

VANDALS POINT FOR O. S. C. GAME NEXT SATURDAY

Last Idaho Conference Battle to Be Played at Portland

DOPE FAVORS O. S. C.

Outcome Will Have Much Bearing on Idaho's Final Ranking

After a rest of two days the still undefeated Vandal team has resumed practice and begun pointing for Saturday's game with Oregon State college at Portland Saturday the last conference game on the schedule. A full squad of regulars took the field for light practice Monday evening and barring injuries in scrimmage this week the regular lineup will be in good condition for the Beaver game. No serious injuries were sustained in the Cougar game. Jacoby was given a tough jolt at the opening of third quarter and Barrett was substituted for him although Jacoby was able to walk off the field unassisted. Kershnik has recovered from the continual battering of practically the whole Cougar team and will be ready to pound the O. S. C. line.

No changes are expected in the Idaho lineup for the Portland game. However, there is a plentiful supply of reserves, most of whom saw action last Friday, from whom to pick his eleven and strengthen weak spots against the O. S. C. attack.

Coach Paul Schlessler of the Oregon Staters has been handicapped in every game by injuries to first string players but in spite of this setback has won two tough conference games and dropped a pair, by very close margins. In the opening game in which the Orangenem walloped the California Aggies 25 to 6 they lost the services of Les Avritt. His injuries kept him on the bench when U. S. C. nosed out his teammates 13 to 12 and he viewed the 20 to 6 victory of the Stanford Cardinals from the stands unable to help stem the tide. He was able to aid in the trouncing of O. S. C. administered to Washington State college October 29 but was injured again in the last half. Unless he is hurt again this week he may be in the starting lineup against Idaho, according to reports.

Maples Dangerous
Howard Maples, quarter, carries the most dangerous punch in the backfield. He is only five feet six and a half inches tall but weighs nearly 180 pounds and is fast on his feet. He ranks tenth in the Pacific coast conference scoring list with four touchdowns and three kicks for point and is making a strong bid for all coast quarter although this is but his second year of varsity experience. "Map" Whack, halfback and punter who also has injured early in the season is now in his best form. He is good at drop and place kicking as well as punting and packed the ball for a touchdown last Friday indicating that he is almost as much to be feared as Maples. Twitchell and Carl Metten, other halves also take their turns at punting. Twitchell is a regular player. Metten has been

CHENEY BEATEN BY FRESHMEN VANDALS

Rutledge, Frosh Quarter, Makes Four Touchdowns in Muddy Game

Straight football with an occasional forward pass enabled the yearling Vandals to trounce the Cheney Normal eleven 25 to 0 on MacLean field Saturday afternoon. The wet sod of the gridiron made playing slow but did not hinder the rookies from scoring in every period. Bud Rutledge playing his first game at quarter accounted for the four touchdowns made.

Rutledge Scores
Idaho scored early in the first quarter when Rutledge tore through for the first career. He scored again in the second frame. Rosenbaum, husky frosh fullback, battered the Normal line at will for good gains while Booker, Redman and Owens tore through the line and around end for many more. Although Cheney never threatened the Idaho goal Hungate and Cretchfield, two of their backs, gained ground consistently. The third period saw the mud covered Vandal quarter race 40 yards to score, and late in the fourth a short twenty yard punt from behind the Normal goal enabled the first year men to make their final touchdown.

The starting lineup follows:
Idaho
Sommercamp L.T. Cheney
Martin L.E. Volkman
Sprout L.T. Hampton
Strout L.G. Corsey
Carlson C. Fishback
Bessler R.G. Ahrdt
Hall R.T. Terrill
Swindaman R.E. Ferris
Brooker L.H. Devonish
Redman R.H. Duvall
Rosenbaum F. Hungate

RIFLE TEAM IS WORKING HARD

Idaho Shooters Prepare for National Wide Telegraphic Matches Beginning in January

The University of Idaho men's rifle team is fast developing into a very formidable aggregation of shooters. There is a larger turnout of aspirants than in previous years and included in this material are some expert shots. The men who had signed up for practice in this work have been turning out faithfully and have shown a great deal of enthusiasm for the sport.

Toward the last of December the squad will be cut to the maximum of 30 riflemen. These will be divided into two squads and be retained for the remainder of the year to enter into competition against opponents in nation-wide telegraphic matches. The first match has been scheduled for the opening week in January.

PEP BAND WILL LEAVE THURSDAY

Accompany Football Team To Portland for O. S. C. Game; to Play Concert

Idaho's Pep band will leave Thursday evening with the Vandal grid team for Portland, according to Eugene Beebe, student manager. The band will appear at Portland for the Idaho-Oregon State college game Saturday.

Arrangements have not been completed as yet for a public concert which will be given in Portland Friday night, Beebe said. Such a concert will be given, however, he said, although the place has not been selected. It is probable that the concert will be presented in the municipal auditorium at Portland. This concert will be broadcast from Portland, Mr. Beebe said.

It is planned that the band will play on the streets at Portland Saturday morning to stir up interest for the game. High schools of the city will not be included on the program this fall.

Twenty-two members of the band will make the trip, Mr. Beebe announced. The band will be under the direction of David Nyvall, Jr., faculty director. Sam Hutchings, student director, will have charge of the band at the game.

Members of the band who will make the trip are as follows:
Clarinet: Eugene Beebe, Tom McGonigle, Sam Hutchings and Gittins.
Trumpets: Joe Pearson, Arthur Kryger, Harry Waldon, Howard Bell and Maurice Nelson.
Trombones: Carl Hutchings, and Ray Kelly, Roland Swanson and Aldon Tall.

UPSETS FIGURED IN COAST GAMES OVER WEEK END

Greatest Upset of Season Was Santa Clara's Victory Over Stanford

STANDINGS THE SAME

Nearly All Breaks of Football Went Against California at Seattle

(By Frank E. Judy)

In the greatest upset of the season, the comparatively unknown Santa Clara football squad defeated Stanford Saturday 13 to 6. The Cardinal second team started the game and held the Saints to a 6 to 6 score until the third quarter, when the first Stanford eleven, with the exception of Captain McCreery, was rushed into the fray. It was against this team, which had conquered Washington the week previously, that the Santa Clara team forward passed to victory. This game has no bearing upon conference standings.

California, suffering from nearly all the unfavorable breaks known to football, lost to Washington 6 to 0. Barr, Blue and Gold fullback, ran 75 yards to a touchdown, only to be called back and penalized five yards in addition, because one of his teammates was off-side. The first half ended with California in possession of the ball but one inch from the goal and final gun found the Bears charging the Huskies on the Washington six-yard line. Chuck Carroll scored the touchdown for the northerners.

Oregon Outplayed
Oregon State clearly outplayed Oregon university and won 21 to 7. The all-around playing of Howard Maples, brilliant Beaver quarter, was largely responsible for his team's victory. He scored two touchdowns and his passing was responsible for the third.

The Thundering Herd of Southern California galloped over Colorado university at Los Angeles Saturday to win 46 to 7. Morely Drury, U. S. C. quarter, frequently mentioned for all-American honors, contributed three touchdowns and two conversions during the few minutes he was in the game.

Idaho and Washington State engaged in a struggle which ended in a 7 to 7 tie. The Vandal yardage was nearly three times the total gained by the W. S. C. backs but Idaho lacked the decisive punch to put over the winning touchdown. Meeker's return of punts featured the game. The lone Cougar score came when Jennie Reicher covered an Idaho fumble behind the goal line, which the Vandal touchdown, resulted from a line smash by Kershnik, early in the first quarter.

ORANGE GRID MENTOR

HISTORY'S MYTHS TOLD BY SPEAKER

T. C. Elliott, Walla Walla, Enlightens Kiwanians on Popular Beliefs

Many accepted facts in American history, which have been held as shining examples to American youth were characterized as myths and historical extravaganzas by T. C. Elliott, of Walla Walla, authority on northwest history, at the regular dinner meeting of the Kiwanis club last night. Mr. Elliott, who is a business man, through exercise of his hobby of historical research, has become one of the foremost authorities in the history of this region and has published many authenticated works as a result of his research.

Paul Revere, made immortal by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow in the poetical account of the thrilling midnight ride, is a product of the poet's imagination insofar as that famous ride is concerned, declared Mr. Elliott. Undoubtedly colonial patriots were warned of the approach of the British troops said the speaker, but historical facts now show that Mr. Revere did not make the ride, but instead one of the Warrens dashed through the countryside to call out the minutemen to defend the countryside against the red-coats.

World War I, declared Them Early in his talk Mr. Elliott deplored the possibility that the legends which surround certain historical episodes would be discarded in favor of truth, insisting that they have served an admirable function in giving children a shining example of service and of patriotism toward which to strive.

John Greenleaf Whittier, another poet, has contributed a great fabrication to the historical truth of the land. Mr. Elliott recited a portion of Whittier's "Barbara Frolic" in the poem which details an old woman's patriotic demonstration toward a column of General Jackson's troops, then marching through Fredericksburg. Mr. Elliott declared that General Jackson was not in Fredericksburg at that time, but instead was at Harper's Ferry, attempting to retake that point, which was earlier captured by John Brown.

Mr. Elliott exploded the myth surrounding the character referred to as John Brown's "Frolic" of the Republic which tells of "John Brown's body lies a moulding in the grave". This reference is not to the noted Kansas patriot but rather to a soldier in the 12th infantry in Massachusetts.

"Palouse" Not French
The word Palouse, popularly explained as being derived from the French word "palouse," meaning greensward or lawn, probably is of Indian origin. Early French writings did not contain a mention of the battle did not take place in that province, but was fought, through a prominence, over a wide space, ending near the town of Rosalia.

Mr. Elliott told of many other "vagaries of history" in his very interesting talk, including the myth that Colonel Steptoe had the services of the Indian "Timothy," and other legendary episodes which are not borne out by facts.

The speaker was introduced by Prof. C. J. Brosnan, of the history department. This afternoon he spoke to Mr. Brosnan's class in "History of the Pacific Northwest".

VANDALS OUTPLAYED COUGARS THROUGHT GAME LAST FRIDAY

Post-Mortum Facts Show 13 First Downs to W. S. C.'s Two

BURGER PUNTS

Meeker Returns Punts for a Total of 145 Yards

Although outplayed in every phase of the game, except running back punts, the Washington State college team was able to break even with the stronger Idaho eleven when a free fumble in the third quarter presented an unexpected chance to score. Jennie, right guard, fell on the ball over the goal line for a touchdown after two other frantic attempts had been made to recover it, each try showing the ball further up the field.

The Vandals scored their touchdown on a straight football in the first eight minutes of the first quarter. On the first play after W. S. C. had kicked off to Idaho Burgher slipped a surprise pass to Hutchinson that gained 15 yards and bewildered the Cougar defense.

No line bucks were attempted at this time, but after another pass had gone astray, Burgher kicked to Meeker who was stopped almost in his tracks by Chuck Diehl. On the first down, McDonald punted to midfield, Idaho gaining 15 yards on the exchange.

Kershnik Scores
Kershnik and Hutchinson then took up a march for a score cutting down the distance with line smashes that the inferior Cougar line could not stop. Kershnik went over for the score and Burgher booted the point.

The remainder of the quarter was featured by the punt returning of "Butch" Meeker. McDonald and Burgher staged a punting duel with Burgher having a slight advantage on length of kicks but W. S. C. gained ground on each exchange due to Meeker's flashy runs. Washington State college got within Idaho's 30-yard line after one of these returns and threatened to score but Idaho held for downs and punted back into Cougar territory.

As the third quarter opened, with W. S. C. still unable to gain through the line, around the end or through the air, Idaho fans settled back to await the final gun, confident of victory.

Cougars Get Break
The Cougars got a lucky break after five minutes of even play. Horan got off one of his deceptive low spiral punts that Barrett had to back up too receive. He reached it, but it was travelling fast and so

HULBERT WILL BE GRAIN JUDGE

Ag. Prof. Is Appointed to Select Best Wheat at Chicago International

Prof. H. W. Hulbert, head of the agronomy department received word Tuesday that he had been appointed as one of the judges of the International Livestock Show at Chicago held the latter part of November. The appointment came from Chicago officials of the show after the recommendation of other western agronomists who had been asked to pick a judge.

Professor Hulbert who is also coach of the grain judging team will accompany the members of the team to Chicago. They expect to leave on Friday, November 17, stopping en route at Ames Iowa to visit Iowa State college and arriving in Chicago about November 22. Professor Hulbert will judge wheat classes at the show.

GRAIN JUDGING TEAM WILL LEAVE FRIDAY

Spence, Gault and Thompson Make Trip to Chicago Exposition

Idaho's champion grain judging team will leave Moscow Friday, November 18, to enter the intercollegiate judging contest to be held at Chicago under the auspices of the International Livestock Show association. From comparative scores of the Idaho team at Portland and the past scores made by teams at Chicago, the three men representing Idaho have a very good chance for placing near the top in the contest. Grains which are of great importance in the west are receiving special attention by the team at present, according to Coach Hulbert.

The team will stop at Ames, Iowa to visit the Iowa State college and to work on grain and forage crops there. Special work will be done on corn, as Ames is in the center of the corn producing area.

The contest will be held on Saturday, November 26, with the following teams entered: University of Idaho, Ohio State college, Michigan State college, Kansas State Agricultural college, University of Illinois, Iowa State college, North Carolina State college and others.

Coach Hulbert and the team will remain in Chicago for about a week, according to their present plans. While there Professor Hulbert will take the members of the team to visit the Board of Review, which is the highest office in charge of grain grading under the United States Grain Standards Act. About three days will be spent in seeing the show and studying crop samples from other sections of the country.

Coach Hulbert will not return with the team but will visit for some time at eastern points including the Michigan State college of which he is a graduate. He will visit the State Seed show held at Malad, December 14 to 16, where he is to act as an official.

The men who will make the trip are Harry Spence, Moscow; Harry S. Gault, Buhl; and Judson Thompson, Great Falls, Mont.

DEAN ELDRIDGE HAS ALUM BOOK

Book Contains Signatures and Addresses of Alumni Dating Back Eleven Years

On the table in Dean Eldridge's office is a black leather notebook at least eleven years old. The book contains the signatures and addresses of all alumni who have come in the office to see the Dean.

The book was first started in December, 1916. On that day Dean Eldridge was entertaining R. S. Hoffman '11. Mr. Hoffman brought his bride in to be introduced to the Dean and to celebrate the occasion Dean Eldridge had Mr. Hoffman sign his name in an old notebook which happened to be handy. This was the starting and now there are several hundred names in the book and are adding up fast.

Some of the names picked at random are Burton L. French, United States Representative, Homer Hudelson, star basketball player, G. P. Mix the first graduate from the agricultural school, Allen S. McDougall one of the United States best "aces" in the world war, Bob Fitzke, star athlete in football, basketball and baseball, Wm. M. 'Bill' Snow, star center in football of the class of 1906.

The states represented in the book are Michigan, Arkansas, Washington, Idaho, Montana, Oregon, California, Utah, British Columbia, Illinois, Colorado, Massachusetts, Minnesota, New Mexico, Alaska, Ohio, New York, Arizona, Georgia and Florida. The Foreign Countries represented are Russia and India.

FIRST THREE ACT PLAY TO BE GIVEN THURSDAY, FRIDAY

"Good Gracious Annabelle," Will Have Elaborate Stage Scenery

PLAY TO BE COMEDY

Plot Centers Around Girl Who Recovers Pawned Stock Shares

The first big production of the year, "Good Gracious Annabelle", will be presented in the university auditorium Thursday and Friday nights under the direction of John H. Cushman, professor of dramatics. A cast of advanced play production people will appear in this three-act comedy, sponsored by the A. S. U. I.

Tuesday evening the play is to be given at Troy. Members of the cast will be taken to Troy in automobiles. The play is being given there as the opening presentation.

Special rates for the play here Thursday and Friday are being made to students, the price of admission being cut down in an effort to draw more students to the play. Arrangements have also been made with Dean Permeal French whereby all sophomore, junior and senior women desiring to attend the play Thursday night will be granted permission to go, it has been announced.

Finished production
"Good Gracious Annabelle" will be one of the most finished productions ever presented on the Idaho stage. Professor Cushman said Monday. Owing to the large number of advanced play production students, the presentation of a three-act play during the first semester is possible for the first time in Idaho history, he pointed out. Special stage settings and scenery have been designed for this production. An elaborate scene is being constructed for the first act, which takes place in the lobby of the St. Swithen hotel, New York city. The second scene is that of a servant's hall and the third act is laid in a lodge garden.

The plot of the play is centered around Annabelle's lack of money for three months. She is threatened by a process-server as a correspondent and therefore must hide. She and her friends escape by taking jobs as cook and servants on a Long Island country estate. Here she recovers two shares of stock, "worth millions" which she had pawned previously for a little ready cash. A good deal of comedy develops out of the two shares which are constantly changing hands. The whole play is filled with continuous humorous climaxes.

Stage Staff
Professors Prichard and Stageberg have charge of the scenery and decorations. The members of the production staff are Miss Maude Garnett, Lillian Woodworth, Dan McGrath, Pat Walker, Gordon Kershaw, Marion Fleming and Art Chapman. Music will be furnished by the university orchestra under the direction of Prof. Carl Claus.

Members of the cast are as follows: John Rawson—
A western mine owner of great

VOLLEYBALL TO BE INTRAMURAL SPORT

Series, Starting Tuesday, is Second Item on Athletic Program

An intramural volleyball series beginning tonight at 7:30 o'clock with a game between Alpha-Tau Omega and Beta Chi at the university gymnasium will be the second item on the intramural athletic program worked out by the executive board earlier this fall.

The fifteen men's groups on the campus will be divided into two leagues, eight in the "A" league and seven in the "B" league. The series will be run off on the single elimination basis, according to Bill Guernsey, manager of intramural sports. A schedule of games has been worked out and the champions of each league will play for the intramural volleyball title. Failure of teams to play will mean forfeiture in every case.

The games will be played in the gymnasium and will start promptly at 7:30 o'clock. Officials will be selected before the games by Mr. Guernsey.

The volleyball series was scheduled because it could be run off conveniently in the short time remaining before the holidays and the beginning of the basketball season. A cup will not be awarded according to present plans.

The following schedule will be followed:

"A" LEAGUE
Tuesday, November 15, Beta Chi vs. Alpha Tau Omega. Thursday, November 17, Beta Theta Pi vs. Delta Chi. November 23, Kappa Sigma vs. Lambda Chi Alpha. November 29, Tau Mem Alpha vs. Ridenbaugh hall.

"B" LEAGUE
Wednesday, November 16, Phi Gamma Delta vs. Phi Delta Theta. November 22, Sigma Alpha Epsilon vs. Sigma Chi. November 24, Sigma Nu vs. Tau Kappa Iota. Ludley hall being the old team in the league, will play one of the winners on a date yet to be arranged.

OUR LITTLE THEATRE

UNIVERSITY students do not seem to realize that plays put on at the auditorium each year are of the highest type and usually compare favorably with professional productions. Each year several plays are presented to small audiences, when these plays really warrant capacity crowds.

Much work and time is expended by Professor Cushman and others in the department as well as members of the casts to present commendable plays to the students and townspeople. Money is put out for stage scenery and costumes. All of this to play to a small audience.

To attract students to these plays the price has been reduced this year making it just as cheap to attend a play as go to a movie. Movies play here every night but it is not every night that students may witness university plays.

Thursday and Friday the first big production of the year, "Good Gracious Annabelle," a three-act comedy, will be given. The support of the students is necessary to keep these plays going.

KEPT IN THE STATE

IDAHO'S year book, the Gem of the Mountains, will be printed by an Idaho firm this year. The contract for the annual was let last week by the Gem staff to Syms-York Printing company of Boise. Idaho work should be kept in the state, for through supporting Idaho business firms the university will receive the support of the citizens.

Last year the annual was taken out of the state, being printed in Seattle. It must be admitted that some real outstanding work was done on the Gem last year by the Seattle company, but we do not know the type of work that can be done by our own companies. The engraving work will be done this year by a company in Seattle which has handled the work for several years, and is thoroughly familiar with the Gem engraving. Bids for this work were called for last spring but no Idaho firms submitted estimates.

Idaho firms are equipped now so that most of them, at least, can put out a first class job on the annual. Those in charge of letting the contracts in the future must also take into consideration that the University of Idaho is a state institution and that it is the taxpayers that foot the bills, or most of them. Therefore it is no more than right that such work as the student annual be kept in the state in the future.

OLD SAYINGS—!

TRADITIONS do not seem to mean so much on the Idaho campus any more. At least that is the impression one may get through a little observation. In years gone by these traditions were sacred to the students and if they were not lived up to, it was just too bad for the violators.

One can talk himself hoarse saying "hello" to students as he walks about on the campus, without getting more than a dozen responses. It is seldom the freshman who speaks first, but in most cases the upperclassmen. It is the job of the freshmen to recognize older students first and to greet them with a "hello". Let's see this tradition, one that takes little effort to carry out, enforced.

And another thing—there is supposed to be a tradition about freshmen wearing green caps on the campus and no one but seniors going bareheaded. It seems that there are an awful lot of men who will graduate this year. Then again, there is that one about freshmen smoking on the campus. The corn cob pipe is for first year men while on the campus. But then—we could go on indefinitely on this tradition stuff and then miss some. The idea is to declare an open season on all violators or else call the thing off entirely.

NEED MORE SPECIALIZING

STRIKING at educational methods as used in colleges of letters and science which require university students to take a number of subjects regardless of their capabilities or tendencies, Joseph Herchel Coffin of Whittier college, in an article appearing in a recent edition of the Survey, says that education is still a transfer of knowledge from the repository to an individual mind.

The educator points out that fields of concentration are still subdivided and sold logically instead of psychologically, and for progression and betterment the study of situation-technique instead of honours-technique should be stressed.

In Mr. Coffin's opening paragraph he illustrates clearly the thought which seems to signify a different and more valuable trend in educational methods. "Educators are finally becoming conscious of the rift between current educational procedure and life," says the author of the article.

"The adding machine shows that in recent years the college of letters and science in one great state university offered 1,666 courses in 49 departments of instruction—all the way from archeology to zoology with the average of 34 courses per department. Here was a row of stand pipes of knowledge of varying height which on the average carried 34 strata of information, each partitioned off from the other. The faculty prescribes pouring off standard size allotments from certain containers for all comers, while the university itself is a kind of a canning factory.

"The student is placed on an endless chain table (called a schedule of recitation and carried down the row again and again, receiving each trip a thin layer of mathematics, of composition, of French, of chemistry, in turn averaging about 15 layers per week. Two thousand, one hundred and sixty such layers constitute the standard degree of fullness (the bachelor's degree) and the student is sealed up in bond and shipped with his education". Such is the illustration as used by the Whittier college educator.

"The dead hand of the past lies heavy on our institutions", recently said President Henry Noble McCracken of Vassar. "The preeminence of Latin survives from trivium, and the preeminence of mathematics is our inheritance from the quadrivium of the middle ages," he concluded.

It seems that through a more specialized course for students it would be possible to turn out men and women better equipped for their life's work. It is true that some people come to university with knowing what they intend to do, but again there are many who are already decided and the required subjects listed for graduation often are entirely aside from the course desired.—G. CONCERNING LIGHTS
"Twas the night of the Athletic,
When all were dressed,
In each other's formalis,
Or their own Sunday's best.

All the jewels were hung
On the co-eds with care,
In hopes that their Dazle
some fan would ensnare.
George Greene in the grand march
Gallantly led us,
While on his right arm,
Leaned Miss Norma Geddes.

A great "I" in the center
Threw lights of much power,
And around it did march
Each lovely girl flower.
When all of a sudden
There arose such a clatter,
We ran to the center,
To see what was the matter,

And there marching past,
The great center light,
Was each strutting co-ed
But oh! such a sight!
Each gown was transparent,
And how the men stared,
For it was plain to see
They had come unprepared.

And here is the moral
In case you don't know,
The only dim dances
Are on fraternity row.

EDITOR RESIGNS; MAGAZINE SLAMMED

"Orange Owl" Said to Have "Dirty" Jokes

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis, Nov. 14—(PIP)—Dallas "Din-ly" Moore, editor of the Orange Owl, student magazine, and president of Hammer and Coffin, national humor fraternity, resigned as head of both organizations, climaxing a wave of excitement regarding the content of the homecoming issue of the Owl.

The trouble, which began last week, reached a fever pitch the latter part of the week when complaints were made to the authorities claiming that several jokes published were on the "border-line" and hinted somewhat of obscenity. The 1200 copies of the Owl placed on sale at the homecoming game were immediately sold and the remainder were sold at a premium.

Student opinion is that Moore should not be held entirely responsible for the contents of the publication as it was "oked" by a member of the faculty before being printed. College authorities have as yet taken no definite action and are not expected to do so after steps were taken by students to handle the situation themselves.

HEIGHT-LIGHTS
There was a man at Idaho
And he was very bright,
He dated every pretty girl
That was not quite his height.

And after he had kissed them all
He thought them dull, tame, things,
He wed a girl, just eight feet high—
To make life interesting.

TO PRIMEVAL DATES
When I was a monkey a-swing in a tree,
And you owned a baboon's name,
Naught had we heard of the powder puff.

But you loved me just the same;
Whether my nose was shiny—
My hair not curled a bit,
You sed to line up the ages,
And make me think I was "it."

Now that we've evolved, beloved,
Along with the rest of the race;
I have to use all this cosmetic stuff,
In beautifying my face.
I am a slave to the powder puff,
Tho doing as all the rest do,
I admit I cater to lipstick and rouge,
Soliciting praises from you.

So turn back ye historical pages,
Rest for a space, oh, time;
Transport me back to those happy hours,
Back to that sunny clime
When I was a monkey a-swing in a tree,
And you owned a baboon's name,
For whether my nose was shiny or not,
You loved me just the same.

COOLIDGE IS FOR SPIRITUAL ACTS

New York World Advises President To Seek A Chair At Smith

"Our colleges," said the profound Calvin Coolidge, at the dedication of the South Dakota state university library, "will fall in their duty to their students unless they are able to inspire them with a broader understanding of the spiritual meaning of science, literature, and of arts."

To which the irreverent F. P. A. of the New York World, adds, "What is the spiritual meaning of science, literature, and the arts? If the president wants a job when and if he emerges from the White House, why not take the Chair of Spiritual Meaning at his alma mater, Amherst? Or, if he wants to go back home, at Smith?" —Exchange.

Idaho Men Sport New Styles, Suit Marx The College Man

It has long been conceded that Idaho's men dress well. The new styles for the collecian this fall have caused no falling off of evidence to support this gratifying reputation. Many are the opinions of style and color for every piece of masculine attire, but the one accepted as "The" thing is that which is being worn most on the Idaho campus.

His suit Marx the man, if one may believe the Saturday Evening Post. The three button sack jacket, which has been so popular for the past year, still holds sway. The color may be the new and dressy Oxford gray, or the lighter striped grays and browns bearing a faint stripe.

A large range of popular patterns and weaves characterizes this fall's topcoat. The colors are light tans and grays, broken by broad pattern stripes. The only necessities in cut appear to be that the coat be single breasted and that it terminate half way between the knees and the heels. The raglan sleeve is struggling for a popularity which it has not as yet attained. The most stylish of overcoat is the dark gray or blue of the same cut as the topcoat, but the rather formal velvet neck collar, which looks so well on this coat, is too extreme to appear in large numbers.

looking. Sweaters and golf hose show less of a tendency to audibility.

The derby's persistent struggle for popularity has not met with great success here, although it is really an important part of the proper semi-formal or formal dress. The commonest type of headgear is the narrow crushed, light brown or gray, with turned up brim and a narrow band.

Shoes are giving an evidence of reaction from the broadening influence of the college atmosphere. The broad toes are disappearing, and footwear is extraordinarily plain in pattern. The predominating color is a reddish tan which blends well with afternoon or street attire. For evening dress plain, black shoes are probably more proper.

FROSH ATTEMPT TO WEAR JUNIOR CORDS

Willamette Tradition Holds After Fight

WILLAMETTE University, Nov. 14 (PIP)—The attempt on the part of the men of the freshmen class to resist punishment given by the junior class for wearing junior cords at a class skating party resulted in a general school fracas in which the freshmen were worsted after a battle lasting for about 45 minutes. Some first year men explained their action as merely a perfect natural desire to save possible wear and tear which would result from a skating party, while other opinions would seem to indicate that there was a premeditated move on the part of the freshmen to deliberately test the strength of the tradition.

Student Groups Devise Many Ingenious Signs to Welcome Homecoming Grads

Cordial greetings to returning Idaho students and cheerful prophecies anent the Idaho-W. S. C. game were predominant in campus decorations for homecoming week. Every group house participated in this feature of the preparations for welcoming former students.

Cougars in varying degrees of embonpoint, associated with Vandals of stature and with heterogeneous garb, were a favorite medium. The Sigma Nu's depicted the hunt for the cougar in a miniature forest through which strode a giant Vandal. The Kappa Alpha Theta house represented a castle with silver and gold pennants, guarded against the Cougar by two brawny Vandal knights. Pi Sigma Rho used reverse English and showed the, "Cougar Smells De Feet."

Beta Theta Pi and Phi Gamma Delta showed more advanced stages of the tale, both of them depicting the dead cougar being prepared for immediate consumption by the victorious Vandal. Beta Theta Pi had the slogan, "427-1927—History Repeats Itself!" while Phi Gamma Delta waived all conservation and extended a general invitation to a "Cougar Barbecue."

A tavern was represented by the Sigma Chi's, with a cup of generous size for a sign and a barrel conspicuously placed so as to make it known that adequate liquid refreshments was assured all who accepted their hospitality. The barrel contained cider, they said. A horse and hayrack contributed to the pastoral note. A "welcome" sign and an invitation to returning Vandals were effectively carried out in white stones against the green background of the lawn.

A unique welcome was devised by the Delta Chi's, who raised a crop of diminutive mountains over night, decorated with tiny evergreens and an Indian figure. The slogan read, "Edaho's Welcome to You."

The old Vandal fight was the keynote for Kappa Sigma, Alpha Tau Omega, Phi Delta Theta, Lambda Chi Alpha Lindley hall and Beta Chi. From his high point of perspective on the top of the Kappa Sigma house a gaily dressed Vandal knight remarked, "W. S. C. looks easy to me!" Alpha Tau Omega showed a typical football scene, Phi Delta Theta prophesied some clever kicking, their medium being a two-stage electric sign showing ball and football player in repose, particularly W. S. C. hopes and substantiated their statement by a wrecked automobile.

Delta Gamma was right up to date, it's porch representing a service station, with the invitation to all Idaho visitors to help themselves.

Kappa Kappa Gamma expressed hope for victory by means of a large wishbone arch bearing a number of electric lights. Pi Beta Phi presented a rooster crowing a greeting. Alpha Chi Omega combined the colors of Idaho and W. S. C. The Sigma Alpha Epsilon house was decked in the fraternity colors. Ridenbaugh, Forney and Hays halls, Omega Alpha, Tau Kappa Iota and Gamma Phi Beta all had greetings, most of them using Idaho colors or letters.

FACULTY MEMBERS JUDGE CONTEST

Alpha Chi Omega and Stinson hall of Washington State college were adjudged the winners of a group song contest held Thursday morning, November 10, at Pullman under the auspices of the W. S. C. music department. Prof. Theodora Kraft, Miss Jennie F. W. Johnson and Miss Maude Garnett of the Idaho music faculty were the judges.

The contestants were groups representing the various houses on the campus. The songs sung in the contest were their own fraternity, sorority and college songs. Each organization was led by a student leader.

A similar contest will be held at Idaho in the near future, according to Professor Kraft. Members of the music faculty at W. S. C. will judge the Idaho contest.

MOSCOW AIRPORT MAY BE POSSIBLE

Fairgrounds Being Considered as Site for Landing Field

Possibility of building a landing field for the University of Idaho and the city of Moscow, on the Latah county fair grounds, next year is being considered by university officials working in conjunction with the Moscow chamber of commerce members.

The recent addition to the college of engineering curriculum of aerodynamics in connection with junior and senior work in mechanical engineering, and possibility of expanding the courses in coming years, makes possibility of the field valuable for testing work. If the field is established it would facilitate the establishment of a regular course in aeronautics.

Wednesday, Dean Francis A. Thomson of school of mines, the president of the Idaho chamber of commerce and two members, flew down from Spokane by air in company with N. (Nick) Mamer, as part of a publicity stunt to expedite creation of the field here. Mamer looked over a number of likely sites for a landing field in Moscow and was particularly well pleased with sites just west of the city. Major Francis R. Fuller, returned to Spokane Wednesday afternoon with Mamer.

Proximity of the proposed airport will induce a large number of prominent people to visit the Idaho campus, it is believed due to the rapid development of commercial passenger flying. Mamer has a plan for establishment of a Boise-Spokane route, which trip he believes can be made within three hours and at a price at least on par with the rail rate plus Pullman fare.

Mamer flew a six-passenger Buhl Air Sedan to Moscow, powered with a Wright Whirlwind motor, similar to that used by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh on his historic trans-oceanic flight.

nursing a broken nose since the first of November and did not get into the last game. Carl Gilmore, full-back has one year of varsity experience but didn't play enough to get a letter last year.

The two ends on the line O. S. C. has two dependable veterans in Johnny Logan (captain) and Ole Robbins. Both two letter men playing their last conference game.

Idaho's two heavy tackles will for the first time this season meet their match in weight when they go up against Schell, 220, and Kent, 205. Schell is one inch taller than "Giz" Butch, the Oregon State man being six feet and five inches long. Clara Badley, 184, a two letter man and Vern Eilers, 197, who holds one letter hold down the guard positions flanking a new center, Bob Geddes who scales 178.

On a comparison of scores this season O. S. C. has the edge on the Vandals. Idaho's scoreless tie with Oregon was offset by the Orangemen to the tune of 21 to 7 Armistice day.

TO STOP SCALPING FOOTBALL TICKETS

Stop High Prices For Stanford-California Tickets

Berkeley, Nov. 14—The most drastic step ever taken to curb the scalping of football tickets was announced here today by the Associated Students of the University of California, who have determined to take court action against persons apprehended selling Stanford-California Big Game tickets for more than their face value.

Operatives will be employed to secure sufficient evidence to prosecute under the Federal internal revenue laws. Conviction carries a penalty of fine or imprisonment or both.

Last year evidence was collected which resulted in placing on the blacklist a number of original recipients of California-Stanford tickets, but as no tickets were actually bought, the scalpers themselves were not prosecuted. This year the persons to whom the tickets were first issued will not only be penalized by denying them the right to apply for tickets in the future, but the individuals who scalp the Big Game tickets will be invited to explain in federal court.

BLUE KEY ALUMS GIVEN LUNCHEON

Five Alumni Entertained by Honorary Fraternity Saturday; Five Talks.

Members of Blue Key, national honorary upperclassmen's service fraternity, entertained five alumni at its annual homecoming alumni luncheon Saturday noon at the Blue Bucket Inn. The fraternity has been functioning on the campus here two years, during that time handling many campus projects.

Alumni present at the luncheon were John McKurray, Herbert Taylor, Jesse Buchanan, Max Hardwick and Ted Turner. Each alumnus gave a short talk at the luncheon. Dean Ivan C. Crawford, faculty member, also gave a talk in which he said that Idaho compared favorably with the University of Colorado, his alma mater, where he recently visited.

Work of arranging for homecoming here was handled this year by Blue Key. Decoration of the campus, publication of a program covering all events during homecoming and several other matters were taken care of by the fraternity.

was he. The ball bounced away from him and, before he could recover, he was blocked away by a Cougar linebacker while another W. S. C. man fell on it. The ball bounced away from him toward the Idaho goal and after the pile of players had been lifted out of the middle. It was discovered that Jenne had possession of the pigskin just over the last white line. The Washington State stands went wild at their unexpected good fortune, but were hushed as Butch Meeker came back and wiped off his shoes and hands for the kick for point. The Cougar line held, the ball was passed perfectly and Butch lifted the ball squarely between the bars and the score was tied. Thus it remained to the end of the last quarter. The Vandals threatened twice more but were held down on the Cougar's 18-yard line once and on the 30-yard line the second time.

VANDAL VIMS

(By Cedric d'Easum)

Break, Break, Break—etc. said some poet many years ago. If he could only have seen the game at Pullman last Friday! There was only one real break but that was enough to bring W. S. C. from the depths of defeat to an even footing with the chagrined Vandals. It is to be hoped that they realize their good luck. On the basis of actual facts they could hardly claim to have a team on a par with Idaho.

When W. S. C. had picked up the score thrown at them and Butch had tied the score, fans began to recall a game two years ago in which Idaho had the big break. A blocked punt was picked up by Neal Nelson who ran a couple of blocks or so for a touchdown. Idaho won that game 7 to 6 after W. S. C. had earned her touchdown on real football.

On Idaho's first punt Friday afternoon Meeker was nailed in his tracks by Diehl. It looked as though the little fellow would not make his usual flashy little dashes but on the next change of punts he came back 19 yards through a broken field. He slipped past tacklers as though charmed and when he was finally downed by an avalanche of silver and gold men that seemed to smash him to pieces he would come up like a rubber doll as lively as ever. They just couldn't hurt him.

Horan did some unexpected punting. McDonald was rated as the Cougar's best kicker and Horan was not expected to accomplish much with his feet but he booted some long low kicks that were hard to handle and dangerous to touch. Both Jacoby and Barret made some remarkable catches. Often going back and taking the ball over their shoulders. Meeker, on the other hand, played safe on his punts. When he had a good chance to catch them he took it, but when it was difficult he just let 'em roll and waited until the referee figured out what to do about it.

Unfortunately breaks will come to the best of teams. They just can't be helped. All we can do now is let the dead past bury its dead and turn to the next struggle of the Vandals which is with Oregon State college at Portland next Saturday.

This game too will be a big test for the Idaho eleven. With a record of three ties in six games played, the Vandals go up against a team that defeated W. S. C. 13 to 6 on a muddy field and which won from Oregon Armistice day 21 to 7. Oregon tied with Idaho early in the season.

Maples, Beaver quarter will be a tough nut to crack. Against Oregon he scored two touchdowns, converted all three points after touchdowns and covered himself with glory by running 60 yards for one of his scores.

It was he who beat Idaho last year in the memorable 8 to 0 battle. In the last quarter he intercepted a pass and

GRIFFIN TALKS TO LAW SCHOOL

Secretary of State Bar Explains Idaho Organization

The college of law was addressed recently by Sam P. Griffin, secretary of the Idaho State Bar. Mr. Griffin explained the organization was unique among the bar associations of the country.

It is able to render adequate service to the people of the state by more effectively eliminating from the practice those who are unfit to continue as attorneys and by more effectively checking the qualifications of those seeking admission to the bar. A very careful check is made upon attorneys seeking admission from other states, Mr. Griffin said, and frequently investigation has disclosed that the person is unfit to practice in the state and the privilege has been denied.

Mr. Griffin explained that the association has heretofore been chiefly concerned with admissions and discipline, yet it is now seeking to extend its activities into other fields so that the administration of justice may be made more effective in the state.

U. OF W. FIRST IN DISTANCE RUN

Kiser, Washington Runner, Finished Cross Country Race at Pullman First

Unkept, unhonored and almost unnoticed, 26 men, representing Oregon, Washington, Montana, Idaho and W. S. C., left the cluder path and disappeared over the hill in the intercollegiate cross country meet between halves of the homecoming game, Friday afternoon at Pullman.

Kiser, University of Washington, drove into sight first and crossed the line with much room to spare. Elsonsohn, W. S. C. placed second, Cran, U. of W. third and Hall of W. S. C. fourth. Davis, Montana; Martin, Montana; Taylor, W. S. C.; Selmon, U. of W.; Reed, U. of W. and Chisholm, Idaho; crossed the line in the order named.

Five men were entered by each school. Points were distributed as follows, low score winning: Washington, 35; W. S. C. 43; Montana 50, and Idaho 51. The time for the course was 12:54.5.

The course was muddy and slippery, making speed impossible, but the runners made good time considering the condition of the course, it was announced.

main seed entries from Idaho will include red clover, alfalfa, corn and potatoes. In the past Idaho seed has won many of the prizes offered at the Chicago fair.

The entries will be brought back from Chicago and entered in the state seed show held at Malad December 14, 15 and 16.
