

TAU MEM ALEPH IS WINNER OF DEBATE CUP

George Ross and Orville Baird Represent Town Group

FORNEY HALL LOSES

Big Audience Hears Final Intramural Debate Tuesday Evening

Tau Mem Aleph, represented by George Ross and Orville Baird, defeated Forney hall, whose debaters were Georgia Hall and Henrietta Paroz, in the final intramural debate held last Tuesday evening.

A cup, now in the possession of Hays hall, won by Ridenbaugh last year, will be awarded the town group at the next general A. S. U. I. assembly to be held December 7 when all awards will be made. The cup will be held by Tau Mem Aleph for a year.

The question, "Resolved: That Advertising is Playing too Large a Part in National Life" was upheld affirmatively by the town men, negatively by the Forney hall representatives.

Prof. T. S. Kerr, Prof. H. Carter Davidson and Warren J. Montgomery were judges of the final debate. A capacity audience was present.

This year's debate season has been one of the most successful yet held, according to Maurice Nelson, manager. Increased interest in debate and in campus problems was apparent in the large number of auditors at the debates. All groups took part in the series this fall and there was not a single default.

The debates began early in October this year. The semi-finals were held November 18, Thursday, when Forney hall won from Beta Theta Pi, represented by John Patric and James Allen on the question, "Resolved: That an A. S. U. I. Bookstore be Established."

Tau Mem Aleph eliminated Clara Collier and Warren Steffenson, for Delta Chi, on the question, "Resolved: That the Oxford System of Education be Adopted by American Universities."

The local chapter of Delta Sigma Rho, honorary forensic fraternity, sponsors the intramural debates.

NEW MOTOR LAW EFFECTIVE HERE

Uniform Motor Vehicle Anti-theft Ordinance in Effect January 1

More than 50 Idaho students owning and operating automobiles in Moscow will be effected by the new uniform motor vehicle anti-theft law which goes into effect January 1, 1928.

The act which passed at the last session of the state legislature, requires every person who licenses an automobile to be able to present proof of ownership when required to do so. The new law provides that every time a car is bought or sold the transaction must be reported on an application blank to the county auditor. When the proper blanks have been sent to Boise a certificate of ownership corresponding to a deed on real estate will be returned to the applicant. By checking these certificates, dealers in used cars and police can eliminate a great deal of loss due to theft.

About December 1, everyone who has registered a car this year will receive a letter from the department of law enforcement at Boise, a copy of the law and application blanks. The application should be filled out and presented to the county assessor at the time application is made for 1928 licenses.

More than half of the states in the United States have laws similar to this one, according to T. H. Shrontz, assistant secretary of state who was in Moscow Monday. Students who fail to receive blanks of application should get them from any county assessor, Mr. Shrontz said.

Other new state auto provisions are that every accident in which there is personal injury, or property damage to exceed $50, must be reported to city police if within corporate limits of towns or cities, or to the department of law enforcement if outside corporate limits. It also raises the state speed limit to 35 miles per hour, and converts state and federal into through thoroughfares, on which drivers have the right of way over motorists on lesser roads.

"Problems of Wholesale Business" will be the topic of an address to be given by C. H. Soper, Spokane, to a meeting of Alpha Kappa Psi, professional business fraternity, this evening.

The meeting will be in the form of a banquet at the Moscow hotel and will be held at 6:15 o'clock.

Mr. Soper is sales manager for the McClintock-Trunkco company, wholesale grocers of Spokane.

ENGLISH EXAM FAILURES HIGH

Standards Lower This Year, But More Fall

Results of the uniform English entrance examinations taken this fall are the lowest they have been in the last three years, according to figures compiled by the English department which have been sent to the state high schools. The percentage of correctness demanded this year was even less than heretofore; in 1924 it was 66.1 percent; in 1925, 72.5 per cent; in 1926, 68 per cent; in 1927, 36.6 per cent.

This apparently worse condition cannot be accounted for merely on the theory that the examination was harder this year than it has been in former years, said Dr. George Morey Miller, head of the department.

It is possibly true that some sections of this year's test were harder than some sections of earlier tests; for example, the sentence structure test. A careful examination by the graduate class in advanced methods of technical English has proved that the spelling test was easier. In spite of this the percentage of spelling errors was greater as shown by the following figures: 1924, 13 per cent; 1925, 21 per cent; 1926, 20.6 per cent; 1927, 29.8 per cent.

In addition to sending out full details concerning the examination to all Idaho high schools, reports have been sent to those of Washington high schools sending a large number of students, Colfax, Lewis and Clark and North Central.

A report has been sent to all the educational officials in Idaho, including the commissioner of education, state superintendents and the members of the state board of regents. The reports are being distributed to all the deans of the University of Idaho.

DEAN IDDINGS IN NEW ZEALAND

College of Agriculture Head Studies Livestock on Tour

Dean and Mrs. E. J. Iddings have arrived in Wellington, New Zealand, on their round the world tour, according to letters received by officials in the college of agriculture. Their last stop before Wellington was in India, where the dean spent considerable time in studying the agricultural conditions of that country.

New Zealand, one of the largest livestock producing sections of the world, will give Dean Iddings considerable material for study. The Iddings expect to remain there for some time. This will be their last stop before leaving for San Francisco on December 8. The trip on the ocean will take about two weeks, the boat arriving in San Francisco harbor on December 23.

Upon arrival in the United States, the party will visit the experiment station at Davis California before leaving for Moscow. Another stop will be made at Corvallis, Oregon, to visit the Oregon State college and the experiment station. Dean and Mrs. Iddings expect to arrive on the campus sometime during the Christmas holidays.

TRYOUTS HELD FOR SINGERS

Number of Glee Clubs Members to Be Reduced by Tryouts

Tryouts for the regular University Glee club are being held this week and next, according to Prof. Kratt. From 40 to 60 men are to be chosen from the present number who have turned out for all glee club work.

Tryouts for the Treble Clef club will be held in two weeks. The same number of voices will be chosen for this club as for the men's. Those who do not make the glee clubs will be given an opportunity to join the Choral society. Any vacancies in the regular clubs will be filled by members of the society.

The large numbers who have taken up glee club work necessitates cutting because it is impossible to take 80 or 90 people on trips, said Professor Kratt. Whenever there is an opportunity open the Choral society will make out-of-town trips.

The two glee clubs made their first public appearance at the musical assembly Wednesday.

Professor Kratt recently received an invitation from station K G A, Spokane, for the girls glee club to give a radio concert soon. The invitation has not been accepted yet.

The Wisconsin University extension division is offering a training course for policemen this semester.

GONZAGA BEATS VANDALS 13 TO 0 IN LAST GAME

Underrated Bulldogs Take Game From Undeclared Vandals

HUNTING WAS STAR

Winners Take Advantage of Breaks to Make Two Touchdowns

Undeclared in seven previous games and tied for the championship of the Pacific Coast conference, the Idaho Vandals fell before the underrated Gonzaga eleven 13 to 0, Saturday afternoon at the Gonzaga Stadium, Spokane. Idaho was doped to win by at least one touchdown and the Bulldog victory was one of the most astounding upsets of the season for the Pacific coast.

Idaho made more yardage from scrimmage and more field goals than Gonzaga but lacked the driving punch that has marked her superiority in all other games and which was so evident the previous week at Portland when a last quarter drive netted the winning touchdown over O. S. C. Gonzaga went on the field determined to fight to the last yard and when the breaks favored the Spokane college they added such confidence and enthusiasm to their attack swept down the field aided by timely penalties, for two touchdowns.

Hunting Scores

Fanny Hunting quarterback of the victors, punted, passed, returned punts and skirted the ends in a flashy exhibition in his last football game for Gonzaga. He scored both touchdowns and was continually slipping around tacklers for startling broken field gains. His kicks averaged a little better than Burgher's and his punt returning was clever and netted 78 yards for his team. Hunting's ability to pass accurately and to intercept

VANDALS TURN TO BASKETBALL

Only Five Lettermen Returned; Barnstorming Trip is Planned

With the completion of Idaho's 1927 football season when the Vandals met Gonzaga at Spokane Saturday the attention of athletic followers has turned to basketball, which is attracting a full turnout for the first time this year. The Vandal hoopers are minus the services of Miles, Nedros and Lamphers who were lost to the squad through graduation, but several graduates of last year's freshman squad are likely to replace these stars.

Idaho is fortunate to have the services of Rich Fox as coach, for he is an exponent of the McMillan style of basketball which has proved so successful in the past. With five letter men Greene, Burgher, Canine, Jacoby and Dewald, as a nucleus, Coach Fox should develop a winning team. The opening conference basketball game is scheduled with Oregon State at Corvallis January 20.

A barnstorming trip is being scheduled for the Christmas holidays, which includes games in Montana with possibilities of contests in Wyoming and southern Idaho.

PROFESSOR HAS HUNTING MISHAP

Easley Accidentally Shoots Foot While Deer Hunting in Priest River Section

Howard Easley, assistant professor of psychology, suffered an injury to his right foot last Saturday afternoon when his rifle was accidentally discharged sending the bullet through his foot. The accident occurred while Mr. Easley was about three miles from the Hagaman ranch, where he was staying, when the accident happened. He stopped to rest, and while the gun was pointing at his foot the trigger was accidentally pulled. Although the foot is giving him some trouble, Mr. Easley is meeting all of his classes.

HAT GOES IN RIVER WHEN O. S. C. WINS

Bell, Venerable Mascot, is Ready for Ceremony

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis, (UPI)—Dr. J. R. N. Bell, venerable mascot and one of the most loyal supporters of Oregon State teams, is planning to throw his fedora hat into Mary's river again.

Every year that Oregon State defeats the University of Oregon in football, Dr. Bell performs this ceremony. For the first time in his long life he has had the pleasure of celebrating victory three years in succession. Last year he was unable to throw his old lemon-yellow straw hat into the river because of illness but this year he is all "hopped" up over the occasion and will have two hats ready to make up for lost time.

SPOKANE ENJOYS IDAHO MUSICIANS

Pep Band And University Orchestra Well Received During Stay in City

Idaho musicians made quite a hit in Spokane during the recent university exodus to that city. The pep band, already famous throughout the coast; played its usual style of excellent music and many favorable comments were heard concerning it. The band played in the streets Friday afternoon and Saturday morning as its part in working up enthusiasm for the football game. Friday night they broadcasted over KGA, radio broadcasting station, whose studio is located on the fourteenth floor of the Old National Bank building.

Maurice Morley sang several songs as a part of the program. A number of requests were received by telephone and telegraph for special songs.

Friday and Saturday nights an orchestra composed of Idaho students furnished the music at the Garden Hotel to meet with very favorable approval by Spokane people. The orchestra was more or less unofficial and was made up of members from several campus orchestras.

GEM CAMPAIGN STARTED TODAY

Knights and Spurs Will Canvass All Halls and Houses

The goal in the annual campaign for subscriptions for the Gem of the Mountains has been set at 1500 according to Paul Gowen, circulation manager. The campaign started this morning and will close December 20, after which it will be impossible to obtain copies of the annual. There were 1100 books sold last year and practically 200 applied for annually at the end of the year and were unable to get any. This shows the importance of subscribing now and the managers hope to attain their goal because of the added enrollment in the university. Increased interest shown in the Gem, and by means of a vigorous subscription campaign.

The campaign has been taken over by the Intercollegiate Knights and the Spurs. Elmer Bergland will have charge of the Knights and he stated that every fraternity house and both halls would be very carefully canvassed. The Spurs, under the direction of Ruth Newhouse, will take care of all sorority houses and the halls. A table will be placed in the Administration building at least part of the time for the convenience of down town students. Under this organized drive there will certainly be no excuse for anyone wishing an annual not to have one.

The price of the book is the same as last year, $4.50, $2.00 being collected now and the balance to be paid upon receipt of the book in the spring.

"Only new second semester students will have an opportunity to subscribe for the Gem of the Mountains after this drive closes; so think twice before you say no when accosted by a Knight or a Spur," said Mr. Gowen in commenting on the campaign.

STUDENT SUFFERS BROKEN WRIST

Marcellus Puts Arm Out of Train Window; Fractured When Hits Pole

While returning from Spokane on the student special Sunday night, Howard Marcellus, a sophomore in the university, suffered a fractured wrist when he held his arm out of the train window striking a telegraph pole at the side of the track.

The train was near Oakesdale, Washington when Mr. Marcellus opened the window to see if it was raining. He said as he held his hand out the window the train took a violent lurch to one side and his fore-arm struck one of the poles which supports the power line he said Monday. He was brought on to Moscow where he received medical attention. He is in the infirmary at present.

ELLIS IS BILLED FOR ASSEMBLY

Will Speak on "Legion Convention in Paris" Tomorrow

"The Legion Convention at Paris" will be the subject on which Prof. E. W. "Cap" Ellis of the school of mines will address the university assembly Wednesday morning. Professor Ellis was the Moscow post's delegate to the American Legion convention in Paris last summer.

The department of music will furnish the specialty number according to Dean F. Thomson, chairman of the public events committee. A number of requests have been received by Professor Kratt to have the glee clubs appear again.

The next assembly, December 7, will be turned over to the A. S. U. I. Football awards, the homecoming house decoration cups and the turkey run and the intramural debate awards will be given out then.

GRAIN JUDGING TEAM PLACES SIXTH, CHICAGO

Idaho Men Compete Against Ten Other Schools in Contest

THIRD IN JUDGING

Gault, High Point for Idaho, Places Eleventh Among Contestants

Idaho's student grain judging team placed sixth in the judging and identification contest held in connection with the International Livestock exposition at Chicago last Saturday. The teams placed as follows: North Carolina, Kansas, Iowa, Texas, West Virginia, Idaho, Oklahoma, Nebraska, Michigan, Illinois and Pennsylvania.

The team was sent to Chicago after the showing which it made at the Portland Pacific International Livestock show earlier in the year, where they made the highest record ever made by any school at the coast show. The Idaho entry was the only far western school at Chicago and competed with 12 other schools from the east, south and middle west.

Gault is Eleventh

Judson Thompson, Great Falls, Montana was third and Harry Gault of Buhl seventh in judging. Idaho was third in the judging division losing out on identification. Gault, who was Idaho's high man and who took individual high honors at Portland, placed eleventh in the entire contest at Chicago.

The weakness of the Idaho team was in the identification of eastern and southern crop varieties, according to Professor Hulbert's telegram. The complete and individual standings and scores have not yet been received.

The men of the team are Harry Gault, Buhl, Judson Thompson, Great Falls, Montana and Harry Spence, Moscow. The team expects to remain in Chicago a few days before starting their return trip.

INVITATIONS OUT FOR SENIOR BALL

Tickets for Annual Formal Dance, December 9, on Sale This Week

Invitations for the annual Senior Formal ball to be held at the Elks club December 9 have been mailed to approximately 250 seniors, according to the Phil Cox, general chairman for the dance. Tickets for the formal will be distributed to the group houses and halls this week to be sold.

The dance, a week from Friday night, will be the first senior party to be held in the Elks club. The ball room will be decorated, under the supervision of William Calloway, chairman of the committee. Music will be furnished by Soden's eight-piece orchestra, it was announced.

All seniors with their partners are eligible to attend the dance. Mr. Cox said, this point not having been made clear before. With tickets being placed on sale at the group houses and halls this week it is hoped to avoid a rush at the door the night of the dance, he said. Programs for the ball are on the way from the printers in Moscow.

Other committees working on the dance are headed by Mildred Perry, who is in charge of programs and invitations and Charles Gregory, who is in charge of the floor committee.

OREGON DANCES EN "LIGHT" ENED

Eugene Police Threaten to Stop Sophomore Informal Because of Colored Lights

University of Oregon (PIPA)—At the sophomore informal last Saturday night, November 19, Eugene police threatened to stop the proceeding being held in the Armory unless more lights were turned on. The lights provided were tinted to carry out the color scheme of the decorations, and there was no darkness. However, the police maintained that the general situation was too dark.

A plain clothes man stationed upstairs in the armory, upon observing the alleged lack of lights, ordered Tom Stoddard, chairman of the dance to replace the colored globe with white ones, in compliance to a city ordinance which is aimed to stop "shadow dancing."

The big glare from the bright lights spoiled the effect of the otherwise splendidly staged function. Grumbling and wondering among the dancers followed, and the rouge and powder on the feminine element, which had been applied to pierce the dimness of the dance floor lights, gave forth exceptional brilliancy in the searchlight beams.

Student and some faculty opinion expressed the idea that there was no objection on a moral ground and that there was sufficient light for respectable dancing.

WATERS OF O. S. C. POOL REPORTED PURE

OREGON STATE COLLEGE, Corvallis, (UPI)—Water in the men's and women's pool is suitable for drinking water in spite of the fact that hundreds of persons bathe in it daily, reports the bacteriology department, which has been running bacteriological tests of the water every day since the beginning of the term. The amount of free chlorine—one-tenth of one part per million—used to purify the water, is also checked by the department. The few harmless bacteria present are no more numerous than in good drinking water.

IDAHO DEBATERS TO COMPETE FOR CUP TOMORROW

Will Meet University of Montana and University of British Columbia

ONE DEBATE HERE

All Students Admitted Free; Debate Begins Promptly At 8 o'Clock

Idaho debaters will meet teams of the University and of Montana and the University of British Columbia tomorrow night to compete for the International Debate Trophy, a large silver loving cup given to the winner of two debates. In this triangular debate one Idaho team will stay at home; another will go to Missoula and a third will go to Vancouver, B. C. Last year Idaho was defeated by Canadians and this year the teams are out for revenge and victory.

Idaho, represented by Herbert Wundlerich and Dean Newhouse, will meet Montana in the university auditorium at 8 o'clock sharp. The question hinges upon two main issues: Is America a money-grabbing, selfish, imperialistic Shylock? and are Mexico, Nicaragua, and China capable of protecting our interests properly? The discussion should be extremely hot and the speaking will be sparkling with wit. The British Columbia debate of last year drew a crowd of more than 600. It is hoped that Wednesday's attendance will be even better. Vancouver will be certain to give Idaho's team of George Huber and Farnsworth Jennings a royal welcome, and Idaho should do the same for Montana.

The debate will begin promptly at 8 o'clock and will be over by 9:15. O'clock in plenty of time for students to get library books. Professor Davidson said. As the A. S. U. I. pays for the expenses of debating, all students and their friends will be admitted free of charge. All members of public speaking classes will be given extra credit for attendance.

All students will be admitted upon presentation of A. S. U. I. cards, it was announced. Music will be included on the program.

FEATURED CLUBS LAST WEDNESDAY

Glee Clubs, Pianist, Soloists and Orchestra on Assembly Program

University of Idaho glee club members, pianists, soloists and the university orchestra were featured at the Wednesday morning assembly at the university auditorium last week with Prof. Theodore Kratt, new head of the department, in charge.

Announcement was made that the first formal appearance of the music department in recital would be Thursday evening, December 1, at 8 o'clock. Selections by the glee clubs, orchestra, and solos will comprise the program.

"Dawn is Breaking" by Parlov was sung Wednesday morning by the Treble Clef club under the direction of Professor Kratt. Helen Macey, Boise, was accompanist.

Two vocal solos by Miss Agnes Ramstedt, "Try Smiling" by Watson, and "Song of Thanksgiving," by Al-Ilisen, were given. Miss Ramstedt, although not in the university, is a pupil of Miss Jennie F. W. Johnson. "Lo, Hear the Gentle Lark," Shakespeare's famous lyric set to music by Bishop, was sung by Miss Alice Ross, Boise, accompanied by G. D. Hodge, Moscow, on the flute.

"We're a Bunch of Jolly Good Fellows," by Bennett, and "Close Thine Eye," by Scott, were sung by the men's glee club.

Margaret Becker and Miss Delilah Budrow gave piano solos.

The orchestra played the processional and recessional and America, under the direction of Prof. Carl Claus.

DETAILS CHOSEN FOR GEM PRINT

Type, Borders, Designs, Paper and General Items Chosen By Young on Boise Trip

Actual work towards the printing of the Gem of the Mountains has been started, according to George Young, editor of the annual. Mr. Young made a trip to Boise during the Thanksgiving vacation and there visited Sime-York company in regard to the printing of the year book.

The type, borders, designs and paper were definitely selected, and Mr. Young, in consultation with the printers, went through the entire book and has selected practically all of the general items for the printing. The selection of these items means that work has begun in earnest and copy will be sent in as fast as it can be organized and prepared.

THE COLLEGIATE CUP OF CHEER

AMERICAN college students are not on the downward path and destined to the eternal bow-wows. Reports that young folks are drinking themselves blind is pure nonsense. Such is the report made by W. E. "Pussycot" Johnson recently in the Harvard Crimson.

College students all over the country have fallen heir to the reputation of drinking and dissipation. Colleges are apt to have this reputation pushed up on them due to the shortcomings of a very few students who manage to make the front page of most newspapers of the country when apprehended, and designated as typical of all students. Colleges and college students are much before the eyes of people and everyone one is looking for every available chance to criticize these young people, giving them no credit for the good points.

When we read in the paper about the arrest of certain college students alleged to have been participating in a "drinking bout", the story gives the idea that this is one of the extra curricular activities of college. It is seldom we will find in these same papers any mention at all of the 10,000 or 20,000 students who ostensibly do not drink.

In Mr. Johnson's report he expresses faith in the young people—for he lightly dismissed the uncovering of a still in an Iowa State university fraternity house as insignificant when compared to the "400 or 500 colleges in the country" that have no stills. Iowa State is less complacent, and while several members of this fraternity are under arrest on charges of maintaining a still in their cellar, and its alcoholic products in their rooms, other fraternity heads making clear that liquor is found on the most ideally regulated campuses," said the report.

There is no doubt that the situation is not as serious as commonly held. When men out in the business world, pointed to as law-abiding citizens to be patterned after, are continuously breaking the prohibition law and continuously being haled into court on charges of possession of intoxicating liquor and other charges, there is little room to criticize college students for their actions. It is true that men and women in our colleges are supposed to be in the upper strata but it is not all of them that are strong enough to keep clear of temptations thrusted upon them by these "law-abiding" citizens.

One of the quickest and best methods to get at the liquor situation is to cut off the source of supply. Recently two midshipmen from the Naval Academy were arrested after a supposed "drinking bout" as termed by the press, and the court placed no charge against the men but instead launched a campaign to stamp out the sources of intoxicant. This method will gain the desired results much quicker than that of throwing the violator in jail and let him think it over.

WINS HONORS

In competition with eleven of the strongest grain judging teams of as many colleges from over the United States, the University of Idaho judges took sixth place in the contest held Saturday at the International Livestock and Hay and Grain exposition at Chicago. This is a creditable showing and ranks our team among the leaders of the nation.

Little attention is paid grain judging teams and other scholastic squads, but they too bring honors to the school. Members of these teams put in many weary hours "practicing" for their contests, but these things do not come to the attention of the students as do the activities of athletic teams. The university's record of this sort is upheld by students that deserve much credit.

At the Portland livestock show this same grain judging team placed first bringing many honors. When the team went to Chicago to compete with teams from over the country, they ran up against the best of them and came out in fine shape. The Idaho team placed high in judging but fell down in the identification department of the contest. The team met up with several products, such as cotton and sorghums, with which it was unfamiliar.

Individual honors go to Harry S. Gault of Buhl, who placed eleventh in the entire contest. He was seventh in the judging contest but was unable to hold up under the identification. Judson Thompson of Great Falls, Mont. was third in the judging contest.

Such honors as are brought to the university by such teams as this are the ones that keep Idaho to the front in its standing over the state and country.

YOUR PROFESSORS

THOSE who delight in criticizing, find fault with the average college professor of today for two reasons. The first objection is that all too many professors regard their hours of teaching as a purely business proposition, a necessary means of livelihood, which like office work should be gotten over as soon and as easily as possible. That there are, even at the present time, all too many men of this kind in our American colleges can hardly be doubted, and for those men the criticism is a just one.

The second complaint issued against college professors and often against the very best of them, condemns professors for being too much wrapped up in their own particular subject, for having too little regard for any field of knowledge than their own. To our mind it is only a man of such a character that is fit to be a college professor. Unless a man have an intense and almost abnormal interest in his subject, it is very doubtful if his classes will be a success. A man cannot inspire others when he himself is indifferent.

One real danger does exist however, that the professor may carry his abnormal interest too far outside the classroom and allow it to have a harmful influence upon his daily life. After all, even a professor is human and has his life to lead, and that life, like any ideal life should be a life of varied interests and broad sympathies. But when the English professor can see nothing good in life except Chaucer or the romantic poets, or the mathematics professor nothing but formulas and equations, he is harming both himself and his associates. In the classroom and in the study concentration upon a particular subject is quite proper but in the social world there must be something more. This is a thing that more than one professor has failed to recognize.

Your ideal college professor knows his subject thoroughly and is intensely interested in giving his knowledge to others; and in addition he is a man of broad sympathies and understanding, quite as much at home outside the classroom as within it. He not only has knowledge, but has character and personality as well. —Brown Daily Herald.

CO-EDS ORGANIZE TO ROOT

Beginning with the Stanford game and continuing at all other contests throughout the year, the co-eds of Southern California will be organized into a rooting section of their own, according to Paul Elmquist, yell king. "From now on," states Elmquist, "the co-eds may yell and sing to their heart's content at the weekly grid games. The girls have been asking for a rooting section for some time and at the forthcoming contest an opportunity will be afforded them to prove the idea practical by turning out en masse to all games." —Southern California Daily Trojan.

ALENE BECOMES PIANIST IN RECORD TIME OF TWO WEEKS

"How I learned to Play the Piano in Two Weeks" is not an ad slogan, nor a sequel to "How I became Popular Over Night", but is the suggested title for a hypothetical pamphlet which might be written by Alene Honeywell, who performed the difficult feat of learning how to play her own accompaniment as a bit of business in "Good Gracious, Annabelle." Miss Honeywell's previous musical training consisted of rather vague and intermittent "lessons when I was a little girl." When she was confronted with the necessity of doing a bit of singing, playing her own accompaniment, she was somewhat staggered.

The little matter of the song was not viewed in any serious light until two weeks before the date on which the play was to be staged. Something had to be done, and Miss Honeywell did it.

To add to the complexity of the situation, the only working material was the words of the song, which appeared in the script. To provide a melody was a new problem which was solved by Miss Maude Garnett of the music faculty. She not only composed a melody, but acted as Miss Honeywell's prompt teacher and gave daily assistance to Miss Honeywell in her intensive period of training. In commenting upon the feat, Miss Garnett said "It was a task which required more than musical ability."

That genius is three-fourths hard work has long been conceded. This case certainly illustrates the fact, for the star of "Good Gracious, Annabelle" proved her versatility in a new and startling manner when she appeared upon the platform in the triple role of vocalist, accompanist, and leading lady.

The melody was learned first in the somewhat general on-finger method of juvenile music lovers. However, the digit used was not the approved index finger, but the sturdy thumb, which pounded out the melody until this essential was mastered. The position of the melody tones being well in mind, the next step was to embellish the right hand part with chords. The left hand was trained to do octave rolls with only one intermediate note; the whole composition consisting mainly of two chords, with only one exception.

White keys alone figured in Miss Garnett's composition, since the black keys would have added to the various problems, encountered by Miss Honeywell in mastering the selection. The final problem was to learn to play without riveting attention upon the keyboard, for the scene demanded several languishing looks at her protagonist.

Everyone in the Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority of which Miss Honeywell is a member, learned the song. The singing of fraternity and university songs was temporarily suspended, and a helpful chorus joined in at frequent intervals throughout the star's apprenticeship to the piano. On the evening of the opening performance they were present in a body and sat with muscles flexed, ready to burst forth into song, should the necessity arise.

The alternative of having the accompaniment played in the wings, and "faking" the performance on the stage was dismissed as beneath the dignity of the production and the capacity of the star.

Full appreciation of the humorous aspects of the situation is evidenced by Miss Honeywell's self-deprecatory remarks. Although modest about her musicianship, she says that she contemplates giving a recital in the near future, at which time as a personal tribute she will play only Miss Garnett's compositions.

FLAGG TO JUDGE IDAHO DRAWINGS

Dean of American Illustrators Will Comment and Criticize Work of Vandal Cartoonists

Idaho artists may obtain the criticism and personal comments of the dean of American Illustrators, James Montgomery Flagg, by submitting drawings of exceptional merit to University of Idaho publications or College Humor.

Mr. Flagg's illustrations have appeared in the leading magazines of America for 37 years and his comments and criticisms are not only invaluable to college artists but are almost impossible to obtain in any way except through such a medium as this $2,000 art contest.

Undergraduate artists may submit as many drawings as desired, on any subject, in black and white, before January 15. Two other famous artists will help Flagg decide on the winning 81 drawings.
