FRIDAY RECITAL PROVES NOVELTY

Enjoyable Program Furnished by "Ampico" Instrument; Claus Pleases

One of the new forms of music entertainment here was an "Ampico" reproducing recital given in the auditorium, Friday evening.

The piano used was the Mason-Hamlin baby grand with the "Ampico" adjustment, which brought out a perfect reproduction of tone, volume and expression. Especially commendable was the "Ampico" accompaniment for the vocal selection, "Visite d'Arte" by Puccini and sung by Miss Margaret Armsstrong, accompanied by Ward Stephens "Ampico" reproduction. Also the violin number by Professor Carl Claus of "Air on a G String" by Bach with the "Ampico" accompaniment by Elizabeth Gay Jones.

Both numbers were remarkable in that it was impossible to tell whether the accompanists were following Miss Armstrong and Professor Claus or whether these artists were manipulating both their own parts and the accompanists. There was perfect ease and naturalness in these demonstrations.

The applause of the audience at the close of each number was most satisfactory, and made the concert seem as though the performing artists were actually present.

The volume of the piano was not sufficient for the auditorium but the interpretations were so genuine that that the deficiency in this was not so great.

"The Etude" (Butterfly) by Chopin as played by Mischa Levitski was delightful with the delicate tone-work exquisitely handled.

Chopin's "Polonaise A flat" played by Mme. Teresa Carreno was very effective, and free from the ordinary mechanical reproductions.

Prof. Claus Delights

Mr. Claus' interpretation with the "Ampico" for accompanist was a very

He will address the university students in the regular Wednesday morning assembly and will probably be guest of honor at several dinners and meetings with members of Phi Beta Kappa men on the campus.

AGGIES CLINCH NORTHERN TITLE

Oregon Webfoot Hoopsters Drop Two of Three Conference Games

A missed free throw five seconds before the final gun cost the University of Oregon a tie and possibly a victory in her final game of the northern sectional championship series with Oregon Agricultural college last night at Salem, Oregon. O. A. C. won, 27 to 26.

The score at the end of the first half was 13 all. Russell Gowans, Oregon forward, was high point man with 16 counters. Harold F. Ridings, O. A. C. forward was next with nine points.

This victory gives the Oregon Aggies the right to represent the northern section in the final championship series with University of California, winner of the southern section, on a neutral floor, probably the Multnomah club, Portland.

This series is scheduled next Friday, Saturday, and Monday.

MODERN SCENERY IN COLLEGE PLAY

Lighting Effects Play an Important Role in Obtaining Proper Atmosphere

Facility of changing scenes, greater realism and concentration of the attention of the audience on the particular action of the moment are the improvements in modern stage settings clearly typified in "The Romantic Age," by A. A. Milne, to be presented by university students, under the direction of Prof. John H. Cushman in the auditorium, March 26 and 27. Owing to the magnitude and intricacy of presentation, the dates for the play have been postponed a week, as it was originally scheduled March 19 and 20.

Simplicity is the keynote of the stage settings of "The Romantic Age," according to Mr. Cushman. Only one change of scene is necessary for all three acts. In the first and third acts the setting is the drawing room of a spacious modern home. Interior color effects are in grays and blacks, and the appointments of furniture, entrances, balconies and stairways are simple but carefully arranged. All interior decorating will be done by R. B. Ward, Moscow decorator.

Spotlights in the form of floor and table lamps will be used exclusively in lighting the interior scenes in both first and last acts. This form of lighting effects is particularly satisfactory and a strictly modern innovation in stage settings. It makes for greater concentration of the at-

TEN STUDENTS ON STUNT COMMITTEE

Scheduled for May 1 and 2 When Each Class Will Present Song and Stunt

Ten University of Idaho students have been named on the "song and stunt fest committee" by Leo Fleming president of the associated students. This committee will be in charge of staging the annual Idaho "stunt-fest" scheduled May 1 and 2, in which each class in the university prepares and presents an original song and a one-act "stunt." The winners in the song and stunt contest are picked by judges and presented with silver loving cups.

Louis Hephrey, Sandpoint, is the general chairman, and Walter Garrett, Wallace, is manager of stage properties and dramatics in the stunts. Two members from each class in the university complete the committee. They are: seniors, Paul Harlan, Moscow; Louisa Martin, Moscow; juniors, Robert Quarles, Boise and Opal Hunt, Omaha, Nebraska; sophomores, Richard Dresser, Lewiston; and Bernadine Hasfurther, Genesee; freshmen, Ethel Lafferty, Spokane and C. Christensen, Emmett.

FAVOR FORESTRY BILL

A message received last week by Dean F. G. Miller of the school of forestry at the university, states that the administration's forestry bill passed the senate by a vote of 24 to 19. Senate Whitten of Boise county, who has been bitterly opposed to the bill served notice that he will ask for reconsideration. The bill passed the house more than a week ago by an almost unanimous vote.

FROSH AND SOPH MANAGERS CHOSEN

Freshman and Sophomore student athletic managers were chosen by the A. S. U. I. executive board, at a meeting held last Monday night. The freshmen managers are Leon Weeks, Troy Moore, Irwin Campbell, William Lemon and D. Dayton. Sophomore managers are Frank Click, Richard Dresser, D. Potter and Robert Quarles.

CLUBS BOOKED AT LEWISTON FRIDAY

Men and Women Singers to Make Formal Debut; to Appear Here Wednesday

Idaho men's and women's glee clubs and a string orchestra will go to Lewiston Friday night for a mixed concert, the first formal appearance of any of the groups this year. The men's club will leave about April 13 for an extended tour throughout the southern part of Idaho and possibly to western Montana. The clubs and the orchestra will appear in a short program at the regular student body assembly Wednesday morning. Harry Brenn, student manager of the men's club left yesterday morning to arrange an itinerary and financial details for the trip. He will be gone approximately a week.

Advance information indicates that this year's trip will be one of the most successful of any during recent years. It is planned that the itinerary will include towns as far south as Malad. This is the first year the club has attempted a trip that far toward the southern border of the state.

The annual home concert of the clubs will be staged April 3 in the auditorium before the trip south.

The new "Alma Mater" hymn, recently presented to students may be included in the program of the club this year.

The women's glee club will not attempt an extensive tour this year, but will confine its activities to this section of the state, with a possible trip to Washington towns.

PHI DELTS TAKE SERIES' OPENER

Delta Chis Drops First Contest for Intra-Mural Hoop Championship

Phi Delta Theta slipped from under a lead that held through three quarters of the game and defeated the Delta Chi quintet, 31 to 23 in the first of a three-game series which will decide the Idaho Intra-Mural basketball championship. The second game probably will be played Wednesday afternoon, but no date has been set for the third game, should it be necessary to decide the champs.

The Delta Chis took the lead from the opening whistle and until the opening of the fourth quarter, led by a one-point margin. The Phi Deltas spurred and took the winning lead in the final period. Ray Stephens, Phi Delt forward, took scoring honors with five field goals and four free throws for 14 points. D. Harding, Delta Chi guard was high point man for his team with four field goals for 10 points.

The Phis and the Delta Chis hold the titles in the "A" and "B" leagues by virtue of having eliminated the other campus groups through the long session.

The summary for Monday's game follows:

Phi Deltas (31)	Delta Chis (23)

PIONEER OPERATOR TELLS MUCKERS OF FINDING RICH ORE

R. K. Neill Addresses Miners at Wednesday Evening Banquet; Story of Strike Is Thrilling

How a "nose for ore" and an expenditure of $10,000 converted an abandoned prospect into the famous Premier Mine with $3,000,000 in sight, which in five years, since that time has produced $15,000,000 worth of gold and silver, was the Alladin-like tale told to the associated miners of the University of Idaho on Wednesday evening at the Blue Bucket Inn by Mr. R. K. Neill of Spokane.

Mr. Neill, who was a pioneer mine operator and mill builder in the early days of the Oeur d'Alene, held the mining students spellbound for over an hour as he recited a tale of hardships endured and difficulties overcome in his virtually single handed fight to conquer adverse natural conditions of isolation and climate, and adverse financial conditions of apathy and skepticism in order that he might demonstrate the value of the ore-body which he knew he had discovered.

Attention Attracted.

According to the story as told by Mr. Neill, his attention was attracted to the property when in 1916 he made a trip to Stewarton on the Portland Canal, one of the numerous beautiful fords on the northern coast of British Columbia, within a few miles of the Alaskan boundary, to look at another prospect.

Mr. Neill found an abandoned property, on which former owners had expended some $80,000 in a fruitless endeavor to find an ore-body. After casual inspection, Neill concluded that the workings had never reached the real orebody as disclosed by surface croppings but had paralleled it for several hundred feet—a period of negotiating with the owners followed and finally the property was secured upon terms providing for a payment of $2,000 cash, the balance of the purchase price to be paid out of the

ENGLISH CLUB GIVES CHIMES FUND $150

Brings Its Total Contribution to $250; Additional $460 May Be Secured

The hour that will be struck off by chimes in the tower of the Ad building drew nearer last Wednesday night when the English club wrote a check in favor of the Chimes fund for $150, bringing their contribution up to $250. A "campanile fund" of $460 raised by Alumni some years ago, to build a clock tower on the hill overlooking the campus, will probably be reinstated in the new fund, bringing the total up to more than $700.

"Plans are under way to increase the funds without making noticeable demands upon any organization or individual," said a members of the Chimes committee. "We expect to pass the $1000 mark this spring."

FIFTY CANDIDATES OUT MONDAY FOR SPRING GRID WORK

Practice Will Continue for Two Weeks; Loosening Up Exercises and Punting Duels Occupy First Day

Fifty prospective Vandal gridders took the kink out of their muscles in their first spring workout Monday afternoon, under the direction of Coach R. L. "Matty" Mathews and a staff of assistant coaches. Work for the most part consisted of punting and light loosening up exercises. Practice will continue for approximately two weeks.

In addition to practically all of the men who won their letters in varsity last fall, many of the members of the rook squad reported.

Work during the spring training period will consist mainly of the fundamentals of the game and is intended to stimulate the football brains of the men and to loosen up the kinks that have accumulated during the winter.

TEN ARE ELECTED TO ALPHA SOCIETY

Four Juniors Make 5.666 Average; Six Seniors Honored

Ten University of Idaho juniors and seniors have been elected to associate memberships in the Alpha society honorary scholastic organization petitioning Phi Beta Kappa, according to announcement by Dr. G. M. Miller president. Requirements are that students making a 5.666 average for five semesters are automatically eligible; students making between 5.333 and 5.666 are eligible but must be elected into membership; and students above 5.000 with other very good qualifications may become members by election.

The new members are: seniors, Cecelia Lenimer, Eugenia Alford, Florence Selby, Ruth Wolff, Harold Wyman, and Bertha Glindemann; juniors, Jeanette Arntzen, Ellen Ostroot, Mildred Pearson and Pauline Mitchell.

GROUND BROKEN FOR BETA HOME

Francis Jenkins, Proctor of Lindley Hall, Moves First Dirt Monday

Actual construction on the new $50,000 home of Beta Theta Pi began yesterday when Francis Jenkins, proctor of the University of Idaho, turned the first shovelful of dirt as a climax to the ceremony held on the site of the house by the members of the fraternity. Contracts have been let for the new home which will be ready for the occupants by August 15.

Construction was delayed almost a year, by a faulty title and the brief ceremony that was staged during the noon hour was a joyous one. While crowds from neighboring houses looked on and students paused on their way to classes Mr. Jenkins took a shovel decorated with the fraternity colors and began turning the sod on the spot where the south east corner of the house will rest. This was followed by music by a saxophone trio and songs by the group.

The new fraternity house will be of the Tudor-Gothic type and will be constructed of red brick trimmed with cast stone and framed stucco. Curtis Richardson of Lewiston is the architect. The contract has been let to Hall of Lewiston. Llewelyn of Moscow has been granted the contract for the lighting and Whittier of Moscow has the contract for the plumbing.

LINDLEY "HASHERS" FED BY STEWARDESS

Last Thursday evening the "hashers" of Lindley hall were given a banquet by Mrs. O'Neil stewardess. The tables were reserved for the evening and the kitchen and dining room force entertained women guests at dinner and later at a short dance. In spite of the fact that "hashers" and "pearl divers" are not expected to be up in the latest things in etiquette, no broken silverware or teeth was reported.

The State Interscholastic

The intrinsic value to the University of Idaho of having more than 70 of the state's best high school athletes on the Vandal campus for four or five days every year cannot be estimated in monetary terms. To these young men, who come from every section of Idaho, such a trip is always a highly anticipated pleasure and often a solution to the question of where they shall go to college. The opportunity of getting these men here where they can be shown the facilities which their state university offers in every line of higher institutional instruction is a precious one which must be well-guarded.

One such means of getting state high school athletes on the Idaho campus, the interscholastic track meet, has already been forfeited by the university. The reason given was lack of support. But the deeper and more significant reason which strikes accusingly into the heart of the student body attitude is: Indifference. Because the individual Idaho student couldn't see what good he got out of interscholastic track meets or basketball tournaments, he turned a deaf ear to entreaties for support, he feigned indifference to one of the most valuable functions of the university for the state and for itself.

Do you know that competition among state colleges in Washington for interscholastic meets and tournaments is such that the University of Washington at Seattle has been accused of using the interscholastic basketball tournament meet to sell the university to Washington high school men? If they are that important in Washington, how about ours in Idaho.

Do you know that your student ticket to the state interscholastic basketball tournament opening here next Thursday night will admit you to at least fourteen first-class high school basketball games?

Do you know that, at a dollar a ticket, each tournament contest will cost about seven cents?

Considering Idaho, your university, and her future welfare, do you think a dollar could be better expended?

Score One For The Elements

Old Man Weather scored another bull's eye last Sunday when he "took in" a number overly-anxious picnickers who had either forgot about his traditional feminine fickleness has not been forewarned. But then undoubtedly there were a few who were cautioned yet who went anyway. There are so many people in the world to whom a word of caution or of warning is a dare as potent as the proverbial red cloth flung in the face of the bull.

Scholarship and Character

Ten Idaho upperclassmen, four of them juniors, have been elected to associate membership in the Alpha society, honorary scholastic organization petitioning Phi Beta Kappa. The Alpha society is not scholastic in the narrower sense. It does not only require "A" averages for eligibility to membership, but also a certain amount of character and personality superiority, as well as campus prominence, are requisite.

Particularly to the juniors who have been so honored, is a great deal of credit due, for they have, during the first hardest five semesters of their university course maintained a 5.666 scholastic average and shown a commendable amount of ability and initiative along other lines.

Tomorrow At Ten

Dr. Voorhees, secretary of Phi Beta Kappa, is visiting the Idaho campus. He will speak in assembly tomorrow at ten. Phi Beta Kappa includes in its membership a greater percentage of nationally and internationally famous men, perhaps, than any other honorary organization in America.

Dr. Voorhees represents this international honor society during his visit to Idaho. Shan't Idaho students turn out fifteen hundred strong to hear him tomorrow?

fine offering and well received.

Another delightful number was the "Scherzo" by Mendelssohn, played by Joseph Hoffman. "Oriente" by Amani, interpreted by Guy Maier was excellent. The final notes were reproduced in an unusually natural manner.

Fritz Kreisler's "Toy Soldier March", a characteristic sketch was most enthusiastically received.

Perfect coordination of voice and piano was expressed in Miss Armstrong's solo. Her rich voice won her much applause.

The difference in tone-shades and fineness of interpretation, were most prevalent in the reproduction role of "Rigoletto Fantasia" by Verdi-Liszt, and played by Ferruccio Busoni. Liszt's "Dance of the Gnomes" by Ferruccio Busoni was characteristic of the light and graceful technique of that artist. His runs were perfect.

The last number an impressive Hungarian Rhapsodie by Liszt and played by Mischa Levitski was full of changeable moods, and proved the wonderful powers of the "Ampico" reproduction.

For those studying music, opportunity was afforded them of getting a perspective of those numbers which they were interested in, thus aiding them in the finer interpretations as given by real artists.

Kioty Tells Ma of Playing Piano

Dear Ma,

Ma I went over to hear a trick piano which was the playingest piano I ever seen or heard tell. I don't know nothing about art as manifested in no musical instruments, but I could tell that that there thing was reproducing a great artist, and so as I listened I could almost see the shades of old Rackmaninoff and old Hoffman setting there and telling me in the language of music what are the feelings and thoughts of the great minds of Europe which represents the golden age that comes to a people which has struggled for centuries. It is like the deep understanding that you read in the Tempest which Shakespeare wrote when he was old and wise and sad and kind. Another fellow told me this ma so don't begin to figger I will ever be polished with refinement. I wisht you would turn Speed Ball out in the north pasture so as he will be wringing his tail to go about the middle of June. Send me some stamps. Your son. Kioty

Sigma Nu entertained at its annual formal on Saturday evening with an elaborate dinner, entertainment and dance at the Blue Bucket Inn. Places at individual tables were arranged for 112 guests. A very pleasing menu in form of a three course dinner was served at seven o'clock. The diners were most delightfully entertained during the dinner by Miss Margaret Seidel assisted by the Misses Mary Skillern, Edna Fulmer, Ardis Marksberry, Gwendolyn Armstrong, and Mary Gould Parsons. The east end of the dining room was left clear for the ballet, Miss Seidel and her chorus giving a program of eight numbers consisting of songs and dances which pleased immensely. The Sigma Nu orchestra of Pullman furnished music during the dinner and for the dance afterward. Following the dinner the guests assembled in the ball-room where dancing was enjoyed.

Patrons and Patronesses were Dean and Mrs. F. A. Thomson, Dean and Mrs. J. F. Messenger, Mr. and Mrs. Randall Stewart, Mr. and Mrs. Jerome J. Day, Mr. J. Stanton McLaughlin.

tention of the audience on the action and leaves most of the room in soft and pleasing shadows.

The setting for the second act, which is a glade in a typical American woods, requires more care and fineness in handling. With the aid of proper "spot" lighting effects, the trees, bushes and general atmosphere will be brought out in shadowy outline, giving an effect similar to the nature paintings of Maxfield Parish. Marjorie Featherstone and Lyle Pierce, university students, who are "doing these background stencils.

An interesting feature of the setting-handling of "The Romantic Age" is the efficient way by which the two different scenes will be moved on and off the stage. The exterior scene in the glade will be built inside the drawing-room scene of the first and second acts. So it will be possible simply to raise this "glade" setting from the stage when a change of scene is desired.

"SKIP" HITS HOMER FOR FRISCO SEALS

Idaho Grad Knocked First Four-Bagger of the Season

Vernon "Skip" Stivers, Idaho football and baseball star who is now training in the ball camp of the San Francisco Seals at Fresno, crashed out the first home run for the Seals and probably for the whole Pacific Coast this season when he knocked a four-bagger in a recent practice game between the first and second "Yanigan" teams of the San Francisco club.

Stivers played in the first-string lineup, and has shown very creditable work since joining the California team. "Rookie" training in baseball clubs is always a hard and thankless grind. Most men who start in at try-out positions are later dropped. Skip is more than holding his own so far.

IDAHO DEBATERS DEFEAT MONTANA

Vandal Negative Team Wins a 2 to 1 Decision at Missoula

University of Idaho men's varsity negative debaters won a victory over the University of Montana affirmative team, by a two-to-one decision, at Missoula last Thursday night, according to a recent report received here. On the same night the Idaho affirmative lost to the University of Utah, 3 to 0 in the university auditorium at Moscow.

Both meets are parts of the annual triangular debate in which Montana, Utah and Idaho participate. The Idaho negative team which won at Missoula is composed of J. L. Simmons and Arthur J. Peavey, Jr. The affirmative team which debated here against Utah was made up of Edmund Becher and Herbert Wunderlich.

The question debated was, Resolved: That the Constitution of the United States should be so Amended as to Permit Congress, by a Two-thirds Vote, to Overrule Decisions of the Supreme Court.

WOMEN WILL SEND TWO TO CONVENTION

Co-eds Plan to Represent Idaho at Gathering in Eugene

Bertha Glinderman, president of the Associated Women Students, and the new president which is to be elected soon, were chosen to represent the Idaho Co-eds at the University Women's Convention held at Eugene, April 15 to 18, in a business meeting Thursday night. Committees were appointed and plans for next years activities were put under way.

This convention is held annually for the purpose of discussing matters pertaining to women's activities and co-ed problems in general. Each school sends two representatives to the meeting. Since it is national in scope it is expected that the Idaho girls may bring back many valuable suggestions and ideas.

On the nominating committee for next year, were appointed: Maude Orland, chairman, Louise Jeness, Mary Dunn, Margaret Springer, Ruth Hove, Annabel McMaster, Beulah Shoemaker, Mary Burleigh and Alma McDougal, subordinates. April 1, was the date set for the election of officers. One committee to handle the revision of the hand book, was appointed: Charlotte Jones, chairman, and Elsie Potter and Joe Keane as members of the committee.

property. Returning in the spring of 1917, Neill began cross cutting from the former workings, in a few feet his crosscuts in every case were in high grade ore running from $50 to $1000 per ton until with a few hundred feet of work some $3,000,000 worth of ore was definitely exposed, and it was evident to Neill that he had found one of the greatest bonanzas of recent years. The ore showed little evidence of its richness, so much so that most of the miners believed it worthless, and Neill in answer to their rather contemptuous queries as to the grade of the ore, mere replied "It will do to ship". The ore was stacked at the mouth of the tunnel 18 miles from a seaport, with no means of transportation, no roads and scarcely a trail, in a country where it rains all summer and snows 52 feet in the winter.

Procures Funds.

Funds for supplies, for teams, and sleds were procured in the face of skepticism without reducing the interests held in the property by Neill and his three associates, Trites, Woods, and Wilson of Fernie, B. C., and finally the first shipment of ore 154 tons, was sent to the Tacoma Smelter and netted $112,000. A wagon road was then built at a cost of $284,000 and 11 mile tramway at a cost of $300,000 and a mill at a cost of $200,000 all paid for out of the ore produced. Finally Mr. Neill and his three associates sold 2-5 of their interest to the Guggenheim family and associates to whom the management of the property has been assigned. Something over $7,000,000 in dividends has been paid in 6 years out of a gross production of practically twice this amount, a record of 50 per cent returns which has seldom been equalled.

Lawsuits Follow.

As the inevitable aftermath of such an occurrence, Mr. Neill told how he had been sued for $10,000,000 by one concern claiming an interest in his discovery on the ground that he had been grubstaked by them, although the claimant in this case offered to settle for a small fraction of 1 per cent of the amount of his suit. Neill with the determination which had enabled him to develop the property refused to compromise, defended the suit in court and received a verdict in his favor.

Another contender for a small slice of $2,500,000 was similarly defeated after costly litigation.

Mr. Neill is now one of the leading citizens of Spokane and much of his wealth is being used in the development of enterprises in that city.
