ACTIVITIES ARE OVERSTRESSED BY COLLEGE WOMEN

Belief Emphasized By A. A. V. W. That Social Life Dominates Coeds

CLUB IS ACTIVE

Has Chapters in Many Schools; Held Conference in 1924

So busily engrossed in the regular routine of college life are most of the Co-eds that they often fail to realize what it is that they are really gaining by their efforts. In other words the matter of an education is so close that there is little possibility of getting on it a proper perspective. Few indeed realize the standing that they will have in the world when they graduate. For seniors, especially it is interesting to stop for a moment and speculate what they may expect to do with their education, besides of course the incidental function of earning more bread and butter.

The American Association of University Women, which came to Moscow four years ago, is an organization to which every college woman naturally hopes to belong. It is one of those organizations whose purpose and work tends ever to broaden the individual. It is forty-two years old and composed of about 19,000 alumnae of colleges and universities. It is organized in groups or branches now 270 in number, containing from ten to five hundred women. These branches are located all over the country, one or more in each state in the union. California has fourteen, Illinois, ten; Michigan, twelve; and so on. The Association is financing and carrying on the general administrative work behind the educational work. A great deal has been done through the granting of fellowships. These are open to all members of the association, and are tenable at any approved university or institution in a country other than that in which the fellow has received her previous education, or habitually resides.

Hold Conference

There is now a very interesting movement in connection with the International Federation of University Women. The third biennial conference was held in Christiania, July 1924. To this convention many American women went. During the world war

WOMEN ABANDON HEARTHES FOR CAREERS IN VARIED VOCATIONS

The tendency to believe that the special and definite position for women is alone to be found in the home is nourished by conditions which quite plainly have begun to disappear. As civilization advances, women may never hold a higher position than that of the home, but that they will expect their sphere of power and usefulness is undoubted. Already they have smashed the tradition of place, and accepted fusion in the melting pot of world effort.

The women graduates of the University of Idaho, it is interesting to note, are in no way behind their colleagues in other states, but have been accomplishing some outstanding It has been possible to amass some very interesting information concerning a few of Idaho's women alumnae who have won recognition in various fields of effort.

Gets Honorary Degree

In 1920 our dean of women, Miss Permeal French, received an honorary M. A. degree from the University, making her a true alumna of Idaho. A short time later she was also granted

WILL CHOOSE HEADS FOR NEXT YEAR

Plans Made Favoring Election; Delegation to Seabeck

Eula Bryant has been named chairman of a committee which will nominate candidates for officers of the Y. W. C. A. New officers will be elected the latter part of the month.

Several members of the association will attend the district meeting which will be held at Hayden Lake, April 3 and 4. Interest is being stimulated and plans are being made for the annual summer conference held at Seabeck, Wash., during the first part of July. The organization here hopes to send at least five delegates to this conference.

The meetings will continue for the remainder of the year. One special feature of the spring work will be the pageant which will be given by the freshman commission. The nature and date of the pageant have not yet been decided but it will probably be given early in April.

CLEVER DANCES FOR GLEE CLUB PROGRAM

Dolly Fleming and Leah Timm Feature Novel Russian Steps

Miss Jacobson and Miss Cowan of the Physical education department have arranged a quartette of very clever dances to be given with the Glee club program March 26-27.

The first two of the group are contrasted dances contrasting the old fashioned girl and the flapper. There are five girls in each chorus. The ideas for the songs and dances are taken from the musical comedy "Rose Marie."

The Dance of the Wooden Soldiers and the Katinka dance are taken from Chauve Souris musical comedy. Eight men will dance in the wooden soldier dance. Katinka is a Russian sketch. The story of it is thus: Katinka has been dancing with the soldiers and exhibits some of the steps to her parents. The mother and father do not at all approve but Katinka dances and sings for them in such a charming way that they relent and soon join her and the trio dances together. Dolly Fleming and Leah Timm take the parts in Katinka exceptionally well.

Attention, Seniors!

Orders for Cap and Gown should be given to David's immediately. A small deposit will be required. It is necessary that all orders be in by the first to insure delivery.

RIFLE TEAM GAINS NOTICE IN CHRONICLE

Inland Empire Paper Give Recognition to Vandal Marksmen

Idaho's women are out for big game. In order to accomplish their purpose, they have taken up rifling, and we have heard that they are making unusual progress. Under the guidance of Captain Bain, they practice regularly in Lewis Court. Some very accurate "markswomen" have been produced.

In regard to progress, the team has already shot four matches, one of which was a victory. It pleases us greatly to know that it was with our neighboring rival, W. S. C. The other matches shot were with the Universities of Kansas, Cincinnati, and Wisconsin. Despite the fact that these last teams were victorious, the Idaho team should be congratulated for being able to compete with groups from such large institutions. We are very proud of our women, because their work has received publicity. Only a few nights ago, their pictures and an account of their work appeared in the "Spokane Chronicle."

"The co-eds' customary consideration of the appropriate is apparent in their rifling garb. When they strive to hit the bull's eye, they don knickers. The shooters from the University of Kansas wear coveralls. Of course, it's just personal taste."

We wonder just what species of game the girls are hunting. There must be some hidden motive which is stimulating all this effort. We don't want to be too hasty, but maybe they are making preparations for the pursuit of their ideal men.

The regular meeting of a faculty women's study group met for a fire-side and dinner at the Blue Bucket on Monday, March 7. European travels were the topic for this meeting and four members of the group who had travelled in Europe gave very interesting papers on their experiences there.

TALENTED CAST IN ROMEO AND JULIET

Five Co-eds in Cast Will Have Been in 20 Plays In College

Five women will have taken parts in 20 all-college and Little Theatre plays with the production of "Romeo and Juliet" in April. Marie Gauer heads the list with twelve roles; Marie Johnson is second with seven; Mary Kelly and Hester Yost will both have had six parts; while Vivian Stone, a comparative newcomer, will have two to her credit.

Miss Gauer formerly has had leading parts in four all-college plays—"If," "Wayfaring Men," "Everyman," and "The Romantic Age." Miss Johnson has appeared in "Everyman," "Wayfaring Men," and "Captain Applejack." Miss Kelly in "The Light on the Mountains," "If," and "Captain Applejack." Miss Yost will be remembered especially for her work in "The Man Who Married a Dumb Wife" and "Captain Applejack," but she also appeared in "The Romantic Age." Being a newcomer, Miss Stone has only been in one all-college play—"Captain Applejack," in which she did creditable work as Anna Valeska.

IN Many Appearances

Little Theatre plays in which Miss Gauer has appeared include the following: "Quality Street," "The Mirage," "Op O M' Thumb," "Through the Darkness," "The Ninth Commandment," and "The Importance of Being Earnest." She also took part in a Pep Band show, "For the Love of Mike." Miss Johnson's former roles were "The Loving Cup," "No Smoking," "Quality Street," "Miss Kelly's were "The Bar-ning of the Door," and "My Lady's Dress." Miss Yost has to her credit the following: "Yes, Gerday," "The

GALAXY OF ARTISTS PRESENT RIGOLETTO

Unusual Production Promised; Cast Includes Talented Singers

Brilliant in names and tuneful in melody, the San Carlo presentation of "Rigoletto" at the university auditorium, Wednesday afternoon should prove the musical event of the year.

Verdi, the dean of composers, never wrote an opera with more appeal to the ear than "Rigoletto." It might be called a constant and never ceasing melody, for one beautiful aria follows another with such rapidity that there is never a feeling of waiting for a big moment, which is the lot of many operas.

Successful Producers

The artists whom Gallo will present in the opera Wednesday are the same who have sung it with such great success in New York, New Orleans and Los Angeles.

Emilio Ghirardini, who will sing the title role, is considered the greatest baritone that Fortune Gallo has ever presented. One of the most remarkable things about Ghirardini's voice is its fullness and richness. It seems uncanny that the artist who possesses it, spent three years in the trenches in the cold, sleet, and dampness of the Austrian-Italian front, did not know during that time whether he had a semblance of a voice or not.

Tafuro in Duke's Role

Franco Tafuro, late of the Scala of Milan, will sing the role of the flaccid Duke. He is a native of Lecco, Italy. He made his operatic debut at Genoa; then followed appearances with the famous Bellini Theater of Naples, before he was drafted by the La Scala of Milan. Besides being one of the greatest tenors of all times, possessing a voice that is nothing short of golden, Tafuro is an actor of marked ability.

The opera will start at 2:00 Wednesday afternoon and all university classes will be dismissed for the afternoon.

WILL SEND WOMEN TO A. W. S. CONVENTION

Misses Baker and Montgomery to Represent Idaho at Meet

Alma Baker, Twin Falls, was elected president of the Associated Women students, March 11. Pearl Cordray, Kimberly, was named vice president. Other officers elected were, Elizabeth Curtis, Weiser, secretary; Doris Squibb, Spokane, treasurer and Alene Honeywell, Orofino, chairman of exchange; Mabel Morris, Spokane; Esther Stalker, Lewiston; Goldie Smith, Boise; Marjorie Simpson, Moscow; Kerube Steensland, Nampa; Helen Nelson, Moscow; Agnes Bowen, Boise; Adamae Dorman, Boise; Dorothy Howerton, Jerome, and Murvia Murray, Yakima.

During past year, much valuable work has been accomplished by this association. The freshman interest committee started the year with a bang by having a bonfire in MacLean field for the freshmen girls. Every activity had a representative who gave brief talks outlining the work of the different activities and what they meant toward the development of school spirit. This aroused great interest among the first-year girls who up to this time had not understood the part the women take in the activities of the university.

Los Angeles Gets Convention

Every spring representatives from the Women's associations of certain schools meet and discuss problems that concern women students. This year the convention will be held at Los Angeles at the southern branch of the University of California. This body will join with a meeting of the dean of women of these various schools. Dean Permeal French hopes

WOMEN ARE ACTIVE IN COLLEGE WORK

Extend Sphere to Every Major Extra-Curricular Division

Women are taking an active part in athletics at the University of Idaho, and are represented in almost every field of sport.

In the basketball season, which is almost over, under-class teams proved the stronger. The Sophomore team probably was the strongest, with the freshman team a close competitor.

Within a fortnight, the call will be sounded for baseball, according to Dorothy Manning, co-ed baseball manager. The prospects for this season are bright.

Tennis this year will be started in gym classes; from the best members interclass teams will be chosen. From the stars of these will be chosen the varsity team. Challenges for games will be accepted until one week before the Pullman match.

Debate thus far this year has not been very successful. Debate will be held about the middle of April.

MARCH ENCOURAGES FRIVOLOUS FOLLIES

Feminine Month Brings New and Unique Ways of Entertaining

It is especially appropriate for the women's edition to come out in March, because March is so essentially a feminine month. The characteristic "changing skies" just entice the interesting new March millinery. Spring hats are as much an indication of the season as any of the tried and true insignia with which Mother Nature generously provides us. We have a whole department devoted to the season's styles. If it isn't called "Modes for March" it should be.

In a women's edition it seems that we really should include, as well, a department of co-ed cookery. "March Menus" has an alluring alliterative quality, hasn't it? Think of the delightful midnight spreads that can always be planned on an instant's notice from the half dried out remains of a box from home combined with what the house manager forgot to lock up. Lenten scruples need not even figure here.

Seniors Notice

Orders for commencement announcements are now being taken at Hodgkin's. Personal calling cards can also be secured there. Orders should be given at once so that prompt delivery can be made.

Emil Strobeck, Chairman.

BIG SISTERS PLAN TO BEFRIEND ALL FIRST YEAR GIRLS

Mildred Perry to Head Movement—Has Appointed Ten Captains

PLAN CO-ED WALKOUT

Dean French Sponsors Organization—Will give Tea for Officers

The aid of a girl who will be a real friend and sister the first year of college, is what the new girl may expect to receive who enters the university next fall. The Big Sister movement, the plans of which are now in progress on the Idaho campus will be the means of securing this help for the girls. The general purpose of the movement is to assist them in registering, becoming acquainted with their new environment and pursuing a pleasant first year in college.

Mildred Perry has been named to head the movement and she has appointed the following captains to work directly under her: Ruth White, Dorothy Darling, Mildred Anderson, Alma Baker, Arda Clare, Margaret Kinyon, Pearl Cordray, Hazel Steltman, Ethel Green, Dorothy Howerton. These girls each choose ten lieutenants, or sisters, who will be chosen from the present Sophomore and Junior classes.

Will Give Tea

As soon as these sisters are appointed, Dean French will give a tea at Ridenbaugh Hall for the captains and lieutenants.

For carrying out the plans, a card index will be kept by Mildred Perry in Dean French's office, which will consist of the names of each captain and her lieutenants. As the new girls definitely register they will be assigned to the lieutenants. The big sisters will be notified by Miss Perry and Dean French of their duties and the names of their little sisters. The little sister in turn will be notified of the name of her big sister, and also told of what she may expect from her.

Plan New Features

Many features are being planned for next fall, one of these being the tea which will be given by Dean French for all the big and little sisters.

Plans are also being made for a "walk-out" of all the girls on the campus, headed by the big sisters with their little sisters. This is a new

ARGONAUT REPORTER THRILLED; CO-EDS GET ALL WET AT "NAT"

Long ones, short ones, wide ones, narrow ones, round ones, and square ones, all were found splashing in the healthful and sanitary water of the "Nat," recently reopened only to college students and faculty members. The enthusiastic onlooker strolled in with the crowd of chieftly dressed, "palmolive" complexioned co-eds. Feeling that she could get a better view from the side lines, our friend took her place on the edge of the tank, while the rest of the crowd arrayed themselves in their "Mack Sennett" costumes.

Oh, how disillusioning! After our investigator regained sufficient composure, she examined in detail the group of maidens for the swim. Her general impression was stated at the first. At this point she made note of the following comments: a tight bathing cap tends to give a pretty face the expression of a boiled lobster; black swimming suits are more becoming to the ordinary figure than red, purple, or green ones.

Hit the Water

In response to the command of the instructor, the swimmers went head first into the water—one of the girls dived in. A free style scramble ensued. All reached the other side—maybe not safely. "Begging your pardon, I shall quote another of our correspondent's personal notes—"Henceforth I shall use water proof rouge."

The following accidents were recorded. Several received misplaced vertebrae and other slight injuries. One girl fractured the second toe of her right foot when she misjudged her distance doing a flip. As a suitable climax, the life saver, one of those strong beasts who give a girl that dependent feeling, "crawled" to the rescue, and drapper a thrilled, drowning victim to safety.

Our reporter, being a hound for statistics, compiled the following table on this basis—"Why I signed up for swimming?" The results were as follows: to gain weight, 5; to lose superfluous avoirdupois, 10; to become all round athletic girls, 3; for credit, 3½; for pleasure, 4½; to learn more about life save—rs, 1; to learn to swim, 2.

An Appreciation of Dean French

Everyone knows and admires the woman who guides the girls of the university through their college years and who is ever ready as a counselor and adviser. It is unfortunate, however, that many girls do not have an opportunity to become better acquainted with Dean French. She understands the problems of younger generation, and they have a staunch champion in her.

During the years that Miss French has spent at the university she has had an opportunity to compare the girl that enters now with the girl of three or four years ago. The sophisticated modern girl with her age old wisdom and her independent attitude does not alarm her.

She says: "Our ultra-modern boys and girls are undoubtedly more independent than ever before, but it is an intelligent independence, one not devoid of common sense.

We are now passing through an era in our development when one does not think wisely about youth. Our young people are having to work out their own salvation, and I am confident they are capable of doing so.

There are a few who find it necessary to pay special visits to Dean French because of some disobedience of rules. These students always find her sympathetic and ready to listen to all sides of the story. The punishment inflicted is just, and any sting is taken out by the helpful advice that accompanies the verdict.

Miss French's talks to the girls are always inspiring. There is never any hint of "lecture" about them—they are just kindly words of wisdom spoken from the heart of a woman devoted to girls and their problems.

Co-ed Edition A matter of Tradition

It is not because the co-eds of the University of Idaho wish to assert themselves as suffragettes, that once a year an edition of The Argonaut appears which bears their name. They do not aspire to be Fannie Pankhurst, but rather to carry on a tradition. By this method the activities of the girls on the campus can be recorded and compared with the achievements of past years. And by comparing contemporary records with those of alumnae we can have a basis for determining just where we can get a sense of our own smallness in comparison to the things now being achieved by women who have gone before us.

WOMEN ABANDON HEARTHS FOR CAREERS IN VARIOUS VOCATIONS

Mr. Giles, has published a "Manual of Vocational Education," which is in use in several states. She holds the degrees of B. S. (H. Ed.) from Idaho and M. A. from Columbia, and is a member of the Gamma Phi Beta sorority.

Miss Elizabeth Russum of the class of 1923 holds a B. S. (Ed.) degree from the University of Idaho, and is employed in educational work in Idaho. She is at present, state superintendent of schools.

Miss McCoy Making Good How many education students registered in "Idaho Law" or some other of Miss Bernice McCoy's classes, know that she also is one of our alumnae, holding the degrees of B. S. (Ed.) from Idaho and M. S. (Ed.) from Columbia. Her present position is not the only one by which Idaho people interested in education know Miss McCoy. Some of our older pioneers like to think of her as the very young lady who was featured in the "Pacific Miner," in 1903. She had just been elected superintendent of schools in Nez Perce county, and was described as "one of the prominent educators of Idaho."

Although Miss Gertrude Walters received her degree of B. S. Ed. in 1923, she has already been appointed rural supervisor of schools in south Idaho. She is working under the direction of the State Board of Education, and is also a member of the faculty of the Albion State normal.

Miss Catherine Burgerat is another of Idaho's alums who has won highly deserved fame for her efforts as Rural Inspector of Idaho. She has now been appointed High School Inspector for this state, and is also a member of the faculty of the University of Idaho.

Spokane School Dean. Outside of Idaho, no less than within the state, we find Idaho women taking the initiative. Jessa Gibson will be remembered by students from Spokane. Her ability has been recognized by appointment as dean of Gips in North Central high school, Spokane, Washington. She was graduated with the class of 1902 from the University of Idaho where she was a member of Delta Gamma sorority.

Dr. Alice Gipsan has entered the same line of work as that followed by Miss Gibson in Spokane, and occupies the position of dean of women at Lindenwood college, St. Charles, Missouri. She will be remembered as the sister of Idaho's first Rhodes scholar.

In recognition of her exceptional work in modern languages, Minnie Jameson Smith has been made Head of the romance language department, Salem college, North Carolina.

Another brilliant scholar in modern languages and in French in particular is Marion Boller, a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority. She is assistant professor of romance languages at Simons college, Boston, Massachusetts. She has recently published a French text book as well as another book entitled "Stories by Contemporary French Novelists."

Kathryn Smith of the class of 1923 is now head of the school of business administration in one of the Los Angeles city high schools.

Has New York Job

Josephine Walker, who was graduated from Idaho in 1924, will receive an M. A. degree from Columbia University in June, and has accepted a position in the English department of the Lincoln high school, New York city, for next year. Upperclassmen will remember her as a Gamma Phi Beta.

There are several other alumna who occupy positions on the faculty of their Alma Mater. Ada Burke, of 1918, holds the degrees of B. A. and M. A. from this University, and is employed in the English department. Miss Burke was a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority.

Florence Richardson, who was a classmate of Ada Burke's, has just returned from a year at Columbia. She was an assistant physical education teacher at the University of Idaho last year, and a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority.

But education is not the only field open to energetic young women today. Helen Hardman, now teaching in New York City, was graduated from Idaho in 1914 with a B. A. Law degree. In 1920 she was admitted to the bar in California, and to the U. S. District Court. In 1923 she received the degree of Juris Doctor. Miss Hardman promises, when there are four women law students at Idaho, to return and install Kappa Beta Phi, the first and oldest legal sorority in the world.

Idaho Play Writers

To the field of literature, Idaho has contributed several famous women. Jewel Bothwell Tulle is now writing plays for Stewart Walker, whom Idaho students will remember. She is also interested in Chautauqua and Lyceum work. While in college, Jewel Bothwell was a talented contributor to undergraduate journalism on the campus. She is one of the charter members of Delta Gamma sorority.

Carol Rylie Brink has won wide recognition with her charming stories for children, which are regularly published in "Child Life." She was a Gamma Phi Beta at the University of Idaho, and at present resides in Edinburgh, Scotland, where her husband has been teaching.

Glady's Collins Lehman since her recent return from abroad has settled in Hollywood, where she is busily engaged in writing scenarios for the movies for the entertainment of Idaho students. Mrs. Lehman was a member of Gamma Phi Beta sorority at the University of Idaho.

Idaho has even contributed a publisher. Inez Calloway is doing some excellent feature writing for this newspaper, and we know that Idaho considers her one of her prominent women alums. She is a member of Delta Gamma sorority.

We have found several of our women graduates in foreign countries. Perhaps the most outstanding of these is Carol H. Foster of the class of 1906. When last heard from, she was American consul in Vienna, Austria. A somewhat more amusing case is that of Bonnie Gray, champion world's woman rider. At present she is engaged in stunting wild west shows in various parts of the world, and has just completed an exhibition in London.

Various of Idaho's young women are engaged in educational and religious work in foreign countries. Grace Durling of the class of 1917 is principal of the Mary Farnum school for girls in Shanghai.

Anneta C. Mow, of 1913, is a missionary in Vyara, India. Ruth Warner, according to latest report, is the director of a mission school in Argentina.

And now that we are talking of women in foreign countries, it might interest you to know that Maude Himes Perkins is in Noumea, New Caledonia. Maude writes that she and "Nuck," her husband, are practically the only English speaking people in a small French colony. When we find the place on the map, we think it must be exciting just to be there. She belonged to Omega Pi, the local Kappa sorority.

Yes, we even find an Idaho representative at the University of Hawaii. Carey Miller, a graduate in home economics from Idaho, has been appointed professor of home economics at the University of Honolulu. We shall expect the natives to be excellent cooks when we arrive there on our tour around the world.

Home Economics Succeed

Moreover, the home economics department of our university has certainly distinguished itself. Many of their graduates prefer active participation in the world to the business of housekeeping for which they are adequately trained. Dr. Ella Woods, class of 1911, is head of the home economics department at Columbia. Besides teaching, she is doing extensive research work in nutrition. Miss Woods received a B.S. degree at Idaho in 1911, and a B.S.(H.Ed.) degree in 1915. She was a member of Omega Pi, the Kappa Kappa Gamma local sorority.

One of the first women graduates from the University of Idaho, Miss Catherine Blyden, has distinguished herself for many years by her work in various phases of home economics. She holds the important position of supervisor of teacher training in home economics at Washington State college, Pullman, Wash.

Perhaps a better known graduate is Ruth Fauble, who received her degree from the University of Idaho in 1916. After several years of experience in the teaching of home economics, she has been appointed head of the home economics department at the Lewiston State normal, Lewiston, Idaho.

As Co-ed in Position It is certainly interesting to keep in touch with our "Ag" students. Naomi Chapman, who received her B.S. and M.S. degrees in agriculture from the University of Idaho, is occupying the position of assistant plant pathologist at the agricultural experiment station, Athens, Georgia.

In addition to this, Miss Harriet Swart has won highly deserved fame in her position as state seed analyst for the state of Utah, with headquarters at Salt Lake City. Although she has not as yet received the degree in agriculture for which she has been working while at the university, it is expected that she will return in order to qualify for even more skilled work.

Gertrude Hays Hopewell, Gamma Phi Beta, manages the White Peacock, a very successful tea room in Boise, while Katherine Smith, also a Gamma Phi is one of the directors of the Los Angeles board of education.

In spite of the constant friction between labor and capital in this democratic country of ours, we find that Mabel Kroh maintains her position as labor manager for the Charles Douglas company in Rochester, N. Y. Miss Kroh was graduated from the university in 1912.

In no industry is experience in manufacture more essential than in the production of explosives. Physical control of the product is paramount.

DuPont has made explosives continuously for 123 years—originating or developing nearly every great forward step in explosives manufacture in this country.

Ability derived from long experience has enabled DuPont to serve industrial needs and even to anticipate those needs by originating new methods, new processes and new products.

The most efficient methods of employing modern explosives may be found in the "Blasters' Handbook"—a practical and authoritative work now being used by instructors and students in many of the leading technical institutions throughout the country. It will be sent free upon request.

Social affairs have been conspicuous in their absence for the past several weeks. But last week end was brightened with several delightful affairs. Sigma Alpha Epsilon gave its annual spring formal at the Blue Bucket Friday evening. Beta Theta Pi entertained at an informal house dance the same evening. Alpha Kappa Phi, national commercial fraternity gave an all college dance Saturday evening.

The students are looking forward to the opera "Rigoletto" which is to be presented Wednesday afternoon. From all indications this will be the most popular artists course number of the season. Other social activities for the week are the Sigma Chi spring formal to be held Friday evening and a dance given by Kappa Kappa Gamma Saturday.

A true co-ed is essentially interested in a good time before anything else. She is seldom so harassed by studies that a good time seems insignificant and the activities of the past week end have been balm to her soul. The "Bizad," the Sigma Alpha Epsilon, and Beta Theta Pi dances kept her well entertained.

BETAS ENTERTAIN

Patrons and patronesses for the Beta House dance were Dr. and Mrs. J. Harry Einhouse, Professor and Mrs. Virgil R. D. Kirkham, and Mrs. Scott. The music was furnished by Beardsley Merrill and his melodians. The following guests attended: Bernice Kendall, Estelle Pickereil, Louise Naezel, Irma Scholtz, Rose Regun, Margaret Holden, Catherine Samuels, Dorothy Peairs, Ruth Galligan, Matty McMasters, Alene Honeywell, Mary Huff, Alice Waldrop, Elhel Chrisman, Mandel Wein, Pearl Cordray, Dorothy Parsons, Ellen Ecklund, Constance Hill, Lucile Anderson, M. Nelson, Pauline Hockaday, Hazel Parrish, Jack Kennedy, Georgia Newport, Mildred Perry, Anna McGonigle, Winnifred LaFond, Laura Nordquist, Elizabeth Dunn, Martha Humphrey, Dorothy Oram, Florence Richardson, Blanche Boyer, Francis Richie, Margaret Elder, Dorothy Darling, and Messrs. Jax Taggart and Bill Pezaris.

Mrs. George M. Reed was hostess at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house on Sunday evening, entertaining in honor of her daughter, Mrs. Forest Cobb. Refreshments were planned to carry out the St. Patrick's motif. Members of the sorority entertained with feature stunts and music. Guests were Misses B. Sweet and F. Armbruster and Mesdames F. Fashion Hints

EASTER BONNETS

The new spring bonnet has come to be a fashionable tradition. It has even assumed a psychological importance, for not to have one is conducive to a most depressing inferiority complex!

Hats for the early season, are small, with the pinched crown and crushed turban effect very much in evidence. In the later season, large hats with flowers used as trimming will be in vogue.

The felt hat, worn only for sport, is going to the end of the line, and straws and fabrics are taking the lead. Fabric hats with grosgrain ribbon are especially good, while taffeta combined with straw or contrasting material is holding its own.

Sedate blacks and browns are hiding their faces in the present frivolous assembly of brilliant and pastel shades. However, it is rumored that black will reappear in later models.

A TIP TO THE KNEEDY

That proverbial saying, "a child hanging onto her skirts" is in danger of becoming obsolete, for the child of today is unable to reach the skirt of its modern mother.

Short skirts are the fashion, but girls will find themselves possessed of more charm and grace if they will not plunge quite up to the knees in fashion. Girls, before shortening your frocks, look yourselves squarely in the legs and temper the length to the shape that you see. Every one cannot becomingly wear the shortest of short dresses and the higher goes your dress above the knee, the looser your score in correct dress.

Knees nowadays are distressingly in evidence—knees protruding over spindly legs, knees bulging over legs of piano-like proportions, knees of all ages that aren't what they once were.

So here's Vogue's tip to the kneedy: If your legs aren't what they might be lengthen your frocks accordingly.

CABLEGRAMS FROM PARIS

Long waistlines banished in favor of short.

Hats are extremely large or extremely small.

Predominance of black and white and delicate blue over brilliant colors.

Evening slippers bright in color matching the gowns.

Man sized white linen handkerchiefs chic for tailored use.

Touche of white silk used for trimming on wool spring dresses.

Pick a pipe and pack it with good old P. A.

TALK about "alliteration's artful aid" . . . the printer certainly raided the "p" box that trip. But let that go! The advice is just as serious and sound as though it were couched in the careful diction of an English prof.

Just get yourself a jimmy-pipe and fill the bowl to the brim with Prince Albert. Light up, and let the first fragrant whiff tell you that no other tobacco is like P. A.—or can be! Cool and sweet and fragrant, P. A. has everything a fellow ever wished for in a smoke.

P. A. can't bite your tongue or parch your throat. The Prince Albert process settled that in P. A.'s freshman year. Get yourself a tidy red tin of Prince Albert today. The first load-up will tell you why pipes are so fashionable among young men today.

P. A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, round and half-pound tin humidors, and pound crystal-glass humidors with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of bite and parch removed by the Prince Albert process.

PEP BAND SHOWS IMPROVEMENT IN NOVEL PROGRAM

Classical Numbers Played in Contrast to Old Time Jazz

NYVALL WINS FAVOR

Moe, John and "Hod" Taylor Feature in Trombone Trio

Whoever made that faux pas about the impossibility of finding anything new under the sun should have turned up at the concert given in the university auditorium last Saturday evening by the Idaho Pep band. Not more than 35 years ago this band was a sort of ground-hog organization which came out to play under favorable circumstances on reserved seats at athletic contests. Once in a while they would naturally officiate at a football rally but each year after the basketball season they disappeared until the next fall when the special left for that Armistice day game at Boise. Their repertoire consisted of "On Old Idaho" and the "Twelfth Street Rag." If, as an organization, they had ever heard of classical music, they evidently took an initiation vow not to reveal it. That they had other aspirations than jazz, however, was made plain in the Pep Band show last fall when under the direction of Mr. Nyvall they appeared as a concert band of unusual promise, and last Saturday they appeared again under Mr. Nyvall's direction in a concert wherein, if anything, their classical numbers were done in better fashion than their popular selections. For two hours they delighted a packed auditorium with a gratifying variety of excellent music.

Classical Music Scores

In this program the classical numbers included Offenbach's overture "Orpheus," the quartette from "Rigoletto," which will be heard again in the auditorium on Wednesday, the "Wedding March" from "Midsummer Night's Dream," "Largo," and V. Weber's "Invitation" in G. Valses. These selections, noted by Mr. Nyvall, were done with precision and with surprising purity of tone. If, to some ears, the music lacked a certain dash, that is because no band, however skilled, can reproduce the harmonies afforded by the leading instruments available in an orchestra. In these selections, the clarinet section was particularly effective; so, too, on the whole, were the cornets.

Popular Numbers Too

The popular numbers included two fox trots, two waltzes and a trio with Howard Taylor and Sven Moe, trombones, and John Taylor, piano. The trombonists secured unusually fine tone qualities from an instrument which is not the easiest to master, while Mr. Taylor at the piano provided a delightful background for the harmonies of the trombones. The fox-trots, for which a mellow saxophone trio was introduced, were more successful than the waltzes, perhaps because waltz time is the more difficult for a band to execute. The waltz "Pal of My Cradle Days" was accompanied by a vocal solo by Robert Cummins, known of old in the university men's glee club. Mr. Cummins' voice was much better than the words he had to sing, words which, like those of most popular songs, are enough to make the angels weep.

A better selection, perhaps, would have been one of Mr. Nyvall's own waltz compositions, wherein the words are as delightful as the music.

The marches, of all types of music best fitted for a concert band, were exceptionally well done and therefore exceptionally exhilarating. These marches includes the "National Emblem" and two by Sousa, "Semper Parvula" and "The Stars and Stripes Forever." All three of these marches are particularly appropriate wherever Americans are gathered together to hear a band concert, for they are imperishably associated with the marching regiments of the A. E. F. The concluding numbers consisted of an attractive setting with organ-like tones for the Idaho Alma Mater song, and a spirited playing of "Oma Follows," a football song which by all means should be rescued from group dinner tables on guest nights and used again where it really belongs, on the football field, ringing in the ears of the team.

idea and it is hoped that it will prove such a success that it will become a tradition on the campus, says Mildred Ferry.

AROUND THE WORLD FOR ONLY TWO BITS

Y. W. C. A. Plans Inexpensive Voyage for March 19.

How would you feel if the uncle you don't possess should die and leave you an ample bank roll to be used on a tour of the world? About as I would, no doubt. Well, there's to be a Trip Around the World on this campus on March 19. It's not to be as K. Bercevic puts it, Around the World in New York but a sail-around for twenty-five cents. The steamer Y. W. C. A. is to leave Forney dock at 8 o'clock that evening and go to Gaima phi beta port on the west coast of Arabia. Special arrangements by the American consuls have been made to give the passengers an inside view of "the mystery of the Far East" that will be entertaining.

From Arabia the good ship will steam to El Sigma Rise, Japan, which is considered representative of "the lure of the Orient." Here will be given, perhaps, a careful, because the Oriental is cautious, display of Geisha dancing and other interesting things.

The next part of the tour is overland from east Asia to Kappa Kappa Gamma in sunny France. The chic francesca damsels with teetering heels etc. will entertain in their own indescribable way.

The last stop will be made at Ridenbaugh harbor on the southern coast of Two Tennis Courts. Jazz and all we're used to will reestablish our equilibrium after the gayety of the rest of the journey.

This is for the dated and the undated; the young and the younger. Make your reservations early for Y. W. C. A. is a jolly old ship.

WILL SEND WOMEN TO A. W. S. CONVENTION

to attend this meeting. The association will be represented by Ruth Montgomery, former president, and Miss Alma Baker, president. About 16 schools from the districts west of the Rocky mountains will be represented. The Big Sister movement is one of the important problems to be discussed and a definite plan probably will be outlined so that it can go into effect efficiently next fall. It is hoped also that plans will be made to print a publication, three times a year here, following the practice of women in other universities of the west.

ACTIVITIES ARE OVERSTRESSED BY COLLEGE WOMEN

many friendships were formed among the women of various countries who were thrown together. At the close of the war a British Educational Mission of University Women visited this country, impressed with the desirability of furthering friendships among the university women of the world. All of this interest took a more tangible form in 1920 when the first conference of University women was called in London. Thirteen countries were represented, though at that time there were but six countries in which national associations existed. The whole idea crystallized in the permanent form of the "International Federation of University Women."

Do Much Work

Much work has been done since to increase possibilities for better understanding, through exchange of professors and students, by establishing scholarships, and encouraging advanced study, and visits among the various women students. There are national club houses, and many more are being equipped. The club houses in Washington is now being equipped. Crosby Hall, International hall of residence for University women is very lovely in London, and Paris has a most interesting home, which Mrs. Alfred Upham visited while abroad. Understanding and toleration are two strong factors which make for friendship and these the International Federation desires to foster.

Locally the functioning of the club is most interesting. There are about 30 members. Round table discussions are held on pre-school age problems, international relations, and vocational guidance for girls. Surely when considering the possibility of becoming a member of such an organization any girl will begin to realize that a university education is more than a mere name.

Styles in Dancing Fads and Fancies Go by the Boards

"Every dog has his day," and the Charleston's day is almost over. The Merry Widow waltz is swooping in close upon its heels.

Dance fads swing from one extreme to the other from fast fox-trots to dreamy waltzes. Different versions of the Charleston, such as the Philadelphia Collegiate, and the Prince of Wales are, popular now in the East, but are due to make their exit from the dance floor.

The Merry Widow waltz is the opposite of these dances, as smooth and gliding as the Charleston is broken and choppy.

The first steps are like an old fashioned hesitation waltz, which is developed throughout the dance with variations. It is a more graceful and entertaining dance than the Charleston, which, by the way is now being used by the Michigan university as an exercise for flat feet.

Just as the hesitation waltz is now being revived, it is rumored that the Tango will again be popular.

While a new tune is being whistled for the town to dance to, the Charleston is relegated to the heap where lie chrysanthemum babs, cross word puzzles, Mah Jong tiles and other faded fads and fancies.
