HOMECOMING PLANS PROVIDE FOR DANCE IN GYM ON FRIDAY

Alumni Will Be Guests at Ridenbaugh Hall Dinner; Bonfire Abandoned; Traffic Regulations Announced

Visitors who will be here homecoming day for the Idaho-U. S. C. football game Friday will get a taste of college social life at a "big" dance to be given at the gymnasium following the game Friday night. This dance will be open to the public as well as students.

Work to put the gym floor into the best possible condition for the dance is going along at the present time. The dance will start at 8:30 o'clock and will be informal. Money collected at the dance will be used to defray expenses incurred in decorating the campus for the day. Dances will also be given Friday night at the Blue Bucket Inn, Elk's temple and the Moose hall. Immediately following the game a dinner dance will be given at Ridenbaugh hall for alumni. This will let out in time for visitors to attend the college dance.

No Bonfire

Plans for the bonfire, which was to have been staged Thursday night, have been abandoned as Maria Kurkenko, Russian soprano, will appear that night at the auditorium as the first number on the artists course program. A torch parade, however, will be staged Thursday night and all students are to meet at the University steps at 7:45 o'clock dressed in pajamas.

A consignment of red torches are on the way to Moscow and will be used in the parade. The students will march through the business district to Third and Main streets where an entire block will be roped off for the use of the students in the rally.

Governor C. C. Moore will lead the pep talks, it has been announced, and followed by short talks by alumni of the university. The program will be completed in time for everyone to attend the dances on the campus and in town.

Elaborate plans have been completed for the decoration of the campus and MacLean field and for the entertainment and caring for of the some 15,000 football fans who are expected here. All of the fraternity and sorority houses and dormitories on the

Two great California football teams, Stanford and the University of California, trampled Oregon's two teams in no uncertain manner last week and went into a tie with Idaho and Washington for the conference lead. Stanford defeated O. A. C. 26 to 10, and California overwhelmed the University of Oregon 28 to 0.

California dispelled all doubts as to its power against Oregon and displayed all of the old punch which has carried them to the coast championship for five straight years. They completely bewildered the Oregonians by criss-crossing and criss-cross plays. Oregon menaced the Golden Bear goal only once, when they worked the ball to California's 9-yard line, only to lose it on a fumble.

Many Art Exhibit Painters Young as College Students

"Do you know that many of the contemporary American artists whose paintings are included in the Art Exhibit are as young as the average college student?" one enterprising Idaho student was heard to ask another the other day. Apparently the young fellow had read the outlined biographical notes furnished to all visitors to the Art Exhibit at the Pi Sigma Rho house, for he was right.

Interesting talks will be given every afternoon and evening of this week to interpret the paintings of the Art Exhibit by exceptionally able staff of speakers, according to Betty Mount, chairman of the committee in charge. Included among these are Dr. Tromanhauser of the modern language department, Miss Zudreole and Mr. Hannaford of the architectural department.

In spite of the variety of things to do this week it is urged that all students who can manage should see the Art Exhibit early this week, as the place will be crowded later when out-of-town visitors begin coming in for the U. S. C. game. The exhibit will be here until at least Sunday.

STATUS OF U. OF I. SHOWN BY AUDIT ISSUED SATURDAY

Assets of University Fund June 30, 1925, Amounted to $589,428.13, Audit By Director Shows

The status of the cash, investments and assets of the endowment funds of the University of Idaho, the school of science and the agricultural college, as of June 30, 1925, is announced in an audit issued Saturday by B. E. Hyatt, director of public accounts. The audit not only shows the condition of the various funds on that date, but also gives the operations for the year beginning July 1, 1924.

In the year the university fund has received $63,831.56, in cash, of which $49,267.48 came from payments on the sale of land and timber. At the time of the beginning of the audit the university fund had $556,619.49 invested in interest-producing securities. Additional securities amounting to $66,900 were purchased in the year, making the total investments $623,519.49. Assets of the fund June 30, 1925, amounted to $589,428.13.

Cash in the school of science endowment fund June 30, 1925, amounted to $45,452.85, of which $12,779.01 came from payments on land and timber sold, $14,700 from farm loans paid, and there was approximately a $16,000 balance in the fund on July 1, 1924. Investments made with monies in this fund amounted to $434,725 July 1, 1924, and an additional $48,000 was added during the year, making the total investments $482,725. Assets of this fund are listed as $446,910.35.

Balance in the agricultural college endowment fund for the year totaled $44,451.95, of which $25,401.35 came from receipts and $19,050.60 was in the fund July 1, 1924. Investments of this fund are $586,226.36, and of this amount $57,690 was added during the year ending June 30, 1925. Assets of the fund are given by Mr. Hyatt as $544,758.12.

VIOLINIST TO GIVE PROGRAM AT W. S. C.

Eltren Zimbalist, violinist, will give a concert in the Washington State college auditorium at Pullman Saturday night, November 7. Idaho students and Moscow residents may purchase reserved seats from Prof. Orlo Bangs, who will have a block of seats.

NAVY DAY OBSERVED AT ASSEMBLY TODAY

B. L. French Main Speaker; R. O. T. C. Attends in Group

"Navy day" was observed by the R. O. T. C. when the cadets assembled in the university auditorium this morning at 10 o'clock to hear the address of Congressman Burton L. French. This lecture was attended by many students and constituted the regular weekly assembly. Today's 10 o'clock classes will be held Wednesday.

Today was approved by President Coolidge as "Navy day," and Mr. French, who is a member of the naval sub-committee of the committee on appropriations, was able to speak at the university. The date selected is the anniversary of the birth of the navy and also of one of its strongest advocates, Theodore Roosevelt, much of whose life was devoted to the establishment of a sound naval policy for the country.

In his address on Navy day, Mr. French reviewed the history of the development of the American navy, and pointed out that all the time it has been fully equipped with the latest devices. After the days of wind propelled vessels, the United States was the first country to adopt steam power for navy vessels, as well as the armor type of ship. Rapid progress has been made in naval architecture in the last 25 years.

"Any ship in the American Navy today," said Mr. French, "battleship, cruiser, submarine, or destroyer single and alone could have defeated the combined fleet of England, France or Spain in the battle of Trafalgar in 1805."

After reviewing the history of the Panama canal as a naval achievement and commenting upon the phase of aviation in relation to our naval policy, Mr. French closed his remarks with a tribute to the officers and men in charge of the American Navy.

FACULTY FROLICS AT BLUE BUCKET

Two Hundred Fifty Attend Annual Affair; Dancing and Cards Provided

University of Idaho faculty gathered Monday night at the Blue Bucket inn for their annual "frolic" with members of the university extension division as guests. Two hundred and fifty took part in the "frolic" and saw a program of music, a play and dancing.

Opening the program for the evening was a dinner at 6:30 o'clock in the main dining room of the inn. At 8 o'clock the scene shifted to the ball room for an entertainment program.

A comedy, "His Blue Serge Suit," featuring Miss Hester Yost, Bert Stone and Walter Weaver, was first on the program of entertainment and presented under the direction of Prof. John H. Cushman. Miss Jane Peterson was next on the program rendering several vocal selections. Mrs. William Michael presented an interpretive dance.

Carl Claus, professor of music at the university, rendered violin selections and was followed by an interpretive dance by Mrs. Michael. Instrumental selections were given by the university string quartet. A pantomime was presented by Miss Ethel Lafferty and followed by another dance by Mrs. Michael. A number of selections were sung by the university male quartet.

Following the program dancing was held until 12 o'clock. For those who did not dance, cards were on the program in the dining room.

INKWELL CLUB DINES

Members of the "Inkwell" club of the university Lutheran students were guests at dinner Wednesday evening at the Lutheran church. Toasts were given by university professors and Idaho songs concluded the program.

ACTION IS PROMISED IN PEP BAND SHOW

Work Will Be Original On Campus; "Tea Hawks" Is Title

(A Preview)

A riot of original Idaho music, provided for university theater-goers in the 1925 Pep Band show which, after some years of uncertain knocking about from one style of performance to another, has finally been placed under the department of dramatics directed by John Cushman.

The 1925 show, which will open on the campus about the middle of November, will be christened "Tea Hawks." A choice of one week's free luncheon in any sorority house or girls' dormitory on the campus will be given to any gentleman (ladies vice versa) who is able to detect a plot therein.

"Tea Hawks" will be a show best suited for autumn showing; a show flavored with the tang of November, harmonized with fall parties and serenades, saturated with color, and as varied as autumn weather. It is to be glorified vaudeville, fashione somewhat after the "Chauve Sauris" (whatever that is) an animated melody of music dancing and pantomime.

A wide variety of campus talent will be drafted for the show, but the numbers will be so short no one will be called upon to bear the burden of the entire performance. The best part of the entertainment will be Prof. Nyvall's music, written specially for musical comedy. For this music Miss Ada Burke of the English department will supply lyrics, a combination which will form the background for the dancing, singing, farce and pantomimes. The exact nature of the Pep Band show menu will be announced soon. Students are promised a real treat at this glorified vaudeville offering to show early next month.

PYGMALION PLEASES LARGE AUDIENCE

Moroni Olsen Players Make First Appearance on Idaho Campus Thursday

Those who saw Mr. Moroni Olsen in "Pygmalion" last Thursday night came near seeing Bernard Shaw himself. Even a casual study of the great playwright is enough to identify him with Henry Higgins.

Mr. Shaw is one of the few critics who has dared to ridicule the immortal Shakespeare. He is an ardent student of Ibsen. He is keen-minded, one of the most learned literary men in the world, self-sufficient, a little egotistical, non-tolerant, a rough-shod critic, a great humorist and playwright.

"Pygmalion" is among the poorest of Shaw's plays. It is thin and superficial when compared with some of the better ones. It is simply a group of ideas mixed with nonsense, sometimes impossible, but always amusing.

The Cockney accent of Eliza and Alfred Doolittle is very skillfully done, but it shows Shaw's disinclination to listen to what people have to say. He rather listens to how they say it. There is about as much reality in the Doolittles' characters as there is in "not bloody likely" as a figure of speech.

The play moves forward with the consummate theatrical skill that Shaw always commands. It is almost if not entirely free from monolog and soliloquy.

Men relish the bullying of Henry Higgins; women triumph in Eliza's success in "telling off."

This play is Shaw-Shaw himself; endless, abusive argument. Presumably, frail creatures will always amuse him by being angry when he bullies the, but he never gets angry himself. He takes the cork-shod criticism of others as easily as he administers it.

Sleep Required By Idaho Boys; Lights Go Off

"But please, boys, don't turn off the lights until after we pass Spring valley." Thus endeth the first lesson—that the conductor had in a collegiate train.

Just what did happen to those lights, no one will ever know. But they went off—long before Spring valley; and the little advertising signs were all torn down.

It had been a long, hard week end in Spokane for some 500 Idaho students, and about a hundred or more of them who were returning on the last train, felt the need of sleep. It was too light, so action was taken.

Idaho made quite an impression on Spokane. It would seem. The 500 students who went there—just to see the game—seemed to think that to demonstrate the old Idaho spirit, it was necessary for them to be on the streets 24 hours out of each day. The Pacific hotel, almost the entire second floor of which was taken by the Vandal supporters, plus the team they were supporting, was the scene of many a good old bull fest—and a few were held on the street corners, and to the music of the Pep Band orchestra at the Garden.

STANFORD PROVES POWERFUL AGAINST O. A. C. GRID SQUAD

Washington Runs in Second Team Against Whitman College; U. S. C. Defeats Arizona, 56 to 0.

Stanford continued its powerful offensive, first shown against U. S. C., in its triumph over the Oregon Aggies. Ernie Nevers, Cardinal fullback, ripped up the O. A. C. line ruthlessly, averaging over 5 yards each time he was given the ball. The Aggies were leading 3 to 0 at the quarter, but were helpless after the Cardinal scoring machine got in motion.

The third member of last season's "big three" of the coast conference, Washington, played its second team against Whitman college and won 64 to 2. The Missionaries made their two points in the third quarter, when a Husky back was downed behind his goal line for a safety.

The University of Southern California won handily from the University of Arizona, 56 to 0.

Notre Dame recovered from its defeat by the Army, and displayed all of its old dash to win over Minnesota 19 to 7. Yale also made a comeback and overwhelmed Brown, 20 to 7.

Michigan continued its race to the Big Ten championship, stopping Red Grange and Illinois, 3 to 0. Sixty-seven thousand people witnessed the game and 20,000 more were turned away from the gates of the Illinois $2,000,000 stadium.

On Idaho interscholastic fields the only important game was between Kellogg, runner-up for the lead in the northern part of the state, and St. Maries, which Kellogg won 27 to 0. St. Maries was undefeated until this game.

Scores of other important games during the week-end:

VANDALS PREPARE TO FIGHT U. S. C. IN BIGGEST GAME

Duff and Owings Report on Field Monday Following Rest; Southern Team is Powerful, Not Invincible

Idaho's Vandals, leaders of the Pacific coast conference, buckled down last night in preparation for their greatest football game, the battle Friday with the University of Southern California Trojans. A driving rain, and slippery field did not deter the Vandals and they drove through formation work until darkness made play impossible.

Scrimmage tonight and Wednesday and a light practice Thursday will put them in shape for the Trojans. Clint Duff, halfback, was out in suit last evening for the first time since the W. S. C. game, along with "Sody" Owings, who has been out in suit but has been out of scrimmage. Duff and Owings are the two heaviest men in the Vandal backfield, and their weight will be valuable if the field is wet.

Both Idaho and U. S. C. will enter the game with one defeat against their record. The Trojans lost to Stanford, 13 to 9, while Idaho dropped its first game Saturday to Gonzaga, 12 to 3. In their games with Utah and Stanford the Trojans showed that they are a powerful, but not invincible team.

Utah played them to a standstill until the second half, when the men of Troy opened up a bewildering attack which the Mormons could not solve. Stanford won its game by bucking the ball straight through the Trojan line, with the plunging Ernie Nevers carrying the ball.

While the coaching staff is putting the finishing touches on the team the athletic department is working at feverish haste to complete arrangements for handling the huge crowd expected for the game. Bleachers are now going up on the south side of the field and temporary fencing strung to hold back the crowd. Several ticket booths have been constructed and will be placed at the various entrances to MacLean field.

VANDALS SUFFER FIRST DEFEAT BY GONZAGA ELEVEN

Bulldogs Sweep Idaho Off Feet and Push Over Two Touchdowns for a 12 to 3 Victory at Spokane

Spokane, Oct. 24. (Special to Argonaut)—A powerful Gonzaga football team, driving through a blinding Palouse dust storm, smashed Idaho for a 12 to 3 victory today. All the scoring was done in the first half, Gonzaga pounding over two touchdowns and the Vandals countering with a field goal.

Mel Ingram, Gonzaga halfback, and practically singlehanded made the two touchdowns. A driving south wind blew cloud after cloud of dust over the dirt field and it was impossible to see the play from the grandstand during the first and last quarters.

The Vandals fought stubbornly, but did not present any consistent drive on the Gonzaga goal.

Gonzaga received the opening kickoff and smashed down the field for four first downs to the Idaho 30 yard line. Ingram broke through on a line play and dodged his way through the Idaho defense to the goal line. Flaherty's try for goal failed.

Near the end of the quarter Idaho took possession of the ball on the Bulldog 20-yard line, when Ingram's kick was partially blocked. A line play failed and Regret dropped back to the 35 yard line and drop kicked. Although the kick was from a difficult angle and side-swiped by a strong wind, it went straight over the crossbar for the Vandals' only score.

Gonzaga started another drive in the second quarter which took the ball

The College Boy

One of the most disturbing elements of the so-called modern literature is its distorted and the misconstrued conception of American colleges and collegiate life. College life, with its hours of hard work and its sane and moral diversion, becomes a glowing picture of carefree carousals, of vice and corruption through the jazz mania for some misinformed author who years to create a "best seller." The book comes before a multitude who are no better informed on the subject of colleges and universities than the author and the misconception is incultated in the minds of parents and taxpayers. The result is obvious.

The "College Boy" is attracting too much of the wrong kind of publicity, not only from modern fiction but from the motion pictures, the legitimate stage, and the newspapers. Thirty years ago he was practically unknown and regarded as a curiosity, but today he threatens to become a national figure. Much of this misunderstanding is brought on by the publication of absurd and distorted stories of college life and the broadcasting of questionable collegiate humor. Why doesn't some conscientious person who has at least stood on a college campus write a book about a college boy who had to study and who didn't dissipate his father's millions in riotous living.

Victory in Defeat

"The Vandals may be beaten, but they are never whipped." Coach Mathews' tribute to the fighting spirit of Idaho football teams may be used as a significant comment upon the Idaho-Gonzaga game of last Saturday.

The Vandals have never been whipped. They have made gridiron history through their defeats as well as their victories. In the Gonzaga game, as well as in those of the past, the Vandals gave everything they had, they fought valiantly until the last. What more could be asked of a team and what more fitting tribute could be paid them and Coach Mathews?

Every team must suffer defeats, that is inevitable, but the great team is the one that goes down fighting and then faces the world without an alibi. The defeat at the hands of Gonzaga is no signal for protracted mourning on the campus. Idaho students should remember that the Vandals lead the Pacific Coast conference percentage table and that the loss of the Gonzaga game will in no way affect their standing in that conference.

Every loyal Idaho student believes, and always will believe, that we have the best team and the best coach in the conference. Let's all get behind the Vandals and help them take the next game from the University of Southern California.

WHY U. OF I. IS AT MOSCOW

Senator Dubois Makes Canvass of Northern Counties for Republican

Mr. Dubois made a thorough canvass of the northern counties, and the election returns gave to the Republican candidate a satisfactory result. It was an active campaign, hotly contested, for Honest John Halley, as he was called, was by no means an easy candidate to defeat. Mr. Dubois was elected, as I remember, by the narrow margin of 420 votes.

North Idaho to Front

The "southeast" was grateful for the support given to Mr. Dubois, as the contest was far more reaching in its results than the election of either candidate. For one thing, the "southeast" was a unit in favor of anything within reason that north Idaho asked for, and the political friends of those days were united "with hooks of steel."

North Idaho had come into her own and all we had to do was ask for what we wanted—within reason. After some correspondence with Mr. Dubois and his friends it appeared as if there would be no difficulty in securing the territorial university of Idaho. (I must apologize for the use of the pronoun "I", but if this statement is to do justice to persons whose names are unknown in connection with the work, the facts must be briefly but truthfully stated.)

The three principal houses of Moscow were consulted, and I proposed a small fund for going to Boise to undertake the work. One house declined to participate, deeming the effort premature, and generally impracticable. And it did so appear at the time. However, M. J. Shields, Henry Dernham, William Kaufman and I met one Sunday morning in the office of Dernham and Kaufman and I submitted to them the correspondence I had on the subject, with the belief that the success of the project was probable, stating the reasons therefore. The effort was agreed to. We raised a fund of $300 to cover my expenses to Boise. Shields gave $100, Dernham and Kaufman $100 and I gave my note to Dernham and Kaufman for $100. With this I left for Boise to undertake the establishment of the university and its location at Moscow. Afterwards, Shields sent me $50 from San Francisco and Henry Dernham $50 from Chicago, to which place they had gone, respectively for the purchase of goods. We kept in touch by telegraph.

Introduces University Bill.
 At Boise I proposed the bill of which I send herewith the original. It goes without saying that some effort was required to pass the bill, but not much, as it always had a majority. Every member of the legislature from the north, and they were strong stalwart men, gave the bill an earnest support. The same was true of the "southeast." And the measure had many friends throughout southern Idaho, as distinguished from the "southeast." There were some radicals who were not inclined to forgive the northern counties for their efforts to be annexed to Washington; but upon the other hand, there were many, a majority, in the south who felt that north Idaho should be reckoned with in the distribution of public institutions. The south already had the capital, the insane asylum and the penitentiary, all of them of considerable prominence and importance, while no public recognition of the north had been given. Besides, the south was for Idaho, the favorite toast of that section being, "As we are."

Again the annexationists were supported by the congressional delegation from Nevada, as a part of the scheme was to unite south Idaho with Nevada, thus forming a substantial state. This scheme was not generally, or even moderately supported in south Idaho, and the northern annexationists were indifferent to the Nevada phase of it; indeed knew little about it.

The bill became a law without a serious contest, and it should be a satisfaction to the state to know that not one cent was paid, or one promise made in the way of a reward to be given, for any vote that contributed to the establishment of the University of Idaho. It would be a pleasure to mention those who in the legislature led the details of the legislative enactment; but it was long ago, and without the record, one or more names might be left out, and that would be unjust. It is enough to say that all members from the northern counties were staunch and true, that the same was true of those from the "southeast," and that many true friends from the south were with them. Their names were enrolled in the proceedings of the legislature, and when the university shall be recognized far and near as a great institution of learning (if that status has not already been reached) their names should be inscribed on the university's roll of honor.

Soon after the bill establishing the university became a law, the board of regents was appointed. The undersigned was chosen president of the board, and Dr. N. B. Blake, secretary. It would be unjust to omit from this statement a mention of the tedious, laborious, but necessary labors of Dr. Blake. The president and secretary of the board, with M. J. Shields, of Moscow, were appointed an executive committee to attend to the purchase of the grounds and the erection of the building. The present site was purchased from James Deakin. Then Doctor Blake's task began, and all through the long months of construction, he, assisted by Lindol Smith and M. J. Shields, watched every detail of the work. He always had the advantage of consulting with Mr. Shields, but the work was his to do, and he did it well. It would be wrong to deny him his place high on the roll of honor in connection with these early tasks.

When the building was finished in part, we decided to open the university. The old obstacle in the paths of men, and people, the want of money, loomed before us, apparently an insurmountable obstruction. But it was necessary to have the institution in operation before we could draw an allotment under the Morrill-Hatch act.

Solve Faculty Problem
 The faculty problem was solved by appealing to James H. Forney to accept the presidency of the university. Mr. Forney was a graduate of the University of North Carolina, an accomplished scholar, an able lawyer and held in high esteem as a citizen. Mr. Forney accepted the presidency, and other members of the faculty were secured. The faculty was very small in numbers, but strong in efficiency and the university was opened for the reception of students.

This showing was made at Washington, and in due course, John W. Noble, secretary of the interior in President Harrison's cabinet notified me to be at his office in the interior department on Christmas morning. The call was made as suggested, and the secretary then handed me the first warrant for the university of Idaho under the Morrill Hatch act. It was for $15,000, payable to the board of regents. The secretary smiled as he passed the warrant over, saying that he considered it as a happy Christmas present for the University of Idaho from the people of the United States and he wished the institution a useful, brilliant future.

University Gets Christmas Gift
 Soon after this incident, I retired from the board of regents. I had been president of the board from its creation immediately after the enactment of the law, until a building was erected and the university opened for the reception of students.

No data has been at my command, hence as before stated, no dates are given, except as they may be inferred from the facts stated. The exact date is not remembered in most instances. It may be said that this sketch introduces politics. It is true, and yet not partisan politics, although the leading candidates, Fred T. Dubois and John Halley, were the respective nominees of the Republican and the Democratic parties; but the contest was not waged on party lines. However, if Mr. Dubois had been defeated, and his friends in southeastern Idaho had lost the election, the University of Idaho would not at that time have been established or located at Moscow. Before the election nothing was said about it and no promises were made.

I understand that Mr. Shields, Henry Dernham and William Kaufman have all "crossed over the last divide" and my regret at not seeing them once, more is beyond expression. Upon my return from Boise, we met in Denham and Kaufman's office. Shield the members of the firm, and I think Doctor Blake were there. They looked over a copy of the bill—the one I send you today—and either Dernham or Kaufman—I do not remember which, opened the safe, took out my note and tore it up, saying that I had paid my share in work.

SOCIETY

The campus was unusually quiet this past week-end, due mainly to the fact that a large part of the student body attended the game in Spokane. The Co-ed ball, which by tradition has come to be one of the outstanding events of the social calendar, was the only function of note.

However, the coming week-end should be one of the biggest ever known in the school. Friends of Idaho from all over the northwest will enjoy the warmest sort of hospitality. During the week, several events of note will take place. The faculty enjoyed a dinner dance on Monday evening, at which two-hundred persons were present.

An abundance of life, color, gay laughter, and music, all mingled together into one grand chaotic mass on Saturday evening, and resulted in one of the most enjoyable of all Co-ed proms ever given on the campus. Costumes of every size and origin were in evidence; in fact everything from the most ridiculous to the most artistic. Prizes were awarded toward the latter part of the evening, according to particular merit. For the best looking couple on the floor, Ruth Green and Marvia Harrison were chosen. Mandel Wein and Vivian Beardsmore were declared by the judges to be the most originally dressed, while Marie Gaeur and Rhea Softe were chosen as the most ridiculous. The grand march was led by Miss Grace Zudrele and Miss Ada Johnson. Refreshments were served throughout the evening by the home economics department, and at booths along the side. Entertainment was in the form of short skits, given by the various groups. The hall was most attractively decorated in Hallowe'en colors.

Patronesses were: Misses Katherine Jensen, Adah Lewis, Ada Johnson, Dorothy Ellis and Grace Zudrele.

Neal Irving of Coeur d'Alene is a house guest of Beta Theta Pi.

Dinner guests at Delta Gamma Wednesday were: Dean and Mrs. J. F. Messenger, Professor and Mrs. C. J. Brosnan and Mrs. Spach.

Dinner guests at Sigma Chi for Sunday were: Professor and Mrs. Barton, Mr. and Mrs. Stanton and Professor Eastley.

Sigma Chi announces the engagement of Andrew Hawkins to Isabelle Serrine of the Albion State Normal school.

Gamma Phi Beta dinner guests last week-end were DeDan and Mrs. J. G. Eldridge, Dr. and Mrs. J. W. Barton, Professor and Mrs. J. J. Gill and Professor and Mrs. F. W. Gall.

Kappa Sigma entertained sisters at an informal dinner Thursday. The guests were: Zuma Shenenberger, Virginia House, Mary Burke, Beatrice McDonald, Helen Blackinger, Rose Regan, Marjorie Robbins, Bernice Wyman, Evelyn Malone, Margaret Cox, Mildred Proctor, Catherine Johnson, and Mr. and Mrs. Ray Parkhurst.

Friday evening Kappa Alpha Theta held a Hallowe'en dance at the Blue Bucket in honor of its pledges. The guests were: Edson Morris, Russell Mella, Leland Chapman, Jack Mix, George Yost, Irving Campbell, Herbert Wunderlich, Sidney McClellan, Forest Edmonson, Max Newhouse, Burton Moore, George Line, Alton Nash, Allan Fowler, Dwight Disney, Robert Walker, Matt Christenson, Glenn Silverthorpe, Ben Mahoney, Jack Mitchell, Rex Alcorn, Eugene Kirk, Buel Gossett, Sidney Yager, Hubh Carroll, Harvey Davis, Lambert Mollinelli, Kieth Parnell, Powell Nilsson, and Elmer Zuchweiler.

Sunday dinner guests of Kappa Alpha Theta were: Mr. and Mrs. E. C. MacGregor and son Jack of Boise.

Week-end guests at Delta Gamma were: Miss Laverne Johnson, and Miss Evelyn Emahaseir, both of Lewiston.

Maroni Olson, of the Olson Players was a guest of Sigma Chi Thursday evening.

Beta Theta Pi announces the pledging of George McDonald of Portland, Oregon.

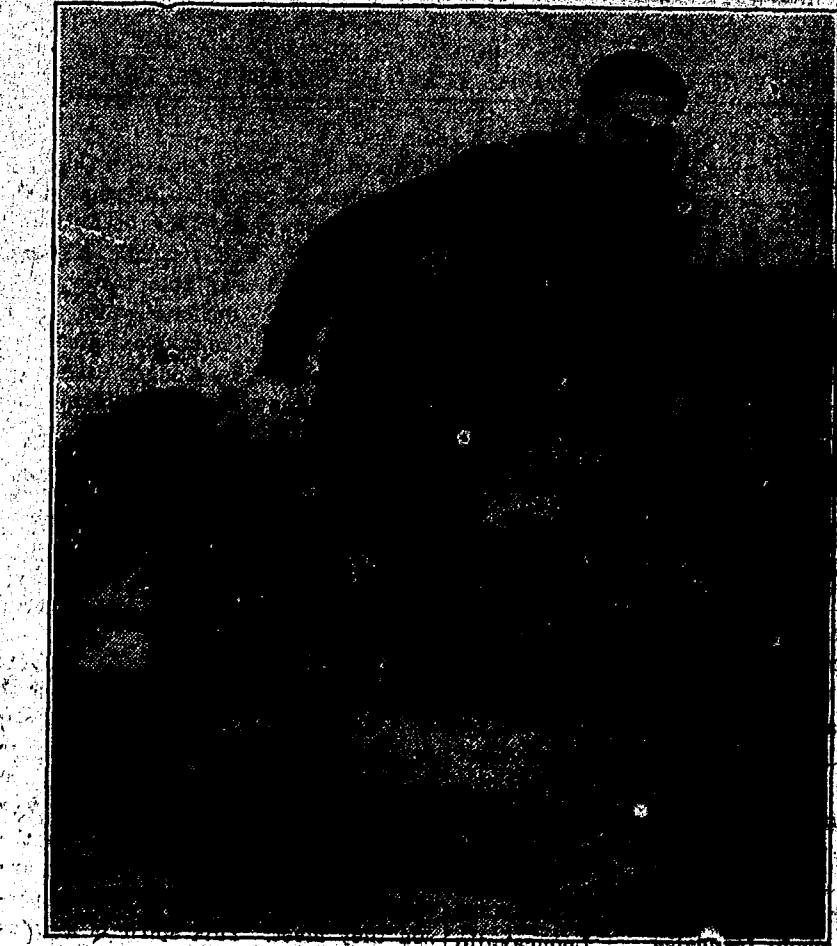

into town members' homes during the week-end.

Will Use Banners
In order that there may be a unifying note in the decorations on the campus the committee in charge has asked that all groups on the campus put a banner of silver and gold in front of their houses. These flags are being made and will be ready for the houses soon, it was announced. Besides this each house on the campus is working hard preparing a slogan or sign of greeting for the visitors for homecoming and will place them in front of their houses. The greeting considered the best will mean a prize for the house making it.

Special traffic regulations to handle the automobile traffic during Friday and at the game will be enforced, it was announced. All autos parked at the game will be under police protection and watched carefully throughout the game. Traffic officers will be placed at each principal street intersection to direct the autos. Members of the university R. O. T. C. will act officially as police and have full control of traffic. This is made possible through the cooperation of the university military department.

Leave Cars Home
To help the traffic situation Moscow citizens as well as students, owning autos, are asked to leave their cars in the garages during the day. This will aid materially in the handling of the thousands of autos that will be here for the program. Five information bureaus will be established on the campus and downtown for the benefit of the visitors. The first bureau will be opened in a vacant store room at the corner of Fourth and Main streets, across the street from the Moscow hotel, Thursday morning. The other bureaus are to be established as follows: one at the campus steps; one at Sixth and to the Idaho five yard line. The Vandals were penalized two and one-half yards and Ingram punched the ball over on the next play. Luce failed on the goal kick.

Visitors will begin to arrive here Thursday and students are to consider themselves as a committee of one to act as information bureaus and show the visitors over the campus and the town. Ted Turner, chairman in charge of the homecoming plans, announced.

The second half was a defensive battle with the Vandals tenaciously holding the Bulldogs from the Idaho goal. Idaho held for downs several times, once on their four yard line. The Vandals made several offensive bursts, but could not get the ball outside their own territory.

The severe wind storm played havoc with passing. Idaho completed two spectacular throws from punt formation however, one from Reget to Nelson for 15 yards and another from Reget to Davison for 22 yards.

PLEASED WITH POSITION

Mrs. Manta Surridge, recently of the Fashion Shop of Spokane, has, for the past several weeks been in charge of the ready-to-wear department at the J. C. Penney Co. She enjoyed her work very much in Spokane but says she is much more pleased with her new position whereby she is able to see and talk to more young people. The college girls especially appeal to her. Speaking of them, she says, "I fully appreciate what many college girls have to contend with in the matter of dress. I shall serve them to the best of my ability and I feel that I am in a good position to do this."

Kioty Bill Has Big Blowout at Spokane

Dear ma,
Well ma we went up to Spokane to bull dogg the Bull Dogs but the situation got into reverse some way and they bull dogged us. Well, we aint crying about this. Every time a fellow gets licked he is harder to lick the next time. So that is that. I never sleep in the Pleasant Home hotel up there because I said to some of my friends that lives there, I says "I dont know just where I'm going to stop at tonight" so they said "Come on home with us." And I did. Dav-empert's must of did a good bizness if all the fellows that stood around there picking their teeth was registered. It was a dusty day. They was so much dirt flying around that the grub worms crawled up in the air and thought they was in a patch of soft ground. The wind blowd so hard you could of put sails on a bob sled and made good time on a dirt road. Well, I'm kind of mad, so good bye, and don't forget the packard is waiting for a 120$ worth of baloon sausages to roll on.

SENIOR STUDENTS TRY FOR OFFICES IN R. O. T. C. UNIT

Fourth Year Men Take Command of Companies and Juniors Act as Lieutenants; Frosh Get Rifles

Student officers in the R. O. T. C. will be chosen this year by a method which is new at Idaho. For each week in the coming month the eligible seniors will have charge of a company for the purpose of determining the regular officers for the year for captains and higher offices. This will not only serve the purpose of affording tryouts to all eligible men, but will give these men instructions in the offices of command.

In the first battalion, under the general staff supervision of K. Anderson, B. O. Gossett, and A. McDaniel, the officers for this week, and then for the following weeks are: Company A—H. E. Canine and W. D. Field, J. R. Litton, and J. O. Jones. Company B—F. G. Green, and F. W. Chick, H. H. Payne, and J. J. Thomas. Company C—O. S. Godmussen and B. E. Lindberg, J. R. Randall and A. R. Mathews. Company D—R. Lindquist and J. Mix, T. Turner, Jr., and N. D. Nelson.

In the second battalion under the general staff supervision of H. E. Karberg, officers for this week are: Company E—E. S. Brinkham, and R. B. Irving. Company F—A. L. Anderson and W. E. York. Company G—T. Bucklin, and K. Tipton. Company H—E. W. Yoemans, and H. C. Billings. Company I—O. Huefner, and E. W. Tomnar.

Among those who will try out as lieutenants are:

Company A—P. W. Atwood, G. T. Burroughs, C. Christie, W. F. Ellsworth, J. V. Thompson.

Company B—T. D. Frye, B. E. Harris, E. Nedros, T. Owings, R. L. Tuttle.

Company C—H. C. Pickett, A. A. Powers, G. D. Ryan, W. H. Remer, R. B. Whitaker.

Company D—P. C. Stoffel, I. R. Selty, R. S. Thomas, E. A. Thomason, W. D. Wrighter.

Company E—J. C. Baird, C. Balkow, J. Bauer, L. A. Beall, J. H. Rule.

Company F—E. T. Becker, J. L. Brewink, M. R. Brown, J. E. Buchanan, J. Hesselein.

Company G—W. L. Budge, I. C. Burroughs, H. C. Carroll, F. C. Craig, E. R. Moulton.

Company H—N. D. Derrick, L. K. Edelbute, E. Elstone, C. Gustafson, R. R. Patchen.

Company I—E. S. Rawson, I. B. Terry, J. R. Williams, G. B. Haddock.

For the first time in the history of the unit, rifles have been issued to all cadets. This shows a definite step forward in progress, as heretofore freshmen have not had the practice with guns, but now they will be used as part of the regular equipment of daily drill.

COLLEGE IS OPENED NEAR ARCTIC CIRCLE AT FAIRBANKS

Located but one hundred miles from the arctic circle, at Fairbanks, the Alaska Agriculture college opened this fall with an enrollment of 54 students. It is expected that the enrollment will increase.

Things That Always Happen—at the Ball

Teeth like pearls, daintily pencilled eyebrows, delicately blushing cheeks, a "come hither" gaze! Ah! here was the kind of a girl that every man longs to court, capture, and possess forever, to mend his "sox." She stepped daintily into the center of the floor, and every eye at the dance was turned upon her. Truly, she was simply a Cold Cream picture as she bowed this way and that, in her little silk frock. But stop! What can be the meaning of that fuzz on the back of her neck? Sinister whisperings, a sudden terrible onslaught. A man! A man! discovered in the midst of the Co-Ed Prom! ??? ????Escorted by a bevy of beautiful girls, the intruder was thrown gently but firmly, out of the door, landing with his right ear caressing the cement walk. It was afterwards said that had it not been for his bony knees, the revealing foliage of neck and arms, his too sparsely developed contours, his voice and his big feet, he would have never been discovered.

MANY FARMERS ORDER PYROTOL

Left-Over War Explosives Being Distributed by University in Carload Lots

Large quantity orders for pyrotol, the left-over war explosive, are already being received by the college of agriculture from farmers of the outcrop sections. A request for two carloads, totalling 65,000 pounds has come from Kootenai county, the orders having been assembled by County Agent R. N. Irving. An order for a carload has been received from Bonner county through the cooperative efforts of R. H. McMillan of the Farmers Service Supply company of Sandpoint, and Walter Thomas, county agricultural agent of Bonner county.

The pyrotol is ordered by the college in carload lots. Following are the items of cost:

Charge for cartidding, $5.60 per cwt.; overhead charge by government, 50c per cwt; cost of handling by the college, 50c per cwt.; and in addition freight from Dupont, Washington, to unloading point in Idaho. The powder has been laid down in Idaho during the last few months at 8 and one-half to 9 cents per pound.

In addition to the greatly reduced price of powder, the college has on hand, in a storage depot near Coeur d'Alene, 205,000 caps. The caps will be distributed with the powder at the rate of one cap to each pound of powder so long as the supply remains. The only charge in connection with the distribution of the caps is for reimbursement for freight originally paid by the college in shipping the caps from the extreme east to Coeur d'Alene. This freight amounts to approximately $1 per thousand caps.

Young people of several Moscow churches held a union service at the Methodist church Sunday evening. A social was held and later services were conducted by the Lutheran young people. Talbot Jennings and Burton L. French were speakers.

FINDS FAULT WITH HONOR SYSTEM

Cambridge, Mass., Oct. 26—The honor system is successful only in a college with a small enrollment, according to the opinion of a committee that met here to consider the advisability of installing the plan at Harvard university. For this reason it was unanimously rejected by the gathering.

Other reasons given for its rejection were that there is no general dissatisfaction with the present system of proctors, and the nature of the examinations are continually changing.

BY-PRODUCTS CLASS STUDIES WOOD PULP

Wood pulp, manufacture and treatment of poles were studied by the forest by-products class of the school of forestry while on a trip to Spokane over the week-end.

Headed by Dr. E. E. Hubert, the party of twenty-five visited a pole-treating plant early Saturday morning, after which they went to the plant of the Inland Empire Paper and Pulp company, at Millwood, where the remainder of the morning was spent in a complete inspection. The manufacture of paper was followed through from the beginning.

After the trip to Millwood, the party returned to Spokane to attend the Idaho-Gonzaga game.

HUMPHREY IS APPOINTED FOR SHORT COURSE

Appointment of E. N. Humphrey, expert mechanic, to devote his entire time to shop work in the coming 16 weeks short course in auto mechanics, was announced today at the college of agriculture. This addition to the staff of its first full time member was made essential this year because of the expected increase in the enrollment and because of a broadening of courses. The course which opens on October 26, consists of practical instruction in the operation and repair of automobiles, tractors, and trucks. A Case tractor will be available throughout the course for demonstration and study. General instruction also is given to enable the student to secure a working knowledge of automobile construction.

Students who finish the work of the course in a satisfactory manner and afterward complete six months of satisfactory work as automobile or tractor repairman, will be given certificates. Assurance will be given in securing jobs.

STUDENT OPINION

We have what is known as the "hello" spirit at Idaho. Frosh are taught to say "hello" to every person they meet. This spirit is a wonderful spirit, but it is not carried out as it should be. The worst, by far, are the girls, although too many boys do not carry out this tradition. Is it right for the girls to go down the street with their heads hung low, or with chin above the clouds, to speak only to those who may find favor in their sight because they have the latest in "choker" dresses, or, "bell-bottom" trousers? I know that a boy should be attractive enough to provoke a "hello", but if he isn't, he has a right as a student of the U. of I. to be spoken to. Carry out that tradition of "hello"—speak, girls, speak! Confess your crimes and turn over a new leaf. From now on the pass word is "hello." F. L. B.

FASHION PRESCRIBES NOTEBOOK IN VOGUE

The notebook is a chic accessory for the fall outfit of every student. Some of the popular models have large yellow covers, youthfully decorated with conventional designs; others are of leather, with straight lines expressing smart simplicity; and a few are of colored cloth or pasteboard.

The large girl prefers the diminutive address book, while the small co-ed carries the travelling bag size, with compartments for comb, compact, lipstick and letters. The correct youth carries the notebook in his hip pocket.

The notebook, as well as having a decorative value, has a practical use. It affords unlimited possibilities for the young artist or sign painter, but also is an ingenious device for containing class notes.

Why You Need This Guide

"It is safe to say that failure to guide and direct study is the weak point in the whole educational machine." Prof. G. M. Whipple, U. of Michigan.

"The successful men in college do not seem to be very happy. Most of them, especially the athletes are overworked." Prof. H. S. Canby, Yale.

"Misdirected labor, though honest and well intentioned may lead to naught. Among the most important things for the student to learn is how to study. Without knowledge of this his labor may be largely in vain." Prof. G. F. Swain, M.I.T.

"To students who have never learnt 'How to Study,' work is very often a chastisement, a flagellation, and an insuperable obstacle to contentment." Prof. A. Inglis, Harvard.

"HOW TO STUDY" will show you how to avoid all misdirected effort. Get a good start and make this year a highly successful one by sending for this hand-book and guide NOW.
