Was any worthwhile thing in life ever held so cheap? As friendship from a man who leaves a scar? Except himself? Was ever heartache felt so severe and deep, As when disappointment is felt in such a one?

Does any thing ever rend the human soul? More completely, more severe, or leave a scar? More deep and lasting? Does anything ever exact a heavier toll Than misjudged friendship which has missed afar? A. T. B.

HOME ECONOMICS CLUB TO BANQUET

The third annual banquet of the university home economics club will be held next Saturday in honor of the members of the North Idaho Economics association, meeting here at that date, according to an announcement by Bernice Suppiger, president.

The banquet, which is formal, is the main social event of the year on the calendar of the club. Miss Marion Hepworth, state home demonstration leader, is to be toastmistress. The program has not been announced as yet.

TRADITIONS AT IDAHO

This is the eighth of a series of articles detailing Idaho traditions. Additional ones will appear in The Argonaut from time to time.—The Editor.

The schedule of events for the Hulme fight was planned by Edward M. Hulme, formerly dean of the college of letters and science at the University of Idaho, and put into practice the fall of 1915. In previous years

It was customary to have the fight between the sophomores and the freshmen on St. Patrick's day, and it was reputed to be a real rough party for the participants. Talbot Jennings, as president of a freshman class several years ago, could relate stories of the monotonous hazing that took place in these encounters, for he, in the year of his presidency, was a sufferer due to over exertion in the episode.

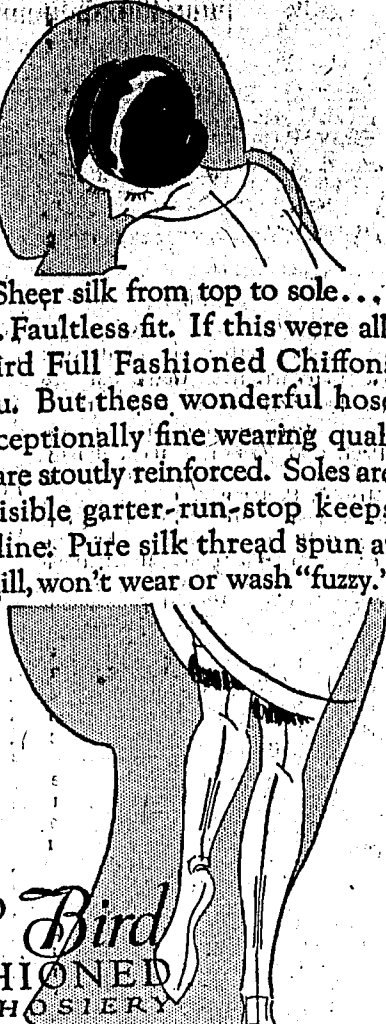

The faculty of the university took exception to such strenuous tactics, so Dean Hulme contributed to an Idaho tradition by promulgating a plan of organized fighting to take place between the two classes the first Saturday afternoon after registration in the fall. The plan eliminated mob activities, and the serious class hostilities that had usually developed in such battles. It introduced system in the combat and made leadership and skill factors that determined success or defeat.

The fight, under Edward M. Hulme's plan, consisted of boxing, bouts, wrestling matches, a tug-of-war, and other systematic contests. Points are awarded for the winning of each event, which makes it possible to definitely determine which is the victorious class. In case the freshmen are defeated they must wear the green caps until Christmas, and again from St. Patrick's day until the closing of school in the spring. If they are successful they may discard the caps with the beginning of the Thanksgiving holidays until St. Patrick's day.

Professor Hulme left the University of Idaho in 1921 to accept a professorship at Stanford university. He is still at that institution, and a few years ago he was voted by the students of Stanford to be one of the most popular professors on the campus. At Idaho he was very popular. Students liked his classes and his lectures. It was while teaching in the Gem state university that he wrote his notable medieval history—that is being used at Idaho as a text. In addition to these greater achievements he has gone down in the annals of Idaho history as a contributor to one of the most laudable traditions of the university.

Fairy-like fabric.... Sheer silk from top to sole.... Ravishing shades.... Faultless fit. If this were all, No. 60 Humming Bird Full Fashioned Chiffons would appeal to you. But these wonderful hose have, in addition, exceptionally fine wearing qualities. Heels and toes are stoutly reinforced. Soles are double silk. An invisible gutter-run-stop keeps runners above hem line. Pure silk thread spun at the Humming Bird Mill, won't wear or wash "fuzzy."

THE PEP BAND

THE PEP band has returned triumphant, from its first standard concert tour. The tour was triumphant both in regard to its reception by south Idaho audiences and the financial status it holds as a result of the tour. Not only should Prof. David Nyvall, Jr., conductor and Paul Atwood, student manager, receive the commendation of the students, but every member of the band and Miss Jennie F. W. Johnson, whose solo work attracted widespread attention, are deserving.

The pep band went on a mission of friendship. It carried with it the spirit of the university. It went over again the paths cut by Idaho students and other friends. It made stronger the bonds that tie the north to the south. And for this reason it has accomplished much.

It convinced Idahoans of the south that the university is doing things in a big way musically. It showed them that it can produce, from a crew of green material a finished product of which any institution could be proud. It accomplished what every Idaho supporter should incorporate into his creed. And for that Idaho students should be free with their praises.

CLEAN SPORT

REFEREE Bobbie Morris who officiated at the Vandal-Aggie basketball game last night made a decided move in the direction of sportsmanship. He ordered a player off the floor for what he considered unsportsmanlike-like playing.

If every official in every branch of intercollegiate athletic competition went that far, college sport, at least, would be kept clean and the rules of the game would be followed by every player.

It doesn't matter so much if the player last night was not playing according to code. The incident will be forgotten in a day. The thing that does matter, however, is the fact that Mr. Morris has shown himself to be unalterably opposed to anything which does not make for adherence to the rules of the game. If every official took Morris' action as a precedent, to be observed all our athletes would be purged of one of the things, which will go farther, to kill them than anything else in the world.

THE COFFEE HOUSE

By Edwin Rule

The football tramps' fires rage, The grid deth glow with heat; The howl of the pep band, Are heard, "Repeat! Repeat!" A mighty play indeed. And then A muddy moleskin, gory too, Plops down amidst the sory "go." Ten thousand fans are on their feet, Acrazed they wait and bet.

While in the hall across the way, They're waiting, waiting yet. The crowd that never comes to see Debate's substantial self. Get down from off the shelf, Honor to honor due. Hath not debate an honor too?

The Coffee House, which functioned for a month the first semester, has raised its mortgage, and will be pouring. The House is replenished with a store of fresh Brazilian coffee with a high degree of bitterness. It is said that the drink either produces a state of coma, or arouses feeling akin to savagery. As a matter of fact, pure Brazilian coffee is used at times in its native country as a liquor. May it preserve its potency here, though expediently diluted in this column.

Diluted or pure, the beverage, we cannot help but observe that the Idaho gym, which is the most substantial and spacious structure of its kind between Viola and Genesee, accommodating as it does, at least one-hundredth of the student-casements the other night in witness of an athletic contest; while our auditorium held but a solemn handful in attendance on the forensic fray with W. S.

C. Be It known that the Congar

C. Be it known that the Congar tongue is as pointed as are its claws, and our own Vanilals know how to play to the gods from the debate platform.

Idaho has the best squad of debaters she has presented in the college era, yet some can testify to this indubitable fact save an interested few. Any jaunter will tell one that there is little work to do after a debate gathering. There is no tax on ideas except the one on the mentality. Is the burden too grievous for Idaho men and women?

President Upham, on his return from an extended European tour, observed that "students are pretty much the same the world over"; and that even at Oxford, where the sons of men go forth to parliament, forensic meets are pitifully attended. If some patron of the Coffee House will contribute to this column his explanation of this shying from debates, his article, in brief, may receive publication.

What is the magnet which draws student crowds? Will the God Pan with his required sacrifice of burnt hearts, and flowing gore! Is the privilege, of whopping and yelling the deciding influence? May not a human interest subject well delivered, if not brilliantly so, flame the spark of attention? It seems that a dance of spears could not be more exclusive than one debates. If one hears the wall, "unclean, unclean," it is his privilege to withdraw. But very few have ever come close enough to listen. If debate is diseased, we want to know in what respect. How many of us have said, "Debate is dry," when we have never raised the cup.

WANDALS RALLY TO DEFEAT HUSKIES

Brilliant Playing in Last Minutes Gives Idaho Victory.

Idaho Vandal quintet stopped the Washington Huskies here Friday night, 23 to 24 by brilliant playing in the last minutes of the game. The last minute of play breaking a Vandalis spurred for three points in 20 to 20 tie.

Washington took the lead at the opening of the game scoring eight points by clever, fast floor work, and ability to hit the basket; before Idaho started the hoop. The Vandals then found their rally and gathered in ten counters before the half while Washington raised its score by eight, giving the lead of a 16-10 score at the half.

Jacoby started the scoring in the second period with a free throw on Dalquest's foul, Idaho then took the floor with a brilliant and bewildering attack, making two field goals, and Canine and Burgher each one, and two free throws by Burgher. This gave Idaho a two point lead over Washington's 18. Schuss dropped the ball through the basket to tie the score at 20 after Idaho had been holding the ball two minutes. In the minute and a half left to play, Jacoby broke through the Husky defense for a basket, and a free throw by Burgher gave Idaho 23 points at the sound of the gun.

Washington tried hard several times to break up Idaho's rally, or stage a counter rally themselves, but were unable to succeed in each attempt. The Husky team was reorganized and freshened by substitutes, but to no avail. The new combinations were likewise unable to check the Herculean Vandal attack.

"Lief" Erickson, regular Vandal center, sat on the sidelines, being unable to play because of a badly injured leg. "Lief" sustained a bad bruise in the Gonzaga game Saturday night before.

BAND IS POPULAR IN SOUTH IDAHO

Collegians and Miss Johnson Are Well Received on Tour

The Pop band returned Monday morning from a most successful tour of Southern Idaho. The band left Moscow February 2. First concerts were given at Weiser and Nampa to large audiences. Saturday morning, February 5, the band played at the State House, in Boise. They were welcomed by a group of Idaho alumni. The legislators were an appreciative audience, and they encored Idaho songs again and again. In the afternoon the musicians played at the Veterans' hospital.

At Pocatello concerts were given at the high school and at the Pocatello Institute to capacity houses. The next concert was given at Idaho Falls. Mr. Joseph Morley, an enthusiastic Idaho booster, headed the welcoming delegation that turned out a large attendance. At Rexburg the collegians played before an audience of 200 people in the Tabernacle of the Latter Day Saints. The band was also well received at Rich's college. Two concerts were given at Blackfoot. The Kiwanis Club entertained the members of the band at a special luncheon.

Welcomes Band

Rightly turned out to welcome the band at the railroad station. By special arrangement with the railroad company the train was held over for 15 minutes while the band played to the assembled crowd. After the concert at Idaho Falls, the Shelley Post of the American Legion entertained the members at a dance given at the Windermere Dancing pavilion. At Rupert a special matinee concert was given to the grade school children. Miss Jennie Johnson sang some funny songs and was easily the hit of the show.

See Shoshone Falls

Twin Falls turned out a large audience. The members travelled from Twin Falls to Butte in cars furnished by Idaho alumni. They made a side trip to view Hansen Bridge and Shoshone Falls. Mr. and Mrs. Peavey gave them a reception in their honor. The last concert as given at Bliss to a fair-sized audience. The railroad company furnished a special car from Bliss to Moscow. This eliminated two changes of cars that would have been made otherwise.

Twice the collegians broadcasted over radio. At Boise they played over the high school station, KPAU, and at Pocatello they gave a dinner concert over station KSEI.

Program Attractive

Throughout the whole trip the band was well received. Miss Jennie Johnson's singing added materially to the programs. The ability of the band to play difficult classical numbers as well as the popular music was a source of wonder to numbers of people. Such a change of pace was totally unexpected, and it was this variety of selections that made the program good.

Idaho songs were popular everywhere. Outstanding favorite numbers are difficult to pick, but according to Kewpie Atwood "The Song of the Volga Boatman" and "The Blue Danube Waltz" were encored more times than any other numbers on the program.

Dancing Program Committees Named

Both groups also entertained for their guests, Pi Beta Phi receiving for Mrs. Dalbert Oberbauer, of Eugene, Oregon, visiting province president, and Kappa Alpha Theta honoring Mrs. Inez Kall, its house mother.

During the afternoon and evening over 800 visitors, students, faculty and townspeople were shown through the living rooms, studies and dormitories of both houses. ### PRO BALL TALKED BY FORMER STAR

Professional Grid Players Fight for Victories, Says Ray Stephens

Professional football players play just as hard to win as any college group and the rivalry is just as keen, even though the collegiate atmosphere and background is absent, according to Ray Stephens, former University of Idaho gridiron star, who played center with George Wilson's Wildcats during the season just finished. In this statement Stephens agreed with the opinion often expressed by Houston Stockton and Ray Flaherty, former Gonzaga university stars who have been outstanding in professional football also.

"All this talk about the pay check being the paramount issue is 'bull,' Stephens declares. "Of course, professional football players are anxious to obtain the best salary they can, but the linemen charge as hard as they can, backfield players are just as anxious to make yardage and when a player goes after a tackle it is with the intention of stopping the runner. I found that the game is just as interesting as it was in college."

Play Fair and Hard

When asked about rough playing, Stephens declared "professional players play to win and they play hard, but they play fair. As far as the question of actual physical contact is concerned, I believe the professional game is harder than the college sport."

"But there is an unwritten law against clipping. Of course, clipping is a violation of the rules and there is a penalty against it, but this penalty does not completely stop college players from clipping, one of the most dangerous things in football. But a player who clips has no standing in professional football. The players themselves soon see to it that a 'clipp' is driven from the game."

Discipline Pro Players

"There was a certain player with our team early last fall who was ree playing with a team there when he was here. He went to California and we came west during the holidays. He felt some resentment toward us because he had been ree in the first quarter attempted to clip one of our players. Needless to say, this 'clipp' didn't start the second quarter nor get into the game any more than day."

The discipline of professional teams is strict, Stephens declares. Players are fined for falling to report for practice and for being late or other infractions of training rules. But the players generally are on the job and few fines are necessary he said.

"I intend to play again next fall, although I do not know what team," Stephens added. —Spokesman-Review.

"Y" SECURES 196 STUDENT JOBS

Davidson Helps Collegians Find Work and Rooms

One hundred ninety six students secured employment through the Y. M. C. A. employment office, according to a survey of the first semester's activities of the Y. M. C. A. by Bob Davidson, general secretary. Rooms for 176 students were secured in Moscow homes.

Other activities include the visit of Gilbert Lowell, vocational guide expert, who interviewed 29 students on the choice of an occupation. Through the efforts of the "Y." Weyman Huckabee, travelling secretary of the student volunteer movement, was brought to the campus. He interviewed students who plan to enter the missionary field and addressed 250 people at the first inter-church council meeting at the christian church. A service sheet, on which was listed the various activities connected with religious work, such as Sunday school teachers, boy scout leaders, members of the choir, etc. was signed by 150 freshman students. The sheets were turned over to the denominational leaders for their use.

- VII Saxophone Quartette
- VIII El Capitan.....Souza
- In a Little Spanish Town
- An Idaho Classic (Twelfth Street Rag)
- Sunday National Anthem March

The work of Miss Jennie F. W. Johnson, contralto soloist, in a group of classical or college selections, was well received by the tour. The group of college songs, many of which have not been presented in this style before, were great hits.

"The Idaho Classic, renamed from "The Twelfth Street Rag," which has become almost as well known in Idaho as the band itself, was one of the greatest hits on the program. This piece will be played tonight with the band grouped in a half-circle, "root-or" style.

Hockey has been made a major sport at Yale.

VANDALS OUTWIT AGGIES TO WIN

In the second half and Green converted, to bring Idaho again in the lead by one point. Graap fouled Miles and Miles converted, lengthening the lead another point. But the lead was short. Mathews, Aggie forward, dropped a field goal and the score was tied at 11. Savory fouled Burgher and the Idaho center converted to bring another one-point lead.

Hartwig, Aggie forward, fouled Glen Jacoby, who converted to enhance the lead by a point. With the score at 13 to 11 for Idaho, Mathews dropped in a field goal to tie it, 13 all. Burgher broke the tie once more with a field goal. Spath, who relieved Burr at guard, took the score into its last tie, at 15, when he looped a field goal. At this point, the Idahoans dropped back under the Orange basket, apparently to loaf. The Aggies, sensing this, broke through to force them. Savory was fouled for rushing and was taken from the game, with four personal fouls. Aase relieved him. As the 10 men were playing keep away, Jacoby broke through for a floor-length dribble and a field goal. This type of play characterized the remainder of the game. Idaho would drop back, and at the right moment, break through for a spectacular dribble or floor-length pass for a basket. The Orangemen were outwitted. Three field goals by Canine and one by Burgher during the total for Idaho. Spath took the other field goal for the Aggies.

Burgher High Scorer

Burgher, who played Erickson's old position at center, took scoring honors for the game with three field goals and two free throws for eight points. Canine trailed him for second place with three field goals. Savory led the Aggies with two field goals and a free throw for five points.

Although the score was low and the percentage game held sway, play generally was fast, the occasional brilliant dashes down the floor lending a bit of the spectacular. The clever floorwork—the carmacks of the wily MacMillan—colored the Vandals' play. Their bewildering strategy before the goal kept the Aggies racing back and forth almost aimlessly once the defense system was solved.

The summary:

The Aggies (17)	Pos.	Idaho (24)
Hartwig (3)	F	Miles (3)
Mathews (4)	F	Jacoby (2)
Savory (5)	C	Burgher (3)
Burr (0)	G	Canine (6)
Graap (2)	G	Greene (5)
Spath (3)	S
Aase (0)	S

Referee: Bobbie Morris, Seattle.
