Kappa Alpha Thea, which has recently moved into its new home, will be the hostess at a house warming probably immediately following the Christmas vacation.

The new home, which is of the Ital-ian Renaissance architecture, is one of the most beautiful on the campus, and is atractively furnished in the furniture of that period.

The living room is spacious and exquisitely decorated. The draperles are Italian red brocaded with gold and black. The room is lighted by two central chandeliers and groups of wall lights. The big fireplace and the grand plano make it charming. The dining room is attractive with heavy gold velvet drapes, long tables, graceful chairs, and two built-in closets.

The house mother's three-room suite, guest room, and the kitchen are also on the first floor.

The second and third floors of the house consist mainly of study rooms which are furnished with walnut day beds, dressers, study tables, and builtin wardrobes.

The house has two sleeping porches, spacious basement, and reception hall.

Beauty Contests

Twenty-six girls who were nominated for a contest sponsored by the Gem of the Mountains and who petitioned that their names be withdrawn, are in line for the praise of every member of the student body. They cut short, it is hoped, for this year at least, a so-called "beauty section" in the year book. It isn't at all pleasing to have the annual littered up with a department which became antiquated two years after the Atlantic City pageant became an institution. Such a department is the chief attraction of high school year books and annuals of that calibre.

It is to be hoped that the Gem of the Mountains has seen its last beauty section.

The Vandals

Idaho's Vandals of the football field have closed a brilliant season. Although the ledger shows more losses than victories, the season was brilliant, nevertheless. The 1926 Vandal football squad, in many respects, was one of the greatest Idaho has ever turned out. And for this, Idaho supporters must turn to Coach Charlie Erb and a bunch of fighters who wouldn't say die even when the best football logic conceded that they must do that.

With a few notable exceptions, Charlie Erb took a crew of raw material on September 15 and started fashioning a machine which would in the future. carry him through his first year at Idaho. Losing spring practice an1 launched which, as in this case, is starting with a terribly disorganized bunch of leftovers from Mathews' students and faculty, and that a few reign, Erb faced the almost certain possibility of putting out a losing team. But, imbued with the old "Idaho Fights" idea, with which his spirit became diffused in the first few days here, he laughed at obstacles their selfish efforts to see their own and returned pitying jibes from sports writers with a team which made itself respected everywhere it appeared. Then, too, as if early season handicaps were not enough, an injury jinx hovered over the squad, with the result that in several games a much crippled team was sent out to uphold Idaho's football honor. -

It is only suggested that every member of the student body pore Store to the student body pore over the handbook, learn the constitution of the A. S. U. I., become acquainted with the executive department, learn at least the names of the board, learn to know the members by sight. Including the graduate manager, alumni and faculty members, there are 12 persons on the board. Their names are in the constitution. Learn what all the shouting is about, so at least each student can answer questions intelligently when they are put to him by the folks in the home town,

Student Opinion

To the Student Body:

I have been informed that 26 girls nave submitted, a petition to have names withdrawn from the Gem their of the Mountains contest. With such a desire it is evident that this concludes the contest sponsored by the Gem.

A word might be said here to explain some angles that have not had sufficient attention:

After looking over hundreds of the largest annuals of America's leading schools, I was able to incorporate the newest and most prominent features in this year's Gem which would keep our book modern, and abreast wit the most recent college year books.

A beauty section is one section of all books which is receiving continued emphasis, and the desire was to give the student body an active interest in the large and more modern features of this year's book.

The Gem now realizes that the student body is not inclined to share in the responsibility of building a better Gem. The staff, however can asure the students that they will receive the best and most modern in year books, and without their help, if ive play. The Vandals were clearly needs be, in building these larger special features.

During the contest not one word put up by Erb's squad. Perrins broke of disapproval or one word regarding loose with a triple pass in the last a withdrawal reached me. I talked with students and many faculty memdisapproval. In my search to find Owing,s Powers, Burgher, and coby played a consistent game in the the opinion of the student body I backfield, while the line held the could find no reproach. For that Cougars from crossing the Idaho goal reason I am convinced that the presline. ent outcome is not the will of the oposition was principally sponsored by but few people who forced their opinion on passive minds. There could have been no result of this and such is the opinion of students, which could have caused bisaster or permanent ill feeling on he campus. It is too bad when, then, chnicalities and individual personal to aid a publication which means as I hope the student body will stand one hundred percent behind the Gem not sponsored by the majority of the people will be considerate enough of the tireless efforts of others, and the general welfare of the Gem to curb ideas in force.

Our Idaho

Every Tuesday night twelve men and women: students, a member of the faculty, an alumnus and the graduate manager of student activities gather to ponder over the students' end of problems dealing with administration of the university. Although they sit in an open meeting, that is, to which any student is entitled to attend, rarely has a member of the A. S. U. I. listened to the sessions unless he had business with the body.

It is the executive board, which, to most students on the campus, is a hazy concept, a thing masked by a mist of something or other, a body about which little is definitely known, but a body which in some way or another approves student departmental budgets, athletic and other awards, whatnot drives and things of that sort. It is there; ask any student. He will tell you right off that it is. Idaho has an organization of students called the A. S. U. I., he will tell you. This means, I think, he probably will continue, the Associated Students of the University of Idaho, but I'm not sure. But there his fund of knowledge stops. What is the function of the A. S. U. I? Of what is the executive board composed? Who are members of this body? These are staggering questions, when asked haphazardly about the campus. Most students know that the president of the student body is a member; but who else composes the board, when it meets, where, and what it does are unsolved mysteries. Even a question seeking to know how many members are on the board staggers many. This is not idle supposition, but is a truth born out by results of just such a casual survey as the one mentioned in the preceding sentence.

It is startling to find out just how many students are familiar with the workings of the one element of student government that we have here. It is the more startling when all these facts are contained in the printed constitution and handbook published by the A. S. U. I. and which was distributed free of charge to the students.

This is not an indication that what small amount of student government we have here is appreciated. One student was addressed by the president of the A. S. U. I.; an inquiring reporter asked this student who the man was who just spoke to him. The student did not know.

With these facts true, how in heaven's name can student government of he type we have at Idaho function as efficiently as it is expected to function? It can't operate efficiently; for without the awareness of the student body to the various departments of government, that government ceases to be student rule and the brunt of governing is thrown Phone 289 upon the hands of the actual members of the board.

in the last half, the Washington eleven triumphed 26 to 0.

Not Downhearted

Not in the least downhearted by the defeat at Seattle, the Vandals again resumed practice and training. On October 23 the College of Idaho Coyotes marched into Moscow rather confident of a close game, if not a victory for them, because of their defeat on such a small margin last year. The Coyotes let Moscow taking with them a 30 to 0 drubbing. Five of the Varsity regulars were out in that game from injuries received in the Montana and Washington battles. Lyle Stark and John Bauer, guards; 'Chuck" Diehl, end; James Gartin, tackle; and Frank Powers, halfback, saw the game with Caldwell from the Then came the tornado. Quarterback Jacoby, who weighs but 150 pounds, jabbed left guard for eight yards and Captain Owings made it first and 10 through center. Two line assaults notted five yards and on the third play of the series, Jacoby received the ball on a criss-cross to cut through the very heart of the line for 20 yards. His interference was near-perfection on this attack. Jacoby hugged the ball thrice more for the third first down, carrying the ball far into Creighton territory. The stands were in an uproar, shouting encouragement to the home boys, but that tumultuous shout of joy turned to one of dismay when Walmsley intercepted Keane's pass on Idaho's 24-yard line. The half ended soon after.

The Vandals played a watchful, waiting game in the third quarter and let Creighton force the issue. And Creighton did. The period was but a few moments old when Connolly sent another heave to Keane for a 28-yard advance.

Play was in midfield the remainder of the third period.

Wynne's boys started another of-fensive at the start of the final period, but after three first downs had been kicked off, another intercepted pass checked the rally. The Blues coupled passes with line smashes in this advance, but Jacoby intercepted Connolly's long pass on his own 35-yard line to culminate the match. Just before the match ended, the Vandals forced Creighton far back and Keane punted from behind his own goal line to Jacoby as the gun barked.

Sas Keane drew back to punt. As the ball was snapped the big red wall of the invaders swept upon him like sea of scarlet, hurrying the kick, and the ball sliced out of bounds on Creighton's 25-yard line.

Jacoby Scores First Perrins flicked through left tackle for 12 yards on a criss-cross and on the next play Jacoby skipped around his own right end on another crisscross to slide over the goal. On the try for point, Jacoby's pass to Perrins was low.

The other Idaho' touchdown came at the start of the second quarter but was the direct result of a flerce attack upon the Hill-toppers in the waning moments of the first period. The Vandals started their second zoalward drive from their own 27yard line, and as the quarter ended

The team this year will be well reinforced by several promising pros pects from last year's frosh squad The outlook at this time is bright Coach MacMillan intimates. The squad probably will be light but fast,

Two or three other good men are exnected to be eligible at the close of the first semester. The Vandals are probably one of the outstanding teams for the Pacific coast conference title this year. The University of Oregon quintet ranks in this fifst division, according to pre-season dope. In the five years that Idaho has participated in the Pacific Coast conference, Coach MacMillan's basket-shooters captured the coast title in 1923 and finished once in first place and the other three times in second place in the Pacific northwest division of the conference. Barring accidents it will be a vet-eran outfit that stacks up against the University of Montana here January 14. Following this game the fighting Vandals will make an extensive tour of the northwest. On this tour the Idaho squad will meet Whitman, Uni-versity of Washington, Oregon Agricultural college, and the University of Oregon. There is a probability of several pre-season games to be played here before the Montana game.

At this instant the women rush out of their houses with baskets of eatables, ears of corn, gourds, melons, wheat bread, corn cakes, etc. These they throw up into the air in all directions. When the baskets are emptied, they replenish them and toss the contents towards the abode of those above. Whoever can catch anything of these catables as they fall proceeds to do so. In this act of throwing heavenward the food which heaven has enabled it to raise, the whole tribe displays its gratitude to the superior powers.

Lewiston and Twin Falls will play at Lewiston December 3 for the state high school football championship, acording to an agreement reached between the two teams this week. Lewiston guarantees Coach Plastino and his Bruins $1500 to make the trip. This will be an adequate sum to take a party of 25 to Lewiston. The two teams were declared champions of their respective sections of the state following victories last weekend. Twin Falls, by a 6 to 0 victory over Filer, won the dsitrict and southern title, and Lewiston copped the north-ern championship by defeating Moscow in an inch of snow, 6 to 0.

Twin Falls, to win the district and southern title, had to play Buhl and Filer on successive days, Buhl being defeated last Thursday by a score of 33 to 0. The tired Bruins had more than a handful licking Filer on a field of water and mud, but they mustered the punch to win by a touch down. Lewiston, a dry-field team, had difficulty in beating Moscow on a field covered with snow and mud, but Babe Brown's Bengals came through. Both Lewiston and Twin Falls appear to be fair-weather elevens and Lewiston's turf field, famed dry weather, and banana-belt climate should make it ideal for the titular contest. The Lewiston-Moscow game was the only one played in north Ida-ho last week. This contest gave Lewiston five victories in the conference for a season's average of 1.000 percent, the Bengals having defeated St. Maries, Coeur d'Alene, Bonners Ferry. Genesee, and Moscow.
