A Spiteful. Rotten Joke

ISGUIDED enthusiasm ran rampant about the campus late Friday N night and resulted in the painting of many a blue "G" in conspicuous places on the hill and about the residences of the president and assistant president. No cne is sure just who perpetrated the bit of rotten meanness. We hope it wasn't any Idaho student who stole the homecoming decorations from the Science hall and Engineering building. While it is reasonably certain that the offenders came from a landers who heatte an tom-tom to "foreign" campus, there have been rumors to the effect that some Vandal supporters with a warped sense of humor and lack of common sense looked verrie ferocious albeit theye spread the paint and grabbed the pennants and souvenirs. The thought were notte ye kinde who relished is not a comfortable one to the students. The decoration committee did prettie co-eds and simmered them a fine job of preparing the campus for homecoming and the alumni had donne. And did discover also thatte just cause to be proud of the result of the plans that greeted them Fri- ye strawe house was an hutte in day evening. Then the literal vandals put a blight on the affair by whiche nastie froshe are jugged, tearing down two of the largest pennants and daubing paint on pavement, sidewalk, and doorsteps.

The banner swipers were surprised at their work and pursued toward Pullman, which leads many to believe that W. S. C. was responsible for the attempt to remodel the Idaho decorative scheme. As the car carrying the theires rounded a corner it lurched into a ditch, according to reports, and the marauders escaped into the arboretum. As far as can be learned no check up on the owner of the car has been made and as there were not enough students available to make a search of the aboretum successful the men escaped with their spoils. The pennants they took were given to the university for the occasion by President F. J. Kelly. That fact makes it doubly insulting for them to be stolen.

There seems to be something fishy about the whole affair. If it is ever determined what university the cads came from Idaho should receive an apology from their school. Perhaps it was Gonzaga, as is most likely; it might have been our friends from Pullman. We certainly hope that no Idaho student was mixed up in the matter.

The investigation should be carried as far as possible. The disgrace must not happen again even if every man on the campus has to stand guard over the premises.

Paging Mister Joshua

THE FIRST nine weeks of the semester come to a conclusion at a most inconvenient time. most inconvenient time, If there is anything worse than trying to study for a Monday quiz during Homecoming weekend there are hundreds of students who would like to know what it is.

Instead of making allowances for the normal lapse of intelligence during such a busy time the average professor piled on a little more work just in case we found time hanging on our hands. Extraordinary cooperation is being shown by every detail concerned except time; there are still just 24 hours in each day—a student's day, that is. For a professor making assignments there is no limit to the length of an hour, day, or weekend.

#INNESOTA'S Paulielenic association is seriously considering the Merection of a central building to house all sororities under one

The young ladies would no longer be able to make catty remarks about the "other group's" shack, but the bunch on the top floor would get a lot of dirty digs about being uppity. And just think what a diploma; the house mother would have to be. Sororities fight enough in their separated state. There's no use concentrating trouble in one big heap.

Sometimes we wonder why students and instructors don't suddenly sit back in class and laugh hysterically at this most humorous and strange business of getting an education.

Cheer up! It's a cinch we will get a couple of months' vacation next

Intramural Quintets Find Games Tougher as Season Advances

With Homecoming past and football games out of the way intramural basketball again holds the spotlight in athletic competition as the fourth round starts. A. T. Os lost to Lindley Hall and the Beta's won from the weak Senior Hall quintet.

With competition half over dope indicates the championship will fall to one of five teams. In the "A" league the winner will be either Lambda Chi or S. A. E. everyone can see where he comes dark horse appears the pennant race will be between the Kappa Sigs and the Phi Delts and the Filis. These three teams are in a tie for first place. To date "A" League has shown more stuff than the "B" League and should win the play-off series when the two winners tangle next month.

Scores of Monday night's games:
Beta Theta Pi 20—Senior Hall 15;
Lindley Hall 21—A. T. O. 17.

Ditching and Drainage

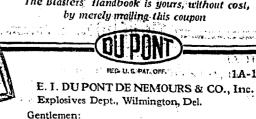

LESSON NUMBER 11 OF THE BLASTERS' HANDBOOK

THE economic advantages of blasting ditches with dynamite warrant obtaining a practical understanding of the methods commonly used. Blasting ditches cost less; the soil is evenly distributed on either side of the ditch; no spoil banks are created because the explosive distributes the earth and makes the ditch where required; no expensive machinery to locate and operate; there are no overliead expenses for equipment; ditches can be dug with dynamite where the conditions are too difficult for other methods, and, finally, the process is so simple.

Do you understand the propagation method of ditch blasting? Do you know the proper way to load, the amount of charges, the kind of explosives to use for each kind of ditch?

All these questions are completely and practically answered in the Blasters'. Handbook. There are tables of charges, plans for loading, cross-section views, and concise instructions for every step. Here is information seldom given in the average text-book—the "boiled-down" experience of field men skilled in the use of explosives
