U. C. L. A. GRIDIRON CREW UNDER WING OF CLEVER COACH

Former Minnesota U. Mentor Developed Threatening 41 at L. A.

TEAM BALKED GRANGE Invaders Here for Saturday's Clash With Vandals Know Their Game

Head Coach William H. Spaulding, whose proteges meet the Idaho Vandals October 27 on MacLean field, Moscow, is probably more responsible than any other person for U. C. L. A.'s entrance in Pacific Coast conference ranks. His reputation for sportsmanship and knowledge of the great American Intercollegiate game have been instrumental in winning recognition for the "baby member" of the Pacific league.

When the Bruins, anxious for football prestige in keeping with the fast-mounting size of their registration list (now about 5500), cast eyes about for a new head coach in 1926, their attention was directed by many favorable recommendations to Spaulding. Negotiations for his transfer were successful and then started U. C. L. A.'s gridiron rise.

While at the University of Minnesota, Spaulding earned national fame when his team was the first to stop "Red" Grange, then the galloping ghost of many gridirons. Spaulding had a record of never letting his team be beaten on two successive weeks—and it has remained unscathed during three seasons at U. C. L. A.

Following one long slump that had become monotonous U. C. L. A. in 1925, under Spaulding tutelage won five games, tied one and lost three. Of the three games lost, two were to Leland Stanford and St. Mary's, a pair of the coast's leading teams. For the first time, the Bruins finished a strong second in the Southern California conference.

CAST IS CHOSEN FOR FIRST DRAMA

Juniors Hold Majority of Places on Cast for "Fourteen"

Juniors outnumber seniors and sophomores who have been given parts in "Fourteen", the first big production of the season, to be given some time in December by members of the university advanced play production classes. All but three, two from Spokane and one from Dayton, Washington are Idaho people.

The second big play, usually given in February, will be given the same time this school year. It is Bernard Shaw's well-known "Arms and the Man". The third play, given around Easter, has not been announced yet by Prof. John H. Cushman, coach and head of the dramatics classes.

SIGMA ALPHA IOTA PLANNING MUSICAL

Members of the Sigma Alpha Iota honorary music society, will hold a musical Tuesday evening at 6:45 o'clock in Center cottage.

CO-ED PROM WILL BE LARGE AFFAIR

The Co-ed Prom, annual masquerade ball, will be given Saturday night at 8:30 o'clock in the gymnasium. Johnny Soden's orchestra will furnish the music. Tickets will be on sale Wednesday.

ANGEL'S REPORT HELD FAVORABLE

Increased Enrollment at S. B. Announced to Doctor Kelly

"I am extremely gratified with the enrollment at the southern branch of the university," was the statement made by President F. J. Kelly in commenting upon the detailed report of enrollment received from Executive Dean M. F. Angel.

"It is very evident that the people of the southeastern section of our state appreciate the educational advantages now offered by the southern branch, and are taking advantage of them. The figures as submitted by Dean Angel show a twenty-six percent increase in the division of letters and science, eighteen percent increase in the division of engineering, seventy-four percent increase in the division of pharmacy, and a slight gain in the division of completion courses.

"The net increase in enrollment in the basic work is 107 students or an increase of twenty-five percent," explained President Kelly.

GIRLS TOURNAMENT WILL BEGIN TODAY

23 Women Are Signed Up for Tennis Tournament Matches

The girls' single-elimination tennis tournament will begin today and will continue till Sunday, November 4, when the finals will be played.

All first round matches must be completed by Wednesday, October 24; second round, by October 27; third round by October 30; and semi-finals by November 1. LaReta Beeson, tennis manager, has requested all girls who will play in the semi-finals to call her at 3081 to make arrangements for a referee.

UNIVERSITY AIDS IN ORGANIZATION OF CAVALRY UNIT

Plan Use of School Property for National Guard Troop

ARMORY TO BE BUILT Members of R. O. T. C. May Enlist But Advanced Men Not Paid

Definite assurance that Moscow is to secure a cavalry unit of the Idaho National Guard has recently been made. City officials interested in the organization are conferring with members of the university faculty and administration toward the end of securing university property for the erection of the necessary buildings and the cooperation of the military department for the recruiting of men for the new unit.

President F. J. Kelly, Dean E. J. Iddings of the college of agriculture, and Captain Peeney have tentatively decided to use university property near the Hagen-Cushing packing plant for the erection of the new buildings but no definite announcement as to location has been made yet.

VARSITY DEBATERS HAVE TWO MATCHES

Men and Women Will Meet W. S. C., Whitman, Oregon and Washington

Questions for the two university debates definitely scheduled have been decided by J. V. Garland, coach. The women will debate the question, Resolved: That Mussolini has been a benefit to Italy; while the men will take as a text for their talks, Resolved: That the plea of temporary insanity in defence of crime should be prohibited by law.

FACULTY WOMEN WILL ENTERTAIN

Faculty Will Be Guests at Halloween Dinner Oct. 31. Mrs. Magnuson in Charge of Plans.

The entire faculty will be entertained by the Faculty Women's club at its annual party, which will be a Halloween dinner at the Blue Bucket, October 31.

HONOR IDAHO MAN FOR SERVICES IN NICARAGUAN ROW

Maj. Ross Rowell, Ex-'07, Awarded Distinguished Flying Cross

WORK IS PRAISED Student Here in 1903 and 1904; Remembered By Col. Christman

Maj. Ross E. Rowell of the United States marine corps, former student at the University of Idaho, has been awarded the distinguished flying cross by President Calvin Coolidge, according to an Associated Press dispatch. Major Rowell's home is in Boise and he attended the university during 1903 and 1904.

"For exceptionally meritorious service in a duty of great responsibility in command of the aircraft squadrons attached to the 'naval forces' on shore in Nicaragua, from February, 1927, to August, 1928. Largely through his untiring energy, efficient administration, superior leadership, and great personal heroism, under conditions heretofore unparalleled in the history of aviation, the success of our forces operating in Nicaragua during a period of political unrest, was greatly enhanced."

Major Rowell attended the university in 1903 and 1904 and was in the class of 1907, according to Col. E. R. Christman, commander of the R. O. T. C. unit here. Colonel Christman at the time and knew Major Rowell when he was a student.

TWO LOVING CUPS TO BE PRESENTED

Group Houses Will Vie for Homecoming Decoration Honors

With the selection of two beautiful loving cups to be presented to the men's and to the women's group houses displaying the best homecoming signs, plans for homecoming decoration are assuming definite shape, according to Allen Janssen, chairman of the Blue Key committee in charge.

LOCATION CONSIDERED

The displays will be judged on the basis of originality and the manner in which they are presented. The way a house takes advantage of its location will also be taken into consideration so that all houses will be on a more or less equal footing in this respect.

JUDGED DAY AND NIGHT

Although the judges have not been selected as yet, their names will be published at an early date. According to Mr. Janssen, the present plans are to have the signs judged both during the day and at night, with special emphasis to be placed upon the pleasing and novel use of electrical effects in evening displays.

FOOTBALL TALK

FOOTBALL season is not over yet, and the Vandals have not been eliminated from the Coast conference! So far this season the Idaho grid team has been playing into hard luck but the all-important game of the season is near at hand and Idaho students must back the team to the last whistle.

Injuries have hit the Vandals hard this season, although none of these have been serious enough to lay men up for very long periods at a time. Same of the regular performers, men who meant a lot to the team, were taken out of the game at San Francisco shortly after it started because of injuries received in games earlier in the season.

Idaho is still in the conference and fighting hard to make a comeback and that will make up for the first of the season. Idaho students are looking forward for a real battle Saturday against the U. C. L. A. Bruins, and the followed by a sensational victory over the Washington State college Cougars on MacLean field during the annual home-coming performance the next Saturday. With the students backing the players and coach we can bring the season to a close in a whirlwind fashion!

In a football game or track event at the start of a school year plays a very important part in the finish. A ragged beginning often leads to an end that frays out before its natural climax. Getting off on the right foot gives a feeling of confidence that carries one on to the final steps, whether one wins or not. Scholastic success in a university depends largely on initial efforts. At the end of the first six weeks the first grades will be determined. A big percentage of the students, principally freshmen, will have to do a months work in the next two weeks if they are to be satisfied with their showings on that report. In the whirl of rushing, football games, social activities and general orientation, many of them have overlooked the primary purpose of college life—education.

It is considerably easier to do "high pressure" studying now and slack up a bit in the year than it is to drift along with the crowd, with a first thought for pleasure, and then make an attempt to put on the brake and hit the books just before exams roll around. The punch just won't be there. A good impression formed at the end of the first six weeks will last during the whole year and unless there is a very decided change in attitude the student has practically passed the course. On the other hand poor work at the beginning leaves an impression on the instructor that a great amount of good work may or may not dispel. Instructors more or less unconsciously classify their students upon their records at the end of the first six weeks. "So-and-so got a 'C' in Bus. 111," they say, "just an average student." And at the end of the year in spite of improved work later "so-and-so" will draw a "C" for Bus. 111, the times out of ten.

The university system of study is very different to that of a high school, the freshmen are finding out, much to the dismay of a large number. Assignments are not made from page 64 to 116; recitations in class are not from seat to seat on trivial questions that might be answered from a hasty reading of the assigned material. No longer does the professor spend his time urging his classes to study and make a better showing. It's up to the students to do their own thinking. Inadequate preparation in high school will show up in these first weeks of school. Those who have come here for the sole purpose of making the football team or wearing a pledge button will find that there is a barrier of books between their present status and the realization of their ambitions. If you haven't found out how to study yet, do it now.

FACULTY MEMBER TOURS IN EUROPE

Mrs. Sargent Gives Lecture Sunday Evening on European Visit

Mrs. Margaret L. Sargent, professor of romance languages gave an interesting lecture Sunday evening at the new L. D. S. institute on her recent tour around the world. J. Wiley Sessions, head of the institution plans a number of talks to be given by faculty members during the year.

Mrs. Sargent has just returned from an extensive tour of Europe and the east during the latter part of September. She sailed from Seattle for Japan on the 30th of January, and spent several weeks in Japan and China. After visiting Manila, Singapore, Penang, Colombo, and Belavan, she went to Cairo and Port Said in Egypt.

A rather extensive tour of Spain, during which Mrs. Sargent did much research work in the University of Madrid, was the next feature of her trip. One day she dined but a short distance from the King of Spain who was accompanied by the ex-King of Greece. Mrs. Sargent spent several weeks in France studying at the Sorbonne. After visiting in Germany and Switzerland for some time she returned to New York where she met Marshal Gerstine, a former faculty member, well known to many of the university people. Mr. Cushman, of the university English department, was another one of her friends that she saw there.

En route home she enjoyed a visit at the home of Dr. and Mrs. Upham at Miami university, Oxford, Ohio. From there she went to Texas to visit her two daughters. One of them accompanied her on the rest of her tour in the United States.

MORONI OLSEN PLAY PLEASURES BIG CROWD

"Expressing Willie" Presents Popular Actors in New Roles

Before the largest audience which has ever assembled to hear them in Moscow, the Moroni Olsen players completed the first appearance of their sixth season here amid shrieks and applause. That Rachel Crothers' "Expressing Willie" was a suitable vehicle for their first production in the remodeled Kenworthy theatre, with almost doubled seating capacity, was the comment of critics as they watched the curtain ring down.

Undoubtedly the most outstanding thing aside from the splendid acting of the players was the unusual costumes worn by Miss Janet Young. All the properties were to express the individualism and modern trend of the tad Willie Smith was pursuing. Dorothy Adams' portrayal of the simple country girl who finds herself in the midst of a group of self-expressionists was done with strong and convincing sincerity. Leora Thatcher, with her Victorian spirit, dominated the entire plot.

Byron Kay Foulger, who directed the play was in the painful dilemma of a man who doesn't know what he wants but he thinks money can buy anything. It took Minnie Whitcomb, Dorothy Adams and her clumsiness to show him that all the self-expression he needed was to quit making a fool of himself. Janet Young, who endeared herself to her Moscow audience two years ago in "Outward Bound," was delighted in a new kind of a role. Here she was an adventuress who hid her aspirations behind the doctrine of individualism. Gordon Nelson plays the part of a foppish artist who, through his ranting, is the cause of Minnie finding herself and her ability to put something into her music.

Lola Hunt was the flighty little wife who wants to be agreeable to everyone and to show her whimsical husband whom she declares is "really clever if he would only let go himself," advantage before people. Joseph Williams, the "shut-up, Dolly" husband only once lets loose, and then he sings a plea for expression. Addison Richards was the butler.

WASHINGTON BEATS VANDAL YEARLINGS

But Jacoby Pleased With Showing Against Husky Babes

The freshman football team returned Sunday afternoon from Seattle where it was defeated 19 to 0 by the University of Washington yearlings Saturday. Not a man was injured to the extent of preventing his turning out for practice Monday night. When asked about the showing made by the club at Seattle, Coach G. R. Jacoby expressed himself as being well pleased with the way the men performed. He said, "although the team didn't find itself until the second half, it shows evidence of developing into a well balanced outfit. Had we had one game under our belts we undoubtedly have tucked that contest into the win column."

Loss in First Half. The entire first half was played in Idaho territory. The Huskies rushed over two touchdowns but could convert only one try for goal. The fresh offense and defense wasn't functioning as it should. A different story was told in the second half. Plays were run off with a precision and a snap that bespoke familiarity and knowledge of how they should be run. Although the Vandal babes didn't score, several times the ball was taken deep into Husky territory. Early in the third quarter the Washington yearlings managed to work the ball over the goal line, through a series of off-tackle plays and short passes.

Team Looks Good. The entire team showed itself to have excellent possibilities of developing into varsity candidates. The starting line-up in the line consisted of Spaugy, center; Case and Bushton, tackles; Seiffert and Paulson, guards; and Shurtliff and Randall, ends. Paulson and Spaugy were the outstanding performers. Many times Paulson was through the line nailing his man for five-yard losses.

Berg Starts Rally. Berg was the star of the backfield. He was responsible for the long march down the field when the frosh took the ball to the Husky four-yard line with four down to shove the ball over. Washington put up a stubborn defense there and the ball went to Washington on downs. Hanford at the other half but was injured early in the game and Corkery took his place. Davis, after

With only two weeks before the national election the Hoover club meets tonight in the "U" Hut at 3 o'clock to appoint committees for the oncoming work. Student speakers will talk briefly on the election.

Similar organizations are being formed at other schools in the state for the purpose of gathering the republican student faction and to correspond with the graduates.

Governor H. C. Baldrige, republican nominee for governor, commended the local University Hoover club highly on its work and predicted that the republican ticket would carry the state by a 30,000 majority, in an interview last week.

Advanced R. O. T. C. students receiving compensation from the government for their drills would not be allowed to draw pay from the national guard at the same time, according to a regulation of the war department.

"Cheese Box" Changed to Barn for Ag-Bawl

Four score and seven years ago our forefathers may have brought forth upon this continent a new nation but they sure didn't have anything on our alums. Four, one, and three years ago, equals ten—for the benefit of all sub-frosh English majors) our dear alums brought forth on this campus one Ag-Bawl—and it hasn't quit bawling yet.

Last Saturday the biggest bunch of rough necks known in the history of the Idaho campus since last year at this time, called forth in hobnailed boots and bandanas with the tickest bunch of coeds on record.

The old gym was even older and bannier than its usual, even at the basket ball games. Bales of hay and older and apples disguised its true character just as eyebrow pencil freckles and sunbonnets hid the gentility of the "bawlers."

The dust was shaken from the highest ridge pole rafters and the old gym settled down with a whoosh of thanks at its intractness when the last lick and his tickest went squawking on their way off home.

THE hitch must be right, the pack must be tight. On details such as that hung the attainment of the day's goal and the final success of the expedition.

Lewis and Clark, first Americans to cross the continent, knew the importance of "trifles" in the concerted plan. They saw to it their equipment was right, they supervised every step from man-power to pack-horse-power, they applied sure knowledge and constant vigilance to their task.

Today's leaders in business have the same point of view. Men in the Bell System, exploring new country, take infinite pains in preparation. They work toward the smooth coordination of engineering, manufacturing, warehousing, accounting, finance, public service.

STANFORD CREW CRUSHES IDAHO

Vandals Unable to Solve Pop Warner's B Formation; Results Disastrous

Bewildered by Stanford's new "B" formation in the second half after they had solved it and held the Cardinals 10-0 in the first half, the Vandals, sans reserves, were crushed by Pop Warner's four first teams Friday afternoon.

For two fifteen minute quarters the Idaho behemoths made it a real ball game and thrice hurried to the goal back within a pace of back Warner's pack within a pace of back Warner's pack within a pace of back Warner's pack.

Finally the break came late in the second quarter, as "Spud" Lewis slipped around right end on a lateral pass in the fourth attempt and then converted his own point. The half ended a minute later with Idaho on the small end of a 7 to 0 score.

What Warner told his four teams between halves was plenty in the third period and four times in the last quarter, the Cardinals romped over and around Idaho's ends for six touchdowns and 40 points. And it was the reserves that did it! Man for man, from the starting lineup, Idaho could have held the Cardinals to one touchdown in the entire game, but she had to surrender. Warner used 44 men in the clash and those who saw the game said that there was little to choose between the first three teams.

Time after time these fresh backs came into the game and continued to dash through the Idaho defense on reserves, crisp passes, fakes and deceptive off-tackle plays. Stanford use her whole works in the first half, but Idaho fresh could stop it then. Not so later; Idaho was tired and constantly forced to face fresh invaders.

Thirty-eight first downs were the figures that Stanford boasted at the end of the game—Idaho but four. The Cardinals grossed 672 yards from scrimmage to Idaho's 79. And here comes the tale! Idaho had a great defense the first half, but lacked an offense—had the few chances presented themselves.

These six long drives for as many touchdowns in the last half—35, 90, 65, 45, 60 and 75 yards—were marvelous operations of a perfectly functioning Warner offense. But they were weakening an almost defenseless Idaho team—new and fresh backs against tired linemen. Warner had started the second half with an entirely different set of backfield men—Smalling at quarter and Lewis to alternate with him in lugging the ball. These two men were the outstanding stars for Stanford. Lewis incidentally became the leading coast scorer as a result of the game, which netted him four touchdowns and as many converted tries for points.

Idaho Pulls Surprise

Idaho relieved the afternoon, however, by pulling two surprise plays that were recognized by Stan Francisco papers as "almost masterpieces. Once, standing behind his own goal line, after Stanford had been held for downs on the one-yard line, Burgher, instead of punting, whirled and tossed a pass to Dittman, who ran 30 yards before being pulled to earth. On the next play, however, Burgher did kick, and caught Stanford's punt and ran back and safety. Burgher's feat in the second sensational play later in the game when he duplicated the play used against Whitman. Burgher, feeding back to either punt or pass, waited and then ducked under the arms of his would-be rushers and raced 18 yards before being tackled. He was truly Idaho's "triple-threat end."

Nothing More

From then on Idaho had nothing to show. Stanford touchdowns piled up and Idaho, although fighting desperately, was completely demoralized and the score continued to roll up.

On defense Idaho's great stars were Martin, Diehl and Sumpter. These three men played in great style and were responsible for most of the brilliant Idaho defensive work of the first half. On offense Hutchinson, Perrins and Burgher starred, although Burgher's contribution came in the form of kicking, passing, and punting. These men made it possible for Idaho to tally one first down in each quarter.

Gridgraph observers in the Idaho gymnasium Friday afternoon got a heavy fog covering the field that operators in the press box could not identify the Idaho players. Juno was not a substitute for Kirkpatrick, and the veteran Idaho center played the entire game. Juno, however, did go in near the end of the game, and Eric Carlson, Thomas, Norby, Sprout, Halliday, Perrins and Owens, were the Idaho men seeing action in the game who did not start the contest.

Purpose of Organization and Working of Loan Fund to be Explained to New Girls.

The Associated Women students of the university will hold their first meeting of this term next Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in room 110 of the Science hall, according to Helen Taylor, president.

The purpose of the organization and the working of the loan fund will be explained to the new girls. Miss Kersley, assistant dean of women, will be introduced, and Dean French will give a short talk.

GRIDIRON RIVALS NOW TEAMMATES

Bob Fitzke, former Vandal gridiron star, and Bill Skeates of Gonzaga, who were the bitterest rivals during college days are now playing side by side and wearing the colors of the Aberdeen, Wash. American Legion football team.

An attempt is being made to get Howard Maddox, back of the Legion team, Maddox never played on a college eleven, although fans in Aberdeen claim that he is better than most college backs. Playing alongside of Fitzke, who was a college star at Vandalia, may give an idea of what Maddox might have been at college. Both kick and pass and hit the line. Fitzke is by far the better broken field runner.

The former Idaho star, who is now coach at Horstman high school, and the Legion's big drawing card, doesn't like to hit the line. He spent several months and many dollars in the Mayo hospital in Rochester trying out some of the more or less permanent waves in his spine that were results of his line plunging during his professional football career that he's anxious to undergo the experience again.

VOLLEY BALL TITLE SETTLED TONIGHT

Betas and Phi Deltis Play Championship Game at 7:30

The Betas and Phi Deltis will play for the university volleyball title tonight at 7:30 o'clock in the gymnasium. The match will be for the best three out of five sets. Thus far the Betas have the edge and present odds favor them to win by a rather close margin.

Monday afternoon the Lindley hall team captured the "B" league second place by defeating the Phi Gammas in one of the clearest matches of the season. Under the leadership of "Baseball Joe" Boyd, the Lindley hall men staged one of the most brilliant rallies of the year to down the Phi Gammas by scores of 16-14, 18-15 and 15-5. It was a battle for the first two sets. In the third set the Phi Gammas broke and the hallmen had little trouble in disposing of them. This win gives the Lindley hall team 90 points.

A. T. O's Defeat T. M. A.

In a rather slow game the A. T. O's took the T. M. A.'s into camp 15-3, and 15-13. The first set was played without interest. In the second, McCoy, star T. M. A. player, led his team to a rally that nearly proved fatal to A. T. O. hopes. The A. T. O's however, were not to be denied and ran out the next two points to win the set and the right to play theambda Chis for the consolation title of the "A" league.

In addition to the championship game between the Phi Deltis and the Betas tonight, the A. T. O's will meet the Lambda Chis this afternoon for the consolation title of "A" league.

Knights Have Tough Job Keeping Track of Gridgraph Levers

By Helen Kerr

With 27 levers and a couple of what-nots to operate, the Man at the Switchboard chewed ragged holes in his wiggle gum and whispered, "A long pass, George," quarterback to left end, now wait a sec, hold her, all right, GO!"

And the crowd that was jammed into the gym last Friday afternoon for the Stanford-Idaho game, the gridgraph was given its money's worth as the lights flashed and the ball soared in an artistic pass to left end.

Intercollegiate Knights, they were, the fellows behind the gridgraph game, but they didn't look very knightly just then, especially George. George pushed the electric light that had the football. The light made his hands all sweaty and his hair curled exasperatingly around his eyes and he wanted to smoke and couldn't. Not while the game was being played. Worst of all, the man with the blue suspenders didn't function all the time. The only thing that the man with the blue suspenders had to do, was to hold his finger in the air over the spot where the ball was on each play and then George would shove the light up to the finger. Did you ever try to hold your finger on a spot or air? And hold it still! The Man with the Blue Suspenders found life very trying during the game Friday.

Two chaps by the names of Dan and Denny burst into ingenuity when it was discovered that the light that had been used for the football had disappeared just as the game was about to start. After much wear and tear on their brains, they rigged up a temporary light out of a flashlight shell and an extra long electric light globe and connected this connection with the electric light switch. The thing worked by force of gravity and a great deal of adhesive tape.

And of course there was the man to the window here, a switchboard operator from Spokane who pulled in his business to work for gridgraphs during the football season. And there was a knight who did nothing but take the telegrams out of the window of the wooden house and number them as they came.

Oh yes, he did swear occasionally when there were a number of other fellows standing around and some of them were pointing names on cardboard slips and some were reading telegrams to the Man at the Switchboard and some of them were just around.

"Stanford punts, George, now for heaven's sake get it straight—left, hold her—wait till I find the damn hole!"

"Whose?"

"Whose?"

"Whose?"

—giving a cigarette hand to the hot and cold man, make it fast and soon it was all right. Got. The gridgraph operator, the crowd got excited and the man behind the board—was a little and smoked a little and went right on.

CALIFORNIA LEADS FOR GRID HONORS

Scoreless Tie Between Bears and U. S. C. Results in Cornered Race

A thrilling encounter between the University of California and U. S. C. Saturday afternoon, which ended in a scoreless tie, leaves the California team in a triple tie for first place. Stanford's record remains unblemished by her decisive victory over Idaho. Washington has fallen by the wayside, crushed by Oregon, 27-0 in a dope-suspecting contest.

The California-U. S. C. tie was marked by the exceptional defensive play of both teams, borne out by the fact that neither was greater than 20 yards from the goal line during the game. A wet and soggy field hampered the open field work and possibly prevented scoring. The individual stars were Benjie Lomb, Golden Bear Half, and Dohr Williams, Trojan quarter.

Reverses Dope.

The Washington-Oregon game was a complete reversal of predictions, for the Huskies were favorites to defeat the Webfooters. In running up the 27 to 0 victory, Oregon showed a diversified attack and enough strength to give California trouble two weeks hence.

Receiving enough breaks to even the race lost the preceding Saturday at Berkeley, the Washington State gridsters defeated Oregon State at Pullman, 9 to 7, the margin of victory being furnished by a 25-yard kick by Lahnart. Howard Maple, sticky O. S. C. quarter gave the crowd a real exhibition of returning punts. His effective work offset the splendid booting of McDonald, to give the Schlisser men a net gain of two yards per kick. Maple is outstanding all-coast material with his "bullet-passing" and "ball-carrying" ability.

Pomona Trounced.

The University of California at Los Angeles conquered Pomona 29 to 0 Saturday in a contest which was far more decisive than the score would indicate. The Uclas have been without the services of Captain Joe Fleming for the greater part of the season and his return to the lineup was a signal for the best showing that the Uclas have made to date. This victory stamps Coach Spaulding as possessing an aggregation that will give the crippled Vandals a real battle on MacLean field Saturday.

Montana defeated Montana School of Mines in the other non-conference game in a decisive manner. Major Milburn's team is faced with an exceptionally hard schedule, including a meeting with five conference members as well as four teams of power outside the conference.

Stanford's complete rout of the Vandals 47 to 0 again clearly shows the great advantage of having reserves to rush into the fray. Warner used four full teams, employing his speed backfield when the Erbmien had taken the bettering of Warner's best, and held them to one touchdown for the first half.

CROSS COUNTRY RACE ABANDONED

Idaho and W. S. C. Not to Participate in Annual Run This Year

The cross country race between Washington State college and Idaho which heretofore has been an annual event has been abandoned for this year, due to the lack of interest shown at both schools. The coaches of the two schools deem it wise to keep their men off the rough highways, where each year some likely prospect either runs a gander or injures an ankle which may keep him out of varsity competition for the following spring.

Cap Bryan says it is far too risky to have men running in competition in the fall that expect to turn out for varsity track squad in the spring, and he is against the idea of his men running with the highways for a course. A small squad of aspirants for the 1929 varsity track squad is running but each night for preliminary "limbering-up" exercises. Cap Bryan has ordered the men to "do" a few laps outdoor each night, and will have them continue this until weather conditions drive them inside, where they will resume their exercises. According to Cap, "Fresh air, though it may be chilly, will never hurt anyone as long as he keeps moving."

men. These Californians are under the apprehension that they are at least on a par with Erb's men, because of the similarity of their score with Stanford 10 days ago, 45 to 7, with the 47 to 0 defeat Idaho received. Coach William H. Spaulding arrives in Portland Thursday morning and will give his squad their last hard workout on Multnomah field that afternoon. He arrives in Moscow Friday morning and plans to put his men through a light workout before the Saturday clash.

Youngest Conference Member.

The Uclas are the youngest member of the Pacific Coast conference and ever since the advent of their present coach have produced excellent teams. And what is more, to make matters all the worse for the Vandals, Spaulding will pit his strongest possible lineup against the crippled Idaho outfit. Captain Joe Fleming, all-American manton last year, and his speedy running mates "Buddy" Forster, quarterback "Flash" and Bert LeBucherle, who single-handed tallied 198 yards against Pomona last Saturday. Further, the Bruins will have their veteran line intact.

Erb is contemplating a mighty lard game and this week will drill his men in taking care of sweeping end runs and a defense against the forward pass, despite Idaho's showing against the Stanford aerial game.

The Bruins have a mighty speedy "pony" backfield, which may make plenty of trouble for Idaho. Idaho will have a big weight advantage in the backfield, however, Idaho has the line plunging of Hutchinson and Kershnik to depend upon. If these two men can start the game, or if not Perrins, Owens and Cheyne, together with Halliday and Norby may be depended upon for necessary yardage. Idaho's line combination may or may not be intact. Injuries control this. Reports from the Ucla camp the first of the week report the team in excellent condition physically and with few injuries.
