Annual Ag-Lawyer Basketball Classic Is Riot of Comedy for Thousand Spectators; Final Count 13 to 11

By ANDY THOMSON

In one of the rarest, roughest, rawest and most ragged games of basketball ever displayed on the Idaho floor, the pick of agrarian hoop prowess on the university campus nosed out a 13 to 11 victory over exponents of legal sophistication on the new Memorial gymnasium court Wednesday night. Friday, the Lawyers were uncertain whether or not to appeal the case to a higher basketball court.

For some thousand spectators it was a riotous comedy—but to 10 men on the floor, it was mighty serious business, and the two teams went at each other as if it were a matter of life and death. It just became a case of five individual wrestling matches with Referee James O'Brien breaking the holds. One could not accuse the players of using football tactics, because tactics like that are barred even on a football field—they did everything but bite.

DIRECTOR OF PHYSICAL EDUCATION

PROBABLY few students realize the significance of the title given Idaho's new football coach—director of physical education and head football coach. The appointment of Leo Calland will mean the organization of all branches of athletics on an efficient working basis, a system whereby the many, instead of just the few, will realize the benefits of physical education.

President Kelly announced when he started searching for a coach that he wanted a man who was not only an expert in football, but also a physical educator. In Calland he seems to have found the man. Next year one man will organize and direct all branches of athletics, and the result will be the greater efficiency in the department.

It is safe to predict that Idaho will continue to maintain her ranking in the coast conference—a ranking that has been unusually high considering the handicaps of a small institution. Calland comes to Idaho with the highest recommendations as to his coaching ability. In his undergraduate days he was chosen as an "All-American" and more important, he has the knack of getting his ideas across to those whom he is instructing.

Most students are overlooking the development that is bound to come in the minor sports. After all, the major sports are of little benefit to a man after his graduation, unless he enters them professionally, either as a coach or a player. A business man cannot play football, basketball or baseball after working hours, but he can play golf or tennis or swim during his leisure time. Athletics to benefit the ordinary individual should train him along lines that he can continue when he is older.

Idaho students can expect within the next few years tremendous advancement in minor sports, probably on the intramural basis. Under the present system of college athletics, only the few can make the squads—the majority sit in the bleachers and watch the game. The students who really need the exercise and physical development are those who cannot make even the scrub teams.

CARELESSNESS POSTERS CRIME

BURGLARIES in three fraternity houses within three months and an attempted burglary at a sorority house indicate that evidently some one, familiar with the campus is enjoying a profitable business.

The houses themselves are partly to blame. Doors are never locked, and in every group on the campus money and valuables are left carelessly about on dressers and desks. A real burglar could enter any house and walk off with practically everything in sight without being detected.

Three demonstrations of what happens when people are careless should be enough to make others a little more careful where they leave their valuables, especially sums of money in any great amounts. The wise man bought a lock for his barn door before his horse was stolen.

"They have more books up there than they can study now—they don't need a library," is reported to have been one of the arguments recently advanced by an Idaho legislator against the passage of the library appropriation bill.

MUZZY CHOSEN PRESIDENT OF SIGMA TAU CHAPTER

SPURS SPONSOR PROGRESSIVE HOP

A chain matinee dance will be given by the Idaho Spurs, it was decided at the semi-monthly luncheon and meeting of the sophomore women's service organization Wednesday.

The chain dance will take the place of the all-college dance which was originally scheduled to be held at the Masonic temple on March 5. The date for this dance was cancelled because the convention which occurred last week made it inconvenient to proceed with preparations.

It is believed that the chain dance will be the first of its kind to be given on the Idaho campus.

Chain Matinee Dance is Novel Idea On Campus; Substituted For All-College.

Pianist All "Encore" for This Smoke

San Francisco, California, August 8, 1928

Larus & Bro. Co., Richmond, Va. Dear Friends: I have been a very heavy pipe smoker for the last thirty years, and have always used Edgeworth Tobacco (Plus Slice) and find there is no other tobacco like it for a cool and well flavored taste.

I am in the vaudeville business, and have traveled all over the world with my brother, and always have had very great pleasure in recommending your tobacco; and many a time I have had to pay double the price in different countries for it, but I would sooner do that than smoke anything else, as I have tried all different brands. I generally buy a one-pound tin and roll it up myself, the gentlemen, if it is real tobacco.

SODEN ANNOUNCES DATES ON JUNIOR WEEK CALENDAR

Time for Serenade to Be Kept Secret By Class

PROM COMES APRIL 13

Reports of Committee Chairmen Heard at Tuesday "Mixer"

PROGRAM FOR JUNIOR WEEK 1929

- Wednesday, April 10—Junior Assembly, Serenade (1)
- Thursday, April 11—Junior Parade, Junior Party, Serenade (1)
- Friday, April 12—Junior Cabaret, Serenade (1)
- Saturday, April 13—Junior Prom

With exception of the serenade which is to be kept a secret, dates and places for the six major events of Junior week, April 10 to 13, were formally announced to third-year class members by John Soden, president, Tuesday night at the first of two informal "mixers" that will precede the occasion.

Assembly is Opened. Wednesday, April 10, will see the official opening of Junior week with an assembly under the direction of Frank Winzler. Wednesday night has no scheduled event, but Thursday afternoon the parade will be held, each group house and organization on the campus participating. Jess Egurrola is in charge of the parade. An informal Junior party Thursday evening is the next major event, and will be held at the Blue Bucket Inn under the supervision of Betty Grammer, committee chairman.

Friday night is "cabaret" night and the entire Blue Bucket Inn will be turned over to the class of 1930 for its merrymaking. An entirely new scheme of festivities is being planned and will be kept "under cover" until the scheduled night. The cabaret this year will be limited to 1930 couples, according to Harry Daubert, in charge.

Whatever frivolity remains after Friday night will be cast aside for Saturday when Junior week reaches its climax in the annual Prom, to be held this year at the Elks' temple. Unusual decorations, programs and features are being planned, all arrangements being in the hands of Eddie Peterson, general Prom chairman.

Serenade Date Secret. The serenade date alone remains unsettled, and only members of this committee will know the details of the serenade presentation. Clayton Loosli has this phase of Junior week in charge.

Committee chairmen reported on progress thus far at Tuesday night's "mixer," and the general plan for the four days of festivity was outlined to the class. A second informal "get-together" of third-year class members will be called for the latter part of March or early April, according to Patrick Walker, mixer chairman.

Guests of Gamma Phi Beta for dinner on Wednesday night were Paul Jones, Sidney Pierson, Forrest Howard, Burton Moore, Frank Carnell, William Cadigan, Harry Jones, Avery Cummings, Charles Metzger, Arthur Ensign, Harold Wheeler, Ralph Washburn and John Middleton.

Kappa Alpha Theta dinner guests Thursday were Maurice Nelson, Allen Janssen, Watt Piercey, Frank Winzler, Clarence Sample, Donald Corliss, Kenneth Egbert, Wayne Farley, Arthur Schwarzenbauer and James Manning.

"Like Topsy and Eva, Ag-Lawyer Brawl 'Just Grew Up,' Says Dean Iddings

Editors note: This is the first of a series of articles on Idaho traditions written by Elsie Warm. Others will be published in subsequent issues.

"It's just like Topsy and Eva—it grew up of its own accord," said Dean E. J. Iddings of the school of agriculture when questioned concerning the origin of the Ag-Lawyer basketball game, not to be confused with the battle between about 20 years ago, further inquiry revealed. The agricultural students, pioneers of the institution, evidently despised the haughty lawyers who walked into their school, set up a new department, and turned up their noses at bean patches and cattle barns. A lively antagonism arose, no doubt, and the idea of a basketball game to settle the dispute was hit upon.

The tradition began so long ago that no one seems to know the facts of its birth. It is well known, however, that the custom originated back in the "good old days," and it thrives today as one of the "peppiest" on the campus. "It was comical to watch those boys fly at each other," chuckled Francis Jenkins, former proctor of Lindley hall. "The edicts which they posted before the games would make the sophomore-freshmen edicts of today look gentle and refined," he declared.

Abe Goff, graduate of the law school and Moscow lawyer, guffawed loudly when questioned concerning the tradition. "I don't know when it got started," he said, "but when I was still in school we used to have real war with the stubble-jumpers." Mr. Goff said that formerly a penalty was exacted of the losers. The lawyers if they failed to pile up the highest score, were forced to wear overalls for a month. The farmers, on the other hand, if they lost the game, had to wear "plug hats," either derbied or top hats, for that length of time. Both of these penalties were looked upon as the worst kind of disgrace and for that reason the teams waged grim battles.

The tradition started only a few years after the fire that destroyed the old Administration building in 1906. Morrill hall, the mines building, the old gymnasium, Ridenbaugh hall and the Engineering building were at that time practically new. Lindley hall and the women's dormitories were not built until 15 to 20 years later.

As rewards for expert marksmanship, the ten members of the men's rifle team having the highest individual scores upon completion of this season's firing will receive sweaters, according to Lieut. Chas. C. Hart, coach.

This is the second year that the sweater awards have been made. Last year the work of the rifle team was classified as a minor sport, and according to the by-laws of the constitution of the ASU high point members are entitled to receive blue-gray sweaters with blue infantry rifle crossed and a gold I superimposed.

In addition to the sweaters the ten high scorers will receive marksmanship medals from the military department.

COLUMBUS, Ohio—(IP)—"Anne Morrow was always an interesting conversationalist and never failed to be clever, gracious and charming," according to Miss Dorothy C. Bowden, graduate student at Ohio State university, who attended Smith college before coming here. "She wasn't particularly interested in social functions," Miss Bowden said, "but was enthusiastic about her academic subjects."

Miss Morrow, daughter of Dwight M. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico, recently announced her engagement to Col. Charles A. Lindbergh. Miss Bowden continued: "I lived in Northrup house, the same house in which Miss Morrow lived. She occupied a room on the fourth floor, which was always attractively decorated and furnished. "Anne has large bright eyes, her hair is dark, long and wavy. She usually dashed about the campus without a hat. Her favorite subject was English."

SEVEN LETTERMEN FORM BACKBONE OF 1929 TRACK SQUAD

Outdoor Practice to Start As Soon as Weather Permits

45 CANDIDATES OUT VANDALS MEET OREGON STATE IN MOSCOW ON MAY 10

Approximately 45 track candidates are working out daily in the new gymnasium in physical drill under the direction of Coach Ralph Hutchinson and will start outdoor practice as soon as the weather permits. The loss of Don Cleaver, Arthur Matthews, Carl Hutchinson and several others leaves Coach Hutchinson a nucleus of only seven lettermen around which to build a full team. The returning lettermen are Norman, Stowell, Kershnik, Collins, Wilks, Kilger and Pierson.

The field events should be well cared for by the lettermen, and in addition Mason will have the javelin. Thornhill and Mason will represent Idaho in the hurdle events. Several promising men from the 1928 freshman team will make a serious bid for a letter this season.

The 1929 schedule follows:
May 4 Washington Relays...Seattle
May 10 Oregon State...Moscow
May 17 Triangular Meet...Pullman
May 25 U. of Montana...Missoula
May 31

FOREIGN LANGUAGE SURVEY COMPLETE

Nearly Seven Thousand Idaho Students Pursue Difficult Tongues

Six thousand eight hundred students studied foreign languages in Idaho's institutions of secondary and higher education last year, a survey made by Mrs. M. L. Sargent, professor of modern languages, reveals.

Mrs. Sargent, who last year made a tour around the world has made several similar surveys in an effort to determine which languages predominate and to determine what the people of Idaho want their children to study. The surveys are intended also guide in placing language teachers in the schools of the state.

A total of 138 high schools and institutions of higher learning are included in the report. Latin is by far the predominating language in the 120 high schools listed. It is studied by nearly three times as many students as Spanish, which comes next in popularity. French is the only other foreign language taught in the high schools of the state, the report shows.

High School Figures
The high school figures are as follows: Latin, 3109; Spanish, 1290; and French, 313. German is not listed as a course at any of the 120 schools. Languages show decidedly different apportionment in the institutions of higher learning other than the University of Idaho and its southern branch. Latin ranks first with 270 students, French second with 226, Spanish third with 173 and German fourth with 31. Eight students are listed as studying Greek.

At the university proper the apportionment is as follows: French, 255; Spanish, 171; German, 89; Latin, 47; Greek, 7; and Italian, 4. At the southern branch of the university at Pocatello Spanish is the most popular language with 107 students listed. French comes second with 88, German is third with 40, and Latin is last with 34.

New Gym Windows Handicap Spring Dates

By Ellnor Yaggy
The question has arisen, What can a defenseless student do in a case like this?

Three perfectly good acres of bleachers just crying out for some nature loving couples to sit on them and offend the perils of tuberculosis these fine new spring days, and no possibility of being able to use them. The university fathers doubtless did the college a favor when they built the new Memorial gymnasium last year. However, they rather overstepped the bonds of benevolence when they perched the walls on the east side of the edifice with very transparent windows commanding the entire area of unoccupied, lonely wooden seats.

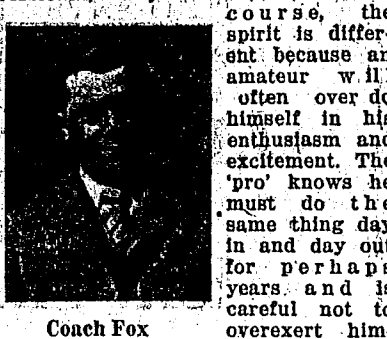

And now that the spring-permeated weather's not yet sifted through the pine needles into the arboretum, and while the by-ways are still running torrents or marshes of mud, where is the younger generation going to hang out?

The only answer yet received which seems to be a bit popular is, the most office—and that's such a small place for such a crowd!

"I met your husband today, and he was telling me that he was in love with his work."
"Is that so? I must drop in and take a look at her."

Coach Fox Favors Capitalization of Athletic Abilities

"Professional athletics do not hurt the amateur," declared Coach Richard Fox of the varsity basketball team in an interview yesterday. Fox is as enthusiastic over athletics now as the day he played his first basketball game for the Nez Perce high school.

Coach Fox

"We train college actors to be professional, why not athletes? Of course, the spirit is different because an amateur will often overdo himself in his enthusiasm and excitement. The 'pro' knows he must do the same thing day in and day out for perhaps years and is careful not to overexert himself.

"True sportsmanship is there," Fox continued, "and there isn't danger of too much 'grinding' for the professional. Growth comes for relaxation, entertainment and the spirit of it. Successful players don't grind—they're just naturally good."

The interest of the American public in sports, he points out, has led to the development of professional sports and of course, the complexity of the games. "Physical education in the elementary grades, major sports in college and athletics as a profession are in accordance with natural laws. Even athletes who enter the business world usually have one, or more, for a vocation. Mine is hunting and fishing," explained the coach.

He likes to "rough it" in the summer months hunting, fishing and camping, which includes cooking. "That's half of the art," he laughed, sticking his hands in his pockets. "To make your stuff—and eat it. But anyway sports are not in danger of being over emphasized and are really the spirit of a school."

GROUP BASEBALL DELAYED AGAIN

Intramural Sport Will Start After Hoop Tournaments Swimming Meet Also Planned

Intramural indoor baseball, the next sport on the group athletic competition calendar, will be postponed until the week after the state high school basketball tournament, according to an announcement of managers last night. Division of the men's groups into leagues, probably the same as for the recently completed hoop tourney, will be arranged next week.

Indoor baseball is a new sport for men on the Idaho campus. Contests this spring will be played in the Memorial gymnasium on two diamonds at opposite ends of the main floor. The winning group will receive 100 points toward the intramural sports trophy. Announcements as to equipment, rules, and available practice periods will be made later. Baseball and basketball turnouts each evening prevent the beginning of the series this week.

All group swimming teams have been urged to start practice immediately, by Stewart Beam, assistant football coach and director of the aquatic branch of intramural athletics. Elimination tryouts should be held in each house team previous to the meet, he advises, as a limited number of men will be allowed to enter each event. A date during the last week in March is being considered for the meet, which will be held in the Memorial gymnasium pool.

WASHINGTON STATE COLLEGE, Pullman, (PIP)—Verna Knight, Seattle, was featured in the "Hall of Fame" section of the March issue of College Humor, national collegiate magazine. Miss Knight is one of the leading student dramatists, a speech major, and last spring was chosen as one of the five most beautiful women on the campus.

MARIONETTE SHOW SCHEDULE CHANGED

Cancel Friday Performance; Matinee and Evening Program Listed Thursday

A change in the schedule of the Jean Gros' French Marionette company has made it impossible for the company to appear in Moscow more than one day, according to word received from Mr. Gros Wednesday. The marionettes will be seen at the auditorium next Thursday, March 14, in two performances. The afternoon show, which will be given at 4 o'clock, will be the presentation of "The Magical Land of Oz" and in the evening "The Bluebird" will be given.

Because of special interest of children, the afternoon program has been prepared intentionally for them when "The Magical Land of Oz" will be given. The evening program includes a play especially written for adults.

All critics who have viewed "The Bluebird" by Maurice Maeterlinck, celebrated Belgian poet, as presented by Mr. Gros' marionettes have acclaimed the production as an artistic success, according to advance press reports. This is the first time in marionette history that an author of international standing has permitted a group of puppeteers to present a supreme literary achievement with puppets, according to Mr. Gros.

"The Bluebird" is the story of two children who traveled far and wide in search of the blue bird, the symbol of happiness, only to find it in their own home. With the most complicated lighting system ever attempted with a miniature theater, the largest marionettes in America and also the largest traveling puppet stage in the world, Mr. Gros believes it would be impossible to give a finer performance of marionettes.

Tickets for both afternoon and evening shows are on sale at Hodgins'. The Intercollegiate Knights and Spurs are handling the sale on the campus. Tickets may also be purchased at the door.

ALL CHURCHES ENTERTAIN STUDENTS AT PARTY TONIGHT

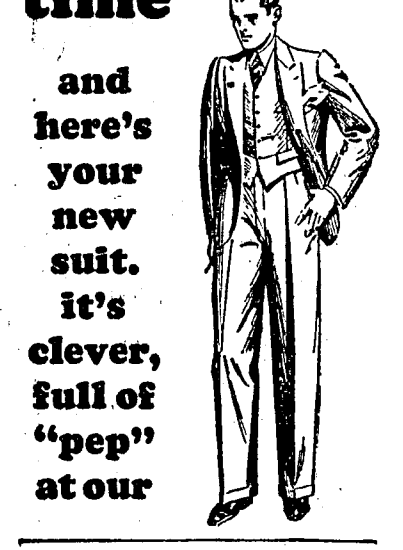

The Methodist church will be host at an inter-denominational church meeting tonight at nine o'clock, according to an announcement made by the Rev. Clifford Drury, pastor of the Presbyterian church. The purpose of the meeting is to better acquaint the students of the several churches. All university students are invited to attend. Committees have been busy planning entertainment and refreshments.

shooting was numerous, but only part of the time did the ball even register the backboard. The score dragged on the same—first 2 to 0 in favor of the Lawyers and finally, 5 to 1. Then the Ags scored their first basket between quarters!

It seems as if there was some sort of a mistake! When the timers attempted to ring the gong to end the first period, the string broke and no sound issued. The play continued as the scorekeeper made a frantic attempt to attract the referee's attention. Finally the gong was fixed.

The Ags took the lead and at one time had a 4-point margin. But Beyer sank a long basket to cut the lead. The Ags netted another point. Then Welker emerged from his "peevishness" to sink a free throw and make a difficult close shot to tie the score at 11—all with less than two minutes to go.

Boyd Gets the Gate

Incidentally, all the fighting was not on the floor—there seemed to be a little bit of argument at the timer's bench—Stephens vs. Boyd. "You cross me again, Boyd, and you go!" "Well the widest part of me is just about as big as his wrist so I guess I'll have to go." . . . Incidentally, Nels Werner became the "substitute," Fat Stephens seemed satisfied.

It was the Ags' game in the second half, but their basket eyes seemed to be made of glass. The Lawyers seemed to suffer the same affliction.
