STIVERS PICKED AS SECOND BEST FIELD GENERAL IN COUNTRY

More Than 200 Sport Scribes Pick Versatile Vandal Quarterback for Second All-American Team

Vernon L. "Skippy" Stivers, triple-threat man and versatile field general of the Idaho football team, is rated as the second best quarterback in the entire country by a consensus of 200 observers, including coaches and sport writers, and has been placed on the second all-American team.

Stivers shares honors on the mythical eleven with Stuhldroher, Notre Dame quarterback, who was picked for the first All-American team and with Covington, quarterback on the famous Centre college eleven, named on the third team.

There were 12 Pacific Coast players rated among the best 10 of their respective positions.

Charles (Dad) Hausen, veteran Idaho tackle, is given the call as sixth best right tackle in the country, while Huston Stockton, captain and left halfback of the Gonzaga team which played Idaho at Spokane early in the season, is picked as third best left halfback.

The selections for first, second and third teams by the 200 experts are as follows:

First Team — Luman (Yale), lb; Bjorkman (Dart.), re; Horrell (Cal.), c; Weir (Neb.), lt; Waldorf (Syr.), rt; Stuhldroher (Notre D.), qb; Farwick (Army), lg; Pondelk (Chicago), rg; Grange (Ill.), lh; Crowley (Notre D.) rh; Hazel (Rutgers), fb.

Second Team — Berry (Lafayette), lb; Taylor (Navy), re; Lovejoy (Yale), c; McGinley (Penn.), lt; Shipkey (Stan.), rt; Stivers (Idaho), qb; Budd (Lafayette), lg; Bieherstein (Wis.), rg; Tryon (Colgate), lh; Pond (Yale), rh; Wycoff (Geo. Tech.), fb.

Third Team — Lawson (Stanford), lb; Wakefield (Vander), re; Walsh (Notre Dame), c; Tilson, W. and Lee), lt; Joss (Yale), rt; Covington (Centre), qb; Abramson (Minn.), lg; Diehl (Dart.), rg; Stockton, (Gon.), lh; Baker (Northwestern), rh; Levi (Haskell), fb.

RARE OPERATION

Rochester, Minn.—The Mayo Brothers are soon to undertake one of the rarest operations known to medical science when they attempt to cure a Spokane man of paralysis. The operation is little known in America but when tried has been generally successful. If they make it possible for Mr. Williams to walk, a step in surgery will have been accomplished.

CHRISTMAS SONGS COMES NEXT WEEK

Custom Started Three Years Ago Is Now An Annual Event

Christmas Carol week, the week preceding Christmas vacation is an annual custom at the University of Idaho at which the students gather around a large tree in front of the Administration building to sing carols and to sing at the hospitals.

This custom started three years ago with only a few people singing in the various houses. Then two years ago this custom developed in the lighting of the large tree, and around which the students sing carols.

A visitor who witnessed the spectacle last year, wrote a letter saying that he had been deeply impressed by the beauty of the custom, and that the University of Idaho would be the only place for his daughters.

ENGLISH CLUB PLAY IS WELL RECEIVED

Garbed in the habiliments of a pugilist, George Morey furnished a rare bit of entertainment to the audience that watched the play staged by the English club in the university hut last evening.

The farce was taken from one of the Oxfordshire St. George plays, and presented by 12 members of the English club. The act was well received. Beside the play, a reading was given by Miss Jean Springer.

After the interment, plum pudding was served.

FARMERS DEFEAT THE BARRISTERS TO DO BATTLE IN GYM

Following a university tradition of a basketball game to settle the ancient squabble as to whether the farmers or the members of the bar best represent red blooded manhood, Ag students Thursday issued a challenge to mortal conflict to the law students. The challenge follows:

To You, the unnecessary parasites of society,

To You, who are living continuously in your own lies,

To You, effeminate being, living on the proceeds of honest producers,

To You, who have not done a bit of real honest work in your lives,

To You, who never have had, have, or even will have nerve and ability to earn the living by the sweat of your brow,

Read this and weep: We, the mighty tribe of Ags of the University of Idaho, do hereby and herewith challenge the lowdown and worthless parasites, known locally as lawyers, on the mighty combat in ancient and time honored sport, basketball. It is not only the love of the

HOT DEBATE HELD IN HOUSE MATCHES OVER ABSENCE RULE

Three Intramural Contests Are Closely Contested; Kappa Sigma, Betas, and Delta Chi Winners

Kappa Sigma, Beta Theta Pi and Delta Chi debaters won from Gamma Phi Beta, Alpha Chi Omega and Beta Chi representatives respectively in three intra-mural contests held in the Ad building Tuesday night.

Kappa Sigma, affirmative team won from Gamma Phi Beta negative team on the question, Resolved: That the University of Idaho Should Abolish the Present Absence System in the first of the three hotly contested word arguments. Paul Harlan and Philip Alexander presented the arguments for Kappa Sigma and Lucile Eaton and Mary Russell represented Gamma Phi.

In the second debate Alpha Chi Omega affirmative team lost to the Beta Theta Pi negative team on the question, Resolved: That the United States Should Recognize the Soviet Government of Russia. Margaret Dueval and Dorothy Tolman composed the Alpha Chi Omega team and "Dad" Hausen and James Allen represented Beta Theta Pi.

Resolved: That the City of Moscow Should Adopt the City Managerial Form Government, was the question of the debate in which Delta Chi affirmative team was successful over the Beta Chi negative team. Edward Brabb and Fred Cromwell upheld the question for Delta Chi while Warren Duffy and Clement Sievers defending the negative for Beta Chi.

The question of the absence rule, was defined by Mr. Harlan first speaker for the affirmative, in which he stated:

"During the past twelve weeks at the University of Idaho an experiment in attendance has been tried and found wanting. This absence rule is the set of regulations which as a whole govern attendance at classes, and which specify the penalties and bonuses resulting from such attendance or non-attendance. Our purpose will be to show you is. The first example of its unsatisfactory nature can be found in the injustice which results from its application. It affects the student who is active in student and campus affairs, it strikes at the student who is capable of doing the required amount of work in less than the prescribed time, and it seriously threatens the student who is forced to work his way through school. Our active students are a large and integral part of the student body and they take part in all university affairs.

"However, the very nature of these activities is such that their can be no scheduled time for much of the work which they require. In-

SUBSCRIPTIONS ARE SLOW FOR ANNUAL

Must Know Before Christmas How Many Want Gem of Mountains

Subscriptions to the Gem of the Mountains, Idaho's annual, are coming in slowly, and students should promptly sign up and make a deposit, said Kenneth Anderson, business manager, Thursday evening. Mr. Anderson said:

"There seems to be a false impression among the students in regard to the call for subscriptions for the 1925 Gem of the Mountains. The rather poor response seems to be due the impression that they can subscribe 'any time next spring' but this is not so in any sense, or, the campaign for subscriptions would not be held until next spring.

"This matter is not optional with us because it states in the printing contract that, 'January 15th shall be the closing date for the number of copies desired.' Together with this and the fact that there are nearly three weeks of vacation in which nothing along this line can be done, there seems to be no time like the present.

1-7-c "The Gem is the official year-book of the A. S. U. I., so it is up to the students to give it their entire support. The sale of the annual has been placed in the hands of the Intercollegiate Knights and the Spurs who represent every group on the campus and members of these groups may procure subscriptions from their representative. There will be an initial payment of $2 and a final payment in the spring, when the annual comes out, which will not exceed $2.25 additional."

DEBATE TRYOUTS FOR WOMEN ON WED.

Tryouts for women for places on the varsity debate squad has been set for Wednesday in room 217 Administration building. The speakers will be allowed a five minute speech on either side of the question, Resolved: "That the United States Should Become a Member of the League of Nations." The tryout is open to any girl registered in the university.

MATERIAL GOOD FOR FROSH HOOP TEAM

Former High School Stars Available; Squad Cut to Thirty Men

After three weeks of practice a freshman basketball squad of 75 players has been thinned down to 30 men by acting Coach MacMillan. Another cut in the size of the squad is expected within a few days when the regular first string squad will be selected.

Coach MacMillan has a brilliant galaxy of former high school stars from which to mold a future Vandal team and they are fast rounding into condition for a hard season's grind. Fundamentals in handling the ball and floorwork have occupied most of the practice periods and scrimmages has only been held for the last few workouts. Athletic Director R. T. Mathews will assume the mentorship of the frosh squad immediately upon his return from the Pacific Coast conference meeting and will have charge of them throughout the season.

The Vandal Babes will get into action on December 18 when they meet the Lewiston State Normal quintet on the Lewiston floor. Outstanding men on the frosh squad are: Roise and Woody of Moscow; Canine, Burley; Dean, Trenton, N. J., Jacoby, Bonners Ferry; O'Donel, Portland; Ellsworth, Idaho Falls and Byer, Robinson, and Silverthorne of Boise.

W. S. C. HARD UP.

Pullman—Washington State College has had no new recitation halls in 10 years yet the attendance has gone up 120 per cent. They are hoping to get financial help from the farmers of the state, and until such help is available it will be necessary to cut down on the number of student instructors.

MATHEWS HAS NOT SIGNED ARTICLES

Idaho Mentor Declines To Talk About Next Year, Following Return

R. L. Mathews, football coach and head of the department of physical education, returned Wednesday noon from Chicago, where he went immediately after the Idaho-Nevada Thanksgiving day game at Boise.

A report from Chicago a few days ago that Washington University, St. Louis, an institution numbering 4,000 students, was dicker for the services next year of Mathews, spread consternation among fans throughout Idaho. Coach Mathews, refused to make any statement with while in the east, merely repeating the assertion that he had signed no contracts as yet, either with the University of Idaho or any other institution.

He went east at the call of Knute Rockne, Notre Dame coach, who wanted to talk over with Mathews what sort of team he would run 'up against when he tackles the Stanford Cardinals in the Tournament of the Roses East-West classic at Los Angeles, New Years' day. Mathews is a former pupil of Rockne, and has used his system of coaching both here and at Willamette University, where he was formerly coach.

Mathews, together with Dean M. F. Angell, chairman of the Idaho faculty athletic commission, left Wednesday for Portland to attend the Pacific and Northwest conference meetings this week-end. Graduate Manager A. H. Knudson will not be in attendance.

ALPHA KAPPA XI INITIATES TWELVE

Alpha Kappa Xi initiated twelve members Tuesday at the Blue Buckle Inn. A banquet was held in honor of the new members. Addresses were given by President Upham and Professor Dale, head of the economics department. Dr. Upham spoke on the business outlook of the organization and the progress of the graduates of the university in business as compared to the average man in the business world today.

MOSCOW GIRL WINS MEMORIAL CONTEST

Lucinda Tuttle, 17, Awarded First Place in High School Essay Competition

Miss Lucinda Tuttle, 17-year-old Moscow high school girl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Tuttle of East Seventh street, was pronounced the winner of the first prize in the state-wide essay writing contest in connection with the campaign for funds for Idaho's proposed memorial gymnasium building on the University of Idaho campus, when the state judges met at Boise Saturday and went over the large number of manuscripts. The first prize was $50 and a total of six cash prizes, totaling $100 will be given. The prizes were offered by the class of 1923 of the university.

The subject of the essay was: "Why should we erect a memorial building in honor of Idaho's soldier dead?"

More than 50 essays were considered by the judges who used the system in determining the winner which was used in the interstate oratorical contest; that is the judges did not meet until each had made his selection of what he thought were the best 15 essays, after which the results were compared. The judges were Mayor E. B. Sherman of Boise, Mrs. Clara Brown, chief clerk in the state reclamation department at Boise, and William B. Pratt, of the Idaho Statesman editorial staff. The contest was for all boys and girls between the ages of 12 and 18 years.

The following is the text of the winning essay, written by the Moscow girl:

"It is related of Alexander the Great that when seated at the banquet table, surrounded by his favorite generals he asked, 'Are all here who fought at Issus?' Citus answered him saying, 'Yes, Alexander, all are here who fought at Issus,'

ONE ACT PLAYERS WILL APPEAR IN FANTASTIC MASKS

Fantastical — This one adjective characterizes perfectly the little theatre one-act play, "The Princess and the Woodcutter," to be given by play production students next Wednesday and Thursday nights in the "U" hut in connection with "The Shepherds," a three-act tale of the nativity, as the Christmas program of the class.

There will be several familiar forms in the little comedy—W. S. (Fat) Stephens; Mandelle Wein; Hester Yost, Beardsley Merrill, and several others. One could hardly say familiar faces, for each physiognomy will be concealed under a mask. Eugene Springer has been making the masks (or masques).

The art of masked players is very old, dating back to ancient Greece, Miss Springer says. In recent times, use of the mask is being tried in dramatic circles in the interpretive dance and in pantomime, but use of it in a spoken play is new in this country. The masks, like those of the ancients, will be intended to express

PRESIDENT UPHAM GIVES LECTURE TO VERDENT FRESHMEN

Chief Executive Explains to Yearlings History of the University

"The state university is the state engaged in educating its sons and daughters," according to President Upham in his lecture to the yearlings last Tuesday. "Many people think of the university as a mere group of buildings at Moscow, when in reality it is the whole state working for the good of the students.

There are several hundred students enrolled in the university who are not on the campus. They are doing correspondence work under the extension division, which is conducted in addition to the regular courses.

"Among other things, Idaho has the distinction of being the only college in the country to be created by territorial enactment, later to be confirmed by the state legislature. A controlling board of five regents to keep paternal eye on the state institutions of learning was provided for.

The chairman of this board is the state commissioner of education, and is the only member devoting full time to the work. Our president and faculty are directly responsible to them."

"This board cares for financial problems, that all important subject of the student, the president said. Federal funds under the Morrill act amount annually to $50,000 for agriculture and mechanical arts, and under the Hatch and Adams act to $30,000 for experimentation work. In addition a varying allowance is made for extension work, while more is received from the products, sale, or rentals of school lands throughout the state. Appropriations of the legislature add much to this, but they fall short of making the total which the school needs.

"In the face of this handicap," said the President, "we have immediate objectives that must be attained. We must have funds for the rapidly increasing instructional staff and we all know that Idaho is seriously in need of a permanent building program. Money is needed to complete and furnish the new science hall and to remodel the old quarters of the science department. These things are needed in the very near future and should be of vital importance to all university students. If some Idaho student is fortunate enough to get into the legislature in the next few years we feel confident that he will exert every effort in our behalf.

CHRISTMAS BAZAAR BE HELD SATURDAY

Kappa Alpha Theta sorority will hold its annual Christmas bazaar at Mrs. Fisher's millinery shop Saturday. Various Christmas gifts will be on sale at reasonable prices. The proceeds of the sale will go toward the Theta scholarship club.

CHRISTMAS SPECIAL WILL CARRY MANY; SCHEDULE ISSUED

Train Leaves Moscow Dec. 20; Students Urged to Make Reservations Early; More Than 300 Will Spend Holidays in South

The Christmas special, bound for Southern Idaho and "home" for something over 300 Idaho students, will leave at 2 o'clock Saturday, December 20, just two hours after school is dismissed, according to a bulletin issued by the Union Pacific system. The special will arrive in Moscow on the return trip on the afternoon of Sunday, January 4.

The train will be made up of 12 cars including seven sleepers, one baggage car, one coach, two dining cars and one composite observation car. No mention was made in the bulletin of the proposed two section special, and it is planned to break up the train at Boise, running three sleepers on to Pocatello from Nampa. The train will be the same both going and returning.

Reservations for sleepers have already opened, and authorities are urging that students purchase tickets as early as possible so that any alterations necessary in the make up of the train can be adjusted.

The schedule was announced as follows:

SOUTHERN IDAHO GETS TRACK MEET

State High School Contest to Be Held at Pocatello Tech Instead of Moscow

The annual Idaho high school interscholastic track and field meet, to be held May 9, will be staged at the Idaho Technical institute at Pocatello, was learned following a recent request made by the board of control of the interscholastic athletic league. The meet determines the state championship, and contestants are chosen at district meets.

The annual field meet has been held for a number of years at the University of Idaho at Moscow, and local fans and boosters for the tournament, which annually draws a large number of high school athletes to the campus, feel chagrined to learn that it has been shifted to the southern part of the state.

The change was made, however, so that competing costs would be more equally distributed, allowing those teams from the southern part of the state to attend this year at a great reduction over their former expenses to Moscow.

The Moscow chamber of commerce recently went on record as backing the proposal coming from Coach R. L. Mathews as director of the department of physical education at the university that the university again offer to stage the field meet. Preliminary plans for the annual event are said to be already underway.

Final Examinations

As the end of the first semester draws near the thoughts of Idaho men and women are turned toward that awe inspiring event which occurs twice a year—final examinations. In the minds of most students it appears a terrifying nightmare; a catastrophe that hovers near for a whole semester and then suddenly descends in all of its wrath bringing devastation to the unsuspecting and sadness to the hearts of all.

Much has been said about an honor system at the University of Idaho, but we still remain among that large group of schools that depend more upon the vigilance of the instructor than the integrity of the student.

In spite of the fact that we have no written code of honor for examinations Idaho students are, for the most part, honest, fair and trustworthy. They realize that character building is an integral part of a college education and that the old saying "honesty is the best policy" is more truth than poetry.

A Little Knowledge

"A little learning is a dangerous thing"—these words are immortal because they have the ring of truth. The same thing might be said of a little information especially if it falls into the hands of a over zealous newspaper reporter or a misguided editorial writer.

It is with a feeling of pity for the blunders of the misinformed but nevertheless with considerable righteous anger that we quote the following passage from an editorial of a Los Angeles paper:

"According to the dispatches from Portland, Coach Mathews, allowed a boy named Vernon Stivers to play throughout the football season with a broken neck. That he got through without being killed or without being broken into a hopeless cripple would seem to indicate that a special Providence still watches over fools, drunken men, and boys."

To the people of Idaho this babbling seems so absurd and far fetched that it is ridiculous and we can best call it the handiwork of an editor who lacked knowledge of the case and ambition to find something worthwhile to editorialize upon.

Coach Mathews has our faith and our confidence and the man who can lead and inspire the Idaho Vandals to their remarkable achievement could never be guilty of using a player who was in serious danger of being killed or crippled.

DEBATE OVER ABSENCE RULE

identally this is no defense of the pseudo-active man or woman who does not try to keep up to standard, but it is a plea for fair dealing for the man or woman who does do the required work in addition to their participation in activities. Then there is the capable student, who through natural aptitude or ability to concentrate can actually stay at the top of the class or even ahead of it. True enough there are not many of these students, nor does this type of student absent himself unless necessary.

"From the standpoint of the student who must work his way through school, the absence rule is again unjust. Since the rule specifically states that early withdrawal or late registration will entail loss of credit, it is penalizing the man or woman who must have a few days extra in order to eke out a none to easy existence."

Mary Russell first speaker for the negative, contended "Punctuality is an asset that every college student should acquire and we of the negative maintain that the absence system is a benefit to the student from this standpoint. After college days are over we must be prepared to meet our tasks as they appear, therefore why should we delay these tasks in college through absence from classes? Scholarship is another merit the absence system brings out in the student. The desire to obtain the bonus spurs the student on and encourages him to attend all classes to secure his reward. A student carrying 17 credit hours for three and one-half years would receive a bonus of 11.9 credits all which are applicable toward graduation. Regular attendance encouraged by the system is certain to raise the scholarship standard of the student body and will be a decided benefit to the student who does not miss classes."

Phillip Alexander in speaking for the affirmative stressed the point of logic as the reason for the abolishment of the system, he said, "A student carrying a three credit course is allowed nine cuts and if he should take ten cuts he would be dropped with a failure. Take for example the two students both a "B" average, one is dropped for ten cuts while the second passes with nine cuts, is this fair to the students?"

The assumption is that time goes by so fast that the student does not have time to make up worked missed we maintain, that it is possible to make up work that is missed and this has been shown to be possible in the many cases where it has come up.

In presenting the closing arguments for the negative, Lucile Eaton said, "The present absence system is an experiment which has thus far shown meritorious improvement over the old system. Under our former plan anything in the way of absences was excused under the disguise of sickness. In business life one must attend to the field of work which they are in and faulty attendance upon these duties ends in disaster. Why then should we attend college and expect a different system to be set up for us? All classes are not lectures courses and the work of the student is lost if he is absent from classes. For the student who must cut classes for valid reasons, the amount of cuts allowed each semester on a course of eighteen credits amounts to one day out of each ten, now if a student means business he cannot afford to lose more time than this."

The rebuttals were handled by Mr. Harlan and Miss Russell.

NEW FICTION NOVELS NOW READY FOR USE

Literature Is Being Displayed on the English Club Book Shelf

Examination and reading of books on the English club bookshelf is urged in a statement by one of the members of the club. The interview follows:

Have you noticed the new books that the English club fiction shelf is displaying? When you notice them, you will realize, that it isn't a case of not having time to read—it's a case of taking time, in spite of professors and final examinations. There are books and books—books that are sure to suit your taste whether your eyebrows and hair meet, or are separated by inch upon inch of lily-white forehead. Do you like books that are funny? Then by all means read "Mr. and Mrs. Had-dock Abroad" by Donald Ogden Stewart, and "Distressing Dialogues" by Nancy Boyd. If they fail to fill that long felt want, your case is hopeless. While you are reading them, your room will probably be filled with an appreciative audience, listening to the choice bits that you simply can't keep to yourself.

Or perhaps you like adventure? In that case, you will surely appreciate Mary Johnston's latest novel, "The Slave Ship," and Farrer's, "Thomas the Lambkin." The former is a tale of the early colonial days, and the slave trade; while the latter is another pirate story. "Thomas the Lambkin," was the mildest mannered man that ever cut a throat, or sunk a ship—hence his nickname.

The drama is represented by a new volume of plays by Eugene O'Neill, "All God's Chillun Got Wings and Welded." The problem presented by the first one at least gives the reader furiously to think. Poetry? Yes, there is one thin volume by Edna St. Vincent Millay, "A Few Figs From Thistles." It is not exactly what one would call a new volume, but it is a very good one with which to become acquainted with Miss Millay's poetry.

"The White Monkey" by John Galsworthy, "The Old Ladies," by Hugh Walpole, and the "Diary of a Dude Wrangler" by Struthers Burt, are among the other newcomers on the shelf. They are all good, but you should make an especial effort to become acquainted with the three old ladies who are the heroines of the second book. They are all seventy or past; there is no love interest in the book; but you will find that it is one of the most fascinating examples of the simple annals of the poor that it will ever be your fortune to read.

Campusology

By B. G. F.

There are a few students on the campus who have taken it upon themselves to assume a somewhat ridiculous attitude toward the faculty ruling on absence. In order to make their mole-hill look like a mountain, they have resorted to the much misused caption, "Student Opinion." Like the howl of a coyote, the voice of "Student Opinion" seems to come from a thousand throats instead of half a dozen.

When such childish lamentations are allowed to appear in the college paper, it is time that the faculty commence regulation of more than class attendance. If "Student Opinion" had any case against the faculty, he lost half his counts when he exposed the process of reasoning by which he arrived at his conclusion. His argument answers for its self and deserves no other. When a college man assumes that his faculty got together and tried to put something over on the student body at large, he may expect to provoke nothing but sickly amusement. Suppose the ruling is wrong. Let's hear some sober discussion on the subject and no more of this blushing of beardless youth.

Perhaps the thing to do in this matter is to go to classes. There are many who don't need to attend every class meeting, it is true, but as long as every degree of intellect is run through college like boards through a planer—a board is a board. The ruling is rigid and it is hard on those who are forced to lose time in school. Do the best you can and ask for adjustments when you have a good case. You will get them, and the ruling will modify its self to the advantage of students.

ST. OLAF'S CHOIR TO APPEAR HERE

The St. Olaf Lutheran choir will give a concert in the auditorium on the evening of December 26. The choir is composed of 35 young college students whose chorus singing has made a widespread impression in the American musical world.

The St. Olaf choir is an "open shop" affair. Membership begins and ends with the college year. At the beginning of each new year a new body of singers is chosen. Old members are retained only if they are worthy. Reelection to the choir depends upon the individual conduct and scholarship of the student-singer. This gives assurance that there will be no self-satisfied "lying back on the oars" with the feeling that "once a member" always a member." Out of the nine hundred students at St. Olaf college about three hundred try for the choir, and about sixty are chosen. Those who join must give up an hour of their recitation time every day for rehearsal, and must sing at the Sunday church service every Sunday. To compensate them for this work and sacrifice of their play time they have whatever pleasure the singing means to them, and the expectation of a trip. The trip, however, means that they have to do extra study for the advanced mid-year examinations, and they have to give up part of their Christmas holidays to extra rehearsals. One thing is to be particularly noted: the music that they sing is entirely religious music. It is this fact which gives the choir its great influence for good. They not only preach art as art, but they also preach art as a religion. They look upon art as a serious vocation and a serious thing, and they treat it as such.

SOCIETY

It's hard to believe that Christmas is almost here, even if everyone is counting the days until vacation, and the Salvation Army is ringing in dimes and nickles on the street corners. Shop windows and street Christmas trees are doing their best to make the approach of December 25 seem real, as are the ardent Red Cross workers. In spite of everything, however, it seems more or less unreal to see students making out "lists" instead of studying, and to realize that there are only thirteen more days till Christmas.

The last all-college dance of the year 1924 will be held Saturday in the gymnasium under the auspices of the Inter Collegiate Knights. The Knights have made an effort to keep the theme of decorations under cover and something novel to cover up the rafters is promised.

ORCHESTRA TO TOUR DURING HOLIDAYS

Washington, Oregon, southern Idaho and Montana will be invaded by Al Marneau and his campus orchestra on their annual tour during the holidays this year. The dance band has been booked for engagements in Spokane at the Garden, the Armory in Walla Walla, the Union hall, Pendleton and the American Legion hall in Welsler, Idaho.

The Boise Elks lodge has engaged the orchestra for its two dances of the year, the Christmas eve dance and the annual New Year's ball. Following engagements in Nampa, Caldwell and Gooding, the orchestra will play at the Elks New Year's ball in Twin Falls as well as furnish music for a public dance at Dance-land. Dance dates have also been arranged in Pocatello at the Columbia hall, in Idaho Falls at the Odeon and in Butte at the Winter Garden. In Missoula the band will appear in conjunction with Phil Sheridan's Winter Garden orchestra.

ASSEMBLY TALKS

J. G. Eldridge, dean of the faculty, gave a short talk on the absence ruling, at the Wednesday morning assembly. Dean Eldridge explained that the ruling would work a hardship on those who were forced out on account of illness, but that this could be made up in the other seven semesters of the school work.

President Upham spoke on college life, and the finer atmosphere that is in no other community than on a college campus. Dr. Upham also stated that the state is willing to invest in a certain number of young people that are willing to work. In closing Dr. Upham repeated several times, "It is only the little man who can find room in his heart for but one entrance."

NO INTEREST IN BONUS.

Approximately 4,500,000 veterans of the World war are eligible for the bonus, but only 1,500,000 have applied for it and it has taken a vigorous publicity campaign to excite even that interest. There is but one conclusion that can be drawn, and that is the majority of the veterans did not want the bonus and took no interest in the drumming-up activities of the American Legion. It seems to have used primarily as a political issue.

PARKHURST AGAIN HEADS POULTRYMEN

Panhandle Association Holds Annual Meeting Here Wednesday

R. T. Parkhurst, head of the department of poultry husbandry of the University of Idaho, was re-elected president of the Panhandle Poultry association at its annual meeting late Wednesday afternoon following the institute session. Other officers elected were: A. E. Cruver, Moscow, vice president; Hawkin Melgard, Moscow, treasurer; H. W. Hulbert, Moscow, secretary; Ardie Gustafson, assistant secretary.

Judging of more than 350 entries in the annual winter show for official recognition by the American Poultry association has been given for Idaho, were announced Thursday by officials of the show. Pren Moore, poultry specialist with the University of Idaho extension division, acting as official judge of the show.

The American Poultry association silver cup for the best display in the entire show was awarded to E. H. Rosenkranz of Colfax, with a display of single comb Brown Leghorns. Mr. Rosenkranz is an extensive poultry raiser of Colfax, and won a number of prizes in the show this year.

Mrs. Helen Dow Whittaker, from near Palouse spoke Thursday on "Breeding and Mating Birds" at the poultry institute. She was followed by Prof. L. W. Cassell, Washington State College, with a discussion of "Incubation Problems."

Friday a review of awards at the poultry show was taken by those attending the institute, at which Pren Moore, official judge of the show, talked over the exhibits and pointed out characteristic features of the birds, both winners and those who failed to take prizes.

GAMBLING WITH WAR.

Washington—"We are gambling with war and inviting attack if we fail to modernize our navy," according to Secretary Wilbur. Reconditioning of older battleships to keep them in fighting trim and the inauguration of a new building program are necessary to maintain the 5-5-3 ratio set by the last naval limitation treaty. We cannot get away from competitive building though we have such a treaty, the secretary claims.

a single characteristic, Miss Springer continued. For instance, the Red prince, Sidney McClellan, will wear a face showing light heartedness and passion; the Blue prince, Vernon Johnson, will portray moroseness, and the Yellow prince, Leigh Banbury, other characteristics.

The masks will be accompanied by crepe paper hair, manufactured by Louise Yeaman. Costumes will reflect the character expressed by the mask. Of course, there will be no change in facial expression, but the make-up claims that inclination of the head may change the impression given by the wearer.

The face coverings have been made from cheese cloth and plaster paris, and were dried upon the features of the suffering actors. They are painted gaudily.

The masks are all fantastic; the costumes are fantastic; the scenery will follow the same idea, and the play, with its light, amusing plot, almost a fairy tale, fits in with the general plan. The same play was presented here two years ago, but it hardly seems probable that it would be recognized in its present form. The story in this presentation, will be incidental to the factiousness of the arrangement.

NEAR EAST RELIEF DRIVE TO START ON CAMPUS NEXT WEEK

Quota of the University of Idaho Is Placed at $100; Strong Support is Urged By Those in Charge

The University of Idaho will start its Near East relief drive next week, according to Permeal French, dean of women. A box will be placed in the Ad. building Monday for those wishing to contribute. Each group on the campus will start its drive Sunday. "The quota of the university is placed at $100.00, which will go over the top if every one in the university gives at least seven cents," Dean French said.

With the co-operation of civic and religious leaders throughout the United States, the Near East Relief has inaugurated its campaign for the second observance of International Golden Rule Sunday on December 7. The aim is to raise funds to provide during the coming year for 100,000 orphan children under American care in Bible Lands. More than five million dollars is the minimum needed.

The national Golden Rule committee was organized several months ago, under the chairmanship of Cleveland H. Dodge, state and county committees are being organized throughout the United States nation-wide campaign.

Setting aside of one day each year in honor of the Golden Rule as a guide to individual, national and international life, is an American idea which has been approved and adopted by twenty-three nations. The day will be observed throughout Europe and in many non-European countries, such as Japan, Korea and Palestine.

Four annual holidays—Christmas, New Year, Easter and Armistice day—have heretofore been celebrated internationally. A fifth has now been added to the list. The movement was started in America by the Near East Relief as a new, striking and intensive method of raising funds for the feeding of the children in American orphanages in Bible Lands.

On this day—December 7—Americans are asked to eat a dinner of soup, bread and stew, or of corn grits and condensed milk, or of rice, macaroni and cocoa. As they eat this novel meal, they are asked to remember that, coarse as it is, it is all that holds body and soul together for the orphaned boys and girls overseas, to whom the elemental factor of hunger is each day's vital problem.

Those who eat the Golden Rule dinner will not lack distinguished company. Such a meal will be served on Sunday in the homes of kings, prime ministers and presidents.

VARIED PROGRAM FOR RECITAL TONIGHT

Department of Music Entertain in Auditorium; Bangs in Charge

Classical numbers interspersed with lighter selections will comprise the program for the pre-season recital to be given in the auditorium tonight by the department of music. Seats may be reserved at a table in the Administration building hall or at Hodgins' Drug Store.

The men's and the women's glee clubs, Carl Claus, violinist, Florence Selby, soprano soloist, a women's quartet and Frank Mitten, pianist, will appear in the program. Prof. Edwin Bangs, director of the department of music, is in charge.

Proceeds from the entertainment will be used to purchase instrument for the university orchestra.

New York—New York is to have an 88-story office building, outranking in height the Woolworth building, which has 51 stories, according to real estate reports. The new structure is to occupy an entire block in downtown Broadway.

TWIN FALLS STUDES TO ADVERTISE IDAHO

To Entertain County High School Students at Christmas Dance

Students from Twin Falls county met Wednesday night at the Delta Gamma house to further their organization. About 40 were present, including students from every section of the county.

It was decided that a dance should be given, by the university students who will be home for Christmas vacation, at Twin Falls at which the seniors of the various high schools in the county will be guests. This is to be an annual event and will be given with the assistance of university alumni, to acquaint more high school students with the university and the courses offered up here. Jack Phipps is chairman of the committee to arrange for the dance, with Miss Zuma Sheneberger and Joe Deiss as other members of the committee.

After the short business session a program was given. The next meeting will be held in January at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house.

DR. SCHMITZ ATTENDS BLISTER RUST MEET

U. of I. Forestry Department Professor Addresses Western Association

Dr. Henry Schmitz, professor of forest products, recently returned from the coast where he attended a meeting of the White Pine Blister Rust conference in Seattle, December 1, and a meeting of the Western Forestry and Conservation association in Vancouver, B. C., December 2, 3 and 4.

Dr. Schmitz has had charge of white pine blister rust control in Idaho for the past two years and the conference in Seattle was to review the work done last year and discuss plans for the coming year.

"The status of the blister rust situation is about the same as it was a year ago, but this should not be taken to mean that the disease is no longer spreading," said Dr. Schmitz. "The past spring and summer have been unfavorable to the spread of the rust, but has in no way prevented the disease from intruding itself in the Nelson District, B. C. Should the spring and summer of 1925 be moist and warm the disease will probably spread very rapidly."

In discussing the meeting of the Western Forestry and Conservation association Dr. Schmitz said, "Just a few years ago private operators in the west were almost unanimous in their opinion that the practice of forestry by them was impossible, but today many of them are actually engaged in it. The rapid strides in forestry are almost astounding and with this development will come more and greater opportunities for foresters."

"It is true that 'the fallen brave live forever in our hearts and memories.' We have evidence of this all about us. Everywhere all over the world, memorials are being erected in memory of those heroes who so gallantly gave their lives in the World war, Monuments and statues are being erected; trees are being planted; bridges are being built; bronze tablets have been put up; and one town in New York state installed a beautiful lighting system on its main streets. All this in honor of those valorous fellows.

"But this is not too much. Of all the soldiers and sailors who died none were more noble, none were more valiant, none were more praiseworthy than Idaho's Six Hundred."

Building as Memorial

"For them we shall erect a memorial. Shall it be a shaft of marble, or stone? Shall it be a tree, a bridge, an arch, or a cold slab of bronze on a wall? No. It shall be a building, beautiful to look upon, expressive of our gratitude, and useful to the living.

"Where can this building be placed to render best service? At the University of Idaho, where students from all Idaho meet.

"What kind of a building is it to be? It is to be a gymnasium, where our young men and women may gain vigorous health, and useful education; where entertainments may be given for recreational purposes. Beside a gymnasium, an armory is to be included. The need of such a building is great. The part of the memorial which is of utmost importance, however, has not yet been mentioned. That is, the 'Hall of Memories.' This shall contain records of every Idaho man and woman who took part in either the Spanish-American war or the World war. It is here that the men and women now living and who are to live nobly, honorably and generously. For it was nobly, honorably and generously that Idaho's Six Hundred lived.

"Indeed, it is of eminent importance that for such worthy cause we, the people of Idaho, should erect a memorial building."

HERE'S A CHANCE!

The real nice thing about these before Xmas days is this: We are all in a mood to correct our mistakes; the kids carry in the wood without being told to do so; students double energies to make up deficiencies and to quiet alarm caused by the twelve week warnings; mother and dad find more to smile about and less to frown upon.

PECULIAR

The funny thing about this all is here. When we are in this before Xmas spirit nature demands that we eat lots of good wholesome food. That's our chance as your grocer.
