IDAHO DEBATERS SHOW GOOD BRAND OF SPORTSMANSHIP

Although They Lose Decision Affirmative Speakers Use Clean Attack

JEER AT MEN'S VANITY

Elsie McMillin, Transfer From Southern Branch, is Outstanding Speaker

Although Washington State College won the decision in the first women's debate of the year, held last night at the university auditorium, Idaho sportsmanship over the Washington line of attack was commended by the judge, and Elsie McMillin, first speaker for the home team, was named the outstanding debater of the evening.

The debate here was the third part of the annual Washington, Whitman, Idaho triangle debate. Yesterday afternoon, Whitman defeated Washington at Pullman and last night Idaho debated Whitman at Walla Walla in a no-decision contest.

The speakers for Idaho last night were Elsie McMillin and Helen McCannan, upholding the affirmative side of the question, "That the preponderance of women teachers in the American schools from the fourth to the twelfth grades is detrimental.

In referring to the Idaho statement that the women teachers were softening and detrimental influence on the young boys of the country, the Washington debater replied that the Idaho team no doubt knew what it was talking about and had probably had first hand information, judging from the performance of the football team.

SIGMA TAU TAKES SEVEN MEMBERS

Edgar H. Neal, Instructor in Agricultural Engineering, One of Initiates.

Seven students in the college of engineering were initiated into Sigma Tau, national honorary engineering fraternity, this week. One of the new members on the list is Edgar H. Neal, an instructor in the agricultural engineering department.

Others who were initiated are Joseph Lancaster and Clarence Conway, junior electrical engineers; George Miller, senior electrical engineer; Paul Werner, junior civil engineer; and Harold Wayland and Harry Owens, junior chemical engineers. Mr. Neal will be the first man to graduate from the department of agricultural engineering.

Membership in Sigma Tau is based primarily on scholarship, selections being made from the upper third of the class. Professional attitude toward engineering is also given consideration.

Bill Sent To Congress Asking Help In Deciding Kit Contents

By C. W.

If it is a little red pill that is wanted, or an inch strip of adhesive tape that is needed, a trip clear across the campus to the infirmary is necessary, for the medicine kits are still in the little glass bottles in the closet of the infirmary. That venerable institution is so busy that it can't take time off to stop and decide what to put in the little packets for each house or health captain to dole out to suffering in-subordinates.

But since congress is again in a brand new session, after a few days rest with a recess at Christmas time coming up, it should be in an agreeable humor, so a bill has been introduced specifying the contents of these kits. Unless something happens to the humor or the bill is killed it is likely that before adjournment in the spring something definite will be known like the following:

"Each kit will contain a sufficient supply of pills, the supply to depend upon the number of inmates in each house. Such pills will be taken before going to bed and upon rising. After said pills have been taken, two glasses of water should be drunk. One-half hour later take one and one-third blue capsules, also found in said kit.

"If the desired results are not obtained, patient, refer to red and

NEEDY STUDENTS GIVEN POSITIONS

Seventy-eight applicants have been placed in jobs by the employment bureau since the beginning of school, a check of records in the personnel office divulged today. There are 164 applications on file by students who have been unable to secure work.

At present there is only one vacancy, according to Dr. Raymond M. Mosher, director of student personnel. This is an opening for a boy to work for his room in a private home.

Another week, marked by several fast games, came to a close with the league leaders grip on intramural basketball honors unshaken.

The S. A. E. five virtually undisputed champs of A League, held their 200-point lead over their nearest competitor, the Lambda Chi squad, with five wins and no losses.

The B League race resolved itself into a nip and tuck affair between the Kappa Sig and Phi Delt, with both retaining their 1,000 per cent rating.

The Phi Delt beat the Delta Chi in a fast game last night 23 to 18. Cross led the losers in their attack and was high point man of the game while Langston scored heavily for the winners.

The Kappa Sig's walloped the Sigma Nus 23 to 17 last Wednesday evening. Wags played a stellar game for the losers while the point piling ability seemed to be equally divided among the players of the opposing team.

The Faculty gleefully trotted to victory with a score of 43 points, leaving the Sigma Chi trailing along with 13 markers. Fox, Burger and Jacoby tied in scoring honors for the pros.

The Senior hall quintet fought valiantly but was forced to give way to the Lambda Chis and suffer a 23 to 10 defeat. Kirkin was (Continued on page 4)

Suggestions For Petition Promoters

PALMQUIST RECITAL PLEASES AUDIENCE

Instructor in Voice Has Large Repertoire; Program Varied

Miss Alvina Palmquist, contralto, made her initial appearance before the people of Moscow and university students at the university auditorium Tuesday evening.

Four Italian and three German selections were included in Miss Palmquist's repertoire. She sang "O, Don Fatale" from the opera "Don Carlo" and "Stride la Vampa" from "Il Trovatore," both by Giuseppe Verdi.

"Stride la Vampa" or "Hissing the Flames" in the opera is an impassioned solo by Azucote describing her mother's awful fate.

"Caro Mio Ben" by Giuseppe Giordani, the youngest of a great Italian musical family, was well received by the audience as it was well suited to the deep rich tones of Miss Palmquist's voice.

"Widmung" by Robert Schumann, was the first of the German group of songs. In this song Schumann's melodies are projected in bold and soaring lines.

"My Heart at Thy Sweet Voice" from "Samson and Delila" by Saint-Saens is an intensely passionate love song, and the most widely known number of the opera.

The other songs sung in the first half of the program by Miss Palmquist were "Thanks Be to Thee" by G. F. Handel. The performer gave the words their natural dramatic expression, for the music extracts from the body of the voice such grand results by artfully simple means.

"Spring Song of the Robin Woman" from the opera "Shawewis" by Charles W. Godman, opened fourth part of Miss Palmquist's

FORESTERS TAKE 4 NEW MEMBERS

Xi Sigma Pi Will Hold National Convention at Spokane During Christmas Holidays.

Four students in the school of forestry were initiated into Xi Sigma Pi, national honorary forestry fraternity, this week.

The new members are James Sower, George Jamison, Russell LeBaron, all juniors; and Howard Sargeant, a senior. Members are chosen on the basis of scholarship and a professional interest in forestry.

The Idaho chapter of Xi Sigma Pi is the resident chapter of the national organization which has seven other groups at prominent forestry schools in different parts of the United States.

The chapter at Oregon State College becomes the president group for the two-year period beginning January 1, 1930. Prof. Harry J. Nettleton is the national president of the organization.

Orlow Smith, a student at Yankton, College, South Dakota, is having his way paid through school because, when he was driving buses this summer, he was nice to an old lady.

ADVISORY COUNCIL CAUSES DISCUSSION

Will Cause No Harm And Might Be Useful, Say Students

Student advisors organized to act as a medium between the student body and university administration have been a subject of lively interest on the campus since their first meeting with President F. J. Kelly last Monday afternoon.

According to President Kelly, it is to be a council in which the administration can discuss matters of common interest to it and the students.

Considerable favor has been shown for the plan among students who are considered representative of and prominent on the Idaho campus.

"As a channel to unite these two factors of the university on a common ground it is an excellent idea," states one house president. "It can do no harm and might do some good while it lasts."

That there is a possibility of its degenerating to a forum for inconsequential affairs is the belief of this person.

Useless, says one, "Very fine!" exclaims another, "if this council will have any authority. It will be a farce unless it has more than advice-giving authority behind it. On the other hand we must remember that officials are here and paid to manage university affairs."

"It seems to me rather useless," offered another student, "as it just means another organization on the campus, and there are too many of them now. If desired the same purpose could be served acting through the executive board. This is a representative body of students and ought to be able to handle such affairs."

That it would infringe on ASUI right, and is unnecessary is the belief of some.

"But even at that," continues one, "it would be one council unit, free from politics, and therefore ought to serve a useful purpose to all. It might also eliminate the continuous series of petitions that float around the campus every so often, and would give students a chance to air their opinions, if nothing else."

Students support for such a council and appreciation for such an action on the part of President Kelly proved to be popular consensus on the campus.

POULTRY DEPT. TO GET BUILDINGS

New Quarters Are to Be Ready by the First of January.

The first unit of the building plan for the poultry department is nearing completion with the recent construction of a central service plant and a laying house on the university farm.

The central plant is a one story frame building, 36 by 48 feet with full basement. In the basement will be the incubation, egg, feed, and work rooms. The main floor is to be used for office rooms with one large class room and a judging laboratory. A living room which will accommodate two students will be furnished.

Rough records of daily work will be kept in this office while all complete records of heredity and pedigree of the birds will be kept in the main office in Morrill hall.

The laying house is a 20 by 90 foot structure which will provide room for eight experimental pens. Birds that are being studied concerning the nutritious work will be kept here. Seven hundred White Leghorns are being used for this work.

The University of Pennsylvania is erecting four new buildings at an approximate cost of $1,400,000.

NEW SCHEDULE FOR ANNUAL PICTURES

Students have taken such a lively interest in the past few days in getting their pictures taken for the Gem of the Mountains that the studios have been rushed with appointments. The schedule published in October allowed ample time for all to get appointments without an unreasonable rush. But as usual many have delayed.

To allow time for the studios to take care of their annual Xmas business the schedule has been changed as follows: December 2 to 7-T, U, V and December 9 to 14; W, X, Y, Z will be January 6 to 11 and January 13 to 18.

DIEHL WILL PLAY IN EAST-WEST GAME AT FRISCO IN HOLIDAYS

Idaho Line Captain Accepts Invitation to Participate in Annual Football Classic

BROTHER PLAYED

Charles Diehl Former Vandal Star Was Guard For 1927 and 1928 Games

Gordon "Spec" Diehl, ackle and line captain of the 1929 Vandals, received an invitation to play in the east-west game at Kezar stadium in San Francisco on December 28. He has wired his acceptance. He plans to leave for the south about December 18 and will return to the campus shortly after January 1.

The invitation was sent to Diehl by Percy Looby, coach of the Olympic club, who will coach the all-star western eleven. Diehl has earned three varsity letters in football, playing last game for the Vandals at Pocatello against the southern branch eleven on Thanksgiving day.

He has recently been named on several mythical all-northern division conference teams, coaches unanimously selecting him as one of the outstanding tackles in the northwest.

He is over six feet tall and weighs 200 pounds, one of the best linemen ever developed at Idaho.

His brother, Charles "Chuck" Diehl, played on the west's all-star team as guard in 1927, and again last year when he was selected from the Olympic club team. The two Diehl-brothers played on the same Vandal team in 1927, the year Idaho ended its season in a technical tie for the Pacific coast conference championship with Stanford and the University of Southern California.

The Diehl brothers hail from Filer. "Spec" will graduate from the university in June.

BUSINESS GROUP TAKES MARSHALL

H. L. Marshall, Instructor in the school of business administration, will be initiated into Alpha Kappa Psi, honorary business fraternity, the first of next week, according to John Glase, president.

He was pledged to this society during the early part of November.

Before coming to the University of Idaho Mr. Marshall was engaged for three years as head of the department of economics at Lingnon university in China, and in an economic survey work for the Chinese government. He received his bachelor's degree from Pomona college, and his master's degree from the University of Oregon.

Injuries Befall Women Forced To Leap From Perilous Fire Escapes

The members of Zeta Zeta sorority sustained fatal injuries when their house burst into flames at 12 o'clock last night, and they were forced to leap from their fire escape, which according to university regulations, was twenty feet from the ground.

Dr. Kelly proved himself the undisputed hero of the conflagration when he valiantly manned the fire hose in such a way that he successfully drenched each and every maiden as she demurely tumbled to the ground.

Meanwhile, Dr. Jones outdid himself by bravely ripping $283.98 worth of fireproof shingles off the roof with his little hatchet.

As the girls flopped to the ground, they were carefully inspected by Dean French, who cast their vigilant eye downward to see if their feet were shod in carpet slippers. It was after 7:30 and quiet hours were on.

The staidies immediately organized a relief squad and exhausted themselves by serving hot chocolate with marshmallows on the top.

As a result of the height of the dizzy descent, one woman is reported to have lost five pounds on the way down. Another victim who had been cramming for Friday morning psychology and economics quizzes was so thoroughly jarred that both of her ideas ran together. This terminated in her stating that

RHODES SCHOLAR TO BE APPOINTED SAT. U. I. HAS 4 ENTRANTS

Huber, d'Easum, McGrath and Thomson Represent University at Boise

NINE MEN COMPETE

Scholarship is For Three Years With Annual Sum of $1,950

Tomorrow afternoon, the four seniors from the University of Idaho, who left Wednesday night for Boise, will appear before the Rhodes Scholarship committee, competing with five other students from Idaho institutions.

The university men are Andrew Thomson, Moscow; George Huber, Kellogg; Dan McGrath, Wallace; and Eric d'Easum, Coeur d'Alene. All four are prominent on the campus, both in scholarship, and student activities, and were recently selected to represent the university by a faculty committee.

Selection of the Rhodes Scholar will be based upon the following qualifications: literary and scholastic attainments; an interest in sports, such as cricket and football; qualities of manhood, truth, courage, devotion to duty, usefulness and fellowship; moral force and character. The candidate must be a resident of the state, must be unmarried, must be passed nineteen and not over twenty-five years old, and must have completed at least his sophomore year at a university.

Three Years at Oxford

The scholarship is for three years with a yearly allowance of approximately $1,950. Candidates are selected in two out of every three years. McKeen F. Morrow, attorney of Boise, is chairman of the Idaho committee. President Frederick J. Kelly of the university was appointed on the committee, but due to the press of business at the university he is unable to attend and another man has been appointed to fill his place.

Thomson, a member of Phi Beta Kappa, a national honorary scholastic fraternity, has been prominent in activities and for the past three years has been copy desk editor and sports editor for The Argonaut. He is sports editor of the Blue Bucket, quarterly humor publication, president of the Episcopal club and a member of Delta Sigma, honorary journalistic organization. He was also chairman of the publicity committee for junior week last spring. He is a member of Sigma Nu social fraternity. His father, formerly dean of the school of mines at Idaho, is president of the Montana School of Mines at Butte.

Candidates are Active

Huber, d'Easum and McGrath are members of Silver Lanes, senior honorary and of Blue Key, service fraternity. Huber is vice president of the student body and has been a member of the executive board for the last year and was president of his class during his sophomore year. For three years he has been active in debate and is assisting the varsity debate coach this year.

McGrath is manager of dramas, and was honored duke of the Intercollegiate Knights. He has been prominent in club work. McGrath and Huber are members of Sigma Chi social fraternity. d'Easum, who has also been a leader in campus activities, is editor of The Argonaut, college paper, for this year. His father, the Rev. B. C. d'Easum of Blackfoot, is a graduate of Oxford University, England. d'Easum is a member of Sigma Alpha Epsilon, social fraternity.

EDUCATION CLUBS MEET TOGETHER

A joint meeting of Kappa Delta Pi, men's national educational honorary, and Pi Lambda Theta, national education honorary for women, was held last night at the home of Dean J. F. Messenger.

The women held a business meeting while the men initiated five members. The new members of Kappa Delta Pi are Gust Abraamsen, Joseph Thomason, James Allen, Nicholas Fattu and George Cerveny.

Dr. F. J. Kelly gave a report of investigations made of the educational conditions in the northwest. His report was followed by a musical program consisting of two violin solos by Harold Kirkin and Harold Kirkin and two piano selections by Margaret Becker.

They, Too, Have Suffered

The way of the transgressor is hard but just, but the way of the college journalist is even harder and, discounting sins in previous reincarnations, we rise to our feet and cry that horrible injustice of the situation.

Morning, noon, and night the college journalist is beset with all manner of forceful suggestions on the use of the thunderbolts placed in his keeping by the Great God Publicity. Professors walk dignifiedly into the office and solemnly request that their lecture on "the Attitude of the Frog toward Hypo-catalysis" or some similar subject, be run verbatim.

And the pitiful part is that the suffering journalist can do nothing to remedy the situation. No amount of colossal effort is able to turn the university public to anything resembling a sane view.

So with the patience of Job, the tongue of a Mochausen, and the outlook of a cynic, he must bear things as they are—with his only hope that some day the suffering are rewarded.—Stanford Daily.

Shall We Have a Council?

A COUNCIL of student representatives for solving administrative problems was suggested by the President Monday afternoon. The suggestion was made following a student petition last week for an extended Thanksgiving holiday.

Questions regarding all holidays during the year will be of prime importance if the representatives called last week indicate that they are interested and do wish to have a part in controlling college affairs.

But other schools, larger than the University of Idaho, open in the fall and close in the summer at the time determined by their administrations. The question has been asked why Idahoans should plan when they will attend school and when not.

Whether or no they will decide holidays, the representatives, expressing the wish of the whole student body, can note that many factors will enter into the holiday problem.

School must be held for a definite number of days during the year. A certain amount of work must be accomplished in every course in the university. Students are paying to be educated and the brunt of the matter falls, not upon the faculty as students are prone to suppose, but upon themselves.

A longer Thanksgiving holiday, although many believe it a fine thing, would not be of much advantage to anyone. Christmas holidays are only three weeks off anyhow. Further, people who travel from the campus come back tired and worn from the "good times" and their travel, thus they accomplish little or nothing during the week following Thanksgiving.

The same is true of a spring vacation. It might be a delightful break in the monotony of the spring term, but it only increases the length of time to be spent here in June. It decreases possibilities for students at Idaho to compete with students elsewhere in securing summer work when school lasts longer in June.

The regulation and enforcement of rules here on the campus would be the ultimate of the council's work. Students who feel that the rules on the campus are prohibitive, hemming them in, removing their liberties could have a better insight into the real object of those regulations if they had a hand in making them.

Whatever the council should take up should be a matter of concern to every student at Idaho. It should be his business to cooperate as far as he can to make the council a success if he helps the representatives decide that a council will be expedient.

Student Appreciation

IT USED TO BE in the olden days (not longer than five years ago) that students at Idaho were interested in what was called the Artist course. They bought season tickets for six artist attractions ranging from such things as violin concerts to Russian ballet, and once the presentation of Robert Mantell. But students, for some reason, began losing interest and without student support the course was abandoned.

Not even the production here, by the dramatics department, of modernized Shakespearean plays, nor musical recitals were considered by the vast majority of students. And musicals were free and the plays, the price of two movies.

The interest this fall which has been shown by the attendance at the musical recitals and the recent play may evidence a renewal of interest. At least the pendulum seems to be swinging from the unconcern of the last three years to an awakening desire to benefit by things which university life offers. Admission to the play was covered by the ASU tickets. But there is no explanation such as that for the increase of audience at the recitals. One can only say that students are becoming more appreciative.

This issue of The Argonaut will give the men on the staff a chance to sit back and see just how a paper should be run, or maybe how it shouldn't be run.

In two more weeks all the physical ailments which annually develop about this time will appear in tremendous epidemics. Everything from nerves to eye trouble will have its recognition. A good many little trunks will be trundled home for awhile, while the owner recuperates quickly from his sudden ailment, but very slowly from his poor average.

I Tank

LULU

Henry Lucrecius Larry, affectionately dubbed "I Tank" by his friends because of his capacity, passed away quietly last night at the red brick house on the hill. I Tank, being a tenacitist had always expressed his desire to klock the bucket with his boots on (no offence to the present staff of the Blue Bucket) so the grief stricken brother of Sigma Cheese gathered around the couch on which I Tank and his boots reposed.

Their sobs mingled with the unintelligible mutterings which cleaved (or clove) the still night air. The fraternity house was tastily decorated in orange and pink streamers with colored lights playing on the balloons and Bill Kershnik, or some other kiddie playing on the piano.

Mr. Larry (no he did not get his B W degree) left no will, his three shirts being claimed by his sole survivor, his roommate. The deceased is not survived by any close relation, his wife having choked to death ten months ago when I Tank unwittingly sprang the "Then he seed he had her" gag for the first time. Then he seed he didn't have her cause she was very choked.

HIGH SCHOOL GIRLS IN PAPER CONTEST

Entries are being received daily in the annual Theta Sigma contest for the best girls' edition of a high school paper, according to Cathryn Calaway, secretary.

Boise, Nampa, Council, Bonners Ferry, Parma, and St. Anthony high schools are among those which have sent in their applications. Any high school in the state is eligible to participate in the contest. All entries must be received by December 15.

St. Maries high school won the contest last year, under the editorship of Belle Forterfield who is now a student in the university. The 14-inch silver loving cup awarded to the winners has been in the possession of that school for a year. For permanent possession, a school must win the cup for three years in succession.

The purpose of the contest is to interest girls in journalism and to create a desire to enter the uni-

PIANIST WILL PLAY RECITAL MONDAY

Walter Mueller in Second Formal Appearance in Moscow

The fifth of a series of recitals being given by the faculty of the music department will be presented Monday evening, December 9, by Walter Mueller, pianist. The recital will start at 8 o'clock and be given in the university auditorium.

Mr. Mueller came to Idaho two years ago upon his return from Germany. Before going to Germany Mr. Mueller was graduated from Whitman college and its conservatory. During his three years spent in Germany he studied at the Leipzig Conservatory of Music.

Press notices from the German city state that Mr. Mueller "possesses an amazingly fine technique." That he has "much warmth and good interpretation." Another paper says of Mr. Mueller, "He is a pianist born, not made. He played with unflinching accuracy and vigor, with a big tone, accustomed to the great open spaces."

Mr. Mueller's program includes "Suite in D Minor" by G. F. Handel. The music of Handel above all reflects his soul, and his compositions reveal great movements of passion ever repressed, always deflected into more regular channels by conscious and controlling will-power.

"Sonata quasi una Fantasia" by Beethoven is the story of his alternate despair and confidence after the great love of his life proved false. The German papers say of Mr. Mueller, "His touch adaped itself especially well to Beethoven."

Of his "A Mountain Idyl" by Walter Niemann, one of the leading composers and pianists of Leipzig, the Leipzig paper said: "Mr. Mueller is an artist in the full sense of the word—a wonderful Niemann interpreter." Another paper says: "He reaped success in his playing of the 'A Mountain Idyl'." "Moonlight on the Water is the second Niemann composition on the program.

His repertoire also includes "Jota Aragonesa" by Albeniz, a Spaniard; "Reflection on the Water" by Debussy, one of the new French impressionistic artists. "Sonata in G" by MacDowell will conclude the program.

Mr. Mueller asks that no applause be given between numbers of a group.

program. Cadman has won widespread recognition with his idealizations of original Indian tunes in lyric song form. He is one of the early American composers to use aboriginal Indian melodies as a basis for individual art endeavor.

"The Virgin's Slumber Song," as sung by Miss Palmquist made a deep impression on the audience. The only Russian composer on the program was Rimsky-Korsakoff, composer of "The Nightingale and the Rose." He used the Slavic or Asiatic folk-songs, whose themes in bizarre modes, with their broken rhythms, their capricious outlines, their subtle and passionate sensuality, always receive a hearty welcome from an audience.

Miss Palmquist is spending her first year on the Idaho music faculty. She came here from Chicago Musical college, where she studied with Herbert Witherspoon and Graham Reed. Idaho is very fortunate to have here an artist of such high quality and such a pleasing personality.

THETA SIGMA EDITS TODAY'S ARGONAUT

Journalism Is Interest Of Honorary Begun In 1926

Theta Sigma, women's local journalistic fraternity, had charge of today's issue of The Argonaut. This is not the same as the Co-ed Argonaut, edited by all of the girls on the paper's staff early in the second semester.

Katherine Mattes and Helen Kerr were in charge of general news, Virginia Grant, William Cook, editors of the editorial department, Cathryn Callaway arranged features; Elsie Warm, society; Hazel Simonds, special stories; Mary Murphy, sports; and Shirley Cunningham, humor.

Theta Sigma was founded three and one-half years ago by five girls. Their purpose was to encourage interest among women in journalism. This principle has been carried through and is still the code of the eight girls who now make up the organization.

Must Be Majors. To be eligible for membership, a girl must be majoring in journalism, be active along that line, and intend to continue in that work after graduation.

Since it was first organized, Theta Sigma has been influential in campus journalism. In October of last year, the members were hostesses at a luncheon to the Washington State college chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, national women's journalism society; and in December, they were entertained in Pullman by that organization.

An annual journalistic dinner was inaugurated last May by which prominent townswomen and girls of the campus were invited. The speaker for the evening was Mrs. Hannah Mitchell Dancer of Spokane. She was formerly associated with one of the New York newspapers and was the first woman correspondent in Washington, D. C. Theta Sigma will sponsor a similar occasion next spring.

Conducts Contest. A contest was conducted last winter among the high schools of the state for the best paper edited by girls. A silver loving cup was awarded to the winning school. This contest will be an annual event and the cup will become the permanent possession of the school winning it three times in succession.

Women on The Argonaut staff were guests of Theta Sigma last year at a breakfast and a luncheon. The members will entertain them again this semester.

Founders of the local society were Dorothy Darling, Lucille Eaton Murray, Gertrude Gould, June Davis, and Virginia Grant Williams. Winnifred La Fond, '29, and Letha Wilton Davis, ex-'30, were members during the past two years. Mary Murphy and Katherine Mattes were initiated this year. Other present members are Helen Kerr, president; Virginia Grant Williams, Elsie Warm, Hazel Simonds, Shirley Cunningham, and Cathryn Callaway.

Theta Sigma plans to petition for a chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, national journalistic society for women.

HEALTH BOARD BEGINS ACTION

The health and housing committee has called a meeting of house managers, presidents, and others who are interested in problems of health at 10:00 o'clock next Wednesday morning in room 319 of the Administration building, according to Dr. J. W. Barton, chairman of the committee. The purpose of this meeting is to discuss matters of health and living conditions in student residences such as sleeping and living quarters, and food with especial reference to the milk supply and correct diet.

"The committee does not intend, and in fact is very much opposed to imposing anything on the houses," Dr. Barton said. "We merely want to give them the benefit of the available skill and knowledge on matters of health and sanitation with the hope of preventing illness, epidemics, and possibly deaths."

To do this work more efficiently, the committee urges students to come in at any time to discuss these problems with it and to attend the meeting on Wednesday.

the outstanding basket heaver for the victors.

The Fiji combination scored a 30 to 13 victory over Lindley hall Tuesday evening. Auckett was high point man for the Fijis while Mason led the Lindley boys in scoring.

The slippery attack of the Betas seemed to baffle the T. M. A's who were swamped 29 to 4. Sather was the high point man of the game.

Phi Deltas Beat A. T. O. Monday evening the Phi Deltas trounced the A. T. O.'s 20 to 11. Martin was responsible for half the points of the winners, while Kyselka piled up the majority of the scores for the losers.

In a hard fought contest the Beta Chis scored a last minute victory over the T. K. E's a week ago Tuesday. Jensen and Albertson shared equal honors for the Beta Chis score while Hosowetz was high point man for the T. K. E.s and for the game.

Lady Luck favored the Delta Chis in an elusive game with the L. D. S. seminary by a long shot which gave them the game 1 to 14. Evans did a large share of the scoring for the losers and was high point man of the game. Cross starred for the winner.

An Idaho Custom Called Cheating By A Newcomer

Cheating has been going on on the Idaho campus since the school was founded, 40 years ago. This recent discovery was brought to light within the past week by a person who is relatively new on the campus. The funny thing about this form of cheating is that the professors have known about it right along and it took an outsider to open their eyes. It has been known that some of the teachers openly approve of the idea.

And that form of cheating so prevalent on this campus is nothing more than studying together. When the secret is out of the bag it really seems like a joke, but others have taken it in good faith and called those practicing the art of cheating, a name that is a stigma of moral degeneration.

Studying together is the time for a grand gabfest. A couple from the long living next door comes over to study for Prof. Blank's quiz next day. A lot is expected to be accomplished, for it is recognized that two heads are better than one, and that two people know more scandal than one. Note books and pencils are put to work and the cheating, so-called, goes on at a great rate until some one thinks of the latest news heard at the Nest, then studying, or rather cheating, is discontinued for a while.

Good is accomplished by this method, so much that it is practiced on almost every campus and never before has anything degrading been said against it. According to information the little hand books will contain an Idaho tradition and custom the honorable profession of cheating, or of studying together.

CHRISTMAS TO BE BUCKET FEATURE

Pre-view of 1930 Fashions - Are Special Attraction For Women Readers

The Christmas number of the Blue Bucket will be put on sale about December 18, it was announced recently. According to Dale Goss, editor, this issue will contain several unusual features.

After much discussion it was decided that the magazine in its present form probably lacks interest for the women students. In order to remedy this defect and gain the women's support the staff has agreed to print a pre-view of ladies' fashions for 1930. This forecast will be conducted by Ralph Hagen.

Andrew Thompson will review the prospects of the oncoming basketball season. Another feature will be a short Christmas story, with a collegiate dash, written by Johnny Finneas. Christmas cartoons by Charles Gainsley, Gerald Grim, Albertson Patch and Dale Goss will help carry out the yuletide flavor.

In addition several short sketches by Paris Martin, Forrest Melinger, Morris O'Donnell and George Gray will also be featured. The cover design, which will be drawn by Albertson Patch, will be printed in three colors.

FROSH BASKETBALL SQUAD PARED TO 28

15 Tentative Games Starting January 15, With Nearby Teams

As the start of the coming basketball season approaches the outlook for the freshman squad for the ensuing year seems optimistic. Coach Glenn "Red" Jacoby has cut the number to 23 men, including seven men from the freshman football squad that reported for basketball practice this week. He plans to further prune the squad next week to 18 men.

A tentative schedule of about 15 games, to start about January 15 has been arranged. The schedule includes three games with Washington State college freshman, two each with Lewis and Clark and North Central high schools, two with the Gonzaga university freshmen, and two pieces with the Lewiston normal and Lewiston high school quintets. Practice games with nearby high schools or semi-professional teams may be added to the tentative schedule.

Jacoby's squad is composed of the following: forwards—Heath Wicks, Ernest Nelson, Carl Evans, Moscow; Phillip Fikkan, Emmett; James Porteous, Fresno, Calif.; Andrew Alden, Bovill; Glenn Clark, Lander; Wyo. Harry Dewey, Coeur d'Alene; and Cecil Shawver, Jerome. Guards are: Glenn Tarbox, William Ball, Bovill; Donald Harris, St. Anthony; Kenneth Parks, Culebsca; Frank Taft, Athol; Stanley McCoy, Arling; Theodore Mason, Meridian, have been chosen as center.

Additions from the freshman football team who reported for practice this week are Henry Lacey, Buhl; Paul Taylor, James Fitch, Twin Falls; Franklyn Shissler, Grandeville; Chester Woody, Moscow; Daniel Auckett, Spokane, and Harold Jacoby, Bonners Ferry.

Setting Arranged; Colorful Senior Ball Tomorrow

Soft lights caressing dim forms that glide and dip to the strains of the dance orchestra, flimsy clouds of femininity resting beside severe shapes in black and white masculine evening garb, the state-ly promenade, a bowl of sparkling punch—music—romance—that is the annual Senior ball.

It will be given tomorrow night in the Elks' temple ballroom. A striking color scheme of black and white has been worked out by the decoration committee to make an attractive setting for the traditional formal dance. The eight-piece Thue orchestra from Pullman has been engaged to furnish music for the evening.

The Senior ball marks one of the high spots of Idaho's social endeavors. It is given each year by the senior class and is one of the four large formal dances which are held on the campus during the term. Sale of tickets is limited to upperclassmen, who may, however, take underclassmen as their partners.

Committees appointed by Allen Janssen, president of the senior class, to manage the affair are as follows: general chairman, Clair Gale; finance, John Glaze and Dan McGrath; decorations, Phil Dusaull and Lucille Glindeman; invitations, Jessie Little and Edward Coon.

SARA T. ALBERT TO PRESENT READINGS

Mrs. Sarah Truax Albert, well-known reader and actress, will give Phillip Barry's play, "Holiday" to the English club in the L. D. S. hall at 8:00 o'clock Tuesday evening. This will be the first program presented this year by the club, and it will be guest night, whereby each member is allowed to invite one other person.

Mrs. Albert will also read an act from "Street Scene" in assembly Wednesday morning. She is being brought through the efforts of the English club and the public events committee. This organization and committee have made it their policy for the past several years to co-operate in bringing prominent people to the campus.

W. A. A. PLEDGES 12; TO GET CLUB ROOM

Pledging new members and electing a swimming manager constituted the chief business of W. A. A. at its monthly meeting Tuesday evening. Miss L. Janette Wirt was presented with a beautiful pewter plate as a token of the organization's appreciation of her service as advisor during the past few years. Miss Verna McDonald, new W. A. A. advisor, was also present at the meeting.

Jessie Little, president, appointed a committee to select furnishings for the new W. A. A. office in the women's gymnasium. This room, formerly, an office of the military department, has been turned over to the women's athletic association by the administration. Members of the committee were Luella McFadden, chairman, Helen Mouat and Dorothy Craven.

Corona Dewey was unanimously elected swimming manager to replace LaReta Beeson who was elected last spring but did not return to school.

Women pledged were Helen Bonnell, Betty Myers, Mildred Clare, Helen Douglas, Aurrel Laxton, Helen McCannan, Betty Merriam, Janet Morgan, Eva Skinner, Maxine Thornhill, Helen Lucas and Helen Benson.
