Vandals Gain Strength With Recovery of "Lief" Erickson

SECOND POSITION UP Gem Staters Rest For Struggle—Nedros Back in Lineup

(By "Bud" Alford)

Fired to new life by its victory over Washington State college, the Idaho Vandal basketball team faces the University of Washington quintet in the university gymnasium Saturday night with runners-up position in the northern part of the Pacific coast conference as the ultimate goal of victory.

The Vandals showed all of their old time form and fight against Washington State and are set to make a flashy finish to a so far mediocre season. Idaho holds one victory over Washington, a 29-26 win at Seattle a fortnight ago. Washington stock has been given a big boost since then by a 28-21 victory over Oregon Agricultural college and the Vandals have a hard task cut out for them to trim the Husky pack.

Vandals in Full Strength

Idaho will be able to muster its full strength against the Huskies. Eddie Nedros has fully recovered from his recent illness and played a splendid game against W. S. C. Tuesday night. He and Miles displayed their usual incredible basket accuracy and between themselves made 20 of Idaho's 27 points. Remer has been going in good fashion after being in and out of the game on account of illness early in the year. "Red" Jacoby has fitted in perfectly with the veteran "Nellie" Nelson at guard and has made up for any lack of experience by aggressiveness.

Erickson May Play

"Lief" Erickson, big center of the 1925 team, who has been out all season with a broken leg is getting into fair condition and, if necessary, can be used in tomorrow night's fray. Erickson played a short time against Whitman but is still slowed down considerably by his leg.

The Vandals have been having only

OREGON HOOPSTERS CLINCH NORTH TITLE

The University of Oregon basketball quintet has fought its way unbeaten to the championship of the northern division of the Pacific coast conference and will meet the University of California in a three-game series for the Pacific coast title some time during the first week in March. The northern leadership automatically went to Oregon when the University of Washington defeated Oregon Agricultural college, Oregon's only competitor, 29 to 21 at Seattle Tuesday.

Chance for Second Place

The Idaho Vandals still have a chance to finish in second place in the northern division. They have only three more conference games to play, all on the home floor, and if they win these it will give them a .600 percentage at the end of the season. Oregon Agricultural college and Washington both have four games left on their schedules, all of them on the road, and they must win 3 of these 4 to keep pace with the Vandals.

Idaho's neat 27-24 win over Washington State Tuesday marked the turning point in what was beginning to look like a Vandal rout. The defeat put the Cougars deeper in the cellar, with comparatively small chances of getting out this season.

INTEREST GROWING IN "BIG SISTER" MOVE

Associated Women Students Formulate Plans for Development

Interest among the women students in the "Big Sister" movement is increasing each day. Plans for carrying into effect this movement already have been formulated by a committee from the Associated Women Students. A general meeting of this organization will be held next Tuesday, probably in the auditorium at 5 o'clock. Definite arrangements have not yet been made, said Ruth Montgomery, president of the league, but an announcement of the place and time will appear on the bulletin board soon.

At this meeting the plans for the movement will be read officially and action taken upon them. This is a new movement on the Idaho campus and its success depends on the support given it by the women students, said Miss Montgomery.

NOTED FORESTER VISITOR AT IDAHO

Dr. C. A. Schenck, Founder of the Baltimore School Impressed With U. of I.

(By Fred Allen)

Dr. C. A. Schenck, one of the noted foresters of the world and founder of the Baltimore school of forestry, was a visitor on the Idaho campus this week. Known to the forestry world as "the forester at Large," because of his extensive travels in the interest of the forestry profession, Dr. Schenck probably holds the most prominent position of foresters.

He came to the United States in 1894, and has been actively engaged in forestry work of all kinds for the past 32 years. At present he is under contract to give lectures at the University of Montana, and at the close of his contract in the spring plans on conducting a tour through the European countries for the purpose of giving forestry students who are fortunate enough to make the trip an insight on European forestry methods.

Founded Noted Forestry School

Doctor Schenck is the founder of the first forestry school in this country, being the head of the noted Baltimore school of forestry in West Virginia. He took his students for a tour of the United States, giving them opportunity to study actual conditions, as they prevail in the various lumber centers of the country. Not satisfied with this, he then took his men to Europe, with the same ideas in mind, and the result is, that today, every one of the men who had this education under him, is a prominent man in the lumber industry.

Impressed With Idaho

He is a very jovial and friendly man and one feels at home with him immediately, for his bluff and hearty manner makes one feel perfectly at ease. On leaving here, Doctor Schenck made the remark that he was very much impressed with the school, and that he hoped to return again soon.

GIRLS' GROUP GETS CANDY CONCESSIONS

Executive Board Grants Privilege to W. A. A.; Considers Glee Club

Concessions to sell candy at basketball games were granted, for the remainder of the season, to W. A. A. by the A. S. U. I. executive board Wednesday night. This action followed a request from Evangeline Bennett, president of the association.

The glee club, through its manager, Ray Currie, presented a budget for a proposed trip for the organization, which would include several northern Idaho towns and Spokane. Thirty-five people were to make the trip, according to the budget, giving two concerts in Spokane and one each in Coeur d'Alene, Kellogg and Wallace. The sentiment of the board was in favor of such a trip, provided that contracts for these engagements could be secured, guaranteeing a definite sum for each appearance, enabling the club to make the trip financially successful.

Tour Up to Students

It was further agreed by the board that should the glee club present a

MORMONS MAY PUT CHURCH ON CAMPUS

Plan Building That May Be Used for Worship and Dormitory

Possibilities of constructing a combination church and dormitory on the University of Idaho campus by the Mormon denomination was discussed at a meeting of Mormon students of the university and business men of Moscow Wednesday night at the Blue Bucket Inn. Richard R. Lyman of Salt Lake, one of the apostles of the church who is in this section of the country on engineering business, spoke favorably of the university and told the meeting that conditions are favorable for the undertaking of such a project.

It is the tentative plan of the meeting to construct a building which can be used by the members of the church, both in Moscow and students at the university, as a place of worship and also to help take care of the housing problem on the campus. The building of such a combination of chapel and a dormitory would also make the building self-supporting, it was brought out at the meeting.

Approximately 100 Mormons and business men attended the meeting and all expressed themselves as being enthusiastically in favor of launching such a program. There are approximately 150 Mormons in the city, it was stated, not including the large number of Mormon students attending the university. And at the present time there is no Mormon church in the city.

Plans are to be taken up carefully by a committee appointed, which will also figure on the cost and size of such a building.

MUSICAL POSTPONED

The musical which was to have been given by the university orchestra next Sunday, February 21, has been postponed and will be given Sunday, February 23.

STUDENTS TO GET SELF RULE PLAN

Proposition Will be Aired in Special Assembly Soon, Says Committee

Students will be presented with definite proposals for self-government at an assembly which will be called in the near future, according to Wayman Williams, a member of the committee of students which has the movement in charge. Special permission for such an assembly has been granted by President A. H. Upham, said Mr. Williams.

As a prelude to the presentation of a definite basis upon which to work, said Mr. Williams, letters have been sent to about 30 institutions in all parts of the country, seeking information on student government methods as they are worked out in other schools, and also asking opinions of those who have been in close contact with this system of rule. All answers are expected to be in the hands of the committee and a definite basis upon which to proceed formulated within a week, said Mr. Williams. Presentation to the students of the plan awaits only response to these letters, it was announced.

Three Quintets Eliminated in Week of Play; Phi Delta Theta Draws Bye and Remains Undefeated.

The race for intra-mural basketball honors has narrowed to four teams during the past weeks play. Only three of the original fourteen remain undefeated. Sigma Alpha Epsilon showed strength in its defeat of Kappa Sigma at the first of the week, and Alpha Tau Omega and Sigma Nu loomed large as contenders for the cup in their victories over Lindley hall and Tau Kappa Iota respectively. Phi Delta Theta, the other member of the undefeated group, drew a bye and has thus had no opportunity to show

"SKIP" STIVERS MAY PLAY WITH SEALS

Ex-University of Idaho Quarterback has Chance To Break Into League

"Skip" Stivers, ex-University of Idaho quarterback, may get a chance to break into a regular position with the San Francisco Seals in the Pacific coast league this spring. The Seals lost their infield flash of last season, Hal Rhyme, to Pittsburg, and shortstop this season will be between Stivers and Ray Flashkamper, who began with San Francisco three or four years ago, and has been playing in the minor circuits since.

L. H. Gregory, sports writer of the Portland Oregonian, is apparently well impressed with "Skip" as a baseball player. He says that Stivers is a "game, gritty kid, and can hit" and tells the following yarn of his experience last season when a recruit with the San Francisco Seals:

"When Stivers joined the Seals last year he ran into the experience nearly every kid has on a team of veterans. Nobody paid him much attention, except to crab at his way of fielding and batting. Stivers had to plug along for himself, even had to horn in to get his batting turn in practice. Bert Ellison found serious objection to his style of hitting, but when he'd try to bat he would usually find that some regular had stolen his turn. Being a kid, he hated to assert himself.

"One morning Stivers got tired of it all. He was sore and discouraged because he couldn't hit the way Ellison wanted him to, and he resented being shoved aside when he tried to bat. This time he walked to the plate, pulled a player aside who was stealing his turn, and then, still mad all over, swung from his hips at the first pitch in his own natural way. He met the pellet fair and it sailed over the wall.

TRACK MEN TRAIN FOR 1926 SEASON

23 Men Report for Initial Workout; More Expected

The 1926 varsity track season opened Wednesday night with 23 men reporting for the initial workout under Coach Robert L. Mathews. As many more are expected out by the time the season gets well under way.

Two muscle limbering jogs around the quarter-mile track on MacLean field comprised the first evening's workout. The opening turnout consisted mostly of last year's freshman men and new candidates, there being only a sprinkling of tried performers. The cinder artists will get a number of recruits when the basketball season is finished and the hoop men are able to turn out.

Freshman track will start in a few days, as soon as the varsity men are well started and equipped.

PRESS FRATERNITY ENTERTAIN "CUBS"

"Gridiron Banquet" to be Stag Affair and Very Exclusive

A two hour course in cub reporting, which has as its chief prerequisite Spartanlike ability to withstand the searing tongue of a fire-eating editor, will be offered this spring by Delta Sigma fraternity—formerly the Press club—to faculty members, Moscow business and professional men, and a few students. Announcement of the innovation was made yesterday by W. C. Brown, president of the organization.

This intensive dose of higher education will be administered at a "gridiron banquet" which members of the fraternity hope to make an annual event. The banquet will be patterned after its famous Washington, D. C. namesake, and after the similar super-thermal affairs which are now staged at virtually every important institution in the country. April 1 has been chosen as an appropriate date.

It was previously announced that invitations would be sent to all male reasonably sane persons who believe they know how a newspaper should be run. That was the original intention. Investigation, however, has shown that it will be necessary to curtail the list. Present plans require limiting of the fortunate number to only the most prominent lights of the downtown and campus blue-bloods, i. e., those whom the reporters of Delta Sigma find are most deserving of the city editor's lash. The banquet is a strictly stag affair.

The program, according to advance information, will take the form of two hours in the city room of a newspaper. The city editor and his satellites, the clicking telegraph—and other important instruments—and all apparatus common to the metropolitan daily office are to be presented for the edification of the "students."

A similar banquet is to be given soon at W. S. C., where it is a yearly event. It is staged there, as in most schools, by Sigma Delta Chi, professional journalism fraternity.

MATHEWS SEEKING ANNUAL CONTESTS

Idaho Grid Mentor Would Schedule Series With Huskies at Spokane

University of Washington, Seattle, Feb. 13, (P. I. P.)—An attempt to make a permanent football agreement with the University of Washington, providing for a game every other year in Spokane, Wn., is being made by Coach Bob Mathews, University of Idaho football mentor.

The meeting of the two teams in Seattle this year will be the first football game between the two schools in three years. It has been more than ten years since the huskies have played against Idaho east of the mountains.

ADA YOST AND MAURITA MILLER FILL VACANT OFFICES

At the meeting of the English club Wednesday morning in room 207, Ad building, Ada Yost was elected vice-president, and Maurita Miller, secretary. The elections were held to fill the offices left vacant when Jeanette Arntzen and Mary Leute did not return to the university after the first semester.

SPRING FOOTBALL WILL START WITH MANY CANDIDATES

More Than 100 Men Ex- pected for First Work Monday

FIVE VETERANS LOST

Lettermen Will Aid Coach in Teaching Rooks Fundamentals

Spring football practice for the 1926 Idaho football season will start Monday, less than three months since the varsity moleskins were packed away after the final game of the 1925 campaign. More than 100 men are expected for the spring workouts. The athletic department is busy making preparations to handle and equip this number.

"Vets" Will Help "Natty"

Coach R. L. Mathews will be assisted by five veterans of the 1925 team, who are ineligible for further college competition. Ray Stephens, Ted Bucklin and Orvil Jones will tutor the linemen and Vic Cameron and Giff Davison will direct the backfield candidates.

The first part of the spring season will be devoted to conditioning and fundamental work, handling the ball, blocking, tackling and the thousand and one other irksome and necessary details of early training. Signal practice and team play will come later in the spring.

Arrange 1926 Schedule

The Idaho football schedule for next fall has been definitely completed to include the following games:

- October 2, Montana State College, Moscow.
- October 9, University of Montana, Missoula.
- October 16, University of Washington, Seattle.
- October 23, College of Idaho, Moscow.
- October 30, Oregon Aggies, Portland.
- November 6, Washington State College, Moscow.
- November 13, Open.
- November 20, U. S. C., Los Angeles.
- November 25, Creighton U., Omaha.

IDAHO TRIMS W. S. C. IN SPEEDY CONTEST

Vandals Hold Lead Throughout Game; Nedros High Point Man

Rushing Washington State college off its feet in the early minutes of the game Tuesday night, the Idaho Vandals trimmed the Cougars, 27 to 24, and broke a losing streak of three straight games. The Vandals stayed in front during the entire encounter, although the Cougars came within two points of them near the final gun.

Eddie Nedros, uncanny scoring ace of the 1925 team, was back in his old form and placed 6 field goals and 1 free throw, for high individual score of the game. Idaho had a 17-10 lead at half time. The second half was more even, the Cougar men holding the Vandal sharpshooters in check for 10 points while they dropped 14 counters.

Student Government

Students soon will be faced with the proposition of self government, according to news-stories. An enormous amount of data is being collected by those who have the movement in charge and with whom lays the responsibility for presenting the idea in a workable form. Opinions of schools who have tried the idea along with actual results of institution are being gathered; and these will be presented in an assembly to be called for this purpose.

Such a sweeping change is something which must be considered carefully before action of any sort is taken. Will self-government work to the betterment of the student body as a whole? Will it be for the betterment of the school as an institution? What will self-government mean? Will it give the students the desired responsibility in the administration of their own affairs? Will it work smoothly, both from the viewpoint of the students and those who officially have the affairs of the school at heart and who have worked earnestly that the institution should hold the position that it does in the eyes of similar schools throughout the nation and the people of the state who send their children here for an education?

There are all are questions which must be considered carefully before whole hearted support can be given or withheld. And it is conceded that whole hearted support or disapproval is essential. If partial support is voiced, through a bare majority of votes, the proposition will be accepted as the will of the students. Little reasoning will testify that this can not work. Dissension from the group that withheld its support would be sufficient to kill any efforts that might be put forth on the part of the supporters. In the same light, a bare majority of votes against the proposal would be bad. There would be more dissension: those who favored the move would agitate opinion and in another year or so a similar proposal would be made. The wrangling that inevitably would ensue could not be good for the school.

To those who see in self government the abolishment of such administration institutions as the discipline committee, campus rules formulators and the like, seemed doomed to some little disappointment. Self-government will not do these things. On the other hand it will throw the responsibility on the students themselves; and placed thus, under conscientious government by those who are well acquainted with the problems connected with operating the school. The power of such institutions cannot but be felt considerably more than it is under the present system. Two thousand students, whose voice is expressed through appointed committees, exert a vastly more exacting attention than would similar groups under the direct supervision of the administration. This, of course, is dependent upon the students recognizing and meeting fairly the obligations which present themselves.

And to those who, as it has been whispered in many places, feel that student government will be an excellent reprisal action for recommendations of administration institutions, are doomed to another disappointment. With such a feeling behind the idea, support can only be partisan to an end; and once this end is attained, the interest of those who initiated and carried the completion the move will show a marked decline. The motive behind this must be sincere; without it cannot hope to work to the betterment of all concerned.

Thirteen hundred students, to quote news items again, have voiced an opinion favoring student government: what sort of government they have not indicated. That is perfectly all right. If the students want self-government, let them have it. But The Argonaut feels that such a move cannot be gone into without careful consideration of every phase of the proposal: its advantages, and its disadvantages as well as those factors which are not in either of those categories, and they should make sure that the system now in use has become inadequate.

Support

The Idaho Vandal basketball players have returned from their coast tour with as many fruits of victory as could be expected of them, considering the handicap of illness in the team. They meet the University of Washington in the gymnasium Saturday night in the first game since their return. A full turnout of rooters should be there to watch the team attempt to duplicate its performance at Seattle during the tour.

A turnout of rooters means an organized band of cheer dispensing Idaho students who recognize a fighting team when they see it in action. And they should make their influence felt through the medium of noise. Yell something, sing songs, do anything to let the team know it is being backed up to a man. And, too, the Pep band should be out in full force. Every moment when time is called out or during periods it should blare out support. It should not be out only to occupy the section allotted to it and to play once or twice during the game. A selection before the opening of the game and one during halftime is not sufficient. It does not show the organization in the light that it should be shown—the light which has made it famous all over the coast.

And another thing: the students should recognize the full authority of those who are officiating at the game. Their word is law and should be accepted as such. Disappointment over close decisions should be a matter to ponder over and not expressed on the floor. It should be realized that the referee or umpire is out to see that the game is played on the square as they see it; and their decisions are based on judgment which is working to that end. Officials in games such as those played here have no axe to grind. There isn't sufficient at stake for them to risk their reputations and the good will of the student crowds to willingly rule falsely. So get behind the referee and the umpire and see that their work is a pleasure instead of a punishment.

SAN CARLOS' COMPANY TO GIVE "RIGOLETTO"

Noted Grand Opera Stars Appear Here March 17

The San Carlo Grand Opera Company will present the opera, "Rigo-letto," March 17, in the auditorium. This is the third number of the artists' course and is probably the finest.

The success of this company is a reflection of its founder and general director, Fortune Gallo. He is what one might call an operative missionary. For the past 15 years the San Carlo has presented concerts in cities and towns which otherwise would never have the opportunity to hear the best in opera. The story of Gallo's rise from an immigrant boy to operative general is interesting.

Leading roles in the opera will be taken by the following artists:

Gilda, Josephine Lucchese, coloratura soprano; Maddalena, Bernice Schalker, mezzo soprano; Duke of Mantua, Franco Tafuro, tenor; Rigoletto; Emilio Giffardini, baritone.

ONE professor makes this remark, and countless others are saying the same thing. They know the value of a typewriter as a time-saver, as a means of compiling data, and as a help in the expression of thought. Then too, it frees the "prof" from that tedious task of deciphering longhand, and keeps him in perfect "reading humor." And perfect "reading humor" tends to mean better marks.

FORESTER TALKS TO IDAHO STUDENTS

Dr. C. A. Schenk Says Forestry is Common Sense

"Forestry is common sense applied to woodlands," declared Dr. C. A. Schenk, professional forester, in an address before assembly, Wednesday, February 17. He has made a study of the subject, having written many books on forestry.

In regard to Idaho, Dr. Schenk said that the woodlands should be destroyed, allowing new timber to grow. The timberland would be perpetuated in this way.

Dr. Schenk was born in Germany and came to the United States 32 years ago. He was for some years the forester in the Biltmore forest in North Carolina, which belongs to the Vanderbilt estate.

FRESHMEN PLAY W. S. C. SATURDAY

Good Appearances Made in Practice Against Varsity

The Idaho freshman basketball team plays the first of its two-game series with the Washington State college rooks Saturday afternoon at Pullman.

The frosh hit their playing stride against Ellensburg normal last week end and are expected to make a good showing against the Cougar Kittens. Coach R. L. Mathews has taken the freshmen in hand and they made good appearances in practice skirmishes against the varsity during the week.

The return game with the W. S. C. frosh will be played in Moscow Saturday evening, February 27, as a preliminary to the Idaho-Gonzaga game.

THREE FINISH R. O. T. C. WORK

Cadet officers to fill the recently made vacancies have not yet been appointed.

color. The group of four water colors is the most startling part of the exhibition. Although compositions in "still life," their presentation in color, bright and luminous, with a feeling for decorative effect give them more than usual interest.

"The boldness of the sunlight and warmth given the composition in "Red and Green" by Theodore Pritchard is quite in contrast to the coolness and delicacy of the composition in light green by Glanville Smith. All four compositions can be said to use more boldness of color than customary in academic work, which, in itself, is noteworthy and is even more interesting because of the apparent sureness and ease with which they seem to be done.

Designs Show Conception

"Of especial note is the suggestion of color given the interior of the design for a "State Dining Room." Without the use of any bright color, and a very limited number of those colors used, the effects of the intended polychromy has been very well brought out. One may better appreciate the design if he takes into consideration the hours of labor it must have taken to draw it up, not to mention the time it took to conceive it. "As a design which solves quite cleverly an awkward municipal problem, the design for the "Motor Bus Terminal" is worthy of special mention.

Interior Decoration Art

"The renderings of interior decoration take into consideration the fact that a room to be successfully treated must be studied from underneath the plaster and not be a mere collection of rugs, hangings, chairs, tables, and what not brought together from everywhere and made to fit together as best they may.

"The work in freehand drawing consists of work in pencil, wash and Conte crayon. The wash drawing shows excellent modeling and gives the illusion of being actual relief.

Work in Nude

"The work in drawing from nude is a quick sketch done in less than three hours and shows good composition and distribution of light and shade. "In looking over an exhibition like this, one begins to realize the patience and countless hours of labor it takes to develop excellence of execution in so many mediums and the real satisfaction a person must get from being able to do work of such high quality."
