GREAT OVATION ACCORDED PRESIDENT UPHAM AT FAREWELL ASSEMBLY MONDAY MORNING; STUDENTS MAKE PRESENTATION

Dr. Upham Talks Before Students at Last Assembly Here

Will Leave Moscow Wednesday on Journey to Oxford, Ohio; President-elect Kelly Introduced

An ovation, probably greater than any ever given an Idaho president, was accorded President Alfred H. Upham by those who packed the auditorium Monday morning when he rose to address the student body of the university for the last time. Doctor Upham, deeply moved by the ovation, expressed his sincere regrets in leaving the institution which he had headed for seven years.

IDAHO BIDS FAREWELL!

PRESIDENT Alfred H. Upham has written this at the end of his Idaho chapter, marking the close of probably the most successful administration in the history of the University of Idaho. After serving seven years in the president's chair here, Doctor Upham is answering the call of his Alma Mater, returning to Miami University as chief executive.

An ovation that fairly rocked the auditorium, and probably the greatest ever given an Idaho president was accorded Doctor Upham by the students and board of education when he rose to address the assembly Monday morning. Thus did students express their sincere respect and admiration for the retiring president.

Seven years of success and achievements mark Doctor Upham's administration. In 1920 he took over the executive duties here, coming to an institution that was yet undeveloped. Under his direction the university has grown to be one of the outstanding institutions in the west. Enrollment has doubled during this time and scholastic attainments achieved.

Idaho has come to be Doctor Upham's home and his university. During the years spent here he had made a host of friends, not only among the students but over the state. His interests have been here and the end toward which he worked has been the university.

When President Upham stood before the students in the special assembly Monday he said that as was the deeds that haven't been accomplished that bothered him. But it is by that which has been done that a man is remembered, and Doctor Upham has plenty to be remembered for.

It is with the deepest regrets that Idaho bids President Upham farewell, for he has been one of us and a true and conscientious worker. We hope that his successes will continue at Miami university and that he will not forget us out here in the far west!

OUR NEW PREXY

SIX presidents have sat in the chair of the chief executive of the University of Idaho and Monday the seventh president, Dean Frederick J. Kelly, was introduced to the student body. Dean Kelly comes to Idaho, as a nationally known educator who has published books on educational matters. Selection of Dean Kelly as the new president of the university brought a storm of applause from the student body.

It is seldom that a retiring president of a university has the opportunity to introduce to the students his successor, President Upham said in introducing Dean Kelly at the special assembly Monday. This is one of the very few cases when it happens and proved to make the ceremony decidedly impressive.

President Kelly comes to Idaho from the University of Minnesota where he has been dean of administration. In appearance he is rather short, but also shows that he is powerful. He is probably one of the most outstanding men of the country as a student of college administration. He has put the theories he has studied and evolved into practice in two large universities. In fact, he was the first college professor given the title of dean of administration in the United States, serving in this capacity at Kansas university under Chancellor Ernest K. Lindley, who was formerly president of the University of Idaho. His work at Kansas was successful and a few years later he went to Minnesota.

Doctor Kelly is aware of the situation in Idaho and feels that we are a young state with many possibilities. Already his mind is formulating plans to be launched when he takes up his residence here July 1. The progressive plan inaugurated by Doctor Upham will undoubtedly form the basis of President Kelly's program, although he did not express himself in this respect.

Doctor Kelly will be the seventh president to sit in the chief executive's chair since the establishment of Idaho. Several times, however, during this period, it has been necessary for acting presidents to take over the duties. Starting in 1892 Franklin B. Gault was the first regular president of the university. He was followed by Joseph P. Blanton in 1898 and in 1900 James A. MacLean became chief executive. Coming down to nearer date we find that Melvin A. Brannon was president in 1914 and Ernest K. Lindley in 1917. Doctor Upham succeeded President Lindley in 1920 and continued up to the present time.

Thus we see the list of men who have held this high position here, and now comes Doctor Kelly to guide the destinies of our university, maybe for a short time and possible for a number of years. Idaho is fortunate to secure such an able man as Doctor Kelly to handle the affairs of the university and we feel that the university will go ahead with rapid strides in the future.

LAMPMAN THINKS HE WILL LIKE IT HERE

Heard Much Favorable Comment on University While Still in East

"You'll like it!" was the enthusiastic comment of former Idaho visitors when Prof. C. E. Lampman, new head of the poultry department, announced his intention of accepting the position here. Professor Lampman was an instructor at the University of Wisconsin, and carried on research work there. Much favorable comment on the University of Idaho influenced him in the decision to change to Idaho, he said.

Professor Lampman thinks that the combination of the college of agriculture and the experiment station in the same place is desirable. Such an arrangement is uncommon in many states, he said. The obvious advantage is that the classroom work can be closely related to actual experiments, rendering the courses more practical.

Two short courses will be offered in this department next semester in addition to the regular classes; an eight-week commercial dairy course and the third annual poultry course, four weeks in length. The longer course will deal primarily with the production and marketing of dairy products and eggs. The present aim in this field is to produce a more standard product. Marketing agencies and their functions will be studied. The short course will include the following: poultry breeding, incubation, brooding, feeding, management, marketing, diseases and housing.

FAREWELL PRESIDENT UPHAM

We hate to say farewell to you, To bid this last good-bye, Words cannot possibly express The sentiments which lie Buried deeply. In our hearts Is pain we can't dispel, And yet, may good luck go with you, Whom we have loved so well.

Ignore our tears, think only of Your Alma Mater's call, For selfishly we'd keep you Kingly prisoner to all, We'd chain you here with golden links Of love, but loyalty, A-kin to love, we must respect, And so we set you free.

Take with you, then, our reverence, Oh, President and friend, And know time, bringing thoughts of you, Will never reach it's end, That happiness and bright success Go with you where you go, Is deeply wished by we who love You, here at Idaho.

—PATSY CALHOUN

KAMPUS KATIE

Our prof forgot the finals, Didn't post for the exam, The last class was meeting, We wouldn't have to cram.

Everyone was asking questions, To lead the prof astray, The bell would soon be ringing, And we'd make our get-away.

Then piped up Oscar Goody, With voice just like a mouse, "When is the quiz, dear prof?" (The funerals from the house.)

Dear Loretta, my friend and roommate: It's a great life if you don't waken. But I woke. I can no longer live with my conscience, so I am taking my life. In five minutes I will take this Colt and Wesson .32 calibre pistol lying on my desk, raise it to my temple, and pull the trigger. I suppose the noise will waken the cook and the smoke in our room may let you in for a 015 smoking fine, but that is unavoidable.

I will have to leave my glasses on to see where to shoot. Please remove them when you find me. I looked in vain for historical references of a martyr with glasses. Yes, I must die. I am too dumb to live. I have been chartering for "8 o'clocks" all semester and my cuts didn't count.

Your 5,000 point pal,

LEONA

P. S. You can have my correspondence course and the signs I got at the Sigma Nu barn dance.

FROSH: My vocabulary is poor.
FRESH: Why don't you use an encyclopedia?
FROSH: The pedals hurt my feet.

The girls all got together And planned their costumes swell, For the Betas were giving a barn dance, As everyone could tell.

But weeks have now gone by, Not a date has yet been made, Do the Beta' sons not realize, That their decorations fade!

KIRKHAM NAMED TO EXCLUSIVE SOCIETY

Geological Society of America Names Idaho Professor as Fellow

Virgil R. D. Kirkham, assistant professor of geology, recently received notice of his election as fellow in the Geology Society of America, a most exclusive organization, having only a bare half dozen members in the Pacific northwest.

"I feel that this is a distinct and notable recognition of Professor Kirkham's work in this state," said Dean Francis A. Thomson of the school of mines in commenting on the selection. "The society has only about 300 members in the United States and 50 in foreign countries, and since there are only a half-dozen members in the northwest, we feel it a decided compliment to Idaho that Professor Kirkham should receive this recognition."

BIG Ovation GIVEN UPHAM AT ASSEMBLY

marked with an inscription, usually Latin, meaning that 'I count only the hours of sunshine.' To me this is a sun dial. It counts only the hours of sunshine, blessed hours.

An occasion of this kind is of course full of mixed emotion. I wish that I could exult at a time like this over work well done, but I am prompted all the time in these last few days that we have together to think about the things I haven't done. As I look over the years I find myself thinking of the things that might have been done, which should have been done, which for one reason and another have not been achieved.

I wish it might have been possible, even in these last two or three years, to know in a more personal way a much larger number of the students who gather here from all over the state. It wasn't so difficult five or six years ago because there weren't so many but in recent years I have been sadly put to it.

Perhaps I have emphasized too much in my relations here this matter of personal acquaintance. Perhaps we have come to be a state university of such size that that sort of thing can't be accomplished any longer. But I should hate terribly to think that this is the case because after all there are certain things connected with a university community like ours that can't be delegated. I have great pride in the thought that this is my family. I have wondered some time if people felt critical if I referred to my students and to my faculty, but Mrs. Upham and I both have felt that this was our family these were our people and that you and we together were sharing the responsibility of advancing the University of Idaho in equipment, in ideals, in standards, in achievement, in the scope and character and its service. That we together enjoyed the heritage coming down through its own 35 years' history, that we together carried on our shoulders the responsibility for its good name throughout the state and nation. And I want to take this opportunity to express my feeling of gratitude for the marvelous cooperation in these things which all of you have given me personally.

I suppose it is a foolish thing to say that one of the greatest delights that has come to me in my work here was to occasionally have drift in to the office an expression of this kind: a group of students have decided to do a thing in a certain way because 'Prexy' wanted it done that way; or that they had decided not to do a certain thing because Prexy wouldn't want them to do it. I don't think there is any greater compliment that one can be paid at any time to a college administrator than to get the realization that people in his college community care what he cares, that they are interested in knowing what he wants done and in doing the thing in the way he wants it. What to me seems a remarkable thing is that we have a remarkable university of spirit and understanding here together. It is a great feeling to break away from an institution such as this.

Answering Call

I think I ought to say what I haven't said very much about thus far: I am not going to Miami university as a matter of material advance; I am going because I have in my make-up a vein of sentiment that I cannot stifle nor overcome. I am going as an alumnus to answer the call of Alma Mater and I hope that every student here in the years that lie before him will feel that same obligation resting upon him. When Alma Mater asks a service, when Alma Mater issues a call of duty, feel the obligation to respond even though it takes you from one end of the earth to the other.

Closing his address President Upham introduced to the students Doctor Frederick J. Kelly of the University of Minnesota who has been named his successor. President Kelly gave a

Lewis and Bro. Co. Richmond, Va. Gentlemen: I am a veteran of the Edgeworth army, still in active service. I make this claim, challenging all comers, to have smoked Edgeworth and nothing else but Edgeworth (when it was possible, to get it) for a longer period than any other person within the scope of your territory.

I have smoked Edgeworth for twenty-one years and will soon start on the twenty-second.

I'll admit to having tried other brands, including so-called high-class, high-priced blends and mixtures, enough to appreciate and satisfy myself of the superiority of Edgeworth.

In all these years I have never had one can of Edgeworth that varied in flavor or otherwise.

short talk emphasizing his desire to complete as good an administration as did President Upham.

OWEN DAVIS PLAY TO BE PRESENTED

Moroni Olsen Players Coming in "The Detour" Next Monday

That he was tired of writing tawdry thrillers about cloak models and saw-mill heroes, and that he was ready to settle down to the realization of a great desire to write an honest play about real people, was the confession made by Owen Davis, playwright, in a magazine article, "The Detour" resulted as the "honest play about real people."

"The Detour" is being presented by the Moroni Olsen players at the Kenworthy theatre, Monday, January 30. The players are brought here under the auspices of the Moscow Business and Professional Women's club.

The heroine of "The Detour" is a woman of 40, without personal attraction or prospects, untried and untraying in her prosaic widowhood to a stolid land-loving husband. Janet Young plays the part of Helen Hardy, the wife, and Moroni Olsen is the husband, Steven.

Helen realizes that her daughter Kate, played by Dorothy Adams, shall be an artist. She saves her butter and egg money that Kate might study. Steven takes the money, however, for a transaction of his.

Kate cannot make a success as an artist, she is told by a New York critic. In an anguish of disillusionment she marries Tom Lane. Helen then starts in saying for the unborn grandchild that it might have the opportunities she and Kate could not have.

In this way Owen Davis finds a way out for her. And the Helen Hardys on the dreary farms do go on living somehow.

Tickets for the play are now on sale at the Kenworthy theatre Wednesday, Friday and Monday afternoons from 3 to 6:30 o'clock.

FINALS BEGIN FRIDAY

Plays in "Detour"

DOROTHY ADAMS, with Moroni Olsen players here January 30, plays part of country girl who aspires to be an artist in "The Detour"

TICKETS FOR "THE DETOUR" ON SALE

Tickets for "The Detour," to be given by the Moroni Olsen players at the Kenworthy theatre, January 30, are now being sold by members of the Moscow Business and Professional Women's club, which is sponsoring the players' appearance here. Reservations may be made January 23 by mail, later reservations may be made at the box office window of the theatre.

Owen Davis' "The Detour," which will be the second production presented before Moscow audiences by the Moroni Olsens this season, is called "a cross-section of truly rural life."

Montrose J. Moses says of it: "I am confident that 'The Detour' represents thus far one of our highest attainments in American realism for the stage. It is worthy to be read widely; as a representative of native genre work it is worthy of consideration abroad. It is a play that any repertory theatre should welcome. Such sheer realism requires sheer acting, and invites and challenges the best in players. It is rarely that an American playwright penetrates so deeply into American life. That is why I greet 'The Detour' heartily as 'the real thing' in the theater."

"My, but you look beautiful this afternoon." "Yes, I took a beauty nap and overslept."—Selected. Only after a public favorite has become a "has-been" does he begin to realize the emptiness of applause.
