Philosophy Students Love Stray Quarters

"Twenty-five cents to the person who knows the right answer without looking in his book," declared W. Chenoweth, professor of philosophy.

"Twenty cents was all that was worth," said Professor Chenoweth. "I'll give the other nickel to the man or woman who can finish the answer."

Buying answers to questions asked in class discussion was the unique device employed last week to stimulate an indolent class into interest in Descartes' conception of the ultimate.

The reporter, being one of those who did not know the answer, did not wait to see who won the quarter.

Athletic Managers Make Possible Correct Training of Vandal Athletes

The crowds in the bleachers on the field or in the balconies at the gymnasium have grown used to seeing from half a dozen to 15 little satellites standing before, behind, alongside and under the heels of varsity teams that run onto the field or floor at the big games. The crowd knows that the non-combatants are called athletic managers, but the purpose and duties of this supporting column remains a mystery to most students.

Under the Idaho athletic managerial system the student managers are classified according to the major sport they are connected with. There are football managers, basketball, baseball and track managers. The group is further divided by classes as follows: one senior manager, two junior managers, four sophomore and eight freshman managers handle one sport alone, according to the scheme. The graduate manager is at the head of the whole organization.

Elimination Basis Used.

Competition and elimination is the basis for promotion under this system. The senior manager in each sport appoints the freshmen. At the end of a year's work, a board consisting of the graduate manager, the senior student manager, and the coaches of the sport in question select the four best freshmen to be sophomore managers the succeeding year; the two best sophomores to become junior managers; and the most eligible of the two juniors to receive the honor and privilege of being the senior manager. The senior's job is of course the goal of all aspirants, and it requires three years of regular, hard work to make the grade. Competition is keen.

The senior manager is awarded an official manager's "I" sweater upon his appointment, and he is in complete charge of all finances, equipment, etc., connected with the sport. He makes all the trips with the team, and on the road is certainly a busy man. He is required to take care of all the trunks full of equipment, purchase all needed supplies, make all reservations and settle for them, and to take all financial worry or troubles off the minds of the coaches and players. He receives no salary for his work, but the honor of the position and the experience and travel connected with the job appear to be sufficient remuneration for the average undergraduate who is keenly interested in athletics, yet unable to make the team.

Juniors Do the Work.

While the team is at home the senior has little to do, though he is responsible for the work of his subordinates. The two junior managers and the underclassmen are the toilers at home, while the senior merely directs.

Frank Hunt, as senior football manager last fall, had probably the most difficult, yet the most aspired-to position. Football is the principal sport in several ways, and the senior manager of this sport has a real job on his hands. Much more time, equipment, money and effort is spent on the fall sport than on the succeeding athletic attractions throughout the year, and Hunt, as manager, was responsible for everything connected with it except the winning of the games.

Two Juniors Helped Hunt.

The two junior managers, Paul Gowen and Rex Westcott, were chief assistants to Hunt, and took general charge of practice sessions, etc. Under these two labored the sophomores and freshmen. Helmets, shoulder pads, shoes, footballs, and all other equipment handed out, carefully checked, gathered up and safely stored away daily by these tireless lads who were out on the field day after day, rain or shine, tending to the wants of their great gods, the varsity men. One of the junior managers usually accompanied the freshman varsity team on trips in the capacity of official manager, but the only real traveling is done by the senior.

The system works about the same in each of the other sports, though the others do not require the large staff, nor the time that football does. Kenneth Marchesi was senior manager in basketball, and was in complete charge there. He accompanied the team wherever it went and did the dirty work on the road.

His two junior assistants, Jess Egurola and Earl McDonald, were more or less in charge of administering service to the fighting men in the Memorial gymnasium, and the sophomores worked under them. There were no freshmen used this last season. The four sophomores, Gerald Grimm, James Mitchell, Ralph Washburn and Charles Barbor, were the general handy men.

Same System in Baseball.

Baseball and track, which start within a few weeks, will probably have the same militaristic system of managers to make it better or worse. There are still a few positions open in the underclass ranks in these sports which will no doubt be filled when regular practice sessions begin.

Cecil Flott will be senior manager for baseball, having been appointed at the close of the season last year. His "I" sweater is worn out already even though his season has not yet begun. Frank Winzler will wear the black coat sweater with the white letters spelling "junior" across the back. At present he is the only junior appointed. The underclass list is incomplete also, but so far Wilford Young and Don Corliss, sophomores; and Robert Grant, Mercer Kerr, Quentin Mack and Carl Leithe, freshmen, will chase balls, carry bats, rake the diamond and run errands.

Track Staff Complete.

A large turnout of varsity track aspirants is expected and a fairly complete managerial staff has been appointed to handle this branch of athletics. Harry Jones, senior, and Robert St. Clair and Elmer Posten, juniors, will be the chiefs of staff. The slaves who will have to rake, roll, water and otherwise remake the quarter-mile cinder track for the coming season will be Kenneth Eberhart, Harold Ostrander and Gerald Bartholow, sophomores; and Marion Steffensen, James Wells, Morgan Heap, Ralph W. Olmstead, and Melvin Conrod, freshmen.

PHI BETA SECRETARY ADDRESSES STUDENTS

Gives History of Honorary Fraternity; Helps Instill New Chapter at Pullman.

Oscar M. Voorhees, national secretary of Phi Beta Kappa, spoke on national honor societies at a meeting for university students Friday afternoon. He described the growth of honor societies and explained how new ones may be formed.

Phi Beta Kappa, the oldest national scholastic fraternity, was first established as a social fraternity at William and Mary college, Virginia, in 1779. About 60 years later with the rise of other social fraternities it withdrew becoming a purely scholastic society of 114 chapters as it exists today.

An organization of the six existing intercollegiate national honor societies was formed in 1925. This organization will admit as national honor societies one fraternity in each field of activity. Strong local societies in schools of "A" rating stand chances of receiving national chapters.

Phi Beta Kappa, the oldest national scholastic fraternity, was first established at Washington State College, Saturday. This is one of three chapters to be instead in western universities this year. Members of the Idaho chapter attended.

The first firing on the new outdoor rifle range on the Pullman road, one and one-half miles west of Moscow, will be held next Wednesday, weather permitting, according to Lieut. C. H. Hart. Transportation will be furnished by the military department.

MRS. KELLY PRAISES IDAHO'S SPIRIT; COMMENDS SOCIAL LIFE ON CAMPUS

"One of the very nicest customs at the University of Idaho which is not common at many universities is that of entertaining the faculty in dormitories and group houses," said Mrs. F. J. Kelly in an interview today. "I am sure the faculty people appreciate this contact very much for it gives them an opportunity to become personally acquainted with the students," she continued. "The friendship between students and faculty is very noticeable."

Faculty members are never informally entertained by the social groups at the University of Minnesota, and very little at the University of Kansas, Mrs. Kelly explained, unless they are themselves members of the group. Even the president and other executive officers are not invited into the groups, she said. "Faculty people are sometimes entertained at formal dances or teas, but they do not have an opportunity to meet the students on a friendly and informal basis."

"Closely related with the spirit of friendliness is the almost complete absence of class distinction on the campus," Mrs. Kelly went on. "Equality and general good will are very evident."

Mrs. Kelly explained that in a large school this democratic spirit is almost impossible. At some of the large eastern institutions, which are many times larger than Idaho, and where more than half the students live off the campus, it is impossible for a democratic spirit to develop, she said. At the University of Minnesota, for example, some men and women meet their fellow students only in class, where there is hardly a chance even to learn their names.

ness. We are glad to be here, and we like the students very much."

Mrs. Kelly is very enthusiastic about her home. She and President Kelly live in a large house on First street, which Mrs. Kelly has had remodeled and refurnished. She is also very fond of flowers and has a large variety of potted plants in her sun parlor, a delightful room with bright green rugs and light wicker furniture.

"I shall have the very first lilac blossoms in Moscow this spring," she said smilingly, as she pointed to a large branch of lilac in a vase of water. It was rich with green leaves, and tiny round buds were already making their appearance.

"Please come to see me again and bring some other girls with you," she invited pleasantly as the reporter left.

The flapper co-ed went to the young prof, and said: "Proffy, dear, what are my marks?"

He put his arms around her and whispered sweet little nothings in her ear.—Queen's Journal.

"Athletic" contests such as 20-yard dashes and discus throwing contests between the college of letters and science; the engineers, foresters, ags, and miners; the business and law schools; and the school of education, occupied the early part of the evening. The business school was adjudged the victor and was awarded a "silver" loving cup. Following this, refreshments were served and the remainder of the evening was devoted to dancing. Music was furnished by Clair Gale's orchestra.

VANDALS WIN OVER LEWISTON NORMAL TO TUNE OF 17 TO 0

Sunday Game Called Because Of Bad Weather Conditions

IDAHO LOOKING GOOD

Cheyne, McMillin, Burton Start Things For Gem Staters

Idaho's Vandals unleashed a powerful hitting attack to defeat the Lewiston Normal 17 to 0 at Lewiston last Saturday. The Vandals combed four home chucks for 11 hits and took advantage of the five errors committed in the field by their opponents, to convert them into tallies.

The Idaho outfit rang up 11 of their total runs in the first two innings, smashing the offerings of two hurlers to all corners of the lot. Hits by Cheyne, McMillin and Burton, with two passes thrown in, and a bobble in the infield showed four runs across. The second inning was a big one for the Vandals, seven runs coming over the plate before the side was retired. Burton started the rally with a sharp single to left field, and came home on Cheyne's second hit of the day. McMillin, Halliday and Price all followed with blows that figured in the scoring column. With two away Weberling was substituted for Johnson for the Normal side and he held Idaho club scoreless until the fourth when Idaho tallied again on Price's extra base knock and a sacrifice fly by Greeling. The Idahoans tallied one in the sixth, seventh and eighth innings, but were held in the ninth.

The starting lineup for the winners was Cheyne, SS; Greeling, C.F.; Halliday, 2B; McMillin, 1B; Lawrence, R.F.; Price, L.F.; Burton, 3B; Kyselka, G. Lindsay, P. Lindsay was later relieved by Darrold Smith, who pitched very effective ball. The Pioneers garnered only seven hits off the combined offerings of the two Idaho curvers. Cheyne and Burton led the Idaho stickers with three blows for five times at bat each.

One interested spectator that wasn't frozen out was Leo Calland, Idaho's new director of athletics. Calland witnessed the game, and was decidedly pleased with the manner in which Idaho defeated its opponents.

The score:
R. H. E.
Lewiston Normal..... 0 7 5
Idaho..... 17 11 2
Batteries — Johnson, Weberling, King, Bovey and Heath; Lindsay, Smith and Kyselka.

Idaho was supposed to play against a picked team Sunday, but was forced to call the game off in the second inning because of rain, wind, snow and some dust, putting the game on ice for the weatherman.

Art Cheyne, flashy short stop, was all the Vandals needed to subdue the Lewiston nine in their only batting session, when he caught Shelby's line drive and tagged Heath off second. Heath had got on and was advanced to second by Bushman on a perfect bunt, only to have Cheyne pull his act. Fox then called the boys in and said it was too cold for baseball.

Fleshman looked very good for the town team with three strikeouts in the two innings. Cheyne, Greeling and McMillin all taking three and looking for the water bucket.

Cheyne shifted his battery somewhat all through the game; the rest of the lineup was the same. Hugh Dufly was snubbing them and Lefty Grabner was serving them up, when the elements started their play.

The next Vandal games are with the Whitman missionaries. The dates of the two games series are April 16 and 17.

Strike Four

By Linn Covgill
Idaho's first tough opponent will be Whitman's Missionaries at Walla Walla next week. "Nig" Borleske, baseball mentor for the Whitmanites, certainly turns out some smooth ball clubs.

CO-ED
He always has four or five boys in the club that certainly maul the apple. For the last four or five years they have been either conference champs or runners-up for the title.

CO-ED
Applegate, Croxdale and Holmquist are sure to be in the first team lineup polling them out with lots of pepper.

CO-ED
"Sly" Rich Fox will have his usual bag of tricks to open because he has been giving the boys skull practice in the gym every day.

CO-ED
Shorty Cheyne, the Vandals slicker stick man is due to be up to his last year's form if pre-season games are any indication of his ability to knock them out high, wide, and handsome.

Major Melburn of Montana State is encountering the same difficulty with the weather that the Idaho men-ter is, and has had to hold up practice.

CO-ED
Buck Bailey, Washington State's champion bat breaker is having worries of his own. Archie Buckley, two-year stellar third baseman, is laid up with a bad knee and probably will be out of the game for three or four weeks.

CO-ED
Rumors from Oregon territory show that O. S. C. will have one of the strongest clubs in the conference, battling with the Webfoots and the Washington Huskies for supremacy.

CO-ED
Howard Maple, of N. Y. U. O. S. C. football fame is slated to be the outstanding receiver in the conference, if past records are anything to rely upon,

CO-ED
Because of Idaho's success last year on the diamond and because men can ask their dates to games with immunity from "I" men, the Idaho co-eds are taking a decided interest in the national pastime and are soon to know all the "ins and maybe an out" of the game.

Lesson No. 3 of

BLASTERS' HANDBOOK

EVEN the way that wires are twisted together in making connections has an important bearing on proper use of explosives. Electric blasting is hedged around with most elaborate rules and precautions. There are series and parallel connections, parallel series and series parallel circuits. Blasting machines or power circuits for electric blasting are surrounded with great mystery.

In Chapter Three of the Blasters' Handbook this matter of blasting circuits is illustrated and comprehensively described. The selection and use of galvanometers, rheostats and blasting machines are explained. Tells how to prevent misfires, how to test a circuit, how to locate a break, how to use a resistance table and many other practical phases of blasting circuits.

The Blasters' Handbook, prepared originally for the use of du Pont field service men, is an extremely practical reference and study work. Leading technical institutions are using the Blasters' Handbook in their classrooms. Pocket size for your convenience.
