FRENCH LOSES WAY ON HIKE TO VIEW HAWAIIAN SUNRISE

Idaho Solon Leaves Party to Scale Mountain; Searchers Find Him Three Miles From Camp

Burton L. French, of Moscow, representative in congress from Idaho and chairman of the sub-committee on naval appropriations saw the sunrise from the crest of Hala Kala mountain in Hawaii, but he got lost in doing so, according to a dispatch received from there last night.

Representative French, according to a telephonic communication received from Spokane, left the Hala Kale rest house yesterday morning, with the announced intention of climbing the mountain to obtain the famous view of the sunrise from the crest. He left at 3 o'clock. When he didn't return at 7 o'clock, other members of the congressional party, who are at Hala Kala with him, became alarmed and searching parties were immediately sent out. Mr. French had been complaining of dizzy spells and it was feared by natives that he had fallen into the volcanic crater near the summit.

Mr. French was found at 10 o'clock three miles from the rest house, where he had become confused in the dense tropical foliage on the mountain side. He started upon his excursion without a guide.

CAN'T STOP SKIPPY, SAYS SEATTLE STAR

Stivers Making Good With San Francisco Seals as Utility Infielder

"Can't stop 'Skippy'."

"The mere fact that he weighed less than 145 pounds couldn't stop Vernon 'Skippy' Stivers from becoming an outstanding football player, everybody's choice for all-Pacific quarterback and mainstay of the Idaho eleven for three years."

This, in part, is what they think of "Skippy" on the coast; at least this is what the Seattle Star thinks of him and is willing to back that judgment with a two column layout and story. Anyway "Skippy's" fame was heralded in this manner in a recent "pink" edition of the Seattle daily of recent date.

At present Stivers is working with the San Francisco Seals as regular utility infielder and has every promise of getting a more permanent berth as the year passes; so says The Star. To quote it further:

"And the fact that he isn't used to hitting curve pitching isn't going to stop him from becoming a baseball star either—if Stivers knows anything about it."

"With forty other hopefuls, Stivers tried out with the San Francisco Coast League club this spring. He and another lad this spring. He and another lad were the only ones retained. The Seals have a strong infield, but Stivers' fielding headwork and speed on bases caused the club to retain him as utility infielder. And when his hitting develops, he looks set for a diamond career as brilliant as his football history."

"Skippy" left school early this spring for a tryout with the Seals, backed by three years' brilliant work at short for the Idaho Vandals. Some critics have it that he was as good in cleated shoes as he was in mole-shoes; and perhaps he was. Anyway, he has a good start. He will be awarded his bachelor's degree from Idaho in June.

PREXY IS HOST AT SENIOR BANQUET

Annual Affair is Held in Forney Hall Thursday Evening; No Speeches Given

One hundred and ninety-nine seniors were guests of President A. H. Upham at the annual senior banquet given Thursday evening at Forney hall. An excellent dinner was followed by dancing and a social evening. EDMUND BECHER WINS IN ORATION

Victors in Regional Contests Go to Los Angeles June 5 for Final Awards

Edmund Becher, Twin Falls, a sophomore in the college of letters and science at the University of Idaho, has been chosen one of the seven contestants in the western sectional meet of the national oratorical contest to be held at Stanford university May 22. Out of hundreds of orations submitted in writing Becher's paper, "Alexander Hamilton and the Constitution," was judged one of the seven best.

The contest, which is being conducted by the Better Federation of California, will come to its national climax in Los Angeles on June 5. At that meeting one representative of each of the seven major national regions will speak. The winner in the contest of May 22 at Stanford University thereby becomes one of the national finalists and automatically becomes entitled to one of the final awards, ranging from $2,000 to $300, the seven totaling $5,000.

Seven to Compete

The Pacific Coast finalists, in their speaking order follow:

Eleanor R. Evans, University of California.

Merrill Brinninstool, University of Redlands.

Edmund T. Becher, University of Idaho.

Jack P. McGuire, University of Oregon.

Kathleen Campbell, University of Southern California.

D. Thomas George, University of Washington.

Phil M. Girard, Loyola College, Los Angeles, Cal.

The Stanford University meeting will be presided over by Dr. Ray L. Wilbur, president of Stanford University.

The first selections within the colleges were made upon speaking ability. Then the best orator in each college submitted his speech to a board of manuscript judges. The manuscript judges selected the seven best. These seven will compete for the regional championship in each of the seven regions. Each regional champion will go to Los Angeles for the final meeting on June 5, and is assured a prize of $2,000, $1,000, $500, $450, $350 or $300, according to his rating in that meeting.

RHODES SCHOLAR TO BE SELECTED

Applications for Scholarship Must Be In By October 24th of This Year

Applications for Rhodes Scholarship examinations to be given December 12th of this year must be with McKeene F. Morrow of Boise, chairman of the State Committee of Selection, not later than October 24th. The examination is given for the year for which he is elected, and he must have completed at least his sophomore year at some recognized degree-granting university or college of the United States.

Candidates must first be chosen from their own school. The number of entries for the examination varies from two for schools of less than 500 students to 5 for schools of more than 2000 enrollment. Literary and scholastic ability and attainments; qualities of manhood, force of character, and leadership; physical vigor as shown by interest in outdoor sports or in other ways; comprise the three qualities upon which the selection by the State Committee is made. All candidates whose credentials are accepted are personally interviewed by the committee before being granted the Scholarship.

The Scholars are allowed to make their own choice of studies. They may read for the Oxford B. A., may enter any of the so-called Diploma Courses in special subjects, or, if qualified they may read for advanced degrees.

WILL SELL BUCKETS TO MAY DAY CROWD

Last Issue of Idaho's Literary Magazine to Appear During Celebration

A complete synopsis and background of "Peter Gynt", Campus Day pageant, will be the leading feature of the last edition of the Blue Bucket for the college year, which will be put on sale Campus Day.

Ruth Hawkins, editor in chief, has announced an excellent edition, larger and offering a greater variety of humor, pictures, and stories.

Four leading stories have been chosen from among an unusually large number of contributions. "Shadows," an impressionistic story by Blaine Stubblefield has been characterized as most singular. "The Wheels Grind On," by Ruth Hawkins, carries out an idea and a criminal plot very interestingly. Ruth Aspray, in "Scarlet", skillfully develops the idea of fidelity of a Revolutionary soldier to his family honor. Railway boot-legging is the subject of a clever comic plot by Doris Stenger, called "Lights". Marion Featherstone has done a fine "vacation" drawing for the cover.

The magazine will be offered for sale on the campus during the Campus day program, at Jerries, and in the Ad. building on Thursday and Friday.

PEER GYNT PAGEANT COLORFUL FEATURE ANNUAL MAY FETE

Mrs. Michael's Dancing Class to Present Interpretation of Grieg's Masterpiece Campus Day

The pageant of "Peer Gynt" as interpreted from Grieg's musical movements will be presented Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Katherine Michael's dancing class as an unusual feature of the May fete of the annual campus day observance. Other interesting numbers of the fete will be the Mortar Board procession and pledging at 2:30 o'clock in the afternoon and the May pole dance by an all college cast under the direction of Miss Lillian Wirt.

The play of "Peer Gynt" by Ibsen, was the inspiration for the musical interpretations of Grieg who composed three musical movements that serve as the foundation of the pageant. The regular order of the play is not followed in the pageant although all the music is of Grieg's composition except the "Funeral March of a Marionette" which is written by Gounod. This number will be interpreted by Maud Carlan, Ayleen Booth, and Stanley Bower.

Mrs. Selby to Sing
The third number of the pageant consists of "Solveig's Song" in which Solveig, personifying the good influence in the play, welcomes Peer Gynt back to his home. This solo will be sung by Florence Selby.

"Anitra's Dance" which will make the fourth number, will be an interpretation of the gypsy girl's dance before Peer Gynt will be given by Florence Green.

The last number will be "In the Hall of the Mountain King" and it will feature the dance of The Green-Clad One, taken by Helen Wheeler and Peer Gynt, by Stanley Bower. The Green-Clad One, who represents an evil spirit, induces Peer Gynt to leave the life of realities and become

OFFICERS PRESENT WATCH TO LLOYD

Captain Receives 50 Day Leave Before Reporting for Duty at Fort Sill

More than sixty cadet officers of the University of Idaho R. O. T. C. gathered in a room of the administration building on the campus Friday afternoon for an informal farewell party to Captain Claudius L. Lloyd, who left Saturday for the east on a 50-day leave of absence before being transferred to Fort Sill, Oklahoma in June.

Cadet Colonel Frank Williamson, after expressing the officers' appreciation of Captain Lloyd's fine work at the university during the three and a half years he has been here, presented him with an Illinois wrist watch. Captain Lloyd made a short farewell address to the officers.

"I certainly hate to leave the university," he said. "In all my experience I have never had the opportunity to work with a finer group of men than I have had here. I would like to remain but the army is my profession and I must enter different fields of experience. At Fort Sill I will have an opportunity to take the course in firing and musketry which will be much to my advantage. I shall never forget the days spent here and will always remember my pleasant friendship formed at the university."

Claudius L. Lloyd of the university R. O. T. C. unit is relieved from his present assignment at the university at the termination of the school year. He will report for duty at Fort Sill, Oklahoma not later than June 13 according to a special order from the War department.

He entered the service of the United States army in 1916. At the declaration of war his regiment was one of the first to go across. He was engaged in several major battles and was cited for bravery. Capt. B. B. Bain and Lieut. Charles F. Hart Jr., also of the university military unit together with Capt. Lloyd were in the same regiment overseas and were very close friends. During the year 1922 Captain Lloyd was transferred to the university.

Get the Spirit

Tomorrow is annual Campus Day. Already the wild rumors are abroad over the campus whispering tales of hardship and suffering and gruelling labor that are to be imposed upon the unoffending heads of all students by tyrannical traditions and inexorable upperclassmen. These are trumped-up stories of childish imaginations intended to befuddle and frighten the uninformed. They mean nothing, and their significance is even less.

As a matter of fact, no one has ever been known to suffer permanent, or even temporary, injury as a result of Campus Day participation except, perhaps, those few deluded souls caught in hiding or in bed on that memorable occasion and given the "water cure."

No, Campus Day is not a curse, nor even a necessary evil: Campus Day offers opportunity for the practical expression of appreciation by Idaho students of the great benefits derived by them from their state university. As such, all true Idaho students cannot help but sense the spirit of the day and pitch in wholeheartedly.

Realization of the fact that students are stewards, in a measure, of their university grounds and buildings imposes the obligation to keep them fit and beautiful. One day in the whole year set aside for putting in order the house and grounds where one lives is not too much to ask of anyone.

Students: the university and grounds constitute your home for the time being and, as such, are they not deserving of this little personal attention, one day in the year?

So, be it committee or individual task to which you are assigned, consider your university and assume your share of the great obligation.

"Peer Gynt"

Campus Day proper, this year, promises an unusual and varied program tomorrow afternoon and evening. Among the scheduled events are: the May Day Fete, the Military band concert, Mortar Board pledging exercises, the university orchestra concert, the all-college dance, and the campus lunch.

Perhaps the feature of the whole program is the presentation of "Peer Gynt," as the May Day Fete, by Mrs. William Michael's dancing classes. Approximately fifteen students comprise the cast of this delightful interpretative fantasy which sets parts of Ibsen's play of that name to musical composition by Grieg.

Mrs. Michael has expended a tremendous amount of work on "Peer Gynt," and all indications point to ample reward for her efforts as the May Day Fete promises to be remarkably good.

Idaho's Stunt Fest This Year

Stunt fest days are over; and with their passing many harried composers and many frenzied staggers of the "stunts" will sigh thankfully and sit them down to rest for the first time in many days. But their work has not been in vain, appearances sometimes to the contrary.

Perhaps never before has the annual stunt fest afforded more entertainment to a greater number of students and Moscow townspeople, and displayed greater wholesome humor in the short time allotted to the practice of the "stunts" and songs. No, the annual stunt fest is a good thing. It is unfortunate, though, that the date for its appearance is always set so late in the spring that the press of other events handicaps presentation and attendance.

To the juniors, this year, belong all the spoils of the weekend. Their winning first in both "stunt" and song contests is a reward for the talent and effort expended by them in preparation for the gala event.

The Betas reported unusually quiet Sunday and Saturday.

All the boys are scheduling picnics for every Sunday from now until school is out, in as much as the Phi Deltas have postponed their picnic this spring.

The members of the library crew staged a surprise picnic Sunday morning—a good thing it wasn't the morning after.

The Senior stunt orchestra received notification to appear before public—the rest has been kept secret.

A certain professor offered an A to the student who could present three bushels of dandelions to him at the earliest moment—sounds bad, but a good way to get the grade.

Student Opinion

The Sermon On The Fount
 Ladies and Gentlemen: It is the time of spring and prohibition, Yea, verily so. And with it, not only a thirst for knowledge—but as our popular actor, Mr. McCellan put it in The Mirage, we crave 'water! water! water!' But where, my dear comrades, may it be found? Not in the fountains which decorate the corridors in the Administration building. There, barely visible with the use of a German spy glass, one may see minute drops gently creeping over the spout; then after a most careful reading of that famous chapter in "Facts, Thoughts and Imaginations," one may, by a two-year course in play production be able to pantomime fairly well the process of assimilating the visible H₂O's which emanate with varied degrees of uncertainty from those decorative fixtures, commonly known as fountains.

Are we satisfied? Shall this continue? And what is more, in the heat of the day, can you imagine the ever-demanding appetite for unquenchable drink, my friends, which is bound to lead to such prohibitive tastes as appear in hip pocket size?? Can we allow this menace to develop on our campus? Must we see the student body come staggering to classes in seven reels, barely able to distinguish the professors from the stu-friends, moves me to this burst of eloquence.

Thus I say: Let us have the fountains visibly useful and let there be no ferric tate therein. Oh Merciful Skoggs, Hear Us And Take Pity On This Thirsty Generation—and may we drink and walk upright for ever and ever. Ah, Men. —M. W.

IDAHO BLANKS GONZAGA, 13-0

Erickson Strikes Out 12—Vandals Home Today From Trip

Allowing but five hits and striking out 12 men, Ralph Erickson, stellar Idaho pitcher, was a vital factor in the Vandal baseball victory over Gonzaga university, 13 to 0, at Spokane Thursday. Thirteen errors by the Gonzaga team was the cause of the complete shut-out by Idaho, while the Gem State players finished the game with only a single error. The one-sided match, played in weather better suited for football or stove league games, had only one item of really outstanding interest.

That was the stellar pitching of Erickson for Idaho. The Gonzaga boys were unable to fathom his curves and at times it was almost ludicrous to note the regularity with which he retired them. He allowed five hits and struck out 12 batters. Fifteen errors were made by Gonzaga boys and every man on the Idaho team with the exception of Wiks, scored at least one run. Klefner and Lehrbae were responsible for three each.

VANDALS RETURN FROM COAST TRIP

Idaho Plays Washington Here Next Thursday

University of Idaho baseball Vandals returned Friday from a seven-day tour of the Pacific coast and Northwest conferences.

The Idaho team's record on the trip does not necessarily spoil its chances for conference honors in baseball. Intercollegiate baseball trips are usually unsuccessful, most teams relying on victorious games on the home field to redeem the losses on the trip.

Idaho opens her home game scheduled next Thursday against Washington. The Vandals have seven

CO-ED GLEE CLUB ENDS CONCERT TRIP

Varied Program Given By Women in Tour of North Idaho Towns

The University of Idaho women's glee club returned Sunday afternoon from their three-day concert tour of north Idaho. Three towns were on the itinerary of the club, they were: Sandpoint, May 7; Coeur d'Alene, May 8; and St. Maries, May 9.

The club has departed from the usual custom of giving a straight concert program, and is combining the song numbers with a cantata, "Pan On a Summer Day." Professor E. O. Bangs, director of the organization, has laid special emphasis on perfecting the presentation of this cantata and it is being offered as the feature number of the program. The regular cast, composed of glee members, is assisted in the cantata by a group of selected dancers from the university dancing classes.

Miss M. Garnett, instructor in the music department, accompanied the club as business manager and chaperone.

CO-ED BASEBALL AROUSES INTEREST

Women Receive 100 Points for First Team Berths

Baseball, the major spring sport, for co-eds, has been the source of lively practice, and the tournament will be held soon. Due to the short season, only class games will be played this spring but all four classes have good teams and there are promises of some hard fought games before the championship can be decided. The junior and senior classes have proved themselves hard hitting players and have two of the strongest teams out.

100 points are given to those playing on the first team and 50 to those playing as subs, on class teams, hence many are working on it in order to gain points toward a sweater.

Monday of this week the preliminary games of the tournament will be played off and the final game for the championship is scheduled for the early part of next week.

ROOK TRACKSTERS SCHEDULE MEETS

First Year Men Will Compete With Cougar Freshmen There and Here

University of Idaho freshmen tracksters will meet the Washington State college first year men in the first of their scheduled two matches this year at Pullman Wednesday. This will be the first meet the freshmen have held this year, and their only other is a return meet with the Cougar first year men, May 27, at Moscow.

Even though the rooks haven't appeared as a unit yet this year, practically all of the men have completed in either inter class or inter-mural matches and from these tests it is indicated that Coach Mathews has a likely looking bunch of material. Included on his team are two holders of state inter-scholastic records.

Cleaver is Ace

Donald Cleaver, former Caldwell high school star mile and holder of the state inter-scholastic record time of 4:37 for that distance, is one of Matty's mainstays. Cleaver defeated Art Sowder, veteran Idaho miler in the intra-mural contest, running about 4:50. Cleaver met Joie Ray, internationally famous miler, at Seattle last Saturday. Then there is Mitchell holder of a couple of inter-scholastic hurdle records. He is another mainstay. He probably will be entered in the low and high hurdles. For the sprints Matty has "Red" O'Donnell, who has been showing some real talent in workouts. Glenn Silverthorne probably will run the half mile. MacDowell and Chaney probably will be entered in the pole vault, Kyle in the high jumps and javelin. Canine, who stood high in the race for high point man in the intra-mural meet, probably will be Matty's choice for the high jump. Canine is a consistent performer and has been making some excellent marks in practice jumps.

The meet will probably start at 3 o'clock.

Kansas City Girl Weds Here

F. E. Payne of Spokane, Washington, and Betty Cheeseman of Kansas City, Missouri, were united in marriage Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock by Dr. Harold O. Perry of the Methodist church, at his home on East Third street. They were accompanied by Rosella Sholer and R. S. Munich. The young people will make their home in Portland, Oregon.

IDAHO STUDENT WINS REAL SILK CONTEST

Leigh W. Banbury, Idaho student, won first place in a nation-wide contest conducted by the Real Silk organization. The purpose of the contest was to determine which organizer could get together the best organization in a certain specified time.

Mr. Banbury's organization consists of between 35 and 40 men, who are going to work for the company this summer. Mr. Banbury is one of the 500 organizers who are stationed in 135 of the larger universities of the country.

ANNUAL STUNT-FEST PLEASES CROWD

Juniors Capture Both Stunt and Song Prizes; Songs Make Hit

Encouraged by a congenial audience which filled most of the auditorium, the University of Idaho annual stunt-fest went off with a bang Friday and Saturday nights. The separate class stunts, on the whole were cleverly done and were presented with a snap characteristic of the annual event. Response from the audience was instantaneous and, to judge from the frequent applause, every stunt was hugely enjoyed. The original class songs though not particularly well presented, due to lack of practice, showed many indications of being carefully written and scored.

The seniors' burlesque on the opera "Carmen" furnished many hearty laughs when clever jibes were made at various popular students and faculty members. Light and musical comedy combined to make the senior stunt a highly enjoyable presentation. The senior song, composed by Louisa Martin, received much applause.

The junior skit, "If I were President," was a scream. It is a one-act play, the story about a student who dreamed he was president of the university. Then troubles galore poured in, but the ambitious young man was master of the situation until Senator Mainstreet and his wife came in to see their son, Charley. At first nonplussed by the senators' characteristic qualities, the student-president soon rallies and succeeds in making quite a fool out of the Senator, much to the merriment of the audience.

A "Legislative view of the University of Idaho," was presented by the sophomores. This skit, having a decided advantage from the first evoked continuous laughter from the audience. Richard Dresser, speaker of the house or something, carried the heavy announcing part very well plays within the play, including "The Frantic Age," "The Registrar's Office" and others, were cleverly done.

A trip through "Radioland" was given by the freshman class in the final stunt. John Graham Ethel Lafferty, and Mary Burke appeared in response to "Opium", the colored radio tuner, who did the "tuning in", and sang and danced popular song hits. The freshman song, "Idaho Mine," was good. The judges, at the close of the performance Saturday night, awarded the prize to the junior class. The shop of expert operators and efficiency.
