 9

Showing promise of the brilliancy of form that has won Pacific Coast and Northwest conference championships for the University of Idaho in the past two seasons, the Idaho Vandals opened their conference schedule Friday night by taking the first game of a two game series from the University of Montana, 19 to 9. Teams meet again tonight at 8 o'clock. Montana was easily outplayed in every stage and department of the game and in the second half the visitors were held at a standstill by the passing of MacMillan's men.

The game, although featured by the close guarding of both teams, was fast and full of thrills. Idaho basketball enthusiasts left the gymnasium last night well satisfied with the showing of the Vandals.

HOLD MONTANA EASILY

In the second half Montana scored but one basket and practically all of the field counters of the visitors were made through long shots. The Vandals outpassed the Bruins and worked the ball in for short sure shots underneath the basket. Montana got away to a running start and acquired a six point lead early in the first period. The Vandals came back and by the middle of the first half had tied the score, and at the end of the period led, 11 to 7.

VANDALS SHOW

In the varsity game the Vandals worked as a machine with Captain Telford displaying most remarkable floor generalship. For Montana Illman, O. Dahlberg and Tanner were outstanding. Guy Penwell's speedy floor work and accurate shooting were features while "Bob" Fitzke delivered in excellent shape. Nelson proved himself an unusually capable guard and Reamer worked the floor nicely, passed accurately, and shot well. Captain Telford not only handled the Idaho team with good generalship, but he also played the usual stellar game that made him an All-Coast guard last season.

Varsity Summary

The summary of the varsity game follows.

Idaho (19) Position Montana (9)
Penwell R. F. Baney
Reamer L. F. G. Dahlberg
Fitzke C. Illman

Idaho Woman Presented Advanced Music Degree

The degree of master of music with major in piano, representing extensive study and work in composition since her graduation from the American Conservatory of Music, has been awarded to Mrs. Florence Roberts Sharp, assistant professor of music at the University of Idaho, by the American conservatory, from which she also has the bachelor of music degree.

Mrs. Sharp as part of her work for this degree will be published in the spring—one of piano selections and the other vocal. The degree was granted for work of a professional nature recognized by the press and by the foremost international authorities in music. It required an exhaustive study of the piano and all its literature from the standpoints of performer and of teacher. Thorough co-ordination of musical learning with history, literature and the sciences also was required.

DANCE
An all-college dance will be given by the Inter-Collegiate Knights in the gym following the game Saturday night. Music will be furnished by a five-piece orchestra. Admission 75c.

BRILLIANT TEAM WORK FEATURES SECOND CONTEST

Improvement in the team play and individual work of the University of Idaho Vandals featured the second game of the conference schedule when the Vandals won a second time Saturday night from the University of Montana five in the university gymnasium, 29 to 20. The game was faster and more interesting than the contest on Friday night also won by the Vandals, 19 to 9. The Vandals led on the scoring throughout the game, holding to 12 to 13 point lead most of the time, although Montana featured with a game rally in the closing minutes of the last half.

Bob Fitzke was the star of the contest with five field baskets while Reamer played a brilliant floor game and hooped two field baskets on difficult shots.

FASTER BASKETBALL SHOWN

All members of the Idaho quintet, Captain Telford, Penwell and Nelson, showed improvement over their first conference appearance and the visitors put up a much better brand of basketball with Illman and Tanner starting for the visitors.

Idaho jumped into a lead early in the game and closed the half with a lead of 11 points on an 18 to 7 score. The Bruins were outpassed at all times and the Idaho defense served to force long shooting by the Bruins for their baskets.

The Vandals are now in shape to meet the strong O. A. C. eleven here Saturday night and to fill in between conference clashes the fast Idaho freshman team meets the Lewiston Normal school quintet on the university hardwood Wednesday night. Reserved seats for the O. A. C. game will be placed on sale Tuesday morning at Jerry's.

ENGINEERS' MAGAZINE TO APPEAR ON CAMPUS

NAME WILL BE SELECTED BY PRIZE CONTEST

Publication Will Contain Technical And Scientific Writings; Editor And Manager Chosen

The Associated Engineers of the University of Idaho, comprising all students enrolled in the engineering college, have voted to publish an engineering magazine beginning this year, similar to other technical and scientific publications issued in other leading institutions. Fred Crandall of Salmon, a senior enrolled in civil engineering, was elected editor-in-chief of the publication for the ensuing year, and Kriss Crowther of Richfield, president of the engineering society, was made business manager, and together the two will pick their staff and start work upon the first publication.

ONE ISSUE THIS YEAR

Possibly only one issue will be put out this year, with a quarterly publication the ultimate aim of the association. The plan is receiving enthusiastic support from Dean Ivan Crawford and other members of the faculty who have offered their assistance in starting the publication. It is to contain technical articles written by students or leading engineers in the state and will be circulated not only among students but among the engineering profession in the state generally.

NAME CONTEST

The name of the new magazine will be selected from the suggestions made in the prize contest open only to engineers which is going on now. The contest closes Thursday night at which time the new magazine will be christened.

Religion Plays Part In Idaho Student Life

Religious Census Shows Majority Of Students Active In Church Affairs

Three-fourths of all the students attending the University of Idaho belong to some church or express a preference for one, according to the religious census for this year on which results are just announced. There are eight or more active churches in Moscow, each with its separate organization for attracting and handling university students. Special courses in Bible instruction, special classes in Sunday school and a variety of social activities are attracting many students.

The national board of education of the Methodist Episcopal church, at its last annual meeting, endorsed the plan of the local church for the organization of a Wesley Foundation in connection with the University of Idaho, which will result, within the year, in the placing of a special pastor.

"BOOK OF JOB" IS SUPER PRODUCTION

NATIONAL JOURNALS HIGHLY PRAISE WALKER'S DRAMA

University Students To Witness Perfected Portmanteau Dramatization Of Majestic Bible Story

(By Blaine Stubblefield)

When the curtain falls on Stuart Walker's production, "The Book of Job", next Thursday night at the university auditorium, Moscow will have had the rare experience of witnessing what is considered among the world's best in dramatics. According to the New York Times, The Outlook, The Boston Transcript, The Chicago Tribune, etc., capacity houses all over America have sat silent and awestricken through this most unusual piece.

Presented on the stage, "The Book of Job," at once becomes vivid drama. It contains the requisite "conflict of wills," a seldom equalled dramatic climax, and a technically sound denouement.

HAS HEBREW MUSIC

So far as is known, strains of ancient Hebrew music are heard for the first time in the modern theatre in "The Book of Job." The music that accompanies the laments of Job, according to Elliott Schenck, who arranged the score, dates back to earliest times.

"One of the most beautiful of these," says Mr. Schenck, "is 'Hosh ah Na,' which I have used in 'Cit-Mott'."

"The play," said Dr. George M. Miller, "is real drama. Stuart Walker saw the drama in 'Job,' and he has arranged the lines, without changing the words, as to bring it out. The thing is done with light and music."

ADVANCE SERMONS GIVEN

Some excellent discourses on the "Book of Job" were given Sunday morning in the churches.

"Suffering is a mystery whose full solution belongs to the secret things of the eternal," was the conclusion of one of these sermons.

The Bible story of Job opens with the wealthy Arabian trader Job, at home with his family. The next scene is in heaven, at the council of God, in which He decides to test Job and gives Satan permission to destroy his family and his property. Job "holdeth fast his integrity," and Satan goes back to God with: "Skin for skin, yea, all that a man hath will he give for his life. But put forth thine hand now, and touch his bone and his flesh, and he will curse thee to thy face." Satan is then given permission to torture Job, with one condition, that he must spare his life. Job is tormented almost beyond human endurance; his friends are repelled from him and his wife says, "Curse God and die." In the series of arguments between Job and his three friends, Eliphaz, Bildad, and Zophar, is found some of the finest literary style, some of the soundest reasoning, and most brilliant philosophy in the world of letters. After young Elihu has spoken, and Job still stands firm in his faith, the Diety comes to his relief and restores his family and his

Shiaks Fall for Princesses On Alluring Ice of Courts

The other morn as I did wake upon a world unknown, I saw a wondrous sight to see—two women all alone. Alone? Yea, Bo! Alone were they upon their skating rink, and so I piped the scenery; me thinks I saw a gink desport himself across the way and join them with much speed. And soon I saw a few more come to lend a hand indeed. They played rare games of olden times, like tag, and now you're it, and many were the new coined words that fell from some did lit. The day was fine—the weather warm—it was sure one grand sport, as I sat and watched them shake a leg upon the tennis court. They passed the skates from feet to feet; each brother took his spill. In fifty-seven varieties they all went through the mill.

This would I say, without delay.
A place must soon be built Where those who love the out-door life Can skate without eternal strife.
And fear of being killed.

Which would you choose to see: four decidedly average movies, or four decidedly unusual and remarkable one-act plays written by two of the most brilliant and capable living authors of the English-speaking world today? Both cost the same; and the movies will be here every day in the year, while Stuart Walker's Portmanteau theatre presents its four nationally famous one-act plays tonight probably for the first and last time during your college career and possibly during your life time.

Protection

Ignorance in regard to the clause of the A. S. U. I. constitution prohibiting the promiscuous solicitation of advertising from Moscow merchants led to a slight misunderstanding recently between officers of the student body and a campus organization. The matter was straightened out to the satisfaction of everyone, but in order to prevent a re-occurrence of the incident, a statement of the rule governing this point is given below:

ICE POND SPRINGS LEAK, WATER ESCAPES THRU HOLES

During the Christmas vacation the fairgrounds were flooded for the purpose of providing a skating rink for the university students and any others who might care to partake. It was flooded, that is the water was turned into it, but escaped through various and sundry gopher holes which had been put there by industrious little animals. As a consequence there is little likelihood that the place will be available for skating this year, or at least will not be as satisfactory as had been planned.

Next year we can profit by this year's experience and fill the holes made by the mischievous little animals, who through their lack of foresight, or their selfishness, have maledictions and bad wishes upon their fur covered heads.

"BOOK OF JOB" IS SPUER-PRODUCTION

BOOK WIELDS INFLUENCE

"The Inferno," "Paradise Lost," and "Paradise Regained," "Pilgrim's Progress," and the "Apocalypse," or "Revelation," are all based upon the story of Job. The author of the book is unknown and so is the date of its composition. Read its pages through and through and you will find no clue to its origin; search the letters of the world and your efforts are fruitless.

IRVIN S. COBB PRAISES

Irvin S. Cobb said, "I would rather have written the 'Book of Job,' in the Old Testament than any other book in the world, because in it, I think, there is more of majesty, of poetry, of imagery, and drama, than in any work of similar length known to me."

It is probable that the moment of highest dramatic tension ever reached in the university auditorium will come when Job, in the midst of his suffering and despair, and while the house is under the spell of the weird lighting and unearthly music, says, "I know that my Redeemer liveth."

Inter-mural Basketball Starts After Exams

Intra-mural basketball will come into prominence immediately after the first semester examinations, Dan McCrea, assistant athletic manager, who has charge of running off the inter-campus tourney, said today. To expedite matters, the campus has been divided into two groups, each of which will play a ten-game tournament series, the winners of the two groups to play a championship series of two out of three games.

Those organizations composing the two leagues are as follows: Group "A"—Phi Delta Theta, the Elwetats, Phi Alpha Psi, Sigma Nu, and Kappa Sigma. Group "B"—Lindley hall, Kappa Delta, Beta Theta Pi, Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and Phi Gamma Delta.

Representatives of the groups which met last Thursday to pass on schedules and rules consisted of John Reed for Phi Delta Theta, Bieler for the Elwetats; Stephen Stockdale for Phi Alpha Psi; Guy Wicks for Sigma Nu; James Neal for Kappa Sigma; Sylvester Kleffner for Beta Theta Pi.

Resistless Force—Controlled!

A POWER that can blast a mountain or crack a boulder—dig an isthmian canal or drain a swamp on the farm—has been created by the chemical engineer.

Today, explosives power is employed both in the heaviest and in the most delicate operations. The scientific control of this resistless energy has enabled explosives engineers to utilize it in a thousand ways undreamed of a generation ago.

Recently at the Frazier Quarries of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad in West Virginia, 60,000 pounds of du Pont dynamite were exploded at one time to bring down five hundred million pounds of stone for ballast. Literally a whole hillside was blasted out.

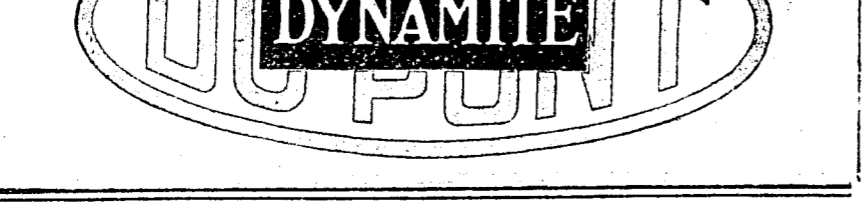

But in a power house in Baltimore, du Pont explosives were used to perform a different and delicate operation. This work involved blasting out five concrete bases in the basement of the building without damage to a switchboard that governed the distribution of power over a large section of the city.

So, in dynamite, we have a servant that will do our bidding in little things as well as big—a power that can be made to perform our work easier, better and cheaper in our industries and on our farms.

The du Pont Company has been making explosives since 1802. With the development in explosives manufacture have come many improvements to expand the use of the product. And it has been the privilege of du Pont, through exhaustive research and experiment, to lead the way.

Send for "Farmers' Handbook of Explosives" for full information about explosives on the farm.

Blue Shirt Club Comes to Harvard

Blue Shirts to the right of you, Blue Shirts to the left of you, Blue Shirts to the front of you, Blue Shirts all around you! A trip about the yard at Harvard college at any time will show the strength of the Blue Shirts.

The Blue Shirts, so-called, is an organization introduced at Harvard college to beat the laundry bills. In fact, the Blue Shirts have taken the college by storm.

The organization is strictly Harvard and is one of the most "revolutionary" bodies that has ever invaded the Cambridge institution. Of course, like other organizations, the Blue Shirts have a constitution.

"The Harvard Blue Shirts," the constitution reads, "is an organization restricted to Harvard undergraduates. It is affiliated with no political or religious organization. No officers are elected, no regular meeting place, no initiation ceremony of any kind, no by-laws and last of all, no dues.

All that is necessary to be a member is to wear a blue shirt. There is no levying of dues, initiation fees or payments of any kind. Just wear an honest-to-goodness blue shirt.

The aims of the Blue Shirts are: 1. To reduce laundry costs generally. 2. To oppose such organizations as the Ku Klux Klan.

tor here for work among the students, according to Dr. H. O. Perry, pastor of the Moscow Methodist church and a member of the national board of education.

The object of the foundation is to maintain religious educational work and pastoral influence among the students. For the present the work will be carried on in the local church building, but in the near future it is the intention of the Methodist church to build near the campus and establish a chair of community and social leadership, and later a school of religion.

Other campus organizations of a religious nature already functioning include the Westminster guild and the Christian Endeavor of the Presbyterian church, whose activities in a social as well as religious way are attracting many students. A special director for young people has been appointed by the Rev. Wayne S. Snoddy, pastor. This is Miss Myra Moody, a graduate of the university.

The Episcopal club branch of the Episcopal church has a large membership among the students.

The DeSmet club, an organization of Catholic students, is represented on the campus in a large number of activities and holds the names of many prominent students.

The Lakwell is a club composed of members of the Lutheran church, recently formed. Of the 1928 students who registered at the opening of the first semester, the following 1000 were members of or expressed preference for a particular church: Methodist, 270; Presbyterian, 218; Catholic, 120; Episcopal, 107; Christian, 102; Congregational, 60; Baptist, 48; Latter Day Saints, 48; Christian Science, 29.

Say, Aint That Th' Turtle's Heartbeat!

"Isn't that the turtle's heart beat?" is the latest thing in slang-expression, resulting from an experiment recently performed in the physiology building at the University of California. Due to the shortage of frogs for the experiment, turtles have had to be substituted. A shipment of frogs is on its way from New York, but until these arrive the work must be done on the shellbacks.

The head is gently tapped with an axe. Care must be exercised to use only sufficient force to break its neck. This accomplished, a portion of the shell is removed, and a string tied around the heart, which undisturbed by the absence of the cranium, keeps right on beating. In this way, with the help of a very accurate and scientific apparatus, the students are able to measure the heart beats and to determine the exact status of the heart affairs of the said turtle.

Freshmen Receive Numerals

The largest number of players on a freshmen football squad for several years have received numerals this season. This is perhaps accounted for in the fact that over one hundred men turned out to start the season, also a record for past years. Those receiving sweaters with numerals, were: John Baird, Brewer Lindberg, C. Hutchinson, R. Hutchinson, Thurston Dobbs, Chas. Diehl, Robert Putzier, John Miles, Stanley McDowell, Melvin Fuller, Edwin Stuart, John Garten, Mike Pearson, George Relyea, F. Powers, J. Hansen, Heber

Sharp, and Clem Cooper.

Frosh Play Lewiston Team

Another speedy basketball game will be played Wednesday evening when the Lewiston normal quintet meets the Idaho freshmen on the local floor. The Lewiston team is considered very strong and with the fast brand of basketball played by the freshmen Friday night a thriller is assured.

The game has been called for 7:30 Wednesday evening having been advanced from Thursday to avoid a conflict with the Stewart Walker play to held that evening. Seats will not be reserved for this game.

Automobile Crosses Sands of the Sahara

For the first time in history the great sand dunes of the Sahara have been crossed by an automobile. The route traversed covered 62 miles of the worst sand dunes of the whole desert. The trip, furthermore, was accomplished without incident and with comparative ease. The result is the opening up of a road between Southern Algeria and Southern Tunisia. Desert experts who parti-icipated in the trip declare that the completion of the journey means that the automobile may penetrate any part of the great desert. The automobile used on the trip has six pairs of wheels, the 8 rear wheels receiving the propelling power. Carrying six passengers besides the chauffeur, the car weighs about three tons when wholly loaded. Sahara conquered by the automobile means a great deal in the transportation problem of that area. The apparent ease with which it was accomplished, however, leaves one wondering that it was not tried before.

IDAHO FROSH LOSE FAST GAME TO CHENEY NORMAL

Vandal Babes Unable To Overcome Lead Gained By Visitors In First Half

In a most thrilling game with the Cheney Normal, the Idaho freshmen were unable to overcome a nine point lead piled up by the "School Marmas," after the beginning of the second half, and went down to a 28 to 25 defeat. The final gun barked, with the local yearlings staging a brilliant rally, which, starting in the last few minutes of play, carried them from a ten point handicap to within two baskets of victory. Long and difficult shots by the invaders netted them most of their points, while their peculiar five man defense prevented the freshmen from scoring much with their system of passing the ball directly under the basket before shooting.

This five man defense of the visitors caused a change of tactics by the Vandal Babes soon after the start of the game, and most of the scores from then on were made by long shots. Nedros and Miles were responsible for a large share of the Idaho points, though Buxton, forward, Green, and Pearson, guards, performed very creditably. Fouls were numerous and the Idaho frosh were able to convert them with great regularity.

Cheney has a fast team and a system of defense hard to beat. At no time did either team have a definite chance for victory. The issue was in doubt at all times and the fans were kept on their toes by the spectacular playing. Cheney was leading 14 to 11 at the half, and was in the lead at all times from then on.

The summary of the frosh contest follows:

Freshmen (25) Position Cheney (28)
 Buxton R. F. Moore
 Miles L. F. Pickering
 Nedros C. LeFevre
 Pearson R. G. Wynstra
 Greene L. G. Burpee

Substitutions: Freshmen —Martin for Buxton, Buxton for Martin. Cheney—Ashley for Moore, Moore for Ashley.

Freshman scoring—Field baskets, Marttin 1, Miles 2, Nedros 3, Green 2; ree throws, Nedros 3, Pearson 3, Green 3. Cheney scoring —Field baskets, Moore 3, Pickering 5, Le-

Fevre 3, free throws, Pickering 2, LeFevre 2, Burpee 1.

Gem of Mountains Staff Issue Call for Pictures

Cooperation on the part of the students and organizations of the campus, with the 1924 issue of the Gem of the Mountains is required at this time. The staff has the annual well under way but must have the students and different organizations hurry and have the rest of their pictures taken and also secure the space they are to use. All things so far promise to make this annual the best yet.

Time was extended until January 20 for the final date for all pictures to be turned in. All who have not looked after this matter must do so this coming week.

"The Beauty Contest" contestants for the annual may secure folders for photograph and snap shots may be obtained at the U hut. Further particulars may be secured from Peter Drus about this matter. All the fair and the choicest of the fair should try to arrange for these pictures to the best advantage as pictures of the girls of the campus will be sent to John Heid Jr. for judgment whether the individuals take it upon themselves to or not.

During registration days, February fourth and fifth, annuals will be put on sale in the Administration building. This will be the last chance to obtain them. But anyone leaving at an earlier date may arrange to get one from the business staff at any time.

Merle Drake, business manager of the Gem of the Mountains reports that the advertisements already amount to as much or more than they did last year but a good many more of these year books must be sold yet.
