Outlines New Duties of Managing Editors of Newspaper

MAKES NEW AWARDS

Proposals Would be Effective Immediately if Accepted By A. S. U. I.

Four amendments to the A. S. U. I. constitution, two relating to the salaries of the business manager and managing editor of The Argonaut, and two providing a new system of picking student athletic managers, were proposed at the nominating assembly Thursday.

Albert Alford, staff representative on the Argonaut board, which is backing the two amendments, explained briefly the purpose of the proposed change relative to The Argonaut.

A committee from the executive board drew up the amendments providing for athletic managers through a competitive selection of four sophomores, two juniors, and one senior manager for each sport.

Under this system, there would be a manager for football, one for basketball, one for track and one for wrestling, intramural and baseball.

Following are the Argonaut amendments:

Outlines Duties
The managing editor shall automatically become editor for the year immediately following his services as managing editor; and, in addition, in case of a vacancy in the position of editor before that time, he shall be promoted to be editor.

The duties of the managing editor shall be the collection of news, its preparation and he shall be responsible for the make-up of the paper, subject to the will of the editor. He shall receive $3 for each issue of the paper during his term of office, such salary to be paid monthly.

The second Argonaut amendment follows:
"The business manager shall receive a salary of $3 for each issue of the paper during his term of office, and in addition shall receive 12 per cent of all monies collected for advertisement."

JUNIORS ENTERTAIN WITH CLEVER BILL

Music and Dancing Occupy First Place in Program

Clever comedy skits and vaudeville acts marked the annual Junior assembly Wednesday morning. Kneeland Parker opened the program with two clever readings, "Income Tax" and "Just a Little Sunshine."

The junior quartet composed of Norman Luvaas, Spike Gregory, Albert Perrins and Albert Swanson gave three entertaining numbers, "Let Me Hold You Close to My Heart," "A Negro Spiritual," and "Tie Me to Your Apron Strings."

An attractive dance by a quartet of junior girls attired in the garb of maid and bellhop followed. Marie Gilson, Bernice Suppiger, Gwendolyn Mosher and Ruth White took part in the dance.

Although President Upham would like to obtain a football coach this spring so he might be on the campus before the end of the semester, it is not likely that this will be possible.

U. S. C. CLASHES WITH IDAHO IN DEBATE

No Decision Affair Thursday Involved War and People

"Except in case of invasion, or internal revolt, war should be declared by the vote of the people," was the subject which furnished material for an exceptionally interesting debate Thursday evening between Idaho and the University of California.

That people pay for war with blood and money, and that by people deciding upon the declaration of war would act as a factor to eliminate war were the main thoughts by which the affirmative reasoned. That has present system of declaring war that there is no need for change, and that the substance of the negative's argument.

William Berger and L. C. Tallman, negative speakers, and representative of U. S. C. showed exceptional ability in delivery and in constructing their arguments.

D. G.'S WOULD MAKE IDAHO LIKE CORNELL

Intra-Mural Debaters Near Finish of Semi-Finals

That the honor system tends to build better citizenship, and that the honor system would put Idaho on par with colleges like Cornell, Princeton, and other forceful institutions, was the substance of the argument expounded by Delta Gamma debaters, who defeated Pi Sigma Rho Tuesday.

Ruth Galligan and Mildred Dingle, affirmative speakers, represented Delta Gamma in arguing for an honor system at Idaho, Wilma Casebalt and Grace Jain representing Pi Sigma Rho.

With the continuity of the series more interest is being manifested by the debaters and by the students generally. Usually there are enough listeners to fill room 207, debaters' rendezvous.

April 12—Tau Kappa Iota will debate with Pi Beta Phi on, "Resolved: That women should continue their career after marriage." Lael Simmons, intra-mural debate manager, wishes to stress that the question says to continue a career and not to start one.

The tennis tournament will start as soon as the rest of the courts are finished. The schedule has been made and will be posted on the Bulletin board not later than Saturday. Varsity matches have been made as usual with Whitman and W. S. C. The dates for these matches will be available in the near future.

IDAHO, WHITMAN CO-EDS TALK YOUTH

Heated Argument on Freedom of Younger Set Pleases Audience

Arguing "that the present freedom granted youth is tending toward a higher type of personality and character, and visa-versa, University of Idaho and Whitman College debaters Tuesday evening put up an exhibition of oratory that equaled the Patrick Henry, Daniel Webster, Calibre. Women have a natural talent for debating was the decision of an unbiased audience at the close of the argument."

Miss Howard and Miss Garrett argued for Whitman, and Maurita Miller and Marjorie Albertson, both of Moscow, represented Idaho.

COACHING STAFF GETS TRACK MAN

G. W. Philbrook Has Athletic Record of Merit

George W. Philbrook, football and track coach for the Multnomah Athletic club, of Portland, Ore., has taken charge of the University of Idaho track and field squad for the remainder of the year.

Philbrook, who has been with the Portland club at intervals for the last 10 years, is considered one of the leading track coaches and trainers on the coast. Prior to his coaching days he was an outstanding American athlete. He won the all-round championship at the Stockholm Olympic games in 1912.

Philbrook had his first collegiate track experience at Whitman college, Walla Walla. He later entered Notre Dame university, where he won a berth on the 1912 Olympic squad.

No definite steps toward securing a permanent successor to Mathews have been taken. It is expected that the faculty committee on athletics will authorize a thorough and widespread search.

President Alfred H. Upham, in announcing the resignation, expressed deep regret at Mathews' leaving, and was free in his praise of the coach's achievements during his four years here. Taking a team known for its weakness in football, Mathews developed a machine which, although representing the smallest school in the Pacific coast conference, commanded the respect and fear of all eastern institutions.

Another important work of Mr. Mathews was the clearing up of the eligibility situation. Prior to his coming vandalism athletes often were found to be ineligible by coast athletic authorities. Through his efforts this has been remedied.

Strobeck, A. S. U. Thomson, dean of the University of Idaho school of mines and ex-officio secretary of the board.

Two amendments have been proposed by The Argonaut board and two have been offered by a committee from the executive board. The first and the second two relate to methods of appointment for athletic managers and awards for those who have served in these capacities.

A need has been felt for the first group this semester, since the inauguration of a new system of work for the managing editor. In former years, this job has served only as a title for the man who was elected by the student body to take over the editorship of the paper for the year following. His duties were few, if any at all.

Under the new system, the managing editor holds a position of definite responsibility in the publication of the paper. Details of publication, including the collection of news, its preparation, and responsibility for the makeup of the paper are supervised by him. Instead of merely holding the job to succeed the editor, he has assumed duties which claim approximately fifteen hours each week.

Instead of lightening the job of the editor, the additional effort is absorbed through the working of the new system. As approximately 25 per cent more news is required to fill the paper under a new arrangement of typography, it can be seen that the work incidental to publishing this news has increased tremendously.

To maintain the standard to which The Argonaut has been raised during the last semester, every hour of available time must be spent by both the editor and the managing editor. Thus the salary amendment seems justified.

The policy of publication twice a week during the whole school year, instead of once a week for one semester and twice a week for the other, as formerly was the case, has made impractical the old constitutional provision regarding the salary of the business manager. This was figured on the once a week basis and on that basis it was not more than adequate for the work put in by the manager. But under the new system, the salary is out of proportion to the amount of work involved. His duties require approximately the same amount of time as either the editor or the managing editor put in; but his pay is considerably more than the combined salaries of the two editorial heads. Thus it is felt that the second amendment is desirable.

The amendments proposed by the executive board are worth considering. They define a basis of appointment of senior athletic managers, calling the element of competition into play. The various class managers must work up from their first year before they can receive the sweater award provided for them by the proposed amendment. This sort of thing is desirable, as competition brings out the best that there is in a man; and the position of athletic manager requires an exceptionally capable man to "fill the bill."

The competitive element brings into play a principle that is a factor in every line of university achievement and is the fundamental principle of success in the life which comes after the university.

The Safety Valve

Several of the witnesses of the first appearance of Romeo and Juliet Wednesday evening expressed their disgust and indignation of having to sit in an audience where there are one or two individuals with such perverted senses of humor as to cause disturbances during the tense moments of the dramatic production.

The play, Romeo and Juliet, was well enacted and interpreted by a talented caste which had been well coached, and the person, or persons, who grunted and made disturbing noises by the smacking together of the lips during two of the love scenes only showed lack of culture and poor breeding.

Spring's Early Call Pulls Kioty's Mind To Mountain Haunts

Dear Ma,
I smell green birchwood smoke and on the pages of my text book I see blue smoke lifting up among fir branches. The crackle of theme paper is the crackle of a fire between two boulders. The hum of voices in class rooms and eating halls is the roar of Cottonwood creek at the crossing. At lectures my self is on a plunging green river in a boat. The class bell is the tinkle of a bell from a deep thicket when the lazy cow shakes her head. The cement sidewalk across the campus is Zigzag trail—through the Pine Tree saddle and crossing the creek down in Liever's Gulch. My old type writer clicking is iron shod feet batting through the slide rock. Automobiles passing are roaring motors fighting the Mountain Sheep rapids—carrying you off to the foot hills of the Seven Devils. But when you are there once the stentor drives you mad. Then you must go back to the clang of steel wheels—to the smell of gasoline and back-street markets. There ain't no place to go, is there Ma? If I had of been creating a world I would of made men in shells like oysters so as they wouldn't never learn enough about places to bother themselves.
Kioty

UNPOPULAR OPINION

Blaine Stubblefield

Four years at Idaho have filled me with an unspeakable longing to see Boise. I hear odes to Boise on every hand. They make me feel as if I had been ill advised in my travels—that after all I had missed the Geyser Grand of the west. In seeing America first I shall now see Boise last. It is Boise at breakfast, Boise at lunch, Boise at dinner; Boise behind me at the movies and in front of me at classes—Boise everywhere. As soon as school closes I shall journey to this haven of alfalfa. Never will rest come to me till I have seen this Holy City of Sagebrush—this Mecca in le Boise. See Boise and then die.

Head line in the Star Mirror: (Several days ago) "Auditor's report contains figures." Think of that!

I don't know who wrote the leading editorial in last Tuesday's Argonaut—"Students Would Go to Church If—", but it is the most sensible and well pointed bit of thought the paper has published for some time.

Forney hall ranks third in scholastic standing and Lindley hall fourth. Think that over. Groups organized with the noble purpose of elevating scholarship had better oil their machinery.

A farce comedy will be presented at special assembly today. The audience will be entertained by seven or eight politicians who will choose the student body officers for the coming year.

Woodrow Wilson said that James Russell Lowell would take first place in the future calendar of American authors. There you have the train of thought that was derailed at League of Nations Crossing.

"Why will students cut across?" Head line in the Argonaut. I make a random guess that it is because they want to save steps, but it might be well to submit this problem to the psychology department for solution.

Another Easter Sunday has joined the past. Another hat parade has been dedicated to the glory of the Lord. Again the egg market has felt a great jar.

Most of the Argonaut's front page carries headlines about such nonsense as swagger sticks, cabarets, marches in tacky costumes, and other trash invented by college clowns. Along side this runs a column showing group scholastic standings with averages dangerously near the low level of three point. The whole story is there before your eyes.

Y. W. C. A. NAMES PERRY PRESIDENT

Mildred Perry was re-elected president of the Y. W. C. A. at a meeting Wednesday evening in the University hut. Pearl Glenn was chosen vice-president; Barbara Rugg, secretary; and Helen Jensen, treasurer. Other candidates were: Elizabeth Curtis, president; Ruth Chapman, vice-president; Edith Sanborn, secretary; and Eula Bryant, treasurer.

DROP HONOR SYSTEM SAY WHITMAN PROFS

WHITMAN COLLEGE, WALLA WALLA, April 8.—As a result of too much cribbing in examinations at Whitman college, Walla Walla, action has been started by the faculty and academic group to abolish the honor system which has been in force there for six years. The faculty charges that cheating is carried on wholesale in some classes and that action could not be taken to expel the whole class, nor would it be fair to refuse to give credit for the course.

On April 5, the faculty of Whitman college decided that the honor system was doing more harm than good, and will refer the action of abolishing it to the student body for consideration. According to the school authorities strenuous efforts have been made to enforce the system, but it has not fully served the purpose for which it was intended. The honor system had its own board for deciding cases and, in several instances, had resorted to expulsion of students for violation of the rules, but the instructors assert that the cheating done during last term examinations offers sufficient proof that the system is a failure.

FAMOUS QUARTETTE ENDS ARTIST COURSE

The last number of the artist's course will be held Friday, April 30. This is perhaps the best of the musical numbers presented on the course this year. There is possibly but one other quartette equal to this in the world and that is the famous Florenzay quartette, which has been the finest in the world for the last 10 or 15 years. It is composed of four young Englishmen who play with a great deal of life and pep. They have met with such approval wherever they have appeared that they have put themselves on an equal with the Italian Florenzay quartette.

A REVIEW

Romeo and Juliet

(Blaine Stubblefield)

Elizabethan tragic romance before a modern college audience is indeed a touchy problem in dramatics, but Kneeland Parker and Marie Gauer solved it Thursday night at the university auditorium in Talbot L. Jennings' modernized version of Shakespeare's "Romeo and Juliet."

The play was staged by Mr. John Cushman, head of the dramatics department. Mr. Jennings' purpose, in translating the script, was to make clear, in terms of every-day speech, the poetry, beauty, and flavor of Shakespeare.

Rarely among undergraduates will a combination such as Miss Gauer and Mr. Parker capable of Romeo and Juliet be found. Their voices were full and clear, their interpretation intelligent, their acting intense but sane, and their presence admirable.

Marie Johnson, nurse to Juliet, whose part is elemental in the plot, made her points clear and was genuinely amusing.

Mercutio is the unwitting foil to the lovers' plan. His fetching character was nicely done by Bert Stone.

Friar Laurence—warm human sympathy and dignity—was taken by Cameron King, whose acting was easy and spontaneous.

A unit setting of permanent arches and stairways was used. Scene changes were accomplished by shifting panels and by various lighting effects.

Beside the script for the play, all the properties except wigs and swords were produced by university people. The costumes, by Mrs. J. N. Nankervis, were of genuine material and thorough workmanship.

Mid-week Cleanings Bathwater and Tennis Occupy Vacationers

University students spent the Thursday morning half holiday in approximately 1800 different ways, according to a close observer. Fraternity and sorority houses all received a mid-week house cleaning in anticipation of annual spring visits from national inspectors. Men and co-eds in the halls "slept in" or arose for breakfast and then went back to bed. Horseshoe stakes and bathwater were at premiums in every hangout on the campus. A few picnics were held on deah' old Moscow mountain. Tennis courts were overflowing at an early hour. Baseball candidates played a practice game. Some even studied, it is alleged. Others tried to get in the library before the noon hour. One man with a string of books under his arm and wearing shell-rimmed glasses actually confessed that he had worked all morning—laying out a tennis court across town.

The half-holiday was received by the students in the manner that a letter from home is garnered in on the first of the month. Intentions are always the best, but—

Decorate yourself with the degree of P. A.

THAT means "Pipa Amoroso" in the Latin, or "pipe-lover" in plain campus English. P. A. has certainly endeared a pipe to more men than any other letters in the smoke-alphabet. Because Prince Albert lets a fellow smoke all he wants to—and makes him want to!

Cool as the stare of a marble Venus. Sweet as the approach of vacation. Fragrant as spring blossoms. Think up your own smiles, Fellows. You will when you pick P. A. and a jimmy-pipe for permanent roommates. Prince Albert is great tobacco, and that's not blah.

Get yourself a tidy red tin of Prince Albert today. Fill the bowl of that old jimmy-pipe to the brim and borrow a match. Then you're set for some great smoke-sessions, as sure as you're a foot high.

P.A. is sold everywhere in tidy red tins, round and half, round tin humidifiers, and round crystal-glass humidifiers with sponge-moistener top. And always with every bit of taste and punch removed by the Prince Albert process.
