Exercises in Memorial Army-Gymnasium, President Announces

346 TO GET DEGREES

Seating Capacity of 5000 Persons Arranged; Program Starts June 9

Idaho's memorial army-gymnasium, constructed on the campus of the University of Idaho in memory of her military dead, will be the scene of the commencement exercises for the class of 1929, according to plans announced from the president's office. A class of approximately 293 will receive bachelor's degrees at commencement June 10, along with 53 to get advanced degrees. One of the main events of the program will be the dedication of the Memorial Gymnasium Sunday, June 9. Approximately 5,000 persons can be seated in the auditorium of the Memorial gymnasium, making it possible to take care of all guests who will be on the campus for commencement. Chairs will be provided to seat approximately 2,000 persons, including the members of the graduating class, members of the faculty and relatives of graduating seniors, on the playing court of the gymnasium.

Other guests will be seated in the balconies. In the past years, commencement has been greatly handicapped by lack of space, because the university auditorium has not been large enough to take care of the crowds desiring to attend. The baccalaureate services will be held in the university auditorium on Sunday morning, June 9. The first event to be staged at the gymnasium will be the dedication of the structure Sunday afternoon, May 26. Gen. Robert L. Bullard of Washington, D. C., one of America's outstanding World war heroes and second in command to Gen. John J. Pershing of the A. E. F., has been secured to deliver the dedicatory address. The next event scheduled for the gymnasium will be the graduation ceremony on Monday, June 10. "Hall of Memory"

At the dedicatory ceremonies a large bronze plaque, bearing the names of 901 Idahoans who lost their lives during the World war, will be placed in the "Hall of Memory." This plaque is being provided by the mothers of the state.

PITCHERS ON PARADE

Winners Wave Big Sticks to Gather Flock of Long Blows

Showing a marked increase in hitting power since Idaho took a two-game series from them at the beginning of the season, the Washington State varsity ciouters clubbed the Vandals further into the conference baseball cellar Tuesday and Wednesday. At Pullman on the first day a pair of circuit smashes with men on, defeated the Idaho nine 11 to 2, and on MacLean field Wednesday too many bunched Cougar blows again turned Idaho back, 11 to 6.

Terrific hitting on the part of eight W. S. C. batsmen featured the Cougars win over the Idaho nine at Pullman. Idaho was away to a one run lead in the second inning when Hallday lofted the ball up into the conferece baseball cellar. Fred Staunton, the third hit of the season. This ended Idaho's scoring until the seventh when three bingles tallied Hallday's second run.

Seniors Made Plenty Whoopee, Says Two Star

Howdy, Ladies and Gentlemen and those who went on the Senior Picnic:

Well, I only know what I hear told about the big party and I ain't repeating. The seniors got in their big blow out and now its time that they stop blowing and start making some of us think they know something.

Well, all this political whoopee is making a lot of us wear our ears out, everedropping. Why, just the other night I heard that the editor had got hold of some hot stuff on the low-down in politics about handing out pensions. Now, I don't agree with him very much on the subject. He says, says he, that something was wrong when the executive board didn't make the appointment for all these big butter and egg jobs. Well, I says, says I, that they have a perfect right to hold up the proposition, until Al and Aldon get back from their movie star dates. They deserve time, I don't mean the kind the judge give. I really think that they are waiting so Aldon can take this "pensioning" out of politics. Which would be a bigger step forward than a guy wearing number fourteen can take.

If the executive board had been given their would have passed that resolution about letting sophomores and juniors go hatless. The cigarette party quarantined the seniors, and won't affect them; as they are already bumming them anyway. Some some of the executive board members are going to hide it. Which means that one can't dabble in politics without getting his neck in a sling.

I suppose that some time between now and next Easter the basketball men will get their awards, but they don't need to expect to get interest on the long time wait.

It won't be long now before all the frosh will be learning the best and most original places to sleep when there's work to do. Well, I just say that it's a lot of dumbness to try and hide it. Lewis court or the old gym on Campus day, all the "I" men are on to that gag. They've been using them all winter themselves. A good place would be to snore in the university heating tunnel that leads to the new gym.

None of you want to think that the music that's played during the dinner on Campus day is to entertain you, it's just to drown out the static. Well, anyway some of us boys is going to get a square for once. I wouldn't mind dishing out the ice cream and cake because that's the way a guy goes to meet everybody else about seven times within an hour.

Well, I think I'll limp me and my fever over to the plays tonight seeing as how they are free. Which makes me wonder if they didn't catch my hint a couple a weeks ago. See I planned it all out as I knowed I wouldn't have any money left for the weekend after that there Festival in Lewiston. I'll learn better than to get lost on Moscow mountain.

O. S. C. BALL CLUB HERE NEXT WEEK

Conference Leaders To Mix With Cellular Holding Yandals Monday and Tuesday

Idaho meets the toughest team of the entire conference when she crosses bats with the Oregon State in a two-game series to be played at MacLean field Monday, and Tuesday afternoons. The Aggies are on top of the league at the present time by virtue of defeating the Washington Huskies last weekend. Idaho fared better with the Aggies in their two-game series than with any other club on the road tour. The series was split, Idaho taking the second game after dropping the first. "Lefty" Grabner turned in the win and had no trouble in holding them down to chalk up a credit for Coach Fox. Despite the fact that he lasted but five innings against the Cougars, Grabner is a sure bet to be on the slab either Monday or Tuesday.

Coach Rich Fox has been making some changes in the lineup in an effort to produce a club that will show some batting strength that is capable of producing six or seven hits per game. The two-game defeat suffered at the hands of the Washington State nine showed Coach Fox nine further down into the cellar position. This is the first time in years that the Vandals have ranked so low in conference circles. Price has been dropped to eighth place in the batting order and several other changes have been made. Kyselka, utility man, may see some action in either of the games if he can get his eye on the ball.

SECOND ELECTION AT O. S. C. WILL BE WATCHED CLOSELY

Faculty Steps in When Investigation Discloses Irregularities in Balloting

CHARGE PROXY VOTE

Strict Australian Ballot System to Be Used at Next Student Election

Faculty investigation of alleged fraud and irregularities in a recent Oregon state student body election has resulted in a re-ballot to be held next Wednesday afternoon, May 23, in which the Australian Ballot system will be used to eliminate all so-called "proxy" voting.

Members of the defeated party made charges that the Australian ballot system was not used and that individual irregularities in voting, presumably by proxy, occurred. Special investigation by a faculty committee resulted when a recount of votes was refused. More than 50 students were questioned in private hearings. Pluralties in the election were very small for all the offices, one man being declared elected by the majority of single vote of the total of 270 ballots that were cast.

According to the new system each student wishing to vote must have his signature compared and identified with a duplicate from the registrar's office before he will receive a ballot. Ballots will have two numbered stubs, one to be torn off when the ballot is given to the voter, and the other when the ballot is returned to be deposited in the ballot box. Each campus party will be permitted one challenger at the identification tables. Both the student and faculty committees are talking drastic steps to make any form of "proxy" voting of ballot-box stuffing impossible.

I suppose that some time between now and next Easter the basketball men will get their awards, but they don't need to expect to get interest on the long time wait.

It won't be long now before all the frosh will be learning the best and most original places to sleep when there's work to do. Well, I just say that it's a lot of dumbness to try and hide it. Lewis court or the old gym on Campus day, all the "I" men are on to that gag. They've been using them all winter themselves. A good place would be to snore in the university heating tunnel that leads to the new gym.

None of you want to think that the music that's played during the dinner on Campus day is to entertain you, it's just to drown out the static. Well, anyway some of us boys is going to get a square for once. I wouldn't mind dishing out the ice cream and cake because that's the way a guy goes to meet everybody else about seven times within an hour.

Well, I think I'll limp me and my fever over to the plays tonight seeing as how they are free. Which makes me wonder if they didn't catch my hint a couple a weeks ago. See I planned it all out as I knowed I wouldn't have any money left for the weekend after that there Festival in Lewiston. I'll learn better than to get lost on Moscow mountain.

Well, I only know what I hear told about the big party and I ain't repeating. The seniors got in their big blow out and now its time that they stop blowing and start making some of us think they know something.

Well, all this political whoopee is making a lot of us wear our ears out, everedropping. Why, just the other night I heard that the editor had got hold of some hot stuff on the low-down in politics about handing out pensions. Now, I don't agree with him very much on the subject. He says, says he, that something was wrong when the executive board didn't make the appointment for all these big butter and egg jobs. Well, I says, says I, that they have a perfect right to hold up the proposition, until Al and Aldon get back from their movie star dates. They deserve time, I don't mean the kind the judge give. I really think that they are waiting so Aldon can take this "pensioning" out of politics. Which would be a bigger step forward than a guy wearing number fourteen can take.

If the executive board had been given their would have passed that resolution about letting sophomores and juniors go hatless. ### PROFESSIONAL SERENADES

THE SPARK of spring has stirred the chivalric spirit of the troubador in several of the men's group houses—witness the number of serenades during the past few weekends. Serenading is one pleasant custom that The Argonaut hopes will never disappear from the campus, but even the best of customs have disadvantages. Competition between the men's groups has made it practically necessary to hire an orchestra and in some cases soloists. The result is added expense to the groups, and a wrong idea of what fraternity serenades should be.

If a group is to serenade as a group its singers and musicians should be members of that group. If a group of men want to get together and hire the Pep band and the Men's Glee club to put on a serenade, well and good—but they should not call themselves the so-and-so fraternity. One of the standards by which national fraternity officials measure chapters is group singing. The same standard is applied on the Idaho campus, a standard which is distorted when musical talent is hired.

An agreement among the men's groups would lessen the expenses incurred by serenades, and would further provide a stimulus to the individual groups to improve group singing. Limiting the number of serenades might be considered, perhaps only one general serenade a semester. This would not include the necessary and fitting form of recognition should a couple announce their intentions of marriage. The Argonaut would welcome opinions for or against this suggestion.

POLITICS EVERYWHERE

IDAHO'S campus political pot is cooling off—three weeks ago it was boiling. A glance through the pile of papers on The Argonaut's exchange desk shows that the political pot is boiling right merrily on almost every college campus in the west. Oregon State is enjoying a fine rumpus over a new election, and down in California things are just beginning to happen.

"The New Student," a collegiate publication which some people would call "radical," recently published a rather discerning article on student politics, part of which we are quoting:

Graft is not foreign to campus politics, since one candidate for the editorship of The Campus (Southern Methodist university semi-weekly newspaper) pledged himself, if elected, to give "fullest publicity" to the "slightest evidence of dishonesty, graft, or near graft." Friends and acquaintances will not be spared.

In the war for campus offices secret treaties between fraternities figure almost as largely as the famous secret treaties did in the World War. At Dickinson college, Pennsylvania, Phi Kappa Sigma, one of the two dominant fraternities, renounced these devious deals and pledged itself to make no secret pacts with any other campus group. The action is a response to a strong undercurrent of dissatisfaction with "political office trading," according to The Dickinsonian.

A few select office mongers in each house have taken the burden of nominating into their own hands and have pledged unofficially, but often quite successfully, the members of their houses to vote according to their direction. Such a condition has bred a host of incapable office-grabbers and led to the taking over of the important positions on the campus by satellites of the political group.

THE "I" CLUB ANSWERS

It is time in the heated argument over enforcement of campus traditions that the "I" club should voice its opinion. In every issue of The Argonaut for weeks previous there have appeared editorials or student opinions, either commending or bitterly criticizing the "I" club in its enforcement of these customs. There has been no decision; opinion is clearly divided and there probably will always be criticism for the club on the matter of whether the traditions are enforced or not.

The prevalent idea on the campus is that the "I" club is a cruel, blood-thirsty, cold-blooded group of thugs who find great pleasure in heading off unfortunate students who "forget" their hats (day after day). We want it understood once and for all that we have no desire to paddle violators merely for fun, and furthermore, the "I" club has several times expressed its willingness to be relieved of the duty which brings only hard feelings and criticism. But we have never been relieved of the job for the reason that tradition itself has made our organization the only one which could enforce campus rules. As long as we have these rules the "I" club will be called on to enforce them.

We have never paddled anyone who did not have the paddling coming; in many cases only after consistent and habitual violation; if the continual, conscientious objectors would obey tradition instead of consistently trying to get by without being caught, they never would be invited to our little "petting parties." In most cases the ones punished have taken their medicine without complaint, but some of these and others who would like to go bareheaded, etc., but haven't the guts enough to do it openly, "cry their eyes out" when we tender them the invitation to meet us in a stooping manner.

It is true that some sophomore and junior "I" men have disobeyed traditions themselves and then paddled others who did so. We realize that we have been at fault in this respect, and hereafter our members will abide by the same rules they enforce or be punished along with the other offenders. But it should be understood that we are rigidly enforced by this group with no exceptions, whether the offenders be "I" men, executive board members, or any other supposedly privileged characters. Even if someone does get away with a violation, you might not be so lucky if you try to imitate him or use his offense as an excuse for your own.

It might be well to mention here that a "bid" to one of our receptions is always to be accepted; you may have your regrets but it would be better to bring them in person rather than send them. If we must have criticism whether we do or don't let it be because we do, and in a long-remembered fashion.

(Signed) THE "I" CLUB.

W. A. A. TO PRESENT MAY DAY DANCES

Costumes and Music Most Elaborate in History Says Director

The most pretentious costumes and most intricate grouping of dancers in the history of the Idaho May fete will characterize the festival next Tuesday afternoon, according to Miss L. Jeanette Wirt, head of the women's department of physical education, who is directing the dances. This year's dancers will be draped in silk instead of cheesecloth, as has been the case in years past. The program is to be presented on the lawn between the Administration building and Science hall.

Ruth Story was elected May queen in the recent ASUI election. Her attendants are Marylou Craven, maid of honor, and Margaret Benham, page.

Following is a program of the May fete:
1. Processional of women.
2. Dance of the Winds, arranged by Miss L. Jeanette Wirt.
3. Procession of may queen.
4. May pole dance.
5. Mortar Board pledging.
6. Silver Lance pledging.
7. Recessional.
8. Old Guard pledging.

Women who will take part in the Dance of the Winds are as follows: LaReta Beeson, Bernice Hartenbauer, Helen Mains, Virginia Vance, Erna Williams, Lillian Woodworth, Betty Driscoll, Bess Louise Hogg, Velma Myers, Alice Nash, Ruth Garver, Helen Benson, Doris Brower, Lois Frederickson, Ruth Newhouse, Dorothy Sanford, Mildred Axtell, Jean Edmiston, Vivian Edmiston, Lois Larkam, Bertha Moore, Florence Rudger, and Dorothy Taylor.

The May pole dance will be given by Beulah Barnett, Genevieve Budrow, Virginia Cornell, Mildred Creswell, Virginia Curtiss, Flora Francone, Georgia Hall, Mildred King, Helen Kurdy, Helen Mount, Dorothy Nixon, Ruth Ragan, Grace Reed, Katherine Roe, Pansy Schroeder, Grace Warren, Austa White, and Betty Whitson.

The May festival is given annually under the joint direction of the women's department of physical education and Mortar Board, senior women's honorary, assisted this year by Arthur Ensign and Dan McGrath, property managers. Mrs. Florence Richardson Goff, director in women's physical education, and her class in

Campus Days of Yore Called Out the Entire Countryside

"Everybody for miles around drove into town early in the morning for the festivities," Miss Pomeal J. French, dean of women, said yesterday in speaking of the first campus day which took place in 1910.

"Most of the people came in wagons, because cars were not then so common as they are now. The visitors brought their lunches and lay for the horses, and stayed until evening." "Until 1914 campus day was entirely a day of celebration, Miss French explained. The May fete was given in the morning, and the afternoon devoted to bill games, tennis, and other recreations. A concert was given from the balcony of Eldenbaugh hall for those who enjoyed music. Students, townspeople, and farmers from the country surrounding Moscow gathered on the campus to observe the day which had been dedicated to the university.

The first event of the original campus day was a procession, led by the May queen in her chariot, accompanied by her pages and attendants. She was followed by representatives of all the departments of the university. An interesting feature of this type was a group of small children dressed as books, representing the library. The seniors marched in the parade also, each bearing a wreath of flowers. After winding over the pageantry and festivals are in charge of the arrangement of May pole decorations and garlands for the Dance of the Winds.

STUDENT DRIVE HEADS ARE CHOSEN

Winzeler and Waldrop Pick Captains for Sections of State

Captains who will handle the new student drive in the various towns of the state during this summer have been named by Alice Waldrop and Frank Winzeler, appointed a short time ago by the executive board to be in charge of the drive. Two students were named to take care of each group of three to six towns.

The captains named by Waldrop and Winzeler will select a student in each town for which they are responsible to establish personal contacts with prospective students. A meeting of captains and committee members, as soon as they are appointed, will be held shortly before school is out. Theodore Turner, proctor of men, and Oren Fitzgerald, director of publicity for the university, will instruct the students in ways of approaching prospective students, material and other information about the university which the committee members should have on hand.

An active new student drive is planned for this summer in an attempt to bring Idaho students to the university. Student committees will be urged to put on picnics and other forms of gatherings during the summer as a means to get in touch with prospective students. Correspondence material will be sent out from the headquarters at Moscow in the mail campaign. A trip through south Idaho will be made by Miss Waldrop, according to present plans, to check up on the work being done.

All students of the university should consider themselves as being on the new student drive committee, Mr. Winzeler said, and try to interest new students in coming to Idaho. Cooperation of all students will aid in bringing to Idaho desirable students.

Following are the captains named: Myrtle Haugse and Dana White for Salmon, Bonners Ferry and Sandpoint; Lucille Glindeman and Glenn Shern for Coeur d'Alene, Kellogg, Wallace and St. Maries; Dorothy Taylor and Chester Whittaker for Cambridge, Midvale, Weiser, Payette, Parma and Emmet; William Galcher and Frances Gallet for Boise, Caldwell, Meridian, Nampa, Halley and Bellevue; Russell Potter and Laura Clark for Shoshone, Gooding, Hagerman, Wendell; Jerome and Twin Falls; Dorothy Frederickson and Frank Smuin for Malad, Pocatello, Blackfoot, Idaho Falls, Ashton and Rexburg; Anne Day and Joe Pearson for Spokane. No captain has been named for the district including Moscow, Genesee, Orofino, Kooskia, and Grangeville.

Whisky Flasks Used To Chart Sea Current

LONDON. (IP)—Great Britain has found an effective way to chart the currents of the ocean. Some 500 whisky bottles have been thrown overboard, each having enclosed a small paper issued by the meteorological office of the British air ministry. The finder is asked to forward the contents of the bottle to London, and his postage is refunded if he does so.

Many of the papers have come back. Each slip records the position of the vessel from which the bottle was cast into the waves.

It Won't Be Long Now!

Exams will soon be over and the schoolhouse will be closed for another three months as far as you are concerned. What to do is the question. If you are earning your way through school, entirely or in part you will be interested in the Consumers Merchandise Association of Idaho. Earnings of students range from $400 to $2,500 during vacation. You can depend upon your personality, push and our assistance to make the eagle scream for you. Write or call for further information. Consumers Merchandise Association 416 Cedar Avenue Minneapolis campus, the procession came to a halt on the wide stretch of ground before the administration building, where the queen was crowned and the May pole dances presented.

The wreaths were deposited about the foot of the statue commemorating Ale Gabel Hazberg, a university student who was killed in the Spanish American war. President MeLean addressed the spectators after the ceremonies were over, and responses were given by speakers appointed by each class. In the afternoon the seniors planted ivy near the administration building, which is the reason that Idaho has such beautiful ivy-covered walls at present.

Cleaning the grounds as a part of the campus day activities was begun in 1914 by faculty action. Since then the forenoon has been devoted to planting grass, cutting lawn, spading flower beds, hauling away refuse, and similar work which puts the campus in shipshape order for the remainder of the term. Formerly lemonade was served to the men in the middle of the forenoon, but in recent years, since the student body has greatly increased in size, and its thirst in proportion, the practice has been discontinued. The men are now obliged to trust to the generosity of the sorority whose grounds they clean, for their mid-morning refreshment.

LAKE CITY IS STRONG

Coeur d'Alene Boise and Burley Loom as Strongest Contenders

Nearly 100 high school athletes representing the pick of interscholastic track talent in every portion of the state, gathered at Boise tomorrow afternoon to wage an onslaught on several state records and to compete for team and individual trophies.

In the dashes Willis Smith, Boise, appears to be the most outstanding 100 and 220-yard dash man, but he will face several prospects in the form of Potter of Coeur d'Alene, Wilson of Moscow and Baker of Burley.

Material For Mile. In the mile, although the eastern district has not been heard from, Heyde of Boise has run the event in 4:51.6 in district competition.

In field events, southern Idaho seems to have the advantage, and eastern Idaho is reported to be strongest in this phase.

Blary-Eyed Frosh Comes Out Second in Bout With Prof.

It was one of those afternoons when confinement was maddening. Besides 250 students in one room does not make for an active mind.

The professor had barely gotten his lecture underway when several students began yawning, glancing up occasionally out of drooping eyes, but immediately lapsing back into the borderland.

Mr. X, is that right? On hearing the name, X, sat up at a perpendicular.

Is what right? Ah, just as I thought, exclaimed the professor, asleep again. Now, Mr. X, I don't know whether you are mean by nature or ailing in health, but you are the most persistent pleaser to whom I have ever had the pleasure of lecturing.

But the professor was doomed to be disappointed. Mr. X failed to show up at the next class meeting.

VANDAL BASEBALL TEAM LANDS IN CELLAR POSITION

half an inning being relieved by Judy who fared no better. Hugh Duffy featured the drab contest by several sensational catches to hold down the scoring. Price was the leading hitter for the losers, garnering two blows for three times at bat.

Worden had a little trouble in the eighth inning when Duffy tripled and came home on Cheyne's single over second. McMillin filed out and Lawrence singled to score Cheyne. Kyselka, pinch hitting for Lindsay was safe in a Texas leaguer, scoring Lawrence. Halliday fanned and Price was safe on a hit over second, bringing home Kyselka.

W. S. C. got two in the second on an error by Cheyne and hits by Buzard and Lundberg. Koster began the big third inning that netted five tallies with a double, and Rohwer smashed one of Lawrence's slants for a homer, tallying Koster ahead of him. Cole grounded out and Mitchell singled to Johnson's field.

A single by DiJullo, a double by Buzard, and a three bagger by Worden was enough to cause Coach Fox to derick Judy and put Lindsay in the box. The Cougars bunched hits to get two runs in the fourth, one in the seventh and one in the eighth.

Why one-way Street?

"Well, I'm only goin' one way!" replied the legendary motorist to the amazed John Law.

A laudable principle—if applied in the right direction... exactly as our long experience in cigarette making assures us that the only avenue to enduring popularity is a one-way street.

All the arrows along Chesterfield's route, from plantation to pocket, point directly to taste. No left turns into insipidity—no detours around the plain duty of good tobaccos—to SATISFY.

An overdose of analogy, perhaps, but you get our drift: Chesterfields are mild—but mildness is not overdone; they're never flat. Naturally smooth, aromatic tobaccos are so blended that every last atom of their flavor is delivered to the smoker.

Here is that very rare bird, a cigarette that does satisfy.
