Radio Education

In this day of enlightenment, through the marvels of modern invention, it will soon be possible to get a college education through the air, at the expense of no other exertion than merely listening to a voice that can be hundreds of thousands of miles away. One eastern university is already broadcasting the precepts of higher education to hundreds of students-by-proxy through the media of the radio. This process of education is feasible and practical according to a recent article of Professor R. E. Rogers of Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"It is quite evident that there is an enormous public—how enormous we can have no idea—that formal education can't reach, that can't take regular university extension work, except by correspondence (and that must be a little dry, 'wintry and sawdustish,' without a teacher or any human contact), people who can't afford the commercial enterprise that flood our advertising columns, or who are, and perhaps rightly, distrustful of them, who hear no lectures, have no public library worth the name . . . in short, who are almost isolated from those things they have perhaps at some time been accustomed to, and lost, or have always thirsted for and never attained. It is not beyond the bounds of possibility that radio education can reach these people efficiently."

A recent concert of the Idaho Pep Band that was broadcasted from Boise was heard by an Idaho alumnus in the middle west and stimulated him to write an enthusiastic and complimentary letter to a member of the faculty. Why couldn't we have a broadcasting station at the university? Wouldn't that be a good way to advertise the University of Idaho in our own and in adjoining states? Wouldn't that be a good means of informing the people of southern Idaho that their university is situated at Moscow.

Professor and Student

What should be the attitude of the professor toward the student? Here is a question that is often discussed but never settled. The student has one view, the faculty member has another, the alumnus another, and the parent, who is paying the bills and is anxious for the student's success, has another.

It is safe to say that no professor ever shuns an opportunity to better his acquaintance and lend a helping hand to the student who shows ability, who asks intelligent questions, and who is actively and sympathetically interested in the professor's subject. It is only the mediocre student who complains that the professor holds him off at arms length and causes him to get little or nothing out of a course. A professor must, of course, take certain defensive measures; his door cannot be open wide to every student. The student who wishes to enjoy an informal and stimulating relationship with his professor should feel that it is a privilege that he must earn—the relationship is not one that the professor should be obligated to establish.

Thursday will be the last day for Idaho students to cast their vote for an all-Pacific coast football team. Everyone is eligible to make a selection and is urged to do so in order that the team may be a representative one of University of Idaho selection.

All blanks should be filled out and put on the desk in the Argonaut Office, room 104 Ad building, mailed to the Sports Editor, the Argonaut, or given to some Argonaut representative in the student's house or dorm.

In order to facilitate the selection the following list of men who played most for their respective teams is published:

Why it pays to use reliable accessories

COMPLETE detonation of an explosive charge is the end of a perfect shot! So much depends upon the action of blasting accessories—cost of explosives, expense of directing, drilling and loading and the desired results—that explosives users cannot afford to imperil the success of their operations by resorting to the use of the inefficient blasting accessories.

Du Pont Blasting Accessories are designed, made and guaranteed by the du Pont Company manufacturers of explosives since 1802. When you order blasting accessories, specify du Pont to ensure complete detonation—the end of a perfect shot!

Look for the du Pont "oval" on the container of the following efficient and dependable du Pont Blasting Accessories.

DARTMOUTH 11 TAKES HONORS

Four Men Named on All-American Selection

New York — (AP) — Dartmouth's great eleven, generally regarded as the country's outstanding football team for the 1925 season, carries off the bulk of honors in an all-American line up selected and published Saturday by the New York Sun.

Three wearers of the Green—Tully, Diehl and Oberlander—gain places on the Sun's first team, while a fourth, Capt. Parker, is put on the second eleven.

The Sun will tender the players a dinner in New York December 5, and present each with a gold watch.

The first and second teams, named by the vote of 10 football writers, who confined their selections to the territory between northern Maine and the Dakotas, follow:

MOSCOW FIGHTS HARD, BUT LOSES

NORTH IDAHO CHAMPIONSHIP GOES TO KELLOGG—WILL PLAY FIFTH FOR STATE TITLE NEXT WEEK

In a hard fought game, that was more fiercely fought than the score would indicate, Moscow high school football team went down to defeat before the fast Kellogg team, 31 to 0, at Kellogg Thursday. The game was played on a frozen field that prevented any shifty foot work and both teams slipped and slid on the icy field.

Early in the second quarter Kellogg bucked the ball over for the first score and in a few minutes scored two touchdowns more; one on a loose ball which was scooped up by Kellogg and the other when Frazier dropped a punt on his own fifteen yard line, and Kellogg bucked it over.

Moscow came back strong in the second half and stopped Kellogg's running plays, but a pretty pass from the twenty-yard line, after blocking a punt, gave Kellogg another score early in the fourth quarter. Moscow opened up with their passing attack in the third quarter and several times threatened to score. Taggart, Moscow end, once got away to a clear field on a long pass over center, but slipped and was brought down from behind.

Christian, Kellogg, was the star of the game. His passing on offense was faultless and his defensive work, particularly on passes, was a bright spot.

of the game. Frazier, Play, Brilliant. For Moscow, Frazier ran the team in brilliant style, heaved his usual accurate passes, even though rushed by Kellogg linemen, and did some nice defensive work. Lyons was unable to gain through the heavy Kellogg line, but starred on every play in defense. Taggart, Moscow's little 120-pound end, grabbed some nice passes out of the air and stopped any running plays in his direction. Late in the fourth quarter Kellogg hung up the last tally on a place kick from the twenty-five yard line when the fighting Moscow team stopped their driving attack.

Once in the fourth quarter Kellogg had first down on the five-yard line, but on four straight smashes at the line they were unable to put it over.

Moscow made almost as many first downs as Kellogg, with Kellogg making ten and Moscow six. Moscow completed seven out of nineteen passes attempted and Kellogg one out of three, but scored a touchdown on the one completed. Kellogg made 173 yards from scrimmage to 63 for Moscow. Kellogg played faultless ball and this, with the decided weight advantage, was too much for the light, but fighting Moscow team.

The victory gives Kellogg the right to play Firth high school, winner of the south Idaho title, for the state championship.

All the brawn of all the workers of the world would fail to supply the power needed for our construction and production requirements. Modern civilization is based on cheap power readily applied to tasks of all kinds.

Machinery works: Man thinks

According to college tests, man develops one-eighth horsepower for short periods and one-twentieth in steady work. As a craftsman—a worker who uses brains—he is well worth his daily wage. But as a common laborer, matching brawn against motorized power, he is an expensive luxury.

With a fifty-horsepower motor, for instance, one man can do the work of 400 common laborers. He is paid far more for his brains than his brawn.

The great need of this and future generations is for men who can plan and direct. There is ample motorized machinery for all requirements of production and construction. But motorized machinery, no matter how ingenious, can never plan for itself.

And that is precisely where the college man comes in. Highly trained brains are needed more and more to think, plan, and direct tasks for the never-ending application of brawn-saving electricity.

In most long-established industries the General Electric Company has brought about important changes making for better products with minimum human labor and expense. And in many new industries the G-E engineers have played a prominent part from the very beginning.

A new series of G-E advertisements showing what electricity is doing in many fields will be sent on request. Ask for Booklet G-E-1.

DEAN CRAWFORD GIVES ADDRESS

Speaker on Chamber of Commerce Program; Tells of Engineering College

Dean Ivan C. Crawford of the college of engineering at the University of Idaho was the principal speaker at the weekly luncheon of the Moscow chamber of commerce Wednesday and gave a concise and interesting outline of the work carried on by the college of engineering.

Dean Crawford, in beginning his address, gave a brief history of engineering, stating that the first school of engineering was conducted in connection with Westpoint Military Academy. He said that there are now 116 engineering schools in the United States and Canada and that last year these schools had 56,000 students enrolled.

While there was a time, prior to the late war, when there were more engineers available than there were jobs, this condition has changed in recent years and the positions are now seeking capable men. Men trained as sales engineers, he said, are especially in demand.

The laboratory of the college of engineering of the University of Idaho is of use to all of the people of the state as a place where material testing is done. This applies to the testing of materials for road building and other construction work.

The Rev. E. S. Muckley, who recently came to Moscow to take the pastorate of the Christian church, was called upon and made a short talk, expressing his appreciation of the opportunity to meet with the business men of the city.

Miniature Penalty Recorded on Grid

Chicago—Penalized three-fourths of an inch! Such was the cry of an umpire that drew applause like a burlesque skit in a recent high school gridiron contest. But it was true, and the ruling stood.

An offside penalty was called on the team with the ball. On such an occasion the usual penalty is five yards, but a special ruling when the distance is less than the penalty calls for, a penalty of half the distance to the goal line.

"Red" Rutherford, who captained both the track and the cross-country teams at the University of Oklahoma last year and who is the champion five-miler in the Missouri Valley was recently asked to figure out just how far he has run in his meteoric career. The result of this research shows that in three years of competition he has covered approximately 2,000 miles, of which about 1,200 were accomplished in cross-country.

Oxford Bags Banned By British Schools

London—Oxford "bags" have been banned in English public schools but the enforcement of the rule has not been without its tense moments.

Two boys appeared at lecture wearing the "bags" in one of the schools in which they had been banned. "Take off those trousers," the head master said. The boys prepared to comply with the command, when the master yelled, "Did you hear what I said? Take them off."

"Here, sir?" the boys asked, "Yes, and do it at once," was the answer. The trousers were removed, after which the boys were sent to the master's study with instructions to wait as they were.

Strange Creature Appears on Campus

Scientists note the reappearance of the supposedly extinct insect, Sperronitus Galoshus, whose exact origin, nature, and habits remains a mystery. Whether the Galoshus is an animal, bird, or insect is yet undecided, but it is agreed that it has some very deadly effects.

The Galoshus was thought to have been completely routed when it disappeared with the first warm days last spring. Since its return one eminent scientist has concluded that it is a migratory bird, coming with wet weather.

The Galoshus preys largely on the female of the species, although no one seems to be entirely immune. Authorities consider waging a campaign of extinction, because they fear the animal is retarding the understanding of the nation. However, because the Galoshus affords such excellent sport for the hunter and especially for the trap-her, a game preserve may be set aside.

IDAHO TECH MAY GET 1926 GAME

Coach Mathews Announces Pocatello is After Football Contest for Next Year

Pocatello may be the scene of a non-conference football battle next fall between the Idaho Vandals and either a Utah or a Colorado team. This was the statement that Coach R. L. Mathews made while stopping over in Pocatello on the way to Omaha where the Idaho eleven met Creighton university in a Thanksgiving day game.

"It is yet too early to say such a game will be played, but if a game is to be played, the contest will be at Pocatello," Coach Mathews told A. R. Thompson, Idaho graduate who played on the Vandal team in 1917, 1918, and 1919.

"Our conference schedule will be arranged in December and, later, an attempt will be made to schedule a game at Pocatello, probably for Thanksgiving day or some other date in November."

"We will likely be unable to hold a conference game here, but a contest may be arranged with one of the Utah college elevens or with a Colorado team," Coach Mathews said while in Pocatello. "We will make every effort."

FORESTERS PLAN TRIP IN SPRING

Seventeen Juniors and Seniors Will Visit Priest River Station

Seventeen juniors and seniors in the University school of forestry will take their annual field trip on the 4,000 acre Priest River forest experiment station next spring. Arrangements for the trip were made during a recent conference between Dean F. G. Miller and R. H. Weidman, director of the North Rocky Mountain forest experiment station at Missoula, Mont., who is also in charge of the Priest River reserve. This is part of a plan for closer cooperation between the United States forest service and the Idaho school of forestry.

Students who will make the field trip are: W. H. Bolles, Moscow; William Cranston, Mt. Vernon, Wash.; Eugenio Cruz, Philippine Islands; Ivan Doyle, Moscow; Walter Field, Huston; Charles Fox, Utica, N. Y.; N. F. Gillham, Edwardsville, Ill.; Edwin Green, Moscow; Orin Gudmansen, River Falls, Wis.; C. H. Huntington, Attica, N. Y.; Clarence Olsen, Seattle, Wash.; E. V. Phelps, Carlinville, Ill.; Galen Pike, Woodstock, Conn.; L. R. Pugh, Harrison; Valentin Sajor, Philippine Islands; Fairly Walrath, Orofino; and Harold White, Moscow.

Cougars Travel Far To Get Their Games

The Washington State College football team leads the Pacific Coast conference in the number of miles that the team travels to play its games this season.

The two trips to California and one to Hawaii make up the biggest percentage of the 12,774 miles that the Cougars cover.

BOOKSHELF NOTICE

Popularity of the English club bookshelf of modern fiction has led to an increased demand for books. To meet this faculty and student demand it has been suggested to increase slightly the rental charge for the books

After consideration it has been decided by the committee in charge to make the rental charge for the books on a progressive scale as follows: Ten cents for the first three days; four cents a day for any part thereof; twenty-five cents for the first week; and five cents a day thereafter. This new scale goes into effect Wednesday morning, according to Pauline Mitchell, chairman of the committee.

Help: Neurich: "Be sure you get a good-looking nurse for my baby." Mrs. Neurich: "Why?" Neurich: "I want him to have police protection."—Medley.

Of All the Nolve: History Teacher: "I shall give a test tomorrow and don't be surprised if I should ask for dates." Sweet Young Thing: "Don't think you get one from me."—Wampus.

Red Hot Mama: Tom: "That your girl you had at the dance?" Dick: "Yes." Tom: "Smoke?" Dick: "No, she's sunburnt."—Wampus.

Ambition: Sophomore: "What is your greatest ambition, Frosh?" Freshman: "To die a year sooner than you." Sophomore: "What is your reason for that?" Freshman: "So I will be a sophomore in Hell when you get there, sir."—Whirlwind.

Howzit: "You remind me so much of Moses." "Howzat?" "You open your mouth 'n the Bull-rushes."—Yellow Jacket.

It Pays to Advertise: It was in history. The professor had been telling of the life of Chesterfield. He continued: "And when Lord Chesterfield saw that he was near death's door, he gathered all his friends about him. Just before he died he gave one last immortal message to them. What was it?" Class shout in delight, "They Satisfy."—Argos.

Low Stuff: The train had just come out of a long tunnel. The sheik, who had seized the opportunity to steal a kiss from his innamorata, leaned over to her triumphantly.

"Now what have you to say to that?" he asked. "I'll say," was her indignant reply: "that I don't approve of your underground methods."—Gold Pan.

Brave to the Last: "I bet on a brave horse today." "Brave?" "I should say so. He chased the other horses clear around the track."

The Old Spirit: England expects every Scotchman to do his neighbor.—Lampoon. The Stude: Prof: "I was sorry to see you come out of that saloon yesterday." Stewd: "Couldn't help it, sir—had a recitation."—Rice Owl. Deep Stuff: Co-eds (noticing sign in the library)—"Only Low Talk Permitted Here." First Co-ed—"Fine. Now I can go on with that story I was telling you."

Harvard Men Suffer At Hands of Women

Cambridge, Mass.—"What is worse than a woman's fury?" Harvard Lampoon publishers believe there is nothing now that the continual jibes of the Lampoon, Harvard's comic magazine, has at last aroused the wrath of Radcliffe women.

A recent edition of the magazine appeared with a cartoon of a Radcliffe woman looking into a mirror, captioned with the words, "The Only Examination a Radcliffe Girl Can't Pass." The fury of the Radcliffe women has known no bounds and Harvard men have received a lashing that only angry women can administer. The retort came back, particularly biting in the light of Harvard's ragged football season, that these are a few of the things a Harvard man can't pass gracefully: 1, a football; 2, a bargain counter; 3, out.

The girls offered to put twelve photographs of the prettiest girls at Radcliffe against anything the Lampoon staff can produce from its handsome board, the pictures to appear in the Harvard Crimson and public sentiment to be the judge.

FIVE PLAY LAST GAME

Five veteran Vandals played their farewell game against Creighton. Ray Stephens, center, Ted Bucklin, tackle, Neal Nelson, end, Vic Cameron and Giff Davison, halfbacks, wore the red for the last time, all having played their three-year limit.

The team left Omaha in a special car Thursday night and arrived here Sunday afternoon, coming via Cheyenne, Pocatello, Pendleton and Colfax. Those making the trip were: Stephens, York, Bliss, centers; Hutchinson, Gartin, Bucklin, Diehl, Bower, Dean, tackles; Terry, Walmesley, Jones and Thomas, guards; Nelson, Erickson, Beall, and Canine, ends; Reget, Powers, Jacoby, quarterbacks; Davison, Cameron, H. Canine, O'Donnell, Edleblute and Duf, halfbacks; Owings and Baird, fullbacks.
