Arguments on Best Possible World Have Many Humorous Angles

The largest crowd in the history of inter-collegiate debate in the University of Idaho attended the contest between Oxford's and Idaho's teams in the university audi-torium Wednesday night. YEARLINGS MEET GONZAGA TODAY

Jacoby's Warriors Mix With Bullpups on Spokane Field at 2:30

Gonzaga will tangle at 2:30 o'clock this afternoon on the Gonzaga field, Spokane, for the first time in the history of either university. Hitherto, Gonzaga has been playing the freshmen on the varsity and has had no regular frosh team.

Coach "Red" Jacoby is taking practically his entire squad with him, and intends to give every man a chance at the toy Bulldogs. This is the third game on the schedule for the yearlings and their first victory, if any confidence can be placed in the opinions of Jacoby and his squad. IDAHO PEP BAND WILL MAKE TOUR OF SOUTH IDAHO

A. S. U. I. Executive Board Approves Trip, Starting On November 26

LARGE NUMBER GOING

Twenty-two Players Included on List; Route Touches All Larger Towns

The University of Idaho pep band of 22 members, will leave Tuesday November 26, for a ten day tour of southern Idaho, it was announced following a meeting of the A. S. U. I. executive board Tuesday.

This is the first such trip in number of years, and plans are being formulated to make it a successful one. The band will play at the football game between the Vandals and the Southern Branch eleven on Thanksgiving day and will then make a concert tour of the southern part of the state.

Details of the itinerary have not as yet been definitely worked out, but short concerts are planned for the larger high schools including Boise, Twin Falls and Pocatello.

A seven piece dance orchestra composed largely from members of the band will be taken on the trip. This orchestra will play for dances at a number of the stops to help defray expenses.
The members of the band who will make the trip are: Harry Waldon, leader and trumpet; Charles McConnel, Floyd Suter, Frank Warner and George Julian, trum-nets; Ray Kelly, Aldon Tall, Peter Pence and Forrest Erwin, trom-hones; Parris Kail and Allen Sto-wasser, drums; William Ames, bari-tone; Pale Goss, Charles Rateliffe, Harry Anguey, and Edgar McKay altos: and James Hawkins. John Soden. Robert Nixon, and Marion Nellson, clarinets. Norman McGinty, saxaphone, and Sidney Waldon, piona, who are members of the orchestra also will make the trip.

IDAHO MUST WIN-OR ELSE.

It is imperative that Idaho win her game tomorrow. The Vandals not only must make their record, but must save the most loyal supporter Idaho has ever known from eternal disgrace.

We all know what bets are.
We know there are even bets made against our own team. But do bets always show loyalty? What matter if at the end of a game we are a few dollars richer or poorer?

But it was through a bet made this week that one person on this campus showed that at least he had the welfare of Idaho at heart.

Scorning to measure his appreciation of the university in his hat, shoes, cords, four belts, his tie; and to prove conclusively he was all for winning, he finally threw in his silk underwear—all to be paid on the football field.

Rally for Idaho. Who would see this loyal son come home in a barrel?

COACHES CONFIDENT

Both Elevens Reported In Excellent Form For Annual Hostility

Coach Leo Calland's Vandals, imbued with all of the spirit and determination that it is possible to instill in a football team, leave tomorrow morning for Pullman to meet an equally determined Cougar squad, in what looks like the big dish on Saturday's coast football schedule.

Coaches and players of both institutions have been working fever-ishly for this particular till all week. Calland, with two weeks to groom his men for this game, will have a psychological advantage over "Babe" Hollingberry, Cougar coach, whose team was at its peak last Saturday against the powerful Oregon State team. Hollingberry is working hard to ward off over confidence and keep his men from going into a slump after a hard contest. While the Cougars came out of the O. S. Like Red to a Bull

HE SPELL has broken. Idaho and W. S. C. aren't billing and cooing like the pigeons they have been accused of apeing. Last night a group of enthusastic youths from the state college brought to the attention of the Idaho campus the fact that the commendable rivalry has not entirely disappeared. The handbills they distributed are great stuff and will probably do more toward creating Idaho enthusiasm for a ence. Holding a team like California beat the conference. Vandal victory than all the pep speeches of the combined coaching nia to two touchdowns shows a staff, yell leaders, prchibition force, and alumni wolves could do in six months. Thanks, W. S. C.

AP SNATCHING isn't being done anymore.. The petty thievery of rival rooters' head gear is quite out of style with the more gentlemanly and sensible rivalry that Idaho and W. S. C. have for each other. If you steal a "W" cap please don't associate yourself with the Idaho crowd at the game.

Any disfiguration of the W. S. C. campus this evening will also not be condoned by the A. S. U. I. Offenders will be subject to expulsion from the university.

Good Singing is Often Wearisome

TDAHO sororities have been receiving a gentle lambasting from men's Igroups that have wasted vocal and instrumental music on serenades. It isn't at all comforting to sing to slumbering damozels in the wee, sma' hours of the morning when the only possible reward that serenaders receive under normal circumstances is the heartening handclap of the yawning maidens. When the ladies don't awaken there is no applause, and the dear brothers find themselves harmonizing to the moon. a rising wind, and a few male students across the street who can't sleep through the racket. What a dumb bunch the singers consider the sleeping sorority to be! What a tough break the girls are getting! They just don't know what they are missing! It's the big treat of the season for he co-ed population straight from the very throats of the condescending Alpha Beta Gamma members! Wake up and get an earful of this you pikers!

Such is the reasonable attitude that prevails on the truck loaded with shivering tenors wavering to the end of a sweetheart song. The flapping of a blind is the sole encore. Rightly so, quite rightly so.

When fraternities are inconsiderate enough—as they all have to beto give song fests "neath mylady's casements" at the unobliging hour of two or three o'clock in the morning the women cannot be expected to have an organized rooting section waiting on the sleeping porch. It's a wonder sometimes that the unconventional concerts are tolerated by the sororities. It is questionable whether they get such a "kick" from them as the men take for granted. Most of the men wouldn't even sit up in bed to hear Gabriel himself at such an hour; yet they expect the women to appreciate their nocturnal sleep interruptions and indicate their enthusiasm with much gusto.

The University of Nebraska has passed a rule forbidding serenades ifter midnight. Student protest has arisen and a lot of words are being wasted in an atempt to show the "collegiate" necessity for singing at a later hour. To prohibit serenades after twelve o'clock would mean no serenades at all on the Idaho campus, according to the general concensus of opinion. Why have serenades?

THE THOUSAND or more persons who jammed their way into the I university auditorium Wednesday night to near the Oxford-Idaho debate were treated to a rare example of cultured wit and humor on the part of the Britishers on the one hand, and downright nasty sarcasm by an Idaho speaker on the other. In a desperate attempt to meet his opponents at their own game, and to show his scorn for all things English, the second Idaho speaker launched into one of the cheapest and meanest speeches to which a visiting debate team, guests on our campus, has ever been forced to listen. The first Oxford man addressed some exceptionally clever remarks regarding American prohibition, industry and co-education to his opponents. In his pseudo-loyalty to his flag, the second Idaho speaker ,deliberately ignoring the question of the evening, spewed forth a succession of scornful attacks on England and Englishmen that was a disgrace to the gentlemanly art of debate.

There was no cause for such a display nor for forgetting the simple rules of hospitality. Even the audience had difficulty sitting through the tirade. The English speaker who followed, courteously declining to answer the insinuations cast upon himself, his fellows and his country, only reiterated what his colleague had said regarding their welcome to this country and their pleasure in being here. But his feelings must have gotten the better of his pride, for he said: "Nowhere in this vast country has a better demonstration of the true American hospitality been afforded us than right here on the Idaho campus!" We are still pondering over what he meant.

Pass the Mustard and Shut the Window

→ ERTAIN rules should govern kissers, according to the Kansas board of health which recently passed rules concerning osculation.

"Never kiss in crowded places or in a poorly ventilated room," the instructions say. "But if you must kiss, take a hot mustard footbath and avoid drafts in case you feel "all-in" afterwards. Guard against sudden changes in temperature when kissing. Kissing in a coon-skin coat one minute and lighter apparel the next is extremely dangerous. Don't kiss any person who has chills and fever. At a party where postoffice and similar games are played be sure to gargle frequently."

From the above quotation it is to be concluded that kissing is rather a public pastime in the state of Kansas. Scientific investigation knows no limits. It delves into everything, compiling statistics and proposing rules for this and that; even such a personal matter as a kiss is to become standardized and performed according to Hoyle.

Several stipulations of the Kansas regulations are hard to fathom. Why any sane couple would want to kiss in a crowded place is not well understood in Idaho, and as far as can be determined the hot mustard foot bath is a total stranger to those few thrill seekers who occasionally steal a clandestine touch of the lips at an impulsive moment.

The temperature referred to in the next two parts of the late law regulating our common manifestations of affection is supposedly tha tof the atmosphere in which the participants are situated at the time of emporary contact. Sudden changes in temperature are not common during the duration of the Idaho kiss. The Kansas variety must be bigger and better. It is easy for us to not kiss in coon-skin coats-we have'nt any. As for the gargling frequently at games where mouth to mouth thrill seeking is the goal-college students and co-eds don't play them of course-it is the Idaho habit to do the gargling first.
