Rebensdorf, Ahlstrom, McOmber, Peterson, and Nelson Picked for Honor Team by Varsity Coach and Squad

Pocatello and Coeur d'Alene, winner and runner-up respectively in the state high school basketball tournament, each placed two men and Moscow one on the mythical all-state team that was announced at the close of the final game at the Memorial gymnasium Monday evening. In addition members of the Pocatello squad were presented with gold basketball watch charms.

PAYETTE PRAISES STUDENT'S WORK

Marjorie Albertson Composes Musical Score For Comedy "Glorious", Presented Wednesday and Thursday.

"The best thing of the kind that has ever appeared in Payette," was the compliment that was given the musical comedy, "Glorious," which was presented Wednesday and Thursday evenings at the Ritz theater by the Portia club of Payette. All of the musical scores for the comedy were composed by Marjorie Albertson, senior in the university, and a member of Omega Alpha sorority.

Ralph Herron and Robert Deiss of Twin Falls, who wrote the libretto, and managed the presentation. Clever dances and dialogues with special lighting effects and music all helped in making "Glorious" a success.

The following is an extract from the criticism of a Payette correspondent: "Much of the success of the play is due to the manner in which Miss Albertson, in her music, caught the glowing spirit of the play. The Portia club have reasons to be proud that they picked a winner but it is to the composers and authors that the honors of the day. This is the first time that Payette has seen any of their work, but it is hoped that it will not be the last."

STUDENTS PASS ON BY-LAW CHANGES

Three Amendments Unanimously Accepted at ASUI Assembly Friday

Three amendments to the constitution of the ASUI were passed by a small group of students who attended the special assembly in the auditorium Friday morning. The amendments had been read at the last regular ASUI assembly and appeared in full in The Argonaut since that time.

The first amendment provides that the managing editor of The Argonaut shall be elected from not more than three members of the editorial staff, preferably members of the incoming junior class, and that the nominations for managing editor shall be made by the editor, managing editor, and two members selected by and from persons holding staff positions.

A similar arrangement was accepted regarding the election of the managing editor of the Gem of the Mountains. For the Blue Bucket, an associate editor will be elected from students at the annual election of not more than three members of the staff. The editor, associate editor and two members of the staff will nominate the officer.

An amendment to the article that provides for the wearing of a specified style of "T" sweater by all leaders will be voted on in two weeks. Alvin Reading, president of the Associated Students, announced that a new style sweater will be sold without collar and bearing a white "T" of varsity size. Stripes would be in gold, one for each year of service.

Following the passage of the amendments The Argonaut board will be elected at a staff meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30 in room 201 Administration building. Two members from the staff at large will be chosen.

At a date to be announced later, groups will draw for the privilege of entertaining the visitors. The intercollegiate knights will meet the trains and escort the debaters to their places on the campus.

SPOKANE MAN TO SPEAK HERE

Lee R. Double, Secretary of Advertising Agency, to Address Ad Club Banquet Thursday.

"Before Advertising, What?" will be the subject of talk to be given by Lee R. Double, secretary of the Stevenson-Kelly Advertising Agency of Spokane, at an Ad club banquet to be held Thursday evening at 8 o'clock at the Blue Bucket Inn.

Mr. Double's talk will consist of an analysis of the preliminary steps, such as market survey, sales policies and product investigations, which must be taken before a successful advertising campaign can be launched. He will illustrate his talk with diagrams.

Raymond P. Kelley, vice president of the Pacific Advertising Clubs association, will accompany Mr. Double from Spokane, and will meet with business men of Moscow and with the Ad club in the afternoon.

PIPHIDEBATORS WIN CO-ED TITLE

Defeat Delta Gamma Team Thursday; Winners Challenge Beta Theta Pi, Men's Championship.

Pi Beta Phi won the women's natural debate championship by defeating Delta Gamma in the long delayed final contest of the series Thursday afternoon. The victor defeated Pi Beta Phi in the women's division trophy, a cup similar to the one awarded to Beta Theta Pi, winners of the men's division.

Pi Beta Phi was represented by Vera Forbis and Beulah Burnett. Dorothy Taylor and Lois Walters argued for the losers. The question was "Resolved: That buying by installments should be prohibited." Judges were Dr. G. Harrison, Orrian, Glenn W. Sutton and Charles Nicholson.

The women champions have challenged the Beta Theta Pi team to a debate to settle the campus championship in intramural forensics. Monday night the Beta team had not accepted the challenge. Burdette Belknap, one of the Beta debaters, was recently chosen a member of the varsity debate squad, complicating matters and making him ineligible under the intramural rules. A debate between the two champions may be arranged later.

The men's and women's cups will be presented to the winning groups at an assembly, said Marjorie Albertson, Delta Sigma Rho president.

ADVERTISING CLUB HAS 'BOOST' WEEK

Local Merchants Displays to Enter Contest of Appeal and Effect

The advertising club, in conjunction with the Associated Business Students, is sponsoring an advertising achievement week, which will be held during the week of May 12-18. Plans were outlined at the Moscow Chamber of Commerce at its last meeting and they heartily endorsed it and pledged their support, according to Glenn Wright, president of the club.

The purpose of the advertising week is to let both the public and the business men get more direct benefits from advertising.

The main event of the week will be the advertising display which will be probably held in one of the downtown stores. Most of the local stores are expected to contribute exhibits to the display, and it is probable that Spokane and Lewiston advertisers will compete. The winners, which are to be picked on the basis of effectiveness and popular appeal, will be sent to the Pacific Coast district, and will compete there. This contest is arousing much interest, according to Mr. Wright, and it is expected to be of real benefit to the advertisers, who take part. The display will be open to the public.

There will also be two banquets during the week, at which time prominent advertising men from the Inland Empire will address the members. The committee in charge of the week's work at this district, and will consist of the following: Dean Ralph S. Farmer of the school's department; Earl David, of the department store; Lambert Cannon of the Associated Business Students; and Glenn Wright of the Advertising club. Sub-committees will be appointed later.

Pocatello Batters Way To 1929 Basketball Title

Coeur d'Alene High School, Champions of 1928, Defeated 23-14 in Final Game of State Tourney

By FRANK E. JUDY

After losing to Coeur d'Alene Thursday evening, Pocatello turned the tables on the 1928 champions, and won the state high school basketball title for 1929 by defeating the Lake City team 23 to 14 at the Memorial gymnasium Monday night. Pocatello upset the dope and defeated Coeur d'Alene 34 to 22 Saturday evening, throwing the tournament into a fourth day.

Coeur d'Alene's downfall broke a two-year record of 41 consecutive victories, including the state tournament at Pocatello last year. Pocatello played hard aggressive basketball and it was soon apparent that the crowd did not favor that style of play.

Soda To Call For Committee Reports; Orchestras Picked For Big Social Functions

The second Junior mixer of the season will get underway tonight at the Blue Bucket Inn with festivities beginning at 8 o'clock. It was announced Monday afternoon by Johnnie Soden, class president.

They are Clair Gale's musicians for the Junior party, Johnnie Soden's orchestra, under the direction of Ray Kelley, for the prom, and two orchestras, McGinty's and Benson's for the cabaret.

BUSINESS STUDENTS GROUP TAKES SHAPE

Organization of the Associated Business Students group is proceeding rapidly, according to Lambert Cannon, president. Robert Holden, vice president; Chester Whitaker, treasurer; and May Mosman, secretary.

It was pointed out that all the other professional schools of the university had benefited by similar organizations, and it was thought that the idea could well be applied to the business school. Accordingly, the Associated Business Students group was created to fill the need felt for such an organization. The purpose of the association is to foster a better spirit of cooperation and interest in business, and to help the members to a broader outlook of the business field through bringing in outside speakers.

SIX TO RECEIVE HOOP AWARDS

Board Approves Letter Recommendations Submitted by Coach Fox; Decline Frosh Tonight

Six members of the varsity basketball squad will receive letter awards for their work during the 1928 season, having fulfilled the requirements set forth in the constitution of the ASUI. The list of men recommended Coach Rich Fox was approved by the executive board at its last meeting.

Darwin Burgher will receive his third basketball letter, his seventh in four years of varsity athletic competition at Idaho. Frank McMillin and Harold Stowell, Idaho's star forwards, will receive their second letters. Robert Drummond, guard, and Harold Thornhill, forward and center, also will be granted their second letters. Harold Carlson will receive his first letter for his work at the center and guard positions this year.

Freshman basketball numerical recommendations were referred back to the coaches for a more detailed account of time played by each of the men. The freshman awards probably will be decided at the executive board meeting tonight.

ASSOCIATED WOMEN WILL MEET TODAY

Associated Women Students will hold a meeting at 5 o'clock today in Science hall room 110, at which time a nominating committee will be appointed to select candidates for the election of officers which is to be held the first week in April. At this time also Miss Maus Scherer, well-known dramatic artist, will speak to the group.

DRAMA CRITIC PRESENTS PLAYS

Maude Sheerer Gives Four Day Repertoire of Late Successes on Eastern Stage

Two current Broadway dramas, "Wings Over Europe" and "Caprice," will be presented by Maude Sheerer, New York dramatic artist, at the auditorium tonight. The drama "Wings Over Europe" is the first of the evening. Sheerer appeared before a special student body assembly.

Tomorrow evening she will present "The Road to Rome," an old stage success. L. W. Jones, assistant president, said that the play concerns political conditions in the time of Hannibal, conditions that have been changed but little in 2000 years. He said the play was brilliant in text and epigrammatic lines.

Thursday evening Miss Sheerer will give an entire dramatization of "The Merchant of Venice." In the afternoon at 4 o'clock she will give a talk on voice at the U-Rut. At 5 o'clock she will address the Associated Women Students meeting at the Science hall.

Monday evening she discussed the present theatrical situation in New York. Closing of some 25 theaters on account of poor patronage is not an indication of an artistic failure, she said. She also discussed several plays.

MUELLER CONCERT TO BE HELD FRIDAY

Assistant Professor of Music Will Give Piano Recital; Is Graduate of Leipzig Music Conservatory

Walter Mueller, assistant professor of music, will be presented in a piano recital by the department of music at the auditorium Friday evening. He spent a year in Spokane and then came to Idaho as assistant professor of music. His concert Friday night will include "Childhood Scenes from Schumann," and the "Hamburg Cycle" by Walter Niebaum. The full program will be published Friday.

PHI CHI THETA PLEDGES THREE SOPHOMORE WOMEN

Kathryn West, Olive Newman and Catherine York, sophomores in the school of business administration, were pledged to Phi Chi Theta, honorary business fraternity for women, Sunday morning. ALL-STATE SELECTIONS First Team

F. Peterson, Coeur d'Alene. F. Nelson, Moscow. C. McOmber, Pocatello. G. Ahlstrom, Coeur d'Alene. G. Rebensdorf, Coeur d'Alene.

Second Team

F. Thomas, Pocatello. F. Barrett, Coeur d'Alene. C. Boughton, Coeur d'Alene. G. Wakeman, Boise. G. Wilson, Moscow.

Peterson, the Coeur d'Alene captain, was selected for one forward berth and Nelson, Moscow, was named for the other. Peterson was ill throughout the tournament but played sensational ball despite this handicap. His floor work and basket shooting earned him this distinction. Nelson, the Moscow leader, is one of the coolest players that participated in the tournament. Already a two-year man on the all-state team, he was again named because of his leadership and splendid floor work.

McOmber is center. The advantage of the tip-off and splendid playing under the basket by McOmber earned him the center position of the team. Slow to start in the tournament, McOmber came through in championship style to score a total of 21 points in the last two games against Coeur d'Alene.

To Golden Ahlstrom, dynamic leader of the Pocatello team, goes one guard position on the mythical quintet. A splendid passer and one of the fastest men in the tournament, Ahlstrom earns this berth with no protest. Phil Rebensdorf of Coeur d'Alene was named the running mate of Ahlstrom. Rebensdorf was a tower of strength in defense and was the keyman of the Lake City attack. A (Continued on Page 4)

He will leave Chicago Thursday and on his return trip will stop at Pocatello for a few days to confer with Dean M. F. Angell of the southern branch of the university. He will be in Moscow next week.

PHONE COMPANIES INTERVIEW SENIORS

Graduating Business and Engineering Students Discuss Future

E. E. Wyland, representing the Boise office of the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph company, and Messrs. J. C. Grey, R. J. Hefner and McCarthy of the Pacific States Telephone and Telegraph company, spent last Friday and Saturday on the campus interviewing seniors of the school of business administration and the college of engineering with a purpose of selecting a limited number of these students to enter their respective companies after graduation.

Due to the fact that these two subsidiary companies of the Bell Telephone and Telegraph company operate within this state both draw students from the university. Graduates and former students now in the employment of the Mountain States Telephone and Telegraph company are: Dalmier E. Wyland, 24, Boise; S. C. Johnson, 26, Helena, Mont.; R. D. Halliton, 23, Boise; Jess Grey, 27, Boise; Jack Boiser, 26, Boise; G. R. Ross, 28, Boise; T. G. Howard Andrews and Burdette Belknap will meet the U. of O. team on the question, "Resolved: That the jury system should be abolished." This contest will be one of the few decision debates held here this year. On the same day Conway Adams and John Ewing will debate the University of Southern California team. The question will be, "Resolved: That the plea of temporary insanity in the defense of crime should be prohibited by law." There is a possibility that this contest may be held in Lewiston, according to Jasper V. Garland, coach. Details on both contests will be announced later.

ENFORCING TRADITIONS

THE "I" CLUB has again taken over the enforcement of campus rules, and already husky letterman have been busy checking or intentional violators the error of their ways. The "I" men have a thankless task—one which would be made easier for all concerned if the students themselves were more interested. The "I" club should not be required to take the "I" responsibility for enforcing the rules—that should come from the students. It often happens that offenders think they are terribly wronged when the "I" men turn them up. If the lettermen don't enforce the rules, they are razed. When they do, a few soft-hearted individuals raise the cry that the "I" men are taking advantage of their official capacity to paddle poor defenseless freshmen, sophomores and juniors.

The fraternities could do a lot toward solving the problem by seeing to it that their members are not included in the list of offenders. In spite of the men's houses breaking of campus rules is punishable on the same basis as violation of house rules. Freshmen venturing on the campus without green caps, sophomore wearing cords or juniors wearing hats, are summarily punished with the result that violations in that house are few.

Fraternities in general claim that the first two years of membership in their groups is equivalent to a training course. If that is true, then a number of fraternities at Idaho could well afford to teach their members and pledgees to observe the campus rules. Last year fraternity men were noticeably the most chronic offenders among freshmen and sophomores as well as freshmen.

YELL KING SWEATERS

IDAHO'S yell kings in the future will receive official "I" sweaters, similar to those granted to athletes winning letters, with the exception that a white cone will be added to the top of the letter "I".

An amendment to the ASUI constitution to that effect was read for the first time Friday at the student body assembly. The yell king is an individual who works hard for the students all year, and receives more abuse than thanks for his services. The "I" club approved the proposed amendment before it was presented to the executive board. The members of the club deserve commendation for their broad-minded attitude in allowing the standard letter sweaters to be granted to others than athletes.

A SUCCESSFUL TOURNAMENT

IDAHO has just completed another state-high school basketball tournament, probably the most successful one that has been staged on the campus. Handling a tournament is a tremendous task, and all the students and organizations that aided the project deserve a lot of credit for making the tournament a success.

Blue Key fraternity's breakfast for the visiting high school players, and their coaches was a fitting official conclusion. Speeches were short but the spirit behind them was emphasized by their brevity. The pep band members turned out in full force, and their snappy music when the teams were leaving gave even university students a thrill.

Members of the high school teams will go to their schools with a favorable and pleasant impression of the university, an impression that cannot help but be given to some extent to the thousands of students with whom they come in contact.

Student Opinion

A great many things have been said recently about Idaho "traditions". Yesterday, the freshmen were expected to comply with one of them, and members of a certain organization were out with their big sticks to enforce it. It seems that the student body has not shown much interest in the matter, however, and I have been told that disregard is even more terrible than it sounds. Under such circumstances, it is nothing short of a crime, I suppose, to suggest that the reason for that lack of interest is that something is wrong with the "traditions". Yet, I have chosen to commit that crime. Something is wrong with these "traditions".

In the first place, there are too many of them. A conservative count shows that there are no less than 38 of these customs and that rules under which they must be followed number well over 50. Students are tired of studying all night to find out what must be done to be conventional on the next day.

Another reason that the student body disregards these "traditions" is that they are but the antiquities of a past barbarism. The "hello spirit," "campus day," "the sophomore blight," "the day," "the sophomore blight" are but a few of the moss-giving relics which clutter up the life of a live institution. "That Old Idaho Spirit," where everyone throws away his books and becomes "collektate" at the least excuse, would look better in a frame than it does now as a halter on progress. When the spirit grows big enough to fit the institution of which it is a part, traditions will not have to be enforced.

W. A. A. FAVORS LESS RIVALRY

Proceeds from Annual Dance Festival to Start Investigation of Women's Athletics in High Schools.

Proceeds from "Taps and Terpsichore", W. A. A. dance festival which will be presented in the auditorium April 4, will be utilized by the organization to make a survey of high schools in Idaho to determine the status of athletics and physical education among girls.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover several years ago fostered a movement which formulated an attitude against competitive athletics among women. The movement has been carried forward by the women's division of the National Amateur Athletic Federation of America, of which the Idaho Women's Athletic Association is a member group.

In the survey W. A. A. will attempt to determine which high schools in Idaho have competitive athletics and which do not, and to ascertain the principals of schools who engage in interscholastic athletics for girls. Afterwards bulletins of the Amateur Athletic Federation of America will be sent to these schools.

VOTE TO ABANDON FORESTRY STATION

Lack of Funds Given As Reason for Closing Experiment Unit

By rescinding an action taken a year ago, the executive board of education for the university which met with President Kelly last Wednesday, voted to abandon plans for a forestry experiment station for the University of Idaho.

A year ago the board decided that the state and the citizens as well as the students at the university would profit by a forestry experiment station. This station would take up problems vital to the forestry of Idaho and to the lumbering industries in the state. Research workers would formulate new ways of utilizing the waste materials, of experimenting with forest preservation, of protecting the forests from fire and disease, of doing away with the slash in the forests which constitutes a fire hazard and of extracting oils and other valuable products from the forests which would benefit the state, the industries and which would also serve as a training school for students.

State Was To Aid Venture.

The board's decision was that the experiment station would be established on two conditions. The lumber interests were to provide aid to the station and help it get established and appropriations were to be made by the state for financial backing for the station. When this year's legislature went over the budget for the university the experiment station was not provided for. And although the lumber interests have done their part in the plan, the board has been forced to vote against establishment of the experiment station on account of lack of sufficient funds.

IDAHO GRADUATE COMES TO FRONT

Paul S. Savidge, Class of 1910, Is Engineer and Contractor in Tacoma.

Paul S. Savidge, graduate of the university with the class of 1910, has during the past few years come to the front as a construction engineer, according to a report that recently appeared in the Idaho Statesman.

Immediately after his graduation the report stated, Savidge obtained a position in Montana with an engineering company. At the end of the summer he was appointed to a position in the engineering department of the city of Tacoma, Wash. Later he was promoted to chief engineer and superintendent of the city's water system, constructing at $1,000,000 reservoir as one of the outstanding accomplishments of his work.

Shortly before the war began Savidge left this position to become chief engineer and later superintendent and general manager of the Todd Drydock and Construction company in this capacity he assisted in rushing to completion ships needed for transports in the war.

STUDENT RECITAL WELL RECEIVED

Two soloists who won first places in the high school music contest at the university two years ago, appeared on a student program Sunday afternoon in the auditorium in the second service of the spring series sponsored by the music department.

York Killee, violin, and Elsie Blasinger, piano, were included in the group of students picked from the classes of Professors Claus, Kratt, Mueller, Clark and Treloan.

Vanity As Much Male As Female Attribute If Tuxedos Don't Lie

By Mary Murphy

At last women have found out men's dearest secret! After years of suspicion they have finally managed to collect evidence enough to convict any man of being as vain as any woman. Regardless of how much guffawing the men do to deny it, the greatest task of their college careers is seeing that their ties, socks, shirts, and handkerchiefs match. No one, except the fellow himself can know the bitter disappointment of being obliged to refuse a date to a formal because he already has been asked to attend an informal dinner on the same night.

Literary Yearbook Chock Full of Action, Say Staff Members

"Cotton's own story", interspersed with one quart of ferocious corn whiskey, imbibed incidentally, and one seat at which a party accidentally comprise the story of a modern but quaint college student, who burst in to print in the literary yearbook, "From Under the Helmet". The yearbook which comes out April 20, under the auspices of Winged Helmet literary society and the English club, will be chock full of interesting things, say members of the staff.

Stories, short, long and fat; plays, poems and short essays that are nearly feature articles, will be in the book. The edition will be a regular but small book, with a vaguely leather cover and a decidedly interesting 128 pages filled with the best material which the campus can produce. All contributions to the magazine should be in by March 26 and should be given to any member of Winged Helmet. To get back to Cotton's story, it concerns the ever present collegiate ad-love. A moon and Ford car, a college youth who is trying to learn how to make love—all of these are the ingredients of the story. The result is—well it is in the yearbook.

WINGED HELMET ANNOUNCES SEVEN NEW MEMBERS

Seven new members have been elected by Winged Helmet, student literary society. The new members are Russell Hodgson, Mary Murphy, Hazel Simonds, Adrian DesMarais, Helen Anderson, Paul Croy and Glenn Johnson. Faculty members present at the luncheon last week when the pledges were announced were Miss Ada Burke, Dr. and Mrs. G. M. Miller, and Mr. John Cushman.

Lovers' Lane of Old Had Added Advantage Of Romantic Bowery

By Helen Veasey The board walk which is alleged to be becoming very popular these spring evenings is but a sad reminder of the picturesque promenade which was in days gone by a valuable addition to the campus.

It was in those days that nature and this walk heartily cooperated with romance and the passing of pins. This rival of Atlantic City's fame ran from Ridenbaugh hall down Blake avenue directly across the campus, turned around on University avenue and straggled on up to the old gymnasium.

The swampland in front of Ridenbaugh, old timers say, was the best spot and was always taken early in the evening. The slightest mention of the bridge there and the willow trees never fails to bring a joyful glint of appreciation to their eyes.

What bliss! Who says that the brickyard, the bleachers, the arboretum, or the heating plant could possibly compare to that?

PERSONNEL BUREAU PLANS ANNOUNCED BY ADMINISTRATION

Professors Mosher and Smith Gather Data on Prospective Students

TO BE MENTAL TESTS

Surveys Will Aid Old Students As Well As Entering Freshmen

Preliminary organization of a university advisory bureau was instituted recently when Dr. Raymond M. Mosher, professor of educational psychology, and Prof. W. Wayne Smith, of the school of education, were appointed by the administration to investigate surveys of the prospective and present student personnel of the university. The bureau will begin to operate when the university opens next September for the fall semester. The ultimate purpose of the bureau will be to gather data in the high schools of Idaho as well as in the university, to be utilized in solving the problems of student fitness, placement, and guidance, as well as other problems of education.

Will Gather Data. In the beginning the bureau will be essentially a data gathering and data disseminating agency. Measures of intellectual, physical, health, physical prowess, mechanical ability, and school achievement will be collected and used in educational prognosis and guidance of students.

Doctor Mosher will devote the major portion of the university aspect of the problem, while Professor Smith will conduct conferences and tests in the high schools. The physical, social, environmental, and hereditary factors influencing the abilities and determining to a large extent the success of students of the University of Idaho will be investigated. The data collected from these surveys will be organized and studied, and in the future the bureau hopes to give reasonably accurate advice not only to students enrolled in the university but to prospective students as well, regarding their chances in higher education.

Use Mental Exams. For some years freshmen have been given an intelligence test upon registration by the psychology department, but the information obtained from the examinations has not been utilized to a great extent. The personnel bureau will make use of this data and the results of other tests which will be administered for very definite diagnosis of the educational problems of individual students.

d'Alene scored but four in 32 attempts. Pocatello (25) . Coeur d'Alene (14) Thomas (7) . Carlson Barrett (4) . Peterson McOmber (10) . Boughton Daley (1) . Christoffersen Ahlstrom (1) . G. . Rehensdorf Lente Both Officials: Hunter, referee; DeJulio, umpire.

Six of the eight starting teams in the tournament fell by the wayside during the first two days of play. Twin Falls and Lewiston were the first eliminated, each losing two games Thursday. Rexburg, Boise and Moscow and Salmon lost their second games Friday leaving Pocatello and Coeur d'Alene to fight it out for the title. After losing to Coeur d'Alene by 20 to 19 Thursday evening, the Railroad Lads turned tables in the Saturday encounter to win by the score of 34 to 21.

Moscow Puts Salmon Out. Moscow eliminated Salmon Friday by winning 33 to 6. The issue was never in doubt after Moscow had rushed into a 9 to 3 lead at the end of the first quarter. The speedy work of Wilson, who was high point man with eight digits, featured the game.

Vikings Seal Braves. Coach Basler's Boise Braves fell before Coeur d'Alene's sensational basket shooting Friday 32 to 16. The first half ended with the score 12 to 12; but after five minutes of play in the third quarter, the Boise team was trailing by six points. This difference widened, with Captain Peterson and Boughton scoring baskets from all parts of the floor. The former registered 10 points and Boughton 12 points during the game.

Member Held Scoreless. The speedy little Rexburg team, winner of the sportsmanship trophy, was eliminated by Pocatello Friday 28 to 19. Playing the same clean basketball that they displayed throughout their games, the Rexburg men held Pocatello even for a 15 to 15 score at the end of the third quarter, but had given their best and fell before a deluge of baskets by Thomas and Barrett. Eardley did not permit the all state center, McOmber, to make a basket. Conley Watts, Madison high's sensational forward, registered eight points to lead the losers.

SMALL CLASS NEARS END SHORT COURSE

Eight Students Complete Work in Auto Instruction Period With Month of Actual Experience in Shops.

Eight students are now completing their auto mechanics course by taking one month of practice work under the supervision of the agricultural engineering department. The course, which started more than four months ago under the direction of E. H. Humphrey, included four months of instruction and one month of practice work. Eighteen students completed the four months work. Ten of these students secured employment, and the other eight are now taking the practice work for which they receive one-half to two-thirds full pay.

Pre-Med Students Don't Spend All Time Wading Through Seven-Inch Thick Volumes

The old saying that half the world lives, applies to college as well as to the universe at large. On the top floor of the Science hall, far from the distracting bustle of the campus, the pre-medical students labor diligently. Contrary to popular opinion, however, all their time is not spent in wading through seven inch thick volumes.

In elementary and advanced physiology classes experiments are made extremely interesting and easily comprehensible, and yet are not generally known. For instance, few people know that there are hot and cold spots in their skin. Spots sensitive to heat are determined by touching the back of the hand with a warm needle, vice-versa the cold spots can be located with a cold metal point.

An experiment called the "shifting of the physiological zero" proves that human senses aren't always reliable. If a finger of one hand is placed in cold water and a finger on the other hand in hot water until there is no definite temperature sensation, in other words, when both fingers are plunged into tepid water, the first will feel as though it were in hot water and the second as though it were in cold.

Cold liver oil is tasteless. It is the smell that makes it unpalatable. Perhaps, this resulted in the old fashioned custom of mother holding Johnny's nose firm between her forefinger and thumb while forcing him to down a dose of fish oil. Mother's efforts, however, usually proved fruitless, as the smell was still perceptible to the olfactory nerves which open from the throat to the nose. Undissolved substances cannot be tasted. There are only four senses of taste, sweet, sour, bitter and salty. Sweets can generally be tasted on all parts of the tongue but the sweet taste is more accurate on the tip. Bitterness, on the other hand can be sensed only on the back, while the sides respond to saltiness and sourness.

Measure Red Blood, Too. An elaborate method is used in determining the number of red blood corpuscles in a cubic millimeter. The blood is first dyed with a red stain for under a microscope it appears yellow. This is an effective means of nature fading. A drop of blood is then put on a ruled slide and covered by a cover glass. Because the slide is divided by delicate lines into squares each one four-hundredths of a square millimeter in area and the cover glass is so placed as to form a cell exactly one one-hundredth of a millimeter deep it is possible to count the number of red blood corpuscles in a cubic millimeter.

For once men show a sign of superiority, as they have five million red blood corpuscles in a cubic millimeter while women have only four and one half million. These figures apply to sea level for the number increases in higher altitudes because breathing is more difficult and the larger supply of oxygen must be taken care of. The aim of the elementary physiology class is to give a clear and accurate picture of human functions. The students have at their disposal an interesting model which shows how the lungs work but even more interesting and fascinating is the mannikin. At first sight it makes a rather horrid and unlovely spectacle but the students claim that it improves upon acquaintance.

SENIORS MEASURE FOR ROBES OF RANK

Cap and Gown Sizes Must Be Taken by Middle of May

Graduating seniors must have their measurements taken for caps and gowns not later than April 15, according to Dean Arnold, chairman of the cap and gown committee. Plans calling for a new system in handling announcements are practically complete, said William Callaway, president of the class.

Measurements for caps and gowns will be taken at David's department store. It is necessary that the measurements be taken at once so that properly fitting gowns may be secured, the committee announced. Davids' have a number of caps and gowns on hand but many will have to be ordered.

A number of samples of announcements have been received by the committee and the selection will be made within a few days. Something new in the line of announcements, and yet in good taste, is promised by the committee. The announcements will probably cost between eight and 15 cents each. When the announcements go on sale of all members of the class will be asked to cooperate in purchasing them from the committee, Mr. Callaway said.

Members of the committee which will plan the grand finale of the senior year, the senior picnic, have been announced by President Callaway. The committee is headed by Elmer Berglund, general chairman; Russell Tuttle and Harry Coughlan, entertainment and recreation; Maurice Nelson and Paul Rudy, finance; Germaine Gimble and Louise Lamelle, patrons; Darius Davis and Bertram Heath, food.

No date has been selected for the picnic, although it will probably be held the early part of May.

leaders of both groups decided that this tradition was bordering on the barbaric and they modified it by saying that the losers must give a banquet or a smoker to the winning team. That year the lawyers lost the basketball game and gave a smoker for the Ags. Last year the lawyers were lucky in the basketball contest but it seems that they were left holding the traditional sack for the promised smoker. Anyhow, another campus tradition is on the rocks and the Ags will have no opportunity to gloat over their vanquished rivals.

TWO TEAMS LAND PAIR ON ALL-STATE QUINTET

tireless and clean player, Rehensdorf's selection was greeted by a tremendous burst of applause by the audience.

Thomas and Barrett, Pocatello forwards were named on the second team. These two lads figured prominently in the success of the championships and Thomas was one of the leading scorers of the tournament, while Barrett's shooting at long range was exceptional.

Boughton of Coeur d'Alene, was selected for the center position over Eardley of Rexburg. The Lake City pivot man played consistent ball and was an important cog in the runner-up's attack.

Wakeman, the tall, rangy guard of Boise, was given one guard position, Wilson, the speedy Moscow guard, was named for the other. Wakeman was outstanding on the defense but lacked the scoring power to rate him higher. Wilson has speed to burn and was high in the scoring of the guards in the tournament.

The selections were made by Coach Rich Fox, Freshman Coach Glenn Jacoby, Harold Stowell, Darwin Burger, Harold Thornhill, Robert Drummond and Frank McMillin.

FREE THROWS Sports Comment

Edited by PAUL BOYD and FRANK JUDY

To the victors belong the spoils—but the Coeur d'Alene team was glories in defeat. Telford's boys gave all they had in their clean battle, but they were weakened by the clever fighting tactics of the Pocatello lads. Peterson, the all-state forward was a pathetic figure struggling vainly to stand off the rushes of the winners.

The hand remains faster than the eyes; knees and elbows might well be added to hand. For a referee of Hunter's ability to be so blinded by a high school team speaks well for the degree of proficiency that the lads from the railroad center have developed. A tribute that contains no element of praise.

The runner-up cup awarded Coeur d'Alene should mean a lot to the Lake City players. Playing without protest in such a game as was played last night is proof of true sportsmanship.

All-state selections were not accepted unanimously. How the seven selectors could have possibly seen all-state ability in Nelson, Moscow forward, remains a mystery. The fact that a man makes the coveted honors in previous years should have but little bearing on the choice. Just a plum for the local hamlet.

Perhaps too much stress is placed on the standing of the team in the tournament. One man cannot make a winner out of a team and it is our understanding that a man is chosen for his ability and playing displayed in the tournament. Wakeman of Boise, could have well been placed on the first team with Ahlstrom placed in a forward position. Or by the same shift, Wilson might well have been granted a berth on the first team.

The Coeur d'Alene supporters trekked to Moscow in all sorts and means of conveyance. The placard—Moscow or bust—was much in evidence throughout the day. The rooters numbered 300 and their vocal support was one of the features of the game.

The umpire was no stranger to the local fans although it was the first time that he has appeared here in this role. The young man who assisted Hunter was DeJulio, who starred on the Washington State baseball team for three years at second base.

The Idaho campus is resuming a normal appearance after a hectic four days of basketball. The high school lads played a high brand of basketball and some of the shots made come under the head of impossible. All is history, but the lads are looking forward to another year.

While on the future, do not leave Rexburg out of the contenders for 1930 honors. Coach Biddulph accomplished wonders during his first year at Rexburg and by virtue of making a four-year school of Madison high school the entire team will be back next year. True winners of the sportsmanship trophy with the Coeur d'Alene team not far behind.

POCATELLO COACH PROUD OF TEAM

Ed Godfrey, Product of Michigan, Started His Squad Toward State Title Last Year.

With the winning of the all-state basketball tournament by Pocatello last night Ed Godfrey, coach, adds another honor to the string he has steadily been increasing since his graduation from the University of Detroit, Michigan, in 1915. Under his supervision the Pocatello team last year won third place in the state tournament, ending their schedule with a total score just twice that of their opponents.

Godfrey's basketball team at Great Falls, where he was for four years before going to Pocatello, won the Montana Interscholastic championship in 1925, and seventh place in the national relays at Chicago.

As a graduate of New York Military academy and the University of Detroit Godfrey has coached at Park River, North Dakota; Great Falls, Montana, acted for three years as assistant coach of athletics at North Central high school, Spokane and this is his third year at Pocatello.

"It was a hard fight," he declared after the Pocatello team had won the championship trophy, but I'm glad and look at the boys." The winners were slapping each other on the backs, shrieking with joy.

Attorneys Won't Feed Farmers Because Ags "Flopped" Last Year

By Paul Jones

The Ags are going hungry this year—that is, they are unless they provide their own banquet, for, in spite of the fact that the barn yard pilots defeated the apprentices of the legal profession in the basketball classic of the century the lawyers have refused, politely but firmly, to entertain or feed the farm lads. And not without reason, according to Ed Poulton, one of the prominent lawyers on the campus.

The reason is that the Ags failed to give the lawyers a banquet or a smoker last year even though the lawyers embarrassed and humiliated them on the marketplace. This was the first time that a tradition of over 15 years standing had been broken and since the Ags broke it, the lawyers do not feel obligated to reestablish it.

For 15 years it has been the custom for the losing team to wear something for the losing team to wear something to tell the campus of their disgrace, according to Poulton. When the lawyers lost they wore straw hats and when the Ags were defeated they wore white collars around their sunburned necks. Three years ago

"Of course, I have never said just those words from the stage—but in all kindness I have often wanted to offer this friendly help to some poor fellow whose cough was interrupting the show and spoiling the enjoyment of those around him.

"A year or so ago, the makers of OLD GOLD ran some ads on the disturbing effect of coughing in theatres. As an actor, I was grateful for those ads. I am more grateful now that OLD GOLD has invited stage folk to help them bring 'first aid' information to our unhappy friends the 'theatre-coughers.'
