Wanted: A Name and an Author!

The Argonaut has just received some intriguing cartoon cuts and the only way they can be used to advantage is in a column. This means column in the true sense of the word which is pronounced "colyum." The present effort has been run sporadically under the head of "Campus Katie Says—". It is felt that such a name is not particularly representative of a column which aims to present solemn and weighty fragments. For the best name and suggested cartoon cut to use as a regular head of the Argonaut will present a worth while prize: a guilt edge flunk notice. Get busy, ye delvers into ancient Vandal lore.

And another thing. If you can write a column which will contain representative readable "wit, humor and filosofy"; try it and the best one will be run once a week. The present authors challenge all comes that they can put out a better column for the Thursday issue than any other individual or group of individuals in Idaho or any other foreign seaport. Many contributions of feature stories to this issue have exposed the fact that there is a great deal of hidden talent on the campus. For shame that they would hold out on a harassed editor with such power in their hands to make life one long series of feature stories and "colyums" to give to a deserving public.

Certain it is that a "colyum", if well handled, rates second only to the society notes in the amount of interest it attracts. And words are mighty weapons if rightly handled. Think of it! A chance to sway the opinion of many. An opportunity to expose your rival or your peculiar prof. Think twice, you of the subtle sense of humor, before you pass up an opportunity like this.

Washington Daily's Commenton "Honor System"

"California has discovered the upsetting discrepancy between an "honor code" that is "enforced" and an honor code. The discovery seems to have perturbed The Daily Californian for in a lead editorial about the cosmic event, all the stops are pulled out on the "California spirit" ballyhoo, and the gist of the honor system is bidden to emerge from within.

The University of Washington learned many moons ago that an enforcement system does not constitute a true honor code. Presumably the southern institution has much to learn: Washington frankly abandoned the precarious position of an "honor code" necessitating enforcement and adopted a code that recognized enforcement as one of its cardinal provisions. The significant feature is that it was a student enforcement and not a faculty police affair.

The American plan of higher education precludes the success of a true honor code. No matter how honest are the great majority of the students the necessity of passing examinations in order to remain in school is too much of a strain on the honor of the weaker-spirited. Unless America adopts the European scheme of voluntary attendance some sort of class-room police, or otherwise, will continue to be imperative. The Daily does not mean to imply that the European system is preferable. But The Daily is doubtful that we are approaching an honor millenium in collegiate America."

Send Your Opinions to The Argonaut

The most interesting and livest part of a university paper should be the student or faculty opinion column. The Argonaut runs The Safety Valve for this purpose. University students are the most adept people in all the world when it comes to expressing opinions; yet who can say that The Argonaut Safety Valve shows any signs whatever of even the faintest amount of original thinking.

It's not that the student body is of the opinion that every thing is as it should be, or should not be. From all sides one hears severe condemnation of this or that, and equally pointed words of praise. But do these opinions find their way into print? They do not. The editor and his associates are the only persons who fling their opinions continually to the University public. Such monotonous repetition of editorial attitude must indeed become monotonous to the suffering reader.

Initials for print may be used, although the editor must have the name of the writer appended. They do not realize, apparently, that a signed article is worth ten times more than one that is unsigned, and is certain of a much more careful reading.

The Argonaut welcomes contributions or opinions. Put them in The Argonaut box under the bulletin board in the "Ad" building.

NYVALL PLANS SERIES OF MUSICAL TREATS

Instructive Program Will Be Sponsored By Faculty Member

The first of a series of musicals was held at the home of David Nyvall, Jr. last Friday evening. Friday afternoon a studio tea and musical will be given at Mr. Nyvall's studio. These musicals will include a series of lectures to be given by Mr. Nyvall. The subject for Friday afternoon will be "The Parable of Miss Kathinka Smith and the Marbles."

Eight lectures have been planned. They will cover such topics as the construction and analyzing and acoustics of the piano, the physiology of piano work, study of scales and their development from earliest to present times, relaxation and its relationship to tone and velocity, composition from single to final product and time, rhythm and accent.

The musicals are for students in that department only, although occasionally there will be guest programs.

CANDY FOUND GOOD DIET FOR ATHLETES

Hard Hearted Trainers Given Jolt by Latest Findings of Science

Boston—Scientists have upset the dope of hard hearted trainers who rule candy off the diet of athletes. Dr. Burgess Gordon and several other physicians of this city have found as a result of experiments that marathon runners who have lived on a generous carbohydrate diet during the training season and who eat candy before and during the race not only come out ahead, but are also in much better physical condition than those who run unsweetened.

Experimenters Get Hint
The experimenters got the hint that sugar had something to do with the physical condition of runners when a series of blood tests made a year ago after the American marathon race here, revealed that those who were most exhausted showed very low blood sugar and others, less exhausted, showed a somewhat higher sugar percentage. Some extreme cases even presented an appearance similar to that of shock produced in diabetic patients by an overdose of insulin, a substance necessary to proper disposal of sugar in the blood and which diabetics lack.

Results of blood tests made accordingly, using sugar rations during this year's marathon, have just been made public. Runners were placed on high carbohydrate diets before the race, besides being given large doses 24 hours before and supplied with candy and oversweetened tea at wayside stations. The blood tests after the race showed normal blood sugars in all cases in contrast to previous results. There was striking improvements in general physical condition and running time was faster in many cases.

ALUMNI ORGANIZE AT NAMPA TO HELP U. I.

Hudelson, Alum, Prexy and Coach Mathews Visit

Nampa—Alumni of the University of Idaho who now make their homes in this section were invited to a meeting held here the evening of January 19 to form a local chapter of the state alumni association. There are about 25 graduates of the state university in this city and an effort was made to unite them for the purpose of keeping college associations alive, and to further the interests of their alma mater.

Homer Hudelson of Boise, president of the Idaho Alumni association, attended the meeting, outlined the objects of a local association and told briefly what some of the other local chapters which are scattered throughout Idaho are accomplishing.

R. L. Mathews, athletic director of the university, and Mr. Hudelson were in the city Monday, conferring with alumni and it was decided to call a meeting of all former students of the institution to discuss matters in detail. Coach Mathews will be in the city again, according to present plans, to meet with the Blue N club of the Nampa high school, winners of the school letter in athletics, and will outline the advantages and opportunities Idaho's state university offers to those intending to attend college after finishing their high school courses.

Arrangements for the meeting were in the hands of a committee composed of P. T. Rowell, Mrs. L. G. Everly and Donald Potter.

They Thought It Was; But It Was Not What They Thought It Was

In the dead of night, in the gray-terrible hours just before dawn, they sneak through the rooms of a certain sorority house. At sight of the demons, forty panic-stricken girls utter blood-curdling screams. What do these creatures seek? Can it be that they have an uncanny design upon some of these lovely and innocent girls?—to say nothing of that moon-faced frosh in the attic. The sound of the creatures' feet on the creaking floor strike terror in the heart of every white-lipped daughter of Eve. Even the two sophomores on the rifle squad are found quaking under their beds. The house-mother, broom in hand, mounts the stairs to the aid of the frenzied girls. On reaching the top step she is confronted by one of the specters! Her weapon falls from her trembling grasp; she retires frantically to her room, locks herself in and beats on the door, crying for help. The only response is the moaning of the forty girls, covered upstairs. And three tiny gray mice scamper playfully across the floor.

MEN'S RIFLE SQUAD CUT TO 20 MEMBERS

Fifteen High Scorers Will Shoot In Corps Area Match

The men's squad has been cut to twenty men and later the fifteen high scorers will be selected to compete with other senior R. O. T. C. units in the Ninth Corps Area, probably starting February 8.

The cut in the squad was necessary to have more time to practice. The range in Lewis Court will be open during the semester examinations and every member of the squad is urged to practice.

The team follows:
I. Selby, A. Anderson, O. Huefner, K. D. Flock, P. Crox, N. Luvaas, W. L. May, P. Manning, J. Bauer, H. Boyer, C. J. Spaulding, J. Hesalein, F. Edmundson, C. B. Collier, H. W. Rydahl, L. Shellworth, C. W. Johnson, A. H. Wilson, G. K. Oliver, K. Doty.

We hope that guy who wrote "Say it with flowers" is right, now that it is exam time.

You will appreciate prompt and courteous service. — THE IDAHO BARBER SHOP. Adv.

OREGON STUDENTS WOULD CO-OPERATE

Undergraduates Seek Admission to University Faculty Meetings

"You can quote me as being heartily in favor of the motion of Dean Walker suggesting the admittance of three or four student body officials to faculty meetings, which is to be voted upon soon," said Walter Malcolm, president of the Associated Students of the University of Oregon yesterday, when asked his opinion of the new plan.

At the last faculty meeting, January 13, Dean Walker, dean of men, gave notice of a motion to be put before that body which would permit attendance at faculty meetings of the student body president, the editor of the Emerald, the secretary of the student body and the women's league president. Much discussion has followed this proposal and students are much in favor of the plan.

Benefits Outlined.
"The benefits to be gained by such a practice," continued Malcolm, "are many. It presents an opportunity for students to see and understand better the faculty point of view. Many controversies come up between faculty and students which, in most cases, could be illuminated by a better understanding between them. This new opportunity for students to attend faculty meetings ought to eradicate such difficulties."

That allowing students to attend faculty meetings will make possible an expression of student attitude, not necessarily a vociferous one, but some expression just the same, is an important point brought out by the student body president.

The proposed plan ought to result in better cooperation between faculty and students in all affairs concerning the University, he said. In the student's opinion he feels that it is only reasonable that undergraduates should have the privilege of knowing the motives for faculty actions when these actions vitally effect the students.

"Behind these reasons, there is a deeper and even more important one," said Malcolm. "It is a natural tendency of human nature to do better work and take more interest in those things in which one is actually playing a part. If the students felt that they had just a small part, even though it be infinitesimal, in the teaching, course-making and intellectual side of college life, their interest would be greater. If the faculty wishes to increase this interest, in my opinion, it should act favorably on Dean Walker's motion."

WHEN you've kicked off the pumps and tossed the collar on the table, while the music is still singing in your brain and memories of one dancing deb in particular crowd your thoughts, fill your pipe with Prince Albert and light up. Make it a night of nights.

P. A. is so genuinely friendly. It hits your smoke-spot in deep center right off the bat. Doesn't bite your tongue or parch your throat, because the Prince Albert process said "nix on the rough stuff" at the very beginning. Just cool contentment in every perfect puff.

Don't put off till tomorrow what you can smoke today. Get a tidy red tin of P. A. now. Snap back the hinged lid and release that wonderful fragrance. Tamp a load into the bowl of your jimmy-pipe and light up. Now you've got it . . . that taste. Say— isn't that the goods now?

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, pound and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-mistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

MUSIC DEPARTMENT TO TRY NEW METHOD

Individual Lessons Will Be Discarded Next Semester

Instead of individual piano, vocal or violin lessons, new students in the school of music may, if they prefer, be instructed in classes of four, under a new plan worked out by the music department. The lessons will be one hour in length under the new system instead of one half-hour's duration as under the former idea.

The great advantage of the new plan lies in the reduction of tuition fees. Advanced students will not be given the privilege of enrolling in groups, and beginners will be given preference between the individual and class system.

You will appreciate prompt and courteous service. — THE IDAHO BARBER SHOP. Adv.

The dashing University of Oregon basketball quintet blazed its way around the northern section of the conference this week to a substantial leadership in the title race, leaving in its wake the wrecked championship hopes of the Universities of Washington, Montana, Idaho and Washington State College. Washington whipped four of the hardest teams in the northwest, by good-sized scores, and on enemy courts.

Idaho held the Webfooters down to the smallest margin of victory, 34 to 24, and looked among the most worthy to dispute Oregon's leadership later in the season. Oregon Agricultural college is still technically tied with Oregon for the lead, but it is extremely doubtful whether Coach Hagar's "phantom five" can stop the Lemon-Yellow. In a non-conference game Tuesday evening the Aggies defeated Whitman college, 28 to 21.

The game Saturday night between Washington and O. A. C. will be the first round in the jockeying for second-best in the league.

HIGH SCHOOL HOOP RACE TIGHTENING

Interscholastic Basketball Conference Struggle Bitterly for State Leadership

High school basketball in the state advanced another week nearer the district and state championships without many upsets and with general favorites taking firmer grips on their leadership. The only upset in the south was Caldwell's impressive 21 to 10 victory over Welser. The Welser quintet won from Caldwell the week previous by 10 points. Two Welser regulars were sick. In the Boise district the Braves gave Nampa a drubbing, 21 to 18. Other results in that area were: Nampa 20, New Plymouth 19; Caldwell 21, Meridian 13; Welser 26, Fruitland 8; Emmett 36, New Plymouth 13; Parma 19, Payette 16.

Pocatello continues to slaughter the teams in the southeast, American Falls falling before Rich Fox's club to the tune of 39 to 5 last week. It begins to look as if the Red and Blue will cop the district title with ease.

Close Games Feature

Close games featured play in the Twin Falls district. Buhl managed a 17 to 16 victory over Gooding, and Wendell nosed out Jerome, 16 to 14. Shoshone took Richfield in a camp, 24 to 16. Many teams of this district appear of about equal ability and the champion probably will not be in evidence before the end of the district meet.

In the panhandle Kellogg continues to down all opposition. Sandpoint also is winning regularly by impressive scores. The race in this district is clearly between these two teams, with Kellogg ranking as the favorite. Sandpoint, seeking new blood, went to Spokane and downed the Hillyard high, 48 to 16. Coeur d'Alene won two games during the week from Rathdrum and Plummer, but by unimpressive scores.

Leading teams in the Lewiston district are Grangeville, Troy, Lapwai, and Lewiston. There are only three more weeks of play besides the present one before the tournament in the Lewiston district. Lewiston will get its test during February when it goes on the road for six games. At the present time the Bengals look 10 points ahead of anything in the district.

PAN-HELLENIC SETS "RUSH WEEK" RULES

"Spurs" Will Help New Students Upon Arrival Here

Sorority rushing for the second semester will be conducted in a systematic manner, it was decided at a Pan-Hellenic meeting Thursday night. Rush week will start Monday preceding registration. The Spurs will meet girls coming in on trains, and will accompany them to the dormitories. Also, the Spurs will conduct an informal table in the main hall of the Administration building, during the two days of registration, for the benefit of the new students. This work will be carried on under the supervision of the Pan-Hellenic society of which Esther Kennedy is president and Alma Baker, secretary.

Pledge Commits a Heinous Crime and Justice Soon Follows

"Pi Sigma Rho House! No! I mean house! Aw! what house do you want?" were the words of a frosh upon answering the telephone at the _____ house last Friday. It is evident that this frosh had not noticed that he was in his fraternity house and not in her sorority house. The question immediately came up among those present that either his fraternity did not mean enough to him to remember its name, or that he was more at home in the Pi Sigma Rho house than his own. In either case, he was guilty of a serious offense and severe measures should be immediately taken to prevent its recurrence. The gallant elders of the house, after due consideration, decided to give punishment on the spot as it were. The old oaken paddles were brought down from their resting places and between the resounding whacks were heard the reluctant words, "Yes sir! Thank you sir! Never again sir!" until at the last it was merely a muffled groan.

Frosh Suffers at Hands of a Senior; Discretion vs. Valor

"M—m—borrow your pencil?" The above remark was made by a senior of thirty or forty years. "Det cher life!" replied a still brighter frosh of ten or twelve. A period of two days elapsed during which time the senior made good use of the pencil. But the frosh was in feverish anxiety, for it had taken his last dime to buy the pencil, furthermore, it was intended to be a birthday present for his girl. Frosh tossed in his bed. The old church clock tolled the knell of parting birthday with no present. Restless anxiety turned into the righteous wrath of a martyr. Next day he saw the senior in the library—sitting by his girl. His girl whispered to the senior, and in response, senior nonchalantly handed her his pencil. Oh, hot papa!! How one certain Freshey did feel to burst into oratory! Uncommon sense ruled over wrath, and he held his chair. "Oh well," to himself, "She's got the pencil, anyway."
