

SUPPORT RALLIES FOR MEMORIAL GYMNASIUM

Association Incorporated to Carry Through Project

The building of an Idaho war memorial in the form of an armory and gymnasium at the University of Idaho looms up as one of the major state wide projects for this year with the announcement by Robert D. Leeper, Lewiston attorney and president of the Idaho Memorial Building association, that plans are now well under way.

After a series of monthly meetings which began in September, 1923, the Idaho Memorial Building association has been incorporated under the state law with the purpose, as expressed in the articles, of building an armory and gymnasium at the state university in memory of the Idaho soldiers and sailors who participated in the World War.

ASSOCIATION OFFICERS

Officers of the association are Robert D. Leeper, Lewiston, president; J. Ward Arney, Coeur d'Alene, and Paul Davis, Boise, vice-presidents; George Horton, Moscow, secretary-treasurer; Dr. Harry Einhouse, Moscow, and L. V. Patch, Payette, directors. Paul Davis, with headquarters at Boise, will act as managing-director.

"The Idaho memorial was first sponsored by the university alumni association at its annual meeting in June, 1923," says Mr. Leeper's announcement. "In July, the American Legion in department convention at Coeur d'Alene passed a resolution endorsing the project with the belief that the state university was the proper place to locate such a memorial building where the oncoming generations, representing on the campus every section of the state, would have before them the inspiration of the memorial. Commander Davis appointed a committee from the Legion to cooperate with the university alumni and with a representative business men's committee. A committee appointed by Talbot Jennings, president of the university student body, will cooperate for the students.

"HALL OF MEMORIES"

"The Idaho memorial, as planned, will be used by the military department of the university as an armory for the training of cadets. It will also serve as a gymnasium. It will contain memorial rooms in which will be preserved forever the name and record of every man from Idaho who served not only in the World War, but in all other wars. The memory of the dead will be enshrined in a "Hall of Memories." Space will be provided for the preservation of relics of historical import.

"Every civic, fraternal, and patriotic organization in the state has evinced a lively interest in the project. Manager Davis is laying the foundation for an extensive program during the coming months, which it is anticipated, will culminate on Armistice Day, November 11, 1924."

GIRLS' GLEE CLUB SCORES ON SOUTH IDAHO TOUR

(By Mandelle Wein)

The Girls' glee club of the University of Idaho returned from a successful trip through southern Idaho, where they won the admiration of all who heard their unique program of songs and skits.

Miss Florence Selby, soprano soloist, showed to advantage in the whimsical old Irish melody, "The Lass With the Delicate Air", which drew rounds of applause. Her silvery coloratura took the runs and cadences with ease and grace.

Carl Claus, instructor of violin in the university music department, played "Nocturne in E Flat," by Chopin, "Minuet by Boccherini," and "Waltz Bluette" by Drigo-Auer, with brilliant technique, and received numerous encores.

EIGHT CHORUS NUMBERS

There were eight chorus numbers given. Sprightly "Sylvia" and sparkling Hungarian gypsy music by Brahms were chosen for the opener and several of the favorite campus songs for the finale. That which afforded much entertainment was the uproarious take-off, "Susy's Band," which was directed by Marie Johnson. The dance numbers, the wooden shoe dance from "Sweethearts," led by Louisa Martin, the Spanish dance by Elizabeth Thomson, and the Minnet by Eva Jane Wilson and Fern Cranston Anderson won hearty applause for the skill and talent expressed by the dancers in their work. Edwin Orlo Bangs, director of the group, was in charge, and Miss Irene Starrh of Boise, was accompanist. The club will give its home concert in the university auditorium on the evening of March 28.

University Club for Twin Falls Formed

Former Students and Graduates Start Organization

With the purposes of advancing the interests of the University of Idaho in southern Idaho and of fostering social relationships among alumni and former students of that institution, a University club was established in Twin Falls at a meeting of alumni and former students held Tuesday afternoon in the high school building at Twin Falls.

Organization of the club was effected with election of the following officers: President, Carl Brown; vice-president, Lynn Stewart; secretary, Miss Priscilla Munson. A committee to work with the officers in drafting a constitution and by-laws for the club was named to be composed of Mrs. A. J. Peavey and Miss Esther McRoberts.

Mrs. Peavey presided over the organization meeting, which was attended by about 25 young men and women representing more than 50 graduates and former students of the state university who are residents of Twin Falls and vicinity.

The next meeting will be held upon call of the club's president, it was announced.

Kiote Views Wild Life

Dear Ma,

Well ma I have went to so many basketball games I ain't had time to run the old Chalmers any, as they is about half of the kids in Idaho here playing ball to see which one can win. Ma if speedball has any ticks on him I wish you would put cole oil on them as ticks makes him pour. Has pa came home ma. I seen him at the Davenport last week and he said he only had fifty cases left and ma he had a Packard brand new and said he will take us to Yellowstone when college is out.

Ma if pa ain't there you better have Russ shove all them steers off the benches up into the canyons as it is spring now and we want the grass for winter. It will soon be song and stunt day and they are going to have me in the stunts, but I hope you and pa can run the Packard up here to see me as everybody else will be there to see me.

your son, Kiotey Bill.

P.S. Ma when I went in the Davenport a lot of boys wanted my satchel so I guess they knew I was pa's son. —Kiotey.

P. S. And they give me a room with a sink and bathtub and stuff in it so I went back and says do you think I want fellows coming in my room all the time so give me a private room. —Kiotey.

VANDALS ABROAD

Perhaps one reason why many live-wire men choose the profession of law is because one can combine a good law business with a great many other activities. The better the lawyer and the greater volume of business he has, the wider still is his influence and participation in state and community affairs. Undoubtedly this proclivity is characteristic of University of Idaho students because they have been used to supplementing their curriculum with the management of divers campus activities.

Robert Dwight Leeper, Idaho '13, must have received this sort of intensive training, for he hits an early stride in both legal and community affairs since graduation. He also took time out to devote himself to the pursuit of international affairs during 1917-18 as a first lieutenant of infantry in the 91st division overseas. Since the war his chief interest, apart from his legal business, has been the American Legion. He is a past department commander, having held the highest legion office in Idaho during 1921-22. He lives at Lewiston, a city some thirty odd miles to the south of us, and at present is the northern representative on the board of commissioners of the Idaho bar. That this job is an important one will be duly realized by the present graduating class in the law school when they want admittance to the bar for the commission determines by rules the qualifications and requirements for admission to the practice of law in the state and of conducting all future applications for admission. Its powers extend further to the formation and enforcement of rules regarding the conduct of all attorneys at law, subject to review by the supreme court when disciplinary action is taken.

Since his graduation "Bob" Leeper has maintained close contact with the university and this year will be an outstanding figure as president of the Idaho Memorial Building Association, which will direct the project of the memorial gymnasium and armory, to be placed at the university in honor of the Idaho soldiers in the World War. The board of directors of the Memorial association are level-headed gentlemen who propose to conduct this project on a strictly business basis. They do not intend to make the office of president of the board a complimentary honor and nothing else. The man they have chosen must have "shown his stuff" as Samuel Johnson put it, and on that basis they could not have chosen a better executive than "Bob" Leeper, Idaho '13.

Not all the graduates of the University School of Mines are in Mexico or the Coeur d'Alenes. One of them is now at the state capitol in Boise, busy holding down one of the most important public offices in a great mining commonwealth, that of State Mine Inspector. This man is Stewart Campbell, Idaho, '07, better known to old-timers on the campus as "Pedro." Mr. Campbell's business in the state house is not only to further the interests of the mining industry in Idaho, but also to curb both journalistic and stock-selling activities of over-enthusiastic wild-cat promoters. This duty he has fulfilled to the complete satisfaction of legitimate mining companies and the public—of everyone, in fact, but the wildcats. Mr. Campbell was also a member of the 12th Idaho legislature representing Blaine county. He lives at Hailey, where in private life he maintains a private engineering practice, being a licensed civil engineer as well as a mining engineer. He is a member of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers and of the A. S. M. E. He is also an ex-1st lieutenant of Engineers, U. S. A. Not the least of Mr. Campbell's contribution to the Idaho industry is the co-ordination and enlargement of a library on mining subjects which is kept in the office of the state mine inspector. Yes, of course, "Pedro" Campbell, Idaho, '07, is married and has two children, Norman D. and Helen Shirley, eight and four respectively.

Boys and Girls Clubs Offered Ag Course

Every boy and girl club member in Idaho can secure a week's intensive and practical training in the fundamentals of agriculture and home economics by attending the boys' and girls' club short course at the University of Idaho, June 15, to 22. The work will be handled under the direct supervision of the university faculty and extension specialists.

Special consideration will be given to individual projects through practical judging and demonstrations in both field and laboratory in the major junior projects: animal husbandry, dairy husbandry, poultry, baking and sewing. A limited amount of special work and lectures will be offered by the various departments in interior decoration, beautifying the farm home and grounds, literature, music and art in the home, ideal community life, health, sanitation and hygiene, and farming as a business.

The university prize-winning herds of livestock, the university farm, experimental plots, and home economics laboratories, with complete modern equipment, will be used by club members under careful supervision. These facilities will furnish an excellent opportunity for study and practical training in judging and demonstration work.

ELABORATE PROGRAM

A well-balanced program providing entertainment and exercise is being planned. One special feature will be a by state-line picnic where approximately one thousand Washington and Idaho club members will meet for the evening. Another will be a track and field meet for all club members, where official state track records for clubs may be made. Special contests are being arranged and each club is expected to put on a "club stunt" during one evening.

DORMS TO BE OPENED

University of Idaho dormitories will house all club members and local leaders attending, and meals will be served there at cost. Both boys and girls will at all times be properly chaperoned, and the best accommodations will be provided.

Down Nampa way, Ted Turner, chairman of Canyon county states that each student from that county has pledged to write to the people selected at the last county meeting and to send them copies of the Argonaut regularly. This sounds like Ted has something up his sleeve in the way of bringing a special delegation of Canyon county seniors up here next fall. He also intimated some live doings in each city of the county this summer and has city chairmen appointed to help him. Ted said that when they got through this summer talking to the students down there, everyone would want to come up here so badly they'd have to charter a special train for that county alone.

Twin Falls county sent up a large delegation of new students last fall and under the able guidance of Elmer Wyland, they are planning to bring all those who failed to show up. "I haven't anything very definite to offer at this time as to the sort of entertainment we intend to give for the high school seniors next summer, but what ever it will be they'll all know that Idaho is a live school and they'll want to come up."

Other counties are nearly as active and are making their plans for interesting students in coming to Idaho.

SPRING TO WITNESS PASSING OF "EMP" AS VANDAL MASCOT

Empire, Great Dane mascot of the Vandals, is going home. Way back last September students of the University of Idaho stopped to admire a giant brown dog that stalked majestically about the campus. By the time the autumn sunshine was witnessing the traditional conflict between the Vandal and W. S. C. Cougar, Empire held the unique distinction of being the best known figure on the campus. He was official mascot of the Idaho team.

Empire came to Idaho from a Payette ranch. He was six months old when he arrived at the university. His father had taken first prize in the registered Great Dane class at the Madison Square Gardens. Empire himself was no ordinary dog before he acquired the Idaho mascot-ship. He was fully registered and had been insured for the price of a new Ford.

REGISTERED AT HOTELS

When the Idaho team started on its long California trip to tackle the hardest teams in the conference, Empire was with it. He was photographed for the newspapers with "Skippy" Silvers and Bob Fitzke and is declared to be the first dog to have been registered at hotels.

Upon his return from California Empire received a letter from the mayor of Moscow tendering him the "freedom of the city for one year" and welcoming him as a new Moscow citizen. The dog's license was inclosed with the letter.

MUST GO

Since the close of the football season, Empire hasn't had a great deal to do except sleep and play occasionally on Blake avenue with a few stray friends. To the casual observer Empire seems a mild tempered, good natured dog, but the chief of police has advised that he be sent home to prevent his being poisoned. The very appearance that made him successful as a college mascot has made him seemingly ferocious to some citizens.

Education and "Frills"

NUMEROUS letters of inquiry regarding expenses at the University of Idaho seem to warrant a presentation of the situation as it is on the Idaho campus.

Besides his actual running expenses, which are carefully estimated in the university catalogue, the student is not required either by custom or rule to spend anything more for social or other activities.

The university maintains, by custom or rule, a strict regulation of the social activities of all organizations on the campus. Only one formal dance a year is allowed each group, and dates for informal house dances must be obtained by petition from the calendar committee in charge of granting such dates.

In the case of formals, custom has completely eliminated the sending of flowers and the use of cars or taxis unless, of course, weather conditions are bad.

Student-owned automobiles on the campus are conspicuous by their absence. With the exception of an occasional "bug" or Ford owner, everybody walks at Idaho.

Daily observation will verify the statement that University of Idaho students dress sensibly and simply on the campus. Corduroys, boots and sheepskin coats for men, and middies, sports skirts and sweaters for women are the rule.

The percentage of students at Idaho who are entirely or partly self-supporting is so large that they are the rule rather than the exception, and among their number will be found many of the most popular and influential men and women on the campus.

The university administration and students are cooperating to keep down expenses in so far as they make for too many superfluous "frills" to college education.

High School Man: University

THE seventh interscholastic basketball tournament is over. Eight teams, representing every part of the state, have visited their state university, and are now back in their respective towns.

But if the high school basketball player saw and heard things unworthy of any college man or woman and if he received from any student treatment unbecoming to university people, he will not be hesitant about voicing his conclusions.

The paddy green shades of St. Patrick inspired the formal dance given by Forney and Ridenbaugh balls at Ridenbaugh on Friday night, March 14.
