

SOCIETY

In decided contrast to the quiet of the Thanksgiving holiday, the week-end, social calendar offered a mardigras, a ball, and a house party.

The Lambda Chi mardigras was a costume dance at the L. D. S. institute which was transformed into a French street decorated for the peasant festival.

Silhouettes of college scenes and people, including the senior in cap and gown, decorated the walls of the Elks' temple at the annual, senior ball.

Entertainment for the Kappa Sigma house party began at noon Saturday, with a dinner at the Blue Bucket inn and continued until midnight with a program dance, a lunch, skits, and a one-act play offering amusement.

"Fourteen", the first three-act play of the year, will be presented by the dramatics department Thursday and Friday.

KAPPA SIGS HOLD HOUSE PARTY

Kappa Sigma entertained Saturday afternoon and evening at its annual house party, one of the unusual social events on the campus each year. It originated years ago when members of Kappa Sigma entertained members of the local sorority that was later installed Gamma Phi Beta at a Thanksgiving day party.

The house party began with a turkey dinner at the Blue Bucket inn at 1 o'clock. Clair Gale and his orchestra entertained, featuring vocal solos by Joe Pearson. In the afternoon a program dance was held at the chapter house. Lunch was served in the evening, followed by a program of stunts and skits presented by members and pledges. A Mardigras dance was held in the evening, ending at midnight.

Patrons and patronesses were Mr. and Mrs. T. Matthews, Col. and Mrs. E. R. Christian, and Lieut. and Mrs. C. H. Hart.

Guests were Louise Simmons, Deatrice Martin, Craigmont, Maxine Beal, Ruth Riley, Spokane; Marian Egan, Potlatch; Patricia Wilson, Winifred LaFond, Betty Bell, Ruth Gray, Florence Redmond, Grace Reed, Piedad Harmon, Beulah Burnett, Bernice Kendall, Florence Cunningham, Rose Lewis, Hallie Rennols, Lucie Haddock, Mary Galloway, Marie Clark, Betty Driscoll, Fern Bowen, Jane Dyer, Marguerite Ames, Frances Clemmer, Edith Larson, Esther Bartlett, Lavera Thomas, Eva Litzenberg, Grace Shellworth, Valetta J. Herisson, Erma Davis, Helen House, Ruth Randall, Elizabeth Taylor, Bernice Hartenbower, Kathryn Hanna, Elvora Anderson, Gladys Pence, Beatrice Martin, Flora Francone, Eleanor Galloway, Marian McGonigle, Zella Newcomb, Warren Gorman, Frederick Ross, Jack Blair and Robert Weller.

WALDROP-WENDLE WEDDING IS SURPRISE

Announcement of the marriage of Ella Dean Waldrop, Alpha Phi, to Rex Wendle, Sigma Nu, which was made at dinner Friday at the Alpha Phi house, came as a surprise to friends of the couple on the campus. The couple were married at Colfax Wednesday. Wendle's home is in Parma. She is a senior in the home economics curriculum. Mr. Wendle, Sandpoint, is a senior in the school of forestry. He will receive his degree in June.

LAMBDA CHI GIVES MARDI GRAS

The Lambda Chi Alpha Mardigras was held Friday night in the L. D. S. institute ballroom. Conforming to the spirit of the traditional Mardigras, the dance was carried out in carnival style. The room was decorated to give the appearance of a street at carnival time, with many colored balloons and streamers, confetti and horns were distributed from a cleverly designed booth in one corner. The various costumes, ranging from hobo to princes were a feature of the affair. Masks were removed after an hour of tag dancing. McClinty's orchestra furnished the music. Prof. and Mrs. G. L. Luke and Charles Nicholson acted as patrons and patronesses.

Guests were Jean Tredford, Helen Jacobs, Emily Osgood, Dorothy Neal, Lillie Gallagher, Beulah Burnett, Rose Lewis, Virginia Nielsen, Vera Forbis, Rhoda Woodward, June Nicholson, Laverton Thomas, Marie Jackbers, Ruth Newhouse, Laura Manning, Genevieve Grant, Helen Benson, Mary Murphy, Alberta Edwards, Edna Richards, Clara Linna, Elizabeth Gilmore, Helen McDowell, Helen Douglas, Bess Louise Hoge, Goldie Williams, Ruth Miller, Doris Brower, Ruth Ragan, Georgia Thomas, Betty Stewart, Mildred Axtell, Ruth Gray, Helen Parrott, Katherine Michelson, Carol Thompson and Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sheepsheir.

Dinner guests of Alpha Chi Omega, Sunday, were Elsie Geddes, Helen Geddes, Bess Louise Hoge, Marguerite McMahon, Mrs. Gifford Davidson and Edith Larson.

S. A. I.'S HAVE FOUNDERS' DAY BANQUET

Honoring the day of its founding in 1903, members of the Idaho chapter of Sigma Alpha Iota, national music sorority, gave a luncheon Saturday afternoon at the Hotel McGowan. Mrs. R. M. Davis who has been traveling for the past year gave a talk on other chapters of the sorority that she had visited. Goldie Smith president of the club spoke of the founders and the work accomplished at the national convention at Ithaca, New York, last summer.

Sunday dinner guests of Forney hall were Helen Baker, Potlatch; Blanche Hall, Mary Lefever, Carol Shawn, Florence Joslin, Opal Williams, Marjorie Ford, Elton Reeves and Donald Williams.

Sigma Chi dinner guests Sunday were Dean and Mrs. R. M. Davis, Col. E. R. Christian and Maj. and Mrs. Fuller.

Sunday dinner guests of Pi Beta Phi were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Boas, Janet Hawkins, John Montgomery and William Gale.

Hays hall dinner guests Thanksgiving day were Vaughn Loons, Clifton Hargrove, Robert Hogg, Marian Shy, John Johnson and Cleve Swanson.

Sigma Chi dinner guests Sunday were Col. E. R. Christian, Major and Mrs. F. R. Fuller and Dean and Mrs. R. M. Davis.

Thursday dinner guests of Phi Delta Theta were Mrs. Jack Metzger, Jess Lee Hall, John Hamilton, and J. H. Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Brenn were Sunday dinner guests of Kappa Alpha Theta.

Miss Hallie Rennols and Helen House, Lewiston, were weekend guests of Kappa Alpha Theta.

Mrs. Gifford Davidson, Lewiston, was a dinner guest of Forney hall Friday.

Harold Hamilton, Edwin Higgins and Melvin Roe were dinner guests of Sigma Nu Saturday.

Mary Marshall and Florence McKenzie were Saturday dinner guests of Alpha Phi.

Helen Davis, Lewiston, was a Friday dinner guest of Alpha Phi.

Harold "Bud" Smuin was a Tuesday dinner guest of Phi Delta Theta.

Mac Hardwick was a Monday dinner guest of Phi Delta Theta.

Arthur Simm was a Sunday dinner guest of Kappa Sigma.

Merlo Alexander was a guest of Kappa Sigma Thanksgiving day.

Lee Gillette was a luncheon guest of Beta Theta Pi Friday.

Dolores Holmes was a Sunday dinner guest of Hays hall.

BUSINESS GROUP PROBES VOCATIONS

Alpha Kappa Psi Investigates Status of High School Graduates

The Idaho chapter of Alpha Kappa Psi, national business honorary, is cooperating in a nation-wide survey inaugurated last week to determine what vocations are engaged in by high school graduates.

In the many vocational studies that have been made this particular group has been largely neglected, and, accordingly, little information regarding the vocational status of high school graduates is obtainable. It is hoped to secure returns from at least 5000 high school graduates scattered throughout the United States. This calls for an average of 100 individual returns from each chapter.

Fred C. Berry has been appointed chairman of a committee of five who will carry on this research for the local chapter. Questionnaires are being sent out to men graduates from high school throughout the state who have not gone on to institutions of higher education. It will take approximately three months to complete the survey, it is expected.

Sidelights on Other Campuses

By Helen Kerr

Everything is upset and football dozers are taking up the gentle art of ditch digging as their life work. What with Stanford taking the kick out of the Army Mule last Saturday at the Yankee stadium, and U. S. C. taking Notre Dame for a ride, it appears that the wild and woolly west is running off with the football honors.

Fact is the boys out here have so much "wide open space" to play in that when they go east they just naturally make the wide open spaces. All of which reminds us that the radio announcer of the Stanford-Army game at New York would make a remark to the effect that these California babies were sure tough, every time there was a pause in the game. After about 15 such remarks we began to think he really meant it. And we thought New Yorkers were 20-minute eggs.

Addition of a course in aeronautics at the University of Nebraska will add a few more gray hairs to the dean of women's head. Imagine taking your girl for a nosedive or a loop the loop. If you want to prove to your professor that you really have a good excuse for cutting his class just do a neat fall-spin outside the window of the classroom and all will be forgiven. Of course if it is a very large class the sound of the snoring probably will prevent the dear man from hearing your engine at all.

Cornell students may raise everything from Cain to a mustache at the second shows on Saturday nights at theatres but at all other times they must act like gentlemen, according to a pact made recently between the students of Cornell and the managers of the theatres in Ithaca, New York. one of the theatres. The Yale Daily News has denounced the fraternities on the grounds that they implant false ideas of life values. But at any rate it is gratifying to know that something is implanted. And besides, who wants an idea of the value of life anyway? The Daily News must have had a bad weekend.

Road and Railroad Building

Lesson No. 6 of BLASTERS' HANDBOOK

ROAD-MAKING calls for about every kind of blasting, opening ditches, loosening hard ground in grading, blasting for surfacing and ballasting material, opening vertical drains, and blasting rock in grading. There are "through cuts" and "side hill cuts," high sides, ridges and "thank you marms," outfall or discharge ditches, and scores of names and strange technicalities that never saw the light of day in the average engineering text-book. All these practical points of road-making are explained, fully diagrammed and illustrated in the BLASTERS' HANDBOOK. Not a text-book in the ordinary sense, but rather a digest of the experience of du Pont field service men in practically every industry using explosives. Admirably supplements your studies of engineering theories. Supplies the kinks and "how-to-do's" that you usually have to spend several years in the field to learn. Handy pocket-size for quick reference; and arranged for easy study. Used in the classrooms and dormitories of many leading technical institutions.

THREE WEST TEAMS CRUSH PRIDE OF EASTERN ELEEVENS

Stanford Trounces Army 26 to 0; U. S. C. Routes Notre Dame, 27 to 14

O. S. C. DEFEATS N. Y. U. Hoffman, Maples and Frentrup Star as Trio of Tilts Go to Coast

By Frank E. Judy
Three teams from the Pacific slope left a trail of wreckage strewn in their paths as a result of the grid contests played last week. The wreckage once constituted the greatest football machines of the country and the jobs were executed so thoroughly that not a single alibi can possibly be offered by any in charge of the debris.

Louis' critics of eastern teams who have met defeat after traveling westward have been that the long and arduous trip takes at least one touch-down from a team and the change of climate is also a huge handicap. The bright light of the recent crashes is that two of the favorites fell in their "own backyards" and the alibis they offered in previous years, serve only to prove that the Pacific teams are more potential strength than they could exhibit when under obvious handicaps.

Perhaps the most startling result was turned in by the Oregon State squad ably led by Quarterback Howard Maple, who while not scoring, did all that could be asked of him and figured prominently in every touch-down. The attack of the Orangemen consisted of reverses, triple passes and more deception than all-American "Mike" Strong and his New York University cohorts had seen this year. The 25 to 13 score was amply representative of the two touch-down margin of the Beavers, Thanksgiving Day.

Closely following was Stanford's complete rout of the Army 26 to 0. Amassing a total of 496 yards from scrimmage, the Warner men displayed enough power to convince easterners beyond a doubt that the Soldiers were mere rooks in comparison to the class that "Bill" Hoffman and the Cardinals showed them. Frentrup broke loose for a 64 yard gallop for Stanford's last touch-down to furnish the longest run of the day. Idaho Passes Better Norte Dame's highly touted passing attack was unsuccessful against the Trojans and the University of Southern California won 27 to 14. The Jonesmen promptly scored 20 points the first half and were not headed. This marked the fourth defeat of the season for the Rockies, a record number of losses for the South Bend aggregation in any one season.

The Irish completed but two passes against U. S. C. Saturday, and had more than that number intercepted. It might be recalled that only the previous week Idaho successfully employed this method of attack to gain 139 yards over the Trojans, by completing 10 passes out of 14 attempts. In a like comparison the Vandals were not scored on the first two periods, while Notre Dame left the field at half with three touchdowns chalked against them.

"CHUCK" CARROLL SETS TIME RECORD

U. of W. Star Played Every Minute in All Conference Games

UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON—Three hundred and sixty-six minutes, six hours, of conference football in the six conference games scheduled. That is the record of Charles "Chuck" Carroll, University of Washington halfback and candidate for all-American honors.

When the final gun spat on Thanksgiving day to mark the close of the W. S. C. game and the end of the 1928 football season Carroll walked off the field for the last time but not until he had made a record that may stand for years to come.

Carroll has not missed one minute of conference play this year and his staying qualities have not been made possible by resting on the field. He has never decreased his pace. He has been the power of the offense, the bulwark of the defense. He has done all the Huskie's passing and punting. He is far in the lead in yardage from scrimmage, leader in intercepting passes. It is doubtful if anyone on the University of Washington squad even approached him in the number of tackles made. In the Stanford game, Carroll was credited with eight successive tackles while Washington was on defense.

In between he has had time to run up a total of 104 points, to lead the Pacific Coast in scoring, and the phenomenal comeback of the University of Washington team at the close of the past season was largely due to the playing and consistency of this back.

In the close of the W. S. C. game Carroll was voted the Fishery medal by his team mates, given annually to the player who has been the greatest inspiration to his team during the season.

ALL-COLLEGE PLAY BILLED THIS WEEK

In her quest for Lyons that she may get his pledge to avoid dates, that she may not have to reveal her true age to her husband. While they are there the hotel is raided.

Hotel Is Raided.
Young Larry Collins, Mrs. Andrews' son, and his stepfather, have gone to this hotel in order that the boy's bill there may be paid. They are in an adjoining room when the raid is being made, and the proprietor takes them into Lyons' dining room. Larry and his father, however, escape, and although Andrews does not know who were in the room hiding, Helen, his wife, has recognized his voice and thinks that he is leading her boy into bad ways.

The third act is in two scenes, the first, the police, judge's room, and the second, the Andrews' home. Unbeknown to him, the judge sentences his own wife and her sister to jail, then he finds what he has done. A terrific family upheaval occurs when Andrews bids in his appearance at home. Things are finally brought to a happy conclusion when Larry's age is disclosed and he finds himself older than his music teacher, Estello Pickrell, with whom he is madly in love.

Larry is played by Mattland Hubbard; Homer Andrews, Burdette Belknap; Mr. Field, a friend of the family, Frank Egbers; Sarah, the maid, Louise Lamelle; policemen, Arthur Blount and Frank McKeown; Monsieur Le Blanc and Heart, the proprietor and waiter of the hotel, Harold Packer and Dan McGrath; Mesker of the police court and his assistant, Harry Robb and Roland Sturman; and Ruggles, Norman Forster.

Tickets for the play are now on sale at Hodgins' and will be sold at the door Thursday and Friday evenings.

HUTCHINSON DOPED FAMED FORMATION

Pop Warner's Strategy Is Product of Idahoan, Says Writer

That the originator of the famous "B" formation was not the famous Stanford football mentor, "Pop" Warner, but rather Ralph Fielding Hutchinson, former Texas and Idaho Technical Institute coach, and now director of physical education at the University of Idaho, is the contention of T. Otis Black in a recent copyrighted article. Mr. Black is a Butte sports writer and a former student at the Idaho Tech where he played on Hutchinson's football teams.

Black continues, "And the play was not then from the fertile brain of the subtle 'Pop'. It was taught by Coach Hutchinson, who in the late '20's played quarterback with Princeton, and who since has been mentor for schools from the east coast to the Pacific, and from the Canadian line to Arizona and New Mexico. It was at Texas that the play was first used, I am informed, and it was again used at the Idaho school.

I saw it first used in 1921, when Hutchinson was directing the destinies of the little technical institute. The formation was uncorked against the College of Idaho, traditional rival of Tech, and it completely bewildered the Coyote warriors. Passes, and sweeps, off-tackle plays, and terrific punching at the center of the line were features which recommended the play for sure ground gaining and deception.

Then again, in 1922, the play was used by Hutchinson, but startlingly. Only slight variation.

The only variation from Warner's power play in the formation used by Hutchinson was in the position of the two wing-backs, who were outside the tackles, and the ends, who played loose, from five to 10 yards from the tackles. The two "full-backs" played on a line five yards back, splitting the guard and tackle positions. The tackle either played in his regular position, or two tackles were shifted either left or right.

From the formation, strong running plays with the two guards and two backs in interlocking were unique features, with the wing-back on the weak side often being pulled around in making sommer and double reverse plays for added deception and power.

From a passing standpoint, the formation was excellent in that it offered real opportunity for four men to get out into the clear before they could be covered by defense players."

games at home first, before departing for three or four games on the coast. Under the conference arrangement, as in the past years, Idaho will have two games each with Montana, W. S. C., Oregon, O. S. C. and Washington. Dope points to one of the most evenly matched conference schedules in history, with the Cougars and Montana perhaps holding the weaker teams this year. The two Oregon schools and Washington, with a number of outstanding lettermen returning, are particularly strong this year.

Following is the Idaho hoop schedule for 1929:

January 18—Montana at Missoula.
January 21—Oregon State at Moscow.
January 23—Oregon at Moscow.
February 5—W. S. C. at Moscow.
February 9—Washington at Moscow.
February 12—W. S. C. at Pullman.
February 16—Washington at Seattle.
February 19—Oregon at Eugene.
February 19—Oregon State at Corvallis.
February 22—Montana at Moscow.
March 1 and 2—R. C. C. Playoff.
