RIFLEMEN DEFEAT DENISON U TEAM

Will Compete for Hearst Trophy With All R. O. T. C. Units

The men's rifle team won from the Denison university of Gainesville, Ohio, according to returns received by Lieut. Chas. H. Hart, Jr., coach. Idaho made a score of 3493 out of a possible 4000, while Denison made 3400. The same score was made against the University of Delaware, but no returns have been received from that school.

The following men fired in the Delaware and Denison matches: Otto Huefner, 370; N. Luvaas, 364; P. Croy, 354; P. Manning, 352; A. Anderson, 351; C. B. Collier, 347; E. W. Johnson, 345; H. Boyer, 338; K. D. Flock, 337; K. Doty, 336.

The team is firing in competition with all of the R. O. T. C. units in the United States in the William Randolph Hearst trophy match, the five highest men having been selected.

The team is composed of the following: N. Luvaas, A. Anderson, O. Huefner, K. D. Flock, and P. Croy.

The third stage of the national match will begin on Wednesday and the fourth stage Monday. The hours from 1 to 4:30 o'clock Wednesday, Thursday and Friday are scheduled for firing the third stage, and the same hours on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday.

The University of California baseball team will play in the Hawaiian islands this summer minus the services of Coach Carl Zamloch. Zamloch will manage the Twin Falls team of the Utah-Idaho league this summer instead of accompanying the Bruins.

Zamloch's contract does not specify any summer work and it has been the custom of the coach to secure managing positions for the summer vacation months before returning to lead the soccer players in the fall.

Instead of appropriating additional salary for Zamloch, to cover his additional time, the executive committee has decided to place the baseball team under another coach who will be selected later.

PLANS FOR HOUSES MUST BE APPROVED

Board Says Prexy to O. K. Financing Scheme; Limit Cost to $50,000

Details of financing, size, cost and location in the construction of group houses on the Idaho campus will in the future be subject to approval by the president of the university, according to a policy formulated by the executive committee of the state board of education two weeks ago. Prevention of the sale of bonds at inopportune times, and cooperation with the business men of Moscow are the ends sought by this action, according to L. F. Parsons, executive secretary.

The investment in any group house is to be limited to $50,000, exclusive of the site and furnishings, according to the action of the board. The location and general plan of construction and financing is to be submitted to the president before definite action is taken. It is further provided that the president in conjunction with a committee appointed by the Moscow chamber of commerce shall pass on the marketability of the bonds before they are issued.

In order to avoid overcrowding in any house or dormitory on the campus, the president was authorized to make a survey of the housing conditions and fix the maximum which any house would be permitted to care for. This survey will probably be made during the summer.

TWO GAMES OPEN PRACTICE SEASON

Baseballers Will Meet Spokane Nine Friday and Saturday

Coach David MacMillan's varsity baseball team opens its home practice season this week end with two game series with the Lewis and Clark high school nine of Spokane. Games will be played Friday and Saturday afternoons. It will be the opportunity for Moscow fans to get a close glimpse of the 1926 Vandals. The Idaho squad had little difficulty winning a 10-5 practice tilt from the C. & H. Red Sox team of Lewiston Sunday at the valley city. Erickson and Stockdale alternated in the box and had the banana belt batters cutting the air in impressive fashion. Batter Lewistonians.

The Vandals battered the offerings of Tabor and Wellman, Lewiston pitchers, with regular ease and showed good defensive power. Wobbly Idaho fielding enabled the Lewiston team to put across several runs in a late inning rally.

The Lewis and Clark team is expected to give the Vandals all of the practice they can take. Last season the varsity had to extend itself to take a similar series from the Tigers, and the Spokane boys are reported to have an equally strong team this year. Friday's game will start at 4 o'clock and Saturday's at 3 o'clock. Dave Keuhl, Uniontown, will probably umpire.

PROM, CABARET CLIMAX OF WEEK

Formal to Have Turkish Decorations; Limit Cabaret Guests

Turkish decorations and programs are planned for the Junior Prom Friday night, according to Clair Killoran chairman of the prom committee.

The dance will be strictly formal and the ticket sale which is in charge of Arthur Emerson will be limited to 150 couples. Brick Elrod's eight piece orchestra will furnish the music and is working up some novelty effects for a formal which is expected to set a new high level for the annual Prom. Brilliant and varicolored lights will be used to heighten the effect of the Turkish decoration scheme.

The climax of Junior Week will be reached Saturday night when the Junior Cabaret is staged at the Blue Bucket. Paul Atwood, in charge, has arranged a program of local and imported talent including some cabaret entertainers from Spokane. Special decorations are planned and Brick Elrod's orchestra will furnish the music. Reservations can be made now at the Blue Bucket and the attendance will be limited to 75 couples.

MORE BUCKETS GO ON SALE TUESDAY

Blue Bucket subscribers, who did not get copies of the third edition last week may buy them today in the main hall of the Ad building, according to the management of the magazine. A new supply came from the press, yesterday.

The Blue Bucket now has a large mailing list and about six hundred copies are distributed to buyers.

The magazine is meeting the approval of student readers, and managers and editors are already working on the last issue, hoping to make it still better.

One cartoon, entitled "The Last Straw," drawn by Hod Taylor, and published in the last Blue Bucket, was bought by College Humor, national college comic magazine.

ROMEO AND JULIET SHAKESPEARE'S BEST

Story Was Popular Early in Fifteenth Century; Translated From Italian

In selecting "Romeo and Juliet" for production by the A. S. U. I. in the university auditorium April 7, 15 and 16, John H. Cushman, dramatic director, picked out that play which of all Shakespeare is the most popular. For more than three hundred years "Romeo and Juliet" has been a universal favorite of great players, amateur players, audiences and readers. Shakespeare himself made the play from a tale which had been popular since the early fifteenth century. Coming from the Italian story-tellers, in Shakespeare's time it was translated in English by Arthur Brooke and from his version Shakespeare made his play, presumably during the first years as a playwright. Like all of Shakespeare's early plays, "Romeo and Juliet" abounds in rhyme tags, conceits, puns and other Elizabethan verbiage which for a modern audience have lost their meaning, and which for this version are cut out or translated into modern English.

"Romeo and Juliet" is the story of a "pair of star-cross'd lovers" who lived in old Verona, then torn by an ancient feud between the noble houses of Capulet and Montague. The play begins with a street brawl between servants and masters of the rival houses, a brawl which is ended by the prince of Verona, who threatens death to breakers of the peace. Mr. Karlberg says that work on the book is progressing rapidly and that it will not be necessary for him to make another trip to Caldwell until the first part of May.

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS RESIGNS TO TAKE COACHING POST WITH ST. LOUIS SCHOOL; COMMITTEE WILL SEEK FOR A SUCCESSOR

Mathews has resigned.

Rumors which have been current on the Idaho campus and throughout the northwest for nearly two weeks were made an actuality with the announcement Monday morning that Robert L. Mathews had given up his post at Idaho and would accept a coaching position at St. Louis University, St. Louis, Mo. Mr. Mathews refused to discuss his plans, saying cryptically that any announcement would have to come from the office of President A. H. Upham. It was reported Monday afternoon, however, that he expected to leave for the east by next Monday. He promised President Upham that he would not leave Idaho until he had arranged for a competent coach to take charge of track practice.

His successor has not been considered, but it is probable that the faculty committee on athletics will be instructed to scour the country in search of a capable man to finish the task started by Mr. Mathews. Mr. Mathews refused to recommend any coach as a possible successor.

Is Fertile Field
St. Louis University, where Mr. Mathews will coach football, is a larger school than Idaho, there being approximately 4000 men enrolled. It is a Jesuit school in the center of a school population of approximately 1,000,000. St. Louis teams have been headliners in the Missouri valley conferences during the last few years, and it is a fertile field where in "Matty" can lend his talent.

President Upham expressed deep regret that Mathews was quitting at this time. He was very loud in praise of the Coach's achievements since he came to Idaho four years ago from the University of Washington, where he coached freshman football under coach Enoch Bagshaw.

Mathews has definitely cleared up the eligibility question for Idaho athletes, said the president. In former years many Idaho players have been declared ineligible by coast athletic authorities, but through the efforts of Mr. Mathews, this has been cleared up, he said.

Taking a team which was notorious for the number of games it lost, Mathews developed a machine which, although representing perhaps the smallest school in the Pacific coast conference, was feared the length and breadth of the coast. After Mathews had turned out his first team, football dopesters turned their heads to Idaho to look for another good team.

Another achievement of Mr. Mathews, said President Upham, was that he had instilled a distinct fighting spirit into the Idaho student body. Mathews succeeded Tom Kelly, former University of Chicago star, four years ago.

SENIORS DIG OUT TRADITIONAL GARB

Dig Out Canes and Swagger Sticks to "Wear" Wednesday

Idaho seniors, more than 250 strong, will carry their traditional canes and swagger sticks Wednesday for the first time this year, according to W. C. Brown, president. Plans have been completed for the seniors to attend the annual junior assembly in a body tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock.

Weather permitting, the senior men will appear hatless and carrying canes while the senior women will "wear" smart swagger sticks. The whole class will gather around the senior bench in front of the Ad building. Should it rain the seniors will meet in the lower halls shortly after the underclassmen have entered the assembly. The senior's customary places in the auditorium have been reserved and they will file in with the juniors at 10 o'clock.

Is Old Tradition

The customary senior equipment of canes and swagger sticks is an old tradition and one which has not been too closely recognized in the past. At their last class meeting the seniors voted unanimously to revive their ancient tradition and the juniors generously offered the occasion of their assembly as the time for the "coming out party."

Also this appearance of the seniors at a junior function is part of the campus wide plans to cooperate with the third year classmen in putting over their Junior week. All seniors are urged by their president to secure their canes and swagger sticks and appear promptly at 10 o'clock in front of the Ad building or in the lower halls.

Miss Andrews Away on Vacation

Miss June Andrews, head nurse at the infirmary, has gone to the country on her vacation. She will be gone about a week. It is expected that she will be back in her present capacity next year. The staff will probably be the same with the exception of Miss Lessey, who is not expecting to return. Her plans as yet are uncertain.

COACH R. L. MATHEWS

CLASS ATHLETES WILL TRY WINGS

Track Season Will Start Saturday With Intra Mural Meet

The 1926 track season makes its entry at Idaho Saturday afternoon, when 80 athletes bearing the colors of their respective organizations meet in the annual intramural track and field meet.

More than a month of training has put the men in hardy running form. Everyone but varsity lettermen will be eligible to enter the various events, according to Gale Mix, senior athletic manager. This limitation should not cut down the competition as some of the best underclassmen is from the freshman and sophomore classes.

The full regulation list of events will be run, including the 100, 220 and 440 dashes; 880 and mile runs; low and high hurdles; javelin, shot and discus throws; high jump and broad jump; pole vault and mile relay.

The meet will be called at 2 o'clock.

CO-EDS TO TRYOUT FOR CAMPUS DAY

Women Plan Original and Colorful Features for Pageant

Tryouts for co-eds who will dance in the pageant "Maying," will be held this week, according to Marguerite Finch, business manager. The first tryout was held last Friday under the direction of Miss Elsie Jacobsen, head of the women's physical education department.

More than 300 Idaho women will take part in the pageant, which will be given on Campus day, the date for which has not been set.

"All plans are being arranged," said Miss Finch, "to give a colorful and original program for this year. With the many features of the pageant, which include the parade of hundreds of May-clad girls, the crowning of the May queen, the winding of the maypole by the senior women, gymnastic exercises, and other Campus day events, Idaho may look for the best May festival in her history."

Students Would Go To Church If—

Sunday being Easter, many students who are not so accustomed, went to church. The significant thing about this is not that they went once but that it shows college people here to be basically of a religious nature. They do not attend church regularly but this does not mean intolerance or disbelief of religious matters. The large church attendance Sunday indicates that Idaho students accord a definite place to matters of religion in their scheme of life. But it also raises a question. Granting that university people are a decent sort and are not scoffers at the churches and their works, why does it take an Easter Sunday to get them to go to church in any considerable number?

Is it reasonable to suppose that they don't go on other Sundays because there is too much preaching? Not that the preaching in itself is objectionable to them. But those who have dealt with college students say they are the most critical people in the world. And the very reason for their existence, the acquisition of a working knowledge of facts, makes them intolerant of arguments and theories couched in antiquated terms of mysticism. They find their scientific training to be inconsistent with the orthodox platitudes and unworkable and impractical teachings of many preachers.

Those who think about it seriously, find no conflict between their own religion and science. But they do find the average sermon boring and to them, nonsensical in many instances. The trouble seems to be with the churches and not with the students because all evidence shows students willing to meet religion more than half way.

If they are to be taught along lines of practical religion, the teacher must know at least as much as the learner.

A. S. U. I. Nominations Thursday

It is to be hoped that the people who are placed in nomination Thursday for election to student body offices next year will be high caliber candidates. In order to carry on the important work of the A. S. U. I. it is essential that the majority of officers be something other than numbskulls. When an annual student body election is held, there is hope of getting good people elected if students take enough interest to find out what is going on and give a little intelligent thought to the qualifications of the candidate.

Rather than cry next year if poor men are elected, it would be much more effective to register any kicks now. Then, after the smoke has cleared, it can be said that the ones elected were judged the most capable by most of the student body instead of by a small minority who were interested enough to vote.

Idaho Is Loser

Coach Mathews has quit Idaho to accept a post in a field much larger than the one he will leave at Idaho. The school is larger and the money offered is undoubtedly more than Idaho could hope to offer even as good a coach as Mathews has proved himself to be. Although his loss will be felt here, Mr. Mathews cannot be blamed for taking an offer which seems to be more fitted for the exceptional football coaching he has shown while a member of the university faculty.

Since he accepted the position of director of athletics here four years ago, Mathews has put Idaho on the football map and made the name of Vandal one to be feared in football circles where it had never been heard in years before. More than that, he has instilled a spirit of fight into Idaho students where football lethargy held sway before.

The Argonaut leads the students body in wishing him success in the field he is about to enter.

Wildwest Pictures Brings Kiety's Old Hero to the Front

Dear ma,
Well ma, my old friend Bill Heart showed up on the screen again in a show called tumble weeds and believe me he was in a good show. It was one of them old melodrama shows which highbrows laugh at and which they slip into on the slight of paper lay awake reading the play in a paper back book at night. Your hero that can shoot a snake in the eye and owns a straight-eight horse, and your villain with a crap-shooting vest on, and your wild rose heroine with perfume tears, and her mean brother, and your comic man, and your million dollar homestead to win or to lose—hot dog it was a real old thing like H. G. Henty and Horatio Alger and Zane Grey and Rex Beech writes. And as George J. Nathan writes in an essay why you know you are into a show when you see Bill Heart and are not looking at something you see on the street every day or having a sermon or a moral put down your throat. This show was like the shows that used to travel around and the villain wore a checker suit and a diamond and strangled a pore girl and then the hairy chested hero slapped him down and then laughed and arched his eyebrows. And in Tumble weeds you know it ain't true but you know your at a show. And all the boys and girls likes it and the big ones too likes it but they won't say they do. Shakspeare himself would of said Bill heart knows his drama.

So long ma, Kiety Bill

UNPOPULAR OPINION

Blaine Stubblefield

Now comes Junior week. Of all the delicious antics resorted to by our tradition-steeped children of Gammlle, Junior week is tip-top. It is the nib on the cap of Folly.

If juniors really look forward with pleasure to this orgy of jack-pudding I am badly mistaken. The whole thing seems to me a clown stunt, invented by some collegiate mountebank for the amusement of himself and a staff of committee hounds. Junior-weeking might have been a stimulating sport the first few times it was done, but why keep it up? Because a thing has been done once is not always a good reason for doing it again.

Spring is here. The syringas are in leaf and the haw buds are swelling. School work is hard—downright hard, but careful scheming and magic tricks with the hour hand will now and then gain us a moment of freedom in which we might go out in the sun. But no; the plaster-cast face of tradition leers and bids us stay and worship. Tin music, colored balloons, confetti, squawkers, dance caps, noise, fury, alcoholic perfume, starched collars, chatter, tight shoes, hand shaking, sticky food, tired laughter, and rented clothes—"All these will I give you," says the plaster-faced One.

What is the name of common sense is the purpose of Junior Week?

But there is still a redeeming feature in Junior week. As luck would have it, the brain-storm who set the thing a-foot didn't make it a Junior month. If he had it would be all the same, though. The chairman of committees on committees on committees would wind his horn and we would all after.

Let me offer a suggestion. Make it Junior year—and cut out the nonsense.

You will say, of course, that there are good things on the Juniors' program; and there are. Romeo and Juliet will be fine, (not a dizzy experiment like the Book of Job and The Chastening) really good—founded on pure art and intelligence.

Admitting that some of the stunts either entertain or add to the mental stature, is there any necessity for crowding them all into a mad-cap festival that upsets an entire week of the school term?

Tradition is a rail road. Annual monkey shines are the cars. Those who ride in the cars are the methodical Philistines who are satisfied to do and see what others have done and seen. Tradition is a groove in which human shuttles slide easily forth and back.

"49" COSTUMES REPLACE GROWTH OF WHISKERS

University of Nevada, Reno, April 6—(P. I. P.)—The annual Whiskerino contest, sponsored each year by the junior class, is a thing of the past and will be replaced by a carnival depicting the boom days of '49. It is to be held April 10, the same day as the usual Whiskerino and will be the culmination of Junior Week. Awards usually given for the best growth of beard will reward the costume most in keeping with the spirit of the old gold camp days. The number of men in the Glee Club and other activities which forbade the growth of whiskers are factors responsible for the decision.

Washington State College. Coach "Babe" Hollingberry and his assistant, "Buck" Bailey, arrived in Pullman last Thursday to take over the W. S. C. football team. The night of their arrival in Pullman there was a banquet of football men and members of the athletic council, where Hollingberry said, "We come up here with the idea of putting a team in the field that will fight."

The Ox Woman

On an East Indian farm, where the crop is tea, a wooden plow turns up the rich black soil. A woman drives, another woman pulls—and a black ox pulls beside her.

Six hours under a tropical sun, a bowl of cold rice—and six hours more. Then the woman goes to her bed of rushes, and the beast to his mud stall. Tomorrow will be the same.

The American home has many conveniences. But many American women often work as hard as their Oriental sisters. They toil at the washtub, they carry water, they churn by hand—all tasks which electricity can do for them at small cost, in half the time.

The labor-saving possibilities of electricity are constantly becoming more widely recognized. And the social significance of the release of the American woman from physical drudgery, through the increasing use of electricity in and about the home, will appeal instantly to every college man and woman.

JUNIOR CLUB SHORT COURSE DATE IS SET

The annual boys' and girls' club short course in agriculture and home economics, offered by the University of Idaho college of agriculture, will be held this year June 20 to 26 inclusive, it was announced today by W. L. Stephens, district extension agent for north Idaho, who has been handling arrangements for the course.

Between 400 and 500 members of Idaho's younger generation are expected to attend the sessions this summer. Clubs in every part of the state have been busy raising funds to defray their expenses to the short course. South Idaho is expected to send by far its largest delegation.

According to present plans a special new feature of the instruction this summer will be a course in home nursing. With the assistance of Miss June Andrews, university nurse, short course authorities are negotiating to secure a Red Cross worker to take charge of the course.

ROMEO AND JULIET

Romeo, the romantic, love-lorn son of Montague, is persuaded by his friends, Benvolio and Mercutio, to go in disguise to the feast of the Capulet. There he sees Juliet, only child of the Capulet. The two fall in love, and that night, in the famous balcony scene, exchange their vows. Next day, with the connivance of a gaudy old nurse to Juliet, the lovers are married by their confessor, Father Laurence, who hopes by this union to end the feud between the rival houses.

Are Star-Crossed

But Romeo and Juliet are "star-crossed." Tybalt, nephew of the Capulet, angered by Romeo's presence at the Capulet feast, thrusts a quarrel upon the new-made bridegroom. Romeo refuses to fight his "kinsman of an hour," whereupon the hot-blooded Mercutio draws upon Tybalt and in the scuffle is slain. Romeo, infuriated by the death of his dearest friend, kills Tybalt, and is banished by the Prince of Verona. Taking leave of his young wife, he sets out for Mantua. Juliet is then commanded by her father to marry Paris, a wealthy young nobleman. In despair she hastens to Friar Laurence, who gives her a potion that will enable her to counterfeited death until Romeo may be summoned to take her to Mantua. By misadventure the Friar's messenger does not reach Mantua, and Romeo is told by his servant that Juliet is dead. Buying poison, Romeo goes at night to the tomb of the Capulets; there finds Juliet, and then, kills himself. Juliet, waking too late, ends the sorrows of the "star-crossed" lovers by stabbing herself. The death of their children brings old Capulet and Montague to their senses, and the ancient feud is healed.

Has Famous Passages

Famous passages from Shakespeare found in "Romeo and Juliet" include the "Queen Mab" speech by Mercutio, the balcony scene between Romeo and Juliet, the lyric farewell scene at dawn in Juliet's chamber, Juliet's soliloquy as she drinks the potion, and Romeo's imperishably beautiful speech in the tomb of the Capulets.

The famous characters of the play, in addition to Romeo and Juliet, are Mercutio who, even in the agonies of death, will have his jest; the Nurse to Juliet, whose falling in speech is not brevity, and Friar Laurence, the gentle confessor and friend of the lovers. With Kneeland Parker as Romeo, Marie Gauer as Juliet, Bert Stone, as Mercutio, Marie Johnson as the Nurse, and Cameron King as Friar Laurence, the principal parts are assured of capable interpretation in the A. S. U. I. production.

OREGON DID TOO HIGH FOR IDAHO

Member Board of Education Sees Webfooters Eager to Secure Idaho Prexy

The state board of education has done what it can to retain A. H. Upham, president of the University of Idaho, in that position. It was announced Friday by J. A. Lippincott, president of the board, who was in Boise on business, says the Idaho Statesman.

"Doctor Upham," Mr. Lippincott said, "has been interviewed by the delegation from Oregon, and I understand members of the executive committee of the institution have also talked with the president. What they said to him I do not know, but it is my opinion that Doctor Upham is now in a position to make his decision. I feel quite sure that Idaho cannot meet the salary that Oregon is offering to the Idaho educator."

The state board of education will hold its regular meeting April 21, in Boise, and officials think at that time there may be some expression from Doctor Upham.

Will Need More Money.
The board is urging all institutions this year to start earlier than usual on their budgets, so there may be more time to consider them. Mr. Lippincott said, "We may expect an increase in appropriation requests," he said, "because the institutions are growing, and it takes more money to provide instruction. However, I believe these increases will not be unusual."

Mr. Lippincott says the board has no new policy for the Technical Institute at Pocatello. "The board has already expressed itself in regard to the institute," he said, "by holding it to a two-year school, in accordance with law. Its purpose is to train boys and girls to maintain themselves in a short time, if need be, and the board will concentrate its efforts in accomplishing this result."

NOTED EDUCATOR TO SPEAK FRIDAY

Walter R. Siders, superintendent of schools at Pocatello, will be the speaker at the assembly Friday, according to Dean F. A. Thomson. Mr. Siders was in Edinburgh, Scotland, as an official delegate of the National Education association to the meeting of international educators held last summer. He will talk on the happenings of his trip.

Mr. Siders has for more than twenty-five years been the superintendent of the Pocatello schools. He is one of the most prominent educators of Idaho, and has been on the executive board of the National Education association, and is at present chairman of the board.

550 STUDENTS ARE SELF-SUPPORTING

Financially Independent Men Far Outnumber Co-eds, Census Reveals

One third of the regularly enrolled students in the University of Idaho are 100 percent self-supporting, according to figures taken from the religious census cards for last semester. 47 percent are not self-supporting; 17 percent partially so, and the other 3 percent failed to make any report. Of the 1929 students regularly enrolled in the university, of whom 1771 are resident students, 550 are self-supporting, 784 are not, and 26 did not make a report on the cards.

More men are self-supporting than women, there being 430 men and 120 women. On the other hand, there are 452 women who answered "no" to the questionnaire. Partial support ranges from 25 to 75 percent, there being 221 men and 84 women in this class.

Forty-three percent of the men are financially independent; 34 percent are not; and 23 percent are partly. Less than 20 percent of the women are self-supporting; 65 percent are not; and 15 percent earn a part of their financial support.

Only One "Grizzly" Team, Says Montana

MISSOULA, MONTANA.—(By New Student Service).

"Grizzlies win by touch down!" When the native of Butte or Missoula read this in the past we knew that the State University eleven had scored another victory. But since 1924 he does not dance within the streets at the sight of the headlines. For the University of California, Southern Branch, has appropriated the name for itself, the name borne by Montana teams since 1897.

Montana is indignant. Oscar Lahberg, president of the Associated Students asked the new Grizzlies to change their name. They suggested the teams be known as "Montana Grizzlies" and "California Grizzlies." The Montanans threaten legal action.

Montana students point to action at the University of California as precedent for seeking redress in the courts. It is reported that the University of California students are going to court to prevent the Mission Ball Club of San Francisco from using the name Bears.

MICHAEL CENSURES DEBATE FORMALITY

Says Questions Too Broad; Decisions Make Discussions Too Formal

(Watson Humphrey)

"Do you believe that Stephen Leacock was right in his article published in last week's Argonaut when he said that any student who can think shouldn't be a debate champion; but he should study to a professor?"

"Not exactly. College professors are as likely to have minds as anyone else."

This reply was given by Professor William Michael, debate coach, on questioning him as to what he thought of an article published in The Argonaut a week ago today in which Mr. Leacock, well-known humorist, jumped all over the present system of intercollegiate debating and even went so far as to say that "any student who could not think ought not to be a debate champion—he should study to be a college professor."

In discussing Leacock's criticism of the present system of debate, Professor Michael says, "I think that what he objects to, the type of questions as broad and comprehensive as the census which are debated is entirely objectionable. That is one thing that has tended to destroy interest in debate itself."

Says Questions Uninteresting.
"There are two main reasons for lack of interest in debating. The first one is, as Leacock stated, the character of the questions. He is right when he says that students go to a debate and hear other students settle once and for all the questions which are far beyond them. They do not respect the opinions of their fellow students upon questions so large in their scope, and so comprehensive."

"Furthermore, I don't think that questions such as the World court, immigration, railroads, and great economic questions have a great educational value. Such questions require an intimate and specialized type of study in order to give an intelligent discussion. The result is that the debate is turned into a research contest without doing any original thinking. Such a question as the Idaho girls are going to debate tonight against Whitman college, 'Resolved: That present freedom granted youth tends toward a higher type of personality and character,' is of far greater educational value and human interest. Questions such as these compel a student to think of his own relation to the universe, and, after all, the student is more interested in himself than in anything else. The immediate problems of youth are the vital problem of today."

Decisions Cause of Formality.
"My second criticism of the present system of debate is the giving of decisions. Ordinarily, I don't think that there should be any decision given. A decision requires some standard upon which debate is to be judged and in that we have prescribed a definite and arbitrary technique of debating. Hired coaches are going to coach college debaters on those things upon which the judges will give a decision, and the moment that happens, you have made debate formal and arbitrary. It has lost the spontaneity and human interest that it ought to have. Debaters work their heads off to appear strong on the points upon which the judges will mark them."

"The present tendency is to get away from that system. In the debate, tonight no decision will be given. Intramural debates here on the campus attract more interest than the intercollegiate debates because the questions are more interesting and the speaking is more impromptu."

ABOUT 100 WILL ATTEND BANQUET

Business Men Replying In Force—Faculty Members Are Slow

Approximately 100 Moscow business men, university students, and faculty will attend the first annual Gridiron banquet to be staged April 12 at the Blue Bucket Inn by the Delta Sigma honorary journalism fraternity, according to receipts of acceptances at the campus headquarters of Delta Sigma Saturday afternoon. A total of nearly 75 men have sent in their checks, reserving them a seat at the "roaster," the majority of these being townspeople.

Members of the faculty, receiving invitations to the banquet, have not all sent in their acceptances, it was reported, but nearly all of these are expected in the Wednesday mail, according to W. C. Brown, president. Of the few students receiving invitations, nearly all have mailed their checks to the fraternity headquarters. Those who have pledged themselves will be honor bound to appear for whatever notice the fraternity reporters may have found to be their due.

Preparations for the banquet are progressing nicely, Mr. Brown said, and there is every indication that those who accept the invitation of Delta Sigma will have a "hot time" during the evening. Material, in the form of misdeeds, and faux pas committed by the elite, coming to the banquet, during the last year, is being collected by Delta Sigma reporters, and none that is possible to ferret out will be overlooked.

This being the first Gridiron banquet to be staged here, persons receiving invitations are warned that all invitations must at least be answered if the person involved would ever receive another. If he is unable to be present, it is expected that an excellent excuse accompany his reply. Flat refusals and flat excuses will place the names of their authors on a permanent blacklist. This precaution, Brown explained, is taken to guard against inadvertent admittance in the future of the thin-skinned and fearful.
