IDAHOANS DROP FIRST CAGE GAME

Whitman Takes First Contest of Vandals' Eight Day Tour

WALLA WALLA—Whitman took a game from the Idaho Vandals, 26 to 21, in one of the most exciting games seen on the Missionary floor in recent seasons. Monday night, Coach McMullan started his team minus the services of the flashy Nedros, and gave the Whitman team a 14 to 8 lead at the half. He then substituted his Coast conference reserve, who put the team one point in the lead and the addition of six points, while his teammates dropped in an occasional basket, and checked the Missionary players to almost a standstill. The tide removed of Erickson, who had been having disagreements with the maize and blue men and the referee, and the Whitman basketekers again forged to the front and were not again headed.

Cheating in an examination is a most serious offense, and should a lax proctorial system make it easy, the good name of the university would suffer."

Delayed Orders Cause Idaho Trainer to Miss Bloody Frontier Fight

Capt. William Bryan Served With Slain Leader As Medical Sergeant on the Ground Immediately After Slaughter

An old Indian fighter who but for delayed orders would have shared General Custer's fate in the famous battle on the Little Big Horn against the Sioux in 1876 came to light on the university campus in the person of Captain William Bryan, Vandal Trainer, when the property managers for "Garry Owen," a one-act military play to be given Thursday and Friday evenings, was hunting up suitable stage equipment for the property.

Major questions from the student players brought out the fact that the soldier-like, unassuming trainer not only was among the first troops to reach the field of death after the Custer fight, but that for distinguished gallantry in action he was awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor, the highest award given by the United States for bravery in action.

Captain Bryan, reminding said that he served with Custer as medical sergeant for three years from 1876 to 1878. In the spring of 1876 he received orders to rejoin Custer as usual, but owing to a delay in transmitting dispatches he arrived at Fort Lincoln a few days after Custer and the famous Seventh Cavalry had gone to put down the Sioux uprising in the Wyoming county. Sergeant Bryan was therefore sent after Custer with General Crook who commanded the infantry. These troops on the day after Custer's fight were

VANDALS OFF ON EIGHT-DAY TRIP

Hoopsters to Play Huskies, O. A. C. and Oregon On Tour

Coach David MacMillan left Monday morning with his nine fighting Vandals for the first day of Idaho's race for the Pacific coast basketball title, playing games last night with Whitman college, tomorrow with the University of Washington Huskies, Friday with the O. A. C. Aggies, and Saturday winding up their tour with a battle with the University of Oregon.

Little speculation can be made on the outcome of the Washington tilt. Comparing the Husky basketball squad with some of the outstanding conference teams, it seems that the Huskies have the proverbial "outsider's chance" for the 1927 hoop pennant. Although lacking in experience, the quintet has a combination of speed, shooting ability, and smooth team work that should make the going tough for all opponents.

Made Good Showing. The Washington tilt was a fairly good showing in its pre-conference games. Opening the practice season, the Huskies split a series of two tilts with Rothschilds, the outfit that the Vandals defeated on the barnstorming trip. On their road tour into eastern Washington, Montana State won from them 43 to 34, but they trounced Gonzaga 52 to 42, and won over Whitman by a 21 to 16 count. If comparative scores are at all clairvoyant, Idaho has the edge over the Huskies.

Al Schuss, an all-coast forward, is one of the mainstays of the Washington team. He has a reputation of being clever at floorwork and deadly accurate in shooting. A two-year letterman, Earl Jewell, is holding down the center position and with another regular, Dahlquist, guard are the only other veterans on the squad.

Oregon Strong. The comparative strength of the Oregon Aggies and the University of Oregon is not known, but it is expected that the university will be Idaho's strongest opponent in the field. The Webfooters will accompany the Vandals as far as Pullman on their return trip next Sunday where they will play W. S. C. the next night. On Tuesday night, Oregon will invade Moscow and try out the strength of the Vandals on their home floor.

The nine men who are on the tour with MacMillan are: John Miles, Eddie Nedros, and James O'Brien, forwards; Erickson and Burgher, centers; Canine, Jacoby, Dawald, and Greene, guards. The probable starting lineup will be: Miles and Nedros, forwards; Erickson, center; and Canine and Jacoby, guards.

We Are Growing

MICKHAEL Mordkin's ballet, considered one of the largest and one of the most colorful of the series of stage attractions booked through the northwest this season, will play at the University of Idaho for afternoon and evening performances of February 3. This is the greatest attraction ever brought to the University of Idaho as a part of the Artists' course. Fifty persons are in the cast. The fact that this spectacle has been booked for the university is indicative of the great growth of the institution. It is becoming recognized as one of the cultural centers of the Inland Empire. The university stands with Spokane in this respect. A thousand persons will attend the first appearance of the troupe in the afternoon. It is probable that more than that will attempt to gain entrance to the auditorium for the evening performance.

The public events committee is to be praised for bringing such attractions here. These not only give Idaho students an opportunity to witness the best there is in this line, but it attracts hundreds of persons off the campus; and experience has shown that once a person visits the campus Idaho has another friend. If similar work can be carried on in other lines the school will rapidly take its rightful place as the absolute center of things cultural for the Inland Empire.

A Good Move

THE W. A. A., controlling body for women's athletics here, has drawn an amendment to its constitution making it possible for a woman to win the coveted monogram sweater award before her senior year in school. This is a very commendable piece of work and most assuredly will be a great factor in promoting feminine participation in the greatest of all extra-curricular activities—sports.

As it now stands, under the existing constitutional provision, it is difficult for a woman to get her sweater, which is the only material reward for her activity. It is next to impossible to get it before her senior year. And then it is almost too late to do what it is intended to do. She cannot wear it as a student on the campus. And thus much of the good derived from the award is lost.

Those High School Boys

AFTER a year away from Idaho the interscholastic basketball tournament will be held in the gymnasium here. It was allowed to go to Boise because of financial support given it in the years it was held in Moscow. In view of the advantages of having the meet held here it seems that an extra effort should be made to keep this branch of competition at Moscow. Eight teams, representing the cream of basketball talent in high schools in every section of the state will come to Moscow to play for the interscholastic championship. The fact that these men are on the campus is important. They are in high school today; but tomorrow they will be casting about for a university. If Idaho can show them that there is only one school in the world for them to attend, the benefit of having them here is obvious.

Everybody here has a part in showing these youngsters what we really have at the University of Idaho. Fraternities should, and probably will, take these boys and their coaches in hand, treat them royally and convince them that we really have a wonderful school. Faculty members, in many ways, can show the same thing. Students and townspeople alike can do their bit by crowding the gymnasium every afternoon and evening of the game. Students on the campus can do much to make the visitors feel at home. If these things are done, then we need worry but little. The boys will be potential Idaho students, or at least great friends of Idaho.

TRADITIONS AT IDAHO

This is the sixth series of articles detailing Idaho traditions. Additional parts will appear in the Argonaut from time to time. The Editor.

(By George Young)

Campus day was celebrated as a holiday for the first time by Idaho students in 1914. The main fete was the morning feature of the program and was followed by a noon luncheon served on the campus. After the appetites had been satisfied, games of all sorts were played, and the merriment lasted well into the afternoon. "It was a gala event," Dean French who was promoter of the first function described it.

From then on, one day early in the month of May was put aside each year and observed as Campus day, according to the present custom, except that entertainment was planned to occupy the interests of the students during the entire day. In 1914, the executives of the university decided it would be a good policy to spend the forenoon in improving the appearance of the campus, and save the play for the later hours. The latter program for Campus Day observance is as it is being practiced in a number of other western institutions of learning, and has been the basis for the schedule of events on the Idaho campus since 1914.

The great difference in the campus day now and the campus day of 1914 is resultant of the increase of enrollment, which makes it impossible for the women to serve lemonade to the laboring men (supposedly), as was the custom in the days of old. The last time the women attempted to serve lemonade, Dean French lent a helping hand to the extent that she squeezed lemons for three hours, and succeeded in extracting the sour juice.

Now the students are organized into groups under the direction of the generalissimo, and set out to do a specified piece of work. The enrollment of men is large enough so that a great deal can be done in the way of beautifying the campus before the clock strikes 12 noon, but no lemonade is supplied, except to thosefortunates who are sent out to attack the dandelions that are in flower about the sorority houses, and halls. To these individuals the women generously serve portions of food at intervals.

The May fete is given in the afternoon, and everyone turns out to see the queen crowned and the lithe fairies trip a fantastic across the campus green. Sometime later in the afternoon the Old Guards parade over the campus and through town under the leadership of one advanced in military. Last year the class stuntfest was given in the evening.

Campus Day, with its development has become a deeply embedded tradition in the spirit of the school. It is still a "gala event."

Night School Seeks Recognition

The night school of the University of Minnesota is seeking recognition as a part of the University equal to day school. They are also seeking a two-hour instead of a one-hour schedule.

No Grades to Worry Over in Philosophy

A class with no grades to worry over, individual instruction, and an "A" at the close of the quarter is guaranteed to those students who are chosen for the special class in philosophy at the University of Washington, Seattle.

The class is composed of a few of the best students from the introductory course, with previous scholastic showing, and the grade achieved in the freshman psychology test being taken into account.

"The students who show unusual ability in grasping the subject matter are rewarded by those who are unable to progress rapidly, and it is with the idea of eliminating this fault that the new class is being formed," William Norton, the instructor said. "By choosing the exceptional students, it will be able to progress rapidly and cover more ground than the usual introductory course."

Individual instruction is stressed and while there is no direct grading weekly papers will determine the student's progress.

JUNE MOONLIGHT

The moon shone bright, with the most lustrous light That has ever been spread o'er the earth.

'Twas the light of a moon that shines only in June, And a lovely June night gave it birth.

The world 'round seemed wrapt, in a color so apt, That no artist could hope to portray He might try in despair, to mix colors to compare, But he couldn't paint moonlight that way.

The moonbeams crept down, like a molten gold crown, On every shrub, grassblade, and tree; And there like gems bright, they danced in delight With steps of rare ecstasy. The moon went away with the coming of day, But the night I shall never forget. Sometimes in my dreams I see golden moon beams, And those fairies dancing there yet. —A. T. B.

SING A SONG

If you feel down hearted, And every thing's gone wrong; If all your hope's departed, Just sing a little song. If your life seems dreary, Your purpose in living gone; Don't let your heart grow weary, But cheer it with a song. If you feel your pleasure slipping, And your last strong hope is gone; Just remember, there's good still waiting, To be shared with a song. —A. T. B.

L. A. STILL TAKES GEM STATE BUTTER

One Fourth Supplied By Idaho, But East Also Has Future

One-fourth of the butter consumed in Los Angeles during the first six months of 1926 was supplied by Idaho producers, according to figures issued by D. L. Fourt, field dairyman of the university extension service.

The Los Angeles market has been developing very rapidly, Mr. Fourt said, because of population increase and the use of more local milk for table purposes rather than in the form of butter.

In 1925 nearly 17,000,000 pounds of creamery butter was manufactured in the Gem state, more than three times the amount produced in 1920. Idaho, however, produced only about one per cent of the butter of the United States and ranks about 18th among the states in butter production.

Little Freight Difference Most Idaho butter now goes to Pacific coast markets. Mr. Fourt points out, however, that when production in Idaho and other western states increases above coast and local market needs, the extra expense of shipping to the east would not in itself be a handicap. The freight rate to New York on butter from Idaho is only one and one-fourth cents per pound greater than the rate from Idaho to Los Angeles.

Idaho now has 40 creameries, 43 cheese factories, 29 ice cream plants, one condenser, and a cheese processing plant. Dairy population comprised nearly one-fifth of the total animal units in the state in 1925.

FIVE LETTERMEN ON HUSKIE CREW

UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON, Seattle, Jan. 17 (P.P.)—Five lettermen are expected to answer coach "Rusty" Callow's call when crew turnouts are announced this spring. However eight men last year's Jayvees, and seven freshmen, besides a host of untried candidates, offer promising material with which to fill the places vacated by graduation. The addition of Jack Valentine, varsity oarsman at California for two years, will not add to the strength of the squad until next season, on account of the one year's residence ruling.

Student Opinion

The W. A. A. revised point system which is to be read before the Wednesday assembly and later presented to the student body for vote, should receive the consideration of every student. The plan, printed elsewhere in this issue, if passed by the student body will make it possible for a girl to win her "Y" sweater before the end of her senior year, and graduation. It is practically impossible for a girl to win a sweater in less than two years and since only one sweater is awarded to each girl anyway this plan aims merely to make it possible for a girl to be able to wear her sweater on the campus while she is a student. Every one surely has noticed the conspicuous absence of "Y" girls on the campus. During the past two years Evangeline Bennett Sorenson has been the only girl to wear an "Y" sweater on the campus. Others were awarded but the winners were graduated shortly after receiving them. Girls in no way claim that the significance of their sweaters is comparable to that of the men. All glory is due to the men who are worthy of representing Idaho in interscholastic sports. They fully deserve to earn a letter for each sport. However the wearer of the girls' "Y" does, it is hoped, represent the modern ideal of the all around sports woman who does not ape men's athletics but who has her standard to uphold. It is well known that the attitude of leaders in women's athletics disapprove of interscholastic games for women so it is necessary that the "Y" girl win her recognition in intermural sports. One of the highest aims of W. A. A. is to engage the interest of the girls in the type of activity which she can carry on in after school years.

If the students will make it possible to have representative "Y" girls on the campus it would surely do much towards highest attainment in women's sports.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Ore.—Playing a close checking game the Oregon varsity defeated the Willamette University Bearcats 33 to 10 in the first game to be played in the new $135,000 McArthur pavilion. Willamette was scoreless for the first ten minutes but gained a point when Hank converted a foul after being fouled by Ridiaga. It took the Bearcats 16 minutes to score a field goal. The lemon-yellow five played a good brand of basketball for their first home game but were erratic in shooting and somewhat loose on defense under their own basket. Roy Okerberg, Webfoot lanky pivot man had the field swishing the net for nine field goals and two fouls. Okerberg was at his best in dribbling through the loser's defense and was a dead shot under his own basket. Ridiaga played a good floor game. Sotty Milligan upheld the reputation that he gained on the recent barnstorming trip in California by breaking up a number of plays.

COUGAR BABES HAVE 16 GAMES. Will Meet Idaho Frosh January 22, and February 22.

PULLMAN, Jan. 17.—Sixteen games are listed on the schedule of the Washington State freshman basketball team which was released today by Athletic Director J. Fred Bohler. Fourteen of the contests are yet to be played.

Fresh normal school, college, high school and independent outfits are listed in the program, which is the heaviest the Cougar yearlings have yet attempted. Under Coach Hal Orion, former director of athletics at Lewis and Clark high school, Spokane, the Babes have developed a flashy outfit which provides plenty of tough opposition for the varsity in scrimmages. The Cougar Babes meet the Idaho frosh in Moscow, January 22nd.

RUSSIAN BALLET TO PRESENT TWO PROGRAMS HERE

Tickets for Afternoon and Evening Performances On Sale Saturday

HERE FEBRUARY 3

Mikhail Mordkin Rated By Critics as Greatest of Russian Dancers

For the accommodation of many people in surrounding towns and of university and Moscow dance lovers who do not hold season tickets, two performances will be given by the Mikhail Mordkin ballet which appears in the university auditorium on February 3. Approximately a thousand seats, the entire capacity of the auditorium will be sold for the special matinee performance, and many good seats for the night program are still available.

Tickets will be placed on sale next Saturday, January 22. They may be obtained at Hodgins Drug store. Out of town orders will be received either by mail or by telephone at Hodgins or by Prof. E. O. Bangs, head of the music department.

Interest in the ballet, one of the greatest attractions of the university last course has ever brought to the Inland Empire, indicates that admirers of the terpsichorean art from all parts of the surrounding territory will attend at least one of the performances. The matinee and evening programs will be entirely different.

Mordkin, whom most American critics consider the greatest of all the Russian dancers, returns to the United States this season after an absence of a dozen years. America first knew him as "a young Greek god of the dance," when he came to this country hardly more than a boy. It is now seeing him as still the unexcelled dancer and also a director of the ballet in which capacity he has achieved a foremost position in Russia during the last few years.

A notable feature of the ballet will be the first appearance outside of Russia of the young prima ballerina, Elena Lukom of the Petrograd State opera; also Hilda Butsova, who became a favorite throughout America as the artistic lieutenant of Anna Pavlova; and Pierre Vladimiroff, who was the partner of Mme. Karavina in her tour of America two years ago. Mordkin first achieved fame as the dancing partner of Anna Pavlova in his initial American appearances.

NEW DEBATE USES CROSS-QUESTIONING

Chairman Will Act as Judge and Interpret Issues

UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON, SEATTLE Jan. 16. (P.I.P.)—Embodying a pseudo-judgeship and a system of cross-questioning, an entirely new style of debate will be inaugurated at the University of Washington this year. The new form will consist of a twenty minute speech from each team, each talk being followed by 10 minutes questioning, and a final 10 minutes summary and rebuttal for each side. The chairman will cease to be a figurehead and will act more in the capacity of a judge, as he will decide upon the relevancy of questions asked by the debaters, and will also act as interpreter of certain issues brought up.

Professor Decodes Grammar Granddad

The granddaddy of all grammars has recently translated for the first time into English. Prof. W. J. Chase of the department of education at the University of Wisconsin, published his translation of the "Ars Minor" of Donatus as Number 11 of the University of Wisconsin studies in the social sciences and history.

The "Ars Minor" was compiled by Donatus, teacher of rhetoric in Rome about 250 A. D. It was, according to Professor Chase, the most commonly used grammar between 400 A. D. and 1500 and one of the first books ever printed. A French translation in 1460 is thought to be the French book made from type. Remnants of a parchment edition printed before 1447 have been found. The "Ars Minor" was more influential than any other grammar in the Middle Ages. It affected the form that

U. OF W. PROBLEMS FACE LEGISLATURE

Appointments to University Board of Regents Must be Confirmed

With the opening of the twentieth session of the state legislature in Olympia, political critics are selecting University of Washington positions to provide a generous portion of the political thunder that will emanate from a gathering said to be surcharged with controversial potentialities. The centralization of the state school control system and the confirmation of the governor's appointments to the University Board of Regents are among the outstanding problems facing the legislature. Six present members of the University's governing body have been appointed to office since the adjournment of the last legislature, and their selection must be ratified by the senate.

Dartmouth College is conducting an inter-fraternity bridge tournament.

WOMEN TURN IN HIGH SCORES IN EASTERN MATCH

The total scores from the Idaho-Cincinnati women's match last week were 1861 out of a possible 2000. The average of these scores is 186.1. The average for last year was 180.9 and for Cincinnati 193.0. The outcome of the match will be known by next week when Cincinnati scores have been received, it was announced.

Following are the Idaho scores for the prone and standing positions: Gertrude Gould, 97-99; Mary Huff, 98-94; Alta Tupper, 97-93; Josephine Keane, 96-91; Elva Field, 96-89; Dorothy Perkins, 93-92; Elizabeth Curtis, 96-87; Helen Kerr, 97-85; La Reta Beeson, 93-89; Josephine Broadwater, 92-88.

FOOTBALL IS ONLY PROFITABLE SPORT

Gridiron Is Only Paying Source of Revenue, Report Shows

UNIVERSITY OF CALIFORNIA, Berkeley.—Football was the only sport to show a profit at the University of California during 1926, according to a preliminary estimate made by W. W. Monahan, general manager of the Associated Students. Although football earned $268,070.61, every other sport on the list showed a deficit and the actual income of the athletic department will probably be reduced to not more than $205,000. Athletics have long carried the burden of the unprofitable winter sports, women's student union and miscellaneous activities, whose average annual loss of $65,000 is expected to further cut down the Associated Students income to approximately $140,000. The latter figure is still further depleted by payments due on the union building and the Memorial Stadium.

DISOBEDIENCE MAY HAVE LOST STRUGGLE

caped where Sheridan, Wyoming, now stands. Messengers from Major Reno commanding that part of the Seventh Cavalry which had survived the action came in with the news of the disaster. Early the next morning, Sergeant Bryan with other troops reached the dismal field. They found the bodies of Custer's men lying rank on rank by companies where they had fallen, with here and there the isolated body of a trooper who had faded in a desperate effort to break through the charging Sioux. Sergeant Bryan helped bury the fallen and afterwards superintended putting up the wooden markers which were first used to identify the graves.

Speaking of the much mooted question of responsibility for the affair, Captain Bryan said that in his opinion, in Major Reno had carried out to the letter Custer's orders to make a determined frontal attack on the Indians, allowing Custer to fall back with his detachment on the Indian flank, the battle would have ended in victory for the Seventh. Reno, however, dismayed by the unexpected strength of the hostiles, fell back on the defensive, leaving Custer's command to change alone against overwhelming odds.

"Garry Owen" is the play which started Captain Bryan's reminiscences, is based on an episode of Custer's last fight, with a setting in the orderly room of a troop supply base on Powder River. It is unusual in that the story of the fight is told in sign language by an Indian scout. Military costumes of the period will be used. "Garry Owen" which names the play, is the battle tune of the Seventh Cavalry and was played by the band of that regiment when Custer led them to the Little Big Horn.

BOARD VETOES O.A.C. ENTRY IN RELAY

Aggies Will Go to Pacific Coast Meet Instead of Eastern

OREGON AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE, Corvallis, Jan. 16.—Prospects of entering an O. A. C. relay team in the eastern or midwestern relay carnivals this past year went a glimmering when the local board of control voted against such proposition. Reason for such action was evident when it was announced that the track budget would allow for only one long trip this season and it became a matter of choice as to whether the Aggies would be represented by four men in the eastern relays or by a team in the Pacific coast intercollegiate at Los Angeles June 4.

KAER TO GO OUT FOR TRACK

LOS ANGELES, January 15.—Morton Kaer, all-American halfback of the 1926 Southern California grid team, will devote his spring energies to track competition and not to baseball as he recently hinted he might do. Kaer, who is a low hurdler, broad jumper and javelin thrower, turned out for track yesterday with hopes of again making the team to invade the east for the annual National Intercollegiate. Kaer went to Boston last season but did not place in the low hurdles, the only event he entered.

GRIZZLIES FALL BEFORE VANDALS

Quintet Shows Championship Form in Scoring, 45-19, Victory

Overwhelming the Grizzlies by a 45 to 19 score in their first conference basketball game of the season last Friday night, the Vandal title-seekers demonstrated that Idaho's bid for the conference pennant is no feat, but is a well-coached and smoothly operating quintet. The results of the strenuous practice gained from playing professional teams on the barnstorming trip were shown to a crowd of spectators, thrilled at the ease with which MacMillan's men-outclassed the Montana aggregation. It was almost impossible for the Grizzlies to break through Idaho's five-man defense, and once the Vandals got the ball, the score would change almost invariably. Are Accurate Shooters

On addition to the strengthened defense, the accuracy of the team's shooting was a decided improvement over the showing made in the games with Montana State before Christmas. One thing noticed in last Friday's battle was the tendency on the part of the Vandals to foul. Montana's total foul record was a different story had the Grizzlies been accurate at free throws. "Bus" Cantine, high point man of the game, was at his best Friday night and promises to be one of the best guards in the conference. His clever floor work and accurate shooting during the last half was the best work shown in the game. Nedros and Miles added several points to the Vandals and both made some pretty long shots from past the center of the floor. Burgher, who went in for Erickson near the end of the game, regularly got the tip off from the Montana center, Kain. Jacoby and Nedros played the entire game.

Show Good Floor Work Jacoby demonstrated an untiring defense and Nedros showed excellent form and clever floorwork. Miles played more than his share of the game until he was taken out on personal fouls. Dawald, who took Miles' place, scored three counters in the short time he was in the game. The excellent showing made by the Vandals in their first stanza of the conference fight makes Idaho more than ever, a dangerous contender for Pacific coast honors.

BORAH TO RACE PADDOCK AGAIN

Trojans and L. A. C. Will Complete in Three Meets

LOS ANGELES, January 15.—At least one return race between Charles Paddock and Charles Borah is assured this spring. Last season after the world champion, running for the Los Angeles Athletic Club, posed out Borah, then a freshman at Southern California, in a 35 seconds century for a new world's record, fans howled for a return meeting. Paddock was unable to enter the National at Philadelphia and the race was never staged. Borah won the event. Now the Trojans and the L. A. C. team are entered in three events. The first is the A. A. U. Relays on February 26. The second is the A. A. U. Championships April 10. It was at this event the sprinters clashed last season. Then on May 14 the two run in the triangular meet between Southern California, L. A. C. and Hollywood A. C.

Idaho Man Invents of Liquefying Gas for a Motor Fuel

IDAHO FALLS.—W. D. Wilcox, manager of the East Idaho Gas company, stated that he had applied for a patent to cover a process, by the use of which natural gas can be liquefied, and made to yield either wood alcohol or a more complex liquid suitable for use as a motor spirit.

Mr. Wilcox has several valuable gas making patents, but feels that the process he has developed and demonstrated to be practical and economical, is by far the most far-reaching and of greater economic benefit than any of his former inventions.

Speaking of the possibilities and future of such a process as he has perfected, Mr. Wilcox stated that from 1,000 cubic feet of natural gas, such as is found in the Wyoming fields, there can be obtained approximately 10 gallons of wood alcohol, or seven gallons of motor spirits, the latter yielding in power almost equal to the present quality of gasoline. Utilization of this process in remote natural gas fields will be a very profitable undertaking as both the wood alcohol or motor spirit can be manufactured and sold much cheaper than can gasoline, and with less expensive refining equipment. Mr. Wilcox expects to be called east within a short time, to consult on business matters connected with the new process.

STUDENT AUTHORS WILL GET PRIZES

Harpers Opens $1000 Prize Contest to Uncover College Literary Talent

Undergraduate students of American colleges will be awarded $1000 in prizes in a literary contest just announced by Harpers Magazine, according to literature received here. The money will be divided into three prizes of $500, $300 and $200, to be awarded to the efforts of students after being judged by Henry Seidel Canby, editor of the Saturday Review; Elmer Wylie, author of "The Orphan Angel" and William McFee, author of "Command," "Casuals of the Sea", etc.

Last year representatives of 84 colleges and universities of the United States participated in the contest; first prize for which went to Archer Winsten, Princeton. Second prize went to Mary Lispenard Cooper, Vassar and third prize to Walter D. Edmunds, Jr., of Harvard. The writings must be in English prose, and must be submitted to the magazine not later than midnight, March 6.

The contribution which wins first prize will be published in Harpers magazine, and the magazine also reserves the right to publish the manuscripts of the second and third prize winners, and to purchase for publication other manuscripts in the competition at regular rates. It is the purpose of this House of Harper to establish a relationship with the winners of these prizes and with other competitors whose work shows unusual promise, so as to be of all possible help and encouragement in their future development.

There could be no better people to make a final choice of the prize-winners than the three chosen by the publishers of Harpers magazine, wrote Dr. George Morey Miller, head of the English department here. Doctor Miller recommended that every student submit manuscripts in this contest, as acceptance of a piece of prose by Harpers means much to the young writer.
